This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. INTRODUCTORY AND EXPLANATORY.

THE RECORD is divided into four departments, viz: Laws; Alphabetical, Detail and Classified lists.

The laws have been prepared especially for this publication, those of Mexico having been translated from the Spanish, and the digests of the commercial, corporation and mining laws of the States, Territories and Provinces of the United States and Canada were written by resident attorneys of acknowledged ability. Attention is called to the manner in which laws are indexed, enabling one to locate the matter or subject sought by glancing at the index at beginning of law.

In the "Alphabetical List" all companies and individuals are arranged in alphabetical order by products, industries or callings, giving name of company or individual, and location of principal office, thus forming a complete index to the Detail list.

The "Detail List," arranged by countries and States, Territories and Provinces, and each of these by towns and names in alphabetical order, gives each town where industries or individuals are located, its county—except in the case of Mexico, where the towns are followed by the name of the State wherein they are situate—population thus, "Pop. 1000." Money order postffice thus, "M. O." Telegraph office thus, "Tel." Railway or waterway thus, "Ry. 100," the number referring to corresponding number in "Index to Railways and Waterways," where name is given as well as that of the express company doing business at the point; the postoffice address where place given is not a postoffice, and the nearest shipping and banking points when place given be without either convenience.

This is followed by the name of operators and professionals, with information intended to give a brief abstract of the business done by companies or individuals, embracing at location of principal office name of company or individual, names and titles of officers, capital stock or capital, nature of business and location of works or properties. At the works or property's address is given the name of company or individual operator, with location of principal office, name and kind of works, character of product and annual output in tons of ore, etc., or tons, perch, cords, or feet of stone, number of days worked per annum, number of employes, kind of power used and name of superintendent.

That more detail information is not given in the present volume is owing to several causes, chief among which are, our correspondents often misunderstanding the nature of our inquiries, and thinking all we required was the name and address of company or individual. The dullness in the silver mining industry, for the past three years, rendered many hithcrto valuable mines barren of any information save the name and location, and the same is true of the iron mining and stone quarrying industries, as well as some other lines listed. We are pleased to state, however, that there is a better feeling among mining interests than has been known for some time, and we trust to be able to add very materially to the volume of information in the next issue.

On the other hand we have had properties reported as mines which, upon investigation, we found to be but claims or prospects, and whenever we have ascertained such to be the case we have so marked them.

Every name listed in the work has been verified so far as possible, each company or individual given having been communicated with either by letter or personally, and a great number by both methods, so that we are reasonably certain the lists are correct. The professional men listed have been recommended to us by persons engaged in mining or quarrying as being reliable and capable in their respective professions, and as it is our desire to make the publication a standard authority, we desire only the names of such for insertion, and should the name of any unworthy person appear in the list of professionals we will be greatly obliged to be informed of the fact at the earliest possible moment, that we may investigate the matter.

Following the Detail is the "Classified List" of machinery and supply houses, and professional men, which is intended for the exclusive benefit of advance subscribers, and will be a ready reference for persons desiring to know where to obtain any kind of machinery, supplies or professional services.

MINING LAWS.

[TITLE XXXII, CHAPTER 6.]

I. MINERAL LANDS:

Section 2318. In all cases lands valuable for minerals shall be reserved from sale, except as otherwise expressly directed by law.

Sec. 2319. All valuable mineral deposits in lands belonging to the United States, both surveyed and unsurveyed, are hereby declared to be free and open to exploration and purchase, and the lands in which they are found to occupation and purchase, by citizens of the United States and those who have declared their intention to become such, under regulations prescribed by law, and according to the local customs or rules of miners in the several mining districts, so far as the same are applicable and not inconsistent with the laws of the United States.

II. LODE CLAIMS:

Sec. 2320. Mining claims upon veins or lodes of quartz or other rock in place bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, copper, or other valuable deposits, heretofore located, shall be governed as to length along the vein or lode by the customs, regulations, and laws in force at the date of their location. A mining claim located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, whether located by one or more persons, may equal, but shall not exceed, one thousand five hundred feet in length along the vein or lode; but no location of a mining claim shall be made until the discovery of the vein or lode within the limits of the claim located. No claim shall extend more than three hundred feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, nor shall any claim be limited by any mining regulation to less than twenty-five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, render such limitation necessary. The end-lines of each claim shall be parallel to each other.

III. PROOF OF CITIZENSHIP:

Sec. 2321. Proof of citizenship, under this chapter, may consist, in the case of an individual, of his own affidavit thereof; in the case of an association of persons unincorporated, of the affidavit of their authorized agent, made on his own knowledge, or upon information and belief; and in the case of a corporation organized under the laws of the United States, or of any state or territory thereof, by the filing of a certified copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation.

IV. LOCATORS' RIGHTS:

Sec. 2322. The locators of all mining locations heretofore made or which shall hereafter be made, on any mineral vein, lode, or ledge, situated on the public domain, their heirs and assigns, where no adverse claim exists on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, so long as they comply with the laws of the United States, and with state, territorial, and local regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States governing their possessory title, shall have the exclusive right of possession and enjoyment of all the surface included within the lines of their locations, and of all veins, lodes, and ledges throughout the entire depth, the top or apex of which lies inside of such surface-lines extended downward vertically, although such veins, lodes, or ledges may so far depart from a perpendicular in their course downward as to extend outside the vertical side-lines of such surface locations. But their right of possession to such outside parts of such veins or ledges shall be confined to such portions thereof as lie between vertical planes drawn downward as above described, through the end-lines of their locations, so continued in their own direction that such planes will intersect such exterior parts of such veins or ledges. And nothing in this section shall authorize the locator or possessor of a vein or lode which extends in its downward course beyond the vertical lines of his claim to enter upon the surface of a claim owned or possessed by another.

V. TUNNEL RIGHTS:

Sec. 2323. Where a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, the owners of such tunnel shall have the right of possession of all veins or lodes within three thousand feet from the face of such tunnel on the line thereof, not previously known to exist, discovered in such tunnel, to the same extent as if discovered from the surface; and locations on the line of such tunnel or veins or lodes not appearing on the surface, made by other parties after the commencement of the tunnel, and while the same is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence, shall be invalid; but failure to prosecute the work on the tunnel for six months shall be considered as an abandonment of the right to all undiscovered veins on the line of such tunnel.

VI. DISTRICT REGULATIONS:

Sec. 2324. The miners of each mining district may make regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States, or with the laws of the state or territory in which the district is situated, governing the location, manner of recording, amount of work necessary to hold possession of a mining claim, subject to the following requirements: The location must be distinctly marked on the ground so that its boundaries can be readily traced. All records of mining claims hereafter made shall contain the name or names of the locators, the date of the location, and such a description of the claim or claims located by reference to some natural object or permanent monument as will identify the claim. On each claim located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, and until a patent has been issued therefor, not less than one hundred dollars' worth of labor shall be performed or improvements made during each year. On all claims located prior to the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, ten dollars' worth of labor shall be performed or improvements made by the tenth day of June, eighteen hundred and seventy-four, and each year thereafter, for each one hundred feet in length along the vein until a patent has been issued therefor; but where such claims are held in common, such expenditure may be made upon any one claim; and upon a failure to comply with these conditions, the claim or mine upon which such failure occurred shall be open to relocation in the same manner as if no location of the same had ever been made, provided that the original locators, their heirs, assigns, or legal representatives, have not resumed work upon the claim after failure and before such location. Upon the failure of any one of several co-owners to contribute his proportion of the expenditures required hereby, the co-owners who have performed the labor or made the improvements may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim, for at least once a week for ninety days, and if at the expiration of ninety days after such notice in writing or by publication such delinquent should fail or refuse to contribute his proportion of the expenditure required by this section, his interest in the claim shall become the property of his co-owners who have made the required expenditures.

VII. PATENTS FOR MINERAL LANDS:

Sec. 2325. A patent for any land claimed and located for valuable deposits may be obtained in the following manner: Any person, association, or corporation authorized to locate a claim under this chapter, having claimed and located a piece of land for such purposes, who has, or have, complied with the terms of this chapter, may file in the proper land-office an application for a patent, under oath, showing such compliance, together with a plat and field-notes of the claim or claims in common, made by or under the direction of the United States Surveyor-General, showing accurately the boundaries of the claim or claims, which shall be distinctly marked by monuments on the ground, and shall post a copy of such plat, together with a notice of such application for a patent, in a conspicuous place on the land embraced in such plat previous to the filing of the application for a patent, and shall file an affidavit of at least two persons that such notice has been duly posted, and shall file a copy of the notice in such land-office, and shall thereupon be entitled to a patent for the land, in the manner following: The register of the land-office, upon the filing of such application, plats, field-notes, notices, and affidavits, shall publish a notice that such application has been made, for the period of sixty days, in a newspaper to be by him designated as published nearest to such claim; and he shall also post such notice in his office for the same period. The claimant at the time of filing this application, or at any time thereafter, within the sixty days of publication, shall file with the register a certificate of the United States Surveyor-General that five hundred dollars' worth of labor has been expended or improvements made upon the claim by himself or grantors; that the plat is correct, with such further description by such reference to natural objects or permanent monuments as shall identify the claim, and furnish an accurate description, to be incorporated in the patent. At the expiration of the sixty days of publication the claimant shall file his affidavit, showing that the plat and notice have been posted in a conspicuous place on the claim during such period of publication. If no adverse claim shall have been filed with the register and the receiver of the proper land-office at the expiration of the sixty days of publication, it shall be assumed that the applicant is entitled to a patent, upon the payment to the proper officer of five dollars per acre, and that no adverse claim exists; and thereafter no objection from third parties to the issuance of a patent shall be heard, except it be shown that the applicant has failed to comply with the terms of this chapter.

VIII. ADVERSE CLAIMS:

Sec. 2326. Where an adverse claim is filed during the period of publication, it shall be upon oath of the person or persons making the same, and shall show the nature, boundaries, and extent of such adverse claim, and all proceedings, except the publication of notice and making and filing of the affidavit thereof, shall be stayed until the controversy shall have been settled or decided by a court of competent jurisdiction, or the adverse claim waived. It shall be the duty of the adverse claimant, within thirty days after filing his claim, to commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction, to determine the question of the right of possession, and prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment; and a failure so to do shall be a waiver of his adverse claim. After such judgment shall have been rendered, the party entitled to the possession of the claim, or any portion thereof, may, without giving further notice, file a certified copy of the judgment roll with the register of the land-office, together with the certificate of the Surveyor-General that the requisite amount of labor has been expended or improvements made thereon, and the description required in other cases, and shall pay to the receiver five dollars per acre for his claim, together with the proper fees, whereupon the whole proceedings and the judgment-roll shall be certified by the register to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and a patent shall issue thereon for the claim, or such portion thereof as the applicant shall appear, from the decision of the court, to rightly possess. If it appears from the decision of the court that several parties are entitled to separate and different portions of the claim, each party may pay for his portion of the claim with the proper fees, and file the certificate and description by the surveyor-general, whereupon the register shall certify the proceedings and judgment-roll to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, as in the preceding case, and patents shall issue to the several parties according to their respective rights. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the alienation of a title conveyed by a patent for a mining claim to any person whatever.

IX. DESCRIPTION OF VEIN-CLAIMS:

Sec. 2327. The description of vein or lode claims, upon surveyed lands, shall designate the location of the claim with reference to the lines of the public surveys, but need not conform therewith; but where a patent shall be issued for claims upon unsurveyed lands, the Surveyor-General, in extending the surveys, shall adjust the same to the boundaries of such patented claim, according to the plat or description thereof, but so as in no case to interfere with or change the location of any such patented claim.

X. PENDING APPLICATIONS:

Sec. 2328. Applications for patents for mining-claims under former laws now pending may be prosecuted to a final decision in the General Land Office; but in such cases where adverse rights are not affected thereby, patents may issue in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter; and all patents for mining-claims upon veins or lodes heretofore issued shall convey all the rights and privileges conferred by this chapter where no adverse rights existed on the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

XI. PLACER-CLAIMS:

Sec. 2329. Claims usually called "placers," including all forms of deposit, excepting veins of quartz, or other rock in place, shall be subject to entry and patent, under like circumstances and conditions, and upon similar proceedings, as are provided for vein or lode claims; but where the lands have been previously surveyed by the United States, the entry in its exterior limits shall conform to the legal subdivisions of the public lands.

XII. MAXIMUM OF PLACER LOCATIONS:

Sec. 2330. Legal subdivisions of forty acres may be subdivided into ten-acre tracts; and two or more persons, or associations of persons, having contiguous claims of any size, although such claims may be less than ten acres each, may make joint entry thereof; but no location of a placer-claim, made after the ninth day of July, eighteen hundred and seventy, shall exceed one hundred and sixty acres for any one person or association of persons, which location shall conform to the United States surveys; and nothing in this section contained shall defeat or impair any bona fide pre-emption or homestead claim upon agricultural lands, or authorize the sale of the improvements of any bona fide settler to any purchaser.

XIII. CONFORMITY OF PLACER-CLAIMS TO SURVEYS:

Sec. 2331. Where placer-claims are upon surveyed lands, and conform to legal subdivisions, no further survey or plat shall be required, and all placer-mining claims located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, shall conform as near as practicable with the United States system of public-land surveys, and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, and no such location shall include more than twenty acres for each individual claimant; but where placer-claims can not be conformed to legal subdivisions, survey and plat shall be made as on unsurveyed lands; and where by the segregation of mineral lands in any legal subdivision a quantity of agricultural land less than forty acres remains, such fractional portion of agricultural land may be entered by any party qualified by law, for homestead or pre-emption purposes.

XIV. EVIDENCE OF POSSESSION:

Sec. 2332. Where such person or association, they and their grantors, have held and worked their claims for a period equal to the time prescribed by the statute of limitations for mining-claims of the state or territory where the same may be situated, evidence of such possession and working of the claims for such period shall be sufficient to establish a right to a patent thereto under this chapter, in the absence of any adverse claim; but nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to impair any lien which may have attached in any way whatever to any mining-claim or property thereto attached prior to the issuance of a patent.

XV. PROCEEDINGS FOR PATENT:

Sec. 2333. Where the same person, association, or corporation is in possession of a placer-claim, and also a vein or lode included within the boundaries thereof, application shall be made for a patent for the placer-claim, with the statement that it includes such vein or lode, and in such case a patent shall issue for the placer-claim, subject to the provisions of this chapter, including such vein or lode, upon the payment of five dollars per acre for such vein or lode claim, and twenty-five feet of surface on each side thereof. The remainder of the placer-claim, or any placer-claim not embracing any vein or lode-claim, shall be paid for at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per acre, together with all costs of proceedings; and where a vein or lode, such as is described in section twenty-three hundred and twenty, is known to exist within the boundaries of a placer-claim, an application for a patent for such placer-claim which does not include an application for the vein or lode claim shall be construed as a conclusive declaration that the claimant of the placer-claim has no right of possession of the vein or lode claim; but where the existence of a vein or lode in a placer-claim is not known, a patent for the placer-claim shall convey all valuable mineral and other deposits within the boundaries thereof.

XVI. APPOINTMENT OF SURVEYORS:

Sec. 2334. The Surveyor-General of the United States may appoint in each land-district containing mineral lands as many competent surveyors as shall apply for appointment to survey mining-claims. The expenses of the survey of vein or lode claims, and the survey and subdivision of placer-claims into smaller quantities than one hundred and sixty acres, together with the cost of publication of notices, shall be paid by the applicants, and they shall be at liberty to obtain the same at the most reasonable rates, and they shall also be at liberty to employ any United States deputy surveyor to make the survey. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall also have power to establish the maximum charges for surveys and publication of notices under this chapter; and, in case of excessive charges for publication, he may designate any newspaper published in a land-district where mines are situated for publication of mining notices in such district, and fix the rates to be charged by such paper; and, to the end that the commissioner may be fully informed on the subject, each applicant shall file with the register a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by such applicant for publication and surveys, together with all fees and money paid the register and the receiver of the land-office, which statement shall be transmitted, with the other papers in the case, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

XVII. AFFIDAVITS:

Sec. 2335. All affidavits required to be made under this chapter may be verified before any officer authorized to administer oaths within the land-district where the claims may be situated, and all testimony and proofs may be taken before any such officer; and, when duly certified by the officer taking the same, shall have the same force and effect as if taken before the register and receiver of the land-office. In cases of contest as to the mineral or agricultural character of land, the testimony and proofs may be taken as herein provided on personal notice of at least ten days to the opposing party; or if such party cannot be found, then by publication of at least once a week for thirty days in a newspaper, to be designated by the register of the land-office as published nearest to the location of such land; and the register shall require proof that such notice has been given.

XVIII. INTERSECTION OF VEINS:

Sec. 2336. Where two or more veins intersect or cross each other, priority of title shall govern, and such prior location shall be entitled to all ore or mineral contained within the space of intersection; but the subsequent location shall have the right of way through the space of intersection for the purposes of the convenient working of the mine. And where two or more veins unite, the oldest or prior location shall take the vein below the point of union, including all the space of intersection.

XIX. PATENTS FOR NON-MINERAL LAND, ETC.:

Sec. 2337. Where non-mineral land not contiguous to the vein or lode is used or occupied by the proprietor of such vein or lode for mining or milling purposes, such non-adjacent surface-ground may be embraced and included in an application for a patent for such vein or lode, and the same may be patented therewith, subject to the same preliminary requirements as to survey and notice as are applicable to veins or lodes; but no location hereafter made of such non-adjacent land shall exceed five acres, and payment for the same must be made at the same rate as fixed by this chapter for the superficies of the lode. The owner of a quartz-mill or reduction-works, not owning a mine in connection therewith, may also receive a patent for his mill-site, as provided in this section.

XX. CONDITIONS OF SALE BY LOCAL LEGISLATURE:

Sec. 2338. As a condition of sale, in the absence of necessary legislation by Congress, the local legislature of any state or territory may provide rules for working mines, involving easements, drainage, and other necessary means to their complete development; and those conditions shall be fully expressed in the patent.

XXI. WATER RIGHTS:

Sec. 2339. Whenever, by priority of possession, rights to the use of water for mining, agricultural, manufacturing, or other purposes, have vested and accrued, and the same are recognized and acknowledged by the local customs, laws, and the decisions of courts, the possessors and owners of such vested rights shall be maintained and protected in the same; and the right of way for the construction of ditches and canals for the purposes herein specified is acknowledged and confirmed; but whenever any person, in the construction of any ditch or canal, injures or damages the possession of any settler on the public domain, the party committing such injury or damage shall be liable to the party injured for such injury or damage.

Sec. 2340. All patents granted, or pre-emption or homesteads allowed, shall be subject to any vested and accrued water-rights, or rights to ditches and reservoirs used in connection with such water-rights, as may have been acquired under or recognized by the preceding section.

XXII. MINERAL LANDS OPEN TO HOMESTEADS:

Sec. 2341. Wherever, upon the lands heretofore designated as mineral lands, which have been excluded from survey and sale, there have been homesteads made by citizens of the United States, or persons who have declared their intention to become citizens, which homesteads have been made, improved, and used for agricultural purposes, and upon which there have been no valuable mines of gold, silver, cinnabar, or copper discovered, and which are properly agricultural lands, the settlers or owners of such homesteads shall have a right of pre-emption thereto, and shall be entitled to purchase the same at the price of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, and in quantity not to exceed one hundred and sixty acres; or they may avail themselves of the provisions of chapter five of this title, relating to "Homesteads."

Sec. 2342. Upon the survey of the lands described in the preceding section, the Secretary of the Interior may designate and set apart such portions of the same as are clearly agricultural lands, which lands shall thereafter be subject to pre-emption and sale as other public lands, and be subject to all the laws and regulations applicable to the same.

Sec. 2343. The President is authorized to establish additional land-districts, and to appoint the necessary officers under existing laws, wherever he may deem the same necessary for the public convenience in executing the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 2344. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed to impair, in any way, rights or interests in mining property acquired under existing laws; nor to affect the provisions of the act entitled "An act granting to A. Sutro the right of way and other privileges to aid in the construction of a draining and exploring tunnel to the Comstock lode, in the State of Nevada," approved July twenty-five, eighteen hundred and sixty-six.

XXIII. EXCEPTION OF MINERAL LANDS IN CERTAIN STATES:

Sec. 2345. The provisions of the preceding sections of this chapter shall not apply to the mineral lands situated in the States of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, which are declared free and open to exploration and purchase, according to legal subdivisions, in like manner as before the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two. And any bona fide entries of such lands within the states named since the tenth of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, may be patented without reference to any of the foregoing provisions of this chapter. Such lands shall be offered for public sale in the same manner, at the same minimum price, and under the same rights of preemption as other public lands.

XXIV. GRANTS TO STATES OR CORPORATIONS:

Sec. 2346. No act passed at the first session of the thirty-eighth Congress, granting lands to states or corporations to aid in the construction of roads or for other purposes, or to extend the time of grants made prior to the thirtieth day of January, eighteen hundred and sixty-five, shall be so construed as to embrace mineral lands, which in all cases are reserved exclusively to the United States, unless otherwise specially provided in the act or acts making the grant.

REPEAL PROVISIONS.

[TITLE LXXIV.]

I. REVISED STATUTES:

Sec. 5595. The foregoing seventy-three titles embrace the statutes of the United States general and permanent in their nature, in force on the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, as revised and consolidated by commissioners appointed under an act of Congress, and the same shall be designated and cited as The Revised Statutes of the United States.

II. ACTS EMBRACED IN REVISION:

Sec. 5596. All acts of Congress passed prior to said first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, any portion of which is embraced in any section of said revision, are hereby repealed, and the section applicable thereto shall be in force in lieu thereof; all parts of such acts not contained in such revision, having been repealed or superseded by subsequent acts, or not being general and permanent in their nature: Provided, That the incorporation into such revision of any general and permanent provision, taken from an act making appropriations, or from an act containing other provisions of a private, local or temporary character, shall not repeal, or in any way affect any appropriation, or any provision of a private, local, or temporary character, contained in any of said acts, but the same shall remain in force; and all acts of Congress passed prior to said last-named day no parts of which are embraced in said revision, shall not be affected or changed by its enactment.

III. RESERVATION OF ACCRUED RIGHTS:

Sec. 5597. The repeal of the several acts embraced in said revision, shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing or accrued, or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil cause before the said repeal, but all rights and liabilities under said acts shall continue, and may be enforced in the same manner, as if said repeal had not been made; nor shall said repeal, in any manner affect the right to any office, or change the term or tenure thereof.

IV. PROSECUTIONS AND PUNISHMENTS:

Sec. 5598. All offenses committed, and all penalties or forfeitures incurred under any statute embraced in said revision prior to said repeal, may be prosecuted and punished in the same manner and with the same effect, as if said repeal had not been made.

V. ACTS OF LIMITATION:

Sec. 5599. All acts of limitation, whether applicable to civil causes and proceedings, or to the prosecution of offenses, or for the recovery of penalties or forfeitures, embraced in said revision and covered by said repeal, shall not be affected thereby, but all suits, proceedings or prosecutions, whether civil or criminal, for causes arising, or acts done or committed prior to said repeal, may be commenced and prosecuted within the same time as if said repeal had not been made.

VI. ARRANGEMENT OF SECTIONS:

Sec. 5600. The arrangement and classification of the several sections of the revision have been made for the purpose of a more convenient and orderly arrangement of the same, and therefore no inference or presumption of a legislative construction is to be drawn by reason of the title, under which any particular section is placed.

VII. ACTS SINCE 1873:

Sec. 5601. The enactment of the said revision is not to affect or repeal any act of Congress passed since the first day of December, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and all acts passed since that date are to have full effect as if passed after the enactment of this revision, and so far as such acts vary from, or conflict with any provision contained in said revision, they are to have effect as subsequent statutes, and as repealing any portion of the revision inconsistent therewith. June 22, 1874.

EMENDATORY AND ADDITIONAL ACTS.

I. TIME EXTENSION:

Amending the act entitled "An act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States." May 10, 1872.

The provisions of the fifth section of the act entitled "An act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States," passed May 10, 1872, which require expenditures of labor and improvements on claims located prior to the passage of said act, are hereby so amended that the time for the first annual expenditure on claims located prior to the passage of said act shall be extended to the first day of January, eighteen hundred and seventy-five. June 6, 1874 (18 Stat., 61).

II. TUNNELLING AS ASSESSMENT WORK:

Amending Section 2324 of the Revised Statutes (VI. District Regulations, Mining Laws).

Section two thousand three hundred and twenty-four of the Revised Statutes is hereby amended so that where a person or company has or may run a tunnel for the purpose of developing a lode or lodes, owned by said person or company, the money so expended in said tunnel shall be taken and considered as expended on said lode or lodes, whether located prior to or since the passage of said act, and such person or company shall not be required to perform work on the surface of said lode or lodes in order to hold the same as required by said act. February 11, 1875 (18 Stat., 315. VI. District Regulations. Mining Laws).

III. EXCLUSION OF STATES:

Excluding the States of Missouri and Kansas from the provisions of the "Act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States." May 10th, 1872.

Within the States of Missouri and Kansas, deposits of coal, iron, lead, or other mineral, are hereby excluded from the operation of the act entitled "An act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States," approved May tenth, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, and all lands in said states shall be subject to disposal as agricultural lands. May 5, 1876 (19 Stat., 52).

IV. REMOVAL OF TIMBER:

Authorizing the citizens of Colorado, Nevada, and the territories to fell and remove timber on the public domain for mining and domestic purposes.

All citizens of the United States and other persons, bona fide residents of the States of Colorado or Nevada, of either of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Dakota, Idaho, or Montana, and all other mineral districts of the United States, shall be and are hereby, authorized and permitted to fell and remove, for building, agricultural, mining, or other domestic purposes, any timber or other trees growing or being on the public lands, said lands being mineral, and not subject to entry under existing laws of the United States, except for mineral entry, in either of said states, territories, or districts, of which such citizens or persons may be at the time bona fide residents, subject to such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe for the protection of the timber and of the undergrowth growing upon such lands, and for other purposes: Provided: the provisions of this act shall not extend to railroad corporations.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the register and the receiver of any local land-office in whose district any mineral land may be situated to ascertain from time to time whether any timber is being cut or used upon any such lands, except for the purposes authorized by this act, within their respective land districts; and, if so, they shall immediately notify the Commissioner of the General Land Office of that fact; and all necessary expenses incurred in making such proper examinations shall be paid and allowed such register and receiver in making up their next quarterly accounts.

Sec. 3. Any person or persons who shall violate the provisions of this act, or any rules and regulations in pursuance thereof made by the Secretary of the Interior, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and to which may be added imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months. June 3, 1878 (20 Stat., 88).

V. ASSESSMENT WORK AND MINERAL LANDS PATENTS:

Amending Sections 2324 and 2325 of the Revised Statutes. (VI. District Regulations; and VII. Patents for Mineral Lands. Mining Laws.)

Section twenty-three hundred and twenty-five of the Revised Statutes of the United States is amended by adding thereto the following words: "Provided: that where the claimant for a patent is not a resident of or within the land-district wherein the vein, lode, ledge, or deposit sought to be patented is located, the application for patent and the affidavits required to be made in this section by the claimant for such patent may be made by his, her, or its authorized agent, where said agent is conversant with the facts sought to be established by said affidavits: and provided, that this section shall apply to all applications now pending for patents to mineral lands."

Sec. 2. Section twenty-three hundred and twenty-four of the Revised Statutes of the United States is amended by adding the following words: "Provided, that the period within which the work required to be done annually on all unpatented mineral claims shall commence on the first day of January succeeding the date of location of such claim: and this section shall apply to all claims located since the tenth day of May, anno Domini eighteen hundred and seventy-two." January 22, 1880 (21 Stat., 61).

VI. TITLE TO CLAIMS:

Amending Section 2326 of the Revised Statutes. (VIII. Proceedings on Adverse Claims. Mining Laws.)

If, in any action brought pursuant to section twenty-three hundred and twenty-six of the Revised Statutes, title to the ground in controversy shall not be established by either party, the jury shall so find, and judgment shall be entered according to the verdict. In such case costs shall not be allowed to either party, and the claimant shall not proceed in the land-office or be entitled to a patent for the ground in controversy until he shall have perfected his title. March 3, 1881 (21 Stat., 505).

VII. ADVERSE CLAIM. CITIZENSHIP:

Amending Section 2326 of the Revised Statutes, in regard to mineral lands (VIII. Proceedings on Adverse Claims, Mining Law), and for other purposes.

The adverse claim required by section twenty-three hundred and twenty-six of the Revised Statutes may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney-in-fact of the adverse claimant cognizant of the facts stated, and the adverse claimant, if residing or at the time being beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make oath to the adverse claim before the clerk of any court of record of the United States or the state or territory where the adverse claimant may then be, or before any notary public of such state or territory.

Sec. 2. Applicants for mineral patents, if residing beyond the limits of the district wherein the claim is situated, may make any oath or affidavit required for proof of citizenship before the clerk of any court of record, or before any notary public of any state or territory. April 26, 1882. (22 Stat., 49.)

VIII. EXCLUSION OF LANDS IN ALABAMA:

Excluding the public lands in Alabama from the operation of the laws relating to mineral lands.

Within the State of Alabama, all public lands, whether mineral or otherwise, shall be subject to disposal only as agricultural lands: Provided, however: that all lands which have heretofore been reported to the General Land Office as containing coal and iron shall first be offered at public sale: And provided further: that any bona fide entry under the provisions of the homestead law of lands within said State heretofore made may be patented without reference to an act approved May tenth, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, entitled, "An act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States," in cases where the persons making application for such patents have in all other respects complied with the homestead law relating thereto. March 3, 1883. (22 Stat., 487.)

IX. MINERAL LAWS IN ALASKA:

Providing a civil government for Alaska.

Sec. 8. The said district of Alaska is hereby created a land district, and a United States land office for said district is hereby located at Sitka. The commissioner provided for by this act to reside at Sitka shall be ex officio register of said land office, and the clerk provided for by this act shall be ex officio receiver of public moneys, and the marshal provided for by this act shall be ex officio surveyor-general of said district; and the laws of the United States relating to mining claims, and the rights incident thereto, shall, from and after the passage of this act, be in full force and effect in said district, under the administration thereof herein provided for, subject to such regulations as may be made by the Secretary of the Interior, approved by the President: Provided, that the Indians or other persons in said district shall not be disturbed in the possession of any lands actually in their use or occupation or now claimed by them, but the terms under which such persons may acquire title to such lands are reserved for future legislation by Congress: And provided further, that parties who have located mines or mineral privileges therein under the laws of the United States applicable to the public domain, or who have occupied and improved or exercised acts of ownership over such claims, shall not be disturbed therein, but shall be allowed to perfect their title to such claims by payment as aforesaid: And provided also, that the land not exceeding six hundred and forty acres at any station now occupied as missionary stations among the Indian tribes in said section, with the improvements thereon erected by or for such societies, shall be continued in the occupancy of the several religious societies to which said missionary stations respectively belong until action by Congress. But nothing contained in this act shall be construed to put in force in said district the general land laws of the United States. * * * May 17, 1884. (23 Stat., 24.)

X. RESERVATION OF RIGHT OF WAY:

Making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1891, and for other purposes.

No person who shall, after the passage of this act, enter upon any of the public lands with a view to occupation, entry, or settlement under any of the land laws shall be permitted to acquire title to more than three hundred and twenty acres in the aggregate, under all of said laws, but this limitation shall not operate to curtail the right of any person who has heretofore made entry or settlement on the public lands, or whose occupation, entry, or settlement is validated by this act: Provided, that in all patents for lands hereafter taken up under any of the land laws of the United States or on entries or claims validated by this act, west of the one hundredth meridian it shall be expressed that there is reserved from the lands in said patent described a right of way thereon for ditches or canals constructed by the authority of the United States. * * * August 30, 1890. (26 Stat., 371.)

XI. TOWNSITE ENTRIES ON MINERAL LANDS; AND RESERVOIR SITES:

To repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes.

Sec. 16. Townsite entries may be made by incorporated towns and cities on the mineral lands of the United States, but no title shall be acquired by such towns or cities to any vein of gold, silver, cinnabar, copper, or lead, or to any valid mining claim or possession held under existing law. When mineral veins are possessed within the limits of an incorporated town or city, and such possession is recognized by local authority or by the laws of the United States, the title to town lots shall be subject to such recognized possession and the necessary use thereof and when entry has been made or patent issued for such townsites to such incorporated town or city, the possessor of such mineral vein may enter and receive patent for such mineral vein, and the surface ground appertaining thereto: Provided, that no entry shall be made by such mineral-vein claimant for surface ground where the owner or occupier of the surface ground shall have had possession of the same before the inception of the title of the mineral-vein applicant.

Sec. 17. Reservoir sites located or selected and to be located and selected under the provisions of "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and for other purposes," and amendments thereto, shall be restricted to and shall contain only so much land as is actually necessary for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs, excluding so far as practicable lands occupied by actual settlers at the date of the location of said reservoirs, and that the provisions of "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and for other purposes," which reads as follows, viz: "No person who shall after the passage of this act enter upon any of the public lands with a view to occupation, entry, or settlement under any of the land laws shall be permitted to acquire title to more than three hundred and twenty acres in the aggregate under all said laws," shall be construed to include in the maximum amount of lands the title to which is permitted to be acquired by one person only agricultural lands and not include lands entered or sought to be entered under mineral land laws. * * * March 3, 1891. (26 Stat., 1095.)

XII. ENTRY ON QUARRY LANDS:

Authorizing the entry of lands chiefly valuable for building stone, under the placer mining laws.

Any person authorized to enter lands under the mining laws of the United States may enter lands that are chiefly valuable for building stone under the provisions of the law in relation to placer mineral claims: Provided, that lands reserved for the benefit of the public schools or donated to any state shall not be subject to entry under this act.

Sec. 2. An act entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," approved June third, eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, is hereby amended by striking out the words "States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory" where the same occur in the second and third lines of said act, in lieu thereof being inserted the words, "public-land states," the purpose of this act being to make said act of June third, eighteen hundred and seventy-eight, applicable to all the public-land states.

Sec. 3. Nothing in this act shall be construed to repeal section twenty-four of the act entitled "An act to repeal timber-culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-one. August 4, 1892.

[By an official circular of October 12th, 1892, issued from the General Land Office at Washington, and addressed to the registers and receivers of all United States land offices, it is expressed that: "The first section of said act extends the mineral land laws already existing so as to bring land chiefly valuable for building stone within the provisions of said law to the extent of authorizing a placer entry of such land. The proviso to said first section excludes lands reserved for the benefit of the public schools or donated to any state from entry under the act," and also that: "It is not the understanding of the office that the first section of said act of August 4, 1892, withdraws land chiefly valuable for building stone from entry under any existing law applicable thereto;" and further, that: "The second section of said act of August 4, 1892, makes the timber and stone act of June 3, 1878 (20 Stat., 89), applicable to all the public-land states."]

XIII. SUSPENSION OF ASSESSMENT WORK:

Amending section 2324 of the Revised Statutes (VI. District Regulations. Mining Laws.)

The provisions of section numbered twenty-three hundred and twenty-four of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which require that on each claim located after the tenth day of May, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, and until patent has been issued therefor, not less than one hundred dollars' worth of labor shall be performed or improvements made during each year, be suspended for the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, so that no mining claim which has been regularly located and recorded as required by the local laws and mining regulations shall be subject to forfeiture for non-performance of the annual assessment for the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four: Provided, that the claimant or claimants of any mining location, in order to secure the benefits of this Act, shall cause to be recorded in the office where the location notice or certificate is filed on or before December thirty-first, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, a notice that he or they in good faith intend to hold and work said claim: Provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to the State of South Dakota. Sec. 2. This act shall take effect from and after its passage. July 18, 1894 (28 Stat., 114).

ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS.

I. MINERAL LANDS:

1. It will be perceived that by the foregoing provisions of law the mineral lands in the public domain, surveyed or unsurveyed, are open to exploration, occupation, and purchase by all citizens of the United States and all those who have declared their intentions to become such.

II. STATUS OF LODE-CLAIMS:

2. By an examination of the several sections of the Revised Statutes it will be seen that the status of lode-claims located previous to the 10th May, 1872, is not changed with regard to their extent along the lode or width of surface.

3. Mining rights acquired under such previous locations are, however, enlarged by such Revised Statutes in the following respect, viz: The locators of all such previously taken veins or lodes, their heirs and assigns, so long as they comply with the laws of congress and with state, territorial, or local regulations not in conflict therewith, governing mining claims, are invested with the exclusive possessory right of all the surface included within the lines of their locations, and of all veins, lodes, or ledges throughout their entire depth, the top or apex of which lies inside of such surface lines extended downward vertically, although such veins, lodes, or ledges may so far depart from a perpendicular in their course downward as to extend outside the vertical side-lines of such locations at the surface, it being expressly provided, however, that the right of possession to such outside parts of said veins or ledges shall be confined to such portions thereof as lie between vertical planes drawn downward, as aforesaid, through the end lines of their locations so continued in their own direction that such planes will intersect such exterior parts of such veins, lodes, or ledges; no right being granted, however, to the claimant of such outside portion of a vein or ledge to enter upon the surface location of another claimant.

4. It is to be distinctly understood, however, that the law limits the possessory right to veins, lodes, or ledges, other than the one named in the original location, to such as were not adversely claimed on May 10, 1872, and that where such other vein or ledge was so adversely claimed at that date, the right of the party so adversely claiming is in no way impaired by the provisions of the Revised Statutes.

5. In order to hold the possessory title to a mining claim located prior to May 10, 1872, and for which a patent has not been issued, the law requires that ten dollars shall be expended annually in labor or improvements on each claim of one hundred feet on the course of the vein or lode until a patent shall have been issued therefor; but where a number of such claims are held in common upon the same vein or lode, the aggregate expenditure that would be necessary to hold all the claims, at the rate of ten dollars per hundred feet, may be made upon any one claim; a failure to comply with this requirement in any one year subjecting the claim upon which such failure occurred to relocation by other parties, the same as if no previous location thereof had ever been made, unless the claimants under the original location shall have resumed work thereon after such failure and before such relocation. The first annual expenditure upon claims of this class should have been performed subsequent to May 10, 1872, and prior to January 1, 1875. From and after January 1, 1875, the required amount must be expended annually until patent issues. By decision of the Honorable the Secretary of the Interior, dated March 4, 1879, such annual expenditures are not required subsequent to entry, the date of issuing the patent certificate being the date contemplated by statute.

6. Upon the failure of any one of several co-owners of a vein, lode, or ledge, which has not been entered, to contribute his proportion of the expenditures necessary to hold the claim or claims so held in ownership in common, the co-owners, who have performed the labor or made the improvements as required by said Revised Statutes, may at the expiration of the year give such delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing, or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim for at least once a week for ninety days; and if upon the expiration of ninety days after such notice in writing, or upon the expiration of one hundred and eighty days after the first newspaper publication of notice, the delinquent co-owner shall have failed to contribute his proportion to meet such expenditures or improvements, his interest in the claim by law passes to his co-owners who have made the expenditures or improvements as aforesaid. Where a claimant alleges ownership of a forfeited interest under the foregoing provisions, the sworn statement of the publisher as to the facts of publication, giving dates and a printed copy of the notice published, should be furnished, and the claimant must swear that the delinquent co-owner failed to contribute his proper proportion within the period fixed by the statute.

III. PATENTS ISSUED:

7. Rights under patents for veins or lodes heretofore granted under previous legislation of congress are enlarged by the Revised Statutes so as to invest the patentee, his heirs or assigns, with title to all veins, lodes, or ledges throughout their entire depth, the top or apex of which lies within the end and side boundary lines of his claim on the surface, as patented, extended downward vertically, although such veins, lodes, or ledges may so far depart from a perpendicular in their course downward as to extend outside the vertical side-lines of the claim at the surface. The right of possession to such outside parts of such veins or ledges to be confined to such portions thereof as lie between vertical planes drawn downward through the end lines of the claims at the surface, so continued in their own direction that such planes will intersect such exterior parts of such veins or ledges; it being expressly provided, however, that all veins, lodes, or ledges, the top or apex of which lies inside such surface locations, other than the one named in the patent, which were adversely claimed on the 10th May, 1872, are excluded from such conveyance by patent.

8. Applications for patents for mining claims pending at the date of the act of May 10, 1872, may be prosecuted to final decision in the General Land Office, and where no adverse rights are affected thereby, patents will be issued in pursuance of the provisions of the Revised Statutes.

IV. LOCATION OF LODE CLAIMS:

9. From and after the 10th May, 1872, any person who is a citizen of the United States, or who has declared his intention to become a citizen, may locate, record, and hold a mining claim of fifteen hundred linear feet along the course of any mineral vein or lode subject to location; or an association of persons, severally qualified as above, may make joint location of such claim of fifteen hundred feet, but in no event can a location of a vein or lode made subsequent to May 10, 1872, exceed fifteen hundred feet along the course thereof, whatever may be the number of persons composing the association.

10. With regard to the extent of surface-ground adjoining a vein or lode, and claimed for the convenient working thereof, the Revised Statutes provide that the lateral extent of locations of veins or lodes made after May 10, 1872, shall in no case exceed three hundred feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, and that no such surface rights shall be limited by any mining regulations to less than twenty-five feet on each side of the middle of the vein at the surface, except where adverse rights existing on the 10th May, 1872, may render such limitation necessary; the end-lines of such claims to be in all cases parallel to each other. Said lateral measurements cannot extend beyond three hundred feet on either side of the middle of the vein at the surface, or such distance as is allowed by local laws. For example: four hundred feet cannot be taken on one side and two hundred feet on the other. If, however, three hundred feet on each side are allowed, and by reason of prior claims but one hundred feet can be taken on one side, the locator will not be restricted to less than three hundred feet on the other side; and when the locator does not determine by exploration where the middle of the vein at the surface is, his discovery shaft must be assumed to mark such point.

11. By the foregoing it will be perceived that no lode-claim located after the 10th May, 1872, can exceed a parallelogram fifteen hundred feet in length by six hundred feet in width, but whether surface-ground of that width can be taken, depends upon the local regulations or state or territorial laws in force in the several mining districts; and that no such local regulations or state or territorial laws shall limit a vein or lode claim to less than fifteen hundred feet along the course thereof, whether the location is made by one or more persons, nor can surface rights be limited to less than fifty feet in width, unless adverse claims existing on the 10th day of May, 1872, render such lateral limitation necessary.

12. It is provided by the Revised Statutes that the miners of each district may make rules and regulations not in conflict with the laws of the United States, or of the state or territory in which such districts are respectively situated, governing the location, manner of recording, and amount of work necessary to hold possession of a claim. They likewise require that the location shall be so distinctly marked on the ground that its boundaries may be readily traced. This is a very important matter, and locators cannot exercise too much care in defining their locations at the outset, inasmuch as the law requires that all records of mining locations made subsequent to May 10, 1872, shall contain the name or names of the locators, the date of the location, and such a description of the claim or claims located, by reference to some natural object or permanent monument, as will identify the claim.

13. The statutes provide that no lode-claim shall be recorded until after the discovery of a vein or lode within the limits of the claim located, the object of which provision is evidently to prevent the appropriation of presumed mineral ground for speculative purposes to the exclusion of bona fide prospectors, before sufficient work has been done to determine whether a vein or lode really exists.

14. The claimant should, therefore, prior to locating his claim, unless the vein can be traced upon the surface, sink a shaft, or run a tunnel or drift, to a sufficient depth therein to discover and develop a mineral-bearing vein, lode, or crevice; should determine, if possible, the general course of such vein in either direction from the point of discovery, by which direction he will be governed in marking the boundaries of his claim on the surface. His location notice should give the course and distance as nearly as practicable from the discovery-shaft on the claim, to some permanent, well-known points or objects, such, for instance, as stone monuments, blazed trees, the confluence of streams, point of intersection of well-known gulches, ravines, or roads, prominent buttes, hills, etc., which may be in the immediate vicinity, and which will serve to perpetuate and fix the locus of the claim and render it susceptible of identification from the description thereof given in the record of locations in the district, and should be duly recorded.

15. In addition to the foregoing data, the claimant should state the names of adjoining claims, or, if none adjoin, the relative positions of the nearest claims; should drive a post or erect a monument of stones at each corner of his surface-ground, and at the point of discovery or discovery shaft should fix a post, stake, or board, upon which should be designated the name of the lode, the name or names of the locators, the number of feet claimed, and in which direction from the point of discovery; it being essential that the location notice filed for record, in addition to the foregoing description, should state whether the entire claim of fifteen hundred feet is taken on one side of the point of discovery, or whether it is partly upon one and partly upon the other side thereof, and in the latter case, how many feet are claimed upon each side of such discovery-point.

16. Within a reasonable time, say twenty days after the location shall have been marked on the ground, or such time as is allowed by the local laws, notice thereof, accurately describing the claim in manner aforesaid, should be filed for record with the proper recorder of the district, who will thereupon issue the usual certificate of location.

17. In order to hold the possessory right to a location made since May 10, 1872, not less than one hundred dollars' worth of labor must be performed, or improvements made thereon annually until entry shall have been made. Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved January 22, 1880, the first annual expenditure becomes due and must be performed during the calendar year succeeding that in which the location was made. Expenditure made or labor performed prior to the first day of January succeeding the date of location will not be considered as a part of, or applied upon the first annual expenditure required by law. Failure to make the expenditure or perform the labor required will subject the claim to relocation by any other party having the necessary qualifications, unless the original locator, his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives have resumed work thereon after such failure and before such relocation.

18. The expenditures required upon mining-claims may be made from the surface or in running a tunnel for the development of such claims, the act of February 11, 1875, providing that where a person or company has, or may, run a tunnel for the purpose of developing a lode or lodes owned by said person or company, the money so expended in said tunnel shall be taken and considered as expended on said lode or lodes, and such person or company shall not be required to perform work on the surface of said lode or lodes in order to hold the same.

19. The importance of attending to these details in the matter of location, labor, and expenditure will be the more readily perceived when it is understood that a failure to give the subject proper attention may invalidate the claim.

V. TUNNEL RIGHTS:

20. Section 2323 provides that where a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, the owners of such tunnel shall have the right of possession of all veins or lodes within three thousand feet from the face of such tunnel on the line thereof, not previously known to exist, discovered in such tunnel, to the same extent as if discovered from the surface; and locations on the line of such tunnel of veins or lodes not appearing on the surface, made by other parties after the commencement of the tunnel, and while the same is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence, shall be invalid; but failure to prosecute the work on the tunnel for six months shall be considered as an abandonment of the right to all undiscovered veins or lodes on the line of said tunnel.

21. The effect of this is simply to give the proprietors of a mining tunnel run in good faith the possessory right to fifteen hundred feet of any blind lodes cut, discovered, or intersected by such tunnel, which were not previously known to exist, within three thousand feet from the face or point of commencement of such tunnel, and to prohibit other parties, after the commencement of the tunnel, from prospecting for and making locations of lodes on the line thereof and within said distance of three thousand feet, unless such lodes appear upon the surface or were previously known to exist.

22. The term "face," as used in said section, is construed and held to mean the first working face formed in the tunnel, and to signify the point at which the tunnel actually enters cover; it being from this point that the three thousand feet are to be counted, upon which prospecting is prohibited as aforesaid.

23. To avail themselves of the benefits of this provision of law, the proprietors of a mining tunnel will be required, at the time they enter cover as aforesaid, to give proper notice of their tunnel location by erecting a substantial post, board, or monument at the face or point of commencement thereof, upon which should be posted a good and sufficient notice, giving the names of the parties or company claiming the tunnel-right; the actual or proposed course or direction of the tunnel; the height and width thereof, and the course and distance from such face or point of commencement to some permanent well-known objects in the vicinity by which to fix and determine the locus in manner heretofore set forth applicable to locations of veins or lodes, and at the time of posting such notice they shall, in order that miners or prospectors may be enabled to determine whether or not they are within the lines of the tunnel, establish the boundary lines thereof, by stakes or monuments placed along such lines at proper intervals, to the terminus of the three thousand feet from the face or point of commencement of the tunnel, and the lines so marked will define and govern as to the specific boundaries within which prospecting for lodes not previously known to exist is prohibited while work on the tunnel is being prosecuted with reasonable diligence.

24. At the time of posting notice and marking out the lines of the tunnel as aforesaid, a full and correct copy of such notice of location defining the tunnel claim must be filed for record with the mining recorder of the district, to which notice must be attached the sworn statement or declaration of the owners, claimants, or projectors of such tunnel, setting forth the facts in the case; stating the amount expended by themselves and their predecessors in interest in prosecuting work thereon; the extent of the work performed, and that is is bona fide their intention to prosecute work on the tunnel so located and described with reasonable diligence for the development of a vein or lode, or for the discovery of mines, or both, as the case may be. This notice of location must be duly recorded, and, with the said sworn statement attached, kept on the recorder's files for future reference.

25. By a compliance with the foregoing much needless difficulty will be avoided, and the way for the adjustment of legal rights acquired in virtue of said section 2323 will be made much more easy and certain.

26. This office will take particular care that no improper advantage is taken of this provision of law by parties making or professing to make tunnel locations, ostensibly for the purposes named in the statute, but really for the purpose of monopolizing the lands lying in front of their tunnels to the detriment of the mining interests and to the exclusion of bona fide prospectors or miners, but will hold such tunnel claimants to a strict compliance with the terms of the statutes; and a reasonable diligence on their part in prosecuting the work is one of the essential conditions of their implied contract. Negligence or want of due diligence will be construed as working a forefeiture of their right to all undiscovered veins on the line of such tunnel.

VI. PROCEEDINGS FOR TITLE TO LODE CLAIMS:

27. By section 2325 authority is given for granting titles for mines by patent from the government to any person, association, or corporation having the necessary qualifications as to citizenship and holding the right of possession to a claim in compliance with law.

28. The claimant is required in the first place to have a correct survey of his claim made under authority of the surveyor-general of the state or territory in which the claim lies; such survey to show with accuracy the exterior surface boundaries of the claim, which boundaries are required to be distinctly marked by monuments on the ground. Four plats and one copy of the original field notes, in each case, will be prepared by the surveyor-general; one plat and the original field notes to be retained in the office of the surveyor-general, one copy of the plat to be given the claimant for posting upon the claim, one plat and a copy of the field notes to be given the claimant for filing with the proper register, to be finally transmitted by that officer, with other papers in the case, to this office, and one plat to be sent by the surveyor-general to the register of the proper land district to be retained on his files for future reference. As there is no resident surveyor-general for the State of Arkansas, applications for the survey of mineral claims in said state should be made to the commissioner of this office, who, under the law, is ex officio the United States Surveyor-General.

29. The claimant is then required to post a copy of the plat of such survey in a conspicuous place upon the claim, together with notice of his intention to apply for a patent therefor, which notice will give the date of posting, the name of the claimant, the name of the claim, mine, or lode; the mining district and county; whether the location is of record, and, if so, where the record may be found; the number of feet claimed along the vein and the presumed direction thereof; the number of feet claimed on the lode in each direction from the point of discovery, or other well-defined place on the claim; the name or names of adjoining claimants on the same or other lodes; or if none adjoin, the names of the nearest claims, etc.

30. After posting the said plat and notice upon the premises, the claimant will file with the proper register and receiver a copy of such plat and the field notes of survey of the claim, accompanied by the affidavit of at least two credible witnesses, that such plat and notice are posted conspicuously upon the claim, giving the date and place of such posting; a copy of the notice so posted to be attached to, and form a part of, said affidavit.

31. Accompanying the field notes so filed must be the sworn statement of the claimant that he has the possessory right to the premises therein described, in virtue of a compliance by himself (and by his grantors, if he claims by purchase) with the mining rules, regulations, and customs of the mining-district, state, or territory in which the claim lies, and with the mining laws of Congress; such sworn statement to narrate briefly, but as clearly as possible, the facts constituting such compliance, the origin of his possession, and the basis of his claim to a patent.

32. This affidavit should be supported by appropriate evidence from the mining recorder's office as to his possessory right, as follows, viz: Where he claims to be the locator, or a locator in company with others who have since conveyed their interest in the location to him, a full, true and correct copy of such location should be furnished, as the same appears upon the mining records; such copy to be attested by the seal of the recorder, or if he has no seal, then he should make oath to the same being correct, as shown by his records. Where the applicant claims only as a purchaser for valuable consideration, a copy of the location record must be filed under seal or upon oath as aforesaid, with an abstract of title from the proper recorder, under seal or oath as aforesaid, brought down as near as practicable to date of filing the application, tracing the right of possession by a continuous chain of conveyances from the original locators to the applicant, also certifying that no conveyances affecting the title to the claim in question appear of record in his office other than those set forth in the accompanying abstract.

33. In the event of the mining records in any case having been destroyed by fire or otherwise lost, affidavit of the fact should be made, and secondary evidence of possessory title will be received, which may consist of the affidavit of the claimant, supported by those of any other parties cognizant of the facts relative to his location, occupancy, possession, improvements, etc.; and in such case of lost records, any deeds, certificates of location or purchase, or other evidence, which may be in the claimant's possession and tend to establish his claim, should be filed.

34. Upon the receipt of these papers the register will, at the expense of the claimant (who must furnish the agreement of the publisher to hold applicant for patent alone responsible for charges of publication), publish a notice of such application for the period of sixty days in a newspaper published nearest to the claim, and will post a copy of such notice in his office for the same period. When the notice is published in a weekly newspaper ten consecutive insertions are necessary; when in a daily newspaper the notice must appear in each issue for sixty-one consecutive issues, the first day of issue being excluded in estimating the period of sixty days.

35. The notices so published and posted must be as full and complete as possible, and embrace all the data given in the notice posted upon the claim.

36. Too much care can not be exercised in the preparation of these notices, inasmuch as upon their accuracy and completeness will depend, in a great measure, the regularity and validity of the whole proceeding.

37. In the publication of final-proof notices the register has no discretion under the law to designate any other than the newspaper "nearest the land" for such purpose when such paper is a newspaper of general circulation. But he will in all cases designate the newspaper of general circulation that is published nearest the land, geographically measured. When two or more such newspapers are published in the same town, nearest the land, he may select the one which, in his honest and impartial judgment as a public officer, will best subserve the purpose of the law and the general interests of the public.

38. Newspaper charges must not exceed the rates established by this office for the publication of legal notices.

39. The claimant, either at the time of filing these papers with the register or at any time during the sixty days' publication, is required to file a certificate of the surveyor-general that not less than five hundred dollars' worth of labor has been expended or improvements made upon the claim by the applicant or his grantors; that the plat filed by the claimant is correct; that the field notes of the survey, as filed, furnish such an accurate description of the claim as will, if incorporated into a patent, serve to fully identify the premises, and that such reference is made therein to natural objects or permanent monuments as will perpetuate and fix the locus thereof.

40. It will be the more convenient way to have this certificate indorsed by the surveyor-general, both upon the plat and field-notes of survey filed by the claimant as aforesaid.

41. After the sixty days' period of newspaper publication has expired the claimant will furnish from the office of publication a sworn statement that the notice was published for the statutory period, giving the first and last day of such publication, and his own affidavit showing that the plat and notice aforesaid remained conspicuously posted upon the claim sought to be patented during said sixty days' publication, giving the dates.

42. Upon the filing of this affidavit the register will, if no adverse claim was filed in his office during the period of publication, permit the claimant to pay for the land according to the area given in the plat and field notes of survey aforesaid, at the rate of five dollars for each acre and five dollars for each fractional part of an acre, the receiver issuing the usual duplicate receipt therefor. The claimant will also make a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by him for publication and surveys, together with all fees and money paid the register and receiver of the land office; after which the whole matter will be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and a patent issued thereon if found regular.

43. In sending up the papers in the case the register must not omit certifying to the fact that the notice was posted in his office for the full period of sixty days, such certificate to state distinctly when such posting was done and how long continued.

44. The consecutive series of numbers of mineral entries must be continued, whether the same are of lode or placer claims or mill sites.

45. The surveyors-general should designate all surveyed mineral claims by a progressive series of numbers, beginning with survey No. 37, irrespective as to whether they are situated on surveyed or unsurveyed lands, the claim to be so designated at date of issuing the order therefor, in addition to the local designation of the claim; it being required in all cases that the plat and field-notes of the survey of a claim must, in addition to the reference to permanent objects in the neighborhood, describe the locus of the claim, with reference to the lines of public surveys, by a line connecting a corner of the claim with the nearest public corner of the United States surveys, unless such claim be on unsurveyed lands at a distance of more than two miles from such public corner, in which latter case it should be connected with a United States mineral monument. Such connecting line must not be more than two miles in length and should be measured on the ground direct between the points, or calculated from actually surveyed traverse lines if the nature of the country should not permit direct measurement. If a regularly established survey corner is within two miles of a claim situated on unsurveyed lands, the connection should be made with such corner in preference to a connection with a United States mineral monument. The connecting line must be surveyed by the deputy mineral surveyor at the time of his making the particular survey, and be made a part thereof.

46. Upon the approval of the survey of a mining claim made upon surveyed lands, the surveyor-general will prepare and transmit to the local land office and to this office a diagram tracing showing the portions of legal forty-acre subdivisions made fractional by reason of the mineral survey, designating each of such portions by the proper lot number, beginning with No. 1 in each section and giving the area of each lot.

47. The survey and plat of mineral claims, required by section 2325, Revised Statutes of the United States, to be filed in the proper land office, with application for patent, must be made subsequent to the recording of the location of the mine; and when the original location is made by survey of a United States deputy surveyor such location survey can not be substituted for that required by the statute, as above indicated.

48. The surveyor-general should derive his information upon which to base his certificate as to the value of labor expended or improvements made from his deputy who makes the actual survey and examination upon the premises, and such deputy should specify with particularity and full detail the character and extent of such improvements

49. The following particulars should be observed in the survey of every mining claim: i. The exterior boundaries of the claim should be represented on the plat of survey and in the field notes. ii. The intersection of the lines of the survey with the lines of conflicting prior surveys should be noted in the field-notes and represented upon the plat. iii. Conflicts with unsurveyed claims, where the applicant for survey does not claim the area in conflict, should be shown by actual survey. iv. The total area of the claim embraced by the exterior boundaries should be stated, and also the area in conflict with each intersecting survey, substantially as follows:

	Acres.
Total area of claim	10.50
Area in conflict with survey No. 302	1.56

It does not follow that because mining surveys are required to exhibit all conflicts with prior surveys the areas of conflict are to be excluded. The field-notes and plat are made a part of the application for patent, and care should be taken that the description does not inadvertently exclude portions intended to be retained. It is better that the application for patent should state the portions to be excluded in express terms. A survey executed as in the example given will enable the applicant for patent to exclude such conflicts as may seem desirable. For instance, the conflict with survey No. 302 and with the Mountain Maid lode claim might be excluded and that with survey No. 948 included.

50. The rights granted to locators under section 2322, Revised Statutes, are restricted to such locations on veins, lodes, or ledges as may be "situated on the public domain." In applications for lode claims where the survey conflicts with a prior valid lode claim or entry and the ground in conflict is excluded, the applicant not only has no right to the excluded ground, but he has no right to that portion of any vein or lode the top or apex of which lies within such excluded ground, unless his location was prior to May 10, 1872. His right to the lode claimed terminates where the lode, in its onward course or strike, intersects the exterior boundary of such excluded ground and passes within it.

51. The end line of his survey should not, therefore, be established beyond such intersection, unless it should be necessary so to do for the purpose of including ground held and claimed under a location which was made upon public land and valid at the time it was made. To include such ground (which may possibly embrace other lodes) the end line of the survey may be established within the conflicting survey, but the line must be so run as not to extend any farther into the conflicting survey than may be necessary to make such end line parallel to the other end line and at the same time embrace the ground so held and claimed. The useless practice in such cases of extending both the side lines of a survey into the conflicting survey and establishing an end line wholly within it, beyond a point necessary under the rule just stated, will be discontinued.

VII. PLACER CLAIMS:

52. The proceedings to obtain patents for claims usually called placers, including all forms of deposit, excepting veins of quartz or other rock in place, are similar to the proceedings prescribed for obtaining patents for vein or lode claims; but where said placer claim shall be upon surveyed lands, and conforms to legal subdivisions, no further survey or plat will be required, and all placer mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as nearly as practicable with the United States system of public-land surveys and the rectangular subdivisions of such surveys, and no such location shall include more than twenty acres for each individual claimant; but where placer claims can not be conformed to legal subdivisions, survey and plat shall be made as on unsurveyed lands. But where such claims are located previous to the public surveys, and do not conform to legal subdivisions, survey, plat, and entry thereof may be made according to the boundaries thereof, provided the location is in all respects legal.

53. The proceedings for obtaining patents for veins or lodes having already been fully given, it will not be necessary to repeat them here, it being thought that careful attention thereto by applicants and the local officers will enable them to act understandingly in the matter and make such slight modifications in the notice, or otherwise, as may be necessary in view of the different nature of the two classes of claims, placer claims being fixed, however, at two dollars and fifty cents per acre, or fractional part of an acre.

54. By section 2330, authority is given for the subdivision of forty-acre legal subdivisions into ten-acre lots, which is intended for the greater convenience of miners in segregating their claims both from one another and from intervening agricultural lands.

55. It is held, therefore, that under a proper construction of the law these ten-acre lots in mining districts should be considered and dealt with, to all intents and purposes, as legal subdivisions, and that an applicant having a legal claim which conforms to one or more of these ten-acre lots, either adjoining or cornering, may make entry thereof, after the usual proceedings, without further survey or plat.

56. In cases of this kind, however, the notice given of the application must be very specific and accurate in description, and as the forty-acre tracts may be subdivided into ten-acre lots, either in the form of squares of ten by ten chains, or if parallelograms five by twenty chains, so long as the lines are parallel and at right angles with the lines of the public surveys, it will be necessary that the notice and application state specifically what ten-acre lots are sought to be patented, in addition to the other data required in the notice.

57. Where the ten-acre subdivision is in the form of a square it may be described, for instance, as the "SE. ¼ of the SW. ¼ of NW. ¼," or, if in the form of a parallelogram as aforesaid, it may be described as the "W. ½ of the W. ½ of the SW. ¼ of the NW. ¼ (or the N. ½ of the S. ½ of the NE. ¼ of the SE. ¼) of section ———, township ———, range ———," as the case may be; but, in addition to this description of the land, the notice must give all the other data that is required in a mineral application, by which parties may be put on inquiry as to the premises sought to be patented. The proofs submitted with applications for claims of this kind must show clearly the character and the extent of the improvements upon the premises.

Inasmuch as the surveyor-general has no duty to perform in connection with the entry of a placer claim of legal subdivisions, the proof of improvements must show their value to be not less than five hundred dollars and that they were made by the applicant for patent or his grantors. The annual expenditure to the amount of one hundred dollars, required by section 2324, Revised Statutes, must be made upon placer claims as well as lode claims.

58. Applicants for patent to a placer claim, who are also in possession of a known vein or lode included therein, must state in their application that the placer includes such vein or lode. The published and posted notices must also include such statement. If veins or lodes lying within a placer location are owned by other parties, the fact should be distinctly stated in the application for patent, and in all notices. But in all cases whether the lode is claimed or excluded, it must be surveyed and marked upon the plat; the field notes and plat giving the area of the lode claim or claims and the area of the placer separately. It should be remembered that an application which omits to include an application for a known vein or lode therein, must be construed as a conclusive declaration that the applicant has no right of possession to the vein or lode. Where there is no known lode or vein, the fact must appear by the affidavit of two or more witnesses.

59. By section 2330, it is declared that no location of a placer claim, made after July 9, 1870, shall exceed one hundred and sixty acres for any one person or association of persons, which location shall conform to the United States surveys.

60. Section 2331 provides that all placer-mining claims located after May 10, 1872, shall conform as nearly as practicable with the United States systems of public surveys and the subdivisions of such surveys, and no such locations shall include more than twenty acres for each individual claimant.

61. The foregoing provisions of law are construed to mean that after the 9th day of July, 1870, no location of a placer claim can be made to exceed one hundred and sixty acres, whatever may be the number of locators associated together, or whatever the local regulations of the district may allow; and that from and after May 10, 1872, no location made by an individual can exceed twenty acres, and no location made by an association of individuals can exceed one hundred and sixty acres, which location of one hundred and sixty acres can not be made by a less number than eight bona fide locators; and no local laws or mining regulations can restrict a placer location to less than twenty acres, although the locator is not compelled to take so much.

62. The regulations hereinbefore given as to the manner of marking locations on the ground, and placing the same on record, must be observed in the case of placer locations so far as the same are applicable, the law requiring, however, that where placer claims are upon surveyed public lands the locations must hereafter be made to conform to legal subdivisions thereof as near as practicable.

63. The first care in recognizing an application for patent upon a placer claim must be exercised in determining the exact classification of the lands. To this end the clearest evidence of which the case is capable should be presented.

(1) If the claim be all placer ground, that fact must be stated in the application and corroborated by accompanying proofs; if of mixed placers and lodes, it should be so set out, with a description of all known lodes situated within the boundaries of the claim. A specific declaration, such as is required by section 2333, Revised Statutes, must be furnished as to each lode intended to be claimed. All other known lodes are, by the silence of the applicant, excluded by law from all claim by him, of whatsoever nature, possessory or otherwise.

(2) Section 2395, Revised Statutes (subdivision 7), requires the surveyor to "note in his field books the true situation of all mines, salt licks, salt springs, and mill seats which come to his knowledge;" also "all watercourses over which the lines he runs may pass." It further requires him to "note the quality of the lands." These descriptive notes are required by subdivision 8 to be incorporated in the plat by the surveyor-general.

(3) If these duties have been performed, the public surveys will furnish a reasonable guide to the district officers and to claimants in prosecuting their applications. But experience has shown that great neglect has resulted from inattention to the law in this respect, and the regular plats are of very little value in the matter. It will, therefore, be required in the future that deputy surveyors shall, at the expense of the parties, make full examination of all placer claims surveyed by them, and duly note the facts as specified in the law, stating the quality and composition of the soil, the kind and amount of timber and other vegetation, the locus and size of streams, and such other matters as may appear upon the surface of the claim. This examination should include the character and extent of all surface and underground workings, whether placer or lode, for mining purposes.

(4) In addition to these data, which the law requires to be shown in all cases, the deputy should report with reference to the proximity of centers of trade or residence; also of well-known systems of lode deposit or of individual lodes. He should also report as to the use or adaptability of the claim for placer mining; whether water has been brought upon it in sufficient quantity to mine the same, or whether it can be procured for that purpose; and, finally, what works or expenditures have been made by the claimant or his grantors for the development of the claim, and their situation and location with respect to the same as applied for.

(5) This examination should be reported by the deputy under oath to the surveyor-general, and duly corroborated; and a copy of the same should be furnished with the application for patent to the claim, constituting a part thereof, and included in the oath of the applicant.

(6) Applications awaiting entry, whether published or not, must be made to conform to these regulations, with respect to examination as to the character of the land. Entries already made will be suspended for such additional proofs as may be deemed necessary in each case.

VIII. MILL-SITES:

64. Section 2337 provides that "where non-mineral land not contiguous to the vein or lode is used or occupied by the proprietor of such vein or lode for mining or milling purposes, such nonadjacent surface ground may be embraced and included in an application for a patent for such vein or lode, and the same may be patented therewith, subject to the same preliminary requirements as to survey and notice as are applicable to veins or lodes; but no location hereafter made of such nonadjacent land shall exceed five acres, and payment for the same must be made at the same rate as fixed by this chapter for the superficies of the lode. The owner of a quartz-mill or reduction-works, not owning a mine in connection therewith, may also receive a patent for his mill-site, as provided in this section."

65. To avail themselves of this provision of law, parties holding the possessory right to a vein or lode, and to a piece of non-mineral land not contiguous thereto, for mining or milling purposes, not exceeding the quantity allowed for such purpose by section 2337, United States Revised Statutes, or prior laws, under which the land was appropriated, the proprietors of such vein or lode may file in the proper land office their application for a patent, under oath, in manner already set forth herein, which application, together with the plat and field-notes, may include, embrace, and describe, in addition to the vein or lode, such noncontiguous mill-site, and after due proceedings as to notice, etc., a patent will be issued conveying the same as one claim.

66. In making the survey in a case of this kind, the lode claim should be described in the plat and field-notes as "Sur. No. 37, A," and the mill-site as "Sur. No. 37, B," or whatever may be its appropriate numerical designation; the course and distance from a corner of the mill-site to a corner of the lode claim to be invariably given in such plat and field-notes, and a copy of the plat and notice of application for patent must be conspicuously posted upon the mill-site as well as upon the vein or lode for the statutory period of sixty days. In making the entry no separate receipt or certificate need be issued for the mill-site, but the whole area of both lode and mill-site will be embraced in one entry, the price being five dollars for each acre and fractional part of an acre embraced by such lode and mill-site claim.

67. In case the owner of a quartz mill or reduction-works is not the owner or claimant of a vein or lode, the law permits him to make application therefor in the same manner prescribed herein for mining claims, and after due notice and proceedings, in the absence of a valid adverse filing, to enter and receive a patent for his mill-site at said price per acre.

68. In every case there must be satisfactory proof that the land claimed as a mill-site is not mineral in character, which proof may, where the matter is unquestioned, consist of the sworn statement of two or more persons capable from acquaintance with the land to testify understandingly.

IX. POSSESSORY RIGHT:

69. With regard to the proofs necessary to establish the possessory right to a mining claim, section 2332 provides that "where such person or association, they and their grantors, have held and worked their claims for a period equal to the time prescribed by the statute of limitations for mining claims of the state or territory where the same may be situated, evidence of such possession and working of the claims for such period shall be sufficient to establish a right to a patent thereto under this chapter, in the absence of any adverse claim."

70. This provision of law will greatly lessen the burden of proof, more especially in the case of old claims located many years since, the records of which, in many cases, have been destroyed by fire, or lost in other ways during the lapse of time, but concerning the possessory right to which all controversy or litigation has long been settled.

71. When an applicant desires to make his proof of possessory right in accordance with this provision of law, he will not be required to produce evidence of location, copies of conveyances, or abstracts of title, as in other cases, but will be required to furnish a duly certified copy of the statute of limitation of mining claims for the state or territory, together with his sworn statement giving a clear and succinct narration of the facts as to the origin of his title, and likewise as to the continuation of his possession of the mining ground covered by his application; the area thereof; the nature and extent of the mining that has been done thereon; whether there has been any opposition to his possession, or litigation with regard to his claim, and, if so, when the same ceased; whether such cessation was caused by compromise or by judicial decree, and any additional facts within the claimant's knowledge having a direct bearing upon his possession and bona fides which he may desire to submit in support of his claim.

72. There should likewise be filed a certificate, under seal of the court having jurisdiction of mining cases within the judicial district embracing the claim, that no suit or action of any character whatever involving the right of possession to any portion of the claim applied for is pending, and that there has been no litigation before said court affecting the title to said claim or any part thereof for a period equal to the time fixed by the statute of limitations for mining-claims in the state or territory as aforesaid, other than that which has been finally decided in favor of the claimant.

73. The claimant should support his narrative of facts relative to his possession, occupancy, and improvements by corroborative testimony of any disinterested person or persons of credibility who may be cognizant of the facts in the case and are capable of testifying understandingly in the premises.

74. As a condition for the making of application for patent according to section 2325, there must be a preliminary showing of work or expenditure upon each location, either by showing the full amount sufficient to the maintenance of possession under section 2324 for the pending year; or, if there has been failure, it should be shown that work has been resumed so as to prevent relocation by adverse parties after abandonment.

The "pending year" means the calendar year in which application is made, and has no reference to a showing of work at date of the final entry.

75. This preliminary showing may, where the matter is unquestioned, consist of the affidavit of two or more witnesses familiar with the facts.

X. PROOF OF CITIZENSHIP:

76. The proof necessary to establish the citizenship of applicants for mining patents must be made in the following manner: In case of an incorporated company, a certified copy of their charter or certificate of incorporation must be filed. In case of an association of persons unincorporated, the affidavit of their duly authorized agent, made upon his own knowledge or upon information and belief, setting forth the residence of each person forming such association, must be submitted. This affidavit must be accompanied by a power of attorney from the parties forming such association, authorizing the person who makes the affidavit of citizenship to act for them in the matter of their application for patent.

77. In case of an individual or an association of individuals who do not appear by their duly authorized agent, you will require the affidavit of each applicant, showing whether he is a native or naturalized citizen, when and where born, and his residence.

78. In case an applicant has declared his intention to become a citizen or has been naturalized, his affidavit must show the date, place, and the court before which he declared his intention, or from which his certificate of citizenship issued, and present residence.

79. The affidavit of the claimant as to his citizenship may be taken before the register or receiver, or any other officer authorized to administer oaths within the land district; or, if the claimant is residing beyond the limits of the district, the affidavit may be taken before the clerk of any court of record or before any notary public of any state or territory.

80. If citizenship is established by the testimony of disinterested persons, such testimony may be taken at any place before any person authorized to administer oaths, and whose official character is duly verified.

XI. ADVERSE CLAIMS:

81. Section 2326, and the act of April 26, 1882, provide for adverse claims, fix the time within which they shall be filed to have legal effect, and prescribe the manner of their adjustment, etc.

82. An adverse mining claim must be filed with the register and receiver of the land office where the application for patent was filed, or with the register and receiver of the district in which the land is situated at the time of filing the adverse claim. It must be on the oath of the adverse claimant, or it may be verified by the oath of any duly authorized agent or attorney-in-fact of the adverse claimant, cognizant of the facts stated.

83. Where an agent or attorney-in-fact verifies the adverse claim, he must distinctly swear that he is such agent or attorney, and accompany his affidavit by proof thereof.

84. The agent or attorney-in-fact must make the affidavit in verification of the adverse claim within the land district where the claim is situated.

85. The adverse notice must fully set forth the nature and extent of the interference or conflict; whether the adverse party claims as a purchaser for valuable consideration or as a locator; if the former, a certified copy of the original location, the original conveyance, a duly certified copy thereof, or an abstract of title from the office of the proper recorder should be furnished, or if the transaction was a merely verbal one he will narrate the circumstances attending the purchase, the date thereof, and the amount paid, which facts should be supported by the affidavit of one or more witnesses, if any were present at the time, and if he claims as a locator he must file a duly certified copy of the location from the office of the proper recorder.

86. In order that the "boundaries" and "extent" of the claim may be shown, it will be incumbent upon the adverse claimant to file a plat showing his entire claim, its relative situation or position with the one against which he claims, and the extent of the conflict. This plat must be made from an actual survey by a United States deputy surveyor, who will officially certify thereon to its correctness; and in addition there must be attached to such plat of survey a certificate or sworn statement by the surveyor as to the approximate value of the labor performed or improvements made upon the claim by the adverse party or his predecessors in interest, and the plat must indicate the position of any shafts, tunnels, or other improvements, if any such exist, upon the claim of the party opposing the application, and by which party said improvements were made: Provided, however, that, if the application for patent describes the claim by legal subdivisions, the adverse claimant, if also claiming by legal subdivisions, may describe his adverse claim in the same manner without further survey or plat.

87. Upon the foregoing being filed within the sixty days as aforesaid, the register, or in his absence the receiver, will give notice in writing to both parties to the contest that such adverse claim has been filed, informing them that the party who filed the adverse claim will be required within thirty days from the date of such filing to commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction to determine the question of right of possession, and to prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment, and that, should such adverse claimant fail to do so, his adverse claim will be considered waived, and the application for patent be allowed to proceed upon its merits.

88. When an adverse claim is filed as aforesaid, the register or receiver will indorse upon the same the precise date of filing, and preserve a record of the date of notifications issued thereon; and thereafter all proceedings on the application for patent will be suspended, with the exception of the completion of the publication and posting of notices and plat, and the filing of the necessary proof thereof, until the controversy shall have been adjudicated in court, or the adverse claim waived or withdrawn.

89. Where an adverse claim has been filed and suit thereon commenced within the statutory period, and final judgment determining the right of possession rendered in favor of the applicant, it will not be sufficient for him to file with the register a certificate of the clerk of the court, setting forth the facts as to such judgment, but he must, before he is allowed to make entry, file a certified copy of the judgment, together with the other evidence required by section 2326, Revised Statutes.

90. Where such suit has been dismissed, a certificate of the clerk of the court to that effect, or a certified copy of the order of dismissal, will be sufficient.

91. In no case will a relinquishment of the ground in controversy, or other proof, filed with the register or receiver, be accepted in lieu of the evidence required.

92. Where an adverse claim has been filed, but no suit commenced against the applicant for patent within the statutory period, a certificate to that effect by the clerk of the state court having jurisdiction in the case, and also by the clerk of the Circuit Court of the United States for the district in which the claim is situated, will be required.

93. A party who is not an applicant for patent under section 2325, Revised Statutes, or the assignee of such applicant, is not entitled to make entry under said section, and in no case will the name of such party be inserted in the certificate of entry. This regulation has no reference to proceedings under section 2326.

94. Any party applying to make entry as trustee must disclose fully the nature of the trust and the name of the cestui que trust; and such trustee, as well as the beneficiaries, must furnish satisfactory proof of citizenship; and the names of beneficiaries, as well as that of the trustee, must be inserted in the final certificate of entry.

95. No entry will be allowed until the register has satisfied himself, by a careful examination, that proper proofs have been filed upon all the points indicated in official regulations in force, and that they show a sufficient bona fide compliance with the laws and such regulations.

96. The administration of the mining laws as prescribed by these regulations will be, so far as applicable, adopted for, and extended to Alaska.

(1) The ex-officio register, receiver, and surveyor-general, while acting as such, and their clerks and deputy surveyors, will be deemed subject to the laws and regulations governing the official conduct and responsibilities of similar officers and persons under general statutes of the United States.

(2) The Commissioner of the General Land Office will exercise the same general supervision over the execution of the laws as are or may be exercised by him in other mineral districts.

XII. DEPUTY SURVEYORS, SURVEY AND PUBLICATION CHARGES, REGISTERS' AND RECEIVERS' FEES:

97. Section 2334 provides for the appointment of surveyors of mineral claims, authorizes the commissioners of the general land office to establish the rates to be charged for surveys and for newspaper publications.

Under this authority of law the following rates have been established as the maximum charges for newspaper publications in mining cases:

(1) Where a daily newspaper is designated, the charge shall not exceed seven dollars for each ten lines of space occupied, and where a weekly newspaper is designated as the medium of publication five dollars for the same space will be allowed. Such charge shall be accepted as full payment for publication in each issue of the newspaper for the entire period required by law.

It is expected that these notices shall not be so abbreviated as to curtail the description essential to a perfect notice, and the said rates established upon the understanding that they are to be in the usual body-type used for advertisements.

(2) For the publication of citations in contests or hearings involving the character of lands, the charges shall not exceed eight dollars for five publications in weekly newspapers, or ten dollars for publications in daily newspapers for thirty days.

98. The surveyors-general of the several districts will, in pursuance of said law, appoint in each land district as many competent deputies for the survey of mining claims as may seek such appointment; it being distinctly understood that all expenses of these notices and surveys are to be borne by the mining claimants and not by the United States; the system of making deposits for mineral surveys, as required by previous instructions, being hereby revoked as regards field work; the claimant having the option of employing any deputy surveyor within such district to do his work in the field.

99. With regard to the platting of the claim and other office work in the surveyor-general's office, that officer will make an estimate of the cost thereof, which amount the claimant will deposit with any assistant United States

Treasurer, or designated depository in favor of the United States Treasurer, to be passed to the credit of the fund created by "individual depositors for surveys of the public lands," and file with the surveyor-general duplicate certificates of such deposit in the usual manner.

100. The surveyors-general will endeavor to appoint mineral deputy surveyors, so that one or more may be located in each mining district for the greater convenience of miners.

101. The usual oaths will be required of these deputies and their assistants as to the correctness of each survey executed by them.

The duty of the deputy mineral surveyor ceases when he has executed the survey and returned the field notes and preliminary plat thereof with his report to the surveyor-general. He will not be allowed to prepare for the mining claimant the papers in support of an application for patent, or otherwise perform the duties of an attorney before the land office in connection with a mining claim.

The surveyors-general and local land officers are expected to report any infringement of this regulation to this office.

102. The law requires that each applicant shall file with the register and receiver a sworn statement of all charges and fees paid by him for publication of notice and for survey, together with all fees and money paid the register and receiver, which sworn statement is required to be transmitted to this office for the information of the commissioner.

103. Should it appear that excessive or exorbitant charges have been made by any surveyor or any publisher, prompt action will be taken with the view of correcting the abuse.

104. The fees payable to the register and receiver for filing and acting upon applications for mineral-land patents are five dollars to each officer, to be paid by the applicant for patent at the time of filing, and the like sum of five dollars is payable to each officer by an adverse claimant at the time of filing his adverse claim. (Sec. 2238, R. S., paragraph 9.)

105. All fees or charges under this law may be paid in United States currency.

106. The register and receiver will, at the close of each month, forward to this office an abstract of mining applications filed, and a register of receipts, accompanied with an abstract of mineral lands sold, and an abstract of adverse claims filed.

107. The fees and purchase money received by registers and receivers must be placed to the credit of the United States in the receiver's monthly and quarterly account, charging up in the disbursing account the sums to which the register and receiver may be respectively entitled as fees and commissions, with liabilities in regard to the legal maximum.

XIII. PROCEEDINGS TO DETERMINE CHARACTER OF LANDS:

108. The "Rules of Practice in cases before the United States District Land Offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior," approved August 13, 1885, will, as far as applicable, govern in all cases and proceedings arising in contests, and hearings to determine the mineral or non-mineral character of lands.

109. No public land shall be withheld from entry as agricultural land on account of its mineral character, except such as is returned to the surveyor-general as mineral; and the presumption arising from such a return may be overcome by testimony taken in the manner hereinafter described.

110. Hearings to determine the character of lands are practically of two kinds, as follows:

1. When lands are returned as mineral by the surveyor-general.

When such lands are sought to be entered as agricultural under laws which require the submission of final proof after due notice by publication and posting, the filing of the proper non-mineral affidavit in the absence of allegations that the land is mineral will be deemed sufficient as a preliminary requirement. A satisfactory showing as to character of land must be made when final proof is submitted.

In case of application to enter, locate, or select such lands as agricultural, under laws in which the submission of final proof after due publication and posting is not required, notice thereof must first be given by publication for thirty days and posting in the local office during the same period, and affirmative proof as to the character of the land submitted. In the absence of allegations that the land is mineral, and upon compliance with this requirement, the entry, location, or selection will be allowed, if otherwise regular.

2. When lands which are sought to be entered as agricultural are alleged by affidavit to be mineral or when sought as mineral their non-mineral character is alleged. The proceedings in this class of cases are in the nature of a contest between two or more known parties and are provided for in the rules of practice.

111. At the hearings under either of the aforesaid classes the claimants and witnesses will be thoroughly examined with regard to the character of the land; whether the same has been thoroughly prospected; whether or not there exists within the tract or tracts claimed any lode or vein of quartz or other rock in place, bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, or copper, or other valuable deposit which has ever been claimed, located, recorded, or worked; whether such work is entirely abandoned, or whether occasionally resumed; if such lode does exist, by whom claimed, under what designation, and in which subdivision of the land it lies; whether any placer mine or mines exist upon the land; if so, what is the character thereof—whether of the shallow-surface description, or of the deep cement, blue lead or gravel deposits; to what extent mining is carried on when water can be obtained, and what the facilities are for obtaining water for mining purposes; upon what particular ten-acre subdivisions mining has been done, and at what time the land was abandoned for mining purposes, if abandoned at all.

112. The testimony should also show the agricultural capacities of the land, what kind of crops are raised thereon, and the value thereof; the number of acres actually cultivated for crops of cereals or vegetables, and within which particular ten-acre subdivision such crops are raised; also which of these subdivisions embrace the improvements, giving in detail the extent and value of the improvements, such as house, barn, vineyard, orchard, fencing, etc., and mining improvements.

113. The testimony should be as full and complete as possible; and in addition to the leading points indicated above, where an attempt is made to prove the mineral character of lands which have been entered under the agricultural laws, it should show at what date, if at all, valuable deposits of mineral were first known to exist on the lands.

114. When the case comes before this office, such decision will be made as the law and the facts may justify; and in cases where a survey is necessary to set apart the mineral from the agricultural land, the necessary instructions will be given to enable the proper party at his own expense, to have the work done, at his option, either by United States deputy, county, or other local surveyor; the survey in such case, where the claims to be segregated are vein or lode claims, must be executed in such manner as will conform to the requirements in section 2320, U. S. Revised Statutes, as to length and width and parallel end lines.

115. Such survey when executed must be properly sworn to by the surveyor, either before a notary public, officer of a court of record, or before the register or receiver, the deponent's character and credibility to be properly certified to by the officer administering the oath.

116. Upon the filing of the plat and field notes of such survey, duly sworn to as aforesaid, you will transmit the same to the surveyor-general for his verification and approval; who, if he finds the work correctly performed, will properly mark out the same upon the original township plat in his office, and furnish authenticated copies of such plat and description both to the proper local land office and to this office, to be affixed to the duplicate and triplicate township plats respectively.

117. With the copy of plat and description furnished the local office and this office, must be a diagram tracing, verified by the surveyor-general, showing the claim or claims segregated, and designating the separate fractional agricultural tracts in each forty-acre legal subdivision by the proper lot number, beginning with No. 1 in each section, and giving the area in each lot, the same as provided in paragraph 45, in the survey of mining claims on surveyed lands.

118. The fact that a certain tract of land is decided upon testimony to be mineral in character is by no means equivalent to an award of the land to a miner. A miner is compelled by law to give sixty days' publication of notice, and posting of diagrams and notices, as a preliminary step; and then, before he can enter the land, he must show that the land yields mineral; that he is entitled to the possessory right thereto in virtue of compliance with local customs or rules of miners, or by virtue of the statute of limitations; that he or his grantors have expended in actual labor and improvements, an amount of not less than five hundred dollars thereon, and that the claim is one in regard to which there is no controversy or opposing claim. After all these proofs are met, he is entitled to have a survey made at his own cost where a survey is required, after which he can enter and pay for the land embraced by his claim.

119. Blank forms for proofs in mineral cases are not furnished by the General Land Office. December 10, 1891.

MINING LAWS.

I. MINING PROPERTY:

Article 1. Mining property in Mexico shall be governed by the following rules, which will be carried out by the central government in accordance with its constitutional authority.

Art. 2. Subject to this law are those mineral substances which cannot be exploited without a previous concession, and those for whose extraction works are required which may endanger the lives of the operatives, the security of the works, and the stability of the soil.

Art. 3. Those mineral substances for whose exploitation a corresponding concession is indispensable in every case are the following, whatever the nature, form or situation of their respective deposits: (a) Gold, platinum, silver, mercury, iron, except marsh ores, loose float ores and ochres, which are exploited as coloring materials; lead; copper; tin, except float tin; zinc, antimony, nickel, cobalt, manganese, bismuth and arsenic, whether found in their native state or as minerals. (b) Precious stones, rock salt and sulphur.

Art. 4. The owner of the soil may exploit freely, without a special concession, the following mineral substances: The combustible minerals, oils and mineral waters; the rocks of the ground which serve either as rough or finished material for construction or ornamentation; the materials of the soil, as earths, sands and clays of all classes; the mineral substances exempted from concession in Article 3 of this law; and, in general, all those not specified in that article. The works of excavation, superficial or subterraneous, which the exploitation of these substances may require, shall always be subject to the regulations which are issued for the government and safety of the mines.

Art. 5. Legally acquired mining property and that which may be acquired in the future under this law shall be irrevocable and perpetual during the payment of the federal property tax, in accordance with the prescriptions of the law which establishes said tax.

Art. 6. The original title of the newly acquired mining property will be that which the Department of Public Works (secretario de fomento) decrees in conformity with the prescriptions of this law.

Art. 7. Mining property, excepting placers and superficial deposits, is understood to refer only to the part underground and not to the surface, which latter shall continue under the dominion of its prime proprietor, except that part of the same which the miner occupies in the cases and under the conditions which are set forth in Article II of this title.

Art. 8. The exploitation of the products of mines shall be completely limited by the respective boundaries and can only be permitted outside of said limits, in accordance with the provisions of the regulation, when the land is not occupied and by petitioning previously for the respective enlargement of the concession. In order to enter upon adjoining property the consent of its owner is absolutely required, except in cases of legal right of way.

Art. 9. The water brought to the surface in virtue of the subterraneous works of mines belongs to the owners of said mines, and the prescription of the common law should be observed in regard to the rights of the owners of the lands through which outlet is given to said water.

Art. 10. The necessary works for the development and profit of mines and placers are a benefit to the public; therefore, in default of agreement, forcible appropriation of the lands necessary to their operation may be made by legal procedure.

Art. 11. The owners of mining concessions can concert freely with the owners of the surface land for the occupation of the space they need, either for the working of placers or superficial deposits, or to establish buildings and other dependencies of the mines; and when they cannot agree, either upon extent or price thereof, legal proceedings for its appropriation shall be taken through the local judge of the first instance, observing the following proceedings during the correction of Article 27 of the constitution: i. Each party shall name an expert appraiser and both experts shall present to the judge their valuations within eight days, counting from the day of their appointment. If the appraisers fail to agree, the judge shall name a third expert as umpire, who shall give his decision within the peremptory period of eight days, counting from the day of his appointment. The judge, taking into account the opinions of the experts and the proofs which the parties present him with while the experts are reaching their decision, shall fix the surface area which must be occupied and the amount of the indemnity, within the next eight days. The decision of the judge shall be final, without more recourse than that of responsibility. ii. If the land owner should not give the name of his appraiser within the period of eight days after being notified by the judge, this functionary shall officially name an appraiser to represent the interests of said owner. iii. If the possession or ownership of the property which is sought to be occupied should be uncertain or doubtful, the judge shall fix as the sum of the indemnity the amount which results in view of the valuation of the expert named by the owner of the mining concession, and that of the expert named by the judge himself to represent the legitimate owner, said amount being deposited with the court, to be delivered to whom it may belong. iv. The experts, in making their valuation, shall use as bases the value of the land, the damages to the property which immediately follow and the legal rights of way to be established over said property.

Art. 12. Mining and common properties which are contiguous shall enjoy or suffer, as it may happen, the legal rights of use as regards right of way, aqueduct, drainage and ventilation, the judges governing themselves in the placing of same and in the corresponding indemnities by the laws of each state and of the federal district and territories, in so far as said laws are not modified by the following rules: i. The legal right of way of drainage consists, on the one side, in the obligation which, according to Article 21 of this law, the owner of one appurtenance is under to indemnify the proprietor of another for the damages and injuries done to him by not maintaining the drainage of subterraneous works or not maintaining drainage sufficient to stop the water flowing from one to the other; and on the other side, in the obligation which all owners of appurtenances are under, to permit the passage through same of tunnels and countermines, whose sole and necessary purpose is the drainage of one or several works. ii. The drainage tunnels, when not made by virtue of the compact authorized by Article 23 of this law, can be undertaken only by the owner or owners of appurtenances for whom the said tunnel is absolutely necessary. iii. In the case foreseen by the previous clause, all the owners of appurtenances benefited by the drainage resulting from the said tunnel shall be liable to pay indemnity in proportion to the benefit received, considering the nature and condition of each mine. iv. No person shall begin to drive a tunnel without a previous license, which the department of public works will give after listening to the opinion of the proper mining agent and examining and approving the plans in which are detailed the direction and section of the projected tunnel. v. The paying ore which may be found in driving a tunnel, if it be encountered in appurtenances legally given, is the property of the owner of said appurtenances; and if found in free land it shall be divided among the owners of all the appurtenances benefited by the tunnel in the proportion established by clause iii. vi. If, through the discovery of one or more veins in land free from concession during the driving of a drainage tunnel, the concession of the respective appurtenances or extensions be applied for, the precepts of Articles 14 to 17 and relative parts of this law shall be applied, considering the beginners of the tunnel as explorers for the effects of the final part of Article 13. vii. When once the license of which clause iv treats has been authorized, only by virtue of express compact can any other persons, besides those who in conformity with said license are benefited by the tunnel, be regarded as members of the undertaking. viii. The owners of appurtenances crossed by a drainage tunnel can, during the driving of the tunnel in his or their respective properties, appoint a confidential inspector whose functions shall be limited to watching the work and giving notice to the agent of the mining district or the presiding judge of any abuse that may be observed. ix. In places where drainage tunnels, for any reason whatever, communicate with mine workings, grates shall be placed to impede transit or passage as soon as the communication is made. x. Only by virtue of an unanimous consent expressed in public writing by those interested in a general drainage tunnel, in conformity with clause iii, can said tunnel be used for any other purposes beyond that of drainage; in which case, under penalty of nullity, all particulars referring to passage or transit indicated in the foregoing clause ix shall be named in the compact. xi. Mines which may be newly opened in places where they can be benefited by a general drainage tunnel already existing shall be subject to the provisions of clauses iii, vii, viii, ix and x. xii. The legal right of use for ventilation consists in the obligation of every owner of appurtenances to permit his interior workings to communicate with those of proprietors of adjacent properties, to whom the communication produces, as a necessary result, the ventilation which cannot be accomplished in any other manner without great expense. xiii. Unless by special agreement to the opposite, made in a public document by the owners of the property giving and receiving the benefit, there shall always be grates located to impede passage or transit at the borders of the respective properties. xiv. When a communication, different from that foreseen in clause xii effectually ventilates one or more works, that service of ventilation shall give no right to the miner who made the communication to exact indemnity from the proprietors of the other ventilated works, nor shall said other proprietors, in their turn, acquire legal right of use which burdens the mining property that furnishes the ventilation. xv. If during the construction of the open work, according to the provisions of clause xii, paying ore is found, the prescriptions of clauses v, vi and viii shall be observed, so far as they apply to the case. xvi. Also in that which applies to the case the prescription of clause iv shall be observed. xvii. All the cost which the work of making an opening to secure ventilation occasions and the cost of the after keeping of such works shall be for the exclusive account of the party who shall have applied for the legal right of use (for ventilation). xviii. For the future establishment of a legal right or use to the benefit of one mining property and to the burden of another, there shall be required either the acquiescence of the owner of the burdened property expressed in public writing, or in a declaration signed and ratified before judicial authority, or before the department of public works; or an administrative resolution agreed to by the interested parties; or a judicial sentence. xix. The owner of appurtenances in whose favor the benefit of legal right of use accrues, who fails to obtain the consent of the party whose property is to be burdened, may apply to the department of public works, which shall decide within the period and with the formalities established by the regulations what it deems right, always giving previous hearing to the dissenting party. If either the latter or the applicant should not agree to the administrative decision, their right to apply to the respective local tribunals within the time fixed by the regulations remains undiminished. The judgment shall be communicated by the court which pronounces it to the department of public works. xx. If the administrative solution is favorable to the applicant and adverse to the defendant, it can only be executed immediately by the applicant first giving bonds satisfactory to the department of public works to indemnify for damages and injuries in case the defendant should obtain execution in the tribunal in his own favor. xxi. The regulations of the three preceding clauses apply to all cases in which those laid down in the other clauses give or could give rise to legal contention.

II. EXPLORATIONS AND CONCESSIONS:

Art. 13. Any inhabitant of the Republic can on government land freely make explorations leading to the discovery of mineral deposits, but if in place of borings, excavations should be made, these cannot exceed ten meters in extent, either in length or in depth. No license is required for said explorations, but previous notice should be given to the respective authorities as the regulations provide. No mining explorations can be made upon private lands without the permission of the owner or his representative; but in case that permission cannot be obtained, the corresponding administrative authority may be petitioned to give it in the manner which the regulations provide, requiring a bond for possible damages and injuries, which the explorer will be obliged to execute to the satisfaction of the authorities after consultation with the owner of the land or his representative. Only by permission of the owner can explorations be made inside of private buildings and their dependencies. Explorations will not be permitted within the boundaries of towns, nor in works, buildings or fortifications of the Republic, nor in their vicinity. The law will fix in all these cases the minimum distances within which said works of investigation can be allowed. During three months, not to be extended, counting from the day of the notice of permission, or of the administrative authority of which this article speaks, the explorer shall have the sole right of obtaining mining appurtenances.

Art. 14. The unit of concession or the appurtenance in the future shall be a solid of unlimited depth, limited above ground by that part of the earth's surface bounded by a horizontal rectangle of one hundred meters on a side, and bounded underground by the four corresponding vertical planes. The mining appurtenance is indivisible in all contracts made concerning mining concessions or which affect the ownership.

Art. 15. Saving the disposition in the final clause of Article 13 of this law, the concessions shall belong and shall always be given to the first applicant, and shall include in all cases in which there is sufficient land free from concessions, the number of appurtenances which the interested party may ask for, which number he should always clearly specify, and, in accordance with the provisions of the regulations, the situation which the appurtenances forming his concession are to occupy in the land. If between the appurtenances granted and others already existing there remains a space smaller than that of a unit of concession, this space also shall be granted to the first applicant.

III. ACQUISITION OF CONCESSIONS:

Art. 16. The Departments of State and of Public Works shall name in the states, territories and federal districts its special agents for each, before whom petitions shall be presented for mining concessions. These agents shall be authorized to charge fees according to the tariff which the said department fixes.

Art. 17. The agents of the Department of Public Works shall receive the applications for mining concessions, entering at once in a register the day and hour of the presentation. They shall then proceed to the publication of the application, and to the measurement of the appurtenances by the expert or practical man whom they appoint; and, providing there be no opposition, shall send a copy of the proceedings and of the plan to the department of public works for the proper approval and issuance of the title. The regulations will fix the periods within which these proceedings shall be fulfilled and will detail the mode of procedure of the agent.

Art. 18. After obtaining the approval of the proceedings and the title of the property issued in his favor, the applicant shall enter into possession of the mining appurtenances without further formality.

Art. 19. The agents of the Department of Public Works cannot suspend the course of the proceedings, except in case of opposition; and as soon as the term fixed by the regulations terminates, they shall be obliged to transmit at once a copy of the proceedings in the state in which it may be found to the department of public works, in order that the latter, after examination, may declare the tardy applicant rejected, if the fault be his, or the exact responsibility of the agent if, because of him, the proceedings have been delayed. The tardy applicant cannot re-petition for the same concession.

Art. 20. When opposition is presented by the owner of the soil to the applicant for any mining concession or to the taking of the measurements, alleging that the mineral deposit does not exist, then if there should be found any indication of such deposit in the surface of the earth or any cut or work of exploration in the said deposit, the agent of public works shall openly reject the opposition. In case that no indications of the deposit exist in the surface of the earth, nor in any cut or other work of exploration within the limits, a proceeding similar to that of Article 11 of this law shall be followed. The respective judge shall decide if the concession shall be given or not, and his decision is subject to appeal in either case. The writ of execution shall be communicated to the department of public works.

Art. 21. The agents of the Department of Public Works shall suspend proceedings in case of opposition being presented, and send the matter to the respective local judge of the first instance for the rendition of the proper judgment. The judicial authority will give a report of his decision to the department of public works.

IV. GENERAL DISPOSITIONS:

Art. 22. The exploitation of mineral substances, whether belonging to those who have acquired right of property in the same by concession according to this law, or belonging to the owner of the soil, shall be subject to all the measures which the regulations framed under this law shall prescribe concerning the government and safety of said developments; but complying with these rules, the owners shall enjoy complete liberty of industrial action in order to work in the manner which suits them best, pushing, retarding or suspending for a greater or lesser time their labors, employing in them the numbers of operatives which they wish and at the point which appears to them most fitting; and following, indeed, those systems which they prefer, of use, extraction, drainage and ventilation, according as they judge it most conducive to their interests. Yet the owners remain responsible for accidents which occur in the mines because of being badly worked; and are obliged to indemnify these damages and injuries which they occasion by lack of drainage or by any other circumstance to the owners of adjoining properties.

Art. 23. When necessary to hasten the works of the mines of a locality, to push to completion drainage tunnels, the execution of these works shall be subject to contract between the interested parties.

Art. 24. Partnerships or companies formed for the development of mines shall be governed by the provisions of the commercial code, excepting those relative to associations which are not admissible in mining matters.

Art. 25. The contracts for furnishing sustenance to the miner shall in the future have the character either of partnership, when the provisions of the foregoing article shall be observed, or of mortgage. The mortgage in mining matters may be made freely according to the provisions of the civil code of the federal district, but holding in account the indivisibility of the appurtenance, established in Article 14 of this law, and observing the provision in the commercial code with regard to registry, for which purpose a special book of mining operations shall be opened. The mortgagee shall always have the right to pay the tax of which Article 5 of this law treats, and shall acquire by said payment a right of preference over the owner of the mine, with precedence of his mortgage.

Art. 26. The mortgage can be divided into mortgage notes payable to a specified person or to bearer, in the title constituting the debt or by a later document. In every case it shall contain the provisions governing the common representation of the holders of bonds. These provisions, as well as those relative to the amount of the debt, to the conditions of the same and to the guarantee, shall be plainly printed on each one of the notes. The holders of mortgage notes can only bring their actions against the debtor or the mortgaged property by means of a common representative, whose acts in that which refers to their rights shall be obligatory upon all the holders.

Art. 27. The decisions in mining matters shall be rendered in the federal district and territories, or in each state by the judges and courts which are competent there, in accordance with the provisions of the commercial code, observing that prescribed in Chapter 9, Title 1, Book 4, of said mercantile code, upon which basis the first cost of administration indicated in paragraph 2 of Article 1030 of the same code is the tax payment.

Art. 28. The new tax which all mining concessions shall return, with the exception of those which are expressly exempt by contract, shall be a federal property tax and the respective corresponding law will establish it. In regard to other mining taxes, the prescriptions of the law of the 6th of June, 1887, shall be observed.

Art. 29. Default in payment of the property tax according to the prescription of the law which ordains it shall constitute, from the day of taking effect of the present law, the only cause for the forfeiture of mining properties, which shall in such case continue free from all burden and shall be granted to the first applicant in accordance with the provisions of this law and its rules.

Art. 30. The industry of mining shall belong to the Department of State and of Public Works, Colonization and Industry, which shall therefore have power, in conformity with the prescriptions of the law, to dictate all the measures it shall judge proper to promote the prosperity of the mining industry, and watch the enforcement of said law; to name the inspecting engineers of mines, make studies, conduct investigations and discharge in general the trusts which the department recommends, in accordance with that which the regulations detail.

Art. 31. The executive shall designate, in the terms of Article 21 of the federal constitution, the legal penalties which those incur who infringe the provisions of those regulations issued for the application of this law. Over those official transgressions for which the agents of the Department of Public Works may be responsible, the corresponding judges of the district shall have jurisdiction in conformity with the respective laws. The ordinary transgressions committed in the mines are subject to the corresponding territorial judges without prejudice to the legal penalties which in every case the federal authority may impose.

Art. 32. The establishment and working of mills and every class of metallurgical offices shall be governed by the prescription of the common law, and, in the matter of taxes, by those of the law of the 6th of June, 1887.

Art. 33. That part of those tunnels situated outside of concessionary appurtenances shall remain exempt from tax when they are destined entirely for ventilation, drainage or the extraction of ores which do not originate in or come from said tunnels.

V. MINING TAX: [By law of June 6, 1892.]

Article 34. In accordance with the provisions of the new mining law, there shall be established a federal property tax, consisting of two parts; one, which has to be paid once only, in stamps to be affixed to all titles of mining property, and the other, which has to be paid annually, for each one of the appurtenances of which a concession is composed. As regards the tax, the appurtenance shall be the one established by Article 14 of the new mining law. Consequently all old and new appurtenances existing in the Republic, whatever be their extent, shall be valued according to this unit. For the fractions of appurtenances that amount to one-half or more, the tax shall be paid as if they were whole appurtenances, and nothing shall be paid for the fraction that is less than one-half.

Art. 35. Every owner or actual proprietor of mines, whatever title he may have, shall be obliged to show his documents at the treasury office which the regulations of this law may determine, within the time, not to be extended, counting from the taking effect of this law to the 21st of October of the present year, so that new stamps of ownership of the mines may be affixed to the title, and account taken, for the payment of the annual contribution, of the number of appurtenances which form the property, a corresponding register being opened for this purpose. The titles, which in future the Department of Public Works will extend in accordance with the new mining law, must bear the stamps corresponding to the same. These stamps shall be furnished by the party receiving the concession, in proportion to the appurtenances which the concession contains.

Art. 36. The property stamps of the mine shall be of the value of ten dollars and be affixed to the titles of the property, one for each appurtenance of ten thousand square meters; the rule established in Article 34 to be followed regarding the fractions. These stamps must be cancelled by the Department of Public Works.

Art. 37. From the first day of July of the present year all owners or proprietors of mines shall pay the sum of ten dollars annually for each one of the appurtenances of which their concessions consist. The amount of the tax shall be the same, whatever the nature of the substance which is being worked, provided that the mine has been acquired through denouncement or special concession before the day on which the new mining law takes effect, and that in future it shall be acquired by concession and title in accordance with the new law. Only those mines shall be exempt from payment of the annual tax on appurtenances and for title stamps of the property which have been expressly freed from the same by contracts made with the executive government in virtue of the authority given and approved by the legislature. This exemption shall only last for the time mentioned in the contract, and no extension of the time will be granted.

Art. 38. The annual property tax on mines shall be paid in three advance payments during each fiscal year, this payment to be made during the first month of each third part of a year, in that treasury office which the regulations of this law shall determine, and to which the taxpayers are obliged to go in order to make their payments, without further need of notification or any other requisite on which they might found delay or excuse.

Art. 39. Failure of presentation of the title which secures the possession of the mine in the time fixed in Article 35 shall be punished by a fine equal to the stamps which the title has to bear, if the same be presented within two months following the expiration of the time allowed. For every two months that the presentation is delayed the holder shall incur a fine equal to the stamps. The concealment of the number of appurtenances shall be punished with a fine equal to double the amount of the stamps which the title ought to have borne for the concealed appurtenances, to which shall be added double the amount of the annual tax for the whole of the time it has not been paid. This shall not interfere with the civil or criminal responsibility to which the concealer is liable and to which he may be subjected. Failure to pay the annual property tax within the first month of each one-third part of the year shall cause the owner to incur a fine amounting to fifty per cent of the tax, in case he pay during the second month. If the payment be made in the third month, the fine shall be equal to the tax. When once this last-named time has expired without the tax and accumulated fines being paid, the mining property shall be lost to the owner without recourse of any kind. The Department of the Treasury shall make the corresponding declaration and publish it in the Diario Oficial, so that any other party may petition for the property.

Art. 40. When the owner of the mine sells it he shall give the requisite notice for noting in the register, and the bill of sale given shall bear the stamps which according to the stamp tax it should have.

Art. 41. When it no longer suits a person or company to continue working the mine or mines which he or it may own, the proper officer of the Treasury shall be advised in writing, so that the tax may be settled up to the date of the notification and the corresponding note made in the register.

ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS.

I. AGENTS:

Article 1. The special agents, subordinates of the Department of Public Works, whom that department appoints in conformity with the provisions of Article 16 of the law, in those mining districts which in its judgment require the same, shall receive and transmit the applications for mining concessions and extensions which are presented to them, and shall exercise the other functions delegated by the law. In case of doubt concerning the application of the law or its regulations, the agents shall consult the Department of Public Works.

Art. 2. At the time of making the appointment, the limits of jurisdiction of each agent shall be fixed, and together with any after modification of the same, shall be published in the Diario Oficial, the official organ of the government.

Art. 3. In order to become an agent of the Department of Public Works in the branch of mining, it is required that the appointee be a Mexican citizen in the exercise of his rights, and not occupying any other office of authority of the state, territory or federal district.

Art. 4. For each agent of public works named at a mining district, such deputies shall be named as the amount of business in the district requires. Said deputies should have the same qualifications as the agents, and they have to serve instead of the agents in all temporary or permanent absences of agents, as well as on occasions of legal impediment in certain business, when called upon by the agents.

Art. 5. Legal impediments, for agents, will be the same as those which Sections I to IX, and XII, of Article 1132, of the commercial code, establish for judges.

Art. 6. In the case of death or serious illness, hindering the appointed agent from calling upon the deputy, the latter shall enter upon the exercise of his functions, at once giving notice to the Department of Public Works by mail, or by telegraph, if there be one.

Art. 7. The agents of public works must give notice to the public of the place where they will attend to mining matters and the hours which they will devote to that business, which business cannot be interrupted except on Sundays and national holidays.

Art. 8. The agents shall receive no fees, except those which the authorized schedule fixes; except in cases not provided for in said schedule, when the agents shall consult the Department of Public Works concerning the amount of fees to be charged.

Art. 9. The agent shall forward to the Department of Public Works, within the first ten days of each month, a detailed report of the applications for mining concessions which he has taken during the preceding month.

II. EXPLORATIONS:

Art. 10. Every inhabitant of the Republic can make mining explorations in public lands, but shall give in conformity with the law to the agent of public works the necessary notice in duplicate specifying the limits of the territory to be explored. The agent shall return to the explorer the duplicate of the notice, after noting upon it the day and hour of its presentation, reminding him, that, in case he makes excavations, he should subject himself strictly to the provisions of Article 13 of the law and Article 14 of this regulation.

Art. 11. If the exploration is to be made on private lands, the explorer shall ask the permission of the owner or representative, who, in case he grants the permission, shall give the explorer a written instrument, stating the limits of the land within which the exploration must be confined. Said instrument shall be presented by the explorer to the agent of public works in order that he may make due record thereof.

Art. 12. In case of not obtaining the permission of the owner or representative, the explorer should apply to the agent of public works for the same, naming in his application the bondsman whom he proposes. The agent shall give notice of said application to the owner of the land, with notice that if he make no contest within fifteen days he will be held to have consented. At the end of said fifteen days the agent shall deliver his decision, fixing the amount of security required of the explorer to cover any damages and injuries which may occur, allowing the term of thirty days for the presentation of the same. The security having been furnished, the agent shall give to the explorer a written acknowledgment, on which shall be expressed the limits of the territory to be explored.

Art. 13. The agent of public works, during a period of three months, not to be extended, from the date of the notification referred to in Article 10 of this regulation, or of the permission provided by Article 11 or of the administrative decision prescribed in Article 12, shall not admit upon the place of exploration, nor within the limits of the same, applications for concessions other than those which the said explorer presents.

Art. 14. The explorers shall not make explorations near the limits of towns, except at the distance of fifty meters from the exterior lines of their buildings, private and public, and of their dependencies. The same distance shall be observed with respect to other public works or constructions, but may be reduced to thirty meters from the exterior lines of the common roads, railroads and canals. With respect to fortified points, the minimum distance at which mining explorations can be made shall be one kilometer from the outer lines of the works.

III. CONCESSIONS:

Art. 15. The application for a concession of mining appurtenances or of extensions must be presented in duplicate to the agent of public works. They shall express clearly the number of appurtenances which are solicited, their situation on the land in its municipality, with the most prominent signs for their identification, and the designation of the mineral substance which it is proposed to exploit. If in the judgment of the agent there is not sufficient clearness in said description, he shall endeavor to obtain it, interrogating the applicant and including his explanations in the application, in his duplicate, and in the record book of the agency, in the presence of the interested party. The inability of the latter to give explanations, or his refusal to do so, shall not be considered a sufficient reason for not making the registry, nor for suspending the other proceedings.

Art. 16. The agent cannot accept another application for the same site until the department of public works delivers the final decision in each proceeding for concession of mining appurtenances or extensions.

Art. 17. After an application for a mining concession is made to the agent of public works he shall proceed at once to register it in the presence of the applicant. The applications should be registered in the exact order of dates and hours in which they shall have been represented, without leaving blank spaces in the book between the different entries.

Art. 18. In the simultaneous presentation of two or more applications for concession of mining appurtenances or of extensions upon the same, priority of such shall be decided by chance, in the presence of the interested parties.

Art. 19. Within three days following the presentation and registry of an application for a mining concession, the agent shall appoint a titled expert, or a practical surveyor to measure the appurtenances and extensions applied for, and draw a corresponding plan, indicating clearly in the same the corners of the appurtenances or extensions expressed, and also those of the contiguous appurtenances which are encountered in a surrounding tract within a radius of one hundred meters. The agent may appoint the expert whom the applicant indicates to him, always providing the said expert complies with the requisite conditions.

Art. 20. Within eight days following the appointment of which the preceding article treats, the expert should communicate to the agent whether he accepts the office or not, and if so, what is arranged with the applicant regarding the payment of fees. The agent will enter the due acknowledgment in the proceedings. The agent can only extend the aforesaid period of eight days to another eight, and on one occasion only, at the request of the applicant.

Art. 21. At the time of entering the acknowledgment of which the preceding article treats, the agent shall fix for the expert the period of sixty days, not to be prolonged, for him to present in triplicate the plan of which Article 19 speaks, accompanied by explanatory information, and shall proceed to draw up in duplicate an abstract containing the following: i. A copy of the application, with a clear and concise specification of the name and residence of the applicant and of the serial number of the proceeding. ii. The name, residence and acceptance of the expert appointed. iii. A notice that a period of four months, not to be extended, counting from the date of the abstract, is open for the confirmation of the proceeding in the agency. One copy of the abstract shall be posted on the bulletin-board, which shall be placed on the exterior of each of the agencies, requiring of the applicant the cost of the necessary stamps for the publication. The abstract shall remain fixed for one month upon the bulletin-board, of which due entry shall be made in the proceeding. The other copy of the abstract shall be delivered to the applicant, in order that he may at his own cost and risk and within the forty days following the date of the abstract, cause the same to be published three consecutive times in the official periodical of the respective state, territory or federal district. The applicant is required to deliver at the agency, in order that the same may be attached to the proceeding, the respective issues of the periodicals in which the publications have been made.

Art. 22. The publication of the abstract, as given in the preceding article, serves the same purpose as a summons to all those who may believe they have the right to object to the application for a mining concession.

Art. 23. The agent, upon entering the acknowledgment of which Article 20 treats, shall give the expert a certified copy of his appointment, which shall conclude with the warning, that whosoever resists in the execution of the field-work which the expert has to do shall be held accountable under the penalties established in Article 904 of the penal code of the federal district, or in the corresponding provisions of the laws of the states.

Art. 24. If the experts, in the execution of the work of which the preceding article speaks, encounter resistance, they should request the aid of the local authority.

Art. 25. The experts must heed such observations as the applicant may make to them, and those also which have been or may be made in opposition to the application for a concession, but they shall not express judgment upon the observations, except in the written information of which Article 21 treats, the presentation of which, within the period there fixed, is on the personal responsibility of said experts, to whom shall be charged all the damages and injuries which may originate in default of presentation of that document or of the plan.

Art. 26. During the four months fixed in Section iii, of Article 21, any opposition shall be admissible which may be presented for either of the following reasons: i. Dissent of the owner of the soil. ii. Invasion of appurtenances or extensions adjoining. iii. Ownership of or prior application for the appurtenances or extensions solicited, or for a part of them.

Art. 27. The agent, after receiving protest against any application, will give notice of the same to the applicant by publication, during three consecutive days, on the bulletin-board, of the names of the opponent and applicant, and of the serial number of the proceeding, in which due entry shall be made that such publication has been made.

Art. 28. Unless the applicant repair to the agency and declare that he withdraws the application, the agent will order the filing of the opponent's protest until the receipt of the report and plan of the expert.

Art. 29. On the day of receiving these documents the agent shall summon the interested parties to a meeting, within fifteen days following, by a notice posted for three consecutive days on the bulletin-board, which shall plainly express the number of the proceeding, the names of the interested parties and the day and hour of the meeting. At that meeting the agent shall try to reconcile the differences and avoid legal complications. Of all these particulars due entry shall be made in the proceeding.

Art. 30. If the opponent is the owner of the soil, and in the expert's information it should appear that there are indications of a mineral deposit in the surface, or any work of exploration in the said deposit, the agent shall continue the proceeding until its termination, in order that the Department of Public Works may issue to the applicant the respective title, providing that the said title, in conformity with Articles 7 and 11, Title I, of the law, either is understood solely with respect to the subsoil, or finally leaves subject to judicial decision the extent and the price of the surface which the miner is to occupy. The agent, at the end of the respective proceedings which arise in these cases, shall advise the interested parties that they have perfect liberty to appeal to the tribunals in conformity with Article 20, Title III, of the law.

Art. 31. In any of the cases of opposition enumerated in Article 26, the agent, if he should not obtain the reconciliation provided for by Article 29, shall suspend all proceedings and shall deliver the proceeding to the applicant, so that, upon his own responsibility and within the time which the agency fixes, he may present it to the corresponding local judge of the first instance.

Art. 32. If any opposition be presented founded upon a cause different from those enumerated in Article 26, the agency shall be limited to include the matter in the proceeding without suspending the continuation of the same.

Art. 33. If the opposition should be presented after the receipt of the plan and the information of the expert, but before the expiration of the four months fixed in Section iii of Article 21, the proceedings provided for in Articles 29 and 32 shall be continued in the conduct of the case, this being the only case (besides that of remission to the tribunals) in which the agencies can delay the termination of the proceedings for thirty-five days beyond the four months, providing the opposition be presented less than twenty days before that on which the said four months would expire.

Art. 34. The four months of which Article 26 speaks, having passed without opposition, or in the event referred to in Articles 30 and 32, or the proceeding having devolved upon the tribunals, with execution in favor of the applicant, the agencies under their strictest responsibility and within the fifteen days following shall take out a copy of the proceeding and remit it, with copies of the plan, under registered cover, to the Department of Public Works, unless the applicant wishes to be intrusted with the delivery of these documents, in which case the agency shall advise the department.

Art. 35. The applicant shall take care to furnish the agent the stamps which the title requires, in order that he may remit them to the Department of Public Works, in the registered letter in which he sends the copies of the proceeding and the plan, which shall be returned to the interested party, through the agent, in the event that the department, not approving the proceeding, does not grant the title. If the applicant should prefer, he may designate a person to present to the Department of Public Works the stamps referred to.

Art. 36. Any omission in the presentation of petitions, the furnishment of stamps, publication, payment of fees, or attendance at meetings, and in general in all of the proceedings which this chapter designates, as they may be imputable to the applicants or to the opponents, shall signify for the former, that they have withdrawn their application for a concession; and for the latter that they have withdrawn their opposition, and acknowledged the application valid.

Art. 37. The proceedings having been examined in the Department of Public Works and approved by that department, said department shall proceed to issue the title and send it to the agent of public works, so that he may deliver it to the interested party, with a copy of the plan, stamped by the said department. The department shall give to the Treasury Department a detailed report of the concession granted. If the proceeding should not be approved, the corresponding observations thereon shall be given to the agent, to the end that the faults observed may be rectified within the time that the department may signify, provided these faults cannot be imputed to the applicant or the agent, for in that case the proceeding must be in conformity to the provisions of Article 19, Title III, of the law.

IV. GENERAL DISPOSITIONS:

Article 38. The duties which the expert appointed in conformity with Article 19 has to perform shall be executed so that, by the necessary scientific proceedings, the horizontal length of the sides of the appurtenances and the angles which the same form with the true meridian may be obtained. For this purpose the expert shall determine the magnetic deviation of the compass, in case this instrument is used to measure the directions of the sides. The boundary lines and corners shall be marked by fixed monuments, and the necessary data obtained to make verifications of the work. The expert shall designate upon the ground where the respective land marks should be constructed in accordance with the prescriptions of Article 41.

Art. 39. For their preservation the plans of the appurtenances shall be drawn correctly, with neatness and upon strong paper. Copies may be taken therefrom on tracing cloth. The scales shall always be decimal and proportioned to the object of the plans, containing also the lengths of the sides in meters, their direction with relation to the true meridian, the dip of the compass used, with the date upon which it was determined, and the area of the surface in hectares.

Art. 40. The survey and measurement of appurtenances in land do not imply the right to its occupation, and only serve to mark out the limits of the mining concession; and the applicant should understand that he must treat with the owner of the land to acquire by purchase, within convenient time, that part of the surface which he needs for his mining operations; or the total area of the same surveyed for the appurtenances, in the case of placers or superficial deposits; or otherwise procure the same by appropriation, procuring the corresponding judgment of the tribunal, according to the prescriptions of Article 2, Title I, of the law.

Art. 41. The land marks must fill the following requirements: i. They must be permanent, for, being destined to designate points not to be changed, as long as the limits of the appurtenances or concessions which they mark are not modified, they shall be built solidly and shall always be preserved in good condition, making such repairs as shall be necessary. ii. They shall be located so that in every case each can be seen from each, and in form, color or some other character be distinguishable from those of adjacent erections.

Art. 42. The owners of mining concessions cannot go out of the boundaries of the same (according to the provisions of Article 5, Title I, of the law), except when there is free land and previous application for extension before the agent of public works, who shall conduct the proceedings on the same terms and with the same requisites as for mining concessions. The same proceedings shall be pursued in the furtherance of applications for rectification of appurtenances.

Art. 43. The mineral substances enumerated in Article 3, Title I, of the law cannot be worked without a concession, and, therefore, no labor will be permitted in mines and placers of said substances, which are not found protected by a legal title, duly registered. Consequently no labor will be permitted, either open to the air or subterraneous, which has for its object the future exploitation of any of the substances mentioned.

Art. 44. Every application for a concession to exploit any substances not specified in Article 3 aforesaid, and which according to Article 4 of the same title number, are for the free exploitation of the owner of the soil, shall be rejected.

Art. 45. In order to obtain the legal right referred to in Section iv of Article 12, of the law, the application for the license shall be presented to the local agent of public works, accompanied by as much of the horizontal projection and profile of the tunnel, both in one decimal scale, and also as much of the cuts and details as are believed necessary to illustrate the nature and circumstances of the projected work. The agent shall remit to the Department of Public Works, together with the application and corresponding plans, a report upon the matter, also giving his opinion. The proper minister, in view of the said documents and of other data which he may require, shall render his decision.

Art. 46. The owner who would be benefited by a legal right of use, not obtaining the consent of the owner whose property would be burdened, should apply to the Department of Public Works, in conformity with the provisions of Section xix of Article 12, of the law, accompanying the application with all necessary data. The department, in view of the report of the agent of public works, and previous hearing granted to the dissenting party, or representative, shall render his decision within the time which he shall designate, according to the circumstances of the case.

Art. 47. If the solicitor or he who ought to grant the right referred to in Section xix of Article 12, of the law, does not agree with the decision of the Department of Public Works, he may appeal to the respective judge, provided he does so within two months from the date of the administrative decision.

Art. 48. In those parts of the Republic not included in the jurisdiction of an agent of public works in the branch of mining, the applications for mining concessions, as also the notices and instruments granting permission of exploration, shall be presented to the postmaster, who shall note upon the application, or the notice, or the instrument of permission of exploration, the day and hour of the presentation, and shall give immediate notice to the Department of Public Works by mail, and by telegraph, if there be one.

Art. 49. The postmaster can only receive and note applications for concession, and the notices and instruments granting permission of exploration, to which the preceding article refers, when the place of his residence is outside of the jurisdiction of any agent of the Department of Public Works in the branch of mining.

Art. 50. The said department shall publish every six months in the Diario Oficial, the federal official paper, notice of the titles of mining property issued during the said period.

Art. 51. The special book mentioned in Article 25 shall be kept by persons prescribed in Article 18 of the commercial code, in the manner prescribed by that code in Chapter II, Title 2, Book 1.

Art. 52. It is the right of individuals to register titles of future concession, or existing ownership, in the commercial record, as permitted by Article 26 of the mercantile code, wherever the proper registry book is not kept.

Art. 53. Registration is obligatory upon mining corporations and upon creditors of mines, in conformity with Article 25 of the law and Article 39 of the transitory laws given in Title V.

Art. 54. Mining corporations are obliged to register in the capital of the province or judicial district, both the location of the mining concession and the office or offices which the company has in the Republic.

Art. 55. If, through the extension of mining concessions, or any other cause, there should be any doubt about the place in which the registry should be made according to the preceding article, the Department of Public Works will determine, communicating its decision to the Minister of the Treasury.

V. FEES:

Article 55. (The fees herein noted are payable to the agent of the Mines Division of the Department of Public Works.)

i. For the notes in the notice or in the permission of exploration, to which Articles 10 and 11 of the administrative regulations, and the corresponding entry	$ 1.00
ii. For proceedings and issuance of permission of exploration mentioned in Article 12	2.00
iii. For registering each application for a mining concession, or extension or rectification of same, and making record	1.00
iv. For advices, memorials and abstracts of proceedings, each ten lines or fraction thereof	.20
In addition, for each title page which covers the proceedings and other documents to be abstracted	.10
v. For the transcription, marking and authorization of the evidence and certificates, and other copies, each 100 lines or fraction thereof	1.00
vi. For search proceedings or any other documents from the record	1.00
When the interested party does not furnish sufficient data, and he has to register corresponding documents for more than one year, for each year which is registered	1.00
vii. For each kilometer each way traversed, in the transaction of any business	.25
viii. For any interior view or exterior examination, and rendering the corresponding information	5.00
ix. For inspections, visits or examinations in works below the surface, for each one hundred meters of depth or fraction thereof	5.00
For the corresponding information	5.00
x. For attendance at meetings not exceeding one hour	3.00
For each hour additional or fraction thereof	1.00

VI. ANNUAL TAX:

Article 56. The annual tax mentioned in Article 37 ("VII. Mining Tax") of the law will be collected by the stamp offices in accordance with the laws of March 31, 1887, and December 9, 1891, and such others bearing thereon now in force, and is payable in interior rent stamps, the face thereof to bear an imprint, diagonally placed thereon, reading "Mining Tax."

Art. 57. The stamp officers will receive, as sole fee, two per cent of the gross amount received from the sale of stamps for the payment of the annual mining tax.

Art. 58. The stamp officers will keep a mine register situated in their respective districts, by aid of the data which the Treasury Department will furnish for that purpose.

Art. 59. The owners or holders of the mines will make their payments in the principal or sub-tax office corresponding to that district in which such mines are located. The Treasury Department, however, may modify this rule in instances where it may be deemed equitable and convenient to do so, advising the general office, that the latter may transmit information thereof to the proper tax office of the district within which the mine is located.

Art. 60. The principal stamp officers will require the sub-offices or agencies to forward them in time the stubs of the stamps sold for each mine, affixed to pages on which they will state for which mines, respectively, the stamps have been sold, and whether the sale corresponds to the extension of the property detailed on the titles and indicated on the duplicate thereof returned in accordance with the provision of the law relating to extensions. On receipt of these pages or sheets by the principal stamp officers they will communicate the fact to the Treasury Department, to which they will also send, at the end of each fiscal year, all such stamped pages or sheets received, corresponding to each mining enterprise.

Art. 61. Each one of the three advance payments referred to in Article 38 ("VI. Annual Tax") of the law must be made previous to July 31st, November 30th and March 31st of each year. For this purpose the respective principal or sub-stamp office will deliver to interested parties a printed ticket or placard containing: i. The title or heading, "Mining Tax." ii. The name of the state and municipality of the office issuing the ticket or placard. iii. The name of the mine, number of appurtenances for which the tax is paid; municipality in which the same is located; name of owner or company which may be in possession thereof, and the registry number of titles. iv. The amount payable for each third part of the year. v. Three blank columns intended to receive the stamps corresponding to each third part of the year, which stamps are to be duly canceled. The interested parties must place the ticket or placard referred to in this article in a visible part of the office of the management or owner of the mining properties, with the stamps accrediting the payment affixed thereto.

Art. 62. Upon any tax payment becoming due, as provided for in the previous article, and upon the stamp office being notified that such payment has not been made, it will communicate the fact to the agent of public works, in order that the latter may, during one month, fix a notice thereof on the bulletin-board mentioned in Article 21 of the administrative regulations, which notice, as regards the creditors of the mines, will operate as a summons to avail themselves of the privileges indicated in Article 25 ("IV. General Dispositions") of the mining laws. The payment of the tax by these creditors cannot be effected until the notice referred to has been placed upon the bulletin-board of the agency of public works.

Art. 63. If within the district of any principal stamp office there should happen to be no agency of public works to which the notice mentioned in the preceding article can be given, the said principal stamp office will notify the creditors of the mines through the respective District Court, ascertaining previously in the proper commercial registry office the names of such creditors.

Art. 64. Upon the expiration of the terms mentioned in the final part of Article 39 ("VII. Mining Tax") of the law, and the tax still remaining unpaid, the principal stamp offices will immediately advise the Treasury Department so that the latter may at once declare the loss of the property, and the Department of Public Works dispose of the mine. This ruling shall be published in the Diario Oficial.

Art. 65. The notice prescribed in Article 40 ("VII. Mining Tax") of the law will be made in writing, by the party interested, to the principal stamp office through the proper local sub-office or agency. The main stamp office will advise the Treasury Department thereof for entry in the register.

Art. 66. The notifications referred to in Article 41 ("VII. Mining Tax") of the law will be made as prescribed in the last preceding article. The principal stamp office will transmit them to the Treasury Department, that the latter may make entry thereof in the register and order their publication in the Diario Oficial, and effect the necessary liquidation, which it will communicate to the proper main stamp office, that the latter may return, in such instances, the amount due the petitioner.

Art. 67. The grantees of zones referred to in Articles 14 and 16 ("II. Explorations, etc.," and "III. Acquisition of Concessions") of the mining law are required, within the first ten days of the fiscal year, to communicate with the Treasury Department, that the latter, while in the possession of the papers mentioned in said articles, may issue the voucher exempting them from payment of the annual mining tax during the current fiscal year.

VII. SPECIAL PROVISION:

With the object of obviating any difficulties that might arise in different localities of the national territory in complying with the provisions of Articles 35 and 38 of the mining tax law ("VII. Mining Tax"), owing to the distance at which mining properties may be situated from their respective federal tax offices and to the difficult means of communication, the President of the United States of Mexico has seen fit to determine that in such cases the nearest agent of public works—subject to the fees which for the performance of this duty will be designated by the proper ministry and will be payable by the parties interested—is authorized to receive the manifestations prescribed for in the above referred to Article 35, and a copy of the original and last transfer title papers, which he will duly compare and legalize; the latter, together with the manifestation, constituting the proceedings in the matter, which shall be forwarded, accompanied by the report which he must render bearing on the accuracy and limits of the dependencies, to the proper agent of the Treasury, in order that the latter, after making the necessary entries, may, without further procedure, carry out the provisions of Article 37 of the said law. The agents of public works will be careful to affix and cancel the stamps, which the law prescribes, on the original titles, retaining the latter in their possession until a final decision is made, when they shall be returned to their owners with the respective number and day of entry on the register of federal mining taxes noted thereon, and duly transmitted by the proper agent of the Treasury.

VIII. FOREIGNERS:

Foreigners acquiring mining property are still subject to the laws of 1856 regarding foreigners. The new law permits any number of concessions to be taken out by one person or company.

COMMERCIAL, CORPORATION AND MINING LAWS

— OF THE —

STATES, TERRITORIES AND PROVINCES

— OF THE —

UNITED STATES AND CANADA, 1896

ARRANGED AND INDEXED IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER.

[NOTE—Mining in Alaska (the laws of which are, by the difficulty of obtaining a reliable digest of them in time for publication, omitted) is governed by the Revised Statutes of the United States (Mining Laws of the United States, Amendatory and Additional Acts, Sec. 8, "IX. Mineral Laws in Alaska," q. v.), subject of course to local regulations, as expressed in Sec. 2324, VI. District Regulations, Mining Laws United States (q. v.) The commercial practice of Alaska corresponds very closely to that of Oregon.

[In the case of Prince Edward Island (Canada), both commercial and mining law correspond in substance and effect to that of other provinces of the Dominion.

[Wherever mining laws are omitted under any state title, it is because there are no special regulations governing mining operations therein; and in such case, the Mining Laws of the United States apply unreservedly.

[All quarries, stone and mineral deposits other than metals, are located, developed, acquired and worked as placer mines, save where the laws of the state in which they are situated makes other provision.]

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

An alien, resident or non-resident, may take and hold property, real and personal, in this State, either by purchase, descent or devise, and may dispose of and transmit the same by sale, descent or devise, as a native citizen.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Every general assignment made by a debtor, by which a preference or priority of payment is given to one or more creditors, shall enure to the benefit of all the creditors equally. Embraces mortgages, save those given to secure a debt made contemporaneously with the execution of the mortgage and for the security of which the mortgage was given. (Code, Sec. 1737.) A sale by the debtor of substantially all of his property in the payment of antecedent debts is a general assignment. All assignments by a debtor made with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors are void.

III. ATTACHMENT:

Attachment process will issue for the collection of a debt, whether due or not; to recover damages for breach of contract, or where the action is for damages alone, upon affidavit by the creditor or his agent of the amount due, and that the debtor absconds, or resides out of the State, or secretes himself so that process can not be served upon him, or is about to remove out of the State, or has or is about to fraudulently dispose of his property, or fraudulently withholds money, chattels or effects which are liable to the satisfaction of his debts. Plaintiff must give bond in double the amount claimed. Garnishment process will issue in aid of attachment in all such cases. Garnishment may be dissolved by giving bond. (Acts 1891, p. 590.)

Non-residents may sue out an attachment against a non-resident for an existing debt or ascertained liability; but the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, in addition to the oath necessary in other cases, must swear that according to the best of his knowledge, information and belief the defendant has not sufficient property within the state of his residence to satisfy the debt; and must also give bonds as in other cases, with resident surety, and security for costs. Corporations, foreign or domestic, are entitled to process of attachment for recovery of debts or ascertained demands due them, the president or cashier of the corporation, or an agent or attorney thereof, making the affidavit and executing bond. Levy of an attachment creates a lien upon the estate so levied on from the levy. (Code, Sec. 2929, et seq.)

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

All claims against the estate of a deceased person must be presented within eighteen months after the same have accrued, or within eighteen months after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration, and if not so presented are forever barred. Minors and persons of unsound mind are allowed eighteen months after the removal of their disabilities to present their claims. The presentation of claim may be made either to the executor or administrator, or by filing the claim or a statement of it in the office of the judge of Probate of the county in which letters were granted, with a note of the time of such presentation. (Code, Secs. 2081, 2082, 2083.)

A claim against an estate declared insolvent must be filed in the office of the judge of Probate within nine months after such declaration, or after the same accrues, verified by the oath of the claimant or some other person who knows the correctness of the claim, and that the same is due, or it is barred forever. If verified by claimant, affidavit must state that the claim is just and unpaid; if by third person, it must show that he knows the correctness of the demand, and that it is just and unpaid. (31 Ala., 409; 27 Ala., 623.) Affidavit that the claim is just and correct to the best of affiant's knowledge and belief is not sufficient. (34 Ala., 611.) If such claim is filed by an executor, administrator, guardian or other trustee, it may be verified by affidavit that he believes the claim to be just, due and unpaid. All claims, whatever their dignity, must be filed and verified. (32 Ala., 502; Ib., 611; 13 Ala., 34; 11 Ala., 730.) Infants and persons of unsound mind are allowed nine months after the removal of their disabilities to file their claims. When the claim is filed, verified by the oath of a person out of this State, but within the United States, the oath may be made before a notary public, justice of the peace, or any judge of a court of record, or a commissioner of this State. If made before a justice of the peace, it must be certified that such officer was a justice of the peace and that his attestation is genuine, by some judge of a court of record, or a commissioner of this State. When such oath is taken out of the United States, it may be taken before any judge of a court of record, mayor or chief magistrate of any county, city, borough or town, notary public, or diplomatic, consular or commercial agent of the United States. (Code, Secs. 2238, 2241.)

Executors or administrators of insolvent estates must make settlement of their accounts at such times as the court may appoint; not less than nine nor more than fifteen months from the time the estate is declared insolvent. (Code, Sec. 2247; 73 Ala., 456.) No suit must be commenced against an executor or administrator, as such, until six months, and no judgment rendered against him, as such, until eighteen months after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration. (Code, Sec. 2263.)

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court has only appellate jurisdiction, except in matters of remedial writs.

Circuit Courts have unlimited common-law jurisdiction and exclusive jurisdiction of libel, slander, assault and battery, and ejectment. There are thirteen circuits in the State.

Regular terms of both Circuit and Chancery Courts twice a year in nearly every county. Chancery Courts have full equity powers. City Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit and Chancery Courts, with the exception of Mobile and Jackson counties, which have concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court only.

Probate Courts hold term second Monday of each month, but court is always open, except on Sundays.

County Court is held once a month in each county, and has jurisdiction of all misdemeanors. The judge of Probate is ex-officio judge of this court.

Justices of the peace have original jurisdiction in their respective counties of all actions founded on any contract when the sum claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars; of all actions founded on any wrong or injury where the damages claimed do not exceed fifty dollars, except in cases of libel, slander, assault and battery, and ejectment; of all actions of forcible entry and unlawful detainer, and of actions brought to recover specific property not exceeding one hundred dollars in value.

VII. DEEDS—REAL PROPERTY:

All persons of the age of twenty-one years may aliene land or any interest therein by instrument in writing, or by their last will. Conveyances must be written or printed, signed at the foot by the contracting party or his agent having written authority, and, unless acknowledged, witnessed by one witness; two where contracting party cannot write. Conveyance must be recorded in the office of the Probate judge of the county where situated, but to be recorded must be proved or acknowledged. Record operates as notice from time of delivery to Probate judge. A seal is not necessary to convey the legal title to land, or to enable the grantee to sue at law. Neither the wife individually, nor her separate estate, is bound by a covenant of warranty contained in any deed conveying land belonging to the husband, executed by such husband and wife, but such deed shall have the effect only of a relinquishment of dower, unless there be contained therein a special covenant of the wife expressing her intention to bind her separate estate. (Code, Sec. 1899.)

Conveyances of personal property to secure debts must be recorded in the county in which the grantor resides; also in the county where the property is at the time of the conveyance. If removed to another county before the lien is satisfied, the conveyance must be again recorded within six months in the county to which removed.

Acknowledgments and proofs of conveyances may be taken by judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, and their clerks; chancellors and registers in Chancery, judges of the Probate Court, justices of the peace, and notaries. In other states, they may be taken by judges and clerks of any Federal court, judges of any court of record; mayor or chief magistrate of any city, town, borough, or county; notaries public, or any diplomatic, consular or commercial agent of the United States.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The evidence of witnesses may be taken, in civil cases, by either party, where the witness is a woman, or from age, infirmity or sickness is unable to attend court, or resides more than one hundred miles from the place of trial, or resides out of or is absent from the State, or is about to leave the State and will probably not return until after the trial; or where the claim or defense or a material part thereof depends exclusively on the evidence of the witness; or where the witness is Governor of the State, treasurer, auditor, chancellor, judge, or clerk of any court of record, register in chancery, sheriff, president, director or other officer of a bank incorporated in this State, postmaster or any other officer of the United States, or practicing physician, or lawyer, or person constantly employed on any steamboat or other water craft, or about the engine or other machinery of any railroad, plank road or manufactory, or is a superintendent, secretary, treasurer, master of road repairs, or conductor of any railroad, or a telegraph operator, or a teacher in a school actually engaged in teaching; or is a minister of the gospel in charge of a diocese, parish, church, district or circuit. The party desiring to take such depositions, or his agent or attorney, must make affidavit, setting forth one or more of the above causes, and that the witness is material, which must be filed in the cause. Interrogatories to be propounded to the witness are filed with the clerk, notice of which is given to the opposite party or his attorney, in writing, who has ten days to filo cross-interrogatories, to which the party filing the interrogatories may file rebutting interrogatories; but if the party to whom notice is to be given resides out of, or is absent from, and has no attorney of record within the county, notice may be given by filing the interrogatories in the office of the clerk for ten days. After the expiration of the ten days the clerk issues a commission, accompanied by a copy of the interrogatories, to one or more persons, to take the deposition, prescribing the notice to be given to the opposite party or his attorney, of the time and place of taking it, if such notice is required. It is the duty of the commissioner to reduce the answers of the witness to writing, or cause it to be done by the witness himself, or some impartial person, as near as may be in the language of the witness, having first sworn him to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The deposition must be read over to and subscribed by the witness, and when complete must be by the commissioner enveloped, together with the commission and any document which may have been deposed to, sealed and directed to the clerk of the court where the cause is pending, with the title of the cause endorsed thereon. (Code, Secs. 2801 to 2807.)

IX. DESCENT:

The real estate of persons dying intestate as to such estate descends, subject to the payment of debts, charges against the estate, and the widow's dower, as follows: (1) To the children of the intestate or their descendants in equal parts. (2) If there be no husband, or widow, or children, or descendants of children, then to the parents in equal portions, and in case but one parent is surviving then he or she shall be entitled to one-half of such estate, and the other half to the brothers and sisters of the deceased, or their descendants; and if there be no brothers and sisters, then the whole estate shall go to the surviving parent. (3) If there are no children or their descendants, and no parents, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, or their descendants, in equal parts. (4) If none of these be living, then to the next of kin to the intestate, in equal parts, or if none, then (5) to the husband or wife, if capable of taking; and if no relations, no husband or wife, it escheats to the State. Lineal descendants in equal degree represent the ancestor. There is no representation among collaterals other than the descendants of the brothers and sisters of the intestate. There is no distinction between the whole and the half blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise or gift from one of his ancestors, in which case all those who are not of the blood of the ancestor are excluded from the inheritance as against those of the same degree. Posthumous children of the intestate inherit as if born in his lifetime. Illegitimate children inherit of the mother, and the mother from them. Degrees of kindred are computed according to the rules of the civil law.

The personal estate is distributed in the same manner as the real estate, except that the widow, if there are no children, is entitled to all the personal estate; or if but one child, she is entitled to one-half; if more than one and not more than four children, to a child's part, and if more than four children, to one fifth. (Code, Sec. 1915, et seq.)

X. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Any corporation organized under the laws of this State, or any person or association of persons proposing to take lands, or to acquire an interest or easement therein, for any uses for which private property may be taken, may, if there be no other mode of proceeding prescribed by law, apply to the Court of Probate of the county in which such lands or a material portion thereof may be situate, for an order of condemnation thereof to such uses.

The application must be in writing, verified by the oath of the applicant, or by the oath of an agent or attorney, and accompanied with security for the costs, and must state with certainty the name and residence of the applicant, the uses or purposes for which the land is to be taken, or the interest or easement therein to be acquired, and must state the name and residence of the owner, if known, or if unknown must show that reasonable diligence has been used to ascertain the same.

The court must hear all the allegations of the application, and objection which may be filed to the granting thereof, and any legal evidence touching the same, and shall make an order granting or refusing the application. If the application be granted, the judge of the Probate Court shall appoint three citizens of the county in which the lands sought to be condemned are situated, who shall possess the qualifications of jurors, who shall be disinterested, and who shall be required to file a certificate along with their award that neither of them had ever been consulted, advised with or approached by any person in reference to the value of said lands, or the proceedings to condemn the same, before their appointment on the trial of the same. The judge of the Probate Court is authorized to fill any vacancy occasioned by death, resignation, failure to act, or any disqualification of either of said commissioners from interest, prior knowledge of subject matter, or by being consulted, advised with or approached in reference to the condemnation of such lands prior to appointment or trial of the same.

When the court shall have appointed the commissioners as herein provided, he shall at once issue a notice of such appointment to the sheriff, whose duty it shall be to serve such notice upon the person therein designated, within five days of the receipt of such notice by such officer.

Where any of the parties at interest are non-residents, minors, or of unsound mind, then notice of the proceedings herein provided for shall be given in the same manner as other notices of the proceedings of the Probate Court in this State are given to non-residents, minors, or persons of unsound mind.

It shall be the duty of the commissioners, or a majority of them, thus appointed by the judge of the Probate Court to assess the damages and compensation to which the owner of the lands is entitled, and they shall be sworn as jurors are sworn. The commissioners may view the lands to be subjected, and must receive all legal evidence that may be introduced by either party touching the measure of the damage the owner of the lands will sustain, and the amount of compensation he is entitled to receive; but the amount of compensation to which the owner is entitled must not be reduced or diminished because of any incidental benefits which may accrue to him, or to his remaining lands, in consequence of the uses to which the land proposed to be taken, or in which an easement is proposed to be acquired, will be appropriated. The commissioners, or a majority of them, must, from the evidence, ascertain and assess the damages or compensation to which the owner or owners are entitled, and report the same in writing to the court, within ten days from their appointment; and thereupon the court must order the same to be recorded, and must make an order of condemnation in pursuance thereof, upon payment of the damages or compensation so assessed and reported. If the owner does not appear on the hearing of the application, the court must hear the same, and if the application be granted must appoint commissioners as herein provided for, and thereafter the same proceedings shall be had as if such owner had appeared.

The hearing and trial provided for herein must in all respects be conducted and evidence taken as in trials in civil cases at common law; on the trial and hearing either party may, by bill of exception, reserve any opinion or decision of the court, as in cases in which bills of exception are allowed in civil cases in courts of common law; and either party is entitled to an appeal to the Supreme Court from the order of the court, within one month from the making thereof. Either party may appeal from the assessment of damages and compensations by the commissioners, to the City or Circuit Court of the county, within thirty days after the making of the order of the commissioners, by filing in the court rendering the judgment a written notice of appeal, a copy of which shall be served upon the opposite party, and on such appeal the trial shall be ne novo; but no appeal shall suspend the judgment if the applicant shall give bond in good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court, to pay such judgment as shall be rendered on appeal. Any applicant or land owner may employ counsel to represent him, or to be present in person at any of the proceedings or trials. The order of condemnation upon the payment of the sum ascertained and assessed by the verdict of the jury, or the deposit thereof in court for the defendant, shall vest in the applicant the easement proposed to be acquired for the uses and purposes stated in the application, but for no other uses and purposes. If an appeal shall be taken by either party, then the person, corporation or association asking to acquire such right of way, upon the deposit in said court, for the party whose land is sought to be condemned, of the amount of damages so assessed, together with the costs of said proceedings, shall be entitled to enter upon said land and survey, construct and operate on said land, for the uses and purposes stated in the application, but said easement shall not vest absolutely in said person, corporation or association until the final determination of the case and the payment or deposit in court of such damages as shall be then adjudged.

The cost of the application and of the proceedings thereunder, including the compensation of commissioners, who shall receive the pay of jurors, must be adjudged against the applicant and his surety for costs, for which execution may be issued; but should the applicant tender to the land-owners, prior to the application for condemnation proceedings for the lands sought to be condemned, a sum of money in excess of the award of the commissioners for compensation or damages for the same, then the costs of the proceedings before the commissioners shall be against the land-owner; provided, the commissioners shall have no knowledge of the amount so tendered, and shall certify in their award that they had no knowledge of such tender; provided, further, that the principles of law and rules of justice relative to tender now in force in the courts of this State shall apply to all tenders made under the provisions of this act. (Code, Sec. 3207, et seq. Acts 1890 and 1891, pp. 1131, et seq. Acts 1892-3, p. 462.)

In Limestone County the amount of compensation assessed by the commissioners must not exceed three times the value at which the land was given in for taxes.

The above does not include the procedure in the case of erection of dams.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

An execution is a lien on the lands and personal property of the defendant subject to levy and sale, only in the county in which it is received by the officer, from the time it is so received, which lien continues as long as the writ is regularly issued and delivered to the sheriff without the lapse of an entire term. The execution of a bond for an appeal by which the judgment is suspended, or the execution of a bond by the defendant upon the proper officer granting an injunction, supersedeas or restraining order, destroys the lien created by the delivery of a fieri facias to the sheriff. (Code, Sec. 2894 et seq.)

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

The homestead, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in area, and not exceeding two thousand dollars in value; or, in a city, town or village, the lot, with dwelling, etc., not exceeding two thousand dollars in value, owned and occupied by any resident. The area of the homestead is not enlarged by reason of any encumbrance or defect in the quantum of interest such resident may own. Exemption of homestead may be waived, but wife must join in the waiver and it must be acknowledged. Any person may by stipulation in writing waive the whole or any specific part of exemption of personalty without the consent of wife. Personal property to the value of one thousand dollars selected by debtor and wages to twenty five dollars per month are also exempt. Widow's exemption includes also wearing apparel, family books and pictures, and provisions for twelve months. There is no exemption against judgment for torts and penalties. Nor on homestead for mechanics' lien for work done on same.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is eight per cent and all contracts for the payment of interest upon the loan or forbearance of goods, money, things in actions, or upon any contract whatever, at a higher rate, are usurious and cannot be enforced except as to the principal. (Code, Sec. 1754.)

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments are not liens until execution is issued, unless registered as hereinafter provided. When an execution has issued on a judgment within a year after its rendition, another may be issued within ten years without a revival of the judgment. Judgments may be obtained at the first term where service is perfected twenty days before the sitting of the court; and in Justices' Courts on three days' notice. A certificate of the clerk or register of the court showing the court which rendered the judgment, the amount and date thereof, the amount of costs, the names of parties, and plaintiff's attorney, may be filed by the plaintiff or owner of any judgment or decree in the office of the judge of probate of the county in which the judgment was obtained, and every such judgment or decree so filed and registered shall be a lien upon all the property of the defendant in the county where judgment is rendered, subject to levy and sale under execution, and such lien shall continue for ten years from the date of registration of such judgment or decree and shall be notice to all persons of the existence of such lien. (Code, p. 635, note.)

XV. LIENS:

Mechanics, employees and materialmen have for their work done, or materials furnished, a lien upon the building or improvements and upon the land upon which said building or improvements are erected, if the work was done or materials furnished by virtue of any contracts with the owner or proprietor, or his agent, trustee, contractor or sub-contractor. (Acts 1894-5, p. 1238 et seq.) Every person claiming a lien must file in the office of the judge of probate of the county in which is the property upon which the lien is sought to be established, within six months if an original contractor, thirty days if a journeyman or day laborer, or four months if any other person, from the time the indebtedness was incurred, a statement in writing, verified by oath, containing a true description of the property and the demand secured by the lien, and the name of the owner. This lien shall extend only to the unpaid balance due, unless the person furnishing materials shall notify the owner or his agent in writing that certain specified materials will be furnished by him to the contractor for use in the building at certain specified prices, and unless he, the owner, objects, the furnisher shall have the full price specified in the notice, regardless whether such claim exceeds the unpaid balance or not. Anyone other than the original contractor must give the owner ten days' notice before filing a lien, except in the case of materialmen who have given notice as above. An original contractor, failing to furnish owner with a complete list of employees and materialmen, or failing to pay such under terms of special contract with owner, forfeits right to lien. All actions to be commenced within six months after filing lien.

Blacksmiths, woodworkmen, and all other mechanics who contribute their labor or material to the production or repair of any vehicle, implement or article of any kind, shall have a lien thereon while in the hands of the owner or a purchaser with notice, such lien to be enforced within six months from the time when filed.

Landlord has a lien on crop grown on rented land for the rent of the current year, or for advances in money, or other thing of value, whether made by him or for which he assumed responsibility; also on each and every article advanced, and upon all property purchased with money advanced or obtained by barter in exchange for any article advanced. Such liens for rent and advances shall be paramount over all other liens. (Code, Sec. 3056.)

The landlord of a store-house, dwelling-house or other building has a lien on the goods, furniture and effects belonging to the tenant, for his rent, which is superior to all other liens except those for taxes. Such lien may be enforced by attachment where tenant has fraudulently disposed of his goods, or made an assignment for benefit of creditors, or transferred substantially all his goods without paying the rent in full for the term.

Superintendents of plantations and agricultural laborers have a lien upon the crops, and laborers and employees of railroads a lien upon all the property of the company for work and labor done by them. (Code, Sec. 3077 et seq.)

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

The following actions must be commenced after the cause of action has accrued within the periods preceding their characterization:

(1) Within twenty years: By the State, to recover real or personal property against a citizen thereof; upon a judgment or decree of any court of the State of Alabama, or of the United States, or of any state or territory of the United States. (2) Within ten years: On any contract in writing under seal; for the recovery of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or the possession thereof; motions or other actions against sheriffs, coroners, constables, and other public officers for nonfeasance, misfeasance, or malfeasance in office. (3) Within six years: For any trespass to person or liberty; trespass to real or personal property; detention or conversion of personal property; promise in writing not under seal; to recover money upon a loan; upon a stated or liquidated account; for arrears of rent due upon a parol demise; for the use and occupation of land; actions or other actions against the sureties of any public officer, or the sureties of executors, administrators or guardians for any misfeasance or malfeasance whatever of their principal, the time to be computed from the act done or omitted by their principal which fixes the liability of the surety; motions or other actions against attorneys at law for failing to pay over money of their clients or for neglect or omission of duty; any action upon any judgment of a justice of the peace of this State; and any action arising from simple contract or specialty not herein specially enumerated. (4) Within five years: Actions founded on equities of redemption, where lands have been sold under a decree of the Chancery Court, existing in any person not a party to the proceedings, who claims under the mortgagor or grantor in the deed of trust. (5) Within three years: All actions or motions against any surety to a writ of error, appeal, replevin or forthcoming bond, entered in any cause in any of the courts of the United States or in any other state or country, except the State of Alabama. (6) Within three years: To recover money due by open or unliquidated account, the time to be computed from the date of the last item of the account, or from the time when by contract or usage the account is due. (7) Within two years: Actions by personal representative for wrongful acts or omissions, causing death of intestate or testator, if such intestate or testator could have maintained the action for such acts or omissions had they failed to produce death. (8) Within one year: For malicious prosecutions, criminal conversation, seduction of a female, breach of marriage promise, qui tam actions, or for a penalty given by statute to the party aggrieved, unless the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation; actions of libel and slander; actions for damages for wrongful act or omission, causing personal injury to or death of a minor, under Sec. 2588; actions for an injury to the person or rights of another, not arising from contract, and not herein specifically enumerated. (Code, Sec. 2612 et seq.)

Minors, married women (except as to their separate estates), the insane, and those imprisoned on a criminal charge for a term less than life, have three years after the termination of the disability to bring suit or make entry or defense; except that no disabilities shall extend the time after the lapse of twenty years from the time the cause of action or right accrued. (Code, Sec. 2624; 66 Ala., 445.)

If a person is absent from the State during the period within which a suit might have been brought against him, such period or periods of time must not be computed as a portion of the time necessary to create a bar.

No act, promise or acknowledgment is sufficient to remove the bar to a suit, or is evidence of a new or continuing contract, except a partial payment made upon the contract by the party sought to be charged before the bar is complete, or an unconditional promise in writing signed by the party to be charged. The time between the death of a person and the grant of letters testamentary or of administration, not exceeding six months, is not to be taken as any part of the time limited for the commencement of actions by or against his executors or administrators. (Code, Secs. 2628-2632.)

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

The wife, if the husband be of sound mind and has not abandoned her, or be not a non-resident of the State, or be not imprisoned under a conviction for crime for a period exceeding two years, cannot alienate her lands, or any interest therein, without the assent and concurrence of the husband, to be manifested by his joining in the alienation in the mode prescribed by law for the execution of conveyances of land. But if the husband be non compos mentis, or has abandoned his wife, or is a non-resident of the State, or is imprisoned under a conviction for crime for a period exceeding two years, the wife may alienate her lands as if she were sole. But the personal property of the wife, or any part thereof, may be sold, exchanged or otherwise conveyed or disposed of by the husband and wife, by parol or otherwise. If the husband is living apart from the wife, without fault upon her part, or if he be of unsound mind, the wife may convey or dispose of such property as if she were sole. The husband and wife may contract with each other, but all contracts into which they enter are subject to the rules of law as to contracts by and between persons standing in confidential relations; but the wife shall not directly or indirectly become the surety for her husband.

All property of the wife held by her previous to the marriage, or to which she may become in any manner entitled after the marriage, is the separate property of the wife and is not subject to the liabilities of the husband. The earnings of the wife are her separate property, but she is not entitled for compensation for services rendered to or for the husband, or to or for the family. The wife has full legal capacity to contract in writing as if she were sole, with the assent or concurrence of the husband expressed in writing. The wife must sue alone at law or equity, upon all contracts made by or with her, or for the recovery of her separate property, or for injuries to such property, or for its rents, income, or profits, or for all injuries to her person or reputation; and upon all contracts made by her, or engagements into which she enters, or for all torts committed by her, she must be sued as if she were sole. The wife may, with the consent of the husband, expressed in writing and filed and recorded in the office of the judge of probate of the county of their residence and of the county in which the business is carried on, enter into and pursue any lawful trade or business, as if she were sole. But the consent of the husband is not necessary, if he be of unsound mind, or has abandoned his wife, or is a non-resident of the State, or is imprisoned under a conviction for crime. All property of the wife, whether acquired by descent or inheritance, or gift, devise or bequest, or by contract or conveyance, or by gift from, or contract with, the husband, is the separate property of the wife within the meaning of this article, saving and excepting only such property as may be conveyed to an active trustee for her benefit. Married women under twenty-one, but over eighteen, years of age may convey dower interest in land. Marriage of a woman under twenty-one but over eighteen years of age relieves the disabilities of non-age.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages of real property must be acknowledged or proved and recorded in the same manner as deeds. A power to sell is usually incorporated in the mortgage in the event of default in payment of the debt secured, on giving notice by advertisement, or it may be foreclosed by proceedings in chancery. The power to sell in a mortgage is part of the security and may be executed by anyone who, by assignment or otherwise, becomes entitled to the money. (Code, Sec. 1844.) Whenever the property has been sold under the power the debtor may redeem the same from the purchaser or his vendee at any time within two years thereafter on tender to the purchaser of the purchase price, with ten per cent interest and all other lawful charges.

Conveyances of unconditional estates and mortgages or instruments in the nature of a mortgage of real property to secure any debt created at the date thereof, are void as to purchasers for a valuable consideration having no notice thereof unless recorded within thirty days from their date. (Code, Sec. 1810.)

Conveyances of personal property, to secure debts, or to provide indemnity, must be recorded in the county in which the grantor resides, and also in the county where the property is at the date of the conveyance; if the property is removed to another county, the conveyance must again be recorded in the county to which it is removed within six months. (Code, Sec. 1806.) Conveyances of personal property to secure debts or to provide indemnity are inoperative against creditors and purchasers without notice, until recorded, unless the property is brought into this State subject to such incumbrances, in which case four months are allowed for the registration of the conveyance; and if such property is removed to a different county from that in which the grantor resides, the conveyance must be recorded in such county within six months from the removal or it ceases to have effect after such six months against the creditors or purchasers of the grantor without notice. (Code, Sec. 1814.)

Mortgages of personal property are invalid unless they are in writing and subscribed by the mortgagor. (Code, Sec. 1731.)

Mortgage of stock of merchandise, which permits mortgagor to remain in possession and to sell the goods in the ordinary course of trade for his own benefit, is invalid as to creditors. (75 Ala., 121.) But mortgage of stock of goods given to secure bona fide debt, authorizing mortgagor to retain possession and sell for the benefit of mortgagee, and to pay over the proceeds of sale is good as against creditors. (86 Ala., 234.) Any mortgagee, transferee or assignee of such mortgage who has received satisfaction of the amount secured by such mortgage, must at the written request of the mortgagor, enter satisfaction upon the margin of the record thereof, which operates as a release of such mortgage and a bar to all actions thereon; and must at the written request of a bona fide creditor of mortgagor, enter the amounts received by him thereon and dates thereof. Failure for three months to make such entry, either in person or by attorney, after such payment and request, forfeits to the party aggrieved two hundred dollars, unless, where demand is for entry of satisfaction, at the time of such request or within said three months, there shall be a pending suit between said parties involving whether such mortgagee, transferee or assignee has received satisfaction of such mortgage. The payment of the debt secured by mortgage has the effect to divest the title of the mortgagee or his assigns, and revest the same in the mortgagor or his assigns. (Code, Sec. 1869.)

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bills of exchange and promissory notes, payable in money, at a bank or private banking house or a certain place of payment therein designated, are governed by the commercial law, and all other instruments payable in money at a bank or private banking house are also governed by the commercial law as to days of grace, protest and notice. Such are assignable by indorsement in writing so as to authorize an action thereon by each indorsee. No person is chargeable as acceptor of a bill of exchange, unless his acceptance is in writing, signed by himself or agent; but an unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn amounts to actual acceptance. (64 Ala., 1.)

Every holder of a bill presenting the same for acceptance may require that the acceptance be written on the bill; and refusal so to do is refusal to accept, and the bill may be protested for non-acceptance. These provisions must not be construed to impair the right of any person to whom a promise to accept a bill may have been made, and who on the faith of such promise has negotiated the bill, to recover damages of the person making such promise, on his refusal to accept such bill. If bill is not returned accepted or non-accepted by the party upon whom it is drawn, within twenty-four hours after delivery to him, he must be deemed to have accepted the same. All bills drawn and payable within this State are inland bills, and those drawn in this State and payable elsewhere are foreign bills. The damages on inland or foreign bills protested for non-acceptance or non-payment are five per cent on the sum drawn for. (Code, Sec. 1760 et seq.)

Sunday, Christmas Day, the first of January, twenty-second of February, twenty-sixth of April, the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day, Good Friday, Labor Day and Mardi Gras, shall each be deemed a holiday. If Christmas Day, the first of January, twenty-second of February or the Fourth of July falls on Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday. If any paper entitled to days of grace by the allowance thereof, or subject to protest, becomes due on a holiday, it must be taken as due on the next succeeding business day. (Code, Sec. 1759.)

XX. SUITS:

Suits at law in this State are commenced by summons and complaint. The complaint which must accompany the summons is in lieu of a declaration and must be signed by the plaintiff or his attorney. (Code, Sec. 2671.)

All actions on contracts, expressed or implied, for the payment of money, whether under seal or not, may be united in one action. (Code, Sec. 2672.) Husband and wife must be joined either as plaintiffs or defendants when the wife has an interest in the subject matter of the suit; unless the suit relates to her separate estate, when she must sue or be sued alone. (Code, Sec. 2577.)

Actions on promissory notes, bonds or other contracts, express or implied, for the payment of money, must be prosecuted in the name of the party really interested, whether he has the legal title or not, subject to any defense the payor, obligator or debtor may have had against the payee, obligee, or creditor, previous to notice of assignment or transfer, except that, in actions upon bills of exchange and promissory notes payable at a bank or banking house, or at a designated place, and other commercial instruments, the suit must be instituted in the name of the person having the legal title. (Code, Sec. 2594.)

Infants must sue by next friend and must defend by a guardian appointed by the court. (Code, Sec. 2579.) Idiots, lunatics or persons of unsound mind having no guardian resident in this State may sue by their next friend; and guardian of person of unsound mind may be sued on any contract made by the ward or for any tort committed by him while of sound mind, or for necessaries furnished him or his family before the appointment of a guardian.

All actions on contracts, except as may be otherwise provided, must be brought in the county in which the defendant, or one of the defendants, resides, if such defendant has within the State a permanent residence; all other personal actions, if the defendant, or one of the defendants, has within the State a permanent residence, may be brought in the county of such residence, or in the county in which the act or omission complained of may have been done, or may have occurred. All actions for the recovery of land, or of the possession thereof, or for a trespass thereto, must be brought in the county where the land lies; a summons issuing contrary to this section must be abated on the plea of the defendant. (Code, Sec. 2640.)

A foreign or domestic corporation may be sued in any county in which it does business by agent. Summons may be executed by the delivery of a copy of the summons and complaint to the president or other head thereof, secretary, cashier, station agent, or any other agent thereof. (Code, Sec. 2642, 2657.)

Names of all parties plaintiff and individual names of co-partners must be given in writs. Partnerships may be sued in courts of law in the firm name, without setting forth the names of co-partners. The writ may be served upon any one of the co-partners. The judgment reaches the partnership property alone. Non-residents must give security for costs when suit is brought in any of the courts, but money may be deposited with the clerk in lieu of sureties.

All suits at law or in equity commenced by or for the use of a non-resident of this State will be dismissed on motion if security for costs be not given, but money may be deposited with the clerk or register, subject to increase or diminution on the order of the court.

XXI. TAXES:

All taxes levied on property in this State shall be assessed in exact proportion to its value. The State, in the levy of taxes for any year, is restricted to a rate not greater than three-fourths of one per cent; counties, to one-half of one per cent—provided, however, that counties may, for debts created for the erection of necessary public buildings or bridges, levy and collect a special tax.

Municipal corporations cannot levy or collect a larger rate of taxation in any one year than one-half of one per cent of the value of the property therein as assessed for State taxation during the preceding year. (Constit., 1875, Art. XI.)

Immediately after the sale of lands for taxes, the tax collector delivers to the purchaser a certificate of purchase, which certificate is assignable by endorsement, vesting in such assignee the title acquired by the purchase. If the bid for such lands is not sufficient to cover the taxes, interest and costs, the collector shall bid it off in the name of the State, and deliver a certificate therefor to the auditor of the State. The lands so bid in for the State are not assessed thereafter until redeemed, and are subject to the same rules of redemption as lands purchased by individuals. Lands sold for taxes may be redeemed at any time before the expiration of two years and six months from the date of sale, by the owner, mortgagee or any person having a beneficial interest therein; infants and lunatics are allowed one year after the removal of their disability to redeem. Actions for the recovery of lands sold for taxes are barred if not brought within five years from the date of sale; minors and insane persons are allowed one year after removal of disability to bring such action. (Code, Sec. 607; 69 Ala., 299.)

XXII. WAGES:

The wages, salaries, or other compensation of laborers or employees, residents of this State, for personal services, to the amount of twenty-five dollars per month shall be exempt from levy under writs of garnishment or other process for the collection of debts. (Code 1886, Sec. 2512.) The wages or hire of any head of a family in this State, not having property liable to levy and sale under execution, cannot be defeated or abated by any set-off of a money demand acquired by the person contracting to pay such wages, by assignment or transfer, unless the parties otherwise agree in writing. (Sec. 2678. See also Liens.)

XXIII. WILLS:

All persons over the age of eighteen may make wills of personal property, if of sound mind; but only those twenty-one years of age can make a will of real estate. A will must be signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction, and attested by at least two witnesses, who must subscribe their names thereto in the presence of the testator. (Code, Sec. 1968.)

Nuncupative wills are valid when the property bequeathed does not exceed five hundred dollars in value. If an unmarried woman after making a will marries, the marriage operates as a revocation of the will. If a man after making a will marries and have issue of such marriage born within his lifetime or after his death, and the wife or such issue is living at the death of the testator, such will must be deemed revoked, unless provision has been made for such issue. (Code, Sec. 1953 et seq.)

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal, manufacturing, mining, immigration, industrial and educational purposes, or for constructing canals, or improving navigable rivers and harbors of this State, and in cases where, in the judgment of the General Assembly, the objects of the corporation cannot be attained under general laws. All general laws and special acts passed pursuant to this section may be altered, amended or repealed.

No corporation can engage in any business other than that expressly authorized by its charter, or issue stock or bonds, except for money, labor done, or money or property actually received; and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void. The stock and bonded indebtedness of corporations shall not be increased, except in pursuance of general laws, nor without the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of stock first obtained at a meeting to be held after thirty days' notice, given in pursuance of law. No corporation, municipal or otherwise, shall take, injure or destroy private property for public use without making just compensation therefor, which compensation shall be paid before such taking, injury or destruction. In no case shall any stockholder be individually liable, otherwise than for the unpaid stock owned by him. No telegraph company shall consolidate with, or hold a controlling interest in the stock or bonds of, any other telegraph company owning a competing line, or acquire, by purchase or otherwise, any other competing line of telegraph.

Corporations sue and are sued the same as natural persons and may mortgage their property on complying with the statute as to notice to be given by publication and personally to stockholders.

The State shall not be a stockholder in any bank, nor shall the credit of the State ever be given or loaned to any banking company, association or corporation. Every railroad company shall have the right with its road to intersect, connect with or cross any other railroad, and shall receive and transport each the others' frieight, passengers and cars, loaded or empty, without delay or discrimination. (Constit., 1885, Art. XIV.)

II. ORGANIZATION:

A corporation may be formed by two or more persons associating for the purpose of mining, quarrying or manufacturing, who shall file in the office of the judge of probate of the county wherein said corporation shall have its place of business, a declaration signed by each of them and setting forth the following: (1) The names and residences of the subscribers: (2) the name and style of the proposed corporation; (3) the amount of capital stock and the number of shares in which it is divided; (4) the general purposes of the corporation and the nature of the business proposed; (5) the principal place of business of the corporation; (6) such other matters as the incorporators may deem it desirable to state. (Code, Sec. 1557 et seq.)

There must be fifty per cent of the proposed capital stock subscribed and twenty per cent paid in before certificate of incorporation will be issued and the corporation authorized to do business.

On the filing of the declaration above mentioned the judge of probate must issue a commission to two or more subscribers, who are then authorized to open books of subscription.

All subscriptions must be payable in money; but the commissioners may receive subscriptions payable in money, the subscriber reserving at the time the privilege of discharging the same in the rendition of services or labor for the corporation at the reasonable value thereof, or of such property as the corporation has the capacity to acquire and hold, at the reasonable value thereof, provided the nature and character of the property and when it is to be transferred or conveyed be stated in the subscription.

When fifty per cent of the capital stock has been subscribed in good faith by subscribers of whose solvency the commissioners are satisfied, they shall call the subscribers together at a time and place fixed by them for the election of directors and officers. The directors must consist of not less than three or more than nine stockholders, who hold office for twelve months; at such organization meeting an officer must be designated to receive from the commissioners the subscription for stock, and such officer shall thereupon require payment in cash of twenty per cent of such subscription from each subscriber who has not reserved the privilege of discharging such subscription in stipulated services or conveyance of property; and from the subscribers who have reserved the privilege of discharging their subscriptions in services or property, contracts in writing binding them to the rendition of the services or to make transfer of the property at such times as the board of directors may appoint. The proceedings of the meetings must be reduced to writing, signed by the subscribers and delivered to the commissioners, who must return and file the same with the judge of probate. The officer designated to receive the subscriptions must make a copy thereof, verified by his affidavit, stating in such affidavit from which of the subscribers he has received the cash payment and from which he has received contracts as above mentioned. This copy must also be filed in the office of the judge of probate. Upon the filing of these papers the judge of probate issues a certificate of incorporation.

III. POWERS:

1. To have succession by the corporate name for the period expressed in the declaration; and, if a period of time be not expressed, perpetually. 2. To sue and be sued; and, if deemed necessary, to have a corporate seal, and the same to alter at pleasure. 3. To hold, purchase, dispose of and convey such real and personal property as the nature of its business and the purposes for which it is formed may require. 4. To appoint such officers and agents as may be deemed necessary for the transaction of its business and the management and control of its affairs and property. 5. To make all needful by-laws, rules and regulations for the transaction of its business, the management and control of its affairs, and the uses and disposition of its property, and for the transfer of its stock, and for the creation and preservation of a lien upon the shares of its stockholders for the payment of any debt or liability they may incur to the corporation. 6. To carry on the business or accomplish the purposes expressed in the declaration. 7. To borrow money, and to mortgage or otherwise convey or pledge its property, real or personal, and its franchises, to secure the payment of the money so borrowed, or any other debt contracted by it; but it has not power to borrow a sum exceeding its capital stock, or at a rate of interest exceeding eight per cent, payable semi-annually; nor must such mortgage, conveyance or pledge be made otherwise than by the consent of the holders of the larger part in value of the capital stock, expressed by vote, at a meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, of the time and place of which meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called, thirty days' notice is given each stockholder personally, whose residence is known, and by publication for four consecutive weeks in the newspaper published nearest the place of business of the corporation.

Such corporation, when duly organized, has, in addition, power to locate, construct and operate, to and from its mines, furnaces, mills, factories, quarries or other works, railways, tramways, canals or roads, or to acquire by purchase railways, tramways, canals or roads, whereby a connection may be made to and with the principal place of its business, its mines, furnaces, mills, factories, quarries or other works, and any public highway, turnpike, macadamized, plank or other graded road, or railroad, or navigable waters, or to or with its mines, ore-beds, coking or cooling grounds, or timber lands; or canals or aqueducts to and from its mills or factories, or furnaces, or quarries, and any waters or water-courses; and such corporation has also power to transport, as a common carrier, persons or property on any railroad, or other road, or on any canal or aqueduct, constructed or purchased by it, taking reasonable compensation. If necessary in the construction of such canals, aqueducts, railways, tramways, or roads, the corporation has power to condemn lands, or an interest or easement therein, private property, for a way and right of way, in the mode prescribed by law, such way and right of way not exceeding one hundred feet in width throughout the whole length of such canal, aqueduct, railway, tramway, or road; and without the consent of the owner of the land, the same must not be constructed through the yard, garden, orchard, stable-lot, gin-house, barn or through the curtilage of a dwelling-house; and such corporation has power to erect, at such place as may be deemed convenient for its uses, depots, or other buildings, or structures, or wharves; and may purchase, hire or charter vessels or boats for the transportation of its products or property; and may aid in the construction of railroads, or in the establishment of lines of vessels or boats, running to and from such depots, or other buildings, or structures, or wharves; but the owner of any land which may be taken under the provisions of this section shall have the right to have all his property, of like kind with that transported by the corporation, carried by such corporation over or upon such canal, railway or tramway, upon the payment of a just and reasonable compensation for such carriage.

Corporations, in construction of their railways, tramways or roads, may cross public highways or roads, but must place same in satisfactory condition. They may likewise cross any navigable streams, but must not impair navigation.

IV. CONSOLIDATION OF CORPORATIONS:

Any two or more may consolidate, upon recommendation of the board of directors of each corporation in writing, if adopted by a majority in value of capital stock. When the proposition of consolidation has been adopted and the agreement therefor reduced to writing under the corporate seals, stating the consolidation to be with the consent of the stockholders, and its terms and conditions, such agreement must be recorded in the office of the judge of probate where such corporations are located, and such consolidation is thereby completed.

The consolidated corporation may adopt the name and charter of either corporation, and may make such changes as to the amount of stock and directors as may be deemed proper. The consolidated corporation is entitled to all the property and rights of each, and liable for the debts of each, and pending suits shall proceed in the name of the consolidated corporation.

V. INCREASE OF CAPITAL STOCK:

Capital stock may be increased to a sum not exceeding ten million dollars, by vote of stockholders holding the larger amount in value of the capital stock. Thirty days' notice of a meeting called for this purpose must be given each stockholder personally and by publication in a newspaper published in the place where the corporation is located. The proceedings of the meeting, signed by the president, must be filed and recorded in the office of judge of probate. Stockholders are entitled to a preference in taking the increased stock.

VI. ALTERATION OR AMENDMENT OF CHARTER:

Corporations may on vote of not less than three-fourths of the stockholders, holding not less than two-thirds in value of the stock, alter or amend the charter by filing, in the office of the judge of probate where the original declaration is filed, a declaration in writing, signed by them, setting forth the name, purpose of the corporation, and business, capital stock subscribed for and taken, and the proposed changes, which declaration must be verified by affidavit of one of the signers, stating that the statements of the declaration are true, and that the signers signed the same in the presence of affiant, or acknowledged their signatures thereto. Upon the filing of such declaration the judge of probate issues a certificate authorizing the corporation to do business under the amended declaration. (Acts of Alabama 1888-89, p. 20.)

VII. MEETINGS IN OTHER STATES:

Meetings may be held in other states by a vote, at a meeting of the directors or stockholders, whenever all of the Alabama stockholders consent thereto in writing, and provided such corporation shall keep an office, agent and place of business within the State, and within thirty days after such meeting shall deposit with such agent a certified copy of the proceedings of such meeting, which certified copy shall be received in evidence in all courts in this State, in lieu of the original, and which certified copy shall at all times be subject to inspection by any person lawfully entitled to demand such inspection. Failure to keep such certified copy on deposit is cause for proceedings to dissolve the corporation.

There must also be filed in the office of the judge of probate in the county where its agent and principal place of business are kept a declaration showing the name and style of such agent, and the place where certified copies of its records are kept. Service of process on such agent shall be deemed and taken as service of process on the corporation. (Acts of Alabama 1888-89, page 76.)

Board of directors is elected annually by the stockholders. Vacancies are filled by theboard of directors.

VIII. INCORPORATION FEES:

All corporations incorporated under the laws of this State, before they are authorized to do business, are required to pay to the judge of probate or other officer issuing a certificate, fees proportionate to the amount of the proposed capital as hereunder tabulated; provided, however, that all corporations and mutual companies which have no capital stock shall pay a fee of twenty-five dollars:

Up to $50,000 (inclusive)	$ 25.00
$ 50,000 to $100,000	50.00
$500,000 to $1,000,000	200.00
Over $1,000,000	250.00

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

All foreign corporations are required to pay into the treasury of the State like fees as those required of corporations organized under the laws of this State. Failure to comply with the provisions of the law requiring such license fees invalidates any contract made by the corporation so failing to comply with the law. (Acts of 1894-95, p. 1024.)

No foreign corporation shall do any business in this State without having at least one known place of business and an authorized agent or agents therein (67 Ala., 26; 71 Ala., 60; Acts, 1886-87, p. 102; 89 Ala., 198; 88 Ala., 275, 280, 281), and such corporation may be sued in any county where it does business, by service of process upon an agent anywhere in this State.

MINING.

I. COMPANIES:

State laws governing the formation of companies for the development and operation of mineral and quarry lands are given in extenso under the head of "Corporations."

II. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The law of this State provides for the appointment by the Governor of a mine inspector who shall not be a member of a firm or stockholder of any corporation engaged in mining, and who shall give a bond of one thousand dollars for the faithful performance of his duties. He shall hold office for two years and give his whole time and attention to the duties of his office. The inspector shall keep his office in the city of Birmingham. The Governor may discharge him at any time and appoint a successor upon the filing of a written complaint substantiated by proof, of unfairness, unfitness, incompetency or malfeasance.

"It shall be the duty of the mine inspector to examine all the mines in this State as often as possible to see that all the requirements of the law are strictly observed and carried out. He shall particularly examine the works and machinery belonging to any mine, examine into the state and condition of the mines as to ventilation, circulation and condition of air, drainage and general security; he shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the date when made, the conditions in which the mines were found, the extent to which the laws relating to mines and mining are observed or violated; the progress made in the improvements and security of life and health sought to be secured by the provisions of this act; number of accidents, injuries received, or deaths in or about the mines; the number of persons employed in or about each mine, together with all such other facts and information of public interest concerning the condition of mines, development and progress of mining in this State, as he may think useful and proper, and so much thereof as may be of public interest, to be included in his biennial report. In case of any controversy or disagreement between the mine inspector and the owner and operator of any mine, or the persons working therein, or in case of conditions of emergency requiring counsel, the mine inspector may call on the board of examiners for such assistance and counsel as may be necessary. Should the mine inspector find any of the provisions of this act violated, or not complied with, by any owner, lessee, or agent in charge of any mine, he shall immediately notify such owner, lessee, or agent in charge, of such neglect or violation, and unless the same is within a reasonable time rectified and the provisions of this act fully complied with he shall institute a prosecution. The inspector shall exercise a sound discretion in the enforcement of the provisions of this act, and if in any respect (which is not provided against by, or may result from a rigid enforcement of any express provision of this act), the inspector finds any matter, thing or practice in or connected with any such mine to be dangerous or defective so as in his opinion to threaten or tend to the bodily injury of any person, the inspector may give notice thereof in writing to the owner, agent or manager of the mines, and shall state in such notice the particulars in which he considers such mine or any part thereof, or any matter, thing or practice to be dangerous or defective, and require the same to be remedied. For the purpose of making the inspection and examination provided for in this section the mine inspector and board of examiners shall have the right to enter any mine at all reasonable times by night or by day, but in such manner as shall not unnecessarily obstruct the working of the mine, and the owner or agent of such mine is hereby required to furnish the means necessary for such entry and inspection. The inspection and examination herein provided for shall extend to fire clay, iron ore and other mines as well as coal mines." (Acts of Alabama, 1894-95, Sec. 2.)

The inspector of mines shall give directions to the mine operators, owners and general managers as to the method and manner of working gaseous mines and the manner of working and propping the roof in any and all mines, and shall examine the machinery and appliances used in working the same, and give directions as to the examination of the same. All such directions shall be given in writing, subject, however, to the approval of the board of examiners as herein provided.

The inspector of mines shall biennially, prior to the convention of the General Assembly, make a written report to the Governor of the condition of the mining interests of the State, with such suggestions as may be of advantage thereto.

III. MAPS AND REPORTS:

An accurate and exact map of each underground mine in the State shall be made by a competent engineer, showing the exact position of the mine in relation to section lines, any branches, creeks or rivers under which said mine may extend, and as near as possible the position of any old or abandoned mine near by. This map must be corrected every twelve months and filed in the office of the inspector.

On or before the twenty-fifth day of January in each year the operator or superintendent of every coal, iron and clay mine, or limestone quarry, shall send to the mine inspector a correct report, specifying with respect to the year ending with the thirty-first day of December preceding, the name of the operator and office of the mine and the quantity of coal, ore, clay or limestone mined. The report shall be in such form and give such information regarding such mine or quarry as may be from time to time required and prescribed by the mine inspector. Blank forms for such reports will be furnished by the mine inspector.

IV. BOARD OF EXAMINERS:

The inspector of mines shall, together with two mining engineers and one practical miner, to be appointed by the Governor for two years, constitute a Board of Examiners. The said board shall be empowered to grant certificates of competency of two grades, namely: Certificates of the first class to persons who have had experience in mines generating explosive gases, and who shall have the necessary qualification to fulfil the duties of mine foremen in such mines; and certificates of the second class to persons who give satisfactory evidence of their ability to act as mine foremen in mines not generating explosive gases. Applicants for first and second class mine foremen's certificates shall be at least twenty-three years of age and shall have had at least five years' practical experience after having attained to the age of fifteen years, as miners, superintendents, at or inside of any iron ore or coal mine in this State, and shall be citizens of this State and men of good moral character and of known temperate habits. No person shall act as mine foreman in any iron ore or coal mine in this State generating explosive gases unless in possession of a first-class certificate of competency.

V. ACCIDENT:

When an explosion or other accident causing loss of life shall occur in a mine it shall be the duty of the person in charge of the mine to give immediate notice to the mine inspector, who will repair at once to the mine and make such suggestions as may appear necessary to secure the safety of any persons who may be endangered. He shall also investigate the cause of the accident and keep a record thereof on file.

VI. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

Ventilation: Every coal mine, whether worked by shaft, slope or drift, shall be provided with sufficient ventilation for each and every person employed therein, and ventilating doors shall be so hung as to close automatically.

The cages used for the purpose of hoisting and lowering persons in and out of the mine must be provided with sufficient cover and with improved safety catches. An adequate brake and a proper indicator showing the position of such cage shall be attached to every drum or machine used in operating such cages.

When a place is likely to contain a dangerous accumulation of gases or water, approaching works shall not exceed eight feet in width, and there shall be constantly kept at a sufficient distance ahead, not less than three yards in advance, one bore hole near the center of the working and sufficient flank bore holes on each side.

When gas is known to exist, the owner, agent or operator of any coal mine shall employ a competent fire boss, whose duty it shall be to examine every place in the mine before the men are permitted to enter for work. Said fire boss shall be at some convenient place each day to inform every man as to the state or condition of his working place before entering. Said works shall be carefully examined every morning with a safety lamp by the fire boss before the workmen are allowed to enter therein.

No woman shall be employed to labor or work about any mine in this State, nor any boy under the age of ten years.

Whenever required by the inspector, two openings shall be made to a mine within a reasonable time, one to be used as an escape way.

Owners, agents and operators of any coal mine shall keep a sufficient supply of props and other timber used in the mines, so that the workmen may, at any time, be able to prop their working places, and the owner, agent, or operator shall afford the miners working in their mines proper facilities for the delivery of props and other timber needed by them in their respective working places.

An abstract of the rules relating to mines enacted by the State shall be posted in some conspicuous place at or near the mine, and any person injuring or defacing such abstract shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

VII. MISDEMEANORS:

Any person or persons who shall intentionally or carelessly injure any shaft, safety lamp, instrument, air course or brattice, or obstruct or throw open airways or take matches for any purpose, or pipes or other smokers' articles beyond any station inside of which locked safety lamps are used, or injure any part of the machinery, or open a door in the mine and not close it again immediately, or open any door the opening of which is forbidden, or use any oil not known to be the best miners' oil in lamps, or do any act whatsoever whereby the lives or the health of persons or the security of the mines or machinery is endangered, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof by a court of competent jurisdiction be punished by a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

VIII. ENGINEERS:

The owner, agent or operator of any coal mine shall place in charge of any engine used for conveying into and hoisting out of such mine, none but an experienced, competent and sober engineer. No engineer in charge of such engine or machinery shall allow any person—except such as may be deputed for that purpose by the owner, agent or operator—to interfere with it, and no person shall interfere with, or in any way intimidate the engineer in the discharge of his duty.

IX. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The mine inspector, miners employed in the mines, and owners of lands, or persons interested in the rental and royalty of such mines, shall at all proper times have full right and access to all scales used at said mines, including bank book in which the weight of coal is kept, and to examine the amount of coal mined for the purpose of testing the accuracy thereof. In all mines where miners or laborers are paid by weight of coal or ore mined or cut, said weighing is to be done honestly and carefully, and the mining inspector must test the scales at least once every six months; oftener if complaint in writing be made to him.

X. ENCROACHMENT:

Whenever the owner or lessee of any land, adjacent to other lands upon which any mine is being worked, has reason to believe that his land is being encroached upon by said mine, he may, after notice to the mine owner, upon making affidavit to the Probate judge, procure an order from said Probate judge to enter said mine with a competent surveyor for the purpose of inspection of the same, and if admission be refused to said adjacent land holder or engineer, the owner or operator of the mine shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense. (Acts 1892-93, p. 331.)

II. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The right of eminent domain may be exercised in behalf of canals, ditches, flumes, aqueducts and pipes for public transportation, supplying mines and farming neighborhoods with water, etc.; roads, tunnels, ditches, flumes, pipes and dumping places for working mines; also outlets, natural or otherwise, for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from mines; also an occupancy in common by the owners or possessors of different mines of any place for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from their several mines.

III. LIENS:

All persons who may labor or furnish material of any kind in the construction, alteration or repair of any canal, water-ditch, flume or aqueduct, or reservoir, bridge, fence, or other structure or improvement, and to whom money or wages are due or owing therefor, shall hereafter have a lien upon the same for such sums as are unpaid. All miners, laborers and others who may labor, and all persons who may furnish material of any kind, designed or used in or upon any mine or mining claim, and to whom wages are due for such labor or material, shall have a lien upon the same for such sums as are unpaid. The word agent, as used in this act, shall be construed to include all contractors, sub-contractors, architects, builders and persons who have the charge or control of any mine, mining claim, canal, water-ditch, flume, aqueduct, reservoir, fence, bridge, mill, manufactory, hoisting-works or other property or thing upon which labor had been performed or material furnished. The liens provided for in this act are preferred to all liens, mortgages and other incumbrances which shall have attached upon the property subsequent to the time when the labor was commenced or the material commenced to be furnished. Also to all liens, mortgages and other incumbrances of which the lien-holder had no notice, either actual or constructive, at the time he commenced the labor or commenced to furnish the material.

No lien created by this act shall continue for a longer period than six months after the filing thereof in the county recorder's office of the proper county, unless suit is brought within such period in the proper court to enforce the same. In suits to enforce liens all lien-holders interested may be joined as plaintiffs where their interests do not conflict, and in case of conflict of interests a part may be joined as plaintiffs and a part may be made defendants. The assignee of any contract or account for material furnished or labor performed may attest, file, record and enforce the same as if he had been the original holder thereof.

The procedure to enforce the lien provided in this act shall be the same as in other civil cases.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any number of persons may associate themselves together and become incorporated for the transaction of any lawful business. Articles of incorporation must contain: 1. Names of corporators, name of corporation and principal place of transacting business. 2. General nature of the business proposed to be transacted. 3. Amount of capital stock authorized, and times when and conditions upon which it is to be paid in. 4. The time of commencement and termination of corporation. 5. By what officers or persons affairs of corporation are to be conducted, and times at which they are to be elected. 6. Highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. 7. Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts. Unless so exempted, stockholders are liable for debts of the corporation, in the proportion which their stock bears to the whole capital stock.

Every corporation shall publish, for at least six days, in some newspaper published in the county in which its principal place of business is located or works established, if there be one, and if not, then in some newspaper having a general circulation in such county, a copy of its articles of incorporation.

Corporations for the construction of any work of internal improvement may be formed to endure for fifty years; those formed for any other purposes shall not exceed twenty-five years in duration, but in either case they may be renewed from time to time for a period not greater than was at first permissible, when three-fourths of the votes cast at any regular election held for that purpose shall be in favor of such renewal.

Before commencing any business, except that of their own organization, they must adopt articles of incorporation, which shall be signed and acknowledged by them, as deeds are required to be acknowledged, and recorded in a book for that purpose, in the office of the county recorder of the county where the principal place of business is to be. The corporation may commence business as soon as the articles are filed for record in the office of the county recorder, and their acts shall be valid if the publication in a newspaper is made, and the copy filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory where such filing is necessary, within three months from such filing in the recorder's office. No change in any of the foregoing particulars shall be valid unless recorded and published as the original articles are required to be; nor shall any change be made at any time or in any manner which would be inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

II. DISSOLUTION:

The corporation shall not be dissolved prior to the period fixed upon in the articles of incorporation, except by majority of stock of its members, unless a different rule is adopted in the articles. And no such premature dissolution shall take place unless preceded by the newspaper publication required at its organization.

Any corporation organized or attempted to be organized in accordance with the provisions of this act shall cease to exist by non-user of its franchises for five years at any one time; but such body shall not forfeit its franchises by reason of any omission to elect officers or to hold meetings at any time prescribed by the by-laws. Corporations whose charters expire by their own limitation, or by the voluntary act of the stockholders, may, nevertheless, continue to act for the purpose of closing up the business but for no other purpose.

III. FRAUD:

Intentional fraud in failing or refusing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation shall be misdemeanor, and, upon indictment and conviction in a court of competent jurisdiction, the party or parties so offending shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, or a fine and imprisonment both, at the discretion of the jury; and any person who has sustained injury from any such fraud may also recover damages therefor against those guilty thereof. The intentional keeping of false books or accounts by any corporation, whereby anyone is injured, shall be a misdemeanor on the part of those concerned therein, and they, upon trial and conviction, shall be fined any sum not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

IV. TRANSFER OF STOCK:

Transfers of the stock shall not be valid, except as between the parties thereto, until the same are regularly entered upon the books of the company, so as to show the names of the persons by whom and to whom the transfer is made, the numbers or other designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer. The books of the company shall be so kept as to show intelligently the original stockholders, their respective interests, the amount which has been paid thereon, and all transfers thereof; and such books or correct copies thereof, so far as they relate to the items mentioned in this section, shall at all times be subject to the inspection of any stockholder desiring the same. Mortgagees of shares of stock in any company are prohibited from voting at any election, general or special. The right to vote is restricted to the owner of the shares.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Nothing herein shall exempt the stockholders of any corporation from individual liability to the amount of the unpaid installments on the stock owned by them or transferred to them for the purpose of defrauding creditors; and an execution against the corporation to that extent may be levied upon the private property of such individual.

VI. FUNDS:

For the purpose of making repairs, building or enlarging or extending works, or to meet contingencies, or for the purpose of providing a sinking fund for the payment of debts, the corporation may establish a fund and loan the same out from time to time, taking in all cases a good and sufficient security for the payment of the same.

VII. IN LEGAL PROCESS:

In any proceeding by or against a corporation, the court shall have the power to compel the officers of the corporation, on motion of either party, upon proper cause being shown, to produce the books of the corporation, and when so produced either party may use the same in evidence.

Persons acting as a corporation under the provisions of this act shall be presumed to be legally organized until the contrary is shown, and no such franchise shall be declared to be actually null and forfeited, except in a regular proceeding brought for that purpose. No persons acting as a corporation under the provisions of this act shall be permitted to set up or rely upon the want of a legal organization as a defense to any action brought against them as a corporation; nor shall any person who may be sued on a contract made with such corporation, or sued for an injury done to its property, or for a wrong done to its interests, be permitted to rely upon such want of legal organization in his defense.

VIII. CONSTRUCTION OF WAYS:

No corporation organized under the provisions of this act for the purpose of doing a mining or manufacturing business shall have power to construct or operate any railroad, tramway, turnpike or canal, except such as may lead from its principal works or place of business to some navigable stream or to some existing railroad, turnpike or public highway.

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Any company organized under the laws of any other state or territory, for any enterprise, business, pursuit or occupation proposed to be carried on, or the principal office or place of business of which is proposed to be located within this Territory, shall make and file certified and duly authenticated copies of their articles of incorporation with the Secretary of this Territory and the county recorder of the county in which its business or principal office is located. Such company, or a company organized in a foreign country for like purpose, shall file with the Secretary of this Territory and the county recorder of such county the lawful appointment of an agent upon whom all notices and processes, including service of summons, may be served, and when so served shall be deemed and taken and held to be a lawful personal service for all purposes. Every act done by such corporation prior to the filing of the articles of incorporation and the appointment of such agent shall be utterly void. Such agents must be bona fide residents of the county; the appointment shall be by resolution of the company, signed by its president, manager or secretary, stating the full name and residence of such agent. Should any agent so appointed absent himself from the county in which his appointment is filed for a period of two months consecutively, and no other agent be appointed for such corporation within four months after the commencement of such absence of such agent, the right to transact business by the corporation represented by such agent shall cease, and all acts or contracts performed or made thereafter shall, at the option of any person interested, be declared null and void. Compliance with these provisions confers all rights and privileges enjoyed by any company organized under the Territorial laws; provided, that a corporation organized under the laws of any foreign country shall take, receive, possess, hold, acquire or own at any one time not more than three hundred and twenty acres of real estate, exclusive of mines and mineral lands and land necessary or convenient for milling, smelting, reducing or working ores, or for manufacturing or commercial purposes.

MINING.

I. CORPORATIONS:

The organization of corporations or companies for the development or operation of mining or quarrying lands is covered under the head of "Corporations," No. I.

II. DISTRICT REGULATIONS:

The mining districts heretofore or hereafter created in the several counties of this Territory are hereby authorized and empowered to make all necessary rules and regulations for the location, registering and working of mines therein; provided, that all locations and registrations of mines and mineral deposits hereafter made shall be filed with the county recorder for record within sixty days after the same shall have been located.

III. LOCATION AND RECORD:

The size of claim, annual work required to be done thereon, and the manner of location are regulated solely by United States statutes, but the following regulations imposed by the Territorial Legislature must be observed:

Every notice of location of a mining claim shall contain: 1. The name of the claim located. 2. The name of the locator. 3. The date of location. 4. The number of feet in length of said claim and the number of feet claimed on each side of the center of the discovery shaft, lengthwise of the claim. 5. The general course of the lode deposit or premises located. 6. The locality of the claim with reference to some natural object or permanent monument, such as will identify the claim.

All mining locations shall be absolutely void unless the certificate of location thereof shall contain: 1. The name of the lode or premises. 2. The name of the locator or locators. 3. The date of location. 4. The number of feet in length of said claim and the number of feet claimed on each side of the center of the discovery shaft, lengthwise of the claim. 5. The general course of the lode or premises, as near as may be. 6. The locality of the claim with such reference to some natural object or permanent monument as will identify the claim.

Before filing such location certificate with the county recorder of the proper county, the discoverer shall locate his claim by: 1. Sinking a discovery shaft upon the premises so claimed, to a depth of at least ten feet from the lowest part of the rim of such shaft at the surface, and deeper if necessary, until there is shown by such work a lode deposit or mineral in place. 2. By posting at the point of discovery, on the surface, a plain sign or notice, substantially conforming to the location certificate. 3. By marking such claim or premises on the ground, so that its boundaries can be readily traced. Such surface boundaries shall be marked by eight substantial posts, projecting at least three feet above the surface of the ground, or by substantial stone monuments at least three feet high, to-wit: One at each corner of said claim, and one at the center of each end and side line thereof.

Any open cut, cross cut, adit or tunnel which shall be made as above provided for, as a part of the location of a mining claim, and which shall be equal in amount of work to a shaft ten feet deep and four feet wide by six feet long, and which shall cut a lode or mineral in place at the depth of ten feet from the surface, shall be equivalent, as a discovery work, to a shaft sunk from the surface.

The discoverer shall have ninety days from the date of discovering the lode, and the posting of the notice thereon, to perform said discovery work thereon. If at any time the locator of any mining claim heretofore or hereafter located, or his assigns, shall learn that his original certificate was defective, or that the requirements of the law had not been complied with before filing, or shall be desirous of changing his surface boundaries, or of taking in any additional ground which is subject to location, or in case the original certificate was made prior to the passage of this law (July 1, 1895), and he shall be desirous of securing the benefits of this act, such locator or his assigns may file an amended certificate of location, subject to the provisions of this act regarding the making of new locations.

IV. ASSESSMENT WORK:

The amount of assessment or representation work or improvements to be done or made during each year, after the completion of the location as heretofore provided, and the time for doing the same, shall be as provided by the laws of the United States. Within three months after the expiration of the period of time fixed for the performance of annual labor, or the making of improvements upon any mining claim or premises, the person on whose behalf such work or improvement was made, or some person for him, knowing the facts, may make and record in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein such claim is situate, an affidavit setting forth the name and location of the lode or claim, the name of the owner or owners, the extent, nature and value of the work done, and the names of the men performing the same for the said owner.

Such affidavit shall be made before a notary public, under his official seal, and when so recorded shall be prima facie evidence of the performance of such labor or the making of such improvements, and said original affidavit, after it has been recorded, or a certified copy of record of same, shall be received as evidence accordingly by all the courts of this Territory.

V. RE-LOCATION:

The re-location of forfeited or abandoned lode claims shall only be made by sinking a new discovery shaft and fixing new boundaries in the same manner and to the same extent as is required in making a new location; or the re-locator may sink the original discovery shaft ten (10) feet deeper than it was at date of commencement of such re-location, and shall erect new, or make the old monuments the same as originally required. In either case a new location monument shall be erected, and the location certificate shall state if the whole or any part of the new location is located as abandoned property.

VI. DELINQUENT CO-OWNERS:

Whenever a co-owner or co-owners shall give to a delinquent co-owner or co-owners the notice in writing or notice by publication provided for in Section 2324 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, an affidavit of the person giving such notice, stating the time, place, manner of service and by whom and upon whom such service was made, shall be attached to a true copy of such notice, and such notice and affidavit must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the mining claim is situated, within ninety (90) days after the giving of such notice; or, if such notice is given by publication in a newspaper, there shall be attached to a printed copy of such notice an affidavit of the editor, publisher or foreman of such paper, stating the date of the first, last and each insertion of such notice therein, and when and where the newspaper was published during that time, and the name of such newspaper.

Such affidavit and notice shall be recorded, as aforesaid, within one hundred and eighty (180) days after the first publication thereof. The original of such notice and affidavits, or the records thereof, shall be the evidence that the delinquent mentioned in said Section 2324 has failed or refused to contribute his proportion of the expenditure required by that section, and of the service or publication of said notice; provided the writing or affidavit hereinafter provided for is not of record.

If such delinquent shall, within the ninety days required by Section 2324 aforesaid, contribute to his co-owner or co-owners his porportion of such expenditure, such co-owner or co-owners shall sign and deliver to the delinquent or delinquents a writing, stating that the delinquent or delinquents, by name, has, within the time required by Section 2324 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, contributed his share for the then year upon the said mine, by name, and further stating therein the district, county and territory where the same is situate, and the book and page where the location notice is recorded. Such writing shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of said county.

If such co-owner or co-owners shall fail to sign and deliver such writing to the delinquent or delinquents, within twenty days after such contribution, the co-owner or co-owners so failing as aforesaid shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by any person for the use of the delinquent or delinquents, in any court of competent jurisdiction. If such co-owner or co-owners fail to deliver such writing within said twenty days, then the delinquent, with two disinterested persons having personal knowledge of such contribution, may make an affidavit, setting forth in what manner, the amount of, to whom and upon what mine such contribution was made. Such affidavit or a record thereof in the office of the county recorder of the county in which said mine is situate shall be prima facie evidence of such contribution.

In all actions, proceedings, judgments, grants, notices, conveyances or writings it shall be a sufficient description of a mining claim if it can be intelligently learned therefrom the name of the claim, the district, county and Territory where same is situate, and the book and page where the notice thereof is recorded.

VII. MANIPULATION OF ORES WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD:

Every person who shall mingle or cause to be mingled with any sample of gold or silver bearing ore any valuable metal or substance whatever that will increase or in any manner change the value of said ore, with the intent to deceive, cheat or defraud any person or persons, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, or by confinement in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than ten years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

VIII. DRAINAGE:

Whenever adjacent or contiguous mines, whether worked upon the same or separate lodes, have a common ingress or common drainage, they shall bear their proportionate share of such drainage expense to prevent the flowing of water upon neighboring mines. In case of failure to drain, whereby occupants of adjacent or contiguous mines are compelled to provide for water flowing in from first-mentioned mine, parties in default shall pay their proportion of actual and necessary cost of providing for said water, to be recovered by action. Common interests may unite in draining such mines, as a corporation, with all the rights, incidents and liabilities of a body corporate, so far as the same may be applicable. Failing to agree as above indicated, one or more of said parties, after reasonable notice to others interested, may drain, dividing and recovering by action the proportionate expense thereof. In an action to recover such expense, examination of the mines may be had before trial, under order of court, upon at least three days' notice; provided defendant has refused plaintiff or his agent the privilege to make said examination. These provisions do not apply to unopened or undeveloped mines.

IX. SALE BY PROBATE COURT:

Mines or interests therein belonging to estates of decedents may be sold by order of Probate Court having jurisdiction of the estate, upon petition by party in interest, and personal service on all persons interested in the estate of order to show cause, etc.

X. WATER RIGHTS:

The common-law doctrine of riparian rights is abolished. All rivers, creeks and streams of running water are public and applicable to the purposes of irrigation and mining. Rights in acequias, or irrigating canals, heretofore established, shall not be disturbed, nor the course of such acequias be changed without consent of the proprietors of such established rights. Right to irrigate shall be preferable to all others, and shall not be obstructed or impeded by the erection of any dam, mill, machinery, or by any sluice or dyke, except for mining purposes or reduction of metals as hereinafter provided. When reduction works or other mining apparatus shall be placed upon lands previously held for agricultural purposes, the holder thereof shall be entitled to a remuneration to be fixed by appraisement of damages.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments of deeds within the State may be taken before the Supreme Court, the Circuit Court, or either of the judges thereof, or the clerk of any court of record, or any justice of the peace or notary public. Anywhere else within the United States, or their territories, before any Federal, State or Territorial Court having a seal, or the clerk of any such court, notary public, mayor of any city or town, or chief officer of any city or town having a seal, or a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State. Out of the United States, before any court having a seal, any mayor or chief officer of any city or town having a seal, or any officer of any foreign country, authorized by the laws of such country to take probate of conveyance of real estate of his own country, having an official seal, or before the clerk of any court of record of the Indian country, embracing the five civilized tribes.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens may own, devise, transmit, inherit, or in any way acquire or dispose of lands or other property.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments for the benefit of creditors may be made with or without preference, with the exception that no preferences are allowed among creditors of insolvent corporations, except for wages and salaries of laborers and employes. Assignee must give bond in double the amount of property assigned, and must sell at auction within one hundred and twenty days, all the property assigned to him for the payment of debts. Proof of fraud on the part of the assignor is sufficient to invalidate the assignment, whether the assignee knew of it or not.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Plaintiff in civil action, arising on contract, may at or after commencement thereof have attachment against property of defendant where said defendant is non-resident of the State, or foreign corporation, or has been absent four months from the State, or has departed from it with intent to defraud his creditors, or has left the county of his residence to avoid service of a summons, or conceals himself so that a summons cannot be served upon him, or has transferred, sold, conveyed or removed his property out of the State with fraudulent intent, or is about to sell, remove or dispose of the same with such fraudulent intent, not leaving enough to pay all his debts. Under a writ of attachment debts due the defendant may be garnisheed. Plaintiff must give bond with sureties, conditioned to pay all damages defendant may sustain if the order of attachment is wrongfully obtained.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims not exhibited within two years after the grant of letters are barred. Claims in favor of the executor or administrator, against the estate of his testator or intestate, must be established by competent testimony in the Probate Court; and the executor or administrator must make the same affidavit to his claim which is required of other persons. Claims against estates are payable in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of last sickness, wages of servants and demands for medicines and medical attendance during last illness. 3. Judgments rendered against deceased in his lifetime which are liens on his lands. 4. All other demands exhibited within one year after the grant of letters. 5. All such demands exhibited after the end of one year from the grant of letters, and within two years thereafter. All actions pending against deceased at the time of his death, and revived against his personal representative, are considered as legally exhibited against his estate from the time of such revival. All actions commenced against an executor or administrator are considered as demands legally exhibited against his estate from the time of service of process. Claims are exhibited by delivering to the executor or administrator a copy of the judgment, note, or other written contract, and exhibiting the original; or if the claim is on an account, an itemized account must be delivered. The claimant must append to his demand an affidavit that nothing has been paid or delivered toward the satisfaction of the demand except what is credited thereon, and that the sum of —— dollars above demanded is justly due. The affidavit may be made by anyone acquainted with the facts. If not made by the claimant, it must state that the affiant is acquainted with the facts sworn to. The administrator may allow the claim by indorsing his approval. If the claim is approved it shall be by the claimant returned into the Probate Court for allowance and classification. If rejected, the claimant must give the administrator ten days' notice of the presentation of the claim to the Probate Court for allowance. That court will hear and determine all such demands; and its concise entry of the allowance of a claim has the same force as a judgment.

VI. COURTS:

Circuit Courts with original jurisdiction over all civil cases exceeding one hundred dollars excluding interest, are held twice a year in each county. In Pulaski county, in which Little Rock is situated, suits may be commenced at any time, and if service is had twenty days before the term adjourns, defense must be filed, or judgment by default may be taken. Justices have original jurisdiction in matters of contract up to one hundred dollars, and concurrent up to three hundred dollars, excluding interest. Where there are two or more defendants, living in different counties, suit may be brought before a justice of the peace in the county in which any one of the defendants resides, and summons issued to the other counties for the other defendant or defendants. Courts of Common Pleas are authorized by the constitution, and are established in a few counties, with specially defined jurisdiction in matters of contract, etc., varying from five hundred to one thousand dollars.

VIII. DEEDS:

The husband must join in conveyance of wife's lands, acquired before October 13th, 1874. In case of lands acquired since that date, the wife may convey as a single person, or in the statutory form for conveyances by married women. Wife must join with husband in deed of his lands—or her dower does not pass—and the certificate of acknowledgment must show that the wife acknowledged her relinquishment of dower. Deeds and mortgages are not required to be filed for record within any specified time. Mortgages are not liens until filed for record.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions may be used on the trial of all issues in any action where the witness does not reside in the county where the action is pending, or is absent from the State, or resides more than thirty miles from the place where the court sits in which the action is pending, and may be taken de bene esse, or upon reasonable notice to the adverse party, or upon interrogatories and commission. Reasonable notice is one day for each thirty miles of travel, and one day for preparation, where the distance is one hundred miles or less, and two days when it is more. Where the distance exceeds fifty miles, and the usual mode of travel for the whole or part of the distance is by steamboat, railway, or other public conveyance, the time ordinarily required by such mode of travel, with the days of preparation, shall be deemed sufficient in the notice. Where more than three days' notice has been given to take a deposition out of the State, the party may, by notice to adverse party, or his attorney, served in one day after service of the first notice, require the deposition to be taken upon interrogatories. Where a deposition is taken upon interrogatories, neither the party nor his agent or attorney shall be present, unless both parties are present or represented, unless the opposite party, or his agent or attorney, has been seasonably notified of the time and place of the examination, or the party attending has been notified by the adverse party to attend. The court has power to order that depositions taken in another county in the State shall be taken on interrogatories. The certificate of the officer must state the time and place of taking the deposition; that the witness was duly sworn before he gave his testimony, and that his testimony was written, and read to, and subscribed by him, in the presence of the officer; and also state by whom it was written, and which of the parties, in person, or by agent or attorney, was present at the examination of the witness. When the depositions are completed, they shall be sealed up by the officer, and directed to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, with an indorsement thereon, showing them to be depositions, and the style of the case, and either delivered or mailed to the clerk by the officer taking them; except that depositions taken out of the State, sealed and directed as above, may be delivered to the party taking the same, his agent or attorney, to be by him delivered, such person so delivering them taking an oath that they have not been opened by him, or other person to his knowledge. The statement of the witness must be written in the presence of the officer taking it, either by the witness or the officer. Depositions may be taken in the State before any judge, clerk of record, justice of the peace, mayor of a city, or notary public. Depositions may be taken out of this State before a commissioner appointed by the Governor thereof, a judge of a court, a justice of the peace, mayor of a city, notary public, or any other person empowered by a commission directed to him, by consent of the parties or by order of the court. Where a deposition is taken out of the State before an officer having no seal, his official character should be certified by a clerk of a court of record of the county.

X. DESCENT:

Real and personal property descends: 1. To children and their descendants, in equal parts. 2. If there be no children, to the father, then to the mother; if no mother, then to the brothers or sisters, or their descendants in equal parts. 3. If there be no children, father, mother, brothers, or sisters, not their descendants, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aurts, and their descendants, in equal parts, and so on in other cases without rest, passing to the nearest lineal ancestor and their children and descendants, in equal parts. Where there are descendants of the intestate the property descends to them per capita if in equal degree and per stirpes in unequal degree. In case of real estate, if the inheritance was ancestral and came from the father's side, then it will go to the line on the part of the father, not in postponement, but in exclusion of the mother's line, and conversely where the inheritance came from the mother's side. If the inheritance is not ancestral, but a new acquisition, then, after a life estate reserved in succession to the father and mother, if alive, it will go in remainder, first, to the line of the intestate's paternal uncles and aunts and their descendants, in postponement of the mother's line until the former becomes extinct; and then to the line of the intestate's maternal uncles and aunts and their descendants, unless there should be kindred lineal or collateral, who either in right of propinquity or by right of representation, stand in a nearer relationship to the intestate than the uncles and aunts; in which cases such nearer kindred would take the inheritance to the exclusion of both of these collateral lines; and in their hands it would become an ancestral estate, and afterwards go in the blood of the relative whence it came in the ordinary course of descent prescribed for ancestral inheritances. The half blood and their descendants take personalty as well as realty, equal with the whole blood, except they are excluded from real estate when ancestral, if they lack the blood of the transmitting ancestor. Posthumous children of the intestate inherit as if born in the life of the intestate, but other posthumous children not born at his death do not inherit from him. Illegitimate children are capable of inheriting and transmitting an inheritance on the part of the mother.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

Executions are returnable sixty days from date from the Circuit Court, and thirty days from a justice's court. Where execution from Circuit Court has not been stayed, sales are made on a credit of three months on bond and security, said bond having the force of a judgment if forfeited. Execution may be stayed for six months by defendant giving bond with security for judgment, interest, and costs, which bond has the force and effect of a judgment. Sales under a justice of peace execution are for cash in hand.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

Homestead of married person or head of family in country not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, with improvements, not to exceed two thousand five hundred dollars; but in no case can the homestead be reduced below eighty acres, without regard to value. In any town, city or village, homestead of one acre, with improvements, of total value of two thousand five hundred dollars, not reducible below one-fourth of an acre, without regard to value. Personal property of married person or head of a family, five hundred dollars besides wearing apparel; unmarried, or not head of a family, two hundred dollars and wearing apparel. No conveyance, mortgage or other instrument affecting homestead of a married man (except for taxes, laborer's and mechanic's lien) is valid unless the wife joins in, and acknowledges same. Debtor may select and claim his homestead, before or after sale on execution, whenever suit is brought for possession. If he neglects to claim it, his wife may do so.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent., but contracts may be made for any rate not exceeding ten per cent. Interest begins to run on an open account from the time payment is unreasonably withheld. Judgments bear the same interest as contract sued on, if in such instrument the words "until paid" are used concerning the payment of interest. But if the words "per annum" alone are used, then, regardless of the rate stipulated, the judgment would draw six per cent. Usury forfeits principal and interest.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments and decrees of Circuit Courts are liens on real estate of defendant within the county in which the court is held and on personal property from the time execution is received by the sheriff. Judgments of justices of the peace become a lien on real estate by filing a transcript with the clerk of the court, and are a lien on personal property from the time execution is received by the constable. Executions may be issued on judgment until it is barred by the statute of limitations. Judgments are rendered at first term of a court of record if no defense is made. Executions cannot issue on justice s judgment after a lapse of five years. If the judgment is over ten dollars, exclusive of costs, plaintiff may, within five years, file transcript of judgment in the circuit clerk's office, and it then has the force and effect of a Circuit Court judgment.

XV. LIENS:

Every mechanic, builder, artisan, laborer or other person, has a lien for work done, and materials or money furnished, on any building, erection or improvement made by him, and upon the land upon which the same is situated, to the extent of one acre in the country, or on the lots of land in a town or city. When the material or property on which a lien exists has been sold or transferred, prior to the release or satisfaction of the lien, the purchaser with notice of such lien, as well as the property, is liable for the amount due. The lien attaches to leasehold interest in land. A just and true account of the demand for lien must be filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court in the county where the property is situated, within ninety days after the lien accrues, and all actions to enforce the lien must be commenced within ninety days after filing the account.

All laborers, including miners in this State, who perform work under a written or verbal contract, have an absolute lien on the production of their labor and for materials furnished, when unpaid for the same. To avail themselves of such lien they must file a sworn statement in the court having jurisdiction of the amounts, showing amount due, with list of land, property, crops or other production of labor and materials furnished. This sworn statement answers the place of an attachment. Such proceedings must be commenced within eight months after the work is done. Summons issues and trial is had as in ordinary suits, if served thirty days before day of trial in Circuit Court and ten days before a justice of the peace.

Landlords also have liens for rent of land. See "XIV. Judgments," and "XIX. Mortgages."

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Accounts, three years; notes, five years; judgments, ten years; sealed instruments executed prior to March 7th, 1889, ten years; executed after that date, five years. A written acknowledgment of indebtedness or promise to pay, or a part payment, revives the debt. Limitation of actions for the recovery of real estate, seven years. Usual saving clause in favor of infants, married women, and insane persons, but not as to non-residents. Suits to foreclose mortgages or trust deeds are barred unless brought within the period of limitation, so as to affect rights of third parties, unless mortgagee, trustee, or beneficiary, prior to expiration of limitation, endorses memorandum and date of such payment on margin of the record of the mortgage or trust deed; where the debt would be barred in less than one year from March 25th, 1868, mortgagee is allowed one year from that date to bring an action to enforce his lien.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Married women have the same absolute and unqualified right in property of every description, when acquired, as femmes sole, and the same is not liable for debts or contracts of the husband. To entitle a married woman to her right as to personal property, she must cause such separate property to be recorded in her name in the county of her residence. She may carry on business on her sole and separate account, and she may sue or be sued alone on account of her separate property, business, or services; and she may contract and bind herself in respect to such separate property or business, and no such contract shall be binding on her husband, or render him or his property in any way liable therefor. She may convey property by agent duly appointed by power of attorney. In all actions where a married woman is a party—except as to such separate property or business—her husband must be joined with her in the suit. Widow takes dower in one-third of all lands of which the husband was seized of an estate of inheritance during marriage, unless legally relinquished; also an absolute one-third of all personalty. Where there are no children she takes one-half of realty in fee simple when the estate is a new acquisition, and one-half of the personal estate absolutely, as against collateral heirs; but as against creditors she takes one-third of the real estate in fee simple, and one-third of the personalty absolutely. But if the real estate is ancestral, she takes life estate in one-half as against collateral heirs and one-third as against creditors. The Supreme Court of Arkansas has decided that a wife cannot form a business partnership with her husband; nor can she release dower in favor of her husband; and husband and wife are incapable of contracting with each other.

XVIII. MILLS:

Milldams may be erected at will across non-navigable streams, by the owner of the land or stream, unless likely to cause damage to the property or health of others. If likely to so damage others, a petition must be filed in the Circuit Court and a writ of ad quod damnum issues, and a jury of inquest is appointed to ascertain and report whether the dam can be erected so as not to materially injure health and not to obstruct the passage of fish; and if it may be erected, to assess damages to owners of adjacent lands. Provision is also made for condemning as much as one acre of land for abutment of the dam if the builder owns only one side of the stream. All dams not made in compliance with the law shall be deemed public nuisances and dealt with accordingly.

XIX. MORTGAGES:

Real estate and chattel mortgages are acknowledged same as deeds, and are not liens until filed for record, though good between the parties. May be foreclosed by complaint in equity. Mortgages for real estate to be recorded in the county or counties where the lands lie. Chattel mortgages must be acknowledged as other mortgages. May be filed and not recorded at option of mortgagee, and are liens from time of filing for one year. If the mortgagor of personal property is a non-resident of the State, chattel mortgage must be recorded, or "filed and not recorded," in the county in which the property is situated at the time the mortgage is executed. When marked "filed" by the recorder, the mortgage is a lien from date of filing. Trust deeds must be acknowledged and filed same as mortgages. Before sale under mortgages, the property must be appraised under oath or affirmation, by three disinterested householders appointed by a justice of the county where the property is situated, and must bring two-thirds of the appraised value, or it is reserved from sale twelve months, if real estate, and thirty days, if personal property. At second offering it is sold for what it will bring. The mortgagor is not permitted to waive his right of appraisement or redemption. It is a misdemeanor, or punishable by fine, to sell or remove beyond the limits of the county personal property on twelve months after execution of the mortgage.

Chattel creates no lien, unless the crop is planted within which mortgage rests. Mortgage given on a crop to be

XX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Commercial paper may be defined in general terms as that species of contracts used in the transaction of business as a representative of value, consisting of promissory notes, bills of exchange, and checks, etc. There is no law requiring it to be paid at a bank, or any other fixed place. Foreign and inland bills of exchange are governed by mercantile law as to days of grace, protest and notice. All indorsers or assignors of any instrument in writing assignable by law, which by its terms is payable "without discount or defalcation," may be notified of non-payment or protest of such instrument, and are equally liable with the maker, obligee or payee thereof, or may be sued separately. Sunday, Christmas Day, January 1st, February 22d, July 4th, and Thanksgiving Day, are the legal holidays in the State. Bills of exchange, notes, etc., falling due on either of these holidays are payable on the next day preceding, and may be noted and protested on such next preceding day; but notice and protest the next day after the holiday is valid and effectual. Payer of notes given for "patent rights," or "patent right" territory, may make all defenses against assignee that could have been made against original payee, whether assigned before maturity or not.

XXI. SUITS:

Suits in the Circuit Court are commenced by filing written complaint signed by the party or his attorney, verified by affidavit of the party, but such verification is not required where the complaint is founded on a bill, note, or other written obligation. The first term is trial term, where the summons has been served within the county within which the action is brought, or in adjoining county ten days before the beginning of the term; twenty days elsewhere in the State, or sixty days outside the State.

Suits before a justice of the peace are commenced by filing the account or written contract, or short written statement of facts. Trial five days after service of summons where not exceeding fifty dollars is involved, and ten days if over fifty dollars is involved.

XXII. TAXES:

Taxes must be paid between the first Monday in January and the tenth day of April in each year. If not paid within the time required by law twenty-five per cent. penalty is added, and lands are advertised for two weeks and sold. Lands may be redeemed by the owner or agent or other person for the owner within two years, by payment of purchase money, penalty, and costs, and ten per cent. interest per annum; and by insane persons, persons in confinement, and minors, within two years after expiration of disabilities. Sale conveys absolute title, subject to such redemption.

Every person over twenty-one years old may devise realty and personalty, and all persons over eighteen may bequeath goods and chattels by last will and testament. Every will must be executed as follows: 1. It must be subscribed by the testator at the end of the will, or by some person for him at his request. 2. Such subscription shall be made by the testator in the presence of each of the attesting witnesses, or shall be acknowledged by him to have been so made to each of the attesting witnesses. 3. At the time of such subscribing or acknowledgment the testator shall declare the instrument so subscribed to be his last will and testament. 4. There shall be at least two attesting witnesses, each of whom shall sign his name as a witness at the end of the will at the request of the testator. 5. Where the entire body and signature of the will are in the handwriting of the testator it may be established by the unimpeachable evidence of at least three disinterested witnesses to the handwriting and signature of the testator without subscribing witnesses; but no such will shall be pleaded in bar of one subscribed in due form.

Nuncupative wills may be made during last illness, and must be proved by two witnesses, and are not good where the estate bequeathed exceeds five hundred dollars. A copy of a foreign will may be admitted to probate in this State if it appears by the copy of the probate in another state that it was so executed as to be a valid will of lands in this State by the laws thereof. Wills are proved and recorded in the office of the clerk of the Probate Court of the county in which the testator resided at the time of his death. If he had no known place of residence in this State, and land is devised, then in the county where the land, or the greater part thereof, lies. If no land is devised, then in the county where he died, or that in which his estate, or the greater part thereof, shall lie, or where there may be any debt or demand owing to him.

CORPORATIONS.

MINING AND QUARRYING COMPANIES:

There are no constitutional or statutory provisions especially relating to mining or quarrying companies. They are incorporated under a general law, provided for all incorporated companies, by filing articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State. There is no system of official examination, and no reports are made, except statement required to be made to assessor for the purpose of taxation.

An annual statement is required to be filed in the office of the county clerk by every corporation, showing its financial condition. There are no forms prescribed by the law for incorporation of such companies. The corporation may be formed by three or more persons entering into articles of association for that purpose. The directors must be at least three in number and chosen annually. They elect the president (who must be one of their number) and the other officers. The articles of association, with a certificate, sworn to by the directors, must be filed with the Secretary of State and clerk of the county where the corporation is to have its place of business. The corporation may, of course, issue and sell stock. The capital stock has to be divided into shares of $25 each, and the number of shares fixed in the articles of the association, but may be increased at a meeting of the stockholders called for the purpose. The stock can only be transferred on the books of the corporation in such form as the directors prescribe. A certificate of such transfer must be deposited with the county clerk and be noted by him in a book kept for that purpose. The personal liability of each share or stockholder is limited to the amount of his stock. His liability ceases at the date of the transfer of his stock. It is not necessary to advertise sale of stock in order to be relieved of liability.

MINING.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution provides for such laws as will foster and aid the agricultural, mining and manufacturing interests of the State; and for the health and safety of persons employed in mining. Under these provisions a bureau has been established, which is superintended by the Commissioner of Mines, Manufactures and Agriculture. His duties, so far as mines are concerned, is to keep a record of all individuals, companies and incorporations engaged in mining for coal, manganese, silver, lead, copper and other minerals, and of all persons and companies quarrying marble, granite, etc.; and to elicit from such persons and companies information as to extent of deposit, output, cost of production, etc.; also, to obtain information from persons owning mineral lands, as to locality, character of minerals, facilities for working and transportation, etc. He is required also to methodically arrange all such statistics, so as to furnish useful information to immigrants and persons seeking to invest capital in the State.

II. COMPANIES:

The formation of companies, associations or corporations for the development or operation of mineral or quarry lands is provided for under the corporation laws; such corporations being further amenable to the laws governing mining and quarrying operations.

III. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The Governor of the State is required to appoint an inspector of mines, who must be a practical miner, of not less than seven years' experience, a citizen, and a qualified elector of the State. He must take the usual oath of office. He shall not be interested as owner of any mine; and shall hold his office for two years, at a salary of fifteen hundred dollars per annum.

It is made his duty to visit and personally inspect all coal mines in the State, where twenty or more persons are employed to work under ground, at least once every ninety days, and see that precaution is taken to insure the health and safety of workmen employed in any of such mines.

He is required to make a report to the Governor, on the first day of every November, showing the number of mines, visits made by him, manner of mining, etc., number of men employed, and other information of importance to the State.

Owners, agents and operators of mines are required to furnish all necessary facilities for making examinations and inspections.

If the inspector finds any mine worked contrary to law, or unsafe for the workmen, he shall file a complaint in the Circuit Court, or before the judge thereof in vacation, and the owner, agent or operator shall be, on proper proof, restrained from operating the mine until the law is complied with.

The inspector, wilfully failing or refusing to perform any of his duties, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, and, on a third conviction, shall be removed from office.

IV. PLANS OF MINES:

Owners and operators of coal mines employing twenty or more men working under ground are required to make, at the discretion of the inspector of mines, accurate maps or plans of the workings of such mines, of the veins or deposits, the general inclination of the strata, and of the boundary lines of the mine. A copy of this map must be filed with the clerk of the County Court, and a copy must also be kept for inspection at the office of the owner, agent or operator of the mine. During January of each year the owner, agent or operator must furnish the inspector and clerk of the County Court a further map or plan of the progress of the workings of the mine continued to the end of the month of December next preceding.

On failure or refusal of the owner, agent or operator to furnish such map or plan the inspector may cause it to be made, at the cost of the owner, agent or operator of the mine.

V. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

Escapement shafts are required to be made, with at least two distinct means of ingress and egress, for all persons employed or permitted to work in a mine. Such escapement shaft must be approved by the mine inspector.

A sufficient amount of ventilation, to be determined by the inspector, shall be provided for every mine; but in no case shall it be less than one hundred cubic feet of air per man per minute, measured at the foot of the downcast; and it shall be circulated in such manner as to keep the mine free from standing gas.

In all mines where fire damp is generated and known to exist, the place must be examined every morning with a safety lamp, by a competent person, before others are allowed to enter.

A bore-hole must be kept twenty feet in advance of the face of each and every working place, and, if necessary, on both sides, when driving towards an abandoned mine or part of a mine suspected of containing inflammable gas.

In all shafts suitable means of signaling between the bottom and the top; also safe means of hoisting and lowering persons in a cage, covered with boiler iron, must be provided. More than eight persons are forbidden to ride in a cage at a time.

No female, of any age, and no person under the age of fourteen years, is allowed to enter or work in any mine. No boy under sixteen years of age, unless he can read and write, is allowed to work in any mine. None but experienced, sober persons, at least eighteen years old, shall be placed in charge of any engine whereby men are lowered into or hoisted out of a mine.

Every landing place on a level, or above the surface of the ground, must be secured by a gate and bonnet, to cover and protect shafts and entrances.

Every steam boiler must be provided with steam gauge, water gauge and safety valve. All underground self-acting or engine plains or gangways on which cars are drawn, or persons allowed to travel, must be provided with proper means of signaling between stopping places and the end of such plains or gangways, and places of refuge at the sides of plains or gangways must be provided, at intervals of not more than thirty feet.

The owner, agent or operator of a mine must keep a sufficient amount of timber on hand to be used as props to prevent caving in, and, when required, shall send down and deliver such props at the place where the cars are delivered.

VI. DEATH OR INJURY:

Loss of life or serious personal injury by reason of explosion or accident of any kind, about a mine, must be immediately reported by the person in charge to the mine inspector. In case of death by accident in or about a mine, the coroner or some justice of the peace must be notified; and the inspector must investigate the cause of the accident and file a report thereof in his office.

VII. MISDEMEANORS:

Any miner, workman or other person, knowingly injuring any water gauge, barometer, air course or brattice, or carrying a lighted lamp or matches into places worked by safety lamps, or disturbing machinery, or doing any wilful act endangering the life or health of persons working in a mine, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

VIII. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The weighman, before entering on his duties, must take an oath to do justice between employer and employe and to weigh the output honestly and correctly. The miners in any mine may, if they desire, select by vote and employ, at their own expense, a check weighman, who shall also take a like oath as the regular weighman, and who shall have like rights, powers and privileges as the regular weighman, and be subject to the same penalties. Each of such weighmen shall keep an account of all coal weighed at the mine in a well-bound book. Every owner, agent or operator of a mine shall keep a correct account of the output of the coal, showing amount mined in each day, month and year.

IX. LIEN:

Miners have a laborer's lien on the output and machinery for amounts due them.

ALIENS:

Can purchase and sell real and personal property; and may and acquire mining property under the Mining Acts as if they were native born British subjects, but aliens can not pre-empt Crown lands under the land laws unless they have signed statutory declaration that they intend to become naturalized British subjects.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

There are no bankruptcy or insolvency acts in force. Under the Fraudulent Preference of Creditors' Act confessions or warrants to confess judgments given by insolvents to defeat or delay creditors, or to give one preference over the other are void; and assignments, conveyances, transfers, etc., by an insolvent of any goods, bills, bonds, notes, etc., with intent to defeat or delay his creditors, or to give any creditor preference, are void; but assignments for benefit of creditors generally are excepted.

Assignments for the benefit of creditors, i. e., to pay debts rateably and without priority, are valid if executed by the trustee or trustees within seven days after execution by debtor, and are exempt from land registry and bills of sale acts if duly recorded and notice thereof published for one month or upwards. Such assignment takes priority of judgments not executed by payment, except judgments registered against land under Land Registry Act. The debtor can exempt such goods as are by law exempt from seizure or sale under execution. The trustee must call a meeting within ten days of the assignment by mailing a circular to the creditors. Creditors can vote personally or by proxy.

Every creditor claiming to rank on the estate assigned must furnish the trustee with particulars of his claim, proved by affidavit, or declaration, and such vouchers as the nature of the case admits of, and stating what security, if any, is held for the claim. Wages of employees earned within the three months preceding assignment take priority to claims of ordinary or general creditors of debtor. (See XVIII, Mortgages.)

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Attachments lie where a debtor owing one hundred dollars or upwards is about to leave the Province to defeat his creditors, and are obtainable upon affidavits proving the facts to the satisfaction of a judge. Debts due to the debtor may be attached by garnishee process in the County Court before as well as after judgment; in the Supreme Court, after judgment.

IV. COURTS:

The Supreme Court of British Columbia, having its principal registry at Victoria, B. C., has jurisdiction in all cases, civil and criminal, arising within British Columbia, except as otherwise provided by statute. The court exercises jurisdiction in lunacy, probate and divorce matters. The chief justice, as local judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada, in the British Columbia Admiralty District, exercises admiralty jurisdiction, with principal registry at Victoria, B. C. Appeal lies from final judgments of the Supreme Court of British Columbia to the Supreme Court of Canada, and thence to the Privy Council, England.

County Courts have jurisdiction in all personal actions except in cases of malicious prosecution, libel or slander, seduction, breach of promise of marriage; or against a justice of the peace, where debt does not exceed one thousand dollars after admitted setoffs deducted from the demand; and in replevin, capias ad respondendum, etc., where the value of goods or debt does not exceed one thousand dollars; in questions of title of land where value of land does not exceed one thousand dollars, or rent payable in respect thereof three hundred dollars by the year; in administration of estates and trust funds, foreclosure and redemption, specific performance, etc.; dissolution of partnership, etc., where the amount involved does not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars; and of probate and questions affecting testacy or intestacy, and administration where personal estate of the deceased in the County Court district does not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars. County Court judges have also a limited jurisdiction in Supreme Court actions in certain cases and have jurisdiction in criminal matters for speedy trial of offences. As to the extensive mining jurisdiction of County Courts, see the Mining Acts.

VI. DEEDS:

Deeds should be under seal. One witness is sufficient. The civil law of England as existing on November 19th, 1858, so far as not inapplicable to the Province, applies. A land registry system for registration of titles, exists; under which the registrar, upon being satisfied, after examination of the title deeds that a prima facie title has been established, may register the applicant as the prima facie owner of the land. Mortgages and charges are also registered on application. Priority of registration creates priority of title. Registration of a mortgage or charge gives notice thereof to every person dealing with the real estate affected. Purchasers are not affected by any notice not on the register. Acknowledgment or proof of execution of all instruments authorized to be registered within the Province of British Columbia may be made before a registrar or deputy registrar of a land office, any stipendiary magistrate of the Province, or of any town or district thereof; any justice of the peace for any district in the Province; any judge or registrar of a court having a seal; or before any notary public. And if acknowledged or proved without the Province and within the British Dominions, may be made before any judge of a court, or clerk or registrar of any court having a seal; any notary public, any magistrate of any town or district within the said Dominions having a seal of office, or before any person commissioned on that behalf by the Lieutenant Governor. And if acknowledged or proved without the British Dominions, may be made before any British ambassador, charge d'affaires or minister, consul or consular agent, and judge of any court of record having a seal; or before any notary public practising in such country duly certified to be a notary public by some British ambassador, charge d'affaires, minister, consul or consular agent.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

Oaths, affidavits, declarations or affirmations made out of the Province may be made before a notary public, certified under his hand and official seal, or before the mayor or chief magistrate of any city or town, certified under the common seal of such city or town; or before a judge of a court of record or any consul, vice consul, or consular agent of her majesty exercising his functions in any foreign place. The seal and signature to such documents need not be proved and are admitted in evidence without proof of such signature or seal being genuine or of the official character of the person before whom the oath, etc., is made.

VIII. DESCENT:

Course of descent of real estate of intestate is as follows: 1. To his lineal descendants and those claiming under him per stirpes. 2. To father. 3. To mother. 4. To collateral relatives subject to the rules of the Inheritance Act. Descendants in equal degree of consanguinity share equally. Children of heirs take their parents' share.

IX. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The Crown may appropriate lands for works of public utility. Reservations are contained in patents of lands under the Land Act, of the right to resume a portion not exceeding one-twentieth of the land conveyed as necessary for roads, canals, bridges, etc.; and the right to enter for mining, etc.; water rights, etc.; on paying compensation therefor.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Against goods may issue immediately after judgment. Execution may be had against lands if the judgment is registered and the execution against goods is unsatisfied. Execution against lands can issue seven days after judgment. The sheriff cannot sell until after one month after the writ is delivered to him; and he must advertise the sale of said land at least seven days. Mining claims not held under a Crown grant may be seized in execution against goods. (See Mining.)

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

A debtor can exempt goods to the value of five hundred dollars, except goods for the price of which the execution is issued.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

Any owner of land who shall declare his assets to be not less than two thousand five hundred dollars, may obtain registration of his land as a homestead, in which case he becomes free from forced sale or seizure, for liabilities incurred after the registration.

XIII. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent per annum unless a greater rate has been fixed by agreement of the parties. There are no usury laws. Banks may stipulate for or exact any rate of interest or discount not exceeding seven per cent per annum and may receive the same in advance, but no higher rate is recoverable.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Stand good for twenty years; and can be registered under the Land Registry Act as a charge against the real estate in the Province of the debtor. Such registration expires in three years unless renewed. Judgments do not affect the title to goods unless taken in execution, or unless purchaser, etc., has notice that writ of execution is lying unexecuted in the hands of the sheriff.

XV. LIENS:

There are no statutory liens for materials supplied unless there is an agreement to the contrary. Contractors, subcontractors, mechanics, laborers, etc., can file liens on buildings, works, etc., within thirty-one days after completion by filing affidavit with the particulars in the government agent's office or registry; and suit must be brought within thirty days from the filing of affidavit to realize lien, otherwise it expires.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions brought on contracts, book accounts, notes and other instruments not under seal must be brought within six years from the time cause of action accrued, of payment on account, or of acknowledgment of such indebtedness in writing. Actions on contracts, covenants, bonds, and instruments under seal, within twenty years. In the case of actions by persons under legal disability, time runs from cessation of said disability.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman can hold real and personal property, and can enter into contracts and render herself liable to the extent of her present and after acquired separate property, either in contract or tort, as if she were a single woman. She may hold stock, make deposits in banks and draw checks in her own name without the concurrence of her husband; and her husband can transfer property to her without the intervention of a trustee, if not in fraud of creditors. Marriage settlements are not interfered with by the Married Women's Property Act.

XVIII. MORTGAGES (Chattel):

Excepting assignments for the benefit of creditors, marriage settlements, transfer of ships or of goods in ordinary course of trade, bills of sale of goods in foreign parts or at sea, bills of lading, warehousekeepers' receipts, warrants or orders for delivery of goods or other documents used as a proof of the possession or control of goods in ordinary course of business, all chattel mortgages, bills of sale, transfers, declarations of trust, of any goods and chattels which are in the apparent possession of the assignor must be registered within twenty-one days of the giving of such bill of sale, etc.; otherwise such are void as against creditors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith for a valuable consideration. Such registration ceases to have effect unless renewed within five years. (See "VI. Deeds" for Real Estate Mortgages.)

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are governed by the Dominion Bills of Exchange Act and amending acts. A demand draft is without days of grace; but a sight draft has three days of grace. Protest and notice of dishonor is necessary to hold the endorser, unless expressly waived, but not the maker. Bills or notes falling due on a legal holiday (Sunday, Christmas, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Queen's Birthday, or any day made a holiday by royal proclamation) are payable on the following day.

XX. SUITS:

Are commenced by writ of summons in the Supreme Court. (See "IV. Courts.")

XXI. WAGES:

Clerks, servants, laborers or workmen to whom an execution debtor is indebted for wages may apply to the judge of the court out of which the process issues, and obtain an order that such wages up to three months' arrears may be paid in priority to all claims of the execution creditor, except the costs of judgment and execution. Three months' wages, if in arrears, may be paid by the trustee of assignment for the benefit of creditors, in priority to ordinary claims.

XXII. WILLS:

Every person over twenty-one years of age may make a will, if of sound mind. It must be in writing and signed at the foot or end thereof in the presence of two witnesses, who must also sign their names, all present at the same time. If testator cannot write, he may make his mark, or some one else may sign for him at his request and under his direction. Witnesses should not be persons taking benefit under the will. Gifts to witnesses become inoperative. Alterations shall be initialled by the testator and witnesses. Marriage revokes the will except the will is made in exercise of a power of appointment. Wills made under mistake, or obtained by fraud or undue influence, are inoperative.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any three or more persons, who may desire to form a company, may make, sign and acknowledge, before some person competent to acknowledge deeds, a memorandum of association in duplicate, in which shall be stated: the corporate name with the addition of the words "limited liability;" the object; the amount of capital stock; the number of shares; the time of its existence (not to exceed fifty years); number of shares of which the stock shall consist; number of trustees and their names, who shall manage affairs of the company for the first three months; and the name of the city, town or electoral district where the company's head office is located.

The registrar of joint stock companies shall file such memorandum and inclose duplicate thereof to the Provincial Secretary, who shall cause the same to be published in the next issue of the British Columbia Gazette for at least one month thereafter. The registrar then shall issue a certificate of incorporation; thereupon, the said persons and their successors shall be a body politic and incorporate, and shall by their corporate name have succession for the period limited, and shall have power as under:

II. POWERS:

Every company so organized shall have power: 1. To issue shares. 2. To sue and be sued. 3. To make and use a common seal. 4. To purchase, hold, sell and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require. 5. To appoint officers, agents and servants and define the duties, powers and fix the compensations thereof. 6. Require security from said officers, remove them at will, except that no trustee shall be removed except by a vote of two-thirds of the whole number of trustees. 7. To make by-laws for the company and regulate its affairs within the purposes of the company.

A certificate of incorporation shall be conclusive evidence that the company is duly registered under the act. All companies so registered shall have the additional power to borrow money for the purpose of carrying out their objects; and to mortgage their property, to sign bills, notes and contracts for money borrowed or to be borrowed for the aforesaid purposes; which powers shall not be exercised, except with the consent of the shareholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock.

III. TRUSTEES:

The corporate powers of the corporation shall be exercised by a board of not less than three trustees, who shall be stockholders and residents of this Province, who shall be annually elected by the stockholders; but a majority of the trustees shall be residents. A failure to elect the trustees at the designated time shall not dissolve the company; but in such case the then trustees shall continue in office until the new trustees are elected under the by-laws. A majority of the whole board may transact business. The trustees of the company may also be termed directors, who shall have all the powers by law conferred upon the trustees.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The stock of a company shall be deemed personal estate, transferable on the books of the company; but no transfer shall be made where there are charges or assessments unpaid. Stockholders' votes may be given either personally or by proxy, but the instrument appointing a proxy shall be delivered to the secretary twenty-four hours before the hour named for calling the meeting.

A company incorporated under this act may increase or diminish its capital stock to any amount deemed proper for the corporation. Whenever it is desired to increase or diminish the amount of capital stock a meeting of the stockholders may be called by a notice signed by at least a majority of the trustees, and published at least once a week for four weeks in some newspaper of the electoral district where the principal place of business is located. A certificate of the proceedings shall be made out, signed and verified by the affidavit of the chairman and secretary of the meeting, and certified by a majority of the trustees, and filed in the same manner as the memorandum of association.

The promoters of a company may state in the memorandum of association that a portion of the stock of the proposed company shall be preference stock, and may make a by-law authorizing the division of the existing capital into ordinary and preferential.

V. ASSESSMENTS:

Trustees may levy and collect assessments upon the capital stock for the purpose of paying the legal expenses and obligations of the company to the extent hereinafter provided, and not otherwise. The total amount of assessments shall not exceed, in the aggregate, the value at which the shares were issued. No one assessment shall exceed ten per cent of the amount of the capital stock actually subscribed, unless where all the powers vested in the company for the purpose of collecting shall have been exhausted, or where the collection of the previous assessment has been restrained by injunction or otherwise. No assessment shall be levied except by order of the trustees, concurred in by a majority thereof. The trustees may summarily forfeit shares whereon payment of calls and assessments is not made.

The trustees shall not declare or pay any dividends when the company is insolvent. No loan shall be made by the company to any shareholder, and if such is made the trustees and officers assenting thereto shall be jointly and severally liable to the company and to third parties to the extent of said loan.

VI. LIABILITIES:

The trustees of the company shall be jointly and severally liable to laborers, servants and apprentices thereof for debts not exceeding three months' wages due.

No shareholder shall be individually liable for the liabilities of the company, but shall be liable to the calls and assessments to be legally levied upon the shares held by him; and for the debts of the company to the extent of such amount, if any, as may be remaining unpaid upon the shares of capital stock held by him.

VII. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

It shall be the duty of the trustees to keep a registry-book containing the names of all persons who are stockholders, showing the number of shares of stock held by them respectively; which book shall be open for the inspection of stockholders and creditors of the company at their office.

VIII. DISSOLUTION:

Any corporation may dissolve itself by presenting to the judge of the County Court of the district, a certificate of its proper officers, setting forth that it was decided by a vote of two-thirds of all the stockholders to dissolve. Public notice shall then be given by the judge, which notice shall set forth the nature of the application, shall specify the time and place it is to be heard, and shall be published in some newspaper once a week for four weeks; and if satisfied that the corporation has taken the necessary preliminary steps, he shall make an order declaring it dissolved.

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Any foreign company incorporated for the purpose of carrying on any business that has for its object the acquisition of gain, and permitted to operate in the Province of British Columbia, may register itself and the members thereof, by depositing for registration a copy of its act, certificate and charter of incorporation; a certified copy of its articles of association; and also the written petition of the president and secretary thereof, acknowledged before a notary public of such foreign state, praying for registration. The registrar of joint-stock companies shall issue a certificate of registration, showing the corporate name of such company, the place of the head office, its objects, the amount of its capital stock, the number of shares, and the amount of each share; and such certificate shall be published for one month in the British Columbia Gazette, and in one paper in the locality where the company proposes doing business. Such a company may then sue and be sued in the corporate name and exercise the general powers of a domestic corporation.

MINING.

[THE MINERAL ACT, 1891, Abridged. As Amended in 1892, 1893, 1894 and 1895.]

I. SHORT TITLE:

1. This act may be cited as the "Mineral Act, 1891."

II. INTERPRETATIONS:

2. In the construction of this Act the following expressions shall have the following meanings respectively, unless inconsistent with the context:

"Mine" shall mean any land in which any vein or lode, or rock in place, shall be mined for gold or other minerals, precious or base, except coal:

"Mineral" shall mean all valuable deposits of gold, silver, platinum, iridium, or any of the platinum group of metals, mercury, lead, copper, iron, tin, zinc, nickel, aluminum, antimony, arsenic, barium, bismuth, boron, bromine, cadmium, chromium, cobalt, iodine, magnesium, manganese, molybdenum, phosphorus, plumbago, potassium, sodium, strontium, sulphur, or any combination of the aforementioned elements with themselves or with any other elements, asbestos, emery, mica, and mineral pigments: Limestone, marble, clay, or any building stone when mined for building purposes shall not be considered as mineral within the meaning of this Act:

"Rock in place" shall mean all rock in place bearing valuable deposits of mineral within the meaning of this Act:

"Vein," or "lode." Whenever either of these terms is used in this Act, "rock in place" shall be deemed to be included:

"Mineral claim" shall mean the personal right of property or interest in any mine:

"Mining property" shall include every mineral claim, ditch, mill-site, or water right used for mining purposes, and all other things belonging to a mine or used in the working thereof:

"Legal post" shall mean a stake standing not less than four feet above the ground, and squared or faced on four sides for at least one foot from the top, and each side so squared or faced shall measure at least four inches on its face so far as squared or faced, and any stump or tree cut off and squared or faced to the above height and size:

"Mill-site" shall mean a plot of ground located, as defined by this Act, for the purpose of erecting thereon any machinery or other works for transporting, crushing, reducing, or sampling ores, or for the transmission of power for working mines:

"Streams" shall include all natural water-courses, whether usually containing water or not, and all rivers, creeks, and gulches:

"Ditch" shall include a flume, pipe or race, or other artificial means for conducting water by its own weight, to be used for mining purposes:

"Ditch-head" shall mean the point in a natural water-course or lake, or other source where water is first taken into a ditch:

"Free miner" shall mean a person or joint stock company, or foreign company, named in and lawfully possessed of a valid existing free miner's certificate, and no other:

"Record," "register," and "registration," shall have the same meaning, and shall mean an entry in some official book kept for that purpose:

"Full interest" shall mean any mineral claim of the full size, or one of several shares into which a mineral claim shall be equally divided:

"Cause" shall include any suit or action:

"Judgment" shall include "order" or "decree:"

"Real estate" shall mean any mineral land in fee simple under this or any Act relating to gold mines, or to minerals other than coal:

"Joint stock company" shall mean any company duly incorporated for mining purposes under the "Companies' Act," "Companies' Act, 1890," and any company duly incorporated in British Columbia for mining purposes under the "Companies' Act, 1862" (Imperial), and shall include all companies, whether foreign or local, registered or incorporated under the "Companies' Act."

III. FREE MINERS AND THEIR PRIVILEGES:

3. Every person over, but not under, eighteen years of age, and every joint stock company, shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of a free miner, and shall be considered a free miner, upon taking out a free miner's certificate. A minor who shall become a free miner shall, as regards his mining property and liabilities contracted in connection therewith, be treated as of full age. A free miner's certificate issued to a joint stock company shall be issued in its corporate name. A free miner's certificate shall not be transferable.

4. A free miner's certificate may be granted for one or more years, to run from the date thereof, or from the expiration of the applicant's then existing certificate, upon the payment therefor of the fees set out in the schedule of fees to this Act. Only one person or one joint stock company shall be named therein.

5. [Abridged from original version.] A free miner's certificate shall certify, over the signature of the gold commissioner or mining recorder of the district where taken out, that the holder thereof has paid to such officer the annual license demanded of all free miners, and for one year from the date thereof is entitled to all legal rights and privileges as such.

6. If any person or joint stock company shall apply for a free miner's certificate at the mining recorder's office during his absence, and shall leave the fee required by this Act with the officer or other person in charge of the said office, he or it shall be entitled to have such certificate from the date of such application; and any free miner shall at any time be entitled to obtain a free miner's certificate, commencing to run at the expiration of his then existing free miner's certificate, provided that when he applies for such certificate he shall produce to the mining recorder, or in case of his absence shall leave with the officer or other person in charge of the mining recorder's office, such existing certificate.

7. If any free miner's certificate be accidentally destroyed or lost, the owner thereof may, on payment of the fees set out in the schedule to this Act, have a true copy of it, signed by the mining recorder, or other person by whom or out of whose office the original was issued. Every such copy shall be marked "substituted certificate," and unless some material irregularity be shown in respect thereof, every original or substituted free miner's certificate shall be evidence of all matters therein contained.

8. Every person and joint stock company engaged in mining for minerals (other than coal) shall take out a free miner's certificate, and every person or joint stock company who mines or works as a miner in any mineral claim, mine held as real estate, or tunnel, or on any flume, drain, or ditch, without having taken out and obtained such certificate, shall, on conviction thereof in a summary way, forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding twenty-five dollars, besides costs: Provided, always, that nothing herein contained shall prejudice the right to collect wages or payment for work done by any person who, through not being a free miner, has rendered himself liable to the above penalty.

9. No person or joint stock company shall be recognized as having any right or interest in or to any mineral claim, or any minerals therein, or in or to any water right, mining ditch, drain, tunnel, or flume, unless he or it shall have a free miner's certificate unexpired. And on the expiration of a free miner's certificate the owner thereof shall absolutely forfeit all his rights and interests in or to any mineral claim, and all and any minerals therein, and in or to any and every water right, mining ditch, drain, tunnel, or flume, which may be held or claimed by such owner of such expired free miner's certificate, unless such owner shall, on or before the day following the expiration of such certificate, obtain a new free miner's certificate. Provided, nevertheless, should any co-owner fail to keep up his free miner's certificate, such failure shall not cause a forfeiture or act as an abandonment of the claim, but the interest of the co-owner who shall fail to keep up his free miner's certificate shall, ipso facto, be and become vested in his co-owners pro rata, according to their former interests: Provided, nevertheless, that a shareholder in a joint stock company need not be a free miner, and, though not a free miner, shall be entitled to buy, sell, hold, or dispose of any shares therein: And provided, also, that this section shall not apply to mineral claims for which a Crown grant has been issued.

9A. Every owner of a mine or mineral claim, and every contractor for the performance of any work upon a mine or mineral claim, shall pay the annual fee for a free miner's license for any person in their employment and liable for the fee, and may deduct the amount so paid on account of such person from the amount of salary or wages due or to become due to him from such employer upon production and delivery of the receipt for such tax to such person. Every such owner or contractor shall furnish to the mining recorder or collector, when requested by him so to do, from time to time, a list of all persons in his employ, or indirectly employed by him, liable to pay the said license fee; but no such statement shall bind the recorder or collector, or excuse him from making due enquiry to ascertain its correctness.

9B. If any person fails to pay the said license fee for his employees, or to deliver to the recorder or collector the list mentioned in the preceding section when required to do so, or knowingly states anything falsely in such list, such person shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars, to be recovered, together with the amount of the unpaid license fees, upon summary conviction before one justice of the peace.

10. Every free miner shall, during the continuance of his certificate, but not longer, have the right to enter, locate, prospect, and mine upon any waste lands of the Crown for all minerals other than coal, and upon all lands the right whereon to so enter upon, prospect, and mine all minerals other than coal shall have been, or hereafter shall be, reserved to the Crown and its licensees, and also to enter, locate, prospect, and mine for gold and silver upon any lands the right whereon to so enter and mine such gold and silver shall have been, or shall be, reserved to the Crown and its licensees. Excepting out of all the above description of lands any land occupied by any building, and any land falling within the curtilage of any dwelling house, and any orchard, and any land for the time being actually under cultivation, and any land lawfully occupied for mining purposes other than placer mining, and also Indian reservations. Provided that where any hydraulic mining works, established in accordance with the "Placer Mining Act, 1891," have been in operation, the land which may have been uncovered by the operation of such works shall not be located or mined upon by any free miner other than the person or persons carrying on such hydraulic works for a space of six months next after the same shall have been so uncovered: Provided, that in the event of such entry being made upon lands already lawfully occupied for other than mining purposes, such free miner, previously to such entry, shall give adequate security to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner for any loss or damages which may be caused by such entry; and provided that, after such entry, he shall make full compensation to the occupant or owner of such lands for any loss or damages which may be caused by reason of such entry; such compensation, in case of dispute, to be determined by the court having jurisdiction in mining disputes, with or without a jury.

11. Any free miner may enter upon any Crown lands, or lands covered by timber leases, or any lands the timber whereon has been reserved by the Crown, to cut such timber as may be required for the purposes of the claim or claims worked by him alone, or by him in partnership with another or others.

12. Any free miner shall be at liberty, at any period of the year, while actually prospecting or engaged in mining, to kill game for his own use.

13. A free miner shall have all the rights and privileges granted to free miners by the "Placer Mining Act."

IV. LOCATION AND RECORD:

14. Any free miner desiring to locate a mineral claim, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act with respect to land which may be used for mining, enter upon the same and locate a plot of ground measuring, where possible but not exceeding, fifteen hundred feet in length by fifteen hundred feet in breadth, in as nearly as possible a rectangular form, that is to say: All angles shall be right angles, except in cases where a boundary line of a previously surveyed claim is adopted as common to both claims, but the lines need not necessarily be meridional. In defining the size of a mineral claim, it shall be measured horizontally, irrespective of inequalities of the surface of the ground.

15. A mineral claim shall be marked by two legal posts, placed as near as possible on the line of the ledge or lode, and the posts shall be numbered 1 and 2, and the distance between posts 1 and 2 shall not exceed fifteen hundred feet, the line between posts Nos. 1 and 2 to be known as the location line, and upon posts Nos. 1 and 2 shall be written the name given to the mineral claim, the name of the locator, and the date of the location. Upon No. 1 post there shall be written, in addition to the foregoing, "Initial Post," the approximate compass bearing of No. 2 post, and a statement of the number of feet lying to right and to the left of the line from No. 1 to No. 2 post, thus:—"Initial post. Direction of post No. 2. feet of this claim lie on the right, and feet on the left of the line from No. 1 to No. 2 post." All the particulars required to be put on No. 1 post shall be furnished by the locator to the mining recorder at the time the claim is recorded, and shall form a part of the record of such claim. When a claim has been located, the holder shall immediately mark the line between posts Nos. 1 and 2 so that it can be distinctly seen; in a timbered locality, by blazing trees and cutting underbrush, and in a locality where there is neither timber nor underbrush, he shall set legal posts so that such line can be distinctly seen. The locator shall also place a legal post at the point where he has discovered rock in place, on which shall be written "Discovery Post:" Provided that when the claim is surveyed, the surveyor shall be guided entirely by posts 1 and 2 and the notice of No. 1 the initial post, and the records of the claim. It shall not be lawful to move No. 1 post, neither shall it be lawful to move No. 2 post, except for the correction of distance by the Provincial government surveyor. Nos. 1 and 2 posts shall govern the direction of one side of the claim.

(a) The holder of a mineral claim shall be entitled to all minerals which may lie within his claim, but he shall not be entitled to mine outside the boundary lines of his claim continued vertically downwards:

(b) This Act shall not prejudice the rights of claim-owners nor claim-holders whose claims have been located under former Acts:

(c) No mineral claim shall be recorded without the application being accompanied by an affidavit or solemn declaration made by the applicant, or some person on his behalf cognizant of the facts, that mineral has been found in place on the claim proposed to be recorded.

16. Any location made upon Sunday or any public holiday shall not for that reason be invalid, any law or statute to the contrary notwithstanding.

17. In cases where, from the nature or shape of the ground, it is impossible to mark the location line of the claim, as provided by this Act, then the claim may be marked by placing posts as nearly as possible to the location line, and noting the distance and direction such posts may be from such location line, which distance and direction shall be set out in the record of the claim.

18. [Repealed 1892, Chap. 32, Sec. 2.]

19. Every free miner locating a mineral claim shall record the same with the mining recorder of the district within which the same is situate, within fifteen days after the location thereof, if located within ten miles of the office of the said mining recorder. One additional day shall be allowed for such record for every additional ten miles, or fraction thereof. Such record shall be made in a book to be kept for the purpose in the office of the said mining recorder, in which shall be inserted the name of the claim, the name of each locator, the number of each locator's free miner's certificate, the locality of the mine, the direction of the location line, the length in feet, the date of location, and the date of the record. Such record shall be, as near as may be possible, in the Form B in the schedule to this Act, and a certified copy thereof shall be given by the mining recorder to the free miner or his agent. A claim which shall not have been recorded within the prescribed period shall be deemed to have been abandoned.

20. A free miner shall not be entitled to a record of a mineral claim until he shall have furnished the said mining recorder with all the above particulars.

21. Upon the establishment of a mining division and the opening of a mining recorder's office therein, under the authority of this Act, such office and none other shall be the proper office for recording all mineral claims within such mining division, and making all records in respect thereof.

22. If through ignorance any free miner shall record a mineral claim in a different district or mining division to that in which such claim is situate, such error shall not affect his title to such claim, but he shall, within fifteen days from the discovery of his error, record such claim in the district or mining division in which it is situate, and such new record shall bear the date of the first record, and a note shall be made thereon of the error and of the date of the rectification of the same.

23. If a free miner applies at the mining recorder's office during his absence to record a mineral claim, or any document or other matter required by this Act to be recorded, and leaves the fee required by this Act, and the particulars and information required to enable the mining recorder to make such record with the officer or other person in charge of said office, he shall be entitled to have such record dated on the date of such application.

V. ASSESSMENT WORK:

24. Any free miner having duly located and recorded a mineral claim shall be entitled to hold the same for the period of one year from the recording of the same, and thence from year to year without the necessity of re-recording: Provided, however, that during each year and each succeeding year, such free miner shall do, or cause to be done, work on the claim itself to the value of one hundred dollars, and shall satisfy the gold commissioner or mining recorder that such work has been done, by an affidavit of the free miner or his agent, setting out a detailed statement of such work, and shall obtain from such gold commissioner or mining recorder, and shall record a certificate of such work having been done: Provided, also, that all work done outside of a mineral claim with intent to work the same shall, if such work have direct relation and be in direct proximity to the claim, be deemed, if to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner or mining recorder, for the purposes of this section, to be work done on the claim: Provided, further, that any free miner, being the holder of adjoining mineral claims, or any two or more free miners who locate and record adjoining mineral claims, to be worked by them in partnership under the provisions of any Act for the time being in force, shall, subject to filing a notice of their intention with the gold commissioner or mining recorder, be allowed to perform on any one or more of such claims all the work required to entitle him or them to a certificate for work for each claim so held by him or them. If such work shall not be done, or if such certificate shall not be so obtained and recorded, in each and every year, the claim shall be deemed vacant and abandoned, any rule of law or equity to the contrary notwithstanding.

24. The holder of a mineral claim may, in lieu of the work required by section 24 of the "Mineral Act, 1891," as amended, to be done on a claim in each year, pay to the mining recorder in whose office the claim is recorded the sum of one hundred dollars and receive from such recorder and record a receipt for such payment. Such payment and the record thereof in any year shall relieve the person making it from the necessity of doing any work during the year in and for which and upon the claim in respect of which such payment is recorded.

VI. SURFACE RIGHTS:

24B. The owner of a mineral claim shall be entitled to all surface rights, including the use of all the timber thereon for mining or building purposes, so long as he holds the said claim for the purpose of developing the minerals contained therein, but no longer.

VII. DISPUTED TITLES:

25. In case of any dispute as to the title to a mineral claim priority of record will determine the right, subject to any question as to the validity of the record, and subject also to a compliance by the free miner with the provisions of this Act.

VIII. LIMIT OF CLAIM RIGHT:

26. No free miner shall be entitled to hold in his own name, or in the name of any other person, more than one mineral claim on the same vein or lode, except by purchase, but such free miner may hold by location a claim upon any separate vein or lode.

IX. ABANDONMENT:

27. A free miner may at any time abandon any mineral claim by giving notice in writing of such intention to abandon to the mining recorder, and from the date of such notice all interest of such free miner in such claim shall cease.

28. When a free miner abandons a mineral claim he shall have the right to take from the same any machinery and any personal property which he may have placed on the claim, and any ore which he may have extracted therefrom within such time as shall be fixed by the gold commissioner or mining recorder.

29. No free miner shall be entitled to re-locate any mineral claim, or any portion thereof which he shall have failed to record within the prescribed period, or which he shall have abandoned or forfeited, unless he shall have obtained the written permission of the gold commissioner to make such relocation; and he shall hold no interest in any portion of such mineral claim, by location, without such permission.

X. TUNNEL RIGHTS:

33. Where a tunnel is run for the development of a vein or lode the owner of such tunnel shall, in addition to any mineral claim legally held by him, have the right to all veins or lodes discovered in such tunnel: Provided, that the ground containing such veins or lodes be marked out by him as a mineral claim, and be duly recorded within fifteen days after such discovery; and provided further, that such veins or lodes are not included in any existing mineral claim. Any money or labor expended in constructing a tunnel to develop a vein or lode shall be deemed to have been expended on such vein or lode.

XI. INTEREST IN CLAIM:

34. The interest of a free miner in his mineral claim shall, save as to claims held as real estate, be deemed to be a chattel interest, equivalent to a lease, for one year, and thence from year to year, subject to the performance and observance of all the terms and conditions of this Act.

XII. PURCHASE OF CLAIMS:

35. Any lawful holder of a mineral claim shall be entitled to a Crown grant thereof on payment to the Government of British Columbia of the sum of five hundred dollars in lieu of expenditure on the claim. The intending purchaser shall comply with all the provisions of section 36 of this Act, except such as have respect solely to the work required to be done on claims.

XIII. CERTIFICATE OF IMPROVEMENTS:

36. Whenever the lawful holder of a mineral claim shall have complied with the following requirements, to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner; he shall be entitled to receive from the gold commissioner a certificate of improvements in respect of such claim, unless an adverse claim shall have been filed in the office of the mining recorder:—

(a) Done or cause to be done work on the claim itself in developing a mine to the value of five hundred dollars, exclusive of all houses, buildings and other like improvements. For the purpose of this section, work done on the claim by a predecessor or predecessors in title shall be deemed to have been done by the applicant who receives a transfer of such claim; but in no case shall the cost of surveying be considered as improvements or work done on the claim.

(b) Found a vein or lode within the limits of such claim.

(c) Had the claim surveyed by an authorized provincial land surveyor, who shall have made three plats of the claim, and who shall have accurately defined and marked the boundaries of such claim upon the ground, and indicated the corners by placing monuments or legal posts at the angles thereof, and upon such monuments or posts shall be inscribed by him the name and the official designation of the claim, and the corner represented thereby, and who shall have, on completion of survey, forwarded at once the original field-notes and plan direct to the Lands and Works Department.

(d) Shall have posted on some conspicuous part of the land embraced in the survey a copy of the plat of the claim, and a legible notice in writing of his intention to apply for a certificate of improvements, and shall also have posted a similar notice in the mining recorder's office, and such notice shall contain: 1. The name of the claim. 2. The name of the lawful holder thereof. 3. The number of such holder's existing free miner's certificate 4. His intention to apply for certificate of improvements at the end of sixty days, for the purpose of obtaining a Crown grant. 5. The date of the notice.

(e) Shall have filed with the mining recorder a copy of the surveyor's original field-notes and plant.

(f) Inserted a copy of such notice in the British Columbia Gazette and in any newspaper published in the Province, and circulating in the district in which the claim is situate, for at least sixty days prior to such application, which insertion can be made at any time after the posting of the notice on the claim.

(g) Filed with the mining recorder an affidavit of the holder of the claim, or his agent (abridgement), showing that all prescribed requirements as herein set forth have been complied with.

(h) At the expiration of the term of the said publication, provided no adverse claim shall have been filed with the mining recorder, he shall forward to the gold commissioner, under Form J of the schedule to this Act the documents referred to above.

XIV. ADVERSE CLAIMS:

37. No adverse claim shall be filed by the mining recorder after the expiration of the period of publication in the next preceding section mentioned; and in default of such filing no objection to the issue of a certificate of improvements shall be permitted to be heard in any court nor shall the validity of such certificate when issued be impeached on any ground except that of fraud. 2. An adverse claim to be filed shall be on the oath of the person or persons making the same, and shall show with reasonable particularity, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, the nature, boundaries and extent of such adverse claim; and all proceedings, except the publication of notice and making and filing the affidavit thereof, shall be stayed until the controversy shall have been decided by a court of competent jurisdiction or the adverse claim shall have been withdrawn or waived. An adverse claimant shall, within thirty days after filing his claim (unless such time shall be extended by special order of the court upon cause being shown) commence proceedings in a court of competent jurisdiction to determine the question of the right of possession and shall prosecute the same with reasonable diligence to final judgment; and a failure so to commence or so to prosecute proceedings shall be deemed to be a waiver of his adverse claim. After such judgment shall have been rendered, the person or any one of the persons entitled to the possession of the claim, or any part thereof may file a certified copy of the same in the office of the mining recorder. After the filing of such judgment and upon compliance with all the requirements of the next preceding section, such person or persons shall be entitled to the issue to him or to them of a certificate of improvements in respect of the claim, or the portion thereof, of which he or they shall appear, from the decision of the court, to rightly possess. Provided, however, that if an adverse claim has, in the opinion of the presiding judge, been bona fide made, notwithstanding that the same may have been imperfectly made, the same shall nevertheless have legal recognition, and effect shall be given thereto according to the intent thereof.

38. After the issuing and recording of such certificate of improvements, and while such certificate shall be in force it shall not be necessary to do any work on such claim.

XV. CROWN GRANT OF CLAIMS:

39. On the granting and recording of such certificate of improvements in respect to a mineral claim situate outside of the railway belt, the holder thereof shall be entitled to a Crown grant of such claim without the payment of the five hundred dollars required by section thirty-five. And on the granting and recording of such certificate of improvements in respect of a mineral claim situate inside the railway belt, the holder thereof shall be entitled to a Crown grant of such claim on the payment of five dollars per acre to the mining recorder.

40. The holder of a mineral claim for which a certificate of improvements has been granted and recorded shall make application for a Crown grant to the gold commissioner, enclosing his certificate of improvements and the Crown grant fee of five dollars, within three months from the date of such certificate of improvements, and in default of such application having been made within such time such certificate of improvements shall lapse and become absolutely void.

41. If the holder of a mineral claim, after applying for a certificate of improvements, shall sell and transfer such claim to another free miner, upon satisfactory proof of such sale and transfer being made to the gold commis sioner, the new holder of the claim shall be entitled to a certificate of improvements in his own name. And if a sale and transfer shall be made to any person or company after a certificate of improvements shall have been issued, upon proper proof of such sale and transfer being made to the satisfaction of the chief commissioner of lands and works, the Crown grant shall issue to the new holder of the claim.

42. The issuance of a Crown grant shall not invalidate any lien which may have attached to any mineral claim previous to the issuance of such Crown grant.

43. A Crown grant of a mineral claim located on any waste lands of the Crown shall be deemed to transfer and pass the right to all minerals within the meaning of this Act (excepting coal) found in veins, lodes, or rock in place, and whether such minerals are found separately or in combination with each other, in, upon, or under the land in the said Crown grant mentioned.

44. Crown grants of mineral claims located on lawfully occupied lands the right whereon to enter, prospect, and mine all minerals (other than coal) has been reserved to the Crown and its licensees, shall pass to the grantee all minerals within the meaning of this Act (other than coal) found in veins or lodes, or rock in place, and whether such minerals are found separately or in combination with each other, which may be in, upon, or under the land in the said Crown grant mentioned, and including all the rights given to mineral claim holders of mineral claims so located, but such Crown grant shall expressly reserve the rights of such prior occupant. (Where the mineral claim is located on land lawfully occupied under a timber lease, the Crown grant shall convey the surface and minerals within the meaning of this Act (save coal) found in veins or lodes, or rock in place, but shall reserve the timber.)

45. Crown grants of mineral claims located on lawfully occupied lands, the right whereon to enter and mine gold and silver has been reserved to the Crown and its licensees, shall pass to the grantee all the gold and silver found in veins, or lodes, or rock in place, which may be in, upon, or under the land in the said Crown grant mentioned, and including all the rights given to mineral claim holders of mineral claims so located; but such Crown grant shall expressly reserve the rights of such prior occupant.

XVI. PARTIAL ADVERSE CLAIMS:

48. If an adverse claim shall only affect a portion of the ground for which a certificate of improvements is applied, the boundaries of such portion shall be shown by a plat of the entire adverse claim, and the applicant may relinquish the portion covered by the adverse claim, and shall be entitled to a certificate of improvements for the undisputed remainder of his claim, upon complying with the requirements of this Act.

49. When judgment in such case is rendered by the court, a memorandum of such judgment shall be entered in the "Record Book;" and if by any judgment the original boundaries of any claim shall be changed, a plat made by a provincial land surveyor, and signed by the judge by whom the judgment has been given, shall be filed in the office of the mining recorder.

XVII. TITULAR DOCUMENTS:

50. Every conveyance, bill of sale, mortgage, or other document of title relating to any mineral claim, mine held as real estate, or mining interest, shall be recorded within the time prescribed for recording mineral claims: Provided, always, that the failure to so record any such document shall not invalidate the same as between the parties thereto, but such documents as to third parties shall take effect from the date of record, and not from the date of such document.

XVIII. TRANSFER OF CLAIMS:

51. No transfer of any mineral claim, or of any interest therein, shall be enforceable unless the same shall be in writing, signed by the transferrer or by his agent authorized in writing, and recorded by the mining recorder; and if signed by an agent, the authority of such agent shall be recorded before the record of such transfer.

52. The transfer of any real estate acquired under the provisions of the "Gold Mining Amendment Act, 1873," or under this or any Act relating to minerals other than coal, shall be in writing, signed by the transferrer or his agent authorized in writing, and need not be by deed or under seal.

XIX. RESERVATION:

53. No mineral claim shall be open to location by any other person during the last illness nor, unless with the permission in writing of the gold commissioner, for twelve months after the death of the lawful holder.

XX. FAULTS OF OFFICIALS:

54. No free miner shall suffer from any acts of omission, or commission, or delays on the part of any government official, if such can be proven.

XXI. MILL-SITES:

55. A free miner may locate any unoccupied and unreserved Crown land not known to contain mineral, and not exceeding five acres, as a mill-site. No free miner shall be entitled to obtain and hold under this section more than one mill-site for each mineral claim lawfully held by him. Such mill-site shall be as nearly as possible in the form of a square. On locating a mill-site, the free miner shall comply with the following requirements: (a) Mark out the land by placing a legal post at each corner. (b) Post a notice on each post, stating: i. The name of such free miner; ii. The number of his free miner's certificate; iii. His intention, at the expiration of sixty days from the date of the notice, to apply for the land as a mill-site; iv. The date of the notice. (c) Post a copy of such notice on the office of the mining recorder.

56. On the expiration of sixty days after the fulfillment of the above requirements, the free miner shall deposit, in duplicate, in the office of the mining recorder, a plat of the said land made by an authorized provincial land surveyor, and prove by affidavit that he has complied with the above requirements, and that the said land is not known to contain minerals, and shall furnish such other proof of the non-mineral character of the land as the gold commissioner may require; the free miner shall then be entitled to a lease, for one year, of the said land, which lease shall be executed by the gold commissioner. If, during the continuance of such lease, such free miner shall prove to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner that he has put or constructed works, or machinery for mining or milling purposes, on the said mill-site, of the value of at least five hundred dollars, he shall be entitled to a Crown grant of such mill-site upon payment of five dollars per acre for such land. Any free miner now having a lease of a piece of land for a mill-site, upon proving to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner that he has put or constructed works, or machinery for mining or milling purposes, on the said mill-site of the value of at least five hundred dollars, shall, on payment of five dollars per acre, be entitled to a Crown grant of such mill-site.

57. On applying for a Crown grant of a mill-site, the free miner shall: i. Pay the sum of five dollars per acre to the mining recorder; ii. Deposit with the mining recorder the following documents: (a) Lease of the mill-site; (b) Plat of mill-site; (c) Surveyor's original field-notes; (d) A certificate from the gold commissioner that works or machinery for mining or milling purposes have been put or constructed on the mill-site to the value of at least five hundred dollars; (e) Application for the Crown grant.

58. Crown grants of mill-sites shall pass to the grantee all the surface of the land in the said Crown grant mentioned, but all such Crown grants shall expressly reserve all minerals under the said land, and the right to the Crown and its licensees to enter and mine the said minerals.

XXII. TUNNELS AND DRAINS:

59. Any free miner, being the holder of a mineral claim or mine held as real estate, may, at the discretion of the gold commissioner, obtain a license to run a drain or tunnel, for drainage or any other purpose connected with the development or working of such claim or mine, through any occupied or unoccupied lands, whether mineral or otherwise, upon security being first deposited or given to such gold commissioner to his satisfaction for any damage that may be done thereby, and upon such other terms as he shall think expedient.

XXIII. WATER RIGHTS:

60. A free miner who is the holder of a mineral claim or mine held as real estate, or of any mill-site, may, at the discretion of the gold commissioner, obtain a grant to a water right in any unappropriated water, for any mining or milling purpose, for any term not exceeding twenty years, upon such terms and conditions as such gold commissioner shall think fit.

61. Before applying for any such grant, the free miner shall—

i. Post a notice in writing on a legal post upon some conspicuous part of the ground on which such water is intended to be used and a copy of such notice on the office of the mining recorder for at least sixty days, which notice shall contain the following particulars: (a.) The name of each applicant; (b.) the number of each applicant's free miner's certificate; (c.) the name, or if unnamed, a sufficient description of the stream, lake, or other source from which such water is intended to be taken; (d.) the point of diversion or intended ditch-head; (e.) the number of inches of water applied for; (f.) the purpose for which it is required; (g.) the date of the notice. ii. If more than three hundred inches are applied for, a deposit shall be made with the gold commissioner of twenty-five dollars, to be refunded if the grant is not made.

62. The grant of such water right shall be recorded in the office of the mining recorder within the time limited for the recording of mineral claims, which time can be extended by the gold commissioner in his discretion.

63. No grant shall take effect until recorded.

64. On any dispute prior to such grant, priority of notice shall constitute priority of right.

65. A grant duly recorded shall speak from the date of the grant and not from the date of the record.

66. Every such grant shall be subject to the rights of such free miners as shall, at the date of such grant, be working on the stream above or below the ditch head, and of any other persons lawfully using such water for any purpose whatsoever; and such grant shall be deemed as appurtenant to the mineral claim, mine held as real estate or mill-site in respect of which it has been obtained, and whenever the claim or mine shall have been worked out or abandoned, or whenever the occasion for the use of the water upon the claim, mine or mill-site shall have permanently ceased, the grant shall be at an end and determined.

67. No person shall be entitled to any such grant of water for the purpose of selling such water, or of using the same otherwise than for the purpose for which the water was recorded.

68. Within six months after the grant is made, the grantee shall commence the construction of the ditch or other works through which he intends to convey the water, and shall prosecute the same diligently and uninterruptedly to completion, unless interrupted by the severity of the weather: Provided, always, that the gold commissioner may, in his discretion, allow such work to cease for any time, upon cause being shown. Upon the non-fulfilment of any of the conditions of this section the grant shall be forfeited.

69. The gold commissioner shall, in his discretion, have power to allow a grantee of any water right to change the place of diversion, on giving such notices and complying with such terms as the gold commissioner may require.

70. Every such grantee shall take all reasonable means for utilizing the water granted to him; and if he wilfully waste any water, or take a quantity of water in excess of his requirements, the gold commissioner may declare his grant to be forfeited.

71. Any person desiring to bridge any stream, claim, or other place, for any purpose, or to mine under or through any ditch or flume, or to carry water through or over any land already occupied, may do so with the written sanction of the gold commissioner. In all such cases the right of the party first in possession, whether of the mine or of the water right, is to prevail, so as to entitle him to compensation if the same be just.

72. In measuring water in any ditch or sluice, the following rules shall be observed: The water taken into a ditch or sluice shall be measured at the ditch or sluice head. No water shall be taken into a ditch or sluice except in a trough placed horizontally at the place at which the water enters it. One inch of water shall mean half the quantity that will pass through an orifice two inches high by one inch wide, with a constant head of seven inches above the upper side of the orifice.

73. Whenever it shall be intended, in forming or upholding any ditch, to enter upon and occupy any part of a registered claim, or mine held as real estate, or to dig or loosen any earth or rock within four feet of any ditch not belonging solely to the registered owner of such claim or mine, three days' notice in writing of such intention shall be given before entering or approaching within twenty feet of such other property.

74. Any person heretofore or hereafter engaged in the construction of any road or work may, with the sanction of the gold commissioner, cross, divert, or otherwise interfere with any ditch, water right, or other mining rights whatsoever, for such period as the said commissioner shall direct.

75. The owner of any ditch, flume, or pipe shall, at his own expense, construct, secure, and maintain all culverts necessary for the passage of waste and superfluous water flowing through or over any such ditch, flume, or pipe.

76. The owner of any ditch, flume, or pipe shall construct and secure the same in a proper and substantial manner, and maintain the same in good repair to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner, so that no damage shall occur to any road or work in its vicinity from any part of the works of such ditch, flume, or pipe.

77. The owner of any ditch, flume, or pipe shall be liable and shall make good, in such manner as the gold commissioner shall determine all damages which may be occasioned by or through any parts of the works of such ditch, flume, or pipe breaking or being imperfect.

78. If any written notice to the party intended to be affected thereby be posted for ten days on some conspicuous part of any premises referred to in such notice, and also in the office of the mining recorder, such notice shall be deemed good and sufficient.

79. When the term for which any water right has been granted shall have expired, the grantee thereof may, at the discretion of the gold commissioner, obtain a renewal of the same for a reasonable term, not to exceed ten years, provided the necessity for the use of said water for the purpose for which it was originally granted continues to exist.

80. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to limit the right of the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works to lay out, from time to time, the public roads of the Province, across, through, along, or under any ditch, water right, or mining right, in any Crown land, without compensation, provided that as little damage as possible shall be done in so doing.

XXIV. MINING PARTNERSHIPS:

81. All mining partnerships shall be governed by the provisions hereof, unless they shall have other and written articles of partnership.

82. A mining partnership shall, unless otherwise agreed upon, be deemed to be a yearly partnership, renewable from year to year by tacit consent.

83. The business of the partnership shall be mining and such other matters as pertain solely thereto.

84. Mining partnerships can locate and record in the partnership name a mineral claim for each partner, but the name of every partner, and the number of every partner's free miner's certificate shall be on the record of every such claim. The partnership name must appear on every such record, and all the claims so taken up shall be the property of the partnership: Provided, always, that no free miner who is the member of a mining partnership, holding by right of location a mineral claim, shall be entitled to hold by right of location in his own name or in the name of any other partnership any interest in any other mineral claim on the same vein or lode on which the partnership claim is situate.

85. Should any partner fail to keep up his free miner's certificate, such failure shall not cause a forfeiture, or act as an abandonment of the partnership claim, but the share of the partner who shall so fail to keep up his free miner's certificate shall ipso facto be and become vested in his partners, pro rata, according to their former interests, on the said partners paying the free miner's certificate for the year.

86. A partner in any mining partnership or his agent authorized in writing shall, at any meeting thereof, be entitled to vote upon any interest or fraction of an interest which he may hold therein; but the result of the votes given shall be determined by the number of the full interests voted upon, and not by the number of partners voting at such meeting.

87. A majority of such votes may decide when, how long, and in what manner to work the partnership claim, the number of men to be employed, and the extent and manner of levying the assessments to defray the expenses incurred by the partnership: Such majority may also choose a foreman or manager, who shall represent the partnership, and sue and be sued in the name of the partnership for assessments and otherwise; and he shall have power to bind them by his contracts: Every partner, or his duly authorized agent, shall be entitled to represent his interest in the partnership property by work and labor so long as such work and labor be satisfactory to the foreman or manager. In the event of such workman being discharged by the foreman or manager, the court having jurisdiction in mining disputes may, if requested, summon the foreman or manager before it, and upon hearing the facts make such order as it shall deem just.

88. All assessments shall be payable within thirty days after being made.

89. Any partner making default in payment after receiving a notice specifying the amount due by him, shall, if such amount be correct, be personally liable therefor to the partnership, and his interest in the partnership property may be sold by the partnership for the payment of the debt, and any further assessment which may have accrued thereon up to the day of sale, together with all costs and charges occasioned by such default; and if the proceeds of the sale be insufficient to pay off the several sums mentioned, the court having jurisdiction in mining disputes, upon being applied to, shall issue an order directed to the sheriff to seize and sell any other personal property of the debtor. Notices of sale shall, in either of the above cases, be conspicuously posted thirty clear days prior to the day of sale in the vicinity of such mining or other property, and on the court house or mining recorder's office nearest thereto. But if such partner be absent from the district such notices shall be posted as aforesaid sixty clear days before the day of sale, and a copy of such notice shall be published in some newspaper circulating in the district wherein such mining or other property is situate. Such sale shall be by public auction to the highest bidder. The purchaser shall be entitled to possession of the property sold, and to a bill of sale therefor signed by the auctioneer; such bill of sale shall confer such title upon the purchaser as the owner had.

90. After a notice of abandonment in writing shall have been served on the foreman or manager of a partnership by any member thereof, and duly recorded, such member shall not be liable for any debts or other liabilities of the partnership incurred after service and record of such notice, and no member shall be deemed to have abandoned an interest until service and record of such notice.

91. Upon the abandonment of any share in a mining partnership, the title to the abandoned share shall vest in the continuing partners, pro rata, according to their former interests.

92. Any partner shall be entitled to sell, or contract for the sale of his interest in the partnership property, but such interest shall continue liable for all debts of the partnership.

93. No partner shall, after a bill of sale conveying his interest has been recorded, be liable for any indebtedness of the partnership incurred thereafter.

XXV. LIMITED LIABILITY:

94. Any mining partnership composed of two or more free miners may limit the liability of its members, upon complying with the requirements following, that is to say: Upon filing with the mining recorder a declaratory statement containing the name of the partnership, the location and size of every partnership claim, and the particular interest of each partner; and also placing upon a conspicuous part of every such claim, in large letters, the name of the partnership, followed by the words "Limited Liability."

95. The words "Limited Liability" shall thereupon become part of the partnership name.

96. After such conditions shall have been complied with, no member of such partnership shall be liable for any indebtedness incurred thereafter beyond an amount proportioned to his interest in the partnership.

97. Every such partnership shall keep a correct account of its assets and liabilities, together with the names of the partners, and the interest held by each, and shall make out a monthly balance sheet showing the names of the creditors, and the amounts due each, and file the same among the papers of the partnership; and such balance sheet and all the books of the partnership shall be open to the inspection of creditors at all reasonable hours.

98. Every partner in such partnership shall be at liberty to sell or dispose of his interest therein, or of any part thereof, to any other free miner.

99. No member of such partnership, after a bill of sale conveying his interest has been duly recorded, or after he has served a notice of abandonment of his interest on the foreman, and left a copy thereof with the mining recorder, shall be liable for any indebtedness of the partnership incurred thereafter.

100. No such partnership shall declare any dividend until all its liabilities have been paid.

101. Every such partnership shall appoint a foreman or manager, who shall represent the partnership, who shall sue and be sued in the name of the partnership, and his contracts in relation to the business of the partnership shall be deemed to be the contracts of the partnership.

102. No such partnership shall be liable for any other indebtedness than that contracted by its foreman or manager, or by its agent duly authorized in writing.

103. Should any such partnership fail to comply with any of the provisions of this Act relating exclusively to "limited liability" partnerships, such partnerships shall, from date of such failure, cease to be a "limited liability" partnership.

XXVI. MINING RECORDERS:

104. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may appoint any person to be a mining recorder in and for any part of the Province.

105. Where mineral land is discovered in a part of the Province so situate that the provisions of this Act as to free miners' certificates and records of mining property cannot be justly applied or enforced by reason of there being no gold commissioner or mining recorder in the locality, it shall be lawful for the miners of such locality to hold meetings at such times and places as may be agreed upon, and at such meetings, by a two-thirds vote, to appoint one of their number to issue free miners' certificates and to enter records of mining property; and such certificates and records shall be valid, notwithstanding any informality therein: Provided that all records so made, and all fees for the same in accordance with the schedule to this act, and a list of all free miners' certificates issued, and the date and term thereof, and the fees for the same, be forwarded to the nearest gold commissioner or mining recorder as soon thereafter as practicable.

XXVII. MINING DIVISIONS:

125. It shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to divide and subdivide any district into mining divisions, and to establish in each mining division a mining recorder's office.

126. Upon the establishment of a mining division, and the opening of a mining recorder's office therein, under the authority of the last preceding section: (a.) Such office, and none other, shall be the proper office for recording all claims, records, certificates, documents, or other instruments affecting claims, mines held as real estate, or mining property situate within such mining division; and whenever, by this Act, or any Act amending the same, anything is required to be done at or in the office of the gold commissioner or mining recorder of the district, it shall, if the same affects or concerns any claim, mine held as real estate, or mining property situate within a mining division, be done at or in the office of the mining recorder of the mining division wherein such claim or mine, or other mining property, is situate: (b.) Upon the district or division of any mining recorder being divided or subdivided into mining divisions, it shall be the duty of such mining recorder to make, or cause to be made, a transcript of all the entries in all the books mentioned in Section 108, affecting claims, mines held as real estate, or mining property situate in each newly created mining division, and to forward same to the mining recorder of such mining division, and such transcript shall be kept in such office as part of the records of such office, and all transcripts of such records, certificates, documents, or other instruments shall prima facie be deemed to be true copies of the several records, certificates, documents, or other instruments of which they purport to be transcripts; and such transcripts or copies thereof, when certified by the mining recorder of the mining division in whose office they are kept, shall be admissible in evidence in all courts of judicature in this Province.

127. When there shall be no mining recorder for a district or division, the duties of the mining recorder shall devolve upon the gold commissioner, and it shall at all times be lawful for the gold commissioner to perform the duties of the mining recorder, and the gold commissioner shall have all the powers of a mining recorder.

128. The mining recorder's office shall be open upon such days and hours as the Lieutenant-Governor in council may from time to time appoint, and failing any particular appointment shall be kept open upon all days, excepting public holidays, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., and such times shall be deemed the office hours of such office.

XXVIII. GOLD COMMISSIONER'S POWERS:

129. It shall be lawful for, but not incumbent upon, the gold commissioner to grant a license to any free miner, being the lawful holder of a mineral claim or mine held as real estate, to run a drain or tunnel, for any purpose connected with the development of working of such claim or mine, through any occupied or unoccupied lands, whether mineral or otherwise, upon security being deposited or given to him, to his satisfaction, for any damage that may be done thereby, and upon such other terms as he shall think fit.

130. It shall be lawful for, but not incumbent upon, the gold commissioner to grant a water right to any free miner who is the lawful holder of a mineral claim, mine held as real estate, or mill-site, in any unappropriated water, for any mining or milling purpose, for any term not exceeding twenty years, and upon such terms and conditions as the gold commissioner shall think fit, upon being satisfied that all the conditions of Section 61 have been complied with. And in all cases where he shall think fit to extend the time for the recording of the grant of such water right.

131. On the expiration of the grant to any such water right, it shall be lawful for, but not incumbent upon, the gold commissioner to renew such grant for a further period not exceeding ten years, on being satisfied that the necessity for the use of the water for the purpose for which it was originally granted continues to exist.

132. Upon proof that any grantee has not complied with all or any of the conditions upon which grants of water rights are held, the gold commissioner may declare the grant to be forfeited.

133. When such grant shall have been declared forfeited, the gold commissioner shall cause such forfeiture to be recorded by the mining recorder.

134. The gold commissioner may permit the grantee of any water right to change the place of diversion, on being satisfied that others are not injured by such change.

135. The gold commissioner may, in all proper cases, grant an authority in writing to any person desiring to bridge any stream, claim, or other place, for any purpose, or to mine under or through any ditch or flume, or to carry water through or over any land already occupied, and to any person heretofore or hereafter engaged in the construction of any road or work, to cross, divert, or otherwise interfere with any ditch, water privilege, or other mining rights whatsoever, for such period as the said commissioner shall think fit.

136. The gold commissioner may order the owner of any ditch, flume, or pipe to make good, in such manner as such gold commissioner shall think fit, all damages which may be occasioned by or through any parts of the works of such ditch, flume, or pipe breaking or being imperfect.

139. The gold commissioner may, in his discretion, permit a free miner to re-locate a mineral claim, or any part thereof, which may have been abandoned or forfeited by such free miner: Provided, that such re-locations shall not prejudice or interfere with the rights or interests of others.

140. The gold commissioner may mark out a space of ground for deposits of leavings and deads from any tunnel, claim, or mining ground, upon such terms as he may think just.

141. The gold commissioner shall have the power to summarily order any mining works to be so carried on as not to interfere with or endanger the safety of the public, any public work or highway, or any mining property, mineral claims, mining claims, bed-rock drains, or bed-rock flumes; and any abandoned works may by his order be either filled up or guarded to his satisfaction, at the cost of the parties who may have constructed the same, or, in their absence, upon such terms as he shall think fit.

142. Notwithstanding anything contained in the "Gold Mining Amendment Act, 1873," or in any Crown grant issued under the said Act, or under this or any other Act, it shall be lawful for the gold commissioner, in his discretion, and with or without any terms or conditions, to allow to the owners of mineral claims all such rights or privileges in and over mineral or other claims held as real estate as may be allowed in and over claims not so held; and owners of claims held as real estate shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as owners of claims not so held.

143. Upon receiving an application for a mill-site from any free miner, and upon proof being furnished to his satisfaction of the non-mineral character of the land applied for, and the deposit in duplicate of a plat of said land, and upon proof by affidavit that the applicant has complied with the requirements of Section 55 of this Act, the gold commissioner shall issue to the applicant a lease of such land for one year, in the form in the schedule to this act.

144. Upon being satisfied that the lessee of a mill-site has put or constructed thereon works or machinery for mining or milling purposes to an amount of not less than five hundred dollars, the gold commissioner shall issue his certificate to that effect.

145. Upon receipt from the mining recorder of the moneys and documents mentioned or referred to in Section 122, the gold commissioner shall satisfy himself that the same are in order, and then forward the same to the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works.

146. The gold commissioner shall have power to do all things necessary or expedient for the carrying out of the provisions of this act.

XXIX. ADMINISTRATION MINERS' ESTATES:

147. (Repealed by 1892, c. 32, s. 2.)

148. The gold commissioner, or any person authorized by him, shall take charge of all the property, within the district of such commissioner, of any deceased free miner until the issue of letters of administration or probate of the will, if any: Provided, however, that where any free miner shall die intestate, and the value of the personal estate of such deceased free miner is less than three hundred dollars, it shall not be necessary for the gold commissioner to obtain from any court letters of administration, but in such case the gold commissioner may administer and wind up the personal estate of the deceased, and do all things necessary and proper therefor, and act in all respects as if letters of administration to the personal estate of such deceased free miner had been granted to such gold commissioner, and the gold commissioner shall produce and pass his accounts, in each estate of which he shall undertake the administration, before a judge of the County Court of the district.

XXX. MINING JURISDICTION OF COUNTY COURTS:

149. [Abridged.] Every County Court shall have and exercise, within the limits of its district, all the jurisdiction and powers of a court of law and equity: i. In all personal actions, where the debt or damages claimed arise directly out of the business of mining (other than coal mining), or from the exercise of or interference with any right, power, or privilege given, or claimed to be given, by this act or any other act relating to mining (other than coal mining). ii. In all actions between employers and employes, where the employment is directly connected with the business of mining (other than coal mining). iii. In all actions for supplies to persons engaged in mining, where such supplies were bought, contracted for, or supplied, or were alleged to have been bought, contracted for or supplied, for mining purposes, or for consumption by persons engaged in mining or prospecting. iv. In all actions of trespass on or in respect of mineral claims or other mining property, or in the exercise of any power or privilege given, or claimed to be given, by this act, or any other act relating to mining (other than coal mining). v. In all actions of ejectment from mineral claims or other mining property, or from lands entered, or claimed to have been entered, in searching for, mining, or working minerals (other than coal) or for any purpose connected therewith or under some power given or obtained under this act or any other mining act (other than coal mining). vi. In all suits for foreclosure or redemption, or for enforcing any charge or lien, where the mortgage, charge or lien shall be on mineral claims, mines, or other mining property. vii. In all suits for specific performance of, or for reforming, or delivering up, or cancelling any agreement for sale, purchase, or lease of any mineral claim, mine, or other mining property. viii. In all suits for the dissolution or winding up of any mining partnership, whether registered or not, under the provisions of this act. ix. In all suits relative to water rights claimed under this act, or any other act relating to mining (other than coal mining). x. In all proceedings for orders in the nature of injunctions, where the same are requisite for the granting of relief in any matter in which jurisdiction is given to the County Court by this act.

150. The jurisdiction given to County Courts by this act shall be known as the "mining jurisdiction" of the County Court, and the words "mining jurisdiction" shall be written or printed on all summonses, writs and other process, and all other documents in every action or cause brought under the mining jurisdiction of the County Court.

151. [Abridged.] County Courts and County Court judges, registrars, sheriffs and other officers, shall have the same duties, powers, privileges, and authorities in all actions and suits, and other proceedings brought under the mining jurisdiction of the County Court, as they now have, or at any time hereafter may have, in actions and suits and other proceedings brought under the ordinary jurisdiction of the County Court.

152. Where disputes arise concerning mining property, portions whereof are situated in adjoining or different districts, the County Court of either of such districts before which the dispute is first brought shall determine it.

153. The hearing of any summons, plaint, or other process in any County Court shall not be deferred beyond the shortest reasonable time necessary in the interests of all parties concerned, and it shall be lawful for the registrar to make summonses or other proceedings returnable forthwith, or at any other time.

154. In all mining actions or suits the court may decide the question at issue upon the ground in dispute, and such decision shall be entered as in ordinary cases, and have the same virtue and effect as if rendered in court.

155. In any mining cause or suit, either party may require that the issues of fact shall be tried by a jury, and the judge may, before delivering judgment in any action, suit, or other proceeding, direct all or any issues of fact to be found by a jury.

156. In all actions, suits and other proceedings within the mining jurisdiction of the County Court, the judge may order that costs be taxed on the higher or lower scale allowed by the County Court rules; or if he shall consider the case of sufficient importance, he may order that costs be taxed as in the Supreme Court, and the costs so ordered shall be the costs recoverable in such action, suit, or other proceeding.

157. Every County Court having jurisdiction in mining disputes shall, with reference to real estate held under the "Gold Mining Amendment Act, 1873," or under this act, and notwithstanding any law to the contrary, have the same powers and authorities to decide all matters or disputes arising between the owners thereof, or between the owners thereof and any third person, or between mining joint stock companies, or between shareholders, therein, or between them and the company, in the same way and as fully as it might do concerning claims not being real estate; and actions, suits and other proceedings relating to such matters or disputes shall be brought and had in the same manner as actions, suits, or proceedings relating to mining claims not being real estate.

158. [Omitted; of official value only.]

XXXI. PENAL AND MISCELLANEOUS:

159. Any person wilfully acting in contravention of this act, or refusing to obey any lawful order of the gold commissioner or of any judge presiding in a court shall, on conviction thereof in a summary way before any two justices of the peace, or a stipendiary magistrate, or before any judge of a court having jurisdiction in mining disputes, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any term not exceeding three months.

160. All fines and penalties imposed or payable under this act may be recovered by distress and sale of any mining or other personal property of the offender; and in default of sufficient distress by imprisonment, with or without hard labor, not exceeding three months.

161. All fines, fees and penalties collected under this act shall be paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund of British Columbia.

162. Nothing herein contained shall, save where such intention is expressely stated, be so construed as to affect prejudicially any mining rights and interests acquired prior to the passing of this act; and all mining rights and privileges heretofore and hereunder acquired shall, without the same being expressly stated, be deemed to be taken and held subject to the rights of Her Majesty, Her heirs and successors, and to the public rights of way and water.

163. Every free miner, on application to the mining recorder of the district, shall be entitled to a printed copy of this act on payment of the sum of twenty-five cents.

164. Affidavits and declarations made under the provisions of this act shall be made before some judge or registrar of a court of record, or before some gold commissioner, mining recorder, stipendiary magistrate, justice of the peace, notary public, or commissioner for taking affidavits.

164a. The Minister of Mines and the Provincial Inspector or Mineralogist shall have the right to enter into or upon and examine any mineral claim or mine within the meaning of this act.

XXXII. TAXATION OF MINES:

164b. There shall be levied and collected from the owner or occupier of every mineral or placer claim of which a Crown grant has issued, including Crown grants issued under authority of an act made and passed in the thirty-sixth year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled "An act to amend the 'Gold Mining Ordinance, 1867,' and the 'Gold Mining Amendment Act, 1872,'" an annual tax of twenty-five cents for every acre and fractional part of an acre of land conveyed by the grant, payable on the thirtieth day of June in each year. Such tax shall form a charge upon the claim. The assessor appointed under or by virtue of any existing assessment act, or any collector appointed under the "Provincial Revenue Tax Act," is hereby authorized, as to the mineral or placer claims situate within the district for which he is appointed, to collect and receive the tax. In the event of the tax not being paid to the assessor or collector, the gold commissioner may in his discretion cause the claim upon which the tax is charged to be offered for sale by public auction, of which sixty days' notice shall be posted upon the principal court house of the district in which the claim is situate, and in one newspaper, if any, published in such district, and may sell such claim, receive the purchase money, and execute a conveyance thereof to the purchaser. The purchase money shall be applied in payment of the expenses of advertising and the payment of the tax, and any surplus shall be paid into the treasury in trust for the owner of the claim. In the event of their being no purchaser, or if the price offered shall not be sufficient to pay the tax and expenses of advertising, the land shall absolutely revert to the Province, and the Crown grant thereof shall be deemed void. The assessor or collector may, before offering the claim for sale, sue the owner or occupier for the tax, in a summary manner, before any justice of the peace, who may adjudge the same to be paid; and in default of payment, the amount due, together with costs, may be recovered by distress of the goods and chattels of the person against whom the tax may be recovered: Provided, that if the owner of any such mineral or placer claim shall establish, to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner, mining recorder, or assessor and collector of the district in which the claim lies, that the sum of two hundred dollars has been expended thereon in labor or improvements in any one year, then the tax shall not be levied in respect of such claim for such year.

XXXIII. MINING COURTS:

[The following sections of the "Mineral Act" (Consolidated Acts, 1888, Chap. 82) are still in force but it has been decided by a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia that the provisions conferring judicial powers on the gold commissioner are void.]

165a. (4.) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may from time to time appoint such persons as he shall think proper to be respectively Chief Gold Commissioner and gold commissioners, either for the whole Province or for any particular districts therein, and from time to time in like manner fix and vary the limits of and subdivide such districts, and make and revoke all such appointments.

165b. (5.) Within every such district or districts there shall be a court, to be called the "Mining Court," in which the gold commissioner of the district shall preside as judge thereof.

165c. (6.) Such "Mining Court" shall have original jurisdiction as a court of law and equity, to hear and determine all mining disputes arising within its district, and shall be a court of record with a specific seal; and in determining suits or actions brought therein, the gold commissioner may render such judgment, or make such order or decree as he shall deem just, and for the purposes thereof and for enforcing the same he shall have and exercise, save as hereinafter excepted, the same powers and authority, legal and equitable, as are now exercised by the Supreme Court by any judge thereof: Provided, however, that the gold commissioner shall, if desired by both parties to a cause in cases of liquidated damages, or if desired by either party to a cause in case of unliquidated damages, summon a jury of from three to five free miners to assess the amount of such damages.

165i. (28.) Where any mining cause, wherein the sum of damages sought to be recovered shall be less than two hundred and fifty dollars, is brought in the first instance before the Supreme Court, it shall be lawful for the court, after issue joined, to direct the cause to be tried before any particular gold commissioner, upon such terms as the court shall think fit.

165j. [Abridged.] (29.) An appeal shall lie from any judgment of a Mining Court or of a County Court in a mining cause to the Supreme Court at Victoria sitting as a full court.

XXXIV. APPENDIX A. CONFIRMATION OF TITLES:

[Sections 1, 2, 3 omitted; being provisions of transitory nature.]

4. Every instrument, memorandum of sale, or other writing, whether under seal or not, executed before the passing of this Act, purporting to transfer any interest in any placer claim or claims held under the authority of the mining laws of the Province in force at the time of such transfer, from which, by reason of its customary use, or from other satisfactory reasons, it is plainly deducible that the intention of the maker thereof was to pass to the transferee the maker's entire interest in such claim or claims, shall, unless some reservation or exception or contrary intention appears, otherwise than by the omission of proper operative words, or of words of inheritance, or by the presence of some other informality, or of one or more such, pass, and be deemed to have passed, to the transferee an estate of fee simple in the premises, or other the full estate held or possessed by the maker.

5. Where, by reason of the loss of the documents of title to any such claim, it is impossible to produce the same for purposes of registration, it shall be sufficient to entitle an applicant to have his title registered under the Land Registry Acts, to produce to the registrar of titles a copy of the record of such transfer or transfers, certified under the hand of the mining recorder in whose office are the books of record in which any such transfer is recorded.

XXXV. APPENDIX B. EXECUTION:

In regard to the method of enforcing a judgment against the owner of mineral claims and the "Execution Act Amendment Act, 1895," contains the following provision: "4. * * * * Any interest which a free miner has in any mineral claim before the issue of a Crown grant therefor, or in any mining property as defined in the 'Mineral Act, 1891,' and amendments thereto, and any placer claim and mining property, as defined in the 'Placer Mining Act, 1891,' and amendments thereto, may be seized and sold by the sheriff, under and by virtue of an execution issued against goods and chattels."

XXXVI. SCALE OF FEES:

For every free miner's certificate (for each year)	$5.00
Every substituted certificate	1.00
Recording: any claim	2.50
Every certificate of work	2.50
Any "lay over," or every other record required	2.50
Every abandonment	2.50
Any other record made in the "Record of Abandonments"	2.50
Every affidavit, not exceeding three folios of 100 words.	2.50
Every folio over three, per folio	.30
All records in the "Record of Conveyances," where not exceeding three folios	2.50
Every folio over three, per folio	.30
For all copies or extracts from any record not exceeding three folios, per copy	2.50
Exceeding three folios, per folio	.30
For filing any document	.25

[THE PLACER MINING ACT, 1891. ABRIDGED. As Amended in 1892, 1893, 1894 and 1895.]

I. SHORT TITLE:

This Act may be cited as "The Placer Mining Act, 1891."

II. INTERPRETATIONS:

2. In the construction of this Act the following expressions shall have the following meanings respectively, unless inconsistent with the context:

"Mine," "placer mine," and "diggings" shall be synonymous terms, and shall mean any natural stratum or bed of earth, gravel or cement mined for gold or other precious minerals:

"Placer claim" shall mean the personal right of property or interest in any placer mine; and in the term "mining property" shall be included every placer claim, ditch, or water right used for placer mining purposes, and all other things belonging thereto or used in the working thereof. Placer claims shall be divided into creek diggings, bar diggings, dry diggings, bench diggings, and hill diggings:

"Creek diggings" shall mean any mine in the bed of any river, stream, or ravine, excepting bar diggings:

"Bar diggings" shall mean any mine over which a river extends when in its flooded state:

"Dry diggings" shall mean any mine over which a river never extends:

"Bench diggings" shall mean any mine on a bench, and shall, for the purpose of defining the size of a claim in bench diggings, be excepted from "dry diggings:"

"Hill diggings" shall mean any mine on the surface of a hill, and fronting on any natural stream or ravine:

"Record," when used without qualifying words showing that a different matter is referred to, shall be taken to refer to the record of the location of a placer claim:

"Full interest" shall mean any placer claim of the full size, or one of several shares into which a mine may be equally divided:

"Close season" shall mean the period of the year during which placer claims in any district are laid over by the gold commissioner of that district:

For interpretation of "streams and ravines," "ditch," "ditch head," "free miner," "legal post," "record," "register," "registration," "cause," "judgment," "real estate," and "joint stock company" see Section 2, Art. II, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.

III. FREE MINERS, AND THEIR PRIVILEGES:

[See corresponding article in Mineral Act, 1891, preceding, Sections 3 to 8, substituting "placer claim" for "mineral claim" in the last specified section.]

9. No person or joint stock company shall be recognized as having any right or interest in or to any placer claim, mining lease, bed-rock flume grant, or any minerals in any ground comprised therein, or in or to any water right, mining ditch, drain, tunnel, or flume, unless he or it shall have a free miner's certificate unexpired. And on the expiration of a free miner's certificate the owner thereof shall absolutely forfeit all his rights and interest in or to any placer claim, mining lease, bed-rock flume grant, and any minerals in any ground comprised therein, and in or to any and every water right, mining ditch, drain, tunnel, or flume, which may be held or claimed by such owner of such expired free miner's certificate unless such owner shall, on or before the day following the expiration of such certificate, obtain a new free miner's certificate: Provided, nevertheless, should any co-owner fail to keep up his free miner's certificate, such failure shall not cause a forfeiture or act as an abandonment of the claim; but the interest of the co-owner who shall fail to keep up his free miner's certificate shall, ipso facto, be and become vested in his co-owners, pro rata, according to their former interests: Provided, nevertheless, that a shareholder in a joint stock company need not be a free miner, and, though not a free miner, shall be entitled to buy, sell, hold, or dispose of any shares therein: And provided, also, that this section shall not apply to placer mines for which a Crown grant has been issued.

9A. Every owner of a mine or placer claim, and every contractor for the performance of any work upon a mine or placer claim, shall pay the annual fee for a free miner's license for any person in their employment and liable for the fee, and may deduct the amount so paid on account of such person from the amount of salary or wages due or to become due to him from such employer upon production and delivery of the receipt for such tax to such person. Every such owner or contractor shall furnish to the mining recorder or collector, when requested by him so to do, from time to time, a list of all persons in his employ, or indirectly employed by him, liable to pay the said license fee; but no such statement shall bind the recorder or collector, or excuse him from making due enquiry to ascertain its correctness.

10. Every free miner shall, during the continuance of his certificate, but not longer, have the right to enter, locate, prospect, and mine for gold and other precious metals upon any lands in the Province of British Columbia, whether vested in the Crown or otherwise, except upon Government reservations for townsites, land occupied by any building, and any land falling within the curtilage of any dwelling house, and any orchard, and any land lawfully occupied for placer mining purposes, and also Indian reservations.

11. Previous to any entry being made upon lands already lawfully occupied, such free miner shall give adequate security, to the satisfaction of the gold commisioner, for any loss or damage which may be caused by such entry; and after such entry he shall make full compensation to the occupant or owner of such lands for any loss or damage which may be caused by reason of such entry; such compensation, in case of dispute, to be determined by a court having jurisdiction in mining disputes, with or without a jury.

12-13. [See Sections 11 and 12, Art. III, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

14. A free miner shall have all the rights and privileges granted to free miners by the "Mineral Act, 1891."

IV. LOCATION AND RECORD:

15. Every free miner shall be entitled to locate and record a placer claim on each separate creek, ravine, or hill, but not more than two claims in the same locality, only one of which shall be a creek claim. He shall be allowed to hold any number of placer claims by purchase, and every free miner may sell, mortgage, or dispose of his claim or any interest therein.

16. The size of placer claims shall be as follows: A "creek claim" shall be one hundred feet long, measured in the direction of the general course of the stream, and shall extend in width from base to base of the hill or bench on each side, but when the hills or benches are less than one hundred feet apart the claim shall be one hundred feet square. In "bar diggings" a claim shall be a strip of land one hundred feet long at high water mark, and in width extending from high water mark into the river to its lowest water level: In "dry diggings" a claim shall be one hundred feet square: In "bench diggings" a claim shall be one hundred feet square: Provided that the gold commissioner shall have authority, where a bench is narrow, to extend the limits of the claim beyond the limits of the bench, but not to exceed one hundred feet square: In "hill diggings" a claim shall have a base line or frontage of one hundred feet, drawn parallel to the main direction of the stream or ravine on which it fronts. Parallel lines drawn from each end of the base line, at right angles thereto, and running to the summit of the hill, shall constitute the side lines thereof. Legal posts shall be placed, one hundred feet apart, on both the base line and side lines, and no claim shall extend beyond the posts so placed.

17. If any free miner, or party of free miners, discover a new mine, and such discovery be established to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner, placer claims of the following sizes, in dry, bar, bench, creek, or hill diggings shall be allowed, viz.: To one discoverer, one claim, three hundred feet in length; to a party of two discoverers, two claims amounting together to six hundred feet in length; to a party of three discoverers, three claims, amounting together to eight hundred feet in length; to a party of four discoverers, four claims, amounting together to one thousand feet in length; and to each member of a party beyond four in number, a claim of the ordinary size only. A creek discovery claim shall extend on each side of the center of the creek as far as the summit of the hill, but not exceeding one thousand feet.

18. A new stratum of auriferous earth, gravel, or cement, situated in a locality where all placer claims are abandoned, shall be deemed a new mine, although mines in the same locality shall have been previously worked; and dry diggings discovered in the vicinity of bar diggings shall be deemed a new mine, and vice versa. A discoverer's claim shall be considered as one ordinary claim, in respect to recording, working, and representing.

19. In defining the size of placer claims they shall be measured horizontally, irrespective of inequalities on the surface of the ground.

20. Every placer claim shall be as nearly as possible rectangular in form, and marked by four legal posts at the corners thereof, firmly fixed in the ground. One of such posts shall be marked as the "initial post," and on that post shall be placed a legible notice in writing, stating the name of the claim, its length in feet and general direction, with the date of the notice and name of each locator. If any side line of any claim shall exceed one hundred feet in length, legal posts shall be placed along such side line, at distances not exceeding one hundred feet.

21. Any location made upon Sunday or any public holiday shall not for that reason be invalid, any law or statute to the contrary notwithstanding.

22. In case of any dispute as to the title to a placer claim, the title to the claim shall be recognized according to the priority of such location, subject to any question as to the validity of the record itself, and subject further to the free miner having complied with all the terms and conditions of this Act.

23. Every free miner locating a placer claim shall record the same with the mining recorder of the district or division within which the same is situate, within three days after the location thereof, if located within ten miles of the office of the said mining recorder. One additional day shall be allowed for making such record for every additional ten miles or fraction thereof. Such record shall be made in a book to be kept for the purpose in the office of the said mining recorder, to be known as the "Record Book," in which shall be inserted the name of the claim, the name of each locator, the number of each locator's free miner's certificate, the locality of the claim, its length in feet, the period for which such record is granted, the date of location, and date of the record: Provided that a free miner shall not be entitled to a record of a claim until he shall have furnished the mining recorder with a written statement of the above particulars.

24. After the recording of a placer claim, the removal of any post by the holder thereof, or by any person acting in his behalf, made for the purpose of changing the limits of his claim, shall act as a forfeiture of the claim.

25. Upon the establishment of a mining division and the opening of a mining recorder's office therein, under the authority of this Act, such office and none other shall be the proper office for recording all placer claims within such mining division, and making all records in respect thereof.

26. If through ignorance any free miner shall record a placer claim in a different district or mining division to that in which such claim is situate, such error shall not affect his title to such claim, but he shall within fifteen days from the discovery of his error, record such claim in the district or mining division in which it is situate, and such new record shall bear the date of the first record, and a note shall be made thereon of the error and of the date of the rectification of the same.

27. A free miner having duly located a placer claim, shall be entitled to record the same for one or more years, upon payment of the fees set out in the schedule to this Act.

28. [Abridged.] A free miner shall, at any time during the existence of his record or re-record, be entitled to extend the term of his interest in his placer claim for one or more years, upon payment of the fees set out in the schedule to this Act, by re-recording such claim.

29. [Sec. 23, Art. IV, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

30. If a free miner shall apply for a re-record, and shall make such application at the mining recorder's office during office hours, but during his absence, and shall leave the fee required by this Act, and the particulars and information required by section 28, with the officer or other person in charge of the said office, he shall be entitled to have a re-record dated on the date of such application, but commencing to run from the expiration of his existing record or re-record.

31. A free miner, having duly located and recorded a placer claim, shall be entitled to hold the same during the existence of his record or re-record of such claim upon complying with all the terms and conditions of this Act.

V. RIGHT OF ENTRY:

32. Every free miner shall have the exclusive right of entry upon his placer claim, for the miner-like working thereof, and the construction of a residence thereon, and shall be entitled exclusively to all the proceeds realized therefrom: Provided that the gold commissioner may, upon application made to him, allow other free miners such rights of entry thereon as may be necessary for the working of their claims, upon such terms as may to him seem reasonable.

VI. DISPUTED TITLES:

33. Upon any dispute as to the title to a placer claim, no irregularity made prior to the date of the then current record or re-record of such claim shall affect the title thereto, and it shall be assumed that up to the date of such record or re-record the title to such claim was perfect: Provided, always, that it shall at all times be open to prove that the ground was improperly or insufficiently staked, or that the stakes have been illegally moved.

VII. TUNNEL AND DITCH RIGHTS:

34. Tunnels, shafts and ditches shall be considered as belonging to the placer claim for the use of which they are constructed, and as abandoned or forfeited by the abandonment or forfeiture of the claim itself.

35. In tunnelling under hills, on the frontage of which angles occur, or which may be of an oblong or elliptical form, no party shall be allowed to tunnel from any of the said angles, nor from either end of such hills, so as to interfere with parties tunnelling from the main frontage.

VIII. INTEREST IN CLAIM:

36. The interest of a free miner in his placer claim shall, save as to placer mines held as real estate, be deemed to be a chattel interest, equivalent to a lease, for such period as the same may have been recorded, renewable at the end thereof by re-recording, and subject to the conditions as to forfeiture, working, representation, re-recording, and otherwise, for the time being in force with respect to placer claims.

IX. VEINS OR LODES ON PLACER CLAIMS:

37. The holder of a placer claim shall have no right to any vein or lode, as defined by the "Mineral Act, 1891," within the limits of such placer claim, unless he shall have located and recorded the ground as a mineral claim; and until he shall so locate and record such ground, the same shall be open to any free miner to locate and record as a mineral claim.

X. REPRESENTATION:

38. Every placer claim as defined by this Act shall be represented and bona fide worked by the holder thereof, or by some person on his behalf, continuously, as nearly as practicable, during working hours, and shall be deemed to be abandoned and absolutely forfeited when the same shall have remained unworked on working days by the holder thereof, or some person on his behalf, for the period of seventy-two hours, except during the close season, some lay-over, or leave of absence, or during sickness, or for some other reasonable cause which shall be shown to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner.

XI. ABSENCE AND LAY-OVERS:

39. Every free miner, or company of free miners, shall be entitled to a leave of absence for one year from his or their placer claim or set of claims,—(a) Upon proving to the gold commissioner that he or they has or have expended on such claim, or on any portion of the set of claims, in cash, labor, or machinery, an amount equal to one thousand dollars on each full interest, without any return of gold or other minerals in reasonable quantities from such expenditure; and (b) upon the application for such leave being signed by all the holders of the claim or set of claims. Such leave of absence shall not be deemed to relieve the holder of such claim or set of claims from carrying out the provisions of this Act respecting free miner's certificates, records and re-records of such claims; nor shall this section affect the discretionary power of the gold commissioner with respect to granting a leave of absence under other conditions.

39A. The provisions of sections 39 and 42 of the said Act shall not apply to land or mining property held under mining leases, pursuant to Article XVIII, Section 112, et seqitur of this Act, but such leases shall in all matters be governed by the terms thereof.

40. Every forfeiture of a placer claim shall be absolute, any rule of law or equity to the contrary notwithstanding.

41. No placer claim located and recorded in any district within fourteen days before, or at any time during the close season, shall be deemed to be laid over, unless so much work shall have been bona fide done thereon by the holder thereof as shall, in the opinion of the gold commissioner, fairly entitle him to have such claim laid over.

42. Where the supply of water is insufficient to work hydraulic or other placer claims requiring water to enable them to be worked, such claims shall be laid over by virtue of this section during such insufficiency, but no longer, except by leave of the gold commissioner; but a notice of such insufficiency of water must be posted on the office of the mining recorder within three days from the cessation of work.

XII. TRANSFER OF CLAIMS:

43. Every bill of sale, conveyance, or mortgage of a placer claim, or of any fraction thereof, shall be recorded within the time prescribed for recording placer claims.

44. No transfer of any placer claim, or of any interest therein, shall be enforceable unless the same or some memorandum thereof shall be in writing, signed by the transferrer, or by his agent authorized in writing, and recorded.

45. The transfer of any real estate acquired under the provisions of the "Gold Mining Amendment Act, 1873," shall be in writing, signed by the transferrer or his agent authorized in writing, and attested by a subscribing witness.

XIII. TUNNELS AND DRAINS:

46. Any free miner requiring to run or construct a tunnel or drain in connection with his claim through any occupied or unoccupied lands (whether mineral or not) shall obtain a license from the gold commissioner for that purpose, which license shall be granted or withheld in the absolute discretion of such gold commissioner; and shall also give such security to the gold commissioner for any damage that may be caused by such tunnel or drain as such gold commissioner may require. Such license shall be subject to such terms and conditions as the gold commissioner shall think fit, and shall be recorded.

47. A tunnel or drain shall be considered as part of the placer claim, or mine held as real estate, for which the same was constructed.

48. Any free miner may apply to the gold commissioner for a grant of right of way and entry through and upon any mining ground in his district, for the purpose of constructing a drain for public drainage of mines.

49. The application for every such grant shall be in writing, and shall set out the name of each applicant, the nature and extent of the proposed drain, the amount of toll to be charged, the term of years for which such grant is to be made, and all other privileges, sought to be acquired. The application shall be left at the mining recorder's office addressed to the gold commissioner. A notice of such application setting out the above particulars, shall be posted on the office of the mining recorder and on the ground for thirty clear days before such grant shall be made.

50. The applicant for every such grant shall deposit with the mining recorder, at the time of the leaving of his application as aforesaid, twenty-five dollars, which shall be refunded in case the application shall be refused.

51. Such grants shall be in writing and signed by the gold commissioner, and shall not be given for a longer period than twenty years, and shall give such rights of way and entry and such powers to assess, levy, and collect tolls from all persons using such drain, or benefited thereby, as the gold commissioner shall think fit, but not in any case to exceed the term, rights, or powers set out in the application.

52. The following covenants and conditions on the part of the grantee and his assigns shall be deemed to be part of every grant, whether expressed therein or not: (a) That he shall construct a drain or drains of sufficient size to meet all requirements within the time therein named: (b) That he shall keep the same in thorough working order and repair, and free from all obstructions, and in default thereof that the gold commissioner may order all necessary alterations or repairs to be made by any free miners, other than the grantee or his assigns, at the cost and expense of the latter; such cost and expense to be levied by sale (subject, however, to the conditions of the grant) of all or any part of the drainage works, materials, and tolls, or any of them: (c) That he shall, within a reasonable time, construct proper tap-drains from or into any adjacent claims, upon being requested in writing by the holders thereof so to do; and if such grantee shall fail to commence the construction of any such tap-drains for five days after receipt of such request, or after making such commencement shall for three days fail to proceed with such construction, he shall permit such holders to construct such tap-drains, in which case such holders shall only be chargeable with one-half the specified rates of toll or such other proportion as the gold commissioner may direct: (d) That he will not, in the construction and maintenance of such drains and tap-drains, in any way injure the property of others, and that he shall make good any damage done by him.

53. Every such grant shall be recorded and the deposited sum of twenty-five dollars shall be retained as a recording fee. A rent of twenty-five dollars for each quarter of a mile and each fraction thereof shall be paid annually to the mining recorder by the grantee; such rent to commence from the date of the grant.

XIV. WATER RIGHTS:

54. Every free miner shall be entitled to the use of so much of the water naturally flowing through or past his placer claim, and not already lawfully appropriated, as shall, in the opinion of the gold commissioner, be necessary for the due working thereof.

55. A free miner may, at the discretion of the gold commissioner, obtain a grant to a water right in any unappropriated water, for any placer mining purpose, for any term not exceeding ten years, upon such terms and conditions as such gold commissioner shall think fit; but no free miner shall be charged any money rental for any such water used by him for mining purposes on his own mining claim.

56. [See Sec. 61, Art. XXIII, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding; the specified notice, however, being twenty days in the case of placer mines; and reading "placer" for mineral in said section.]

57. The grant of such water right shall be recorded in the office of the mining recorder, within the time limited for the recording of placer claims, and shall during each year of the continuance of the grant, and whilst it shall be in operation, be re-recorded as in the case of a placer claim.

58. No grant shall take effect until recorded.

59. No free miner shall be entitled to a grant of the water of any stream for the purpose of selling the water to claim-holders on any part of such stream. The gold commissioner may, however, grant such privileges as he may deem just, when such water is intended to work bench or hill claims fronting on any such stream; provided, that the rights of free miners then using the water be protected.

60. The owner of any water right may distribute the water to such free miners and on such terms as he may deem advisable, within the limits mentioned in his grant: Provided, always that such owner shall be bound to supply water to all applicants, being free miners, in a fair proportion, and shall not demand more from one than another, except where the difficulty of supply is enhanced.

61. If, after the grant has been made, any free miner or free miners locate and bona fide work any placer claim below the ditch head, on any stream so diverted, he or they shall collectively be entitled to forty inches of water if two hundred inches be diverted, and sixty inches if three hundred inches be diverted, and no more, except upon paying to the grantee compensation equal to the amount of damage sustained by the grantee on account of the diversion of such extra quantity of water; and, in computing such damage, the expense of the construction of the ditch shall be considered.

67 to 78. [Secs. 69 to 80, Art. XXIII, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

XV. MINING PARTNERSHIPS:

79, 80, 81. [Secs. 81 to 83, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

82. Mining partnerships can locate and record in the partnership name a placer claim for each partner who is a free miner. Such partnership claims may be located and recorded as a set of claims, and each such claim shall be staked as an ordinary placer claim. One stake on each such claim shall be marked as an initial stake, by writing thereon the words "Initial post." It shall not be requisite to post more than one location notice on each set of claims, which notice shall be on the first initial post.

83. A set of claims may be recorded in one record. The name of every partner, and the number of every partner's free miner's certificate, shall be on the record of every such set of claims. The partnership name shall appear on every such record, and all claims so taken up shall be the property of the partnership.

84, 85, 86. [Sections 86 to 88, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

87. [Section 89, Mineral Act, preceding; but in case of placer mines, "ten" and "thirty" are in their order substituted for "thirty" and "sixty" in specifying number of days' notice that must be given.]

88, 89, 90. [Correspond to Sections 90, 92, 93, "Mineral Act, 1891."]

XVI. LIMITED LIABILITY:

91 to 99. [Correspond to Sections 94 to 102, under same caption in Mineral Act preceding.]

XVII. BED-ROCK FLUMES:

100. One or more free miners may apply to the gold commissioner for a grant of exclusive rights of way through and entry upon any mining ground in his district, for th purpose of constructing, laying and maintaining a bed rock flume.

101. Every such application shall be in writing, and sha be left at the mining recorder's office, addressed to th gold commissioner, and shall state the name of the ap plicant and the nature and extent of the privileges sough to be acquired. Thirty days' notice of such applicatio shall be given, by affixing the same to some conspicuou part of the ground through which the rights of way ar asked, and a copy thereof upon the walls of the cour house or of the office of the mining recorder of the dis trict. Prior to such application, such ground shall b marked out by legal posts, placed at intervals of on hundred and fifty feet along the proposed main line o course of the flume, with a notice of such applicatio affixed to one of such posts. And it shall be competen for any free miner to protest before the gold commis sioner within such thirty days against such applicatio being granted, but not afterwards. Every applicatio for a grant shall be accompanied by a deposit of on hundred and twenty-five dollars, to be left with th mining recorder, which shall be refunded if the applica tion be refused, but not otherwise.

102. Every such grant shall be in writing, signed by th gold commissioner, and shall be for a term not exceedin five years.

103. The grantee shall be entitled to the following right and privileges, that is to say: (a) The right of wa through and entry upon any new and unworked rive creek, gulch, or ravine, and the exclusive right to locat and work a strip of ground one hundred feet wide an two hundred feet long in the bed thereof to each grante named in such grant: (b) The right of way through an entry upon any river, creek, gulch, or ravine, worked b miners for any period longer than two years prior t such entry, and already wholly or partially abandone and the exclusive right to stake out and work both th unworked and abandoned portions thereof, one hundre feet in width, and one-quarter mile in length, for eac grantee named in such grant: (c) Such right of wa through and entry upon any river, creek, or ravine dis covered within two years next preceding the date of hi application before mentioned, and upon any portions c which any free miner is legally holding and bona fid working a claim, as to the gold commissioner may see advisable: (d) The right of way through and entry upo all placer claims which are at the time of the notice c application before mentioned bona fide being worked b any free miner, for the purpose of cutting a channel an laying his flume therein, with such reasonable space fo constructing, maintaining, and repairing the flume as ma be necessary: Provided, that the owner of such last mentioned placer claim shall be entitled to take and re ceive the gold or other minerals found in the cut s made: (e) The use of so much of the unappropriate water of the stream on which the flumes may be locate and of other adjacent streams, as may be necessary fo the use of the grantee's flumes, hydraulic power, an machinery to carry on his mining operations, and th right of way for ditches and flumes to convey the nece sary water to his works, subject to the payment of an damage which may be done to other parties by runnin such ditches or flumes through or over their groun (f) The right to all the gold or other minerals in hi flumes. (g) No person locating new and unworked c abandoned ground within the limits of such grant, afte the notice above mentioned has been given, shall hav any right or title as against such grantee to the groun so located:

104. A holder of a placer claim through which th line of the grantee's flume is to run may put in a bed rock flume in his claim to connect with the grantee flume, upon giving the grantee ten days' notice in writin to that effect; but he shall maintain the like grade an build his flume as thoroughly and of as strong materia as are used by such grantee.

105. A claim-holder constructing such flume throug his claim shall keep his flume free from obstruction, an he shall be entitled to all the gold or other minerals foun therein, but he shall be subject to the same regulation with regard to cleaning up the flume, repairs, and othe matters in which both parties are interested, as may b adopted by such grantee; and such claim-holder sha have the right at any time before the abandonment of h claim to become a partner of the grantee, by uniting hi claim and flume with the ground and flume of the grante and taking an interest proportionate to that which h shall cede to the grantee; or he may abandon his clai and flume, and such abandonment shall enure to the us and benefit of the grantee.

106. The grantee shall lay at least one hundred feet c flume during the first year of such grant, and three hun dred feet annually thereafter, until completion of th flume; but the amount of flume to be laid may be re duced at the discretion of the gold commissioner.

107. Any free miner lawfully working any claim wher a bed-rock flume exists shall be entitled to tail his sluice hydraulics, and ground-sluices into such flume, but s as not to obstruct the free working of such flume by rock stones, boulders, or otherwise.

recorder within three days after obtaining the same, and pay for such record the fee provided in the schedule to this Act; and he shall also pay to the mining recorder annually a rent of twelve dollars and fifty cents for each quarter of a mile of right of way legally held under such grant.

109. The interest of the grantee in his grant, and in all flumes and fixtures connected therewith, shall be deemed to be a chattel interest equivalent to a lease for the term of such grant.

110. Upon the expiration of the grant for a bed-rock flume, it may be extended for any further term not exceeding five years for any one extension, at the discretion of the gold commissioner.

111. Any grant of a bed-rock flume shall be forfeited whenever the grantee shall fail to comply with the conditions thereof, or of this Act.

XVIII. LEASES:

112. A free miner desiring to obtain a lease of any placer mining ground shall mark out such ground by placing a legal post at each corner, and shall post a notice on the post nearest to the placer mining claims then being worked in the immediate locality, and also on the office of the mining recorder, which notice shall set out: 1. The name of each applicant: 2. The locality of the ground to be acquired: 3. The quantity of ground: 4. The terms for which such lease is to be applied for:

113. The free miner, after staking the ground and posting the notices as aforesaid, shall make an application in writing addressed to the gold commissioner, and leave the same at the office of the mining recorder, which application shall set out: 1. The name of each applicant: 2. The number of each applicant's free miner's certificate: 3. The locality of the ground: 4. The quantity of ground: 5. The terms of the lease desired: 6. The rent proposed to be paid:

114. On making such application the free miner shall deposit with the mining recorder for the use of the gold commissioner a plan of the ground, in duplicate. And every person making application for a lease of mining ground for any purpose under the provisions of this Act shall deposit the sum of twenty dollars with the gold commissioner at the time the application is made. If the application is granted the twenty dollars deposited shall be applied towards the payment of the first year's rent; and the balance of the first year's rent shall be paid by the applicant within sixty days after the gold commissioner gives him notice of the execution of the lease, which notice may be sent by letter to the applicant to his address; such address to be left with the gold commissioner when the application for the lease is made. If the application is not granted the twenty dollars deposited is to be returned to the applicant; but in case the applicant fails to perform his part in accordance with the application, then the twenty dollars deposited shall be forfeited to the Government, and his application shall be void.

115. Application shall not be made for a longer term than ten years, excepting for mining lands on or adjoining unworked or abandoned rivers or creeks, for hydraulic workings, for which mining lands application may be made for any term not exceeding twenty years.

116. Applications shall not be for greater than the following areas or distances: In dry diggings, ten acres: in bar diggings, half a mile in length along the high-water mark: In creek diggings on abandoned or unworked creeks, half a mile in length: In bench diggings, for hydraulic workings, eighty acres; but in such lands the length shall in no case exceed five hundred yards: Provided, always, that nothing in this section or the said Act, as amended, contained, shall be deemed to affect the right of any holder of a lease to a renewal thereof, if such holder has substantially made and performed upon the ground the labor, work and expenditure required by such lease as a condition of renewal thereof.

117. A lease shall not be granted for any mining ground any portion of which is actually occupied by free miners, unless with the consent of such occupiers; and no lease shall be granted for any mining ground which is, in the opinion of the gold commissioner, available for agricultural purposes.

118. The lease may be granted or refused in the discretion of the gold commissioner, who may modify the terms and conditions of any application, as he shall think fit.

119. Every application for a lease for a term exceeding five years, together with a plan of the ground and the gold commissioner's report, shall be forwarded to the Lieutenant-Governor, and no lease shall be granted on any such application without his sanction.

120. Every lease of mining ground shall be in writing signed by the gold commissioner and the lessee, and shall be in duplicate or triplicate, as the case may require, and one copy of every such lease shall, as soon as possible after it is issued, be transmitted by mail by the gold commissioner issuing the same, to be filed in the office of the mining recorder in the mining division of the district in which the land leased is situated.

121. Every lease shall provide for securing to the public reasonable rights of way and water, and shall contain a covenant by the lessee to mine the ground in a miner-like manner, and shall contain such covenants for the continuous working of such ground as the gold commissioner shall think reasonable, and shall reserve the right to free miners to enter on such ground and mine for veins or lodes, as defined by the "Mineral Act, 1891."

122. On the non-performance or non-observance of any covenant or condition in any lease, such lease shall be declared forfeited by the gold commissioner, subject to the approval of the minister of mines, unless good cause be shown to the contrary. After any such declaration of forfeiture, the land shall be open for location by any free miner. No lease, whether made before or after the passage of this Act, shall hereafter be declared forfeited, except in accordance with this section.

123. Leases shall be granted for placer mining only, and shall not be assigned or sub-let without the written consent of the gold commissioner.

XIX. HYDRAULIC AND DREDGE WORKINGS:

124. When any mining lands on or adjoining unworked or abandoned rivers or creeks are held under lease for hydraulic working, the lessee of such land shall be entitled to a grant from the gold commissioner of such quantity of unappropriated water, from any stream or lake, as may, in the opinion of the gold commissioner, be necessary to work the said mining land efficiently, and shall have the right of way through any mining ground for the purpose of constructing ditches and flumes to convey such water to the mining lands so held for hydraulic working, which grant shall be for the same term for which the mining land is leased. Whenever such mining lands shall have been efficiently worked as required by the conditions of the lease, to the satisfaction of the gold commissioner, and if at the expiration of the lease a portion of said lands remains still to be worked, the lessee shall be entitled to an extension of the lease and grant, upon the same conditions as the original lease and grant for such reasonable time as will enable him to work out such portion of said lands as still remain unworked, and the gold commissioner may grant such extension by memorandum endorsed on the lease: Provided, that whenever the mining lands so held under lease have been forfeited, abandoned, or worked out, or the occasion for the use of the water upon such mining lands shall have permanently ceased, the grant of such water shall terminate. But in any case where the ditch or flume constructed for conveying such water shall have a carrying capacity of not less than five hundred inches, and shall have cost not less than five thousand dollars, such ditch or flume shall remain the property of the owner thereof.

125. Every grant, and every extension of a grant, of a water right for mining lands leased for hydraulic working shall be recorded, but it shall not be necessary to record such grants of extension annually.

126. It shall be lawful for the gold commissioner, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, to grant a lease for any term, not exceeding twenty years, of the bed of any river below low water mark for dredging purposes, for a distance not exceeding five miles, upon such terms as he shall think fit: Provided, always, that every such lease shall reserve the right to every free miner or mining company to run tailings into such river at any point thereon, also to mine two feet below the surface of the water at low water mark, by putting in wing-dams, whether such free miner shall locate before or after the date of such lease; and it shall be lawful for the holder or holders of any lease or leases, whether granted before or after the passing of this Act, engaged in dredging for gold in any such river, at the time when they may be engaged in dredging, to cut into any bar, bench, or old channel on any of the banks of such river on which they hold leases, or mine in any bench or bank thereof during high or low water, provided the same ground is not leased under the "Placer Mining Act, 1891," and amending Acts, or any other Act, or is not at such time being worked by free miners, the right being always reserved to free miners to construct wing-dams as far as may be desired into any of such bars, banks or benches for the purpose of conducting mining operations, either by sluice or rocker, and parties holding such dredging leases shall not in any manner interfere with any free miner or stop him from working any part of said river or benches, otherwise than by dredging, of which the holders of such leases shall have the full right.

126A. It shall not be lawful for any free miner to construct wing-dams within one thousand feet of any dredger while working, nor to obstruct any dredger in any manner.

XX. MINING RECORDERS:

[Articles XXIV, XXV, Sections 104 to 128, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

XXI. GOLD COMMISSIONER'S POWERS:

[151, et sequitur, defining and limiting powers of gold commissioner, omitted as being of official interest only.]

XXII. ADMINISTRATION MINERS' ESTATES:

154. The gold commissioner shall take possession of the mining property of any deceased free miner, and may cause such mining property to be duly worked, or dispense therewith at his option.

155. [Section 148, "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding.]

XXIII. JURISDICTION OF COUNTY COURTS IN MINING DISTRICTS:

XXIV. PENAL AND MISCELLANEOUS:

XXV. OTHER PROVISIONS:

Articles XXXII, Taxation of Mines; XXXIII, Mining Courts; XXXIV, Confirmation of Titles; XXXV, Execution, and XXXVI, Scale of Fees, of the "Mineral Act, 1891," preceding, apply equally to placer mines.

In both acts, "Mineral Act, 1891," and this present, it must be noted that coal mining is always clearly excepted from all provisions therein contained.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments in the State may be certified by a justice or clerk of the Supreme Court, or by a Superior Court judge; in the county, city, or district for which appointed or elected, by a clerk of a court of record, a county recorder, court commissioner, notary public, or justice of the peace.

Out of the State, but in the United States, by a justice, judge or clerk of any court of record of any state, by a commissioner of deeds appointed by the Governor of this State, by a notary public, or any other officer of the state where the acknowledgment is made, authorized by its laws to take such proof or acknowledgment.

In a foreign country, by a minister, commissioner, or charge d'affaires of the United States, resident and accredited in the country where proof of the acknowledgment is made; or by a consul, vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States accredited to the country where acknowledgment is made; or by a judge of a court of record of such country; or by a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State pursuant to special statutes; or by a notary public. When any officer above mentioned is by law authorized to appoint a deputy, the acknowledgment may be taken by said deputy in the name of the principal.

The signature of the officer with his official designation affixed thereto, and the impression of his official seal, if by law he is required to keep a seal, must follow the certificate.

The acknowledgment of a married woman is certified in the same manner as if she were single.

By a late constitutional amendment, aliens are prohibited from acquiring real property in this State in the future, and the Legislature is authorized by statute to provide for the disposition of real estate hereafter acquired by such aliens by descent or devise. The Legislature has taken no step in this direction. The provision is, apparently, not self-operative, and reads as follows: "Sec. 17: Foreigners of the white race, or of African descent, eligible to become citizens of the United States under the naturalization laws thereof, while bona fide residents of this State shall have the same rights in respect to the acquisition, possession, enjoyment, transmission, and inheritance of all property other than real estate, as native-born citizens; provided, that such aliens owning real estate at the time of the adoption of this amendment may remain such owners; and provided, further, that the Legislature may, by statute, provide for the disposition of real estate which shall hereafter be acquired by such aliens by descent or devise."

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

The Insolvent Act of 1895 closely follows the former United States Bankrupt Law, and is very full and complete in its provisions and generous in its exemptions for the insolvent's benefit. Any insolvent owing three hundred dollars or over may take advantage thereof.

Assignments may likewise be made to the sheriff in trust for the pro rata payment of creditors, who may select an assignee to act in lieu of sheriff.

The form of assignment, the schedules and affidavits that shall accompany the same, and the method of procedure are minutely provided for. Such assignments are made subject to the law of trusts and fraudulent transfers. Unless the provisions of the law are strictly complied with such assignment is void as to all creditors who have not assented thereto.

No creditor can be preferred in case of general assignment, but otherwise one creditor may be paid or given security in preference to another. A debtor is insolvent when unable to pay his debts, from his own means, as they become due.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

May be issued by justice of the peace where sum claimed does not exceed three hundred dollars, and by clerk of Superior Court in other cases. In the former case an undertaking in not less than fifty dollars or more than three hundred dollars, with two sureties; and in the latter, in such sum as the clerk shall require, not less than two hundred dollars, must be filed, together with an affidavit by or on behalf of the plaintiff to the effect that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff in a specified sum upon a contract, either express or implied, for the payment of money, and that such contract was made or is payable in this State, is unsecured by lien or mortgage; or, if so secured, that such security, without fault of plaintiff, has become valueless; or, that the defendant is a non-resident of the State. In all cases the affidavit must state that the action is not brought to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Executors and administrators are required, immediately after appointment, to publish in a newspaper in the county where letters are issued, a notice to the creditors of deceased, requiring claims, verified by claimant or agent, and accompanied by vouchers, to be presented to him at the place designated in the notice within a specified time, which, in estates inventoried at ten thousand dollars or less is four months; in estates exceeding that amount, ten months. Any claim not presented within the prescribed time is forever barred; provided, that a claimant who by affidavit satisfies the court, or a judge thereof, that he had no notice by reason of being out of the State, may present his claim at any time before decree of distribution is entered. Allowed claims bear interest at seven per cent. from date of allowance.

A claim not acted upon by executor or administrator within ten days after presentation may be considered as rejected, and suit may be brought thereon. Suit must be brought within three months after rejection, upon claims that are due; and within two months after maturity upon claims not due; otherwise they are forever barred. No claims barred by statute can be allowed. No suit can be brought upon claim unless first presented to executor or administrator, except to enforce a mortgage or lien against the property of the estate, where recourse against other property is expressly waived in the complaint. Time during which vacancy in administration exists is not to be counted in any period of limitation.

Debts must be paid in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of last sickness. 3. Debts having preference by the laws of the United States. 4. Judgments rendered against the decedent in his lifetime, and mortgages in the order of their date. 5. All other demands against the estate. But in case of the death of an employer, the wages of each miner, mechanic, salesman, clerk, servant, and laborer, for services rendered within sixty days before death, not exceeding one hundred dollars, rank next after funeral expenses, expenses of last sickness, charges and expenses of administration, and allowance to the widow and infant children.

When the inventory of the estate of a decedent discloses that his estate consists of any mine or interest in a mine, the same may be sold as follows: The executor or administrator, or any heir or creditor, or any partner or member of any mining company, may file in the court having jurisdiction a petition in writing, setting forth the facts of the estate being then in due course of administration, and particularly describing the mine or shares which it is desired to sell, and condition and situation of the mine, interests, or of the mining company, and the grounds upon which the sale is asked. The court must make an order directing all persons interested to appear before such court, at a certain time and place, not less than four or more than ten weeks from the time of the order, to show cause why the order should not be granted. A copy of the order to show cause must be personally served on all persons interested in the estate, at least ten days before the time appointed for hearing the petition, or published at least four successive weeks in such newspapers as the court or judge shall specify. If all persons interested signify their assent to the sale, the notice may be dispensed with. If at the hearing the court is satisfied that it is to the interest of the estate, or of the mining partners, or tenants in common, the court may make an order for the sale. After the order is made, all further proceedings for the sale, and for the notice, report and confirmation thereof, must be in accordance with the provisions regarding the sale of real estate belonging to decedents.

Superior Courts with from one to twelve judges are courts of record and have nisi prius jurisdiction of all cases in law or equity above the jurisdiction of the Justice Courts, and appellate jurisdiction of all cases begun in the Justice Courts. From suits commenced in the Superior Court appeals lie to the Supreme Court, which has, likewise, original jurisdiction in habeas corpus, certiorari, mandamus and prohibition. Superior and Justice Courts are always in session and have no special terms.

The Supreme Court holds six terms each year: two at San Francisco, two at Los Angeles and two at Sacramento. A Supreme Court Commission, which consists of three members, sits at San Francisco, and, practically, decides a large proportion of the appellate cases, the court adopting the opinion of the commission, and directing judgment in accordance therewith.

Township justices of the peace have civil jurisdiction: of all actions on contract for the recovery of money only if the sum claimed, exclusive of interest, does not amount to three hundred dollars. In actions for injuries to person, or for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property, or for the injury to real property where title or right of possession of such real property is not put in issue by verified answer and damage claimed does not amount to three hundred dollars. In actions to recover personal property where value does not amount to three hundred dollars. In actions for a fine, penalty or forfeiture not amounting to three hundred dollars, given by statute, or ordinance, where legality of tax, import, assessment, toll or municipal fine is not at issue. In actions upon bonds or undertakings conditioned for the payment of money, if the sum claimed does not exceed three hundred dollars, although the penalty may exceed that sum. To take and enter judgment for the recovery of money on the confession of the defendant, when the amount confessed, exclusive of interest, does not exceed three hundred dollars; and, concurrently, with the Superior Courts, in actions of forcible entry and detainer when rental value does not exceed twenty-five dollars per month, and amount claimed does not exceed three hundred dollars; and in actions to enforce and foreclose liens on personal property when neither the amount of the lien nor the value of the property amounts to three hundred dollars. In cities of one hundred thousand and over the Justice Court has the same jurisdiction as do township justices, but there are five justices, a clerk, and two deputies.

VIII. DEEDS:

Real estate, or interests therein other than an estate at will or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law, or by an instrument in writing, signed by the party or his agent thereunto authorized in writing. No particular form is necessary. No witnesses are required. No acknowledgment is necessary to the validity of such conveyance as between the parties, but to make such conveyance constructive notice, it must be acknowledged and recorded in the county where the real estate is situated. Such conveyance may be proved as any other written instrument, but a deed acknowledged in proper form may be introduced without further proof.

A husband may dispose of community property by his sole deed if for a valuable consideration, unless a homestead has been declared thereon, in which case the wife must join. A married woman may convey her separate property without the signature of her husband. Deeds to husband and wife constitute them tenants in common.

IX. DEPOSITIONS.

Depositions without the State must be taken upon written interrogations settled by the court or judge, upon commission issued under order and over seal of court, upon motion of either party, upon five days' notice to opposite party, at any time after service of summons, or the appearance of defendant; in a special proceeding, at any time after a question of fact has arisen therein. If within the United States the commission may be directed to any person agreed upon by the parties, or, if they do not agree, to any judge or justice of the peace, or commissioner, selected by the judge issuing it.

If out of the United States, it may be directed to a minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul or consular agent of the United States in such country, or to any person agreed upon by the parties. The commissioner has power to administer the oath to the witness, take his deposition by question and answer, if without interrogatories in respect to the question in dispute, and to certify the deposition to the court, in a sealed envelope, directed to the clerk or other person designated or agreed upon, and forward it to him by mail or other usual channel of conveyance. If the court issuing the commission be a Justice Court there must be attached thereto the certificate of the county clerk that the person issuing such commission is such justice.

Within the State the deposition of a witness may be taken at any time after service of summons or appearance of the defendant, or in a special proceeding, after issue of fact has arisen, in the following cases: 1. When witness is a party, or officer of a corporation that is a party, or a person for whose immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended. 2. When the witness resides out of the county in which his evidence is to be used. 3. When the witness is about to leave the county where the action is to be tried, and will probably continue absent when the testimony is required. 4. When witness, otherwise liable to attend, is too infirm to do so. 5. When testimony is required upon a motion, or any other case when the oral examination of the witness is not required. 6. When the witness is the only one who can establish facts or a fact material to the issue.

Such deposition may be taken before any judge or officer authorized to administer oaths, by serving upon the adverse party a notice of the time and place of taking the same, and an affidavit showing the case to be a proper one; said notice to be served at least five days before the time fixed for the taking of such deposition, and one day additional for each twenty-five miles of distance between the place where said deposition is to be taken, and the place where the notice is served.

X. DESCENT:

Real and personal property of intestates passes to heirs subject to the control of the Superior Court and of the administrator appointed by that court for the purposes of administration.

The succession is as follows: 1. If decedent leaves husband or wife and one child, or lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to such husband or wife and child, or issue of such child. 2. If more than one child, or the issue of more than one child, one-third to husband or wife and the remainder in equal shares to the children and the issue of deceased children, by right of representation; but if no child of decedent be living at time of his death, remainder goes to all of his lineal descendants; and if all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the decedent, they share equally; otherwise, they take according to right of representation. 3. If the decedent left no husband or wife, but issue, the whole estate goes to issue; and if such issue consists of one living child and the issue of dead children, the estate goes in equal shares to children and the issue of dead children by right of representation. 4. If decedent leaves no issue, one-half goes to husband or wife, and remainder to father and mother of decedent, or if either be dead, the entire half to the survivor; if there be neither father nor mother, their half goes to brothers or sisters and issue of deceased brothers and sisters by right of representation. 5. If neither husband, wife, father nor mother be left, then to brothers and sisters and issue of deceased brothers and sisters by right of representation. 6. If husband or wife be left, but neither father, mother, sister, brother, nor issue, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife. 7. If neither issue, husband, wife, father, mother, brother, nor sister, be left, to the next of kin in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestors must be preferred. 8. If decedent leave several children, or one child and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent; and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation. 9. If at the death of such child, who dies under age, and not having been married, all the other children of his parents are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parents descends to the issue of all other children of the same parent; and if all issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation. 10. If the decedent be a widow or widower, and leave no kindred, and the estate or any portion of it was common property of such decedent, and his or her deceased spouse, while such spouse was living, such common property shall go to the father of such deceased spouse, or if he be dead, to the mother. 11. If there be neither father nor mother, then to the brothers and sisters in equal shares and the issue of deceased brothers or sisters by right of representation. 12. If the decedent leave no husband, wife, or kindred, and there be no heirs to take his estate, the same escheats to the State for the support of the common schools.

Dower and estate by curtesy are unknown to the law of the State.

One-half of the community property (that acquired otherwise than by gift, descent, devise or bequest, during the existence of the marriage relation) vests absolutely in the surviving spouse and is not subject to distribution.

XI. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The right of eminent domain may be exercised in behalf of the following public uses: Wharves, docks, piers, chutes, booms, ferries, bridges, toll-roads, by-roads, plank and turnpike roads; steam, electric and horse railroads; canals, ditches, flumes, aqueducts and pipes for public transportation, supplying mines and farming neighborhoods with water, and draining and reclaiming lands, and for floating logs and lumber on streams not navigable; roads, tunnels, ditches, flumes, pipes and dumping places for working mines; also outlets, natural or otherwise, for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from mines; also an occupancy in common by the owners or possessors of different mines of any place for the flow, deposit or conduct of tailings or refuse matter from their several mines.

A fee simple is taken for public buildings or grounds, or for permanent buildings, for reservoirs and dams, and permanent flooding occasioned thereby, or for an outlet for a flow, or a place for the deposit of debris or tailings of a mine; an easement for any other use. By a statute continued in force an owner of a mine shall have a right of way for ingress and egress, for all necessary purposes, over and across the land or mining claims of others as follows: Whenever any mine shall be so situated that it cannot be conveniently worked without a road thereto, or a ditch to convey water thereto, or a ditch or cut to drain water from it, or without a flume or tunnel thereto, or a place whereon to dump or deposit tailings, and such road, ditch or drain or such flume or tunnel shall necessarily pass over, across or through or under, and such place of deposit be upon mining claims or other lands owned or occupied by others, then shall such first-mentioned owner be entitled to a right of way for such road, ditch, drain, flume or tunnel over, across or through or under or to such place of deposit upon such other mining claim or lands as follows:

Whenever the owner of any mine or claim shall desire to work the same, and it is necessary, to enable him to do so conveniently, that he should have a right of way for any of the purposes mentioned above, or that he should have a place for dumpage and deposit of tailings as mentioned above, and such right of way or place of deposit shall not have been acquired by agreement between him and the owner or occupant of the claim or land over, across, under or upon which he seeks to establish such right of way or place of deposit, then it shall be lawful for him to present to the court, or judge if the court be not in session, of the county where such claim is situated a petition, praying that such right of way or place of deposit be awarded to him, the petition to be on oath and to contain a particular description of the mine or claim of petitioner and of the claim or land to be affected by such right or privilege, with the name of the owner or occupant thereof, and to state that such right or privilege has not been acquired by private agreement between the respective parties, and to ask for the allowance thereof by the court or judge and the appointment of three commissioners to assess the damages. Upon the filing thereof citation to issue to show cause, which shall be served like a summons. After hearing the allegations and proofs, if the court or judge is satisfied of the truth of the petition, he shall make an order agreeably to the petition, and appoint three disinterested persons to assess the damages. The sworn commissioners shall proceed to examine the mine or claim of the petitioner, as well as the claim or land to be affected; may hear testimony relative to the damages, and report in writing, designating the course or line and dimensions of the road, ditch, drain, flume or tunnel, or the place of deposit prayed for, also the value of the lands to be appropriated for such right of way or place of deposit and the damages which each owner or occupant shall suffer. For cause shown the report may be set aside and a new commission appointed, which shall proceed as the first. If no motion to set aside the report, or if it be denied, the same shall be final. Upon payment of the damages, then petitioner shall be entitled to the right of way or place of deposit as designated by the report, and, upon making payment, may proceed to occupy the line, route, way or place of deposit and to erect such works and make such excavations as may be necessary for said use.

Whenever the owner of any claim is desirous, in working the same, to carry off the tailings and other refuse matter through and along any water-course, ravine or natural outlet, which in whole or in part is occupied by others for mining or other purposes, then said first owner may proceed as before stated to have such right or privilege awarded to him, provided said award or commission shall not be allowed, unless the court or judge is satisfied that the right can be enjoyed without special injury to those owning or occupying along or upon such water-course, ravine or outlet. All costs and expenses to be paid by the party applying.

XII. EXECUTIONS:

Execution may issue at any time within five years after rendition of judgment. No stay is granted as a matter of right, but in the discretion of the court, pending a motion for a new trial or appeal, a stay may be granted.

Real property sold under execution may be redeemed at any time within six months from the issuance of certificate of sale, by judgment debtor, his assignee, or a creditor having a lien by judgment or mortgage on the property sold, or some part of it subsequent to that on which the property was sold.

The redemptioner must pay the amount paid by the purchaser, with interest at the rate of two per cent per month from date of purchase, and any tax the purchaser may have paid upon the property after his purchase, with interest, and if the purchaser be also a creditor having a prior lien to that of the redemptioner, other than the judgment under which the property was sold, the amount of such lien with interest. Other redemptioners may within after sixty days after last redemption also redeem. If no redemption is made within six months a deed is executed to purchaser or his assignee.

Executions may be renewed from time to time as often as necessary, but unless renewed expire in sixty days. When execution is returned unsatisfied in whole or in part another may issue.

XIII. EXEMPTIONS:

1. Chairs, tables, desks and books to the value of two hundred dollars. 2. Necessary household, table and kitchen furniture, wearing apparel, family portraits, etc., provisions actually provided for family use, sufficient for three months; three cows and sucking calves, four sows and sucking pigs, and food for same for one month. 3. Farming utensils or implements of husbandry; also two oxen, two horses or two mules and their harness, one cart or wagon, and food for animals for one month; seed provided for planting not exceeding in value two hundred dollars; seventy-five beehives, and one horse and wagon to any person maimed or crippled, when the same is necessary in his business. 4. Tools or implements of a mechanic or artisan necessary to carry on his trade. Professional library and instruments, etc. 5. The cabin or dwelling of a miner, not exceeding in value fifty dollars; his sluices, pipes, hose, windlass, derrick, cars, pumps, tools, implements and appliances necessary for carrying on any mining operations, not exceeding in value five hundred dollars; also two horses, two mules or two oxen and their harness, and food for such animals for one month, when necessary to be used in any whim, etc.; also, his mining claim actually worked by him, not exceeding in value the sum of one thousand dollars, and many other exemptions not above enumerated.

XIV. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead may be declared by the head of a family, or by the wife if the husband fails to do so, upon the dwelling-house and the premises upon which the same are situated, not exceeding in value five thousand dollars, actually used as a home at the time the declaration was made. A homestead may be declared under like conditions by one not the head of a family, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars.

Homesteads are exempt from forced sale and can be conveyed only by joint deed of husband and wife.

XV. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest, when none is specified, is seven per cent. There are no usury laws.

XVI. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments by confession may be entered in compliance with the provisions of the Code. Judgments may also be entered upon default, or after trial of action. Judgments obtained in the Superior Court, docketed by the clerk, constitute a lien on real property in the county from the date of docketing. The lien continues for five years. A transcript of the original docket, certified by the clerk, may be filed with the recorder of any other county, and from the date of recording there, constitutes a lien on any land owned by the debtor in that county; and said lien continues for two years. An abstract of judgment of a justice court, filed with the recorder of the county where the judgment was rendered, constitutes a lien on the real property of the debtor in said county for two years.

An abstract of judgment of a Justice Court may be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where rendered and judgment docketed in judgment docket of the Superior Court, and thereupon execution may issue thereon to the sheriff of any other county in the State.

Execution may issue upon any judgment at any time within five years from its rendition, provided the same be not satisfied or superseded by appeal bond.

XVII. LIENS:

Miners and persons and laborers of every class, performing labor upon or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, alteration, addition to or repair of any building, wharf, bridge, ditch, flume, aqueduct, tunnel, fence, machinery or other structure, have a lien upon the property for the value of such labor done and materials furnished; and any person who performs labor in any mining claim has a lien upon the same, and the works owned and used by the owners for reducing the ores from such mining claim, for the work done or materials furnished, whether done or furnished at the instance of the owner or his agent; and every contractor, sub-contractor, architect, builder or other person having charge of any mining or of the construction, alteration, addition to or repair of any building or other improvement is held to be the agent of the owner.

In case of a contract for the work, between the reputed owner and his contractor, the lien shall extend to the entire contract price, and such contract shall operate as a lien in favor of all persons, except the contractor, to the extent of the contract price, and after all such liens are satisfied then by a lien for any balance of the contract price in favor of the contractor. All such contracts shall be in writing when the amount to be paid exceeds one thousand dollars, and the contract, setting forth the names of all the parties thereto, a description of the property, the general character of the work to be done, the total amount to be paid and the amounts of the partial payments, when they become due and payable, shall before the work is commenced, be filed in the office of the county recorder of the county where the property is situated; otherwise the contract shall be void; and in such case the labor done and materials furnished by all persons except the contractor shall be deemed to be furnished at the personal instance of the owner, and they shall have a lien for the value thereof.

No part of the contract price shall be payable in advance, but the same shall be made payable in installments after the commencement of the work or on the completion of the whole work, provided that at least twenty-five per cent of the whole contract price shall be made payable at least thirty-five days after the final completion of the contract. No payment made prior to the time when the same is due shall be void for the purpose of defeating any lien in favor of any person except the contractor, but as to such liens such payments shall be deemed as if not made. As to all liens, except that of the contractor, the whole contract price shall be payable in money, and shall not be diminished by any prior or subsequent indebtedness in favor of the reputed owner and against the contractor. No alteration of such contract shall affect any lien acquired. In case such contracts and alterations do not conform to the above, the labor done and materials furnished by all persons except the contractor shall be deemed done and furnished at the request of the person who contracted with the contractor. And any of the persons mentioned, except the contractor, may at any time give to the reputed owner a written notice that they have performed labor or furnished materials to the contractor, or that they have agreed to do so, and the amount in value of what is already done or furnished, and of the whole agreed upon. The notice may be delivered to the owner, or be left at his residence or place of business with some person in charge, or delivered to his architects, or left at their residence or place of business with some person in charge, or be posted in a conspicuous place upon the mining claim or improvement. Upon such notice being given, it shall be the duty of the person who contracted with the contractor to withhold from his contractor, or from any other person acting under such reputed owner, and to whom, by said notice, said labor or materials, or both, have been furnished, or agreed to be furnished, sufficient money due or that may be due to the contractor, or other person, to answer such claim and any lien that may be filed therefor for record, including counsel fees not exceeding one hundred dollars in each case, and costs.

The liens provided for are preferred to any lien, mortgage or other incumbrance which may have attached subsequent to the time when the building or improvement was commenced, work done or materials were commenced to be furnished, also to any other lien or incumbrance of which the lien-holder had no notice, and which was unrecorded when the work was commenced or the materials were commenced to be furnished.

Every original contractor, within sixty days after the completion of his contract, and every person except him within thirty days after the completion of any building, improvement or structure, or after the completion of the alteration, addition to or repair thereof, or the performance of any labor in a mining claim, must file for record with the county recorder of the county in which such property or some part is situated a claim containing a statement of his demand, after deducting just credits and offsets, with the name of the owner or the reputed owner, if known, and also the name of the person by whom he was employed, or to whom he furnished the materials, with a statement of the terms, time given and conditions of his contract and also a description of the property to be charged with the lien, sufficient for identification, which claim must be verified by the oath of himself or some other person. Acceptance of the said improvement, or cessation from labor for thirty days upon any unfinished contract, shall be deemed equivalent to a completion. In every case in which one claim is filed against two or more buildings, mining claims or other improvements owned by the same person, the person filing such claim must, at the same time, designate the amount due him on each, otherwise the lien of such claim is postponed to other liens. The lien of such claimant does not extend beyond the amount designated, as against other creditors having liens by judgment, mortgage or otherwise, upon either of such buildings or other improvement, or upon the land upon which the same are situated.

No lien binds for a longer period than ninety days, unless proceedings be commenced within that time to enforce the same, or, if a credit be given, than ninety days after the expiration of such credit; but no lien continues in force for a longer time than two years from the time the work is completed, by any agreement to give credit.

Every improvement constructed upon any lands with the knowledge of the owner, or the person claiming any interest therein, shall be deemed to have been constructed at the instance of such owner or person, and the interest shall be subject to a lien filed as above, unless such owner or person shall, within three days after obtaining knowledge of the construction or intended construction, give notice that he will not be responsible for the same, by posting a notice in some conspicuous place upon said land, or improvement situated thereon.

The contractor shall be entitled to recover upon a lien filed by him so much as may be due him, after deducting all claims of other parties for work done and materials furnished; and in all cases where a lien shall be filed for work done or materials furnished to any contractor, he shall defend any action thereupon at his own expense; and during the pendency of such action, the owner may withhold from the contractor the amount of the lien; and in case of judgment against the owner or his property upon the lien, he shall be entitled to deduct from any amount due or to become due by him to the contractor the amount of such judgment and costs; and if the amount shall exceed the amount due by him to the contractor, or if the owner shall have settled with the contractor in full, he shall be entitled to recover back from the contractor any amount so paid by him in excess of the contract price.

Liens rank in the following order: 1. All persons performing manual labor; 2. Persons furnishing materials; 3. Sub-contractors; 4. Original contractors. And the proceeds of the sale must be applied to each lien or class of liens in the order of its rank; and wherever in the sale of the property there is a deficiency of proceeds, judgment may be docketed for the deficiency.

Any number of persons claiming liens may join in the same action, and when there are separate actions, the court may consolidate them. The court must allow as a part of the costs the money paid for filing and recording the lien, and reasonable attorney's fees in the Superior and Supreme Courts, such costs and attorney's fees to be allowed each lien claimant whose lien is established, whether he be plaintiff or defendant, or whether they all join in one action or separate actions are consolidated.

Whenever materials are furnished, such materials shall not be subject to attachment, execution or other legal process, to enforce any debt due by the purchaser, except a debt due for the purchase-money, so long as in good faith the same are about to be applied to the construction, alteration or repair of such building, mining claim or other improvement.

Nothing herein shall affect the right of any person to whom a debt may be due for work or materials to maintain a personal action to recover such debt against the person liable therefor.

Any person who willfully gives a false notice of his claims to the owner forfeits his lien. Any person who shall willfully include in his lien work or materials not done or furnished for the property described forfeits his lien. If the owner and contractor shall conspire to or agree that the written contract filed shall appear to show the contract price to be less than it really is, and it shall so show, then such contract is void; and in such case the labor done and materials furnished by all persons, except the contractor, shall be deemed to have been done and furnished at the instance of the owner.

Any bond which may be given by the contractor to the owner, for the faithful performance of his contract, shall be filed with the contract in the recorder's office, or be void, and shall inure to any person who performs labor for or furnishes materials to the contractor; and any such person shall have an action to recover upon said bond against the principal and sureties, or any or either of them, for the value of such labor and materials, not to exceed the amount of the bond, but such action shall not affect the liens, except that there shall be but one satisfaction. Nor shall any alteration in the contract, or deviation in the work or in the payments, release the sureties from their liability, except to the owner.

In all assignments by any person to trustees or assignees, on account of the inability of the person, at the time, to pay his debts, or in proceedings in insolvency, the wages of the miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks or laborers employed by such person, to the amount of one hundred dollars each, and for services rendered within sixty days previously, are preferred claims, and must be paid before any other creditor of the assignor. In case of death of any employer, the wages of each miner and other person above named, for services rendered within the sixty days next preceding the death, not exceeding one hundred dollars, rank in priority next after the funeral expenses, expenses of the last sickness, expenses of administration and the allowance to the widow and infant children, and must be paid before any other claims. In cases of execution, attachment and similar writs issued against any person, except for claims for labor done, any miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks and laborers, who have claims against the defendant for labor, may give notice of the claims and the amount thereof, sworn to by the claimant, to the creditor and the officer executing such writ, at any time before the actual sale of property levied on; and unless such claim is disputed by the debtor or a creditor, such officer must pay to such person, out of the proceeds of the sale, the amount each is entitled to for services rendered within the sixty days next preceding the levy, not exceeding one hundred dollars. If any or all of such claims are disputed, the person presenting the same must commence an action within ten days for the recovery thereof, and prosecute the same with due diligence, or be barred from any priority, and the officer shall retain sufficient from the proceeds of the sale to satisfy such claim until the determination of the action. The debtor or creditor intending to dispute shall within ten days after receiving such notice serve upon the claimant and the officer a statement in writing, sworn to by him, setting forth that no part of said claim, or not exceeding a specified sum, is due from the debtor to the claimant for services within the sixty days next preceding the levy of the writ. If the claimant fails to recover a sum exceeding what is admitted to be due, he shall not recover costs.

XVIII. LIMITATIONS:

On judgments, or for mesne profits of real estate, five years.

On contract, obligation, or liability founded upon an instrument in writing executed in this State, four years.

For liability created by statute, other than penalty or forfeiture, and trespass upon real property, action for taking, retaining, or injuring goods and chattels; action for specific recovery of personal property; actions for relief on ground of fraud or mistake, within three years.

Actions on contract, obligations, or liability not founded upon an instrument in writing, or upon instrument of writing executed out of the State; actions against officers upon liability incurred by doing act in official capacity, in virtue of office, or by omission of duty; and actions for damages for death by wrongful act or neglect of another, in two years.

Action for penalty or forfeiture, unless statute imposes different limitation; action upon a statute or undertaking, or upon an undertaking in a criminal action; action for libel, slander, assault, battery, false imprisonment, seduction, against the sheriff or other officer for an escape; and action against a municipal corporation for damages for injuries by mob or riot, within one year.

Actions against tax collectors to recover goods, wares or merchandise seized by such collector, or to recover value thereof, or damages for seizure, detention, sale or injury thereof, or to person or property in making seizure; actions to recover stock sold for delinquent assessments, and actions against county, or claims rejected by board of supervisors, within six months. All other actions within four years.

The time defendant is out of the State is deducted from period and not counted. The usual exceptions exist as to an infant, femme covert, insane person, and persons imprisoned upon criminal charges, or in execution of sentence for a term less than life.

XIX. MARRIED WOMEN:

May deal with separate property as if femme sole. May, by order of court, become sole trader. May in her own name maintain an action as to her separate property, or homestead. All property owned by her at time of marriage, and all acquired afterward by gift, devise, bequest or descent, is separate property. A deed to husband and wife constitutes them presumptively tenants in common. Property conveyed to a married woman by an instrument in writing is, presumptively, separate property. Where married women conveyed real property which they acquired prior to May 19, 1889, no suit can be maintained by husbands, heirs, or assigns, to show that the same was community property, or to recover such property.

The earnings of the wife are not liable for debts of the husband; and separate property of the wife is not liable for the husband's debts, but is for her own, whether contracted before or after marriage.

Where the husband has no means of support, and is from infirmity unable to care for himself, the wife's separate property is liable therefor, if the husband has not deserted her.

The husband has full power to dispose of community property, otherwise than by will, provided that he can not make a gift thereof, or convey the same without a valuable consideration, unless the wife in writing assent thereto.

XX. MORTGAGES:

May be made upon the several species of chattels enumerated in the code. The mortgage must be acknowledged in the same manner as conveyances of real estate are, and both mortgagor and mortgagee must subscribe to an oath attached thereto, that the mortgage is made in good faith, and not for the purpose of hindering, delaying or defrauding creditors.

Any interest or estate in real property may be conveyed by mortgage which is executed, certified and recorded in the same manner as are deeds. Except in case of homestead, wife need not join in mortgage of community property, nor of husband's separate property. A wife may mortgage her separate property. All conveyances, no matter what their form, given as security for the payment of debts, are mortgages. The mortgage conveys no interest in the property, and confers no right of possession, but the mortgagor may maintain injunction to prevent waste that will destroy security.

On foreclosure a reasonable attorney's fee is fixed by the court if the mortgage provides for it. A receiver may be appointed by the court upon application of plaintiff, pending decree. At sale under decree, any party to the suit may become a purchaser. Redemption may be made within six months as in case of execution sales. A mortgage can not be renewed except by the same formalities necessary for its creation. Tacking is not recognized. Release may be by satisfaction piece acknowledged and recorded, or by an endorsement on the margin of the mortgage record, certified by the recorder.

XXI. NOTES AND BILLS:

Matters relating to endorsements, presentation, notice, protest, etc., are fixed by the civil code; and in the main are codifications of the common law. Days of grace are not allowed. Endorser must be notified of non-payment to hold him. Paper may be transferred after maturity, subject to all secret equities and offsets that may exist. A note falling due on a holiday is payable the day following. Holidays are every Sunday, January 1st, February 22d, May 30th, July 4th, September 9th, December 25th; every day of general election throughout the State; and every day appointed by the President of the United States or the Governor of the State, as a day of fast, thanksgiving or holiday.

XXII. SUITS:

There is but one form of civil action in the State.

XXIII. TAXES:

All property in the State on the first Monday of March is subject to taxation. Every matter or thing capable of private ownership is subject to taxation. Mortgages are taxed as an interest in land; and by constitutional provision mortgagee must pay the tax thereon.

All taxes on personal property and one-half the taxes on real property become delinquent on the last Monday in November, and five per cent is added thereto; and unless paid on the last Monday in April, five per cent additional. The remaining installment of taxes on real property becomes due on the first Monday in January, and delinquent the last Monday in April, and thereafter five per cent will be added thereto. Taxes on personal property not secured by lien on real estate are due immediately upon assessment, and the first installment on real property is due on the first Monday in October.

Within five days of the first Monday in June of each year the tax collector publishes a list of delinquent taxpayers, with a description of the property assessed and the amount due for taxes, costs, etc.; and after three publications thereof in a newspaper published in the county, and at a date in said notice specified, not less than twenty-one nor more than twenty-eight days from the date of the first publication, the land upon which taxes are then delinquent shall be declared by the tax collector, by an entry made upon the delinquent list, sold to the State.

The owner or any party in interest may at any time within five years, or at any time prior to the sale of said land by the State, redeem the property by paying to the county treasurer the amount due thereon at the date of the sale, with interest thereon at the rate of seven per centum per annum, with other provisions as to subsequent taxes, penalties, etc.

XXIV. WILLS:

Any person of sound mind, not under duress, menace, undue influence, etc., and above the age of eighteen years, may make a will. All wills except nuncupative wills must be in writing; and all written wills must be attested by two subscribing witnesses in whose presence said will must be declared and published, and who must sign in the presence of the testator and of each other. Gifts or devises to subscribing witnesses are void. An holographic will must be wholly written, dated and signed by the testator in his own handwriting. The use of a printed heading will vitiate it. Any child of the testator whose name is omitted from the will takes as by succession he would be entitled if no will existed. Wills made out of the State must conform to the provisions of the code, or they can not be probated. One in whose custody a will is left must file the same within thirty days after receiving notice of the death of the testator, with the Superior Court having jurisdiction, or deliver the same to the executor named therein. A will made before marriage or birth of issue is revoked by such marriage or birth, unless provision has been made by marriage settlement, or in the will for such contingency.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

Each stockholder of a corporation or joint-stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The directors or trustees of corporations and joint-stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint-stock association during the term of such director or trustee.

No corporation shall engage in any business other than that expressly authorized in its charter or the law under which it may have been or may hereafter be organized; nor shall it hold for a longer period than five years any real estate, except such as may be necessary for carrying on its business.

No corporation shall issue stock or bonds, except for money paid, labor done or property actually received, and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void. The stock and bonded indebtedness of corporations shall not be increased except in pursuance of general law, nor without the consent of the persons holding the larger amount in value of the stock at a meeting called for that purpose, giving sixty days' public notice, as may be provided by law.

In all elections for directors or managers of corporations, every stockholder shall have the right to vote, in person or by proxy, the number of shares of stock owned by him, for as many persons as there are directors or managers to be elected, or to cumulate said shares and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares of stock shall equal, or to distribute them, on the same principle, among as many candidates as he shall think fit; and such directors or managers shall not be elected in any other manner, except that members of co-operative societies formed for agricultural, mercantile and manufacturing purposes may vote on all questions affecting such societies in manner prescribed by law. Every corporation, other than religious, educational or benevolent, organized or doing business in this State shall have and maintain an office or place in this State for the transaction of its business, where transfers of stock shall be made, and in which shall be kept for inspection, by every person having an interest therein, and legislative committees, books in which shall be recorded the amount of capital stock subscribed and by whom; the names of the owners of its stock, and the amounts owned by them respectively; the amount of stock paid in, and by whom; the transfers of stock; the amounts of its assets and liabilities, and the names and places of residence of its officers.

Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act. All laws now in force in this State concerning corporations, and all laws that may be hereafter passed pursuant to this section, may be altered from time to time or repealed.

II. ORGANIZATION:

Private corporations may be formed by the voluntary association of five or more persons, a majority of whom must be residents, and for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves.

Articles of incorporation must set forth: 1. The name of the incorporation. 2. The purpose for which it is formed. 3. The place where its principal business is to be transacted. 4. The term for which it is to exist, not exceeding fifty years. 5. The number of its directors or trustees, which shall not be less than five nor more than eleven, who must be members of the corporation, and the names and residences of those who are appointed for the first year. 6. The amount of the capital stock, and the number of shares into which it is divided. 7. If there is a capital stock, the amount actually subscribed, and by whom.

Upon filing the articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the principal business of the company is to be transacted, and a copy thereof, certified by the county clerk, with the Secretary of State, with an affidavit of the president, secretary or treasurer named in the articles, that the required amount of capital stock has been actually subscribed, the Secretary of State must issue to the corporation a certificate that a copy of the articles containing the required statement of facts has been filed in his office, and thereupon the persons signing the articles, and their associates and successors, shall be a body politic and corporate. A copy of any articles so filed and certified by the Secretary of State must be received in all the courts and other places as prima facie evidence. A copy of the articles of incorporation, certified by the Secretary of State, must be filed in the office of the county clerk of each county in which the corporation holds property. In default so to do such corporation may not maintain or defend any suit in relation to such property or its rents, issues or profits.

III. POWERS:

The general powers are stated. If a corporation does not organize and commence the transaction of its business or the construction of its works within one year from the date of its incorporation, its corporate powers cease. No corporation shall issue stock or bonds except for money paid, labor done or property actually received, and all fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness is void. Every corporation may increase or diminish its capital stock, create or increase its bonded indebtedness in the manner stated. The capital stock cannot be diminished to an amount less than the indebtedness of the corporation. No corporation shall acquire or hold any more real property than may be reasonably necessary for the transaction of its business, or the construction of its works, except as otherwise specially provided.

Provision is also made for amending the articles of incorporation, for keeping a record of all their business transactions, for keeping a journal of all meetings of directors or stockholders, also a stock and a transfer book, which are to be open to the inspection of any stockholder or creditor. The Legislature may at any time amend or repeal the above, and dissolve all corporations created thereunder, but such amendment or repeal does not, nor does the dissolution of any such corporation take away or impair any remedy given against any such corporation, its stockholders or officers, for any liability which has been previously incurred.

The dissolution of corporations is provided for, which may be either voluntary or involuntary. Unless other persons are appointed by the court, the directors or managers of the affairs of such corporations at the time of their dissolution are trustees of the creditors and stockholders, and have full power to settle the affairs of the corporations.

IV. BY-LAWS:

Every corporation formed as above must, within one month after filing articles of incorporation, adopt a code of by-laws for its government, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the State. The written consent of the holders of two-thirds of the stock shall be effectual to adopt a code of by-laws without a meeting for that purpose. A corporation may by its by-laws provide for: 1. The time, place and manner of calling and conducting its meetings, and may dispense with notice of all regular meetings of stockholders or directors. 2. The number of stockholders constituting a quorum. 3. The mode of voting by proxy. 4. The qualifications and duties of directors, the time of their annual election, and the mode and manner of giving notice thereof. 5. The compensation and duties of officers. 6. The manner of election and the tenure of office of all officers other than the directors. 7. Suitable penalties for violation of by-laws not exceeding, in any case, one hundred dollars for any one offense. The newspaper to be provided for, for publishing all notices of the meetings of stockhbiders or board of directors, notice of which is required to be published, must be some newspaper published in the county where the principal place of business is, or if none is published therein, then in a newspaper published in an adjoining county. When all the stockholders of a corporation are present at any meeting, however called or notified, and sign a written consent thereto on the record of such meeting, the doings of such meeting are valid. All by-laws must be certified by a majority of the directors and the secretary of the corporation, and copied in the "book of by-laws." The by-laws may be repealed or amended as prescribed.

V. ELECTIONS:

The directors of a corporation must be elected annually by the stockholders, and if no provision is made in the by-laws for the time of election, the election must be held on the first Tuesday in June. All elections must be by ballot, and every stockholder shall have the right to vote in person or by proxy for as many persons as there are directors to be elected, or to cumulate his shares and give one candidate as many votes as the number of directors multiplied by the number of his shares of stock shall equal, or to distribute them among as many candidates as he shall think fit. Immediately after their election, the directors must organize by the election of a president, who must be one of their number, a secretary and a treasurer. At all elections or votes had for any purpose there must be a majority of the subscribed capital stock, represented either in person or by proxy in writing.

VI. DIRECTORS:

A majority of the directors constitute a quorum, and every decision of a majority of a quorum is valid as a corporate act. The directors of corporations must not make dividends, except from the surplus profits, nor must they divide, withdraw or pay to the stockholders any part of the capital stock, nor must they create debts beyond the subscribed capital stock. For a violation of the above, the directors (except those who caused their dissent to be entered on the minutes, or who were not present) are in their individual and private capacity jointly and severally liable to the corporation, and to the creditors thereof, in the event of its dissolution, to the full amount of the capital stock so divided, withdrawn, paid out or reduced, or debt contracted, and no statute of limitations is a bar; provided, however, that where a corporation has been or may be formed for the purpose among other things of acquiring, holding and selling real estate, water and water-rights, the directors of such corporation may, with the consent of stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock, given at a meeting called for that purpose, divide among the stockholders the land, water or water-rights so by such corporation held, in the proportions to which their holdings of such stock at the time of such division would entitle them; all conveyances to be subject to the debts. Nothing shall prohibit a division and distribution of the capital stock which remains upon the payment of the debts, upon the dissolution of the corporation or the expiration of its term of existence.

VII. PLACE OF MEETINGS:

The meetings of the stockholders and board of directors of a corporation must be held at its office or principal place of business. Every corporation that has been or may be created may change its principal place of business from one place to another in the same county, or from one city or county to another city or county within the State. Before such change is made, consent in writing of holders of two-thirds of the capital stock must be filed in the office of the corporation, and when this is done, notice of the intended removal or change must be published for three succcessive weeks in some newspaper published in the county of the principal place of business, if there is one published therein; if not, in a newspaper of an adjoining county, giving the name of the county or city where it is situated, and to which it is intended to remove it. (See also statutes of 1863-64, page seventy-six, in respect to mining companies changing their principal place of business.)

VIII. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Each stockholder of a corporation is individually and personally liable for such proportion of its debts and liabilities as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation, and for a like proportion of each debt against the corporation. Any creditor may institute joint or several actions against any of its stockholders, for the proportion of his claim payable by each, the court to ascertain such proportion, and a several judgment must be rendered against each defendant, in conformity therewith. If any stockholder pays his proportion of any debt due from the corporation, incurred while he was such, he is relieved from any personal liability for such debt. The liability of each stockholder is determined by the amount of stock or shares owned by him at the time the debt or liability was incurred; and such liability is not released by any subsequent transfer of stock. But such liability being created by law is barred by the statute of limitations within three years from the creation of the original obligation. (Hunt vs. Ward, 99 Cal., 612). The liability of each stockholder of a corporation formed under the laws of any other state or territory, or of any foreign country, and doing business within this State, shall be the same as the liability of a stockholder of a corporation created in this State.

IX. TRANSFER OF SHARES:

Whenever the capital stock of any corporation is divided into shares, and certificates therefor are issued, such shares are personal property, and may be transferred by indorsement of the owner, or his attorney or legal representative, and delivery of the certificate; but such transfer is not valid, except between the parties thereto, until the same is so entered upon the books of the corporation, showing the names of the parties by and to whom transferred, the number or designation of the share, and the date of the transfer.

X. ASSESSMENT OF STOCK:

The directors of any corporation formed or existing under the laws of this State, after one-fourth of its capital stock has been subscribed, may, for the purpose of paying expenses, conducting business, or paying debts, levy and collect assessments upon the subscribed capital stock thereof. No one assessment must exceed ten per cent of the amount of capital stock named in the articles of incorporation except as follows: If the whole capital of a corporation has not been paid up, and the corporation is unable to meet its liabilities or to satisfy the claims of its creditors, the assessment may be for the full amount unpaid upon the capital stock, or for a less amount, if sufficient. No assessment must be levied while any portion of a previous one remains unpaid, except in certain cases specified. Every order levying an assessment must specify the amount thereof, when, to whom and where payable; fix a day on which the unpaid assessments shall be delinquent, not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the time of making the order levying the assessment, and a day for the sale of delinquent stock, not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days from the day the stock is declared delinquent. Upon making the order, the secretary is to publish a notice thereof. The notice must be personally served upon each stockholder, or, in lieu of this, must be sent through the mail addressed to each stockholder at his place of residence if known, and be published once a week for four successive weeks at places stated. If any portion of assessment mentioned in the notice remains unpaid on the day specified therein for declaring the stock delinquent, the secretary, unless otherwise ordered by the directors, must publish in the same papers a notice, which must specify every certificate of stock, the number of shares it represents, and the amount due thereon, and when published in a daily paper must be published for ten days, excluding Sundays and holidays, previous to the day of sale, and when published in a weekly must be published in each issue for two weeks previous to the day of sale. The first publication of all delinquent sales must be at least fifteen days prior to the day of sale. No more of stock must be sold than is necessary to pay the assessments due and costs of sale. The sale must be at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash. If payment is made before the time fixed for sale, the party paying is only required to pay the actual cost of advertising, in addition to the assessments. The person offering at such sale to pay the assessment and costs for the smallest number of shares or fraction of a share is the highest bidder, and the stock purchased must be transferred to him on the stock-books of the corporation, on payment. If no bidder offers the necessary amount, the same may be bid in by the corporation for the assessment, costs and charges, and entry of the transfer must be made on the books. While the stock remains the property of the corporation it is not assessable, nor must any dividend be declared thereon. The stock so purchased is subject to the control of the stockholders. No assessment is invalidated by a failure to make publication of the notices provided for. No action must be sustained to recover stock sold for delinquent assessments, upon the ground of irregularity in the assessment, irregularity or defect of the notice of sale, or defect or irregularity in the sale, unless the party seeking to maintain such action first pays or tenders to the corporation, or the party holding the stock sold, the sum for which the same was sold, together with all subsequent assessments paid thereon, with interest; and such action must be commenced by the filing of a complaint and the issuing of a summons within six months after such sale. At any time before the sale of delinquent stock, the board of directors may elect to waive further proceedings for the collection of delinquent assessments, and may elect to proceed by action to recover the amount of the assessment, costs and expenses.

XI. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

By a statute continued in force, a corporation created by the laws of any other state, and doing business here, shall, within sixty days from the time of commencing to do business in this State, designate some person in the county in which the principal place of business is, upon whom process may be served, and within the time aforesaid shall file such designation in the office of the Secretary of State, and a copy of such designation, duly certified by said officer, shall be evidence of such appointment, and it shall be lawful to serve on such person any process. Such service shall be made on such person in such manner as shall be prescribed in case of service to be made on foreign corporations. Where such designation is not made, process may be served on any person within this State acting as the agent of said corporation or doing business for them.

MINING.

I. MINING CORPORATIONS:

Any corporation organized in this State for the purpose of mining or carrying on mining operations in or without this State may establish and maintain agencies in other States of the United States for the transfer and issuing of their stock; and a transfer or issue of the same at any such transfer agency, in accordance with the provisions of its by-laws, is valid and binding as fully as if made on the books of such corporation at its principal office within this State. The agencies must be governed by the by-laws and the directors of the corporation, and all stock of any such corporation issued at a transfer agency must be signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, and countersigned at the time of its issue by the agent having charge of the transfer agency. No stock must be issued at a transfer agency unless the certificate of stock in lieu of which the same is issued is at the time surrendered for cancellation.

There is a statute continued in force in reference to corporations organized in this State for the purpose of mining out of this State, and whose business office is in this State, authorizing them to levy assessments upon the capital stock thereof to pay the debts of said corporation, or to carry on the business of said corporation, provided the same shall be equal and uniform, and at no time exceed five per cent of the capital stock.

II. CONSOLIDATION OF COMPANIES:

Two or more corporations formed under the laws of this State, for mining purposes, which own or possess mining claims or lands adjoining each other, or lying in the same vicinity, may consolidate their capital stock, rights, property, assets and franchises as may be agreed upon by the respective boards of directors, but such consolidation shall not take place without the written assent of the stockholders representing two-thirds of the capital stock, and shall not relieve the stockholders or the companies from any and all just liabilities, and in case of such consolidation, due notice shall be given by advertising for one month as prescribed. When the consolidation is complete, certificates are to be filed in the county clerk's office, and in the office of the Secretary of State, and after the notice is given as specified, a board of directors for the consolidated companies is to be chosen by the stockholders for the year thence ensuing.

III. BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS:

By a statute continued in force it is made the duty of the secretary of every mining corporation formed in this State to keep a complete set of books showing all receipts and expenditures, sources and objects, and all transfers of stock, during business hours, open to the inspection of any bona fide stockholder, who is entitled to be accompanied by an expert, who can make copies. It is the duty of directors, on the first Monday of each month, to make a balance sheet for the previous month, embracing a full statement of receipts and disbursements, showing sources of receipts and for what and to whom paid out, also all indebtedness or liabilities and for what the same were incurred, and balance of money on hand, to be verified under oath by the president and secretary and posted conspicuously in the office of the company. It is made the duty of the superintendent on the first day of each month to file with the secretary an itemized account, verified, showing all receipts and disbursements by him for the previous month, and for what disbursements were made: also a weekly statement, verified, showing the number of men under him, and for what purpose, and the rate of wages; also to report under oath the work done in the mine, the amount of ore extracted, from what part of the mine taken, the amount sent to mill for reduction, its assay value, amount of bullion received, amount shipped, and amount, if any, retained by the superintendent; also to forward to the company's office a report, verified, of all discoveries of ores or mineral-bearing quartz made in said mine, together with assay value, all to be kept in some conspicuous place in the office, and to be open to the inspection of all stockholders.

Any bona fide stockholder is entitled to visit with his expert and examine the mine at any time he may see fit; and when he shall make application to the president, he shall cause the secretary to deliver to him an order commanding the superintendent to exhibit such parts of the mine as may be desired by the party, and to furnish him with every facility for inspection, accompanying him in person or detailing someone who is familiar with the mine. A penalty is provided for disobedience by superintendent or by the president, and also in case of the failure of the directors to have the reports and accounts posted.

IV. PARTNERSHIPS:

A mining partnership exists when two or more persons who own or acquire a mining claim for the purpose of working it and extracting the mineral actually engage in working the mine. No express agreement to become partners is necessary. The relation of partners arises from the ownership of shares or interests in the mine and working the same for the purpose of extracting the minerals. A member of a mining partnership shares in the profits and losses in the proportion which the interest or share he owns in the mine bears to the whole partnership capital or whole number of shares. Each member of a mining partnership has a lien on the partnership property for the debts due the creditors thereof, and for money advanced by him for its use. This lien exists notwithstanding an agreement among the partners to the contrary. The mining ground owned and worked by partners in mining, whether purchased with partnership funds or not, is partnership property. One of the partners in a mining partnership may convey his interest in the mine and business without dissolving the partnership. The purchaser, from the date of his purchase, becomes a member of the partnership. A purchaser of an interest in the mining ground of a mining partnership takes it subject to the liens existing in favor of the partners for debts due all creditors thereof, or advances made for the benefit of the partnership, unless he purchased in good faith, for a valuable consideration, without notice of such lien. A purchaser of the interest of a partner in a mine where the partnership is engaged in working it takes with notice of all liens resulting from the relation of the partners to each other and to the creditors of the partnership. No member of a mining partnership or other agent or manager thereof can by a contract in writing bind the partnership, except by express authority derived from the members thereof. The decision of the members owning a majority of the shares or interests in a mining partnership binds it in the conduct of its business.

V. RECORD OF IMPROVEMENTS:

Any mine owner, company or corporation having performed the labor and made the improvements required by law for the location and ownership of mining claims or lodes, shall file within thirty days after the time limited for performing such labor or making such improvement, with the county recorder of deeds of the county in which the mine is, an affidavit particularly describing the services and the value, which shall be prima facie evidence. Upon the failure of any claimant or mine owner to comply with the conditions required in the performance of labor or making of improvements, the claim or mine upon which such failure occurred shall be open to re-location as if no location had ever been made. But, if, before re-location, the original locators, their heirs or assigns, resume work upon such claim and continue the same with reasonable diligence until the required labor has been performed or improvements made, and the required affidavit as above is filed with the county recorder, then the claim shall not be subject to re-location. Upon the failure of any of the several owners to contribute his portion of the expenditures required, the co-owners who are not in default may, at the expiration of the year, give such delinquent co-owner personal written notice, or by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim, for at least once a week for ninety days; and if, at the expiration of ninety days after such notice in writing or publication, the delinquent shall fail to contribute his portion, his interest in the claim shall become the property of his co-owners. A copy of such notice, with an affidavit showing service, when filed or recorded with the recorder, shall be evidence of the acquisition of such title. When a person or company has or may run a tunnel or cuts in good faith for the purpose of developing a lode or claim owned by said person or company, the money so expended shall be taken and considered as expended on said lode or claim, provided said lode or claim shall be distinctly marked on the surface as provided by law.

All mining claims and locations shall be subject to a reservation of the right of way through or over any mining claims, ditches, roads, canals, cuts, tunnels and other easements for the purpose of working other mines, provided that the damage shall be assessed and paid for as the cases of property taken under the right of eminent domain. ("XI. Eminent Domain.")

VI. WATER RIGHT:

The right to the use of running water flowing in a river or stream, or down a canon or ravine, may be acquired by appropriation. This must be for some useful or beneficial purpose, and when the appropriator or his successor in interest ceases to use it for such a purpose, the right ceases. The person entitled to the use may change the place of diversion, if others are not injured by such change, and may extend the ditch, flume, pipe or aqueduct by which the diversion is made to places beyond the first use. The water appropriated may be turned into the channel of another stream and mingled with its water, and then reclaimed; but in reclaiming it the water already appropriated by another must not be eliminated. As between appropriators, the one first in time is the first in right. A person desiring to appropriate must post a notice in writing, in a conspicuous place at the point of intended diversion, stating therein: First, that he claims the water there flowing to the extent of (giving the number) inches, measured under a four-inch pressure; second, the purposes for which he claims it, and place of intended use; third, the means by which he intends to divert it and the size of the flume, ditch, pipe or aqueduct in which he intends to divert it. A copy of the notice, within ten days after it is posted, must be recorded in the recorder's office of the county in which it is posted. Within sixty days after the notice is posted the claimant must commence the excavation or construction of the works in which he intends to divert the water, and must prosecute the work diligently and uninterruptedly until completion, unless temporarily interrupted by snow or rain. Completion means conducting the water to the place of intended use. By a compliance with the above the claimant's right to the use of the water relates back to the time the notice was posted, but a failure deprives the claimant of the right as against a subsequent claimant who complies.

VII. PROPERTY DEFINITION:

In a mining claim real or unmovable property consists of: 1. Land. 2. That which is affixed to land. 3. That which is incidental or appurtenant to land. 4. That which is unmovable by law.

Sluice-boxes, flumes, hose, pipes, railway tracks, cars, blacksmith shops, mills and all other machinery or tools used in making or developing a mine are to be deemed affixed to the mine. A thing is deemed to be incidental or appurtenant to land when it is by right used with the land for its benefit: as in the case of a way, a watercourse, or of a passage for light, air or heat from or across the land of another. Every kind of property that is not real is personal.

VIII. MINING CUSTOMS:

In actions respecting mining claims, proof must be admitted of the customs, usages or regulations established and in force at the bar or diggings embracing such claim; and such customs, usages or regulations, when not in conflict with the laws of this State, must govern the decision of the action.

IX. ESCAPEMENT SHAFT:

There is an act continued in force making it unlawful for any corporation or owner of any quartz mine within the State, where as many as twelve men are employed, to sink down into such mine any perpendicular shaft or incline beyond a depth from the surface of three hundred feet, without providing a second mode of egress from such mine, by shaft or tunnel, to connect with the main shaft at a depth of not less than one hundred feet from the surface, and providing also for the recovery of damages in case of accident.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments may be made before the judge or clerk of any court of record, certificate to be under court seal; clerk of any county under seal of county, deputy clerk of court or county, notary public or justice of the peace—extra certificate for latter being required when lands are situate outside his county.

Without the State: If in another state or territory, may be made before Secretary of State, under state or territorial seal, clerk of any court of record, notary public, commissioner of deeds for this State, or before any other officer authorized by state or territorial law to administer oaths, provided there is attached authenticating certificate of clerk of court of record in district where such other officer acts.

In foreign countries, before a court of record having seal, with certificate of judge; before chief officer of city or town, having seal; or United States consul, always with seal attached.

In mortgage of homestead, wife must acknowledge apart from husband. Deeds to State lands, made by the Governor, and attested by Secretary of State, and with State seal affixed, need not be acknowledged.

II. ADMINISTRATION:

A temporary administrator may be appointed, but husband and wife, respectively, have first right to letters on the other's estate. Next of kin follow, and, after twenty days, creditors may apply; failing which, the public administrator acts, upon application of any party in interest, or county judge may appoint. Proof of death and intestacy is first essential.

There is liberal allowance of widow's portion, including statutory exemptions, free from all debts. If intestate leaves no realty, and the personalty does not exceed widow's allowance, the court immediately enters an order settling the estate and discharging the administrator. Oath and bond required; the latter in double the value of estate, and conditioned for the performance of duty as required by law. A sworn inventory of three appraisers must be filed.

If there are no debts, or after payment of the same, the personalty may be distributed to the heirs, subject to costs. After payment of debts and costs, if there be no known heirs, the administrator must advertise eight weeks in a public newspaper, giving the name of intestate, time and place of death and balance on hand, and notifying claimants and creditors to come forward within six months or be barred. Any balance thereafter is paid into the county treasury for the benefit of heirs or claimants. When personal estate will not meet the debts, the court, on petition, will order the sale of sufficient realty, minors being parties by guardians ad litem. The administrator may, on order of the court, compromise or sell a claim where the debtor is insolvent, and may sell all crops. After funeral expenses, costs and physician's bills for last illness, all money received by intestate or testator as executor, administrator or guardian, and not accounted for, must be preferred to other claims. All demands must be made within one year. Persons of unsound mind, those imprisoned or beyond seas, have one year after removal of disability. Taxes are a part of the costs. Administrators must report to the court at first term after six months, setting, by four weeks' published notice, a day for adjusting claims, and must report each two months thereafter. Final settlements are made upon four weeks' published notice, but the discharge does not affect administrator's liability on bond.

III. ALIENS:

Resident aliens have all property rights, and non-resident aliens may engage in any industry, and acquire mining and town property, and not exceeding two thousand acres of agricultural land in one body.

IV. ASSIGNMENTS:

General assignments must be for the benefit of all creditors. Servants, laborers and employees for services during prior six months, hold preferred non-assignable claims to the amount of fifty dollars. Taxes due are preferred. Assignee gives bond and is subject to the order of court. Creditors, to share in distribution to the first class, must file claims within three months after notice. The estate must be closed in one year, unless the court extends the time.

V. ATTACHMENTS:

Grounds for attachment are non-residence, foreign corporation or one with chief place of business out of the State, concealment of person, defiance of officer, four months of absence from the State or unknown whereabouts, and the usual provisions as to fraudulent conveyance, concealment or removal of property; also for departure from State with intent to have effects removed, failure to pay for specific article or for labor according to agreement, and fraudulently obtaining the credit.

Substantially the same provisions in Justices' Courts, as to amounts not exceeding three hundred dollars, and authorizing writ there in suits upon overdue accounts, or notes, etc., for direct payment of money.

Bond required in double the amount of claim. All attachments subject to operation of exemption laws.

VI. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Holders of mortgages, deeds of trust or other security cannot foreclose within one year from death, unless by permission of the County Court, after such claims are proved and allowed, but this shall not impair lien. All claims must be presented at a day set (see "II. Administration") and if no objection is entered by any party in interest, may be approved on oath of claimant. Claim may be exhibited at any term subsequent to issue of letters, upon ten days' notice to executor or administrator. A claim not fully due may be allowed for the part due at date of allowance. If no letters issue within a year holders of securities may enforce lien as if debtor were living.

VII. COURTS:

Justices of the peace are elected and have jurisdiction to three hundred dollars, but not in matters affecting boundaries or title to real estate.

County Courts have authority for administration of estates, adoption of children, questions of lunacy, wills, appeals from justice of the peace, and general civil jurisdiction to the amount of two thousand dollars. Judges are elected. Appeals may be taken to the District or Supreme Court. Six terms a year in principal counties are held, commencing first Monday in January and following alternate months. Four terms a year in minor counties.

In District Courts, the judges are elected, and the courts have original jurisdiction of all causes at law and in equity, and in all controversies concerning rights, duties and liabilities of railroad, telegraph or toll-road companies or corporations. Concurrent jurisdiction with the County Court, as to the adoption of children and removal of guardians. Terms in various counties as provided by law, but at least one term annually.

The Court of Appeals has appellate jurisdiction in cases from the lower courts, where the amount involved is twenty-five hundred dollars or less. There are three judges, appointed by the Governor of the State.

The Supreme Court has appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the State, when the amount involved exceeds twenty-five hundred dollars, and may issue extraordinary remedial writs. A single judge may issue writ of habeas corpus. Two terms annually at the seat of government. Three judges, serving nine years each; one elected each three years.

[Counties in Colorado are divided into three classes, and fees vary in each class. Those given are for the first class.]

IX. DEEDS:

Except as to executors and trustees, joint tenancy can be created only by declaration in deed, and express rejection of tenancy in common. Title acquired after conveyance in fee, is held to be in trust and for use of and curing defect in title of original grantee. Adverse possession is no obstacle to conveyance. Persons seized in attempted fee-tail, take life estate, with remainder in fee-simple to person who would take on death of first grantee. Every estate is deemed to be in fee-simple, even though words of inheritance be omitted, unless a less estate be limited in the conveyance. Right of possession follows conveyance, unless other intent be expressed. Covenants of freedom from incumbrance, warranty, etc., run with the premises for benefit of subsequent grantees, but warrantor is entitled to notice to defend title. Power of attorney to convey must be acknowledged, and be recorded in office where conveyance is to be recorded. The word "conveyance" embraces every instrument in writing affecting interest in lands, except a will. Seal is not essential. Covenant of married woman is inoperative, except to pass present estate.

X. DEPOSITIONS:

Witness being resident in State, deposition may be taken when the witness is a party to the suit, is non-resident of the county in which testimony is to be used, is about to leave so as to be absent when testimony may be required, and when witness is too infirm to attend trial; and may be taken before any person authorized generally to administer oaths. Authority issues on affidavit of the ground, with notice reciting time and place of taking testimony, five days being first allowed, and one day additional for each twenty-five miles from residence of party to place of deposition—unless the court shortens the time, and then copy of the order must accompany notice.

A commission to take testimony out of State is issued by clerk under seal of the court on five days' notice to opposite party, and with copy of interrogatories attached. It issues to person authorized to administer oaths, or to person agreed upon. Opposite party may file interrogatories to be attached to commission.

XI. DESCENT:

One-half of estate descends to surviving husband or wife, and one-half to children; failing children, husband or wife take entire estate. No dower or curtesy. Children take equally, the descendants of one dead collectively taking part of parent. Next, the father takes, and then the mother. Failing these, brothers and sisters equally, the descendants of one dead collectively taking share of ancestor. Then, the nearest lineal ancestors and their descendants. Descendants of half blood inherit as of whole blood, but collateral relatives only in half measure. An illegitimate child secures right of inheritance through marriage of parents. Children's rights of inheritance are not affected by divorce of parents.

XII. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Land necessary for construction of ditches, roads, bridges, ferries, railroads, tunnels, reservoirs, pipe lines, etc., may be condemned, the compensation to be fixed by board of three commissioners, or, on demand of owner, a jury of freeholders. The proceeding is by petition in the District or County Court, with regular summons and trial, with service by publication when necessary. The rule entered by the court, and filed in the recorder's office, vests all necessary title—subject to appeal or writ of error.

XIII. EXECUTIONS:

Lands must be sold at public vendue. Six months after sale allowed to redeem. Due notice is requisite. Life of an execution is ninety days. If judgment debtor dies, execution cannot issue for a year, and executor or administrator is entitled to three months of notice.

XIV. EXEMPTION:

There is exempt from writs of execution and attachment, the homestead for head of family, all necessary wearing apparel, books, furniture, implements of trade and certain store of provisions; also wages to sixty dollars.

XV. HOMESTEAD:

Heads of family may have two thousand dollars' homestead exempt from execution and attachment, while actually occupied by self or family, by causing to be entered on margin of recorded title, the word "homestead," subscribing same, and having recorder attest. The privilege extends to husband, and widow with minor children surviving.

XVI. INTEREST:

Eight per cent is the legal rate, but there is no usury law.

XVII. JUDGMENTS:

All final orders, decrees and awards are judgments. Entered on the judgment docket, and transcript filed with the county recorder, judgments are a lien upon the real estate of debtor subsisting for six years. The transcript may be filed with effect in any county where such real estate is situate. Satisfaction may be entered by attorney within one year, unless his authority be formally revoked by creditor at any time. Judgments may be revived by verified petition, and under writ of scire facias. Foreign judgments are subject to rules of the common law, as to proof, etc.

XVIII. LIENS:

Laborers, mechanics and material men have the usual lien to full extent of owner's interest in land, structure or improvement. Principal contractor within sixty, and sub-contractor within forty days, must file with county recorder sworn statement setting out all names, description of property, total indebtedness, credits, and balance due, and at same time, or before, serve copy of statement on owner, his agent or trustee, or make affidavit that none such can be found. Action to enforce must be commenced within six months. Attorneys have liens for services. All taxes are liens. Miners' liens are secure when work is done direct for owner, but the law of 1895 makes this lien dubious, when work is done for lessees. Bailments, and all property in care or custody, carry liens. Executions become liens upon delivery to sheriff.

XIX. LIMITATIONS:

Six years upon contract, judgment, for rent, waste or trespass, open account or any assumpsit. Three years from discovery, in cases of fraud. One year in cases of assault, false imprisonment, slander and libel, and action for penalty or forfeiture. Six years operate on actions accruing on judgments outside State. In case of a person dying with the cause of action surviving, administrator has a full year. Limitation operates upon debt by way of set-off; and runs full term after any disability of party has been removed. Foreign judgments are limited to six years from date on which original action accrued, unless proceeded on here within three months from date of rendition.

XX. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman owns and controls, free from husband's debts, all property she owned prior to coverture, all she may inherit or receive (except from husband) by gift or bequest, and all rents, profits and proceeds from same. She may sue and be sued; sell and convey, as if sole. She may make a will, but to not exceeding one-half of her property, except with written consent of husband. She enjoys full franchise, being privileged to vote at any election, and may hold any office, if twenty-one years of age. The same privilege extends to unmarried women.

XXI. MORTGAGES:

Marginal entry of satisfaction on record operates as full release. Equity of redemption runs six months after sale. Trust deeds must be satisfied by formal deed of release, and may be enforced without equity of redemption. Under order of court, sales of part property may be had from time to time, to meet mortgage debt due in installments; but, where sale of part would injure estate, court may order sale of whole, and application, with rebate of interest on unmatured balances. Oral testimony is admissible to show that deed was designed to have effect of mortgage—always excepting trust deeds with power of sale.

XXII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Three days of grace are allowed on notes and bills of exchange, but the provision does not extend to sight drafts or checks. Paper maturing on a Sunday or holiday is deemed to fall due the previous day. Gambling contracts or instruments are void, and assignments thereof are ineffectual.

XXIII. TAXES:

Persons owning property on May 1st of each year are liable for the taxes of that year. Mortgagee may pay taxes, if mortgagor fails, and may add same to lien and recover with interest at twenty-five per cent per annum. Unpatented homestead entries are taxable. Assessments are usually at one-third values. Head of family entitled to exemption of two hundred dollars.

XXIV. WILLS:

Males at twenty-one, and females at eighteen years, may make a will. Wills must be proved in county of residence, or if none, then where greater part of estate is situate. A written will must be signed in the presence of two or more witnesses, but a bequest to a witness is void unless there be at least two other witnesses. A nuncupative will must be made in the last sickness, in the presence of two witnesses, and be by them reduced to writing within a reasonable time. A lost will may be established by oral testimony. A child born after execution of will may have a rebate from the other devisees, to its pro rata.

XXV. WATER RIGHTS:

The constitution declares natural streams, not appropriated prior to March 14th, 1876, public property for use of the people, with appropriation controlled by law. As between those using water for the same purpose, priority of appropriation governs—with preference, in order named, for domestic, agricultural and manufacturing uses. The District Court has jurisdiction over questions of priority. The supply being insufficient, water actually received in a ditch is to be distributed pro rata to consumers. The County Commissioners fix maximum rate on water sold from ditches, and only such ditches are subject to taxation. The Governor appoints water commissioners for the various districts, and these part water among ditches under the priority rule. If any ditch owner wastes water, commissioner may shut off supply to extent of waste.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Three, and not exceeding thirteen persons, signing and acknowledging certificates before a competent officer, and filing one with the Secretary of State, one with the recorder of the county where the principal office is located, and one with the recorder of each county in which corporate business is to be transacted, may thus create a corporation. Certificates must give corporate name, indicating character of business, commencing with "the" and ending with "corporation," "company," "association," or "society;" must state objects, amount of capital stock, number and value of shares (one dollar to one hundred dollars each), term of existence, not exceeding twenty years (except insurance companies, which may be perpetual); number of directors or trustees (three to thirteen), naming those to act for first year; name of place in county where principal office is to be kept, and other counties, if any, in which business is to be carried on; and, if desired, conferring power on directors to make by-laws. If part of the business is to be done outside of the State, certificates should so state, giving names of places and counties in both states selected for business. Secretary's fee, ten dollars, where capital does not exceed one hundred thousand dollars, over that amount, for each one thousand dollars additional, ten cents; recorder's fee, nominal—for filing.

The certificate may be amended at the annual or a special meeting of stockholders, called by the president, and held under advertised notice of such purpose. Holders of one-third the stock may have such meeting called.

II. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are individually liable for corporate debts, to the extent of their respective arrearages on stock; but executors, trustees and holders as collateral are free from such liability—and executors or trustees may represent stock at meetings.

III. DIRECTORS:

Directors serve without compensation, unless the certificate of incorporation provides for it. It is not essential that the directors originally named be of the body of incorporators. By-laws regulate elections subsequent to organization, and provide for filling casual vacancies in the board of directors. In the election of directors, a stockholder may cast a cumulative vote for one of several candidates.

With the president, directors must make and swear to certificates of paid-up stock, after last installment is paid, and file one with the Secretary of State, and one with the county recorder; and must make and file in the recorder's office, within sixty days from January first of each year, a report of capital and amount paid in, and of debts, under the corporate seal, signed by the president and verified by the president or secretary—unless, as shown by certificate aforementioned, all stock has been issued and paid for. Failure in this subjects the directors to individual liability for corporate debts previously contracted. A dividend declared under conditions of insolvency, or in diminution of capital stock, subjects the directors to like liability for all debts.

IV. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

The secretary must keep a book showing the amount of stock actually paid for, whether in property or cash, with an alphabetical list of stockholders, their places of residence, number of shares respectively owned, date on which same were acquired, and date at which ownership ceased. Directors must provide and have kept cash book and other books showing business transactions. Transfers must be recorded within sixty days or be inoperative, but failure to record will not relieve the actual holder from liability (if any) for debts.

Under penalty, officers must exhibit to stockholders, upon written demand, any company records in their custody; and the secretary must keep transfer book open during business hours to the inspection of stockholders, creditors, or their representatives; and the secretary, cashier or treasurer, once in six months, shall make a statement of company affairs, if requested by owner or owners of fifteen per cent of the total stock.

No corporation may purchase its own stock, except under forfeiture for non-payment of assessment; but a corporation may, with stock, purchase any necessary property, the same to be fully set out in report of paid-up stock.

Failure to satisfy any execution within ten days, may work dissolution. If there be no debts, a two-thirds vote of entire stock may effect dissolution, if so cast at a meeting held under duly advertised notice of such purpose; and by filing notice of such action as original certificate was filed, and publishing such notice six weeks in a newspaper in each county. Or dissolution may be effected under equity jurisdiction duly invoked.

The right to a particular corporate name is exclusive.

Corporations may consolidate without affecting their status, as parties in suits pending.

Notice of the annual meeting of stockholders to elect directors must be published not less than ten days prior, in the newspaper nearest the place of business.

Deed conveying real estate must be under the common seal, signed by the president and by him acknowledged to be the act of the corporation, or by attorney under written power acknowledged and recorded, all, presumably, under authority of directors.

Summons is served in the county where the business is carried on, by copy to president, if found; or, in order named, secretary, treasurer, cashier, general agent or stockholder. If none such be found in the county, then the process may be run to the sheriff of any county where either may be found. If there be no principal office, suit may be brought in any county where any officer may be found.

A corporation forfeits its charter by attempting to influence votes or by any interference with elections in the State.

V. FOR MINING, ETC.:

General provisions apply, but the number of directors cannot exceed nine. Certificates of incorporation must state stock to be assessable or non-assessable (cannot be both), and one such certificate must be filed in each county in which the property of the company is situate. On the face of each stock certificate must be plainly printed "assessable" or "non-assessable," as the case may be. But an assessable company may purchase mining property and provide capital, by issuing stock non-assessable until the balance or whole amount of stock shall have been assessed to par value or fully paid up; all stock then becoming ratably assessable for operations. For corporations formed prior to April 3rd, 1891, assessments are restricted to five per cent on par value, once in three months, to be made by directors only after special meeting of stockholders authorizing the same.

The law of 1891 provides, however, that, "in all mining companies or corporations hereafter formed," with assessable stock, directors shall have full power to levy not exceeding ten per cent, payable immediately, and do other acts deemed for the best interests of the stockholders or necessary to the development of the property. It is also provided that stock becomes delinquent in thirty days, and may then be advertised thirty days in a daily, or, if none, five weeks in a weekly newspaper published at the place of business and where the mine is situate; or, failing newspapers, by a notice conspicuously posted five weeks at both places; and twenty days after such period of notice, the secretary may sell sufficient of the delinquent stock to pay the assessment and costs. The secretary, within five days after such assessment, must notify stockholders by mail to the last known address, of the date, amount, time delinquent and sales day of such assessment. No subsequent assessment is permissible until thirty days after the sales day. The directors cannot encumber the mines or plant without an authorizing vote of the stockholders.

VI. PIPE LINE COMPANIES:

Pipe line companies must show in certificate of incorporation the places to and from which line will run, and the general route. A certificate incorporating a ditch company must specify the stream from which water is to be taken, point where taken out, location of any reservoir, route of ditch as near as may be, and use to which water is to be applied. A ditch company, by so providing in certificate, may take stock in telephone companies affording it special facilities for transacting its business.

VII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

To avoid individual liability of officers, agents and stockholders, foreign corporations must file with the Secretary of State a copy of charter, or copy of general incorporation law with certificate thereunder, such copy of law to be properly authenticated; and must file with the Secretary of State and copy thereof with county recorder, certificate of the president and secretary, designating the principal place of business in the State, and the agent residing there upon whom process may be served. Such corporations are limited to powers and subject to restrictions, liabilities and duties of like domestic corporations—which would appear to make it incumbent upon them to file statements and certificates, and follow all requirements of general corporation law.

No mortgages made by such corporation upon property within the State for debt created out of the State, shall operate in precedence of claims of resident creditors, except under notice of intention so to mortgage published six weeks in a newspaper in the county where property is situate, or five publicly posted notices for a like time, requesting residents to file verified claims with the county clerk—and mortgage then takes effect against those failing so to file.

MINING.

I. LOCATION AND RECORD:

A location certificate must state name of lode and locator, date of location, number of feet in length on each side of center of discovery shaft, and general course of lode as near as may be, complying, of course, with all requirements of United States law. Claims must be filed in recorder's office of the county, within three months after fixing and sinking discovery shaft, for which sixty days are first allowed. Claims may be fifteen hundred feet in length and three hundred feet in width, except in Gilpin, Clear Creek, Boulder and Summit counties, where width is one hundred and fifty feet.

II. DISCOVERY SHAFT:

Discovery shaft must be ten feet deep from lowest part of rim at surface, and must show a well-defined crevice exposing mineral-bearing rock. An open cut or tunnel exposing lode, or a ten-foot adit along lode, is equivalent.

III. STAKES AND LINES:

The location stake should bear notice showing plainly name of lode and locator and date of discovery. There should be two substantial center stakes, at middle point of each side line, hewed to plane on inner side, and four corner stakes hewed on the two inner sides. If angles occur on side lines, such hewed stakes should be hewed at each angle. The owner may at any time relocate and obtain additional benefits not in conflict with other rights. Affidavit of annual labor, filed within six months after completion, is prima facie evidence of its performance, but failure so to file is not abandonment. Location is held to include all surface ground within lines, the lodes and ledges to entire depth vertically at ends, and continuing by dip beyond side lines where apex is within surface lines.

IV. QUARRIES, ETC.:

Stone quarries, oil land, kaolin, borax beds and asphaltum, as well as mineral-bearing ground, may be located as placers; and certificate, to be recorded within thirty days after discovery, must give name of claim, to be designated as "placer," name of locator, date of location, number of acres or feet claimed, and description to identify. The locator must post a plain notice containing said items, with date of discovery, and must mark surface boundaries by substantial posts at each corner.

V. MINERS' LIENS:

Miners and material men have assured lien, when dealing direct with owners; but, under the act of April 13th, 1895, there is some question as to the lien when mine is worked by lessees. The act requires the aid of judicial construction. Where lien attaches, its operation extends to all appurtenances.

VI. INSPECTION OF COAL MINES:

Coal mines employing more than ten men must be regularly and officially inspected with reference to ventilation, escape shafts, boilers, signals, hoisting machinery, etc., and the frequent inspection by skilled bosses is also required. Severe penalties follow non-compliance.

VII. DRAINAGE:

Owners of adjacent developed mines having common ingress of water, must proportionately provide for drainage, the one having right of recovery in event of the other failing. Parties hoisting lose control of water when it reaches a natural water course.

VIII. GENERAL PROVISIONS:

An owner of surface on claim subject to a separate mining right, may require security from the miner.

For taxation, unproductive patented claims are usually assessed at five hundred dollars.

All claims producing in excess of one thousand dollars per annum are subject to assessment not exceeding one-fifth of gross proceeds.

Ore dealers, shippers, samplers and reducers must keep detailed record of each lot of ore.

There are several penal laws for using false scales, passing "debased" gold dust, "salting," removing stakes or monuments and the jumping of claims by stealth or violence by two or more persons in combination.

Condemnation may be had for right of way over any mine, for ditch or flume for mining purposes, or for any tramway or pack trail.

The product of oil wells must be kept from natural water courses.

There are United States land offices at Denver, Pueblo, Durango, Leadville, Glenwood Springs, Montrose, Gunnison, Sterling, Hugo, Del Norte, Lamar, Akron and Central City.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Deeds of land must be in writing, subscribed and sealed by the grantor, attested by two witnesses, and acknowledged by the grantor to be his free act and deed, if in this State, before a judge of a court of record of this State or of the United States, justice of the peace, commissioner of the school fund, commissioner of the Superior Court, clerk of the Superior Court or Court of Common Pleas or District Court, notary public, town clerk or assistant town clerk; if in any other state or territory of the United States, before a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State and residing therein, or any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of deeds in such state or territory; and if in a foreign country, before any consul of the United States or notary public or justice of the peace in such foreign country.

II. ALIENS:

Non-resident aliens are subject to common law disabilities as to holding real estate, except as hereafter stated; resident aliens, "and any citizen of France, so long as France shall accord the same right to citizens of the United States," may purchase, hold, inherit and transmit real estate as fully as citizens.

A non-resident alien may acquire and hold real estate for the purpose of quarrying, mining, dressing and smelting ores; but if such use shall cease for ten years, such real estate shall be forfeited to the person from whom it was last acquired, or his heirs, if resident in the United States, or if not, to the State. A non-resident alien, holding real estate as above, may convey or transmit the same by inheritance, as freely as a citizen.

Non-resident, as above used, means not residing within the United States.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Voluntary assignments in insolvency can be made by any debtor to a trustee of his own selection, subject to the substitution of another by the Probate Court, if deemed proper. Assigning debtor must lodge with Court of Probate, within five days after assignment, a list verified under oath of his creditors and schedule of his property.

A creditor for over one hundred dollars, having brought suit and finding no property to attach, may apply to the Probate Court for the appointment of a trustee in insolvency of the debtor's estate. A hearing is had, and, if the petition is granted, trustee takes all debtor's estate not exempt; and all incomplete levies or attachments on mesne process commenced within sixty days previous, are dissolved. Three to six months are allowed to prove claims, which are passed upon by commissioners appointed for that purpose. The debtor receives an allowance for his support and that of his family, and if the estate pays seventy per cent of all claims proved, he obtains a full discharge.

All debts due any laborer or mechanic for personal wages for labor performed within three months next preceding the assignment are to be paid in full to the amount of one hundred dollars, before the general liabilities of the debtor are paid.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Attachment is served by attaching goods or lands of defendant, or, if none be found, by attaching the person when liable. Non-resident plaintiff must furnish bond for costs. Goods concealed in hands of agents, or debts due to the defendant, are reached by foreign attachment, which takes the place of garnishment.

Mesne attachment is regularly made on the institution of a suit, and no affidavit or special allegations to justify attachment is needed.

Debtors may be arrested in actions for fraud or torts, and can give bail to the officer making the arrest, for their appearance before the court to which the writ for arrest is returnable. A debtor committed to jail on civil process can be released on taking an oath that he has not any real or personal estate in possession, reversion or remainder, of the value of seventeen dollars in the whole, or sufficient to pay the demand for which he is imprisoned, except what is by law exempted from being taken on execution; and that he has not, directly or indirectly, sold, or otherwise disposed of, all or any part of his estate, thereby to secure the same, or to receive or expect any profit or advantage therefrom, or to defraud or deceive his creditors. The debtor will not be released if his oath is overcome by rebutting evidence.

Conditional sales of personal property, except household furniture, musical instruments, and exempt property, must be in writing, acknowledged before competent authority, and recorded in the town clerk's office of the town where vendee resided. No conditional sales not so made are valid, except as between the parties and their personal representatives; and the property may be taken on attachment or execution against the vendee.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Courts of Probate having jurisdiction of estate of deceased or insolvent persons, fix a time for the presentation of claims, and appoint commissioners to receive and pass on claims. The limitation is usually three months for estates in insolvency, and six months for estates of deceased persons. Notice is given by mail to all known creditors.

No formality is necessary in presenting claims. A sworn bill of items is sufficient, unless the claim is disputed. In that case, the commissioners appoint a hearing on its allowance. Appeals from the allowance or disallowance of a claim by commissioners may be taken (if the claim exceed fifty dollars) within one month after the acceptance of their report, to the Superior Court of the county.

In settlement of the estates of deceased persons not represented as insolvent (estates of business men are almost always so represented), claims are presented directly to the executor or administrator. If he disallows a claim, suit must be brought against him within four months after written notice is given of such disallowance.

VI. COURTS AND FEES:

The Superior Court holds one term per year in each county for the trial of civil causes, and has jurisdiction in all law and equity cases exceeding five hundred dollars. Court of Common Pleas in Hartford, Fairfield, New London and New Haven counties, has exclusive law and equity jurisdiction above one hundred dollars and below five hundred dollars, and concurrent jurisdiction with the Superior Court above five hundred dollars and up to one thousand dollars; and in Litchfield county has exclusive jurisdiction up to one thousand dollars.

Not less than four terms each year are held in each of the counties named, and there are City Courts in many of the cities, and a District Court at Waterbury, with limited civil jurisdiction.

Probate Courts deal with the settlement of estates and insolvency proceedings; and justices of the peace have civil jurisdiction up to one hundred dollars.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions in another state to be used here may be taken before a notary public, commissioner appointed by the Governor of Connecticut, or any magistrate having power to administer oaths; but reasonable notice must be given to the adverse party or his known agent or attorney to be present. The magistrate must administer the oath to the witness, and require him to sign the deposition, and shall attest the oath, and certify that the adverse party was present (if so), or was notified, and shall certify the reason for taking the deposition (as that the opponent resided without the State of Connecticut), seal it, direct it to the court where it is to be used, and may then deliver it to the party taking it.

Any deposition written, drawn up, or dictated by the party, his attorney, or any interested person, or the seal of which has been broken, shall be rejected. Five dollars is taxed to the prevailing party for each deposition taken out of the State

Any judge, justice of the peace, notary public, or commissioner of the Superior Court in this State, on the application of a commissioner duly authorized to take a deposition for use in another state, may issue a subpoena or capias to compel the appearance of a witness before such commissioner; and may commit him to prison for refusal to appear and testify until he shall comply.

VIII. DESCENT:

Husband and wife married before 1877 have dower and curtesy as at common law. Those married since 1877 (April 20th) take each one-third for life of real or personal property left by the other, which cannot be taken away by will. If there is no will, they take one-third absolutely, and if no children, one-half absolutely. If an intestate estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, the surviving wife takes it all.

All remaining property, real and personal, goes: 1. To the children, if any, in equal proportions. 2. To brothers and sisters of the whole blood, or their descendants. 3. To parent or parents. 4. To brothers and sisters of the half blood, or their descendants. 5. To the next of kin generally.

IX. EMINENT DOMAIN:

All municipal and many quasi-public corporations (as railroads, water companies, cemetery associations, etc.), are given the power of eminent domain. Mill-owners are also given the right, if they desire to overflow the land of others by a dam, or to build race-ways or tail-races, for the benefit of such mill, and not injuring any other mill-privilege, to bring a petition to the Superior Court which, if its committee find the work to be of public use, may establish the height and location of such race-ways, and fix the compensation to be paid therefor (Gen. St. 1888, ch. 84). This act has been held constitutional (34 Conn., 78), but a similar act, giving the right of eminent domain for the benefit of ice ponds was held inoperative, and its constitutionality questioned (65 Conn., 316).

X. EXECUTIONS:

Issue from the court rendering a money judgment. In case of actions of tort, they run against the body. They must be returned in sixty days, but alias executions may issue indefinitely. They may be levied on real or personal property, after demand and refusal of payment.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

Comprise necessary furniture and apparel; implements of the debtor's trade; all pension moneys in the petitioner's hands or in bank; his library to the value of five hundred dollars; specified quantities of various supplies; the horse, harness, saddle, bridle and buggy of a physician.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

Any interest is lawful. Six per cent is collectible in the absence of any agreement as to the rate.

XIII. JUDGMENT:

If personal service is made on a defendant within this State, judgment may be rendered by default unless he appear by the third day of the term.

If the defendant be a non-resident, and does not make appearance, and the court does not find that he had notice of the pendency of the suit, the court must continue the case three months, and make such order of notice as it deems best; and if he do not then appear, and is so remote that it is not probable that he has received notice, the case is again continued three months; at the end of which time, judgment may be rendered by default; but the plaintiff, before taking execution, must give a bond to refund the amount collected, if the court afterward find that he had no right to the judgment.

Confessions of judgment are not allowed by our practice, and judgment issues only in a regular action.

XIV. LIENS:

Any person furnishing materials or rendering services in the construction or repair of any building to a value exceeding twenty-five dollars may, by lodging with the town clerk a sworn certificate, in form prescribed by the statute, within sixty days from ceasing to so render services or furnish material, obtain a lien on the building and the land on which it stands, which will take precedence of any incumbrance arising after the commencement of such services or furnishing of material.

Sub-contractors can take advantage of this statute only by notifying the owner in writing of their intention to claim a lien within sixty days from the commencement of their claim. This notice, with return of service, must be recorded in the town clerk's office. (Rev. St. 1888, §§ 3018-3021.) Sub-contractors' liens are subject to all rights of the owner for payments made in good faith, before receipt of notice.

The holder of any unsatisfied judgment, by filing a certificate in the prescribed form in the town clerk's office for record, obtains a judgment lien on the debtor's real estate.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

The period of obtaining real estate titles by possession or prescription is fifteen years. Ordinary contracts "outlaw" in six years; specialties and non-negotiable paper in seventeen years.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

Women married since 1877 have the right to contract, buy or sell, and hold property, real or personal, sue and be sued, as if unmarried.

XVII. MILLS—WATER-RIGHTS:

Any owner or intending owner of a mill is given the right of eminent domain, to be exercised by petition to the Superior Court and appointment of an appraising committee, to flow the land of others by a dam on his own land or to dig ditches to conduct water to his mill, or discharge ditches from the same over the land of others, or to deepen existing ditches. Rights of existing mills are fully protected from injury by such proceedings. The damage to be paid is that found by the appraising committee, plus fifty per cent. (Rev. St. 1888, §§ 1216-1217.) [See "IX. Eminent Domain."]

Mortgages of real estate are commonly foreclosed by a strict foreclosure, so-called, the mortgaged land becoming the property of the mortgagee after a period of redemption fixed by the court. The foreclosure operates as a payment of the note, unless an appraisal of the property is made in the foreclosure proceeding, and a balance remains due after applying the appraised amount on the note. Foreclosure by sale may be ordered by the court.

Chattel mortgages are invalid without actual delivery of possession to and retention by the mortgagee; but mortgages of "any manufacturing or mechanical establishment, together with the machinery, engines or implements situated or used therein," or of such personal property, without the real estate, or of several other classes of chattels expressly enumerated, may be valid without delivery of possession if executed and recorded like deeds of real estate. (Rev. St. 1888, § 3016.)

Days of grace are abolished, and notes falling due on holidays mature the next business day. Public holidays are (beside Sundays) January 1st, February 22d, Good Friday or Fast Day, May 30th, July 4th, the first Monday of September (Labor Day), October 15th (Lincoln Day), Thanksgiving Day and December 25th (Christmas Day). Saturday is a half-holiday.

Demand negotiable notes are overdue after four months from their date. The blank endorsement of a negotiable or non-negotiable note, by a person who is neither its maker or payee, before or after indorsement by the payee, imports the same contract as an ordinary indorsement of negotiable paper, as between the indorser and the payee or subsequent holders.

XX. SUITS:

Suits at law claiming less than one hundred dollars are brought before justices of the peace, who hold office in every town. Suits for larger amounts are brought before City Courts, Courts of Common Pleas, or the Superior Court, according to the amount of the demand and location of the parties. No equitable action can be brought before a justice of the peace. Appeal lies from justices to the Courts of Common Pleas (in most of the counties), and from all the higher courts appeals for errors of law only lie to the Supreme Court of Errors.

A non-resident plaintiff must give bond for costs (ten dollars if a justice suit, forty dollars if to a higher court is the usual amount).

Civil cases are tried to the court without a jury, unless one of the parties asks for a jury trial.

XXI. TAXES:

Tax-lists are made in October, as of the first of October, and taxes are payable differently in different towns; usually April 1st. After one month, nine per cent interest is collected. Taxes have a lien on real estate for the amount assessed on such real estate, which takes precedence of all other incumbrances. Demand must be made by mail on non-residents, if their residence is known. Unpaid taxes may be collected by levy and sale, or by foreclosure of the tax lien. In the former case, the tax title may be defeated by redemption within one year from the sale.

XXII. WAGES:

Are preferred to the extent of one hundred dollars earned within three months preceding insolvency. They are exempt to the amount of fifty dollars from factorizing process, except for board.

XXIII. WILLS:

Wills may be made by all persons eighteen years of age. They must be in writing, subscribed by the testator, and witnessed by three persons, all subscribing in his presence, and in presence of each other. Marriage of, or birth of a child to the testator operates as a revocation, unless provided for in the will. After-acquired real estate is devised by proviso conveying all the testator's real estate. Wills executed according to the laws of the state where they were made are valid in this State.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any three persons, by written agreement, stating the name, purpose, location, capital stock and the names and shares of each stockholder, may form a joint-stock corporation for any lawful business in this State, "and out of this State, whatever business may be incidental to the business within it." Such business shall not be trust, insurance, buying and selling real estate, banking or trading in bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness, or trafficking in letters patent or patent rights. The name must begin with "the" and end with "company" or "corporation." The shares must be of the par value of one hundred dollars, fifty dollars or twenty-five dollars.

The articles of association must be published at full length in a newspaper published in the county of location, and a copy thereof, with a certificate of its publication, the names and residences of the subscribers, the stock taken by each, the amount actually paid in in cash, and the amount in property, with schedules thereof, must be made, signed and sworn to by a majority of the directors and recorded in the offices of the Secretary of State and of the town clerk in the town of location.

II. STOCK AND REPORTS:

No business can be done until the entire stock is subscribed, and at least twenty per cent paid in in cash. Annual reports showing stock paid in, value of real estate, value of personal estate, excluding patents, debts, credits, name, residence, and number of shares of each stockholder, must be filed with the town clerk and Secretary of State. (Rev. St. 1888, §§ 1944-1948.)

III. INCORPORATION FEES:

No application to the General Assembly for a charter for a corporation to perform its principal business outside the State shall be heard until the applicants have paid to the Treasurer of the State one hundred dollars; and before beginning business they shall pay such farther sum, not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, as the State Board of Equalization shall determine. This is in lieu of all franchise tax but not of tax on property or on the shares of stockholders within this State. (Rev. St. 1888, §§ 1912-1916.)

MINING.

I. ALIENS:

There is almost an entire absence of either legislation or judicial decision in regard to mining and quarrying in Connecticut. Non-resident aliens who (except citizens of France) are incapable of holding real estate for other purposes, may acquire and hold real estate for the purpose of quarrying, mining, dressing or smelting ores, or "converting the products of such quarries and mines into articles of trade or commerce;" but shall forfeit their title if such land ceases for ten consecutive years to be used for such purposes. (Rev. St. 1888, § 16.)

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ASSIGNMENTS:

In every case of voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors, it is the duty of the assignee to, within thirty days, file in the office of the register in Chancery an inventory or schedule of the estates and effects so assigned, accompanied with an affidavit by such assignee that the same is a full and complete inventory to the best of his knowledge.

If a joint debtor pays the whole he is entitled to such assignment to enable him to recover a proper proportion of the money paid. (R. S., Chap. 187.)

II. ATTACHMENTS:

Wages cannot be attached in this State.

A writ of domestic attachment may issue against an inhabitant of this State, after the return to a summons or a capias issued and delivered to the sheriff or coroner ten days before the return thereof, showing that the defendant cannot be found and proof satisfactory to the court of the cause of action; or upon affidavit made by the plaintiff or some other credible person and filed with the prothonotary, that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding fifty dollars, and has absconded from the place of his usual abode or gone out of the State with intent to defraud his creditors or to elude process.

A writ of foreign attachment may issue against any person not an inhabitant of this State after the return to a summons or capias issued or delivered to the sheriff or coroner ten days before the return thereof, and showing that the defendant cannot be found and proof satisfactory to the court of the cause of action; or upon affidavit made by the plaintiff or some other credible person and filed with the prothonotary that the defendant resides out of the State and is justly indebted to the said plaintiff in a sum exceeding fifty dollars. (R. S., Chap. 104.)

III. COURT FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public, justice or clerk of court	$ .50
Attachment: from $5 to	10.00
Appeal: contingent.
Commencement of suit in Justice Court	5.00
Commencement of suit in court of record	10.00
Incorporation	25.00
License for mining: none.
Mandamus	5.00
Probate	5.00
Record: for mortgage	1.75
For deed	2.00
Sheriff: contingent.
Witness: mileage, and per day	1.00

IV. DEPOSITIONS:

In cases before justices of the peace, where there is a material witness out of the county whose attendance it is not practicable to procure, the justice may make a rule that his deposition should be taken before a commissioner named by him.

V. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per centum per annum; and if any person shall directly or indirectly take for the loan or use of money more than that amount he shall forfeit and pay to anyone who will sue for the same a sum equal to the money loaned, one-half for the use of the person so suing, and the other one-half for the use of the State.

If any bank incorporated by any law of this State shall engage in any transaction the amount of profit of which shall exceed the rate of one per cent for sixty days, such bank shall be deemed and taken to have forfeited its charter; and the directors or managers of the bank shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined at the discretion of the court.

VI. JUDGMENTS:

A judgment binds lands only from the time of actually entering or signing it; and binds only the land in the county where it is recorded.

When plaintiff is a non-resident and has had notice to appear and accept satisfaction of a judgment of the defendant, and fails to do so for the space of thirty days, the defendant may deposit the amount due in the Farmers' Bank of the State of Delaware, subject to the order of the plaintiff, and upon certificates from the cashier of said bank, the proper officer of the court shall make satisfaction of the judgment on the record.

VII. LIMITATIONS:

No action of trespass, replevin, detinue, debt not found upon a record or specialty, account, assumpsit, nor action of the case can be brought after the expiration of three years from the accruing of the cause of action.

A clear and unequivocal acknowledgment of a debt will revive a debt the same. All actions for the recovery of real property may be brought within twenty years from the accruing of such cause of action. (R. S., Chap. 123.)

VIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

All the real and personal property of any married woman which she may acquire in any manner whatsoever from any person other than her husband, shall be her sole and separate property. Any married woman may receive the wages of her own personal labor and maintain an action therefor in her own name; and hold them in her own right against her husband or any other person, and may deposit the same to her own name in any bank.

IX. MORTGAGES:

There is no equity of redemption when real property is sold on execution. There is no power of sale contained in the mortgages in common use, but they are foreclosed by legal process. A mortgage has priority according to the date of record in the proper office, without respect to the time of its being sealed and delivered; and shall be a lien from the date of recording and not before. A purchase money mortgage must be recorded within thirty days after making it, in order to give it preference to any judgment against the mortgagor, or any other lien created by him of a date prior to such mortgage.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Under State laws, any three or more persons may become incorporated for the purpose of carrying on any manufacturing business, preserving animal and vegetable food, draining low lands, for building and loan associations, and for charitable, religious and literary purposes; but in practice, most of the Delaware corporations are chartered by a special act of the Legislature. No corporation can be so chartered except by the concurrence of two-thirds of each branch of the Legislature. When so incorporated, the act itself defines the powers, rights and liabilities of the corporation, so far as its provisions express.

The mode of incorporation prescribed by the general act, is for the persons to prepare a certificate, which shall set forth: 1. The corporate name. 2. The object of the corporation and the location of the principal place of business. 3. The amount of capital stock, the number and par value of shares, and the amount to be paid in before commencing business, which shall not be less than ten per cent of the whole capital; this not applying, however, to religious, charitable and literary corporations. 4. The name and residence of the original subscribers to the capital stock, or, if there be no stock, of the original corporators; a majority of whom must be bona fide residents of Delaware. 5. The periods at which the corporation shall commence and terminate, not exceeding twenty years. 6. The value of real and personal estate of which the corporation may become seized and possessed.

The certificate may also contain any limitation upon the powers of the corporation, the directors and the stockholders which may be desired by the parties signing the same. Said certificate must be signed by the original corporators, or a majority of them, and acknowledged before any officer authorized by the laws of this State to take acknowledgments of deeds. The certificate must then be approved as to form, contents, object and legality by the resident judge of the county where the principal place of business is to be located, who endorses thereon his approval and transmits the certificate so endorsed to the Secretary of State, to be filed in his office; and a copy of the same, furnished and certified by the said secretary, under his hand and seal of his office, must then be recorded in the recorder's office of the county where the application is made. The subscribers are thus incorporated for the time limited in the charter, not exceeding twenty years, but the legislature may at pleasure dissolve any corporation created by virtue of the act, or alter and amend its charter; which also, upon expiration of the corporate term, may be renewed by the legislature.

Notice of intention to apply for incorporation must be published daily (if there be a daily paper published in the county), in two newspapers in the county where shall be the corporation's place of business, for at least ten days immediately prior to the application.

II. POWERS:

Unless inconsistent with the express provisions of its charter, every Delaware corporation has the usual powers of succession by its corporate name, and also: 1. To sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity. 2. To make and use a common seal. 3. To hold, purchase, mortgage and convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, not exceeding the amount limited in its charter; and all other real estate which shall have been bona fide mortgaged to the said company by way of security or conveyed to them in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of dealing, or purchased by it upon judgment or decree obtained for said debts. 4. To appoint such subordinate officers and agents as the business of the corporation shall require; make by-laws not inconsistent with the laws of the United States or of this State; and elect a board of directors for the management of its property, regulation and government of its affairs, and transfer of its stock. 5. To wind up or dissolve itself, or to be wound up and dissolved.

Banking powers are expressly withheld from these corporations; and provisions have been enacted holding the directors personally liable for declaring dividends, except out of the net profits or for loaning part of the capital to the officers or stockholders.

The franchise of a corporation may be sold upon execution process the same as the property of a corporation.

III. DISSOLUTION.

A company can dissolve itself by action of its stockholders at a meeting called for that purpose, fully advertised, and upon notice sent to each stockholder, but there must be a two-thirds affirmative vote of those in interest. Failure to elect officers annually will not work a dissolution.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Are not entitled to letters of administration. No person who is not or who has not declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States; no corporation not created by or under the laws of the United States or of some state or territory thereof; and no corporation or association, more than twenty per centum of the stock of which is owned by persons, corporations or associations not citizens of the United States, may acquire, hold or own real estate or any interest therein acquired since March 3d, 1887, except such as may be acquired by individuals by inheritance, or in the course of justice in the collection of debts created before that date, and except (in the case of individuals) in cases in which the right is secured by treaty (24 Stats. 476); but this law does not relate to the ownership of legations or the ownership of residences by representatives of foreign governments or attaches thereof. (25 Stats. 45.) Personal property is distributed according to the laws of this District, no matter in what country the next of kin resides. Aliens, who are citizens or subjects of any government which accords to citizens of the United States the right to prosecute claims against such government in its courts, shall have the privilege of prosecuting such claims against the United States in the Court of Claims, whereof such court by reason of the subject matter and character, might take jurisdiction. (Rev. Stats. U. S., Sec. 1068.)

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Voluntary assignments for the benefit of creditors may be made, but no preferences are allowed. An inventory is made under oath, of the property of the debtor, and a list of his creditors with their respective residences and the amount of each demand must be attached. Such inventory is not conclusive as to the amount of debtor's estate. Assignee must be a resident of the District and the assignment must be acknowedged and recorded. Any creditor may, in equity, attack an assignment as made to delay, hinder or defraud creditors, without first reducing his debt to judgment. No insolvent law. An execution delivered to the marshal and not returned will not be affected by the debtor's assignment.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Writs of attachment and garnishment are issued at the commencement of or during pendency of a suit; when the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, files an affidavit, supported by the testimony of one or more witnesses, showing grounds upon which same is based, and that defendant is: 1. A non-resident of the District. 2. Evades the service of ordinary process by concealing himself or withdrawing from the District temporarily. 3. Has removed, or is about to remove, some of his property from the District, so as to defeat a just demand against him; or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted; or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete property with intent to defraud his creditors. Plaintiff shall also file bond, to be approved by the clerk of the court, to make good all costs and damages defendant may sustain by wrongful suing out of the attachment. Attachment can be discharged by defendant giving approved bond to pay final judgment. Suit may be brought before an attachment can issue; and attaching creditors are paid in full according to the date of their respective attachments.

Interrogatories in writing, with a copy of the rule of court concerning the attachment, may be served on the garnishee at time of service of attachment; or at any time. Answer thereto, under oath, must be filed within ten days; otherwise judgment may be taken against the garnishee.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against the estates of deceased persons must be presented to the Orphans' Court, accompanied by the affidavit of the claimant, that the claim is just and true, and that no part of the same, nor any security therefor, has been received except what (if any) has been credited. When a claim is passed by the court, the personal representative of the decedent must pay it or such part of it as the funds in his hands will admit. When the decedent left insufficient personalty to discharge his obligations, and left real estate, a creditor can proceed against such real estate by a creditor's bill without having obtained a judgment at law. If a creditor be the executor or administrator, he must make oath that it does not appear from any books or writing of his testator or intestate that any part of said claim has been discharged, except what is credited, and that, to the best of deponent's knowledge and belief, no part of said claim has been discharged, and no security or satisfaction given for the same except what is credited. (Maryland Act, 1798.)

V. COURTS:

The Court of Appeals of the District consists of a chief justice and two associate justices; and has appellate jurisdiction of final orders, decrees, etc., and interlocutory orders affecting the possession of property, of the Supreme Court. It has jurisdiction also of appeals from the commissioner of patents. Writs of error and appeal lie to the Supreme Court of the United States in all cases in which the amount in dispute, exclusive of costs, exceeds five thousand dollars; or in which is involved the validity of any treaty or statute or of any authority exercised under the United States; and also when the validity of any patent or copyright is in question. (Act of February 9, 1893; 27 Stat., 434.)

The Supreme Court of the District consists of six justices; and has general jurisdiction in law and equity, and possesses the powers and jurisdiction exercised by the Circuit Courts of the United States. It sits in general term, held by not less than two justices, but has no jurisdiction to hear appeals from a special term; and in special terms is known as the Circuit Court, Orphans' Court, Equity Court and Criminal Court. It also holds a District Court of the United States for said District. It has power to establish, revise and alter rules of practice; and may issue mandamus to heads of executive departments.

Justices of the peace have jurisdiction of all civil cases, including attachment and replevin, when the amount claimed or property sought to be recovered shall not exceed three hundred dollars, except in cases involving the title to real estate, actions to recover damages for assault, for malicious prosecutions, for slander verbal or written, for breach of promise, or actions against officers for misconduct in office. Their jurisdiction is exclusive and original up to one hundred dollars, and concurrent with the Supreme Court up to three hundred dollars.

VI. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public, justice or clerk of court	$ .50
Attachment: deposit	5.00
For service on each defendant	1.00
Appeal: to Circuit Court from justice of the peace	5.00
Commencement of suit in Justice Court: deposit	3.00
Commencement of suit in court of record: deposit	10.00
Service on each defendant	1.00
Incorporation: nominal, simply filing fee of articles according to length.
Mandamus: deposit	10.00
Protest: 10 cents for each notice, and	1.75
Record: for each instrument containing 200 words or less	.50
Each additional 100 words	.15
Marshal: same as United States marshal.
Witness: mileage 5 cents, and per day	1.50

VII. DEEDS:

Acknowledgments of deeds within the United States may be made before any judge of a court of record and of law; chancellor of a state, or judge of the Supreme, Circuit, District or Territorial Courts of the United States; and any justice of the peace, notary public, or commissioner of the Circuit Court of the District appointed for that purpose. Where acknowledgments are made beyond the limits of the District, and within the United States, such must be accompanied with prescribed certificate of authority of officer taking the same. Deeds made in foreign countries may be executed and acknowledged before any judge or chancellor of any court, master or master extraordinary in chancery, or notary public; or before any secretary of legation or consular officer of the United States; except when taken before a secretary of legation or consular officer of the United States, the authority of officer taking the same must be certified to as aforesaid. There are no statutory requirements as to witnesses.

Any title, bond, or other written contract in relation to land, may be proved, acknowledged, certified and recorded in the same manner as are deeds; and when delivered to the recorder for record, is notice to all subsequent purchasers of the existence of the same. When a married woman is a party with her husband to any deed, she must be examined in relation thereto by the officer taking the acknowledgment, privily and apart from her husband. All deeds, deeds of trust, mortgages, conveyances, covenants, agreements or any instrument of writing which by law is entitled to be recorded, shall take effect and be valid as to creditors and subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration, without notice, from the time when such deed shall, after having been acknowledged, approved or certified, be delivered to the recorder of deeds for record, and from that time only.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

May be taken out of the District under the Maryland Act of 1773, which requires appointment of commissioners therefor upon application in open court; or under the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the United States (Title 13, Chap. 17); or under the rules of practice of the Supreme Court of the District, whereby the testimony of non-resident witnesses can be taken on written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, before an examiner appointed by the court, unless for special cause the court directs that the testimony be taken orally.

In a suit depending in any state, territorial or foreign court, the testimony of any witness found in the District may be taken upon a commission issued from such court, or upon notice to the same effect given according to rules of practice.

IX. DESCENT:

Real property of an intestate descends: 1. To child or children, and their descendants, equally. 2. If estate descended to the intestate on the part of the father, then to the father. 3. To brothers and sisters of the intestate of the blood of the father, and their descendants, equally. 4. To the grandfather in paternal line, and his descendants, equally, and so on ad infinitum, in ascendant and collateral order. 5. If no paternal ancestor or descendant from such, then to the mother of the intestate, and her line in the same manner. If the estate descended to the intestate on the part of the mother, then it follows the mother's line, and afterwards, that of the father, as above directed. When estate is vested in intestate by purchase, it descends, failing children or descendant, to brothers and sisters, and their descendants; failing these, to ascendant and collateral order in the paternal and maternal lines alternately. In absence of these, said estate goes to surviving husband or wife, and if such be dead, to their kindred, substantially as before.

Personal property of an intestate, after payment of debts and expenses of administration, goes wholly to the widow in absence of child, parent, grandchild, brother or sister or descendant of such last; if there be a child or children, or descendants of such, the widow has one-third only. If there be no such child or descendant, but father, mother, brother or sister, or child of such brother or sister, the widow has one-half. The surplus, exclusive of the widow's share, or whole surplus if there be no widow, is divided equally among the children, reckoning settlements or portions advanced. (Maryland Act, 1798, Chap. 1.)

X. EXECUTIONS:

May be levied by writ of fieri facias on real or personal property, and are liens upon personal property from the time they are placed in the hands of the marshal until return is made. After judgment is entered, execution may issue unless motion be made to vacate or set aside the judgment or an appeal is duly taken therefrom. No writ of appeal shall stay execution where judgment is for a specific sum, unless the appellant give a bond with a sufficient surety, to be approved by the court, in favor of other party.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

To the head of a family or a householder there is exempt from levy and sale on execution: All wearing apparel, beds, bedding, household furniture, stoves, cooking utensils, etc., not exceeding three hundred dollars in value; provisions for three months' support; fuel for three months; mechanic's tools, and implements of the debtor's trade or business amounting to two hundred dollars in value, and two hundred dollars' worth of stock for carrying on business; the library and implements of a professional man or artist, to the value of three hundred dollars; one horse, one mule or yoke of oxen, one cart, wagon or dray, and harness for such team; farming utensils, with food for such team for three months; and if debtor be a farmer, any other farming tools of the value of one hundred dollars; all family pictures and family library not exceeding in value four hundred dollars; one cow, one swine, and six sheep. None of the property named is exempted from attachment or execution for any debt due for wages of servants, common laborers, or clerks; except wearing apparel, beds and bedding, and household furniture and provisions for the debtor and family.

The earnings, not to exceed one hundred dollars each month, of all actual residents of the District, and who are married persons, or who have to provide for the support of a family in the District for two months next preceding the issuance of any writ or process from any court or justice of the peace against them, shall be exempt from attachment, levy, seizure or sale, upon such process; and the same shall not be seized, levied on, taken, reached, or sold by attachment, execution or any other process or proceeding. (Act of Congress, June 19, 1878.) There is no homestead exemption.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The rate of interest on judgments or decrees and loan or forbearance of any money, goods or things in action, is six per cent. Parties may stipulate for a rate not exceeding ten per cent. An agreement in writing for a higher rate than ten per cent, or a verbal agreement for a higher rate than six per cent, forfeits all interest, and the principal only can be recovered. If a higher rate be paid, the whole interest can be recovered in suit brought within one year after payment. (Revised Statutes, District of Columbia, Sec. 713-717.) After maturity notes bear interest at six per cent, notwithstanding a different rate, if prescribed in the note, unless provision be made therein for such different rate until paid.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Of the Supreme Court are liens upon the real estate of the debtor from rendition, when said debtor holds the legal title; and are liens upon personal property when execution is issued and in marshal's hands. Judgments may be enforced against the equitable interest of a debtor in real estate by a creditor's bill, and may be revived by a scire facias in accordance with the Statute of Westminster, 2, Edward I, Chap. 45. Action of debt lies on judgment. Mutual judgments may be set off against each other.

Judgment cannot be confessed or entered under power of attorney separate or contained in judgment bonds. The judgment of a justice of the peace, amounting with the interest to twenty dollars, exclusive of costs, after the return of execution unsatisfied, may be docketed in the Supreme Court, and have the same effect as to lien and execution as a judgment of said court.

XIV. LIENS:

A landlord has a tacit lien upon such of a tenant's personal chattels, on the premises, as are subject to execution for debt, commencing with the tenancy and continuing for three months after the rent is due, and until the termination of any action for such rent brought within said three months.

Any mechanic or artisan who shall make, alter or repair any article of personal property at the request of the owner, shall have a lien thereon for his just charges for work done and materials provided, and may retain the article until charges are paid; and if such are not paid at the end of six months, may sell the property at public auction after advertising once a week for three weeks.

Any contractor, sub-contractor, material-man, journeyman or laborer, upon filing notice thereof in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court of the District, during construction or within three months after the completion of any building, may have a lien upon the ground and building, which shall be preferred to all incumbrances recorded subsequent to the commencement of said building. Such lien shall not exceed or be enforced for a greater sum than the amount of the original contract; and may be enforced by a suit in equity, which must be brought within one year after filing aforesaid notice, or the completion of said building. All lienors may join in the same suit.

The property may be released from lien upon the defendant's filing a bond, to be approved by the court, conditional that judgment and costs will be paid; and judgment may be rendered against all persons executing the bond. Upon satisfaction of the claim and payment of costs, satisfaction must be entered on the records within two days under penalty of the forfeiture of fifty dollars and damages to the aggrieved party. (23 Stat. 64.)

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Actions upon simple contract, book debt or account; for debt, detinue and replevin; for trespass quare clausum fregit, and for injuries caused by negligence, must be brought within three years ensuing cause of action; but this provision does not apply to accounts between merchants.

Actions for libel, slander, assault, false imprisonment, death by wrongful act, and to recover usurious interest, must be brought within one year.

Actions on contracts under seal and on judgments must be brought within twelve years. To foreclose a mortgage or deed of trust, within twenty years. Twenty years adverse possession of real estate bars entry, save as to persons under disabilities. No execution in favor of persons beyond the District can be relied on.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman holds real estate and personal property belonging to her at the time of marriage, or acquired during marriage in any other way than by gift or conveyance from her husband, as absolutely as if she were unmarried; and it is not subject to the disposal of her husband or liable for his debts. She may convey, bequeath, and devise her property and contract, sue and be sued in matters relating to her separate property as though she were unmarried. Her earnings belong to the husband. The estate of dower exists as at common law, but there is no dower in an equity of redemption. Curtesy exists as at common law in such of her real estate as she does not dispose of during life or by last will.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Are not in use. Deeds of trust prevail as chattel and real estate securities. Deeds of trust on both real and personal property usually confer power on the trustee to sell upon default of payment of the debt, note or interest, after giving notice of sale by advertisement; and no proceedings in court are necessary to make a valid sale. There is no redemption from such a sale; though the court may set aside the sale upon proper grounds being shown. Release of a deed of trust is by deed of release from trustee. No deed of trust, bill of sale, or mortgage upon any articles exempted by law from execution shall be valid or binding unless signed by the wife of the debtor, if he be married and living with his wife. (Rev. Stats. D. C., Sec. 798.) Deeds must be recorded within ten days.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

The law merchant is in force as to presentation, acceptance, etc. By custom, three days' grace is allowed. Every Saturday from twelve o'clock noon is a legal holiday for all purposes respecting all commercial paper, and such paper becoming due and presentable on such half holiday (Saturday) is due and presentable on the business day next following. And all commercial paper maturing for payment or presentation on any full legal holiday or Sunday is payable or presentable on the business day next succeeding. (27 Stat. 405-755.) Where money is payable by two or more persons jointly or severally, the plaintiff, at his option, may include in his declaration any or all the persons liable.

XIX. SUITS:

Every civil action is begun by filing a libel, bill, petition or declaration in the clerk's office, and making the necessary deposit for costs. Where plaintiff is nonresident, upon motion of the defendant, security for costs will be required.

The common law distinction between law and equity is preserved. The declaration may include all causes of action of the same nature, but such must be stated in separate counts. In an action by a husband and wife, the declaration may include all causes of action of the same nature they jointly or severally have against the defendant, stating each cause in a separate count; and should either plaintiff die pending the suit, it will abate as to such cause as does not survive. Where money is payable by two or more persons, jointly or severally, all or any of the parties may be included in the same declaration.

Foreign administrators or executors may maintain any suit or action as though letters testamentary had been granted in the District; and letters testamentary, or of administration, or duly certified copies thereof shall be evidence of the granting of the same. (Act of Congress, February 28, 1887.)

XX. TAXES:

Taxes are payable semi-annually, one-half in May and the other half in November. They become delinquent one month after they are payable, and are subject to a penalty of two per cent per month until paid. All property on which taxes are in arrears on July 1st of each year is liable to be sold at the tax sale, which begins three weeks from the third Tuesday in March following. If property is not redeemed within two years from the date of sale, a deed issues to the purchaser, which is presumptive evidence of compliance with all prerequisites of the law respecting such sale. (24 Stat. 364.) Minors and other persons under legal disability are allowed one year to redeem, after the removal of such disability.

XXI. WILLS:

No will, testament or codicil is effectual for any purpose whatsoever, unless the person making it was, at the time of execution or acknowledgment, of sound and disposing mind, and capable of executing a valid deed or contract. Any male twenty-one years of age, and female eighteen years of age, may make a valid will. All devises and bequests of lands must be in writing and signed by the person devising the same, or by some other person in his presence, and by his express direction, and must be attested and subscribed in presence of said devisor by three or four credible witnesses.

Where it appears from the will that it was the intention of testator to devise after acquired property, such property passes thereunder. And whenever testator requests that executor be not required to give bond, then a bond merely sufficient to pay testator's debts will be required. The record and probate of a will in the District or elsewhere, shall be taken to be prima facie evidence of its contents and execution. No particular form is required for a will of personal property.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations may be formed for certain purposes under the general law by making and acknowledging a certificate to be filed with the recorder of deeds. (Rev. Stats., D. C., Sec. 519, et. seq., and amendments.) There are different methods of incorporation and different powers, liabilities, etc., provided for the different classes: 1, institutions of learning; 2, religious societies; 3, benevolent, educational, etc., societies; 4, manufacturing, agricultural, mining, mechanical, insurance, mercantile, transportation, market and savings bank companies; 5, cemetery associations; 6, boards of trade; 7, railroad companies.

Special provision is made for the organization of corporations for carrying on safe deposit, trust, loan, mortgages, title insurance, security, guaranties and indemnity business; where provision differs materially from that for corporations under the general law.

II. POWERS:

Generally, to sue and be sued by corporate name, to buy and sell property of every kind necessary to the conduct of its business, and to do all other things lawful and necessary for such purposes.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

Nothing but money is considered as payment of capital stock. No company may use its funds to purchase stock of other corporations. No loan may be made to any stockholder, and the officers making or assenting to such are jointly and separately liable, to the extent of such loan, for all debts contracted while they are stockholders or officers. Certain liabilities also attach to trustees for making unlawful dividends or incurring indebtedness in excess of the capital stock.

IV. REPORTS:

A report must be made annually, stating the amount of capital, the portion paid up and existing debts. Failure of compliance with this requirement renders all trustees jointly and severally liable for debts then existing and for all contracted until such report shall be made. If any certificate, report or public notice be false in any material representation, all officers signing the same knowing it to be false shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted while they are stockholders or officers.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are severally individually liable to the creditors of the company to the amount of stock held by them respectively, for all debts and contracts made until the capital is fully paid in and the certificate thereof recorded.

No stockholder shall be personally liable for any debt not paid within one year, unless suit be brought against company within said year. No suit may be held against any stockholder ceasing to be such for any debt unless commenced within two years from the time of so ceasing; nor until an execution against the company be returned unsatisfied in whole or in part.

VI. DISSOLUTION:

Congress may at any time amend or repeal any incorporation created under this law; but any such amendment or repeal shall not, nor shall the dissolution of any company formed under this law, take away or impair any remedy given against any such corporation, its stockholders or officers, for any liability which shall have been previously incurred.

VII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

In actions against a foreign corporation doing business in the District, process may be served on the agent or person conducting its business; or in case he is absent or cannot be found, by leaving a copy at the principal place of business in the District, and such service shall be effective to bring the corporation before the court. (Rev. Stats., D. C., Sec. 709.)

By act of July 29, 1892, foreign corporations doing business in the District of Columbia are required to publish in at least two daily papers printed in the District of Columbia, semi-annually, during the months of March and September of each year, a full statement, under oath, showing their capital stock and the amount paid in on account of the same—assets liabilities, debts, deposits, dividends and dues—as well as their current expenses during six months ending January and July preceding under a penalty of revocation of license or permit to do business in the District of Columbia.

Fraternal beneficial associations or societies doing business on the lodge plan, and paying death benefits, are exempted from the provisions of this act. (Act of July 29, 1892; 27 Stats. 325.)

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I ALIENS:

In Florida, aliens have the same property rights as citizens.

II ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments must be in writing, acknowledged and recorded, and include all the assignor's property not exempt. Preferences are forbidden. The assignee must file a list of assets, and give bond in double the appraised value of the assigned property.

Notice of the assignment must be published for four weeks by the assignee, calling upon all creditors to file their claims with him for distribution. Creditors living within the State of Florida have sixty days in which to file their claims with the assignee; non-resident creditors have four months.

The assignee must realize upon the assets assigned, as soon as practicable, and divide the same ratably among the creditors who have filed their claims. All claims should be proved by affidavit before they are filed. The assignee is required to file copies of his accounts with the clerk of the Circuit Court every six months, and is discharged by order of the judge of that court upon petition and accounting.

III ATTACHMENT:

Writs of attachment are issued by the clerk of the court having jurisdiction of the amount (see "V. Courts"), upon affidavit of the plaintiff or his agent that the debt is due and that the debtor: 1. Will fraudulently part with his property before judgment can be obtained against him. 2. Is actually removing his property from the State. 3. Is about to remove his property from the State. 4. Resides beyond the limits of the State. 5. Is about to move beyond the limits of the State. 6. Is actually moving himself out of the State. 7. Is absconding. 8. Is concealing himself. 9. Is secreting his property. 10. Is fraudulently disposing of his property. 11. Is actually removing himself beyond the limits of the judicial circuit in which he resides; or, 12. Is about to remove himself beyond the limits of said circuit.

Attachments will issue if the debt is due within nine months after the issuance of the writ upon filing the same bond and affidavit setting forth that the defendant: 1. Is actually removing his property beyond the limits of the State; or, 2. Is fraudulently disposing of his property for the purpose of avoiding his just debts.

Before the writ issues the plaintiff must file a bond in double the amount of the claim sued upon, signed by two sureties, and approved by the officer issuing the attachment.

The attached property may be restored to the defendant, or any person for him, upon his giving a similar bond to the sheriff, in twice the value of the goods levied upon, the value to be fixed by the sheriff. Third persons may replevin the attached property by giving bond in double the value of the property. Perishable property may be sold by order of the court, and the proceeds held in place of the goods.

Where the defendant is out of the State, service is obtained by publication of the notice of attachment in a paper published in the county for three months, or if the suit is pending in the Justice's Court, for sixty days. Shares of stock in corporations are liable to attachment and sale. The practice in attachment suits is the same as in others at common law.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Such claims must be filed with the administrator or executor, verified by oath, within two years after the publication of notice to creditors and legatees calling in claims. Claims not filed within this time are conclusively barred. In estates the value of which is less than two thousand dollars, only one year is allowed in which claims must be filed. If personal property of the estate is insufficient to pay the debts, the realty may be sold by the executor on order of the Probate Court, after proper proceedings for that purpose.

The following is the order of the payment of the debts of a solvent estate: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Board and lodging during last illness of decedent. 3. Physicians' attendance, nursing and drugs. 4. Judgments of record. 5. All other debts.

If the estate is insolvent, the order of payment is: 1. Expenses of administration. 2. All other debts in the order named for solvent estates.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court, with general appellate jurisdiction from the Circuit Courts, has original jurisdiction to issue writs of mandamus, quo warranto, injunction, habeas corpus, and the like. It holds two terms a year, in January and June; and has three judges, elected by popular vote for six years.

The Circuit Court is divided into seven judicial circuits, each of which is presided over by a single judge, appointed by the Governor for six years. This court has general original jurisdiction of all cases at law involving more than one hundred dollars, and exclusive original jurisdiction of all cases in equity, of titles to real property and criminal cases the punishment of which is capital. In counties where County Courts or Criminal Courts of Record do not exist, the Circuit Court has general cognizance of inferior crimes. It exercises appellate jurisdiction of cases taken by writ of error from Criminal Courts of Record, County Courts, County Judges' Courts, and Municipal Courts. This court holds two terms a year.

The County Judges' Court has exclusive original probate jurisdiction in the administration of the estates of deceased persons and minors, and has civil and criminal jurisdiction of justices of the peace. The court is always open for the transaction of probate business.

County Courts exist in some counties by special enactment, with jurisdiction of civil cases at law not involving more than five hundred dollars, and all criminal offenses, except capital crimes. The County judge presides over these courts where they exist, which is in only a few counties. This court holds four terms a year.

Criminal Courts of Record have been established in several counties by the Legislature to try all criminal cases except capital crimes. They have no civil jurisdiction, and have six terms a year.

Justices of the peace have jurisdiction of civil cases involving less than one hundred dollars, and the powers of a committing magistrate in counties in which either County Courts or Criminal Courts of Record exist. In other counties, they try minor offenses in the nature of simple misdemeanors. In civil cases they hold one term a month.

VI. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public, justice or clerk of court	$ .50
Attachment, issuing writ	.50
Appeal—Too diverse and various to be set out here.
Commencement of suit in Justice Court, deposit	5.00
" " " " court of record	10.00
Incorporation, on each $1,000 of capital stock	2.00
Incorporation fees not to exceed	250.00
License for mining, a graded tax (according to quality) on phosphates taken from navigable streams, is the only tax of this nature.

Protest	2.00
Record, per folio	.15
Sheriff—Contingent.
Transcriptions from records, per folio	.10
Witness, mileage and per diem	1.25

VII. DEEDS:

A deed signed, sealed and delivered by the grantor and witnessed by two persons, is required to convey any interest in lands greater than two years. A scrawl serves the purpose of a seal. A deed by one out of possession is void as against the person in possession.

To be valid against a creditor or subsequent purchaser, the deed must be recorded in the county wherein the land lies. To entitle a deed to be recorded, the grantor must acknowledge its execution before a notary public, or other officer authorized to take oaths and acknowledgments, whose certificate of the taking of the acknowledgment must accompany the deed.

A married woman's deed must be acknowledged separately and apart from her husband, which fact the certificate must show, as also that she executed the deed or conveyance without fear, apprehension, compulsion or constraint of or from her husband.

When taken out of the State of Florida, acknowledgments must be taken before a judge or clerk of any court of record, notary public, justice of the peace, or other officer authorized by the laws of the state or territory in which he resides to take oaths or acknowledgments therein. In foreign countries, the instrument must be acknowledged before a minister, consul, charge d'affaires, or commissioner of the State of Florida. The official seal of the officer taking the acknowledgment should always be annexed, if he has one; if not, a certificate of the Secretary of State, or proper officer of a court of record should accompany the acknowledgment to show the official character of the officer taking it.

A corporation may convey lands by deed sealed with its common seal and signed in its name by its president or other head officer.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Detailed provisions exist permitting the taking of testimony of witnesses out of the State. (See Florida Revised Statutes, Sections 1123-1147.)

IX. DESCENT:

When there is no will, real estate descends to the children or their descendants. If there are no children, to the father; or if there is no father surviving, to the mother, brothers and sisters equally. Failing these, the estate is divided equally between the paternal and maternal kindred, to be divided between them as follows: First, to the grandfather, then to the grandmother, uncles and aunts and their descendants; and if there are none, then to the great-grandfather, or then to the great-grandmother, great uncles and aunts and their descendants, and so on ad infinitum.

The property of an infant, dying without issue, reverts to the kindred of the ancestor from whom is was acquired. Children of the half blood take only half portions. Entails and survivorship are forbidden.

X. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The right of eminent domain is exercised by petition, verified by oath, in the Circuit Court for the county in which the property to be taken lies; said petition setting up the authority for the exercise of the right, a description of the property, the names and residences of the occupants, owners and encumbrancers, purpose of taking, etc. A writ of scire facias is then issued and served on the defendants named in the petition, and in the case of non-residents, substituted service by publication is provided for. Defaults may be entered against defendant not appearing on the return day. Any person not made a party may intervene upon showing his interest.

No cause being shown to the contrary, three disinterested persons are appointed viewers who shall report: 1. An accurate description of the property taken. 2. The compensation therefor. 3. The amount of compensation to which each owner is entitled. Any defendant may appear before the viewers and demand a jury trial, which is of right. Judgment is entered on the verdict of the jury, or report of the viewers. The amount of the judgment must be paid into court within ten days from the entry of the judgment. Writs of assistance and attachments for contempt will issue against persons denying possession after judgment.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

Executions are issued as soon as judgment is entered; there are no stay laws in Florida. Lands, tenements, goods and chattels are subject to execution. Sale takes place on the first Monday in each month, after notice published for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the sale takes place. Executions run throughout the State.

On affidavit of irregularity, and giving bond, a sale under execution may be stayed pending the determination of the issue of law. Third persons may reclaim property levied upon, by giving bond and making affidavit that the property is theirs. The issue made is tried by jury. Levy and sale may be enjoined on a proper case being made.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

The head of a family may exempt one hundred and sixty acres of land in the country, or half an acre in an incorporated city. The person claiming the homestead must reside on the land in person. The exemption inures to the heirs and widow after the death of the original head of the family. The homestead may be alienated or conveyed by deed or mortgage, both husband and wife joining in the execution.

Personal property to the value of one thousand dollars is also exempt to the head of a family. The value is determined by appraisement, in case of disagreement. Life insurance is exempt. Wages resulting from personal labor or services is also exempt from garnishment or attachment.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is eight per cent. Judgments, decrees, and all contracts for the payment of money, where no other rate is expressed, draw interest at the legal rate. Ten per cent is the limit of interest allowed, and all interest is forfeited on a contract for the payment of a higher rate.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

All judgments and decrees must be recorded in the counties in which the lands of the defendant are, when they become liens on such property. Judgments of the Federal Courts must also be recorded in the public records of the county before they become liens on the lands of the defendant therein. Judgments do not become liens on personal property until execution is issued and placed in the hands of the sheriff. (See, also, "XVI. Limitations.")

XV. LIENS:

All persons furnishing materials or labor for the construction or repair of any mill, building or other structure have a lien thereon for the value of their services. Materialmen must give notice to the principal debtor immediately, or they cannot claim a lien.

Stevedores, longshoremen and ship-storesmen have liens on the vessel for their materials and labor. Laborers and contractors have a lien on logs cut; printers and employes in stores, on the stock; agricultural laborers and overseers on crops.

Landlords have liens for rent on the furniture of the tenant, and persons making advances of money or goods to another to be used in logging, planting, farming or other kinds of business, have a lien on the thing grown or produced.

Notice of a lien on real estate must be recorded in the county where the property lies. These liens may be enforced by summary proceedings at law or by bill in chancery.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Where lands are held under color of title, actions for the recovery thereof must be brought within seven years; but if held without color of title the limitation is twenty years.

Suits upon judgments recovered in this State must be brought in twenty years, and upon those recovered in a foreign state seven years.

Suits upon contracts under seal are barred in twenty years; if in writing, but not under seal, in five years.

Actions for trespass, recovery of specific property, for a liability created by statute, and for contract not in writing (except on an open account) are barred in three years.

Actions on a statute for a penalty or on a tort should be brought in three years.

Actions upon a store account and all actions not hereinbefore enumerated are barred in four years. A promise to pay a debt barred by the statute of limitations must be in writing signed by the person sought to be charged.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman may hold real estate and personal property as her separate property, not subject to the debts of her husband, although by law it remains in his custody and care, without his being accountable for or to the wife for its profits. The separate property of the wife is alone liable for her pre-nuptial debts. A married woman's wages and earnings are separate property. But she cannot enter into contracts not having specific reference to her separate property; in other words, she cannot make a personal contract. A married woman may convey her real property by deed, her husband joining in the execution. In the same way she may charge or incumber her separate estate. The instrument must be acknowledged by the wife separately and apart from her husband. (See "VII. Deeds.") So she may make a will as if sole. Her separate real or personal property may be charged with the payment of the purchase price, and for repairs, improvements, or labor spent upon it. Her contract to convey real estate may be specifically enforced if acknowledged in due form.

Proceedings may be brought in the Circuit Court to have a married woman declared a free dealer, to contract and be contracted with, sue and be sued, in all things as if she were sole.

Dower of the wife is in this State statutory, being one-third interest for life in all her husband's realty, and one-half of the personal property absolutely. She may elect to take a child's part in lieu of dower.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

A mortgage in this State is a specific lien, and does not give the right of possession. All instruments whose purpose is to secure the payment of money are deemed to be mortgages, and are subject to foreclosure. Mortgages are executed in the same manner that deeds are, and must be recorded to be valid against creditors and bona fide purchasers for value. They may be assigned, and the assignment of the instrument of indebtedness carries with it the mortgage security. The assignment of a mortgage must be recorded in a book provided for that purpose.

Satisfactions of mortgages may be made in person in the presence of the clerk of the court, who is the registrar of deeds, by the person holding the mortgage, a memorandum to that effect being entered on the margin of the record of the mortgage. Or they may be satisfied by a formal satisfaction-piece executed and acknowledged like a deed, and recorded in a book provided for that purpose. Mortgages may be foreclosed by bill or petition in chancery.

Chattel mortgages are executed and recorded as real estate mortgages are. Unless the property mortgaged is taken into the possession of the mortgagee, or is recorded within ninety days from its execution, they are not valid. Mortgages on a stock of goods which are being sold in course of trade are ineffectual as against creditors unless they contain provisions for periodical accountings by the mortgagor, where he remains in possession.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

The principles of the law merchant prevail in Florida in reference to notes and bills. The following are legal holidays: January 1st (New Year's Day), January 19th (Lee's Birthday), February 22d (Washington's Birthday), April 26th (Memorial Day), June 3d (Jefferson Davis's Birthday), July 4th (Independence Day), December 25th (Christmas), Thanksgiving Day, fixed by proclamation; and general election days and Sundays.

Collateral securities taken to secure the payment of a debt, and unredeemed, may be sold by the holder upon the terms agreed upon when pledged. Factors and warehousemen's receipts are made negotiable. Provisions for the payment of attorney's fees, exchange or similar charges do not render the instrument non-negotiable.

XX. SUITS:

Actions are brought by the real party in interest. There is no code of practice in Florida, and the common law rules of pleading and practice prevail, although much modified by statute. Suits at law and in equity are kept distinct. Suits at law are commenced by filing a praecipe for summons with the clerk of the proper court; suits in equity by filing a bill of complaint.

XXI. TAXES:

The tax law now in force was adopted by the legislature of 1895. Real estate and personal property are taxed according to their cash value. The rate of taxation for the State is fixed biennially by the legislature; that of the counties by the county commissioners annually. Assessments are equalized by the county commissioners. All property is subject to taxation except that of religious, educational, literary, scientific and municipal corporations or associations. Taxes are payable annually between the first of November and the last of April in the year thereafter succeeding.

XXII. WAGES:

The wages of a married woman are her separate property. The wages of a head of a family are exempt from garnishment, except under statutory liability for the support of a parent.

XXIII. WILLS:

Wills can be made only by persons who have reached the age of twenty-one, whether the property to be devised be real or personal. Married women may make wills. Wills must be signed by the testator and witnessed by two persons when real property is conveyed. Wills of personal property need not be witnessed. Nuncupative wills must be made by the testator in the presence of three persons, and committed to writing within six days in the presence of a notary or other judicial officer, otherwise no testimony will be admitted to prove it after the expiration of six months.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution of the State provides: 1. That the State cannot pledge or loan its credit to, or become a joint owner or stockholder in, any company, corporation, or association, and that counties, cities, townships and incorporated districts shall not become stockholders in, obtain or appropriate money for, or loan their credit to, any corporation, association or institution.

2. That neither private property nor the right of way shall be appropriated to the use of any corporation until full compensation therefor shall be first made to the owner, or first secured to him by deposit of money; which compensation, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation, shall be ascertained by a jury.

3. That the property of corporations, except that of the corporation which shall construct a ship or barge canal across the peninsula of Florida, shall be subject to taxation unless such property be held and used exclusively for religious, scientific, municipal, educational, literary or charitable purposes.

4. That the legislature shall provide by general law for incorporating such educational, agricultural, mechanical, mining and other useful companies or associations as may be deemed necessary.

II. ORGANIZATION:

Any three or more persons may associate themselves and become incorporated for the transaction of any lawful business.

The proposed charter must be subscribed by three or more persons, and acknowledged by at least three of the subscribers before some officer authorized to take acknowledgment of deeds. It must set forth the name of the proposed corporation and the principal place of business; the general nature of the business to be transacted; the amount of capital stock authorized, the number and par value of the shares into which it is divided, and the terms and conditions upon which it is to be paid in; the term for which said corporation is to exist; by what officers the business of the company is to be conducted, and the times at which they will be elected; the names of the officers who are to conduct the business till those elected at the first election shall be qualified; the highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation can subject itself; and the names and residences of the subscribers.

The proposed charter, with notice of intention to apply to the Governor for letters patent thereon, shall be published once a week for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the place of business is to be located, which notice shall be signed by at least three of the subscribers. Proposed charter shall also be on file in the office of the Secretary of State during the four weeks of publication.

The proposed charter, with proof of publication of notice, shall be presented to the Governor, and if in proper form and for an object authorized by law, and due notice has been given, letters patent will issue incorporating the subscribers, their associates and successors, into a body corporate. The Secretary of State shall annex to the letters patent a certified copy of the charter, retaining the original, and before delivering the letters patent shall record them and the charter in a book kept for the purpose. He shall receive from the corporation before such delivery a charter fee of two dollars on each thousand dollars of capital stock; not to exceed two hundred and fifty dollars.

The letters patent, with the certified copy of the charter, shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county wherein the place of business is to be located; and there shall also be filed with said clerk, and with the Secretary of State, duplicate affidavits by the treasurer of the company, that ten per cent of the capital stock has been subscribed and paid. If the corporation transacts any business before complying with above requirements, its stockholders shall be personally liable for corporation debts as if they were members of a general partnership.

III. POWERS:

To have succession for the period limited in its charter, and, when no period is limited, perpetually; to sue and be sued; to make contracts; adopt and use a common seal and alter seal at pleasure; when special provision is not made by law or otherwise, to hold, buy, convey or mortgage such personal or real estate as the purposes of said corporation shall require; also to take, hold and convey such other real and personal property as shall be necessary for the corporation to acquire in order to obtain or secure the payment of any indebtedness or liability to it; to appoint such subordinate officers and agents as the affairs of the corporation shall require, and to allow them suitable compensation; to make by-laws; and to increase or diminish by vote of its members, cast as by-laws may direct, the number of directors, managers or trustees, so, however, that the number shall not be less than three nor more than thirteen.

IV. OFFICERS:

The business of the corporation shall be managed by a president, a board of directors, a treasurer or cashier, and such other officers as the corporation may authorize. A majority of the whole number of directors shall be necessary to constitute a quorum. One of the directors shall be chosen president.

V. STOCK:

The stock of corporations shall be deemed personal estate; shall be divided into shares of not less than ten dollars each; shall be paid for in lawful money of the United States, unless otherwise provided in charter; and shall be transferable in the manner prescribed in the by-laws. The property of a stockholder shall be exempt from the debts and liabilities of a corporation contracted in its corporate capacity, except the stock of said stockholder in said corporation, and that only to an extent equal to what remains unpaid upon the subscription to said stock.

A majority of the stock shall constitute a quorum. At stockholders' meeting, each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote on each share of stock held by him, but no stockholder whose liability for unpaid assessments is past due shall be allowed to vote.

Corporations may increase or reduce their capital stock and amend their charter by complying with the directions set out in the general corporation laws.

VI. DISSOLUTION:

The Circuit Court, on petition of a majority in interest of the stockholders, may decree the dissolution of a corporation.

MINING.

I. PHOSPHATE MINES:

The only mining laws in force in the State of Florida pertain to mining phosphates. The right to mine phosphate rock and phosphatic deposits from beds of navigable streams is granted upon the payment quarterly to the State Treasurer of fifty cents per ton of the material mined; and an account of the crude material mined must be filed with the board of phosphate commissioners. But no person shall be permitted to mine from such navigable streams until he has entered into a contract with the phosphate commissioners in conformity with the foregoing provisions, and shall have filed with said commissioners a bond for the due performance thereof with good and sufficient sureties, in an amount to be named by the said commissioners.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens, the subjects of governments at peace with the United States and this State, so long as their governments remain at peace, shall be entitled to all the rights of citizens of other states resident in this State, and shall have the privilege of purchasing, holding and conveying real estate in this State.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Any corporation, not municipal, may make an assignment for the benefit of creditors, but no such corporation shall be allowed to prefer any creditor or class of creditors, except such as have debts entitled to priority by the laws of this State. Persons and firms may make assignments and prefer creditors. The assignment must contain all property of the assignor with proper identification, and also all books, accounts, choses in action, notes, mortgages, judgments and all other evidences of debt. No assignment is valid as against creditors which reserves any trust or benefit to the assignor or any one for him. No foreign assignment can pass property in this State unless such foreign assignment shall comply with the law of assignments in this State. Assignment laws also provide that assignment shall be filed, that assignee must give bond; that such assignee shall succeed to all the rights of the assignor, but may attack any fraudulent conveyance or recover property conveyed by the assignor for the purpose of hindering, delaying or defrauding creditors; that the assignee within thirty days after the filing of assignment, must notify each creditor (letter mailed through postoffice being sufficient) that the assignment has been filed, and where proceedings attacking the assignment are instituted, like notice must be given creditors of such proceedings. If innocent mistake or omission is made in description of property, or in list of assets, or in the method of preparing the list of assets, or in the list of creditors, the assignment is not thereby rendered void, but may be amended upon proof thereof to the court.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Attachments may issue in the following cases:

1. When the debtor resides out of the State. 2. When he is actually removing or is about to remove, without the limits of the county. 3. When he absconds. 4. When he conceals himself. 5. When he resists a legal arrest. 6. When he is causing his property to be removed beyond the limits of the State. 7. When the debt is created by purchase of property, upon such debt becoming due, when the debtor who created such debt or any one for him, is in possession of the property for the purchase of which the debt was created; or has sold such property and has not been paid for the same, attachment may issue against such property. 8. When the debtor sells, or conveys, or conceals his property liable for the payment of his debts, for the purpose of avoiding the payment of same, or whenever a debtor shall threaten or prepare to do so, or when he shall make a fraudulent lien on his property, attachment may issue upon petition duly made to the judge of the Superior Court.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Must be presented within one yar after qualification of executor or administrator. They may be filed at any time, the penalty for not filing within one year being that they lose the right to equal distributicn with claims of equal dignity to which distribution has been made before notice of such delayed claim was given; but if the representative of the estate has assets to pay all debts, nothing is lost by failure to file within the year; and even where the estate has been distributed to the heirs before notice of such claim, such heirs can be required to contribute pro rata to the payment of such claim.

In the payment of the debts of a decedent, they shall rank in priority in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses, including physician's bill and expenses of last sickness. 2. Necessary expenses of administration, including one year's support for family, which shall never be less than one hundred dollars, and may be any sum properly set aside, to be estimated according to the circumstances and standing of the family previous to the death of the decedent, and keeping in view the solvency of the estate. 3. Unpaid taxes or other debts due the State or United States. 4. Debts due by deceased as executor, administrator or guardian, for the estate committed to him as such, or any debt due by the deceased as trustee having had actual possession, control and management of the trust property. 5. Judgments, mortgages and other liens created during lifetime of deceased, to be paid according to their priority. 6. Debts due for rent. 7. All unliquidated demands, including foreign judgments, and all debts the amounts due on which were fixed and ascertained or acknowledged in writing prior to the death of the decedent. 8. Open accounts.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court of Georgia has no original jurisdiction. Established alone for the trial and correction of such errors in law or equity from the Superior Courts as have been or may be established. Two terms a year. This court sits at the State Capitol only.

Superior Courts are held in each county in the State and sit twice a year. They have exclusive jurisdiction in cases of divorce; in criminal cases where the offender is subjected to loss of life or confinement in the penitentiary; in cases respecting titles to land, and equity cases. They also have jurisdiction in all civil cases except probate of wills, granting letters of administration, etc., and in these cases they have appellate jurisdiction.

Courts of Ordinary sit monthly in each county, and have jurisdiction over estates, probate of wills, grantings of letters testamentary, or of administration, or of guardianship; controversies relating to the right of executorship, administration, or guardianship; sale of property belonging to estates of deceased persons, minors and lunatics; issuing commissions of lunacy, and all other matters pertaining to estates of deceased persons; also binding out of orphans and apprentices. They also have jurisdiction in setting apart homesteads and exemptions. Their judgments are reviewable by appeal or certiorari.

City Courts exist in a few of the larger counties and have terms and jurisdiction according to the acts creating them.

County Courts exist in some counties. Special jurisdiction involving amounts not exceeding five hundred dollars, and not less than fifty dollars.

Justices' Courts sit monthly in each militia district and have jurisdiction in all civil cases arising ex contractu, and in cases of damage to personal property, when the principal sum does not exceed one hundred dollars.

VII. DEEDS:

To authorize the record of a deed it must be attested by or acknowledged before: 1. If made in Georgia—a judge of a court of record in this State, or a justice of the peace, or notary public or clerk of the Superior Court, in the county in which the three last mentioned officers respectively hold their appointment. 2. If made out of the State—a commissioner of deeds for the State of Georgia, notary public, clerk of a court of record, or a consul or vice consul of the United States (the certificate of these officers under their seals being evidence of the fact). When the deed is executed before a notary public the certificate of a clerk of record, under seal of the court, shall be attached, showing that said notary is regularly commissioned and authorized by law to attest deeds. If subsequent to its execution the deed is acknowledged in the presence of either of the named officers that fact certified on the deed by such officer shall entitle it to be recorded. In all deeds conveying real property there must be two witnesses, one of whom can be either of the officers named.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

In all counties of twenty thousand inhabitants and upwards either party litigant in any court of record in any such county may, without any order or commission, take the deposition of any witness whether resident of the county or not, upon giving the opposite party five days' notice of the time and place, with the names of the witnesses.

A witness may be examined on interrogatories, by commission (or without one if the same be waived) at the instance of either party, in any civil cause in any court when either of the following conditions exists: 1. Where the witness resides out of the county. 2. Where, from the condition of his health, from age, or otherwise, he cannot attend the court, or from the nature of his business or occupation it is not possible to secure his personal attendance without manifest inconvenience to the public or third persons—such as postmasters, public carriers, physicians, school-teachers, etc. 3. Where the witness is about to remove from the county, or is about to leave home on business for a term which will extend beyond the term of court. 4. All female witnesses. 5. Where he is the only witness to a material point in the case.

IX. DESCENT:

The following rules shall determine who are the heirs at law of a deceased person:

1. Husband is sole heir of his intestate wife, if no children nor the descendants of children. If children or descendants of children, the estate shall be equally divided, share and share alike, between said husband and children per capita, but the descendants of children shall take per stirpes.

2. Wife is sole heir of her intestate husband, if no children nor descendants of children. If children or descendants of children, the wife shall have a child's part, unless the shares exceed five in number, in which case the wife shall have one-fifth of the estate. If the wife elects to take her dower she has no further interest in the realty.

3. Children stand in the first degree from the intestate and inherit equally all property, accounting for advancements. Posthumous children stand upon the same footing as children in being. Lineal descendants of children stand in place of their deceased parents. In all cases of an inheritance from a lineal ancestor the distribution is per stirpes and not per capita.

4. Brothers and sisters of the intestate stand in the second degree and inherit if no surviving husband, widow nor child nor representative of child. If no brother or sister of the whole or half blood on the parental side, then those of the half blood on the maternal side shall inherit. Children or grandchildren of deceased brothers and sisters represent their deceased parents, but there shall be no representation farther than this among collaterals.

5. The father, if living, inherits equally with brothers and sisters, and stands in the same degree. If there be no father and the mother is alive, she shall inherit in the same manner as the father would.

6. In all degrees more remote than the foregoing the paternal and maternal next of kin shall be on an equal footing.

7. First cousins stand next in degree. Uncles and aunts inherit equally with cousins.

8. More remote degrees are determined by the rules of the canon law, as adopted and enforced in the English courts prior to the fourth day of July, 1776.

If the wife elects to take dower in lieu of a child's part of the realty, she shall be entitled to an estate for life in one-third of the realty, according to valuation, including the dwelling house (which is not to be valued unless in a town or city), of which the husband was seized or possessed at the time of his death.

X. EXECUTIONS.

Executions may issue at any time after judgment (subject, of course, to the laws of limitation given in regard to the dormancy and extinction of judgments), and are returnable to the next term of the court from which they issue. They may be levied on all the estate, real or personal, covered by the lien of the judgment as above stated. Alias executions may be obtained at any time within the statute of limitation, by order of the judge of the court from which they issued, granted upon affidavit by the party, his agent or attorney, showing the fact of loss of the original, or upon any other satisfactory proof of the same. Such order may be made either in term or vacation. All executions, in order to preserve their liens, must be recorded within ten days from the time the judgment is rendered in a general execution docket kept by the clerk of the Superior Court, and if judgment is obtained in any county outside of the county of defendant's residence, it must be recorded within thirty days from the time the judgment is rendered in order to be an effective lien, as against the interests of third parties acting in good faith and without notice.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

To every debtor, who is the head of a family, the following property is exempt from levy and sale: Fifty acres of land, and five additional acres for each of his or her children under the age of sixteen years; one farm horse or mule; one cow and calf; ten head of hogs, and fifty dollars worth of provisions, and five dollars worth additional for each child, and necessary household and kitchen furniture. If in town or city, real estate worth five hundred dollars; and if professional, library worth three hundred dollars.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

Realty or personalty, or both, to the value, in the aggregate, of one thousand six hundred dollars is exempted to every head of a family, or guardian, or trustee of a family of minor children, or every aged or infirm person, or persons having the care and support of dependent females of any age, the property thus set apart, including such improvements as may be made thereon, liable only for taxes, for the purchase money of the same, for labor done thereon, for material furnished therefor, or for removal of encumbrances thereon. Debtor may waive right of exemption in writing, except as to wearing apparel, and not exceeding three hundred dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture and provisions; either exemption, but not both allowed.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. It is lawful to contract for eight per cent if the contract be in writing and specify that rate. It is not lawful to charge more than eight per cent and the penalty for so doing is to forfeit the excess so charged. All titles to property made as a part of an usurious contract, or to evade the laws against usury, are void.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Have lien upon all property of defendant not specially exempted, but they have no lien upon promissory notes in the hands of defendant, nor are choses in action liable to be seized under execution. By special statute stock in an incorporated company may be levied on and sold. All judgments signed on verdicts rendered at same term of court are held to be of equal date and dignity. All judgments obtained in any of the courts of this State shall be of equal dignity according to date. See also "X. Executions."

XV. LIENS:

The following liens are established in this State: Liens in favor of the State, counties and municipal corporations for taxes; creditors by judgment and decree; laborers, landlords, mortgagees, merchants, factors and others furnishing necessaries, as hereinafter provided; mechanics, on real and personal property; contractors, material-men, machinists and manufacturers of machinery; certain creditors against steamboats and other water craft; proprietors of saw-mills and planing-mills, and other similar establishments; inn-keepers, boarding-house keepers, carriers, livery stable keepers, pawnees, depositories, bailees, factors, acceptors, attorneys at law, railway employes and others.

Laborers shall have a general lien upon the property of their employers liable to levy and sale for their labor, which is hereby declared to be superior to all other liens, except liens for taxes, the special liens of landlords upon yearly crops, and such other liens as are declared by law to be superior to them. They shall have a special lien on the products of their labor, superior to all other liens, except liens for taxes and special liens of landlords upon yearly crops.

Railway employes have a lien on the railroad and other property of the company for wages earned by service rendered the company, which lien is superior to any mortgage or other contract lien made by the company, provided that no such employe shall under the act creating this lien be entitled to a lien for more than five hundred dollars. Persons furnishing material, supplies or other articles necessary to operate railroads, and persons having live stock killed by engines or cars have liens on the property of the railroad company superior to any mortgage or other contract lien, for the amounts due for such supplies, material or other necessary articles furnished within six months preceding the institution of proceedings to enforce the same, and for amounts due for damages for the killing of such live stock.

All mechanics, who have taken no personal security therefor, shall for work done and materials furnished in building, repairing or improving any real estate of their employer; all contractors, material-men and persons furnishing material for the improvement of real estate and building factories; all machinists and manufacturers of machinery who may furnish or put up in any county of this State any steam mill or other machinery, or who may repair the same, and all contractors to build railroads, shall have a special lien upon such real estate, factories and railroads, which shall attach upon the real estate improved. When the work done or material furnished is upon the employment of a contractor or other person than the owner then the lien attaches for twenty-five per cent of the contract price of the work done, or material furnished, as against the owner upon written notice given him within thirty days from the completion of the work or the furnishing of material. They shall also have a special lien on the personalty, which may be asserted by retention of such property; or the mechanic may surrender such personal property and give credit, and record the claim of lien in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court of the county of the owner's residence within ten days after the work is done or the material is furnished. Such lien shall be superior to all other liens but liens for taxes, and such other lien as the mechanic may have had actual notice of before work was done or material furnished.

Pawnees, bailees, factors and acceptors shall have liens inferior to the liens for taxes, liens of which such persons had actual notice before becoming creditors, special liens for rent, liens of laborers, liens of record, liens of judgment, and other general liens reduced to execution and levied.

Depositories shall have liens occupying the same position as mechanics and attorneys at law. Attorneys at law shall have a lien on all papers and money of their clients in their possession for services rendered to them, and may apply such money to the satisfaction of such claims.

Liens on real property, other than mortgages, shall be foreclosed, first, by a compliance with his contract by the person claiming the lien; second, recording his claim of lien within thirty days after the completion of the work, or within three months after material or machinery is furnished, in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court in the county in which such property is situated; and third, the commencement of an action for recovery within twelve months from the time the same becomes due. The claimant must set forth his lien and the premises on which he claims it; if the claim of lien be disputed in the process or decree, an issue shall be ordered and tried as in other causes.

There must be a demand on owner, agent or lessee, a refusal to pay on such demand, and refusal must be averred. It must be prosecuted within one year after the debt becomes due, supported by an affidavit before a judge of the Superior Court, or the ordinary of the county in which the personal property may be, showing all the facts necessary to constitute a lien under the code. If the defendant contests the amount of the claim, he shall file his affidavit of the fact, setting forth such denial, which affidavit shall form an issue to be returned to the court and tried as other causes.

All liens may be assigned in writing and not otherwise, and the assignee shall have all the rights of the assignor.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Open accounts and contracts not in writing, four years; contracts in writing not under seal, six years; bonds and instruments under seal, twenty years; foreign judgments, five years. Judgments to be kept open and retain their lien, must have execution issued, and have some entry made thereon by the sheriff or other ministerial officer, every seven years, or the judgment becomes dormant. Dormant judgments may be revived within three years. A promise to renew or revive the debt must be in writing.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

All property of the wife, in possession at the time of the marriage, or afterward acquired by her, is her separate property, and not liable for the payment of any debts, defaults, or contracts of the husband, except the earnings by the labor of the wife, which becomes the property of the husband, unless she is a free dealer, made so by publication of the fact in a newspaper. Wife cannot bind her separate estate by any contract of suretyship.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

A mortgage in Georgia is only a security for debt, and passes no title. It may embrace any property, real or personal, in the mortgagor's possession. It may also cover a stock of goods, or other things in bulk, but changing in specifics, in which the lien is lost on all articles disposed of previous to the time of foreclosure, and attaches on the purchases made to supply their place. Deeds made to secure debts must be recorded at once. Mortgages are required to be executed with the same formalities as deeds, but if executed out of the State it is safer to execute them before a consul or commissioner of deeds.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

No days of grace on sight paper. Protest not necessary on commercial paper for non-payment in order to bind endorser, except: 1. When paper is payable on its face at a bank or banker's office. 2. When it is discounted at a bank or banker's office. 3. When it is left at a bank or banker's office for collection. In all such cases days of grace are allowed.

XX. REDEMPTION:

No redemption except in cases of tax sales, which see under "XXII. Taxes."

XXI. REGISTRATION:

Deeds, transfers, conveyances of all kinds, mortgages and liens of all kinds must be recorded at once. Former laws on this subject were repealed by act of legislature, approved October 1st, 1889.

As to realty, instrument should be recorded in county where land lies. As to personalty, in the county where maker resides if resident of this State, and if non-resident in county where property is. Failure to record does not affect validity of instrument as between the parties; registration being only necessary where rights of third parties intervene.

XXII. TAXES:

Owners of property subject to taxation are required to return the same under oath to the tax receiver for purposes of State and county taxation.

Payments are made to tax collector, who, upon failure to pay, issues execution therefor. When personalty is sold for taxes there is no redemption; when realty is so sold the owner has one year within which to redeem by paying purchase money and ten per cent interest thereon. In case of wild land unreturned for taxes the execution issues against the land, and, in case of sale, the true owner has two years within which to redeem by paying the purchase money and twenty per cent interest thereon. Surplus after paying taxes and costs, if claimed in time, goes to owner. Failure to return property to tax receiver subjects the property to double taxation. Taxation for municipal purposes is regulated by local requirements.

XXIII. WILLS:

All wills (except nuncupative wills) disposing of personalty or realty, must be in writing signed by the party making the same, or by some other person in his presence and by his express direction, and shall be attested and subscribed in the presence of the testator by three or more competent witnesses.

If a subscribing witness is also a legatee or devisee under the will the witness is competent, but the legacy or devise is void. A husband is a competent witness to a will which gives his wife a legacy, and in such case the legacy is good.

Foreign wills disposing of property in Georgia may be probated here provided such wills conform to all the requirements prescribed for domestic wills. Foreign wills are probated in any county in this State in which property devised or bequeathed is situated. All wills conveying property in this State, and executed by persons residing out of this State, shall be held and treated as foreign wills.

CORPORATIONS.

[Corporations in Georgia are chartered by the Secretary of State and the courts. Most corporations of the class denominated public, such as railroad companies, express companies, etc., are chartered by the Secretary of State, who also charters banking and insurance companies. All private corporations, and certain classes of public corporations, such as schools, villages, etc., are chartered by the Superior Courts.]

I. ORGANIZATION:

A private corporation, for any purpose whatever, except banking or insurance, may be created in this State by complying with the following provisions: 1. Persons desiring the charter shall file in the office of the Superior Court of the county in which they desire to transact business a petition specifying the objects, the business, their corporate name, the amount of the capital stock, the amount of capital actually paid in, the place of doing business and the time, not exceeding twenty years, for which they desire to be incorporated. Said petition is published once each week for one month before the court shall pass upon said application. 2. If the application is legitimately within the purview of the code, upon hearing the judge shall pass an order declaring said application granted. A certified copy of this petition and order, under the seal of the court, shall be evidence of such incorporation in any court of this State. 3. The incorporators must commence to exercise the power granted by the act of incorporation and pay in ten per cent of the capital stock within two years, to give said charter any force and effect; and in case of failure to do so the stockholders shall be bound in their private capacity to any creditor of said incorporation for amount of stock subscribed for by them. 4. Corporations thus created may exercise all corporate powers necessary to the purpose of their organization, but shall make no contract or purchase or hold any property of any kind, except such as is necessary for legitimately carrying into effect such purpose, or for securing debts to the company. They have continuous succession during the time limited by their charter. They have the right to sue and be sued, have and use a common seal, make by-laws binding on their own members, not inconsistent with the laws of this State and with the laws of the United States; receive donations, to purchase and to hold such property as is necessary for the purpose of their organization.

Judges of the Superior Courts, in their discretion, may hold special terms of their courts for the purpose of granting charters to corporations.

II. LEGAL PROCESS:

Any corporation, mining or joint-stock company may be sued on contracts in that county in which the contract sought to be enforced was made and was to be performed, if it has an office and transacts business there. Suits for damages may be brought in the county where the cause of action originated. Service may be had by leaving a copy of the writ with the agent of the defendant, or, if there be no agent in the county, then at the place of public business.

III. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Are recognized in our courts only by comity, but no foreign corporation can exercise any power or privilege which is denied by the laws of this State to domestic corporations, or the exercise of which is contrary to the public policy of the State, anything in the charter of such foreign corporation to the contrary notwithstanding. They are allowed to own lands in the State, but when the amount reaches as much as five thousand acres they shall be incorporated under the laws of Georgia, and on their failing to do so the State of Georgia will not consent to the said corporation owning lands in its territory. This prohibition does not, however, extend or apply to foreign corporations engaged in the business of lending money on real estate security, nor to such corporations which, holding lien on realty to secure debt, are compelled, in order to prevent loss, to purchase lands covered by deed or mortgage to secure the loan.

MINING.

I. RIGHT OF WAY:

Any person or corporation engaged in mining, needing for the successful prosecution of such business a right of way for a railroad, turn-pike or common road across the lands of others, or where it is necessary to divert any water-course from its usual channel, shall lawfully proceed to organize a board of arbitrators, who shall determine as to the necessity, who are damaged, and how much.

The owner of any mine shall have the right to enter upon any land intervening between the mine and the water power upon which the same is dependent, and to cut thereon such ditch, canal or tunnel, or construct such flume or other aqueduct, and build such dam, as may be necessary to control said power; provided, he shall first have the damages assessed, and shall pay to the owner of the land so intervening, or the owner of the land on which such dam is to be erected, the damages which may be assessed in the manner hereinafter stated.

Any person or company engaged in working a mine shall be regarded as the owner for the purposes above and hereafter mentioned. The owner of any mine shall have the right to enter upon any land and cut such ditches or tunnels, or construct such flumes or other aqueducts as may be necessary to drain his mine, or to carry off and drain away the water and tailings of such mine, by first having the damages assessed and paying the owner such damages in the manner hereinafter stated. In no instance shall the water be drawn from any mill or factory now in operation.

II. CONDEMNATION OF PROPERTY:

If the corporation or person cannot by contract procure the right or privilege desired, it shall be lawful to take or damage the property upon paying or tendering the owner just and adequate compensation for the right or privilege to be taken, and upon complying with the following provisions:

Notice shall be served upon the owner and upon the owner of any remainder, reversion, mortgage, lease, security, deed, or other interest in the property sought to be condemned. If minors or others under disability, notice to be served on personal representative. If no such representative, then notice to be served personally upon the minor and upon the ordinary of the county where the land lies, who shall appoint guardian ad litem to represent the minor. If ordinary is disqualified, the clerk of the Superior Court takes his place. If the property be trust property, service of notice must be had upon trustee as well as upon all persons who are of age who have an interest. If owner is a non-resident, tenant in possession is served and like notice is mailed to owner if his address be known, and if his address be not known the ordinary shall act for him in like manner as for unrepresented minors. If the owner be unknown, or there is a possibility of unborn remaindermen, notice shall be served upon person in actual possession of the property, and also upon the ordinary, who shall act as in case of minors; provided, that when unknown owner appears he may have another assessment and shall receive the amount then assessed. If second assessment less than first, overplus is returned to corporation or person originally condemning. Unless service is acknowledged or waived, copy of notice shall be served by sheriff or deputy, personally or by leaving at residence of owner, or mailed, in case of non-resident owner, at least fifteen days before the day fixed for assessing the damages. In cases where service cannot be effected by leaving notice at residence or by personal service, the notice shall be posted at court house door fifteen days and be published once in the official paper one week before the day fixed for assessing the damages. The notice must be directed to the owner or owners; describe the property or franchise and the amount of interest sought to be condemned; fix the time when the hearing will be had on the premises; give the name of the assessor selected by the corporation; and request the owner, trustee, or representative, as the case may be, to select an assessor.

If the party seeking the condemnation notify the ordinary that the owner has failed to select assessor, or that owner is unknown, or is minor, lunatic, or otherwise under disability and without legal representative, the ordinary shall select an assessor for such owner, and if the ordinary is disqualified, the clerk of the Superior Court shall act. The two assessors thus selected shall select a third assessor, but if they do not agree upon such third assessor in five days, the judge of the Superior Court of the county, upon application of either party, of which the other shall have notice, shall make the selection in term-time or vacation. The assessors are sworn, and if there has been such delay that the hearing cannot be had at the time, due notice shall be given to the parties of the time and place of hearing.

The assessors hear evidence as to the value of property to be taken or damages done the owners, and the benefits accruing to the owners from the use of the property by the corporation or persons condemning the same. Parties may be represented in person or by attorney before the assessors. The assessors, or a majority of them, assess the value of the property taken, or damage done, and also assess consequential damage to the property not taken, and deduct from such consequential damages the consequential benefits to be derived by the owner from the operation of its franchise by the corporation, or by the carrying on of the business; provided, the consequential benefits assessed shall in no case exceed the consequential damage assessed, and provided the owner shall in all cases receive the actual value of the property taken. The assessors enter their finding on the notice, and within ten days after the award is made it shall be filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court.

Either party may within ten days from the time the award is filed enter in writing an appeal to the Superior Court and at the next term thereof the issue is tried. Entering the appeal does not delay the work, if the applicant to condemn shall pay the owner the amount of the ward, and in case of his refusal to accept same, deposit the amount to be awarded with the clerk of the Superior Court for the benefit of the owner. The tender, payment or acceptance of the amount does not prevent either party from prosecuting the appeal. If the amount of final judgment be more than the award the corporation shall be bound to pay the sum finally adjudged in order to retain the property; and if less the owner shall be bound to refund the excess paid, judgment being rendered against him therefor, to be collected by levy as in other cases.

If no appeal lie, or if the corporation fails to pay the amount of final judgment, the amount can be collected by execution. The party applying for privilege pays costs. Assessors receive two dollars per day each. The party condemning is vested with such interest in property taken as is necessary to exercise the franchise or conduct the business, and when use of the property ceases the property reverts. Assessors have power to issue subpoenas and compel attendance of witnesses.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens except such as have declared their intention to become citizens; and all corporations, except railroad and mining, whose members are not exclusively citizens, or who have declared their intention and become such, shall not acquire any land, other than mineral land, or such as may be necessary for the working of mines or the products thereof. Chinese not born in the United States cannot acquire title to land. Aliens may take and enforce liens on real estate, and may acquire by succession; but non-resident aliens must claim succession within five years. All lands, except mineral, acquired by aliens by inheritance or enforcement of lien, must be sold within five years or they escheat to the State.

II. ATTACHMENTS:

Issue upon affidavit that defendant is indebted to plaintiff and that payment of said indebtedness has not been secured by any mortgage or lien upon real or personal property or any pledge of personal property; or if same has been secured that such security has, without any act of plaintiff, become valueless; or, that defendant is a non-resident. Before attachment issues, plaintiff must give undertaking for costs and damages. Within two days after attachment issues, the clerk of the court must publish notice of the attachment, and any creditor, who, within sixty days after the first publication, puts in judgment, his claim against defendant pro rates with the attachment creditor in the proceeds.

III. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims must be verified, to the effect that the account is correct, that all payments are credited and that there are no offsets. If the estate is less than one thousand five hundred dollars, claims must be presented within four months; if over one thousand five hundred dollars, within ten months.

IV. COURTS:

Supreme Court: Terms fixed annually, but generally fixed at Boise City on the second Mondays in January and November; and at Lewiston on the second Mondays in March and October.

District Court: Terms fixed annually (in January) and frequently changed.

Probate Court is always open for civil business. Probate terms commence on the fourth Monday of each month.

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction to hear on appeal all final orders and judgments of District Courts and judges.

District Court has jurisdiction in all cases at law or in equity.

Probate Court has civil jurisdiction to extent of five hundred dollars or under; and Justice Court has civil jurisdiction to three hundred dollars and under.

Witness, per day	2.00

VI. DEEDS:

Must be signed, acknowledged and recorded. No witnesses are necessary.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

May be taken after issuance of summons. Notice to adversary must specify the title of case, the court, the time and place of taking and names of the witnesses. The certificate of officer taking must show: that deponent was sworn according to law; by whom deposition was written; whether adverse party attended; time and place of taking. Commission necessary only when written interrogatories are used or deposition taken without the United States.

VIII. DESCENT:

Estate of intestate passes in the following order, subject to the debts of the deceased: 1. If surviving husband or wife, and only one surviving child, in equal shares to each; if more than one surviving child, then one-third to surviving husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to the children, or the issue of such as may be dead; if no surviving husband or wife, then in equal shares to the children or the issue of such as may have died. 2. If no issue survive, one-half to the surviving husband or wife, and the other half to the decedent's father and mother, in equal shares, but if either be dead, then the whole of said half goes to the survivor of the other; if no father or mother survive, then one-half goes to the brothers and sisters, or the issue of such as may be dead, in equal shares; if no husband nor wife, nor issue survive the decedent, then the whole goes to the father and mother, if both survive, in equal shares, but if one be dead the whole estate goes to the other. 3. If neither husband, wife, issue, father nor mother survive, in equal shares to his brothers and sisters, or the issue of any that may be dead. 4. The whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife, if no issue, father, mother, brother or sister survive. 5. If neither husband, wife, issue, father, mother, brother, sister, nor issue of brother or sister survive, in equal shares to the next of kin in equal degree; but in case of collateral kindred claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through nearest ancestor are preferred. 6. If more than one child, and one child dies while a minor and unmarried, his share goes in equal parts to the other children, or the issue of such as are dead. 7. If decedent was a widower or widow and leave no kindred, that portion of his estate which was common property at the death of his deceased spouse goes to the father of such deceased spouse, if living, or if such father be dead, to the mother; but if neither the father nor mother of such deceased spouse be living, then to the brothers and sisters, or the issue of such as are dead, in equal parts. 8. If no husband, wife or kindred, the estate escheats to the State for the benefit of the school fund.

Kindred of half blood take equally with those of the full blood in same degree. Husband and wife take one from the other, only as to the separate estate of either, by inheritance. The husband succeeds to all the common property in case of death of the wife. If the husband dies, the wife succeeds to one-half of the common property, and the other half is subject to his testamentary disposition, but if intestate then it goes to his descendants in equal degree equally.

IX. EXECUTIONS:

Issue at any time within five years after judgment.

X. EXEMPTIONS:

Homestead is exempt to the head of a family to the value of five thousand dollars; to other persons, one thousand dollars. Books, chairs, tables, etc., to value of one hundred dollars; household goods, etc., to three hundred dollars; two cows, two hogs and three months' provisions; farming utensils, to three hundred dollars; one wagon, two horses and their harness; tools of mechanic, to five hundred dollars; surgeon's, surveyor's and dentist's instruments, professional libraries and office furniture; cabin of miner to five hundred dollars, and miner's tools, to two hundred dollars; thirty days' earnings of judgment debtor, if necessary for use of his family; life insurance represented by annual premium of two hundred and fifty dollars or less; and building and loan association shares not exceeding one thousand dollars in value. Homestead exemption must be claimed by declaration acknowledged and recorded.

XI. INTEREST AND USURY:

Parties may contract to pay one and one-half per cent per month, but any judgment rendered thereon bears interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum. Ten per cent is the legal rate. Judgments bear ten per cent. Compound interest is not allowed; but an agreement to pay interest upon overdue interest, if overdue at the date of agreement, is valid. Usury makes a forfeiture of ten per cent per annum.

XII. JUDGMENTS:

Of the District Court are liens on real estate for two years. Probate and Justice Court judgments may be docketed in the District Court and so become liens.

XIII. LIENS:

Liens are given generally to contractors, sub-contractors, material men, laborers, mechanics and farm laborers. Must be in writing and recorded, if contractor, within ninety days; other persons sixty days from completion of structure or completion of labor. Must be enforced within six months unless credit is given; and expire within two years at all events.

XIV. LIMITATIONS:

On contracts not in writing, four years; in writing, five years; judgments, six years; real property, five years. Revivor by writing only, not by part payment.

XV. MARRIED WOMEN:

Retain property originally held and that acquired after marriage by gift, bequest, devise or descent. In disposing of separate property, husband must join. May have trustee appointed to manage her property; and may file inventory of separate personal property.

XVI. MORTGAGES:

Chattel mortgages must be accompanied by affidavit of mortgagor that mortgage is made in good faith and without any design to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, and must be acknowledged or proven as are grants of real estate; and the mortgage, or a true copy thereof, filed for record in the county where the mortgaged property is located and kept. These provisions are mandatory and unless complied with the mortgage is void as against creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers and incumbrances of the property in good faith and for value.

If chattel mortgaged property is removed from the county, or sold, concealed or disposed of without the consent of mortgagee, it is larceny. Mortgaged personal property may be attached if tender is made to mortgagee before levy, of the amount due on mortgage. Chattel mortgage may be foreclosed by notice and sale or by action in District Court. The former is a more speedy and summary remedy than the latter.

XVII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Notes payable to "bearer" or "order" are treated as inland bills of exchange. Acceptance must be in writing. No days of grace are allowed. Notice of dishonor may be served personally or by mail. A bill falling due on a holiday may be presented on the following day.

XVIII. SUITS:

Are commenced by filing complaint. Summons may issue within one year. Publication of summons must be made for not less than one month if defendant is a non-resident. When publication is ordered, personal service out of the State is sufficient.

XIX. TAXES:

All taxes are liens. Property is assessable by the second Monday in April of each year. Taxes not paid by the first Monday in January become delinquent; and on the fourth Monday in May such property is then sold; the owner having twelve months in which to redeem. In case of sale a penalty of twenty-five per cent on the amount of the tax must be paid on redemption, with interest on the original amount to the purchaser.

XX. WATER RIGHTS:

The use of all appropriated, or thereafter to be appropriated waters, whether for sale, rental or distribution, is declared to be a public use. The right to collect rates for the use of water is a franchise. The right to divert unappropriated water to beneficial uses is never denied. Priority of appropriation governs. When the waters of a natural stream are insufficient for all using the same, those using for domestic purposes have preference over all others; those using for agricultural purposes have preference over those using for manufacturing purposes; and in a mining district those using for mining purposes have preference over those using for manufacturing or agricultural purposes. The Legislature has formulated enactments similar to the Wright act of California (recently decided invalid by Judge Ross), and has also accepted the provisions of the Carey act (act of Congress, June 30th, 1894), enabling the State to accept certain lands from the United States and to provide for their reclamation, occupation and disposal.

XXI. WILLS:

Every person over eighteen and of sound mind, may make a will. A married woman may will her separate estate without the husband's consent. Wills, except they be nuncupative, must be in writing, subscribed to by the testator, or by some person for him in his presence and also in the presence of two attesting witnesses, who must each sign in the testator's presence. Holographic wills, however, need not be witnessed.

CORPORATIONS.

Corporations may be formed for any lawful purpose by five or more persons, a majority of whom must be residents. Articles of incorporation must state: name and purpose of corporation; principal place of business; duration of existence; number of directors, with the names and residences of those for first year; amount of capital stock (if corporation for profit); amount subscribed and by whom. Said articles must be filed with the county recorder, and a certified copy with the Secretary of State. Stockholders' liability limited. Foreign corporations complying with local law are put on same footing as domestic corporations.

MINING.

I. LOCATION AND RECORD:

Locations under the laws of the United States may extend three hundred feet on each side of the middle of the vein or lode. At the time of discovery, the locator must erect a discovery monument at the place of discovery, showing locator's name, name of location, date of discovery and distance claimed along the vein each way from the monument. Within three days thereafter, locator must mark the boundaries of his claim and the corner or angle it represents. He must, also, at the same time post at the discovery monument his location notice showing: the names of the locator and of the claim; date of discovery; direction and distance claimed along the ledge from discovery; distance claimed on each side of the middle of the ledge; distance and direction from discovery monument to some natural object or permanent monument, if there be any, such as will fix and describe in the notice, the location; the name of the mining district, county and State. The location notice must not contain or describe more than one location even though the location be by one or several locators. Monuments may be of any material or form, so they will readily give notice; must be four feet above ground, and if trees, must be hewn to readily attract attention, and marked facing the discovery, and be at least four inches square or in diameter. Monuments must be taken to mark correctly the line of the location, and the location cannot afterward be changed if interfering with after acquired rights.

Within sixty days after location, there must be sunk a discovery shaft ten feet in depth from the lowest part of the rim at the surface, in area not less than sixteen square feet. A located claim is not subject to re-location for ninety days after date of location, unless there has been an abandonment, or failure to comply with the requirements of law herein mentioned. A location may be amended when there is no interference with existing rights. Within ninety days after the date of location a copy of notice of location must be filed for record in the county recorder's office or of the recorder of the district wherein the claim is situated. Before location notice is filed—whether quartz or placer—it must be accompanied by an affidavit of the locator that he is, or has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, that he is acquainted with the ground described in the location notice; that the ground has not theretofore been located, or if previously located has been abandoned or forfeited; and if a quartz claim, that he has tunnelled, or sunk a shaft to the extent or depth of ten feet.

II. PLACER CLAIMS:

Locators of placers are governed in the location thereof, by the location of lode claims; but placer claims must be recorded within thirty days from date of location.

III. ASSESSMENT WORK:

Within sixty days after any time set for the performance of labor upon lode or placer claims, an affidavit of the performance of labor must be filed; said affidavit to be subscribed by the person in whose behalf such labor is performed or some person for him. Such affidavit is prima facie evidence of the performance of labor, and failure to file is prima facie evidence that no labor has been performed.

IV. ABANDONED CLAIMS:

Abandoned claims are re-located in the same manner as original locations, except that the locator may sink the original discovery shaft ten feet deeper instead of sinking a new shaft, or run the tunnel ten feet further along the course of the lode. New monuments must be erected.

County recorders, upon petition of ten or more miners of a mining district, must appoint deputies therefor, if said district is twenty miles distant from an existing office. If the recorder fails to appoint a deputy, the miners may make such appointment.

When the right to mine is separate from the ownership or right of occupancy of the surface ground, the miners must give security to such owners or occupants if demanded, and may be enjoined until security is given.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens possess the same rights to acquire and own personal property as citizens. Aliens are generally incapable of taking and holding real estate. Heirs of aliens who have heretofore acquired lands may take by devise or descent and hold for three years if of age, five years if not of age. Minor aliens residing in the United States may acquire title and hold for six years after they might declare their intention to become citizens. Aliens, residents of the United States who have declared their intention to become citizens, may take and hold real estate if at the time of acquiring the lands a certified copy of their intention to become citizens is filed for record in the county in which the land lies. Aliens may also take valid title to real estate by purchase at any sale under lien or judgment, and may hold and sell at any time within the next three years. As a rule, failure to dispose of the property within the time limited causes it to escheat to the State.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Debtor cannot make preferences. Claim must be filed with assignee within three months from publication and mailing of notice to creditors by assignee. Proving claim and accepting dividends does not discharge debtor. The assignee must file a list of claims proven within three months after the assignment. Claims may be contested within thirty days after the list is filed. Wages of laborers or servants earned within three months before the assignment are preferred if duly proven.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Where the debt is due, and exceeds twenty dollars, attachment may issue in the following cases:

Where the debtor is not a resident of this State. When the debtor conceals himself or stands in defiance of an officer, so that process cannot be served upon him. Where the debtor has departed from this State with the intention of having his effects removed from this State. Where the debtor is about to depart from this State with the intention of having his effects removed from this State. Where the debtor is about to remove his property from this State to the injury of such creditor. Where the debtor has within two years preceding the filing of the affidavit required fraudulently conveyed or assigned his effects, or a part thereof, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. Where the debtor has within two years prior to the filing of such affidavit fraudulently concealed or disposed of his property so as to hinder or delay his creditors. Where the debtor is about fraudulently to conceal, assign, or otherwise dispose of his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. Where the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted on the part of the debtor; provided, the statements of the debtor, his agent, or attorney, which constitute the fraud, shall have been reduced to writing, and his signature attached thereto, by himself, agent or attorney.

Affidavit may be signed by the creditor, his agent, or attorney. Bond in double the amount of the debt is required. Non-resident plaintiffs must also give separate bond for costs. All judgments in attachment against the same defendant, returnable at the same term of court, and all judgments against him in suits by summons, capias, or attachment recovered at that term, or at the term when the first judgment is obtained, share pro rata.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claimants against estates of deceased persons are required to produce their claims in writing at a term of the Probate Court fixed by the administrator within six months of administration, of which six weeks' notice has been given, unless the court otherwise orders. Claims may be subsequently filed and still be pro rata. Claims not objected to by the administrator or other interested parties are allowed if verified by claimant. If objected to, they must be proven in court. Claims are classified and paid as follows: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Widow's award. 3. Expenses of last illness, exclusive of physician's bill. 4. Debts due the school or town fund. 5. Expenses of administration and physician's bill in last illness. 6. Money held by deceased in trust. 7. All other demands. Every debt shares pro rata in its class.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court holds its sessions as follows: At Mount Vernon on the first Tuesday in May and third Tuesday of November; at Springfield on the first Tuesday of January and first Tuesday of June; and at Ottawa on the first Tuesday of March and the first Tuesday of October. It is the court of last resort. It has original jurisdiction in cases relating to the revenue, in mandamus and habeas corpus and appellate jurisdiction in all other cases, and may issue all writs necessary to enforce the due administration of justice. Appeals lie to it direct in all criminal cases above the grade of misdemeanors; cases in which a franchise, or freehold, or the validity of a statute, or construction of the constitution is involved; cases relating to the revenue, or in which the State is interested as a party or otherwise; and from judgments of the Appellate Court in affirmed civil cases where the amount in controversy exceeds one thousand dollars, exclusive of costs.

The Appellate Court holds its sessions as follows: The First District, at Chicago, on the first Tuesdays in March and October; the Second District, at Ottawa, on the third Tuesday in May and the first Tuesday in December; the Third District, at Springfield, on the third Tuesdays of May and November, and the Fourth District, at Mount Vernon, on the fourth Tuesdays of February and August. Its jurisdiction is appellate only, which it exercises in all criminal cases below the grade of felony, and in appeals from final orders, judgments and decrees of trial courts in civil cases, except those cases noted as going direct to the Supreme Court. Its decisions are final in civil cases involving one thousand dollars or less, unless a majority of the judges certify to the Supreme Court that a question of law of special importance is involved.

Circuit Courts have original jurisdiction of all cases in law and equity, and appellate jurisdiction in sundry matters appealable from the County and Probate Courts and justices of the peace. The terms in the counties are various as to time, and are fixed by statute.

The Superior Court of Cook County has concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Courts.

County Courts have jurisdiction in all probate matters, settlement of estates of decedents, appointment of guardians, servitors, and settlement of accounts; all matters of prentices, proceedings for the collection of taxes, proceedings by executors, administrators, guardians and conservators for the sale of real estate for purposes authorized by law, and such other jurisdiction as may be provided. They also have civil jurisdiction where the amount in controversy does not exceed one thousand dollars and concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court in appeals from justices of the peace and police magistrates.

Probate Courts may be organized in counties of a population of seventy thousand or more and have original jurisdiction in all matters of probate, settlement of estates of decedents, appointment of guardians and conservators, settlement of accounts, matters relating to apprentices, and the sale of real estate for the payment of debts.

All of the foregoing are courts of record.

Justices of the peace have jurisdiction to the extent of two hundred dollars in the following actions: 1. Suits on contracts to recover money. 2. Damages for injury to real property or for taking, detaining or injuring personal property. 3. For rent and distress for rent. 4. Against railroads and those operating them for the killing and injuring of live stock and loss or injury to personal or real property because of fire from railroad engines or otherwise. 5. In replevin. 6. In attachment. 7. For damages for fraud in the sale, purchase, or exchange of personal property, and in all cases where debt and assumpsit will lie. The amount actually due after deducting all set-offs governs the jurisdiction.

VII. DEEDS:

Must be signed and sealed by grantor. A scrawl by way of seal is sufficient. Witnesses are not necessary. The words "convey and warrant" include all the covenants of a warranty deed. Dower is released by wife or husband, as case may be, joining in deed. A married woman may convey her own property to same extent and in same manner as husband may. Acknowledgment by a married woman is made the same as if she were unmarried and has same effect. She need not be examined separately and apart.

Conveyances of real estate done within the State may be acknowledged before a master in chancery, notary public, United States commissioner, Circuit or County Court clerk, justice of the peace, or any court of record having a seal, or any judge, justice, or clerk of such court. If before a notary, United States commissioner, court, or clerk thereof, the same must be attested by official seal; and when taken before a justice, in a county where the lands do not lie, the county clerk must certify under seal of office, that the person taking such acknowledgment was a justice of the peace of said county at the time of taking same.

If done without the State and within the United States, acknowledgment of conveyance may be made before a justice of the peace, notary, United States commissioner, commissioner to take acknowledgment of deeds, mayor of a city, clerk of a county, or any judge, justice, or clerk of the Supreme, or any Circuit or District Court of the United States; or any judge, justice, or clerk of the Supreme, Circuit, Superior, District, County or Common Pleas Court of any of the United States or territories. Officers using official seals must affix the same. If before a justice of the peace, the certificate of the proper clerk, under seal, to the justice's authority must be added. Acknowledgment may be made in conformity with the laws of such state or territory, or the law itself proven.

If done without the United States, acknowledgment may be made before any court having a seal; any mayor or chief officer of any city or town having a seal; or before any minister or secretary of legation, or consul of the United States under seal; or before any officer authorized by the laws of such foreign country to take such acknowledgments; if he have an official seal, the same to be affixed, and proof to be attached that such officer was authorized by the laws of his country to take such acknowledgment. The certificate of a consul or minister of the United States in such country, under his official seal, that the instrument is executed in conformity with such foreign law is prima facie evidence thereof.

The officer must certify that the grantor is personally known to him to be the same person whose name is subscribed to such deed or writing, as having executed the same; and that he appeared before him in person and acknowledged that he signed, sealed and delivered the said instrument as his free and voluntary act for the uses and purposes therein set forth. In case of homestead the following must be added: "Including the release and waiver of the right of homestead." Husband and wife must both join in the release of homestead.

All instruments affecting title to real estate must be recorded in the county where such property is situated, and take effect from filing for record, as to creditors and purchasers, without notice. A deed ordered to be made under a decree of the court by a commissioner or master in chancery must be recorded within six months after execution. Tax deed must be recorded within one year after the time of redemption expires.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The deposition of a witness who resides in this State more than one hundred miles from the court, or not residing in this State, or who is engaged in the military or naval service out of this State, may be taken on commission and written interrogatories on ten days' notice. The deposition of any non-resident witness may also be had, under a commission on oral interrogatories, on ten days' notice, and in addition of one day (Sunday included) for every one hundred miles from the court to the place of the taking of the deposition. The commission is directed to a named person, or to any judge, master in chancery, notary public, or justice of the peace of the county or city where the witness resides; but when taken out of the State before other than a named commissioner, the return must be accompanied by a certificate of his official character, under the great seal of the state, or seal of a court of record of the county or city where the deposition is taken.

The witness, previous to the examination, is required to be sworn, or affirmed by the commissioner to testify the truth in relation to the matters in controversy, so far as interrogated. Questions and answers are required to be written in full, in the order proposed and answered, and the deposition to be signed by the witness; and when completed the commissioner is required to annex at the foot a certificate stating that it was sworn to by the witness, and showing the time and place where taken. The deposition thus taken, and all exhibits produced or proved or referred to by any witness, together with the commission and interrogatories, are required to be enclosed, sealed up, and directed to the clerk of the court, with the names of the parties litigant indorsed thereon. A party, his attorney, or other interested person, is not permitted to dictate, write or draw up any deposition, or to be present during the taking of any deposition by written interrogatories. Authority is conferred on the commissioner, and on commissioners acting under commissions or notices from other states, to issue subpoenas and compel attendance of witnesses. Every deposition must be reduced to writing in the presence of the officer before whom it is taken and signed by the witness. If any paper or exhibit is produced and proved, or referred to by the witness, it ought to be described in his deposition, or marked and referred to by the deponent, in such manner that it may be identified when the deposition is read; and all such papers and exhibits must be attached to and returned with the deposition. If the officer taking the deposition have an official seal, it must be affixed to each certificate.

IX. DESCENT:

After all debts are fully paid, the real and personal estates of those who die without making wills descend as follows, to-wit: 1. To children and their descendants in equal parts; the descendants of the deceased child or grandchild taking share of their parents in equal parts. 2. There being no child nor descendant of such, and no widow or surviving husband, then to the parents, brothers and sisters and their descendants in equal parts, each parent taking a child's part, or the survivor a double portion. If no parent is living, then to the brothers and sisters and their descendants. 3. When a widow or husband survives and no child or descendant of child, one-half the real and all the personal estate goes to the widow or surviving husband and the other half of the real estate descends as in other cases where there is no child or descendant of child. 4. Where widow or husband survive and also child or descendants of child the widow or surviving husband takes one-third of all the personal estate. 5. If there is no child or descendant of child, and no parent, brother or sister or descendant of such, and no widow or surviving husband, then the estate goes in equal parts to the next of kin in equal degree, computing by the civil law. There is no distinction between the whole and the half blood. 6. If widow or husband survive, but no kindred, the estate descends to such widow or husband. 7. If no kindred, widow or husband survive, the estate escheats to the county in which said real or personal estate, or the greater portion of it, is situated.

X. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Private property may be taken for public use, for public roads, for railroads, roads to mines and mills, but not without compensation first made.

The party authorized to take or damage the property required for such purpose may apply to the judge of the Circuit or County Court by filing a petition setting forth the authority and purpose for which the property is to be taken, a description of the property and the names of all persons interested in the property, if known. The judge orders a summons issued to each resident defendant and notice published to each non-resident defendant. The case may be heard in vacation or term after ten days' service of process. Any number of separate pieces of property may be included in one petition if they are in the same county, but the compensation must be assessed separately by jury. New parties may be brought before the court whenever necessary.

When the summons is issued the clerk makes out a list of sixty-four disinterested freeholders and from them a sheriff's jury of twelve is selected by lot. This jury is sworn, examines the property, hears the proof and makes a written report under the direction of the judge, showing how much damage each person is entitled to. Benefits or advantages to the property because of the improvement cannot be deducted from the compensation. Upon receiving the report the judge makes an order that the petitioner may enter upon the property for the purpose specified, upon the payment of the ascertained compensation.

Appeals lie from the decision of the court to the Supreme Court. If the party whose property is damaged appeals, the petitioner may enter upon the use of the property before the appeal is decided, if he gives a bond conditioned to pay the compensation finally adjudged. The compensation may be paid to the county treasurer, and he shall, on demand, pay it to the party entitled thereto.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

May issue immediately after judgment, at any time within seven years thereafter, and to any county. If execution is not issued within one year judgment ceases to be a lien on realty, but if issued thereafter, becomes a lien from time of delivery to proper officer to be executed. Real estate shall be levied on first unless defendant turns out personal property. Execution binds personalty from time of delivery to proper officer to be executed, and is returnable in ninety days. When issued to another county and there levied on real estate, the officer must file a certificate thereof in the recorder's office before the lien attaches. All goods and chattels, real and personal, except exemptions, may be sold on execution. Three weeks' notice of sale of realty and ten days' of personalty must be given. No execution can be issued by a justice of the peace for twenty days after judgment, unless upon affidavit that debt will be lost unless execution issue forthwith. Execution from a justice of the peace cannot be levied on realty, but is a lien on personalty from time of delivery to officer, is returnable in seventy days, and may issue at any time within seven years after judgment.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

The following articles of personal property owned by the debtor are exempt, namely: Necessary wearing apparel, Bibles, school books, family pictures of every person, and one hundred dollars' worth of other property, to be selected by the debtor; and in addition, when the debtor is the head of a family, and resides with the same, three hundred dollars' worth of other property, to be selected by the debtor; but which selection shall not be allowed from money, salary or wages due the debtor. Should any of the exempted property be seized, double its value may be recovered.

When the head of a family dies, deserts or does not reside with the same, the family is entitled to the exemptions.

Appraisement: When exemptions are claimed, the debtor is required to deliver to the officer having the writ, a schedule under oath, embracing all his personal property, including money and debts due him, and property not included therein is not exempted. The property is then appraised by three householders, and the debtor selects such as he desires at the appraised value, and the excess over the exemptions to which he is entitled he delivers to the officer. There is no exemption where the debt lies for a servant's or laborer's wages.

XIII. HOMESTEAD:

Every householder having a family is entitled to a homestead of the value of one thousand dollars, if occupied as a residence. The exemption, unless released by deed, extends to the husband or wife surviving, and to the children until the youngest becomes twenty-one, so long as they continue in the occupancy of the homestead. Homesteads are not exempt from liabilities incurred for their purchase or improvement. The proceeds of any sale by the owner are exempt to the extent of one thousand dollars for one year. If the premises are supposed to exceed in value one thousand dollars, an appraisal is had, and if the property can be divided without injury, so much, including the dwelling, as shall be worth one thousand dollars, is set off as exempt, and the residue may be sold. If the premises cannot be divided, the debtor has the option to pay the excess over one thousand dollars on the execution, or to suffer a sale and receive one thousand dollars of the proceeds, the excess over that sum being applied on the execution. In case of the loss of an insured building so exempt the insurance money is exempt to the same extent.

XIV. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate is five per cent, but seven per cent by contract. Interest at five per cent accrues after maturity on written instruments for the payment of money. Creditors are entitled to five per cent on money lent or advanced, or due on the settlement of account, from date of liquidation and settling the balance; on money received to the use of another, and retained without the owner's knowledge; and on money withheld unreasonably and vexatiously. Judgments bear five per cent. The penalty for contracting for, or receiving more than seven per cent, is forfeiture of all the interest. A corporation cannot plead usury.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

In courts of record are a lien on the real estate of debtor in the county where rendered for seven years, but may be revived. There are no priorities between judgments rendered at same term of court.

Transcript from another county being filed in the office of a clerk of a court of record, operates as a judgment. When execution is not issued on a judgment within one year the lien ceases, but execution may issue any time within seven years and becomes a lien from the time of delivery to officer. Judgments may be revived within twenty years. Judgments may be confessed in term time or vacation, in person or by attorney, without process. Judgment notes are used.

XVI. LIENS:

Any person who shall, by any contract with the owner of a lot or tract of land, or with one whom such owner has authorized or knowingly permitted to improve the same, furnish materials or improve the said lot in any manner, or perform services as architect, or furnish or perform services as special contractor or otherwise on the order of the person having charge of the improvements in building, altering, repairing or renovating the same, shall be known as a contractor, and have a lien upon the building and land and upon adjoining lots of owner constituting the same premises. Said lien further extends to any estate, right of redemption or other interest which such owner may have. If not filed in thirty days the lien attaches from the date of filing. It must be filed within four months after the last payment shall have become due. In the case of sub-contractors, the lien must be filed within two months.

The lien attaches as of the date of the contract, but as against attaching creditors it shall not attach unless within thirty days thereafter the contractor shall file in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court a statement of the substance of his contract.

Hotel and boarding-house keepers have liens upon their guests' baggage and valuables.

Stable keepers and agisters have liens on the animals, vehicles, etc., for feed, stable, etc.

Liens for supplies, work and damages are also given against steamboat, canal boat and other water craft.

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

No person shall commence an action for the recovery of lands, or make entry thereon, unless within twenty years after right to bring such action or make such entry accrues.

Actions for slander and libel shall be commenced within one year after cause of action accrues.

For damages for injury to the person, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, a statutory penalty, abduction, seduction, or criminal conversation, shall be commenced within two years after cause of action accrues.

Actions on oral contracts, express or implied, to recover damages for injury to property, real or personal, and all civil actions not otherwise provided for, shall be commenced within five years after cause of action accrues. On open accounts statute runs five years from date of last payment or agreement to pay. Actions on bonds, bills and notes, written leases, written contracts, or other written evidence of indebtedness, shall be commenced within ten years after cause of action accrues. Payment, or new promise to pay, in writing, extends time ten years from time when made. Generally, the statute does not run during absence from the State.

XVIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman may receive, use and possess her own earnings and property, both real and personal; may sue and be sued, make wills, acknowledge sale of and convey property; may carry on business in her own name, and be held liable therefor as though single, but cannot enter into a partnership business without the assent of her husband; is not liable for husband's debts, but property of both is liable for expenses of the family. Transfers of goods and chattels between husband and wife must be in writing and be recorded as chattel mortgages are. Neither can recover from the other for services. A married woman living apart from her husband without her fault may sue for reasonable support and maintenance.

XIX. MILLS:

Any person owning land on one or both sides of a water-course, who desires to repair or build a mill or erect or improve a dam, may, if the compensation for the land taken cannot be agreed upon, cause the damage to be appraised by filing a petition in the County or Circuit Court and giving notice to all persons interested, both personally and by sixty days' publication in some newspaper. After the requisite notice has been given, a jury is selected to ascertain and report a just compensation and decide whether the health of the neighborhood will be injuriously affected. If not, and the improvement will not injure any existing mill, the applicant is allowed to make the improvement upon paying the damages assessed by the jury. Applicant has three months after jury report in which to decide whether he will pay the amount fixed by the jury. If he does not accept their verdict, the proceedings are at an end. If he does accept he must pay the damages with all costs and a reasonable attorney's fee, and must make the improvement in from one to three years, according to its nature. If the improvement, after erection, be destroyed, the owner has five years in which to replace it.

To maliciously injure, remove or destroy any canal, levee, dam, reservoir or trench, or the gear or machinery of any mill, or to draw off, or cause to be drawn off, the water from any mill-pond, reservoir, canal or trench, whereby any water-power is injured or its use impaired, is an offense punishable by fine of five hundred dollars or imprisonment for one year.

The municipal board in each city and village have authority to allow the construction of mills, mill-races or feeders through or across the streets, under such restrictions as they may deem proper.

XX. MORTGAGES:

Real estate mortgages are executed and acknowledged in the same manner as deeds. Wife and husband must join, except in mortgages to secure purchase money. In rare cases the law permits strict foreclosures; that is, the creditor takes the property in full payment of the debt without redemption. If the property is worth less than the debt mortgagor is insolvent and there are no subsequent lien holders. They may also be foreclosed by bill in chancery or by fieri facias. Deeds which are intended only as security are treated as mortgages. Deficiency judgments may be entered.

Chattel mortgages are not valid as against third parties, unless property be delivered to the grantee, or unless instrument provides for possession with the mortgagor and is acknowledged before a justice of the peace and recorded. Are not valid beyond two years unless an extension is filed, and a certified copy of the extension, before the justice before whom the mortgage was acknowledged, or his successor. Chattel mortgages of household goods must be joined in by husband and wife.

XXI. NOTES AND BILLS:

Days of grace are abolished. Makers, drawers, acceptors, endorsers and guarantors may all be sued in the same action. The legal holidays are: January 1st, or New Year's Day; February 12th, or Lincoln's birthday; February 22d, or Washington's birthday; May 30th, or Decoration Day; July 4th, or Independence Day; first Monday in September, or Labor Day; a Thursday in November, or Thanksgiving Day; December 25th, or Christmas Day; and Sundays and the days upon which the general, State, county or city elections shall be held. Notes maturing on these days are deemed to have matured the first secular day following. When a public holiday falls on Sunday the day following shall be the holiday.

XXII. SUITS:

All except local actions are brought in the county where the defendant resides or is found, but when there are several defendants, suit may be brought where one defendant resides. Process may issue to any other county for the other defendants. If an affidavit showing the nature of plaintiff's demand and the amount due is filed it will entitle him to judgment as in the case of default, unless the defendant shall file with his bill an affidavit stating that he verily believes that he has a good defense to said suit upon the merits. Non-resident plaintiffs are required to file security for costs. Common law forms of action obtain; but the distinction between trespass and trespass on the case is abolished and counts in trover and replevin may be joined.

XXIII. TAXES:

The owner of property on the first day of May in any year is liable for the State and county taxes of that year. The taxes assessed on real property are a lien thereon from and including May 1st in each year. Those assessed upon personal property are a lien from the time the tax books are received by the collector. State and county taxes are payable on the 1st of December in each year to the township collector, who holds the books until the 10th of March, when he turns them over to the county collector, and from that date until the day of sale, payments are made to the county collector. Due and unpaid taxes on real estate bear interest after May 1st at one per cent per month until paid or forfeited; parts of a month to be reckoned as a month. The county collector at any time after the 1st of April may advertise the property on which the taxes are still unpaid, and apply for judgment at the May term of the County Court. The sale commences on the fourth Monday after the first day of the term at which judgment is rendered.

The property may be redeemed within six months, on paying twenty-five per cent interest; within twelve months, fifty per cent; within eighteen months, seventy-five per cent; within two years, one hundred per cent, and paying in addition all taxes paid by the purchaser after the sale, with ten per cent interest thereon.

If the purchaser suffers the property to be again sold before the second annual tax sale from the time of its purchase, he is not entitled to a deed until the expiration of a like term from the second sale, during which time the land is still subject to redemption as above; but the person redeeming is only required to pay for the use of the first purchaser the amount paid by him, and the second purchaser is entitled to the redemption money with interest as above stated, at any time after the redemption expires. The records of all sales are with the county clerk.

XXIV. WAGES:

When the property of any person, company or corporation is seized on process, or when their business is suspended by the action of creditors, or put in the hands of a receiver or trustee, the wages of laborers or servants to the extent of fifty dollars, if earned within the preceding six months, are preferred debts and shall be paid in full. No personal property is exempt from attachment or execution when the debt is for wages of a laborer or servant, providing the court rendering the judgment shall so find. The wages of the head of a family to the amount of fifty dollars is exempt from garnishment. Where the debtor makes an assignment, wages of laborers and servants earned within three months next preceding and filed within three months after such assignment are preferred and must be paid in full.

Whenever a mechanic, artisan, miner, laborer, servant or employer shall have cause to bring suit for his or her wages, upon making demand in writing at least three days before suit, the court shall allow an attorney's fee of five dollars if in a Justice Court and ten dollars in the Circuit Court to be taxed as costs. It is unlawful for any employer to make deductions from the wages of his servants, except for money advanced, and except such sum as may be agreed upon for a hospital or relief fund for sick or injured employees. Deductions made from the wages may be recovered in any appropriate action together with a reasonable attorney's fee, and no off-set or counter claim of any kind shall be allowed. Where there is no special contract, eight hours constitutes a legal day's work, except in farm employment.

It is unlawful for any person, company or corporation engaged in mining or manufacturing to be interested directly or indirectly in keeping a truck store or scheme for furnishing supplies to their employees and they are liable for each offense to a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars.

Payment of and Lien for Wages: Every manufacturing, mining or other corporation must pay its employees weekly all wages earned by such employees due within six days of the date of the payment, under penalty of a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

Every laborer or miner shall have a lien upon the property of the firm or corporation owning, constructing or operating the mine, including railroads, buildings, engines, cars, mills, scales, and all other personal property, which may be enforced as a mechanic's lien.

XXV. WILLS:

Every male person of the age of twenty-one years, and every female of the age of eighteen years, whether married or single, being of sound mind and memory, shall have power by will or testament to devise all the estate, right, title, and interest in possession, remainder, or reversion, which he or she hath, or at the time of his or her death shall have in and to any lands, tenements and hereditaments, goods or chattels and personal estate of every description.

A devise to a witness to the execution of the will renders the will null and void as to the bequest to said witness, or those claiming under him, unless it is attested by two other competent witnesses. Every will shall be in writing, signed by the testator, or by some person by his direction in his presence, and shall be attested by two or more competent witnesses subscribing their names to the will in the presence of the testator.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Whenever any number of persons, not less than three nor more than seven, shall propose to form a corporation they shall make a statement to that effect under their hands and duly acknowledge before some officer in the manner provided for the acknowledgment of deeds, setting forth the name of the proposed corporation, its object, amount of capital stock, number of shares, location of the principal office and duration of the corporation (the last not exceeding ninety-nine years). The Secretary of State shall thereupon issue to such persons a license as commissioners to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said corporation at such times and places as they may determine. As soon as the stock shall have been fully subscribed the commissioner shall convene a meeting of the subscribers for the purpose of electing officers and the transaction of such business as may come before them. In the election of directors cumulative voting must be permitted. Notice of such meeting shall be given by depositing in the postoffice properly addressed to each subscriber at least ten days before the time fixed a written or printed notice stating the object, time and place of such meeting. The commissioners shall make a full report of their proceedings, including therein a copy of the notice, a copy of the subscription list and the names of the directors or managers elected and their term of office, which shall be sworn to by at least a majority of the commissioners and filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State thereupon issues a certificate of incorporation, which shall be recorded in a special book in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county where the principal office is located. When so recorded the corporation is deemed fully organized.

II. LICENSE FEES:

License fees must be paid as follows: Twenty-five hundred dollars and under, thirty dollars; five thousand dollars and under, fifty dollars, and one dollar for each one thousand dollars of capital stock over five thousand dollars.

III. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Foreign corporations may have the same rights and powers as domestic corporations and are subject to the same liabilities, restrictions and duties. Annual reports are not required and they cannot own real estate not needed for corporate purposes. Stockholders are liable to creditors for the unpaid balance of their stock only. The company must proceed to business within two years of date of license.

IV. SPECIAL ENACTMENTS:

There are special and lengthy enactments upon the incorporation of banking, insurance, trust, railroad and building and loan companies.

MINING.

I. RIGHT OF WAY:

Whenever any mine cannot be worked without a road or railroad thereto, or a ditch or drain to convey water to or from it, the owner or operator of the mine may appropriate land sufficient to construct such railroad, road or ditch by proceeding under the law relative to eminent domain. ("X. Eminent Domain.")

The commissioners of highways may cause to be laid out and opened public highways or private cartways from any coal mine to a public highway or a railway in the same way as public highways are laid out. They may also permit the owner or operator of the coal mine to construct or operate a horse or dummy railway thereon or on any other highway, but the same must be so constructed as not to unnecessarily interfere with public travel.

II. TRESPASS:

If the owner of land adjacent to a mine makes written complaint under oath to any judge in the county where the land is situated, stating that he has reasonable grounds to and does believe that the owner and operator of the mine is trespassing on his lands by mining, the judge may appoint a county surveyor or other suitable person to descend into the mine and make such examinations and surveys as may be necessary. The person so appointed has the right to descend into the mine and make examinations and surveys, and if any person obstruct or hinder him from entering the mine or performing his duty he shall be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars. If any person accept such appointment from the judge and then refuse to make the survey he commits a contempt of court and may be fined five hundred dollars. The expense of such examinations must be paid by the complainant; but if the complainant recover damages against the mine owner for mining on his land, the expense shall be added to the damages. Whoever willfully trespasses on the land of another by mining thereon shall pay the damages and also be liable to penalty of not over five hundred dollars, to be collected by the owner of the land trespassed on.

III. CONVEYANCE OF MINING RIGHT:

Any mining right or the right to dig for any mineral on the land may be sold, leased or conveyed by deed or lease, to be acknowledged and recorded the same as like instruments affecting real estate. The conveying by deed or lease of a mining right separates such right from the land, and such right and the land are taxed separately, the same as though they were separate pieces of real estate.

IV. PURCHASE OF LEAD MINERAL:

All persons purchasing lead mineral must keep a book, in which an account of all lead mineral bought by him is kept. The amount, from whom and when purchased and the place where such mineral was dug must be entered in such book. The party purchasing must make diligent inquiry of the person offering the mineral for sale, and if the answers are not satisfactory it is unlawful to buy it. Such purchaser must keep his book at his place of business, open at all reasonable times for inspection by miners, owners of mineral land and smelters. If the purchaser has no usual place of business to keep the book at, he must within twenty-four hours after making such purchase report to the nearest smelter of lead ore, and the smelter shall make the same record in his book. Purchasing lead mineral from children under twelve years of age is forbidden by law. Violating the law relative to purchasing lead mineral or keeping the book of such purchases renders the offender liable to pay a forfeit varying from five dollars to twenty-five dollars for each offense.

V. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The State is divided into seven inspection districts, with an inspector in each, appointed by the Governor for a term of two years, upon the recommendation of a board of examiners composed of two practical coal miners, two coal operators and one mining engineer, to be appointed by the bureau of labor statistics of this State. Inspectors may be removed for neglect or malfeasance. Inspectors must be thirty years of age, citizens of Illinois and have a knowledge of mining engineering sufficient to conduct the development of coal mines. They must have had a practical mining experience of ten years and must not be interested as owner, operator, stockholder or superintendent or mining engineer of any coal mine during their term of office. Must be of good moral character and good, temperate habits; must provide themselves with the most improved modern instruments for carrying out the intention of this act, and must give a bond for five thousand dollars. The inspector must inspect each and every mine in his district four times a year and as often as he may deem proper and necessary. He must keep a detailed record of all inspections; and a fee for inspection of not less than six dollars nor more than ten dollars, which shall be fixed by the inspector, must be paid by the operator of the mine for each inspection.

The State Inspector must procure for the State Geologist a true record of the various strata through which coal shafts are sunk or borings for coal, oil, gas or artesian water are made; report the altitude of the entrance to such shafts and bore holes as compared with some specified point on the nearest railroad; and he must also report the dip of the coal stratum in all mines which are being operated.

VI. MAPS AND PLANS:

The owner, operator or superintendent of any coal mine must make or have made an accurate map of the mine, showing all details thereof, the section lines of the land and the direction of the air currents of the mine. This map must show the date of each survey. If more than one seam of coal be worked, a separate map must be made for each seam. A true copy of this map must be delivered to the State Inspector of Mines for the district, and by him filed and retained for reference. Such maps are the property of the State and are open to the inspection of the public. In July of each year this map must be corrected. A copy of the map and all corrections must be kept at the mine. If a coal mine is about to be abandoned, a map must be completed and filed before abandonment. If the operator of the mine fails to furnish a satisfactory map, the inspector causes one to be made at the owner's expense.

VII. SAFETY ESCAPEMENT SHAFTS:

In all coal mines where more than six men are employed there must be, in addition to the hoisting shaft opening, a separate escapement shaft so that there will be two distinct available means of ingress and egress. Passage-ways to escapement shafts must be at least five feet wide and five feet high. The escapement shafts are constructed under the direction of the inspector, and must have stairways not steeper than forty-five degrees; provided that if the mine be not more than one hundred feet deep the inspector may allow suitable hoisting apparatus instead of stairways. No obstructions or ice can be permitted in any escapement shaft or on any stairway. By agreement between adjacent owners of mines where the workings are driven together and a roadway kept open between, they may use each other's escapement shaft.

VIII. VENTILATION:

A sufficient amount of air, not less than one hundred cubic feet for each man and six hundred cubic feet for each animal per minute must be provided in every coal mine. The said volume of air shall be forced throughout the coal mine, freeing the mine from impure gases of every kind. All mines where men are employed shall be examined every morning for gas and improper ventilation, and no one shall be allowed to enter the mine until the examiner shall have reported all of the conditions safe. Daily records of the condition of the mine must be kept in a book for that purpose, which book shall be open to examination by the employes and inspector. If the galleries, roadways or entries are filled with dust they must be regularly and thorcughly sprinkled. Only one day's use of powder may be stored in the mine at one time. If persons unaccustomed to inflammable gases or the handling of explosives are employed they must be placed under the charge of competent men.

IX. CAGES AND HOISTING MACHINERY:

Every operator of a coal mine must provide a safe cage covered with boiler iron for hoisting or lowering persons, with brakes, safety catches and other appliances to prevent injury in consequence of the cable breaking, or the machinery being disconnected. In every coal mine operated by shaft and steam power there must be competent persons at the top and bottom of every shaft, who shall have charge of all hoisting, be furnished with sufficient light, and use the statutory code of signals. Men in charge of any engine must be competent, sober engineers not less than eighteen years of age. No more than twelve persons can ride in a cage at one time and coal cannot be hoisted while persons are in the cages. No cage containing persons can be lowered or hoisted more than six hundred feet a minute.

X. EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN:

No child under fourteen nor any woman is permitted to work in any coal mine. Any boy offering to work in any coal mine must produce an affidavit from his parent or guardian showing that he is over fourteen years of age. Violation of this provision or failure to obey the law regarding hoisting and lowering persons is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine in the discretion of the court.

XI. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

The operator of a mine must provide bore-holes twenty feet in advance of and on both sides of a working place when driving toward an abandoned mine or part of a mine suspected to contain gas or to be filled with water.

All boilers used by coal mines must be kept in good order and inspected by competent boiler makers every six months, or oftener if the inspector requires it, and the result certified to the mine inspector. The steam boiler must be provided with steam gauge, water gauge and safety valve.

The top of every shaft and the entry to every vein or slope must be securely fenced. All single track planes on which cars are drawn must have proper means of signaling and whitewashed places of refuge not more than ten yards apart. Bottoms of shafts must be supplied with travel ways by which men can pass from one side to the other without going under cages. All sumps must be securely planked over.

The operator of every mine must keep a supply of props and cap-pieces on hand and deliver same with the miner's empty car.

All engines, boiler-houses, hoisting derricks and other machinery must be roofed and sided with fire-proof materials, and there must be provided a steam pump and a sufficient supply of water and hose to guard against fire. If this is not done the inspector proceeds in the same manner as though the operator refused to allow the mine to be inspected.

All miners must use copper needles, and not less than five inches of copper on the end of all iron bars used for tamping blasts of powder, under penalty of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars.

Only pure animal or vegetable oil or other oil as free from smoke, which shall have a flash point of not less than sixty degrees Fahrenheit, and a specific gravity of not more than twenty-four degrees Tagliabue, shall be used for illuminating purposes in mines.

It is unlawful to operate a coal mine without first having complied with all the conditions and sanitary regulations required under existing laws.

XII. DEATH OR INJURY:

For any injury occasioned by violation of the law governing coal mining a right of action accrues to the party injured for all damages sustained; and in case of loss of life through such violation the widow, heirs, adopted children or any other person dependent on the one killed may recover not exceeding five thousand dollars.

XIII. MISDEMEANORS:

Any injury to the machinery, obstruction of airways, carrying lights into places worked by safety lamps, disturbing the machinery of the hoisting engines, or doing any other act whereby the lives and health of the persons working in the mine or the security of the mine or its machinery are endangered is a misdemeanor punishable by such fine as the court may direct.

XIV. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The operator of every coal mine at which the miners are paid by weight must provide at the mines suitable and accurate scales for the weighing of all coal mined. All coal must be carefully weighed and a correct record kept of the weight of each miner's car, and the record kept open at all reasonable hours for inspection. The person weighing coal and keeping the record must, before beginning so to do, make an affidavit that he will correctly weigh and true record keep of all coal mined, the affidavit to be posted up in the place where he weighs. The miners employed in the mine may furnish a check weighman at their own expense, who shall also be sworn and his affidavit posted up.

Fraudulent scales or fraudulent weighing is a misdemeanor punished by fine of from two hundred dollars to five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not over sixty days; and operating a coal mine where the product is shipped by rail or water, without complying with the law as regards weighing, is also a misdemeanor punishable by fine from fifty dollars to five hundred dollars.

The coal cannot be screened before being weighed, and must be weighed in the pit cars at two thousand pounds to the ton before being dumped into the screen or shipped.

Mine inspectors are the inspectors of weights and measures and of the scales used to weigh coal; and said scales shall be tested at least once every six months.
[These provisions declared unconstitutional; Rumsey vs. People, 142 Ill., 380.]

XV. MINE MANAGERS, ENGINEERS AND FIRE BOSSES:

No person can undertake the duties of mine manager, mine boss or pit boss in a mine where the output is twenty-five tons or more per day unless he has a certificate from the State Board of Mine Examiners. To obtain such certificate a person must appear before the State Board of Examiners appointed by the commissioners of labor, and submit to an examination as to his competency and length of service. The board of examiners meet at such times and places as they elect and enact their own rules and regulations for carrying into effect the examinations. They cannot give a certificate to a manager unless he be a citizen of the United States having had four years' practical experience as a coal miner, and having served as mine manager continuously and satisfactorily for the same person, firm or corporation for one year. If any operator of a mine employ any mine manager who has no certificate of competency, and an accident occur in the mine by which any miner shall be killed or injured, then the injured party or his heirs may recover from the operator of the mine the full amount of the damages sustained.

Hoisting engineers and fire bosses must hold a certificate of qualification from the State Board of Mine Examiners. Applicants for service must have had four years' practical experience and served some person or firm one year next preceding, and must present a certificate of good moral character signed by at least ten reputable citizens in the community.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

All conveyances of land must be in writing, and acknowledged and recorded within forty-five days from their execution. Within the State acknowledgments may be taken before a judge or clerk of a court of record, a justice of the peace, auditor, recorder, notary public or mayor of a city; and in other states and territories before the like officers, or a commissioner of deeds for Indiana. In any foreign country, before a minister, charge d'affaires or consul of the United States.

Husband must join in deeds to wife's lands, and wife in deeds to husband's lands. Wife takes inchoate interest in husband's lands. No separate acknowledgment of wife is necessary in order to convey her inchoate interest in husband's lands.

II. ALIENS:

By an act approved March 9th, 1895, it is provided that all aliens residing in the State of Indiana, who shall have declared their intentions to become citizens of the United States, conformably to the laws thereof, may acquire and hold real estate in like manner as citizens of this State. All other aliens may take and hold land by devise and descent only, and may convey the same at any time within five years thereafter, and no longer, and all lands so left and remaining unconveyed at the end of five years shall escheat to the State. Nothing shall prevent the holder of any lien upon or interest in real estate heretofore acquired, from taking a valid title to the real estate in which he has such interest, or upon which he has such lien.

III. ASSIGNMENT:

Any debtor in embarrassed or failing circumstances may make a general assignment of all property in trust for the benefit of all bona fide creditors. To be valid this must be by indenture duly signed and acknowledged, and filed for record within ten days after the execution thereof with the recorder of the county in which assignor resides; such indenture shall contain a full description of real estate and by schedule of personal property, owned by the assignor, and he shall make oath that the indenture and schedule contain a full statement of all his property, etc.

Trustee makes oath and files bond in Circuit Court, and must file copy of assignment, etc., in office of clerk of that court within fifteen days after execution of indenture. If the trustee named fails to act, the court may appoint a substitute upon petition. A trustee named by the debtor may be removed by the court on the petition of creditors representing in amount one-half the liabilities of the debtor. The court may, upon petition of any creditor, or the trustee, order an examination of the assignor or any person to whom any part of his property has been transferred within six months previous to the assignment.

The trustee must make under oath and file in court complete inventory of all property coming to his hands, within thirty days after entering upon his trust; also, cause same to be appraised by two reputable householders; set off to the assignor, if a resident householder, such property as the latter may select to the value of six hundred dollars; and proceed to collect the rights and credits, and to sell the property, after giving thirty days' notice of time and place, at public auction, or private sale, for cash, or upon credit, not exceeding two years, subject to approval of the court as to such sales. Dividends are declared pro rata upon all claims allowed by trustee or the court. Trustee's compensation is fixed by the court.

No provision is made in the statutes for the discharge of debtor from his liabilities.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Attachment may issue against the property of non-residents or foreign corporations, and against all who have disposed of, or are about to dispose of their property, to cheat, hinder or delay creditors; or against a debtor who conceals himself so that summons can not be served upon him. An affidavit is required, which may be made by the creditor or some one on his behalf, and a bond to answer damages if the proceedings are wrongful or oppressive. All creditors who file under the original attachment, before final judgment, share pro rata in the proceeds of the attached property.

The defendant in a civil action may be arrested and held to bail in double the amount of debt or damages claimed, at any time before judgment, on affidavit showing that he is about to leave the State, taking with him property subject to execution, or money, with intent to defraud the plaintiff.

The wages of a person, not exceeding one month, are exempt from garnishment or proceedings supplemental to execution, so long as such person remains in such employment. It is a misdemeanor to send claims out of the State to be collected by proceedings in attachment, garnishment, or the like, when creditor, debtor, and person owing for earnings intended to be reached are all within the jurisdiction of the courts of this State. Courts of this State are prohibited from taking jurisdiction of such proceedings to reach wages, when plaintiff and principal defendant are non-residents.

V. COURTS:

The Circuit Court is the only court of general civil jurisdiction and has full probate powers.

Superior Courts have been established in Marion, Tippecanoe, Allen, Vigo, Vanderburgh, Madison, Lake, Porter and La Porte counties. Marion Superior Court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court in all civil cases except probate matters, slander and libel; Tippecanoe Superior Court in all civil cases and in all actions by or against executors and administrators; and Vigo Superior Court in all causes, including actions by or against guardians, executors and administrators, but no jurisdiction in probate matters and in the settlement of decedents' estates. Lake, Porter and La Porte county Superior Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court of the respective counties except in actions in which titles to real estate is involved and probate of wills, settlement of decedents' estates and guardianships; and also have criminal jurisdiction with the Circuit Court in misdemeanors. Other Superior Courts have concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court except in probate matters, the settlement of decedents' estates, and in actions for slander and libel.

The Appellate Court has exclusive jurisdiction of all appeals from the Circuit, Superior and Criminal Courts, in cases of misdemeanor; cases originating before a justice of the peace, when the amount in controversy exceeds fifty dollars exclusive of costs; all cases for the recovery of money only when the amount does not exceed one thousand dollars; all cases for the recovery of specific personal property; actions between landlord and tenant for possession of the leased premises, and in all cases of appeals from orders allowing or disallowing claims against decedent's estates; and such court's decision in such cases shall be final.

Justices of the peace have jurisdiction of cases in which amount in controversy does not exceed two hundred dollars, but parties may confess judgment in a justice court for three hundred dollars.

VII. DEEDS:

All conveyances of land or of any interest therein, except bona fide leases for a term not exceeding three years, must be by deed in writing, subscribed and duly acknowledged by the grantor or his attorney, empowered by a like instrument. The joint deed of husband and wife is necessary to pass the lands of the wife, but does not bind wife to any of the covenants unless it be her separate property. The husband alone may convey his lands, subject, however, to the wife's inchoate rights therein. The wife cannot convey her separate lands unless the husband joins in the deed.

Conveyances, except leases of less than three years, to be valid against any other than the grantor, his heirs, or those having notice thereof, must be recorded in the recorder's office of the county where the land is situated, within forty-five days from their execution. To enable deeds and mortgages to be recorded, they must be acknowledged or proved. Such acknowledgment or proof is made, in this or any other state of the United States, before a judge or clerk of a court of record, justice of the peace, auditor, recorder, notary public, county surveyor, or a mayor of a city,—who must reside in the county or city where such acknowledgment is taken,—or a commissioner of this State. An acknowledgment made in another state, attested by the official seal of the officer, is sufficient without a certificate of the officer's authority, but unless the acknowledgment is so attested, a certificate must be attached to the acknowledgment, made by the clerk of some court of record in the county in which the officer resides, and such certificate must be attested by the seal of the court.

Conveyances, and other instruments intended to be recorded, executed in a foreign country, "shall be acknowledged or proved before a minister, charge d'affaires, or consul of the United States in such foreign country, or before any officer of such country who, by the laws thereof, is authorized to take acknowledgments or proof of conveyances; and if such acknowledgment or proof is in the English language, and attested by the official seal of such officer, it shall be sufficient to admit such instrument to record; but if in some other language, or not attested by such official seal, then such instrument must be accompanied by a certificate of an officer of the United States, as aforesaid, to the effect that it is duly executed according to the laws of such foreign country; that the officer certifying to the acknowledgment or proof had legal authority so to do, and the meaning of his certificate, if the same is made in a foreign language." Acknowledgment is essential to admit a deed to record, but not to its validity, which may be proven by attesting witnesses. A married woman need make no different acknowledgment than if single; nor need she be examined separate and apart from her husband. A married woman under twenty-one years of age may join her husband in a conveyance of his lands. (See "XV. Married Women.")

A seal or scroll is not requisite to the validity of a deed or any other instrument of writing made by natural persons. Witnesses are not required to any instrument when it is acknowledged. Corporations must use the corporate seal in conveying, but no special form is required other than that for natural persons. The deed should be made in the name of the incorporation, which should be signed thereto by the president or chief officer, and the seal of the corporation properly attached.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions are taken in other states without a commission; out of the United States, are taken under a commission issued by the clerk of the court where the cause is pending, directed to the officer designated to take depositions. Notice must be served upon adverse party, and reasonable time given to reach the place of taking the deposition by the ordinary facilities of travel, excluding the day of service of notice, intervening Sundays, and the day of taking. Depositions of witnesses, taken within or without the State, may be taken before any judge, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor or recorder of a city, clerk of a court of record, or a commissioner appointed by the court to take depositions. But depositions shall not be taken before any person being of kin to either party, or interested in the actions. Commissioners appointed by the governor in any other state, territory, or foreign country are authorized to take depositions.

In all actions depositions may be taken by either party, in vacation or term time, at any time after service of summons, without order of court therefor. They may be used on trial of all issues, in any action, in the following cases: 1. Where the witness does not reside in the county, or in the county adjoining the one in which the trial is to be held, or is absent from the State. 2. Where the deponent is so aged, infirm, or sick as not to be able to attend the court, or other place of trial, or is dead. 3. Where the depositions have been taken by the agreement of parties, or by order of the court trying the cause. 4. Where the deponent is a State or county officer, or a judge, or a practicing physician, or attorney at law, and the trial is to be had in any county in which the deponent does not reside. In either of the foregoing cases the attendance of the witness cannot be enforced. 5. When notice is given fixing the time of taking any deposition on a day in term time, the court may, if in session, or the judge therof, in vacation, on notice given by the adverse party of the time and place of hearing the motion, fix another day for such taking, and the court, on hearing of such motion, may fix the time for such taking, from which there shall be no appeal.

Each separate deponent shall be examined by the party producing him, and then by the adverse party, and by the officers or parties afterward, if they see cause. The deposition shall be written down by the officer, or by the deponent, or by some disinterested person in their presence, and under the direction of the officer, and after the same has been carefully read to or by the deponent it shall be subscribed by him. The officer shall annex a certificate to the deposition stating that the deponent was sworn according to law; the name of the party by whom deposition was written, and if written by the deponent, or by some disinterested person, that it was written in the presence and under the direction of the officer; whether or not the adverse party attended; the time and place of taking the deposition, and the hours between which the same was taken. The officer shall sign and attest the certificate, and seal the same, if he have a seal of office, and shall then seal up the deposition in a sufficient paper envelope, and direct the same to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, indorsing on the envelope the names of the parties and the witnesses whose depositions are inclosed. Depositions may be taken by a stenographer, if he be an officer authorized to take depositions, and afterwards written out by him in longhand or typewriting, and if then read to or by deponent and signed by him they will be valid.

IX. DESCENT:

The statute of descents cannot well be digested in limited space. All questions arising under this law should be referred to an attorney familiar with the law and the decisions. There is safety in no other course.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Executions are a lien on personal property within the jurisdiction of the officer from the time of delivery, but if there be several executions, in the hands of different officers, the first levy has the preference, and divests all liens created by prior delivery. An execution to another county from that in which judgment is rendered is a lien only from time of levy. Executions may issue at any time within ten years after rendition of the judgment: after that period leave of court must be obtained, upon notice and motion.

Executions from a court of record may issue, and to any county in the State, at any time after rendition (unless stayed on the record), and are returnable in one hundred and eighty days. On judgments rendered on delivery bonds no stay is permitted, and execution is returnable in thirty days.

Executions on judgments of justices of the peace may issue, where the party appeared, in four days from rendition; and on judgments by default, in ten days thereafter. In cases of judgments by confession, or those commenced by capias, or when affidavit is filed showing that delay will endanger the collection, execution may issue immediately; all executions are returnable in six months.

Property sold on execution, except where otherwise provided by law, must be sold for at least two-thirds its appraised value. When notes or other instruments or contracts in writing contain the clause, "without relief from valuation or appraisement laws," the property of the judgment debtor is sold on execution for what it will bring.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

Every resident householder may claim as exempt from execution and from assignment for benefit of creditors on any debt founded on a contract made since May 31st, 1879, property, real or personal, to the amount of six hundred dollars. This right exists while in transitu from one residence to another, within the State, and may be claimed by the wife in the absence of the husband.

The property of a resident householder, exempt from sale on execution, may be real or personal, or both. It must be properly appraised under direction of the officer, after receiving from the debtor a sworn schedule of all his property, credits, effects, etc. The statute makes ample provision for the sale of real property where it is alone, or in part, claimed under the exemption law, in case its value exceeds six hundred dollars. The exemption does not affect liens for labor, purchase-money, or taxes in any event.

There is no homestead exemption in the ordinary sense of the term. (See "IV. Attachments.")

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent; but any other rate, not exceeding eight per cent, may be provided for by written agreement. All interest over eight per cent is usurious, and illegal as to the excess above eight per cent only. Judgments on contracts bear same rate of interest (not exceeding six per cent) as the contracts on which they are rendered. Sureties on notes, bonds, etc., may recover of the principal, on suit, the same rate of interest as originally provided for in such notes, etc., and the judgments shall bear the same rate, not exceeding ten per cent. On redemption of real property from sale under execution, eight per cent interest is allowed the purchaser on amount of purchase money. Interest on the public funds loaned by the State is fixed at eight per cent.

Interest is collectible on ordinary open accounts after unreasonable delay in payment. It attaches on settlement of accounts, from the day the balance shall have been agreed upon. It is allowed upon money had and received to the use of another, and retained without the owner's consent, also on money loaned or due and withheld by unreasonable delay of payment.

In an action on contract where usury is pleaded and tender is made before the suit of the principal with six per cent interest, the defendant shall recover costs; and whenever the usurious interest shall have been paid or reserved before suit, the excess over legal interest may be recouped to the debtor.

The statute applies to contracts made within the State, although they are to be performed without the State; and when a contract shall be made without the State, and a greater rate of interest than is allowed by statute shall be directly or indirectly contracted for, and a mortgage shall be executed to secure the performance of the contract on lands in the State, such lands shall not be liable for a higher rate of interest than is allowed by statute.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of Supreme, Appellate, Circuit, and Superior Courts are a lien upon all real estate and chattels of defendant liable to execution in the county where the judgment is rendered, for the space of ten years. A transcript of the judgment of any court of record may be filed in another county, and from the time of the filing becomes a lien on the real estate of the judgment debtor in that county. An order of attachment binds the defendant's property in the county where issued, and becomes a lien from the time of delivery to the sheriff. (See "IV. Attachments.") Justices' judgments, and those of City Courts, become a lien on real estate from the time of filing transcript in the Circuit Court. Judgments on bonds payable to the State become a lien on the real estate of debtor from the commencement of the action.

If no defense is made, judgment may be rendered, on default and proof, on the day for which the cause is set, either in a court of record or a Justice's Court. In the latter court in such case judgment may be rendered in three days from the service of process, and in Circuit Court in ten days thereafter.

Every recognizance binds the real estate of the principal from the time it is taken, but that of the surety only from the time judgment of forfeiture is taken; those taken by justices in criminal cases become a lien from the time of filing in Circuit or Criminal Courts.

Any person interested may file a certified copy of any judgment of the United States Circuit or District Court for the District of Indiana with the clerk of the Circuit Court of any county, and when filed the clerk must enter it in the judgment docket of the Circuit Court of the county. The statute declares that such judgment shall have the same effect as a lien on real estate, as though rendered in the Circuit Court of the county.

Judgments or other records of the several courts of record, of or within the United States or Territories, are admitted in the courts within this State as evidence, by attestation or certificate of the clerk or prothonotary with the seal of the court annexed, together with the seal of he chief justice or one or more of the judges or the presiding magistrate of any such court, that the attestation is in due form of law; and the records and judicial proceedings, authenticated as aforesaid, have full faith and credit given to them in any court within the State as, by law or usage, they have in the courts whence taken.

XIV. LIENS:

Contractors, sub-contractors, laborers, mechanics, journeymen, and all persons performing labor or furnishing material or machinery for erecting, repairing, or removing any structure, can establish a lien on said structure, and on the real estate upon which the structure is situated, for their pay, jointly or severally, by filing in the recorder's office within sixty days after the time the labor was performed, or material or machinery furnished, notice of the intention to hold the lien, said notice being accompanied by an itemized description of the claim and a description of the real estate upon which the structure stands. Persons furnishing material or labor to a contractor need not notify owner that such labor or material has been furnished. Any person holding such lien may enforce the same by filing his complaint in the Circuit or Superior Court within a year from the time of filing notice with recorder.

All wage claims of mechanics and laborers relating to work done in or about any shop, mill, store-room, or manufactory are to be regarded as first liens upon all available stock, tools, finished work, etc., and all such claims are of the nature of preferred debts, whether notice of lien be filed or not, when the person, firm, or corporation upon whose property the lien rests is in failing circumstances. When the lien relates to real estate upon which any structure is located, it includes the whole portion of ground besides that particular part upon which the structure actually stands, "to the extent of all the right, title, and interest owned therein by the owner thereof, for whose immediate use or benefit such labor was done or material furnished."

All classes of laborers and mechanics performing work upon, or furnishing material for, the construction of a railroad or part thereof in the State, shall have a lien to the extent of work done or material furnished, or both, upon the right of way and franchises of such railroad corporation, and upon all appurtenances to said railroad.

In case the work is done or material furnished under contract with an agent, lessee, or sub-contractor, notice of lien to the corporation is not necessary beyond the filing of notice with recorder of intention to hold the lien. The lien relates to the time when the work or repairs commenced, and has priority over any subsequent claims only, and of certain other kinds, except as above noted.

Employees of corporations have a lien on corporate property and the earnings thereof for work and labor done, from date of employment, which is prior to any and all liens created subsequent to such date, unless such latter shall remain a matter of record for sixty days, during which no lien by any employee shall have been acquired.

Under a recent statute laborers and employees of individuals or corporations have a lien for labor performed during six months preceding the seizure of the property of such individuals or corporations on any mesne or final process, to an amount not exceeding fifty dollars to each employee; they are made preferred creditors, to be first paid in full, and if not sufficient to do this then pro rata.

Companies for the construction of levees, dikes, drains, and ditches have a lien on lands affected thereby for benefits assessed. Contractors performing labor and furnishing materials for any railroad company whose road is not in operation have a lien on grading, excavation, bridges, trestle-work, etc., constructed or furnished by them.

When a tenant agrees to pay as rent a part of the crop raised on leased premises, or rent in kind, or cash rent, the landlord shall have a lien on the crop raised under such contract for the payment of such rent. The tenant, after notice in writing to the landlord or his agent, may remove and dispose of his own part of the crop, where the rent is payable in a share thereof, and if payable in cash, not more than one-half thereof.

The statute gives a lien on all boats and water-craft of every description, for debts contracted for supplies, wages, repairs, equipments etc. A mortgage for purchase-money has preference over a prior judgment against the purchaser. Mechanics and tradesmen have a lien on goods left for alteration or repair, livery-men and feeders on stock left with them, forwarding, and commission merchants on goods in storage, all regulated by statute. Attorneys have a lien for their fees on all judgments taken by them upon entering notice upon the docket or order book at time of taking. Consignees have lien on goods in their hands for debts owing them from the consignor.

A public record, styled the "lis pendens record," is ordered to be kept in the clerk's office in each county, wherein notice of the commencement of certain suits to enforce liens are required to be recorded by plaintiffs, or defendants on cross-complaints, and the sheriff on certain seizures of real estate by attachment or execution. Cases to enforce "any lien upon, right to, or interest in any real estate, upon any claim not founded upon an instrument executed by the party having the legal title to such real estate, as appears from the proper records of the county, and recorded as by law required, or not founded upon a judgment of record in the county wherein such real estate is situated, against the party having legal title thereto as appears from such proper record," fall within the provisions of the act. All seizures by the sheriff upon any real estate, or any interest therein, by virtue of any attachment, or levy by virtue of any execution issued to him from any court other than the court of the county of which he is sheriff, and all orders of court affecting the disposition of real estate, are also required to be recorded in the "lis pendens record." If such record is not made, the bringing of such suits does not operate as constructive notice, etc. Provision is made for the recording of the dismissal, satisfaction, etc., of such liens on said record.

(See "XIII. Judgments," for judgment liens, and "Mining. III. Wages and Liens," for miners' liens.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Actions as follows must be commenced within six years after cause thereof has accrued, or else are barred: 1. On accounts and contracts not in writing. 2. For use, rents and profits of real property. 3. For injuries to property, damages for any detention thereof and for recovering possession of personal property. 4. For relief against frauds.

Actions for injuries to person or character, or for a forfeiture or penalty given by statute, must be commenced within two years. Actions against public officers, relating to their official duties, five years.

For the recovery of real property sold on execution, brought by the execution debtor, his heirs, or any person claiming under him by title acquired after the date of the judgment, within ten years after the same, and for the recovery of real property sold by executors, etc., by a party to the judgment or person claiming under him, within five years after the sale is confirmed.

Upon promissory notes, bills of exchange and other written contracts for the payment of money, ten years. Upon contracts in writing, other than those for the payment of money on judgments of record, and for the recovery of the possession of real estate, within twenty years. All other actions must be brought within fifteen years. In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open and current account between the parties, the cause of action shall be deemed to have accrued from the date of the last item proved in the account on either side.

Persons under legal disabilities, when the cause of action accrues, may bring their action within two years after the disability removes, and the phrase "legal disabilities" includes married women, infants, persons of unsound mind, persons in prison and those out of the United States. The time during which the defendant is a non-resident of the State or absent on public business, is not computed in any of the periods of limitations, but when the cause has been fully barred by the laws of the place where the defendant resides, such bar is available here, though this defense applies only to causes of action arising outside of the State. Concealment by affirmative acts, by a person liable to an action, stops the running of the statute in his favor for the period of such concealment. A new promise, to take the case out of the operations of the statute must be in writing, properly signed. The statute does not run against the State except as to sureties.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

Retain their real and personal property owned by them at time of marriage or acquired during coverture. The husband is liable for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage to the extent of the personal property he may receive from or through her, or derive from sale or rent of her lands, and no further, and her lands are liable for such indebtedness. A married woman may devise by will her separate estate; may sell and transfer her separate personal property; carry on any business, labor, or service, and receive the earnings accruing therefrom; enter into any contract in regard to her separate personal estate, business, labor, or service, and her separate estate, real and personal, be liable therefor, the same as a femme sole; and her husband is not liable for such debts, nor for indebtedness created by the wife for improvement of her separate real estate. She can make leases of real estate for terms of three years or less, and execute mortgages to secure purchase money, without husband joining. Is bound by covenants of title in conveyances of her separate real estate. Her deed conveying her real estate, her husband not joining, is absolutely void. She may sue as a femme sole for any damage to her person or character and bound in like manner as principal on her official bond. She can not enter into any contract of suretyship whether as indorser, guarantor, or in any other manner, and such contract, as to her, is wholly void; and therefore a mortgage on her separate property for a debt for which she is mere surety, indorser or guarantor, is void; but if she makes a sworn statement that contract or mortgage is for her own benefit, in respect to her separate estate, and upon the strength of such statement another signs, she is estopped from alleging her mere relation of surety, indorser or guarantor. Is entitled to hold as exempt from execution her wearing apparel, articles of personal adornment purchased by herself to the amount of two hundred dollars in value, all jewelry, ornaments, books, etc., which may have been given her as presents; and other property to the amount of three hundred dollars, except as against indebtedness for the purchase money therefor. No tenancy by curtesy or dower.

Real estate which husband and wife hold by title made to them as husband and wife, can not be taken for the debt of either, and is not subject to the lien of a judgment against either, except in the case of the death of either or upon divorce granted, when the estate by entireties is destroyed and becomes subject to levy and sale; and a mortgage thereof by them both for a debt of the husband has no legal validity.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages on real estate are executed, acknowledged, and recorded within forty-five days in the same manner as deeds, with the exception that in case of a mortgage for purchase-money the wife need not join. The mortgage should show on its face that it is given for the purchase-money, when the wife does not join. A mortgage given by a purchaser to secure purchase-money has preference over a prior judgment against the purchaser. Unless a mortgage specially provides that the mortgagee shall have possession of the mortgaged premises, he is not entitled to the same. There must be an express covenant in a mortgage for the payment of the sum intended to be secured to enable the mortgagee to maintain an action for the recovery of such sum; and where there is no express covenant and no separate bond or note given to secure such payment, the remedy is confined to the lands mentioned in the mortgage. Promissory notes for the amount secured by a mortgage usually accompany it. In such case judgment is rendered against any other property of mortgagor after exhausting that described in mortgage.

Trust deeds in the nature of mortgages are not permitted in this State, and no power of sale in any mortgage or instrument operating as or having the legal effect of a mortgage will authorize the mortgagee to sell the mortgaged premises, but every such sale must be made under judicial proceeding. Assignments of mortgages should be recorded, and "after such entry is made of record, the mortgagor and all other persons shall be bound thereby, and the same shall be deemed a public record."

Mortgages may be foreclosed on any breach of condition, but may not be while another action for the same debt is pending, nor may the debt be sued on while the foreclosure suit is pending. A mortgage may be foreclosed on any default, and if the property is not divisible, judgment may be rendered for the whole debt secured, both for the amount due and the installments subsequently to fall due, rebating interest. If the amount already due is paid before sale, the execution is stayed until the next installment is due. If that is not paid, execution issues, and the whole property is sold, and the excess, if any, returned to the execution defendant. When a mortgage debt is due in installments and foreclosure is had, the court will order the premises sold in parcels, if divisible. The statutory form for mortgages on real estate is very brief. The words "mortgage and warrant," with description of the premises and the notes, etc., secured, dated, signed, and acknowledged by mortgagor, is a good mortgage, with warranty of perfect title in grantor, and against all previous incumbrances. The omission of the words "and warrant" makes a good mortgage, but without warranty.

When the money secured by a mortgage on lands, which has been recorded, has been paid, the mortgagee shall, at request of the mortgagor, enter satisfaction on the margin or other proper place in the record, which operates as a complete release and discharge thereof; or the mortgagor may take a certificate thereof duly acknowledged by the mortgagee, or his lawful agent, as required by law for the acknowledgment of conveyances, which certificate and acknowledgment, when duly recorded in the office where the original mortgage is of record, operates as a discharge and release of the mortgage and bar to all actions thereon. An executor or administrator may release and discharge of record any mortgage on payment of the mortgage debt by the mortgagor. On payment and satisfaction of any judgment rendered for all the debt on foreclosure, by the courts, of a mortgage, the clerk shall immediately enter satisfaction of the mortgage on the records of the recorder's office, if the same shall have been recorded. Failure to release a mortgage which has been satisfied subjects the mortgagee to a penalty of twenty-five dollars, and attorney's fees.

Under the statute, every sale of goods in possession or under control of the vendor, unless accompanied by immediate delivery and followed by actual change of possession, is presumed to be fraudulent and void as against creditors of the vendor or subsequent purchasers in good faith, unless it be made to appear that such sale was made without intent to defraud such creditors and purchasers. If there be not an actual, visible, continuous change of possession, the transaction is prima facie fraudulent. Chattel mortgages are made, in this State, in the usual form of an absolute bill of sale, with a defeating clause and stipulation as to possession by vendor. They must be acknowledged and recorded in the recorder's office of the county where the mortgagor resides, within ten days after execution thereof, or they will not be valid against any other person than the parties thereto, unless possession of the mortgaged property is delivered to and retained by the mortgagee. Every such mortgage is held to be recorded from the time it is left at the recorder's office for that purpose. A clause empowering the mortgagee to take possession of the mortgaged chattels at will, either before or after default in condition, is usually inserted, on which the mortgagee may maintain replevin. There is no statutory form for chattel mortgages.

A stipulation in a chattel mortgage, to the effect that it shall cover after-acquired property of the mortgagor, does not render the mortgage invalid on its face, but is ineffectual, without more, to vest in the mortgagee a title to such after-acquired property. It seems, however, that such a stipulation, followed by possession of the mortgagee, before the rights of others attach, would be effectual to vest the mortgagee with both a legal and equitable right to after-acquired property.

Suits for possession of mortgaged chattels may be brought at any time after condition is broken. No formal suit for foreclosure is required. On condition broken, the right to possess the mortgaged property is in the mortgagee, but the equity of redemption of the mortgagor can be extinguished only by a public sale after proper notice, or by a judicial sale on foreclosure proceedings. Chattel mortgages may be discharged of record in the same manner as those on realty. They are not required to be renewed. When silent as to possession, the mortgagee is entitled to immediate possession upon execution of the mortgage.

It is a misdemeanor for any mortgagor of chattels, during the existence of the lien, to sell or transfer to any person, without informing him of the lien, or to remove out of the county, without the written consent of the mortgagee, any of the property covered by the mortgage, or to secrete or convert the same.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bills of exchange and promissory notes payable in a bank within the State are governed by the law merchant, the latter as inland bills of exchange. On all bills of exchange payable within the State, whether sight or time bills, three days of grace are allowed.

A recent statute makes all receipts issued by any warehouseman (as provided in the act) negotiable and transferable by indorsement in blank, or special indorsement, and with like liability as bills of exchange, and with like remedy thereon.

Negotiable paper is thus defined by statute: "All promissory notes, bills of exchange, bonds, or other instruments in writing, signed by any person who promises to pay money, or acknowledges money to be due, or for the delivery of a specific article, or to convey property, or to perform any stipulation therein mentioned, shall be negotiable by indorsement thereon, so as to vest the property thereof in each indorsee successively."

The holder of any note or bill of exchange negotiable by the law merchant, or by the law of this State, may institute one suit against the whole or any number of the parties liable to such holder, but not more than one suit thereon at the same term.

"Any action brought by the assignee of a claim, arising out of contract, whether assigned in writing or by delivery, shall be commenced in the county where one or more of the parties immediately liable to judgment and execution reside, and not elsewhere." But the holder of any note or bill of exchange negotiable by the law merchant or by the law of this State may not bring more than one suit thereon at the same term.

Notes not payable in bank are governed by statutory provisions as follows: All notes are negotiable by indorsement. The assignee may in his own name recover against the maker. The suit must be brought in the name of the real party in interest. Whatever defense or set-off the maker of any such instrument had before notice of assignment, against an assignor or the original payee, he shall have also against their assignees. The maker is entitled to all defenses against the note in the hands of the assignee which he could make against it in the hands of the payee. All notes and bills should contain the clause, "without relief from valuation or appraisement laws."

Notes of both classes, those governed by the law merchant and those by statute, have been heretofore drawn containing an agreement to pay "the reasonable fees of plaintiff's attorney, if suit be instituted," "or if not paid at maturity" or a fixed per cent as attorney's fees to plaintiff, to be included in the judgment; and the courts sustained a recovery for attorney's fees in addition to principal and interest on this class of paper. The legislature, however, has declared such agreements illegal and void as to all contracts made subsequent to the taking effect of the Act of March 10th, 1875. The enactment is as follows, to wit: "Any and all agreements to pay attorney's fees, depending upon any condition therein set forth, and made part of any bill of exchange, acceptance, draft, promissory note, or other written evidence of indebtedness, are hereby declared illegal and void: provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as applying to contracts made previous to the taking effect of this act." Under this act the courts have held that a clause in a promissory note promising to pay a certain per centum attorney's fees unconditionally, as "and five per cent attorneys' fees," is valid; and in a suit upon such note the judgment must include such percentage. It is also held that clauses in notes agreeing to pay a certain per centum as "expenses of collection," or as "exchange and other expenses incident to collection, other than attorneys' fees, if suit be instituted on this note," where not designed as a cover for usurious interest, are valid, not usurious, and may be enforced in suits thereon.

What are known as judgment notes, authorizing judgment to be entered on default in payment thereof are not enforced or permitted by statute.

The liability of indorsers of bills of exchange and promissory notes, payable at a bank within the State, is fixed according to the provisions of the law merchant. To fix the liability of an indorser or assignor of negotiable paper governed by the statute, the general rule (except in cases of notorious insolvency of the maker or of something equivalent) is that the assignee must speedily bring suit against the maker, and proceed, in the ordinary course of law, for the collection of the debt, and a return on a fie. fa. of "No property" is prima facie sufficient. A failure, however, to obtain judgment, at the first term at which it could, so far as time is concerned, be obtained, prima facie discharges the indorser, unless the defendant was absent or the assignee had some other sufficient reason. If the assignee, having used due diligence, cannot collect the money from the maker, he may then recover from the assignor. If the maker be dead, his estate must be first exhausted before recourse can be had on the assignor. An indorser of a note under the statute, warrants two things: First, that the note is valid, and the maker liable to pay it; second, that the maker is solvent and able to pay it.

Sundays, New Year's Day, Christmas Day, the 4th of July, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Labor Day (first Monday of September), any day appointed or recommended by the President of the United States or the Governor of the State as a day of public fast or thanksgiving, and the day of any general, national, or state election, are declared to be legal holidays within the State; and all negotiable or commercial paper falling due or maturing on either of said holidays shall be deemed as having matured on the day previous, unless the holiday occurs on Monday, in which event the day of maturity shall be the previous Saturday; and if any of said holidays, other than Sunday, should occur on Sunday, the following Monday is to be deemed the legal holiday.

XIX. TAXES:

Taxes for State, county, school, road, township, and municipal purposes attach as a lien on real estate on the first day of April in each year. The lien is perpetual for all taxes due from the owner, penalties, etc., and is not divested by any sale or transfer. Penalties attach on the third Monday in April annually, and after that day all unpaid taxes are collectible by distress and sale of personalty. Sales of real estate for taxes take place in each county on the second Monday of February annually. After sale the owner has two years in which he may redeem. If not redeemed within the time, a deed is made to the purchaser by the county auditor. Taxes are payable, one-half on or before the third Monday in April and the remaining half prior to the first Monday in November. If the first installment is not paid when due the whole tax becomes delinquent.

Tax titles have not generally been favored by the legislature or judiciary of Indiana. In order to sustain a tax sale, the party claiming under it must show a substantial compliance with every provision of the law authorizing the sale. A tax deed is only prima facie evidence of regularity of the proceedings and may be contradicted. Possession under a tax deed is adverse though the title be invalid.

XX. WILLS:

All persons of sound mind, who are twenty-one years of age, may make wills and devise all their estate, of every kind, to any person or corporation, saving the legal provision for the widow. Married women may devise their separate property. Wills must be in writing (except nuncupative, bequeathing not to exceed one hundred dollars), signed by the testator or some person by his direction and in his presence, and attested by two persons subscribing as witnesses in his presence. Wills may be probated by the Circuit Court of any county where the testator resided, or in which he shall die leaving assets, on proof of execution by one or more subscribing witnesses, or by proof of handwriting of the witnesses, in case of their incompetency, death, or absence.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Whenever three or more persons may desire to form a company to carry on any kind of manufacturing, mining, mechanical or other lawful business, they shall make, sign and acknowledge before some officer capable of taking acknowledgment of deeds a certificate in writing, which shall state the name of such proposed corporation, the object of its formation, the amount of capital stock, the term of its existence (not, however, to exceed fifty years), the number and names of directors who shall manage the affairs of such company for the first year, and the name of the town and county in which its operations are to be carried on, and file the same in the office of the recorder of said county, which certificate shall be placed upon the record, and a duplicate thereof in the office of the Secretary of State.

When the certificate shall have been filed as aforesaid, the signers shall be a body politic and corporate, and by their corporate name may take, hold and convey real estate necessary to carry on the operations named in such certificate, and have all other powers and rights provided by the statutes.

II. OFFICERS AND ELECTIONS:

The business shall be managed by not less than three nor more than eleven directors, who shall be stockholders therein and residents of the United States. A majority of the directors shall be a quorum. They shall be elected by the stockholders annually, and the directors thus chosen shall elect a president. They shall also annually elect a secretary and a treasurer, who shall respectively give bond, and be sworn to the faithful discharge of the duties assigned to each of them. Voting by proxy is allowed, each share of stock entitling the owner to one vote.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

The amount of capital stock shall be fixed by the company, but may be increased by a vote of the stockholders at any annual meeting. Such stock is transferable in such manner as the by-laws may prescribe, but the funds of such a corporation cannot be used to purchase stock in another corporation, only upon the written consent of all the stockholders of the company to purchase said stock, and also the written consent of all the stockholders of the corporation in which stock is sought to be purchased.

The capital stock shall be paid into the treasury within eighteen months from the incorporation of the same, in such installments as the by-laws direct. The president and directors, within thirty days after the payment of the last installment of the capital stock, shall make a certificate stating the amount of the capital so fixed and paid in, which they shall sign and within thirty days file in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court.

Every such company at a meeting called for that purpose, may reduce the capital stock of the same.

IV. REPORTS:

Every such company shall annually, within twenty days from the first day of January in each year, make a report which must be published in some newspaper in the county, which shall state the amount of capital, the amount of assessments made and actually paid in, and the amount of existing debts; which report the said president and directors shall sign and verify by their oaths.

V. LIABILITIES:

If said certificate or report or public notice shall be false, or if such report is not made, and any person is misled or deceived thereby and damaged, then all the officers who shall sign the same, knowing it to be false, or fail in giving the report as aforesaid, shall be jointly and severally liable for any damages resulting from such failure on their part.

The stockholders of manufacturing and mining corporations shall only be liable for the amount of stock subscribed by them respectively; provided, they shall be individually liable for all debts due and owing laborers, servants and employes for services rendered such corporation.

MINING.

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The State Geologist shall appoint an inspector of mines, who shall hold his office two years and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified: provided, however, that all applicants for such office shall be required to pass a satisfactory examination, which examination shall be wholly under the control of the State Geologist, who shall give a certificate of appointment to the person appointed. The inspector of mines shall appoint an assistant, who shall pass such examinations touching his qualifications for such position as may be prescribed by such inspector of mines.

The inspector of mines and his assistant shall be residents of the State of Indiana for five years immediately preceding their appointment to office, and shall be practical miners of at least ten years' experience in actual mining. He shall not have any pecuniary interest in any coal mine within the State, and he and his assistant shall file with the Secretary of State a sufficient bond or bonds for the faithful performance of their duties. He shall make an annual report to the State Geologist of all matters now required by law to be reported by the mine inspector, which report shall be published with the report of the State Geologist. He shall see to the enforcement of the law and its penalties; investigate, report and prosecute all violations of the same, make affidavidts in pursuance thereof, and generally do all such things as may be necessary for the proper conservation of the law.

II. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

It shall not be lawful for more than ten persons to work in any mine in every twenty-four hours, after five thousand square yards have been excavated, until the second outlet shall have been made. Said outlet shall be separate from the hoisting-shaft by at least one hundred feet of natural strata, and shall be available at all times to all employes engaged in the mine. The traveling roads to said outlet shall not be less than four feet high and three feet wide.

Air-ways shall be made in every room, at least every seventy-five feet. The doors used in assisting ventilation of the mines must not be left standing open.

A sufficient supply of timber shall be kept at the mine, so that the workmen may be able to properly secure the workings from caving in, and props of proper length shall be delivered to the rooms of the workmen when needed and required.

When two veins of coal are being mined in one shaft, two reflecting lamps shall be kept lighted at all times when said mine is in operation.

When the place is likely to contain a dangerous accumulation of water or gas, the workings approaching such place shall not exceed eight feet in width, and there shall be constantly kept one bore-hole near the center of the workings, and sufficient flank bore-holes on each side in advance of said workings.

A mining boss, who shall be an experienced coal miner, shall be employed to keep a careful watch over the ventilating apparatus and air ways, and see that, as the miners advance through the excavations, all loose coal, slate and rock overhead are carefully secured against falling therein, and traveling and air-ways. He shall measure the air current at least once a week at the inlet and outlet. He shall also, about the first of each month, mail to the inspector a copy of the air measurements, the number of persons employed in or about the mine, the number of mules and horses used, and the number of days worked in each month. None but experienced, competent and sober engineers shall be placed in charge of the engine used for conveying into and hoisting persons out of such mine.

The top of every such shaft shall be securely fenced off, so as to protect the mouth thereof; and approved safety catches shall be attached to every such cage used for the purpose of hoisting or lowering persons.

No female of any age or male under the age of fourteen years shall be permitted to enter any coal mine in this State for the purpose of employment therein.

There shall be provided in all coal-mines a metal tube from the bottom of the shaft, suitably adapted to the free passage of sound, through which conversation may be held between persons at the bottom and top of the shaft; and there shall be a formality of signals at all coal-shafts in this State, with a signal bell at the bottom of each shaft.

Before a mine shall be abandoned, a survey shall be made thereof, the mine properly staked on the surface, and a map made and filed within thirty days thereafter at the office of the county recorder, and said map shall have attached thereto the affidavit of the mining engineer making the map, and of the mine boss in charge of the underground workings of said mine.

III. WAGES AND LIENS:

Corporations, companies, associations, firms and persons engaged in mining shall pay to their employes every two weeks the amount due such employes for labor, and such payment shall be in lawful money of the United States. All wages for working in and about the mine shall be due and payable on the second Saturday of the month after the month in which the work was done, and all payments shall be made in bankable funds of the State of Indiana.

In all coal mines in this State the miners and other persons employed and working in and about the mines, and the owners of the land, and others interested in the rental or royalty of the coal mined therein, shall have a lien on said mine, and all machinery and fixtures connected therewith, for work and labor performed within two months; and the owner of the land for royalty on coal taken out from under his land for any length of time not exceeding two months; and such liens shall be paramount to and have priority over all other liens, except the liens of the State for taxes; and such lien shall have priority as against every other in the order in which they accrue, and for labor and royalty on coal.

To acquire such lien, such person shall file in the recorder's office in the county where the coal mine is situated, within sixty days from the time payment became due, a notice of his intention to hold a lien upon such property for the amount of his claim, stating in such notice the amount of his claim, and the name of the coal works, if known, or any other designating or describing the location of said mine; and the recorder shall record the said notice, when presented, in the book used for recording mechanics' liens, for which the recorder shall receive a fee of twenty-five cents. Suits brought to enforce any lien herein created shall be brought within one year from the date of filing said lien.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments to be used within the Territory can be taken before any judge, clerk of a court, United States commissioner or notary public. Without the Territory before any officer of the United States or any state or territorial court having a seal; or a notary public.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments for benefit of creditors can be made, and creditors can be preferred.

III. ATTACHMENT:

The usual grounds for attachment obtain in the Territory as in the states. An attachment may be issued on debts not due.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against estates must be presented within one year, or they may be precluded from any benefit; and are barred in two years. The following have priority in order named: Funeral expenses; expenses of last sickness; judgments which are liens; all demands presented within one year; all demands not exhibited in one but within two years.

V. COURTS:

United States commissioners have exclusive jurisdiction up to one hundred dollars and concurrent jurisdiction to three hundred dollars in matters of contract and recovery of property. Appeals lie to the United States Court of Indian Territory when the amount in controversy exceeds twenty dollars.

The United States Court in Indian Territory has jurisdiction in all matters in excess of one hundred dollars when all the parties to the action are not citizens of the same Indian tribe. In the northern district two terms a year are held at Muscogee, Vinita, Tahlequah and Miami; and in the central district at Ardmore, Purcell, Duncan, Chickasha and Ryan.

The Indian Courts have no jurisdiction of controversies between Indian citizens on the one hand and citizens of the United States or other persons on the other hand. The Indian Courts have jurisdiction only where the matter in controversy is exclusively between Indians. If a person other than an Indian citizen is interested, even though with others who are Indian citizens on the one side and all on the other side are Indians, still the Indian Courts would have no jurisdiction, but the United States Court for the Indian Territory would have jurisdiction.

VI. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public, justice or clerk of court	$ .50

Transcription: per folio	.10
Witness: before commission, per day	.50
Court of record, per day,	2.00

VII. DEEDS:

No real estate is owned in the Territory by United States citizens. Transfers are made of improvements by bill of sale.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The plaintiff may begin to take depositions immediately after service of summons, and defendant after filing answer. They may be taken on reasonable notice to opposite party, or upon interrogatories and commission.

IX. DESCENT:

When one dies leaving personal property not disposed of, it is distributed to his kindred, subject to debts.

X. EXECUTIONS:

All property, real and personal, is liable to levy and sale except it be exempt. Where judgments have not been stayed, when right to stay exists, sales are made on credit of three months, in other cases for cash. Personal property is advertised for sale ten days. Execution is returnable in sixty days, except in case of United States commission, which is thirty days.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

A single man is entitled to exemption of personal property to the value of two hundred dollars in addition to wearing apparel, provided that no property shall be exempt from execution for purchase money while in the hands of vendor. A married man is allowed exemption of personal property to the value of five hundred dollars in addition to wearing apparel of himself and family. In the case of an Indian by blood, improvements are not subject to execution; and Indians by marriage are allowed one hundred and sixty acres used as a homestead.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

Legal rate is six per cent; contract rate may be ten per cent. Usury avoids principal and interest.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Executions on judgments are liens on personal property from the time the writ is placed in the officer's hands. Suits for recovery on same must be begun within ten years.

XIV. LIENS:

Laborers have a lien on all real and personal property and the product of their labor, for the amount of wages due.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on notes not under seal must be begun within five years; under seal, ten years; on official bonds, four years; against executors and administrators, eight years; on accounts, three years; for recovery on judgments, ten years.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman may hold separate property and carry on separate business. She is not liable for any debt contracted by her unless the same was made with special reference to its being payable by her.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Chattel mortgages must be proved or acknowledged and are not notice to any third party until filed or recorded in the district in which mortgagor resides; or if mortgagor is a non-resident, in the district where the property is located. Whenever the mortgagee endorses on the mortgage, "this instrument is to be filed but not recorded," it is filed, but not recorded, and is a lien from the time of filing. The mortgagor may retain possession until mortgage debt is due, if so stipulated; but the mortgage is void if a general power of disposition is reserved to the mortgagor.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are governed by the law merchant, as in the states. Acceptance is not binding unless in writing.

XIX. SUITS:

Can be brought in the United States Commissioners' Courts and in the United States Court in Indian Territory. Deposits for costs are three dollars in Commissioners' Court, and five dollars in United States Court. Constables' fees are ten cents a mile and fifty cents for service. Marshals' fees six cents per mile or actual expenses, and two dollars for service. Lien is enforced by filing affidavit and description of property and the writ issues without bond.

XX. TAXES:

Non-citizens are required to pay taxes to the Indian Nation from twenty-five dollars per year upward.

XXI. WAGES:

Sixty days' wages are exempt from execution, and for recovery of same, laborers and mechanics have a lien on the product of their labor.

XXII. WILLS:

Every person twenty-one years old and of sound mind may devise all his estate, and may dispose of goods and chattels at the age of eighteen. Married women can make wills. Wills must be in writing (except where nuncupative wills are allowed) and subscribed by the testator, or some one for him at his request at the end; and if the subscription is by another than the testator, he must subscribe as a witness and state the fact in writing. The subscription must be made, or acknowledged to have been so made, in the presence of each of the attesting witnesses; and at the time of signing or acknowledging said testator must declare the instrument so subscribed to be his will. There must be two witnesses. Nuncupative wills are good for the value of five hundred dollars.

MINING.

I. TITLE TO LANDS:

The title to all land in the Choctaw Nation, whether the same be mineral, agricultural, grazing or timber lands, is in the Choctaw Nation; and neither the Nation nor the individual Indian citizen has right or authority to sell the same. Therefore all minerals, in their natural state, are also the property of the Nation.

II. MINING RIGHTS:

By virtue of constitutional provisions and legal enactment (of the Choctaw Nation of Indians), "any citizen of the Choctaw Nation"—that is, any Choctaw Indian by blood or adoption—"who may find any mine or mines, or mineral waters, shall have the exclusive right and privilege to work the same, so long as he may choose, within one mile in any direction from his works or improvements; provided, however, he does not interfere with the rights of the former settler."

This provision has been construed by the United States Court for the Indian Territory, Central District, to mean that where there is more than one vein on the same land, that a finding of one vein of mineral on a tract of land, followed by a compliance with the provisions of the law, entitles the finder to all veins of mineral on the land described in said provision—that is, the land within one mile in every direction.

No one but an Indian citizen has this right of appropriation of minerals by reason of their discovery.

III. LEASES:

But a "non-citizen," or a person other than a Choctaw Indian citizen, has the right after the discovery of a mine by an Indian to lease the mine or mines, subject to approval of the contract of lease by the United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs; and in such case, said lessee or lessees must enter into a written contract with the National Agent, and give a bond conditioned for the faithful performance of the conditions of the contract, the penalty of which bond shall be in the sum of ten thousand dollars. Leases may be made for not to exceed six years.

IV. ROYALTY:

Whoever works a mine in the Choctaw Nation must pay as royalty, to the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations (which last has an interest in these lands) six per centum of the value of the metal or mineral when it is prepared for the general market, such royalty to be paid monthly.

V. PERMITS:

Before any person other than a Choctaw Indian citizen can procure a mining lease, or be permitted to mine in this Nation he must procure a permit to carry on the business of mining; which permit is procured in and through the (Indian) County Court.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Non-resident aliens or corporations incorporated under the laws of any foreign country, or corporations organized in this country one-half of whose stock is owned or controlled by non-resident aliens, are hereby prohibited from acquiring title to or taking or holding any lands or real estate in this State by descent, devise, purchase or otherwise, except that the widow and heirs of naturalized citizens and of aliens who have heretofore acquired lands in this State under the laws thereof may hold such lands by devise or descent for a period of ten years and no longer.

Any non-resident alien may acquire and hold real property to the extent of three hundred and twenty acres, or city property to the amount of ten thousand dollars in value, provided that within five years the same is placed within the actual possession of a relation of such purchaser, within the third degree, and further provided that such occupant becomes a naturalized citizen within ten years

This act does not apply to aliens who are residents of the State of Iowa, who shall have the same right to acquire, hold and dispose of property as natural born citizens of the United States.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

No insolvent law. Assignments are not valid unless for the benefit of all creditors, when the assent of creditors is presumed. The debtor must furnish a sworn inventory and list of creditors; and the assignment, which vests in the assignee title to all property of the debtor, must be recorded. Assignee must give bonds, prepare an inventory and valuation, and notify creditors by mail to file claims within three months. All claims filed must be sworn to, and all claims not filed within three months after notice is published cannot be paid until all claims filed within said three months are paid. Claims objected to may be passed upon by a jury, and the assignee is in all respects subject to the order of the court, and renders a final account thereto. All personal property must be disposed of within six months and all real estate must be disposed of and final settlement made within one year from date of assignment, unless otherwise ordered by the court. An assignment does not discharge the debtor from his debts and liabilities, but only entitles creditors to share equally in his estate. Wages due a creditor for personal services rendered at any time within ninety days preceding the assignment is a preferred claim, and to be paid in full. The assignment is docketed as a case in court. Special assignments under the common law are valid.

III. ATTACHMENT:

Process will issue against all property not exempt from execution on the filing of a sworn petition, alleging: 1. That the defendant is a foreign corporation, or acting as such. 2. That he is a non-resident of the State. 3. That he is about to remove his property out of the State, without leaving sufficient remaining for the payment of his debts. 4. That the defendant is about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors. 5. That he has absconded so that ordinary process cannot be served upon him. 6. That he is about to remove permanently out of the county and has property therein not exempt from execution, and that he refuses to pay or secure the plaintiff. 7. That he is about to remove permanently out of the State, and refuses to pay or secure the debt due the plaintiff. 8. That he is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing if beyond his creditors' reach. 9. That he has property or rights in action which he conceals. 10. That the debt is due for property obtained under false pretenses.

Attachment may be brought before the debt is due when the fourth, fifth, seventh or tenth of the above causes can be alleged under oath. The first attachment levied becomes the first lien, and there is no pro rata. The penalty on an attachment bond is three times the amount of debt. No person may be imprisoned for debt in any civil action on mesne or final process, except in case of fraud. No judgment shall be rendered in any garnishment proceeding condemning the property or debt in the hands of the garnishee until the principal defendant shall have ten days' personal notice of such proceedings in a court of record and five days' personal notice if before a justice of the peace.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Statement of Claims: Must be clearly stated, sworn to, and filed, and ten days' notice of the hearing, accompanied by a copy of the claim, shall be served on one of the executors in the manner of commencing ordinary proceedings, unless the same has been approved by the clerk, in which case it may be allowed without notice. All claims filed and not expressly admitted in writing, signed by the executor with the approbation of the court, shall be considered as denied without any pleading on behalf of the estate. The court may hear and allow claims or may submit them to a jury. In matters of accounts of executors the court shall have authority to appoint one or more referees. Demands not due may be presented, proved, and allowed as other claims. Contingent liabilities must also be presented and proved, or the executor shall be under no obligation to make any provision for satisfying them.

Priority: Claims shall be satisfied in the following order: 1. Debts entitled to preference under the laws of the United States. 2. Public notes and taxes. 3. Claims filed within six months after the first publication of notice of the appointment of executors. 4. All other debts. 5. Legacies.

All claims of the fourth class not filed and proven within twelve months of the notice of appointment, are forever barred, unless the claim is pending in the District or Supreme Court, or unless peculiar circumstances entitle the claimant to equitable relief.

V. COURTS:

There is no Circuit Court. The District Court has and assumes jurisdiction of all suits, civil and equitable, and has criminal and probate jurisdiction.

A Superior Court may be established by the vote of the people in any city of seven thousand inhabitants, and, when so established, shall be a police court, with jurisdiction to try all violation of city ordinances, and with the same criminal jurisdiction as Justice Courts. The Superior Court has no probate jurisdiction, but has the same jurisdiction as the District Court to try all suits in law and equity, save and except divorces. The judgments of Superior and Justice Courts have to be filed in the District Court to create a lien on real estate, and are then enforced as judgments of the District Court.

Terms of the Supreme Court are in January, May and October of each year.

The Justice's Court has jurisdiction of all civil causes in which the amount in controversy does not exceed one hundred dollars, but may, by consent of parties in the suit, extend jurisdiction of such to the amount of three hundred dollars. No appeal is allowed from a Justice Court unless the amount exceeds twenty-five dollars.

No appeal lies to the Supreme Court unless the amount in controversy exceeds one hundred dollars, unless upon certificate of the trial court.

VII. DEEDS:

Acknowledgments of deeds to land made within the State, must be made before some court having a seal, or judge or clerk thereof, or their deputies, or before some justice of the peace, notary public, county auditor or his deputy. In the United States or its territories, must be made before some court of record,or officer holding the seal thereof, or by a commissioner of deeds, appointed by the governor of the state, notary public, or justice of the peace. In the case of the latter official, his authority to take the acknowledgment should be certified to by a clerk of a court of record, under seal of the court, as also his official character, and the genuineness of his signature. In foreign countries deeds may be acknowledged before any officer authorized by the laws of such country to certify to acknowledgments, or any ambassador, minister, consular agent, or other officer of the United States properly authorized to receive acknowledgments of deeds, but the certificate of acknowledgment by a foreign officer must be authenticated by one of the above named officers of the United States, by his official written statement that full faith and credit is due to the certificate of such foreign officer. Witnesses are not required.

No instrument affecting real estate is of any validity against subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration, without notice, unless recorded in the office of the recorder of the county in which the land lies. The recorder must endorse upon every instrument properly filed in his office for record the time when so filed, and forthwith make above entries. And every instrument shall be recorded as soon as practicable, but no deed of real property shall be filed by the recorder until the proper entries have been made thereon by the auditor.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

After the commencement of a civil action or proceeding, if the witness resides within this State but in a different county from the place of trial, or is about to go beyond the reach of a subpoena, or is for any other cause expected to be unable to attend court at the time of trial, either party may take his deposition in writing before any person authorized to administer oaths.

Reasonable notice, the name of the witness, and of the time and place when and where the same will be taken, must be given the opposite party. Where the witness resides out of the county, his deposition may be taken on notice or on commission, as the party desiring his testimony may elect. The commissioner may be selected by the party desiring the deposition, and may be the clerk, or any judge of any court of record, or any commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State, to take acknowledgments of deeds in another state, or any notary public, or any consul or consular agent of the United States. A commission directed to "Any notary public within and for" any certain county and state is sufficient to comply with the requirements of the statute. [Sheriff vs. Hull, 37 Ia., 174.]

Reasonable notice must be given the adverse party of a time when a commission will be sued out of the office of the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, accompanied with a copy of the interrogatories to be asked such witness. At or before the time thus fixed the opposite party may file cross interrogations. The notice, if served on the party, shall be at least five days; if on the attorney, ten days, and served in the same manner as an original notice. The commission issues under the hand and seal of the clerk of the court, and the depositions shall be taken by the commissioner writing down each interrogatory and the answers. Neither party nor their attorneys are permitted to be present. When so taken, the depositions shall be securely sealed and transmitted by mail to the clerk of the court from which the commission issued.

IX. DESCENT:

The personal property of deceased not necessary for the payment of debts, and not otherwise disposed of, shall be distributed to the same persons and in the same proportion as though it were real estate. Subject to the interest of the widow and the rights and charges growing out of the settlement of the estate, the remaining estate shall, in the absence of other arrangement by will, descend in equal shares to his children. If any of his children be dead, the heirs of such child shall inherit his share in accordance with rules herein prescribed. If intestate leaves no issue, one-half of his estate shall go to his parents, and the other half to his wife. If he leaves no wife, the portion which should have gone to her shall go to his parents. If one of his parents be dead, the portion which would have gone to the deceased parent shall go to the surviving parent, including the portion which would have belonged to intestate's wife had she been living. If both parents be dead, the portion which would have fallen to their share shall be disposed of in the same manner as if they had outlived the intestate and died in possession and ownership of portion falling to their share; and so on through ascending ancestors and their issue. If heirs are not thus found, the portion uninherited shall go to the wife of intestate, or to her heirs, if dead, according to like rule; if he has had more than one wife, who either dies or survives in wedlock, it shall be equally divided between one who is living and heirs of those who are dead, or between the heirs of all, if all are dead, such heirs taking by right of representation.

One-third in value of legal or equitable estate in real property possessed by the husband, at any time during marriage, which had not been sold on execution, or other judicial sale, and to which the wife has made no relinquishment of her rights, shall be set apart as her property in fee simple if she survives him. The same share of real estate of a deceased wife shall be set apart to the surviving husband. The law in regard to widow of deceased husband shall be applicable to surviving husband of deceased wife.

X. EXECUTIONS:

May issue immediately upon the rendition of judgment, and are returnable in seventy days from the date of issue. On the judgment debtor entering good and sufficient security on the proper court records for the amount of such judgment, interest and costs, accrued and to accrue, he can have a stay of execution for three months on any sum under one hundred dollars; and on any amount above that sum for six months, by giving a bond, which shall be filed and recorded and have the effect of a judgment. The stay must be taken within ten days from the date of entry of judgment, and the party taking such stay, if he has been personally served with process, shall not afterward be allowed to appeal. If the judgment is not fully paid at the expiration of the stay, judgment is entered against the surety, and execution may be issued forthwith. After stay, a judgment draws ten per cent interest by operation of law. There can be no stay for wages due a mechanic or laboring man, nor by a surety on stay bond.

Redemption: Defendant may redeem real property sold under execution at any time within twelve months, meantime remaining in possession of the property, but where he has taken an appeal or stay of execution he cannot redeem. During the first six months he has exclusive right of redemption, but after that time, and before the expiration of nine months, any creditor having a lien can redeem.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

Homestead of forty acres in the country and half an acre in city or town, with buildings, without regard to value. Homesteads are exempt to any widow of a soldier or sailor who died of disease or wounds contracted while in the service of the United States, or after discharge. Pension money, or a homestead procured by pension money, is exempt from attachment or execution. Pension money, whether in possession, or loaned or invested, is exempt. Personal property exempt includes tools, instruments, library, necessary team. etc., of a mechanic, farmer, teacher, or professional man; wearing apparel, household and kitchen furniture to the value of two hundred dollars; certain farm animals, and necessary food for six months. The foregoing relates only to residents being heads of families; unmarried persons and non-residents being only entitled to retain their own clothing and trunks, save and except pensioners. Where the debtor is a printer, the printing press and types, furniture and material, up to one thousand two hundred dollars, are exempt. One sewing machine is exempt to a seamstress. No exemption is waived by failure to except to levy of execution or to designate or select exempt property.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

Where there is no special declaration of the statute to the contrary, the homestead of every family, whether owned by the husband or wife, is exempt from judicial sale. A widow or widower, though without children, shall be deemed a family while continuing to occupy the house used as such at the time of the death of husband or wife. A conveyance or encumbrance by the owner is of no validity unless the husband and wife, if the owner is married, sign the same joint instrument.

The homestead is liable for the taxes accruing thereon, and, if plotted, is liable only for such taxes; and subject to mechanics' liens for work, labor, or material, done or furnished exclusively for the same. The homestead may be sold for debts contracted prior to the purchase and occupation thereof. It may be sold for debts created by written contract executed by the persons having the power to convey, but only to supply any deficiency after exhausting other property pledged for such debts.

The homestead must embrace the house used as a home by the owner thereof; if he has two or more, he may select which he will retain as his homestead. It may contain one or more lots or tracts of land, with the buildings thereon and other appurtenances. If within a town plot it must not exceed one-half an acre in extent, and if not within a town plot, it must not embrace in the aggregate more than forty acres. But if, when thus limited, in either case its value is less than five hundred dollars, it may be enlarged till its value reaches that amount. It must not embrace more than one dwelling house, or other buildings except such as are properly appurtenant; but a shop used and occupied in his ordinary business by the owner, and not exceeding three hundred dollars in value, may be deemed appurtenant. The owner, or husband or wife, may select the homestead and cause the same to be plotted. The owner may from time to time change the limits of the homestead. The new homestead, to the extent of the old, is exempt from execution in all cases where the former would have been, but in no greater degree.

Upon the death of either husband or wife, the survivor may continue to possess and occupy the whole homestead until otherwise disposed of according to law. The setting off of the distribution share of the husband or wife in the real estate of deceased shall be such disposal. But the survivor may elect to retain the homestead for life in lieu of such share in the real estate of deceased. Subject to such rights the homestead descends to the issue of either husband or wife, according to the rules of descent, unless otherwise directed by will; and is to be held by such issue exempt from any antecedent debts of their parents or their own. If there is no such survivor or issue, the homestead may be sold for payment of debts to which it might at that time be subjected, if it had never been held as a homestead. Subject to the rights of the surviving husband or wife, the homestead may be devised like other real estate.

XIII. INTEREST:

The legal rate is eight per cent. Parties may contract, in writing, for eight per cent. Judgments draw six per cent, or such rate as is fixed by the contract on which judgment or decree is rendered, not exceeding eight per cent per annum. Open accounts draw six per cent after six months from date of last item. A contract for more than eight per cent forfeits ten per cent on the amount of contract, and all interest and costs.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

In the District and Superior Courts judgment may be obtained at the first term after suit is commenced, if undefended.

Judgments of the District Court are liens on real estate owned by the debtor at the time of such rendition. If the lands lie in the county where judgment was rendered, the lien attaches from its date; if in any other county, from the time of filing therein an attested copy of the judgment. Lien covers all the lands which defendant may acquire within ten years from the date of judgment. Judgments of Superior Courts and Justices' Courts become liens on real estate by filing transcript in the District Court within the county where obtained, and become liens in other counties in the same manner as if rendered in the District Court.

XV. LIENS:

Judgments in the courts of this State are liens upon the real estate owned by the defendant at the time of such rendition, and also upon all he may subsequently acquire for the period of ten years from the date of the judgment, as set forth above. When a judgment is paid or satisfied, the plaintiff must acknowledge satisfaction on the docket or by a writing duly acknowledged and filed with the clerk.

Every mechanic or other person who shall do any labor upon, or furnish any materials, machinery, or fixtures for, any building, erection or other improvement upon land, including those in the construction of railway grades, shall have a lien upon the same and on the land on which the same is situated. Such work and labor, or materials, must be done or furnished by virtue of a contract with the owner, his agent, contractor or sub-contractor. In order to preserve such lien, the statement of account and affidavit claiming the lien must be filed in the office of the clerk of the court within ninety days, in case of a contractor, and in case of a sub-contractor or laborer within thirty days after the last work was done or materials furnished. This lien is prior to that of a mortgage on the building or improvement.

There is no special statute by which a miner mining coal can, under the general mechanics' lien law, avail himself of a lien, except for the construction of works, erection of machinery or material furnished, which is covered by the mechanics' lien laws, available for any and all laborers and material men who perform work upon or furnish material for the construction or improvement of property.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for injury to person or reputation, or to cover a statutory penalty, must be brought within two years; to enforce a mechanics' lien, two years; on unwritten contracts, five years; on written contracts, ten years; on judgments of courts of record, twenty years; to recover real estate, ten years. Revivor is contained in an admission of debt or a new promise to pay, which must be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

May own in their own right real and personal property acquired by descent, gift or purchase, and may manage, sell, convey and devise the same by will in the same manner as the husband can property belonging to him. Neither husband nor wife is liable for the debts or liabilities of the other incurred before marriage, and, except as herein otherwise declared, they are not liable for the separate debts of the other; nor are the wages, earnings or property of either, nor the rent or income of such property, liable for the separate debts of the other. Contracts may be made by a wife and liabilities incurred, and the same enforced by or against her, to the same extent and in the same manner as if she was unmarried. They may be sued jointly or separately therefor. Dower and the estate of curtesy are abolished, but the surviving wife or husband takes one-third in value of all the legal and equitable estate possessed by the other during marriage.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages must be signed by the parties, acknowledged and recorded same as deeds. Mortgages of real estate are foreclosed by equitable action, and mortgagor has one year after sale within which to redeem. Subsequent lien holders have nine months after sale within which to redeem.

Chattel mortgages must be executed same as mortgages on real estate, and in order to be valid against subsequent purchasers without notice must be recorded in the county wherein the mortgagor resides. Chattel mortgages may be foreclosed by notice and sale or by action in court. No redemption is allowed. All kinds of personal property may be pledged in a chattel mortgage, but the description must be specific, and sufficient to enable third persons with the suggestions on the face of the mortgage to identify and locate the property. In the absence of stipulations to the contrary, mortgagor is entitled to the possession of the property until default is made.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Grace is allowed on all negotiable bills or notes payable within the State according to the law merchant, except those drawn payable on demand, and notice of non-acceptance, or non-payment, or both, is required according to the rules of commercial law. Damages allowed on protested paper are from three to five per cent. To hold indorser, the note must be duly presented, payment refused, and indorser notified. Open accounts are assignable. Paper falling due on Sunday, the first day of January, 30th of May, 4th of July or the 25th of December, and any day appointed by the Governor or the President as a day of fasting or thanksgiving, shall be considered and treated as falling due on the preceding day. Defenses to non-negotiable paper and accounts accrued after notice in writing of assignment to maker are valid as against assignee; providing that if negotiable paper be obtained by fraud, the holder thereof shall recover no greater sum than he paid, with interest and costs.

XX. SUITS:

There is but one form of action in this State, known as a civil action and regulated by a code of procedure. Actions are commenced by serving the defendant with a notice stating clearly the nature of the claim, and filing a petition in court, ten days before the term. Actions generally are prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, and in the county where defendant resides, or property in question is situated, or the cause of action arose.

Process must be served in Justices' Courts on a debtor at least five and not more than fifteen days preceding hearing of cause, and in the District Courts and Superior Courts at least ten days before the first day of the term. If the defendant is served outside of his county, but inside of a judicial district, process must be served fifteen days before term; elsewhere there must be twenty days' service for every one thousand miles or fraction thereof. Service short for the first term is good for the next term.

XXI. TAXES:

Taxes become due and payable on the first Monday of January in each year, and one-half thereof may be paid before the first day of March succeeding the levy, and the remaining one-half before the first day of September following; provided, that where the half has not been paid before the first day of April succeeding the levy, the whole tax shall become delinquent from the first day of March following the levy. If the second installment be not paid before the first day of October succeeding the levy, it shall be delinquent. All delinquent taxes draw interest at the rate of one per cent per month until paid. Personal property is liable to distress and sale for all taxes, and the tax list is the warrant thereof. Taxes on personal and real property are made a perpetual lien on real property.

Lands are sold on the first Monday in December after taxes become delinquent. Three years are allowed in which to redeem by payment of the amount for which the lands were sold, with ten per cent penalty, and ten per cent per annum interest upon the whole amount; provided, that after two years and nine months from date of tax sale notice must be given to the person to whom the said land is assessed, and the person in actual possession. that deed will be taken ninety days thence. Where land is assessed unknown and is unoccupied, no notice is necessary; provided, that a non-resident may file with the treasurer of the county a written appointment of some resident of the county where the land is situated, upon whom service shall be made. Taxes may become a lien as between vendor and vendee after December 31st of each year.

XXII. WILLS:

Any person of full age and sound mind may dispose by will of all his property except what is sufficient to pay his debts, or what is allowed as a homestead, or otherwise given by law as privileged property to his wife and family.

All other wills must be in writing, witnessed by two competent witnesses and signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his express direction. No subscribing witness can derive any benefit from the will unless there be two disinterested witnesses to the same.

Personal property to the value of three hundred dollars may be bequeathed by a verbal will, if witnessed by two competent witnesses. A soldier in actual service, or a mariner at sea, may dispose of all his personal estate by a will so made and witnessed.

Posthumous children unprovided for in the father's will shall inherit the same interest as though no will had been made. The word "devisee" shall embrace "legatees," and the word "devised" shall have the force of the word "bequeathed." If a devisee dies before the testator, his heirs shall inherit the amount so devised to him. But the widow of a deceased husband cannot inherit property devised by him to a child who died before the death of the husband.

Any person having the custody of a will, shall, as soon as informed of the death of the testator, file the same with the clerk of the local court, who shall open and read the same. Should such person fail to produce the will after reasonable notice, he may be committed to jail until he comply. After the reading of the will a day shall be fixed by the court or clerk for proving the same. Whenever the proving of a will is contested either party may demand a jury. Notice of hearing shall be given by the clerk publishing a notice in some newspaper conveniently near.

Foreign wills probated in any other state or country shall be admitted to probate in this State without the notices required in the cases of domestic wills.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution provides that no corporation shall be created by special laws, but the general assembly shall provide by general laws for the organization of corporations. The property of all corporations for pecuniary profit shall be subject to taxation the same as that of individuals. The State shall not become a stockholder in any corporation, nor shall it assume or pay the debts or liabilities of any corporation, unless incurred in time of war for the benefit of the State.

II. ORGANIZATION:

Any number of persons may associate themselves and become incorporated for the transaction of any lawful business. Among the powers of such body corporate are the following: 1. To have perpetual succession. 2. To sue and be sued by its corporate name. 3. To have a common seal, which it may alter at pleasure. 4. To render the interest of stockholders transferable. 5. To exempt the private property of its members from liability for corporate debts. 6. To make contracts, acquire and transfer property, possessing the same powers in such respects as private individuals may enjoy. 7. To establish by-laws, and make all rules and regulations deemed expedient for the management of its affairs in accordance with law.

The articles of incorporation must fix the highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any time to be subject, which must in no case, except in that of risks of insurance companies, exceed two-thirds of the capital stock. A notice must also be published for four weeks in succession in some newspaper as convenient as possible to the principal place of business. Such notice must contain: 1. The name of the corporation and its principal place of transacting business. 2. The general nature of the business to be transacted. 3. The amount of capital stock authorized, and the times and conditions on which it is to be paid in. 4. The commencement and termination of the corporation. 5. By what officers or persons the affairs of the corporation are to be conducted, and the times at which they will be elected. 6. The highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. 7. Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts.

The corporation may begin business as soon as the articles of incorporation are filed in the office of the recorder of deeds, and the doings shall be valid if the publication in the newspaper is made and articles recorded in the office of the Secretary of State within three months from such filing in the recorder's office.

Any of the provisions of the articles of incorporation may be changed at any annual meeting of the stockholders, or a special meeting called for that purpose, but are not valid unless recorded as the original articles are required to be. Said changes need only be signed and acknowledged by the officers of the corporation.

No corporation can be dissolved prior to the period fixed in the articles except by unanimous consent, unless a different rule has been adopted in the articles. The same newspaper publication must precede a premature dissolution as required at its creation.

III. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

A failure to comply substantially with the requisition in relation to organization and publicity renders the individual property of the stockholders liable for the corporate debts, but this provision is not applicable to railway corporations and corporators, and stockholders in railway companies shall be liable only for the amount of stock held by them in said companies.

Nothing in the law nor in the articles of incorporation shall exempt the stockholders from individual liability to the amount of the unpaid installments on the stock owned by them, or transferred by them for the purpose of defrauding creditors, and execution against the company may, to that extent, be levied upon the private property of any such individual.

The private property of the stockholders cannot be levied upon for the payment of corporate debts, while corporate property can be found with which to satisfy the same, but it will be sufficient proof that no property can be found, if an execution has issued on a judgment against the corporation, and no property found, or pointed out on which to levy. Before any stockholder can be charged with the payment of a judgment rendered for a corporate debt, an action shall be brought against him, in any stage of which he may point out corporate property subject to levy. When the private property of a stockholder is taken for a corporate debt, he may maintain an action against the corporation for indemnity, and against any of the other stockholders for contribution.

The franchise of a corporation may be levied upon under execution and sold, but the corporation shall not become thereby dissolved, and no dissolution of the corporation shall affect the franchise, and the purchaser becomes vested with all the powers of the corporation therefor. Such franchise shall be sold without appraisement.

IV. FRAUDULENT PRACTICES:

Intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or in deceiving the public or individuals in relation to their means or liabilities, shall subject those guilty thereof to fine and imprisonment, and damages may be recovered by any person who has sustained injury from such fraud.

Injury to any person by the diversion of the funds of the corporation to other objects than those mentioned in its articles and in notices published, and the payment of dividends which leave sufficient funds, will subject those therein concerned to the penalties of the preceding section.

Either such failure, or the practice of fraud in the manner mentioned, shall cause a forfeiture of all the privileges conferred and the courts may proceed to wind up the business of the corporation.

Dividends by insurance companies made in good faith before their knowledge of the happening of actual losses are not intended to be prevented or punished.

V. DURATION:

Corporations shall not exist for more than twenty years, except those for the construction of any work of internal improvement, or for the business of life insurance, which may exist for fifty years; but may be renewed from time to time, except that corporations for agricultural or horticultural purposes and cemetery associations may be formed to endure any length of time.

Any corporation organized in accordance with the provisions of this chapter shall cease to exist by the nonuse of its franchise for two years at any one time, but shall not forfeit its franchises by reason of its omission to elect officers. Corporations whose charters expire by their own limitations, or the voluntary act of the stockholders, may, nevertheless, continue to act, for the purpose of winding up their concern.

For the purpose of repairs, rebuilding, or enlarging, or to meet contingencies fund, the corporation may establish a sinking fund.

VI. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

A copy of the by-laws of the corporation, with the names of all its officers appended thereto, must be posted in the principal places of business, and be subject to public inspection. A statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital actually paid in, and the amount of indebtedness in a general way, must also be kept posted up in like manner.

The transfer of shares is not valid except as between the parties thereto until it is regularly entered on the books of the company, so as to show the names of the persons by and to whom transferred, the numbers or other designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer.

In any proceedings by or against a corporation, or against a stockholder, the court has power to compel the officers to produce the books of the corporation.

A single individual may entitle himself to all the advantages of the law, provided he complies substantially with all its requirements.

VII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

No foreign corporation which has not in good faith complied with the provisions of the law, shall hereafter be authorized to exercise any of the powers of eminent domain, or exercise any of the rights and privileges conferred upon corporations.

Any foreign corporation sued or impeached in any of the courts of this State upon any contract made or executed in this State, or to be performed in this State, or for any act or omission, public or private, arising, originating, or happening in the State, who shall remove any such cause from such State court into any of the federal courts shall forfeit and render null and void any permit granted for the pursuit of its business in this State.

Any foreign corporation that shall carry on its business without having complied with the provisions of the law shall forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred dollars for each and every day in which such business is transacted and carried on.

[This statute is unconstitutional for the reason that it makes the stipulation not to remove cases to the federal courts a condition for obtaining the permit to do business.]

MINING.

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The State is divided into three mining districts, and there are three mine inspectors, one for each district, appointed by the Governor, and holding their office for two years. Their duties require them to examine the mines of their respective districts, and see that the mining laws are complied with.

The owner or agent of every coal mine shall make, or cause to be made, an accurate map of such mine, and on or before the first day of September of each year report all progress in working said mine. When a mine is worked out and abandoned, the owner or agent shall deliver a correct map of the same to the inspector, to be filed in his office.

II. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

There shall be in every mine at least two separate outlets, separated by natural strata of not less than one hundred feet in breadth, by which shafts or outlets distinct means of ingress and egress are always available to the persons employed in the mine. In no case shall a furnace shaft be used as an escape shaft, unless the furnace shaft is large enough to be divided, when a partition shall be placed therein to fully protect the half thereof from heat and smoke. The distance from the main shaft shall not be less than three hundred feet, without the consent of the inspector, and no building shall be put nearer the escape than one hundred feet, except the house necessary to cover the mouth thereof.

The owner or agent of every coal mine, whether it be operated by shaft, slope or drift, shall provide and maintain for such mine an amount of ventilation of not less than one hundred cubic feet of air per minute for every person employed in said mine, and not less than five hundred cubic feet of air per minute for each mule or horse employed in the same. When the inspector finds men working without sufficient air, or any unsafe conditions, he shall give the owner or agent notice to rectify the same, and if such is not done, he may order the men out until the defect is rectified.

The most approved methods of safety appliances are required to be used, subject to the approval of the inspector. None but experienced engineers shall be employed in charge of the engines. A failure to comply with the law in regard to the appliances and other provisions of the law makes the owner or operator of a mine liable to be enjoined, and liable for all damages which may accrue by reason of the failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

The owner, agent or operator of any coal mine shall keep a sufficient supply of timber to be used as props, so that the workmen may at all times properly secure the workings.

III. MISDEMEANORS:

Any miner, workman or other person who shall knowingly injure or interfere with any air-course or brattice, or obstruct or throw open doors, or disturb any part of the machinery, or do any act whereby the lives and health of the persons employed therein, or the security of the mines and machinery is endangered, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Any person willfully neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of this act, when notified by the mine inspector to comply with such provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months.

IV. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The owner or agent of each coal mine within this State at which the miners are paid by weight shall provide at such mine suitable scales of standard make for the weighing of all coal mined. The owner or agent of such mine shall require the person authorized to weigh the coal to be sworn, and the oath posted in a conspicuous place.

The miners employed and working in any mine may furnish a competent check-weighman, who shall at all proper times have full right of access to and examination of such scales, machinery or apparatus, all measures and weights of coal mined and the accounts kept of the same. Fraud in weighing committed by the company, check-weighman or any person shall be punished by fine of not less than two hundred nor more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment.

All coal mined under contract for payment by the ton or other quantity shall be weighed before being screened, unless otherwise agreed upon in writing. Eighty pounds of coal as mined shall constitute a bushel, and two thousand pounds of coal as mined shall constitute a ton.

Any person damaged by reason of coal mined not having been weighed and credited to him in accordance with the provisions of this act may recover his damages in a civil action against the employer, but such action must be commenced within two years after the right of action accrues.

V. WAGES:

It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, company or corporation to sell, give, deliver or in any manner issue, directly or indirectly, to any person employed by him or it, in payment for wages due for labor, or as advances on the wages of labor not due, any scrip, check, draft, order or evidence of indebtedness, payable or redeemable otherwise than in their face value in money.

VI. COERCION:

Whoever compels or in any manner seeks to compel or coerce an employe of any person, firm, company or corporation to purchase goods or supplies from any particular person, firm, company or corporation shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and punished by fine or imprisonment.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments within the State must be made before a judge or clerk of a court having a seal, a justice of the peace, notary public, county clerk, register of deeds, or mayor or clerk of an incorporated city. Every notary public shall add to his official signature the date of the expiration of his commission as notary public. In cases where the acknowledgment is made out of the State it must be made before a court of record, a clerk, or other officer having a seal thereof, a commissioner of deeds for Kansas, justice of the peace, or notary public, or before any consul of the United States, resident in any foreign country or port. When the acknowledgment is made before a justice of the peace, some clerk of a court of record must certify to his official position. (See "VIII. Deeds.")

II. ALIENS:

If non-residents, aliens can not acquire title to real estate; but heirs of aliens who have heretofore acquired land may take such land by devise or descent and hold the same for three years if of age, and for five years if minors, when it reverts to the State if not previously sold in good faith. Minor aliens residing in the United States may acquire title by purchase and retain it for six years after they might, under the naturalization laws, have declared their intention to become citizens, at the expiration of which time, if such aliens have not become citizens, it shall revert to the State. Resident aliens who have declared under the naturalization laws their intention to become citizens may, during six years thereafter, exercise all the property rights of citizens, when the land owned by them shall escheat to the State, if such aliens have not become citizens. No corporation in which more than twenty per cent of the stock is owned by aliens shall acquire or hold real estate. Forfeited land is sold by judicial process, and proceeds after payment of costs returned to alien owners. An alien owning land prior to the taking effect of this act can dispose of the same during his life.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments must be for benefit of all creditors, and do not discharge the debtor. They must be executed and recorded like conveyances of real property. Creditors (to amounts above ten dollars) are notified by the clerk of the District Court, and at the meeting held for choice of assignee, a majority of such creditors must be present, otherwise the appointment rests with the court. Creditors who fail to appear are precluded. Assignee must pay out funds in his hands within one month of allowance of demands. Property must be appraised, and assignee is in all respects subject to the order of the court, and his accounts are passed upon by a commissioner before his discharge.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

The creditor in a civil action for the recovery of money may, at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment against the property of the debtor: 1. Where the debtor or one of several debtors is a foreign corporation or non-resident of the State (but no attachment shall be granted on the ground or grounds in this clause stated, for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon contract, judgment or decree, unless the cause of action arose wholly within the limits of this State, which fact must be established on the trial); or where the debtor or one of several debtors: 2. Has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors. 3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons. 4. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property or a part thereof out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors. 6. Is about to convert his property or a part thereof into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals. 8. Has assigned, removed or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property or a part thereof, with the intent to defraud, hinder or delay his creditors. 9. Fraudulently contracted the debt, or fraudulently incurred the liability or obligation, for which suit is about to be or has been brought. 10. When the damages for which the action is brought are for the injuries arising from the commission of some felony or misdemeanor, or the seduction of some female. 11. When the debtor has failed to pay for an article or thing delivered, for which by contract he was bound to pay on delivery. 12. Where the claim is for rent and the tenant is about to remove or has within thirty days removed his chattels from the rented property. The last is a special provision.

When the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make oath in writing that any person or corporation has property of the defendant, or is indebted to him, a garnishment summons may issue to such person, and a copy of the order of attachment, with notice that he appear and answer. When suit is brought before a justice of the peace, if affidavit is made that any person or corporation is indebted to defendant, or has property belonging to him, and that plaintiff is likely to lose his claim unless garnishee summons issue, the justice of the peace will issue summons at the commencement of the suit. (See "XI. Exemptions.")

V. CONTRACTS:

All contracts which, by the common law, are joint only, shall be construed to be joint and several. Any person jointly or severally liable with others for the payment of any debt may be released from such liability by the creditor, and such release shall not discharge the other debtors beyond the proper proportion of the debt for which the person released was liable. The use of private seals in written contracts (except seals of corporations) is abolished.

VI. COURTS:

Terms and jurisdiction: District Courts, holding three terms a year in nearly every county, have general original jurisdiction in law and equity.

Regular terms of the Probate Court are held in each county on the first Mondays in January, April, July and October, and special or adjourned terms may be held as business may require.

Justice Courts have jurisdiction in civil actions for the recovery of money to amounts not more than three hundred dollars; and to recover specific personal property not exceeding one hundred dollars.

VIII. DEEDS:

All instruments of writing for the conveyance or incumbrance of real estate within this State, executed and acknowledged, or proved in any other state, territory or country, in conformity with the laws of such state, territory, or country, or in conformity with the laws of this State, shall be valid as if executed within the State.

Husband and wife must joint in conveyance of community real estate. Grantors need not attach any seal or scroll to their signatures and no witnesses are necessary, unless grantors are unable to write. Corporations convey by deed sealed with the corporation seal and signed by the president, vice-president, presiding member or trustee.

IX. DESCENT:

The homestead is the absolute property of the widow and children; one-half in value to the widow, and the other half to the children, when both survive. The homestead cannot be divided or sold by an action for partition until all the children attain majority. One-half of all real estate owned by husband during coverture, and not conveyed by husband and wife, nor sold at judicial sale, goes to the wife in fee simple; except of land sold by husband whose wife never resided in the State.

The remaining estate goes to the surviving children, and living issue of prior deceased children, per stirpes, in equal shares; or, if none, to the widow. For want of wife or child the whole estate goes to the parents. The rules applicable to the widow of deceased husband apply to husband of deceased wife. Illegitimate children inherit from the mother, and also from the father, if his recognition has been general and notorious, or in writing. When a child would inherit from either parent, such parent will inherit from the child.

X. EXECUTIONS:

May be ordered as soon as judgment is obtained. It is the duty of the justice, without any order, to issue execution within ten days from rendition of judgment. Executions are made returnable within thirty days. Personal property levied on must be appraised, advertised for ten days, and sold at auction to the highest bidder. In judgments upon notes or mortgages, when the written instrument contains the words "appraisement waived," no execution or order of sale can issue until the expiration of six months after the date of judgment. Executions out of District Court are returnable in sixty days.

Stay: There is no stay of execution in the District Court, except where a case is taken to the Supreme Court on appeal, and then only upon the giving of proper bonds.

In Justices' Courts, by filing bond, stays of execution are granted as follows: On any judgment for twenty dollars and under, thirty days; over twenty dollars and under fifty dollars, sixty days; over fifty dollars and not exceeding one hundred dollars, ninety days; over one hundred dollars, one hundred and twenty days.

There is no redemption of land sold under execution or other legal process in this State.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

Every person residing in this State, and being the head of a family, shall have exempt from seizure upon attachment or execution, or other process issued from any court in this State: family Bible, school books, and family library; family pictures and musical instruments used by the family; all wearing apparel of the family; all beds, bedsteads and bedding used by the debtor and his family; one cooking stove and appendages, all cooking utensils, and all other stoves and appendages necessary for the use of the debtor and his family; one sewing machine; spinning wheel, all other implements of industry, and all other household furniture not herein enumerated, not exceeding five hundred dollars in value; two cows, ten hogs, one yoke of oxen and one horse or mule, or in lieu of one yoke of oxen and one horse or mule, a span of horses or mules, and twenty sheep and their wool; necessary food for the support of such stock for one year; one wagon, two plows, drag, and other farming utensils, not exceeding three hundred dollars in value; grain, meat, vegetables, groceries, etc., for the family for one year; the tools and implements of any mechanic, miner, or other person, kept for the purpose of carrying on his business, and in addition thereto stock in trade not exceeding four hundred dollars in value; and the library, implements and office furniture of any professional man; also personal earnings of the debtor earned during three months preceding the garnishment or attachment, and three months' pension money, where such earnings or pension money are necessary for the support of the debtor's family. Residents, not the head of a family, have tools, implements, and stock in trade up to four hundred dollars in value exempt from execution.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

There is exempt to every person residing in this State and being the head of a family, a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres of farming land, or of one acre within an incorporated town or city, with buildings thereon, unlimited in value. A lien on the homestead may be created by husband and wife joining in the mortgage; and may also lie for material used in improvements thereon.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent, but ten per cent may be agreed upon. All in excess of ten per cent is forfeited, and in addition thereto there shall be deducted from the amount due for principal, with lawful interest, an amount equal to the interest contracted for in excess of ten per cent. The legal interest originally contracted for continues until the debt is paid, and no additional interest can be charged by way of penalty for default.

A purchaser of a negotiable note for value before maturity, without notice, takes the note free of the usurious taint, the remedy of the maker being against the original holder.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of courts of record are liens on the real estate of debtor within the county wherein rendered, but lose their priority over subsequent judgments unless execution is issued and levied within one year after judgment. The lien can be extended to other counties by filing certified copies of the judgment therein. The lien continues for five years, and may be revived within one year thereafter; but the issuance of execution prevents the judgment from becoming dormant until the expiration of five years from the date of issue of each execution. Justices' judgments become liens on filing transcript thereof in the District Court of the county in which they were rendered.

One under contract with the owner, trustee, agent, husband or wife of owner of land, for furnishing any material to build, alter or repair any structure thereon, or furnishing or performing labor, or for trees, sidewalks, etc., shall have a lien upon the land and all appurtenances, prior to all liens subsequent to the beginning of the building, or other work.

Original contractors have four months and sub-contractors and laborers sixty days, after material was last furnished or work done, in which to file the lien with the clerk of the District Court, and one year after filing to begin suit for enforcement.

All rights are assignable. If a note be given for the claim, such action lies within one year after maturity of note. If contractor fails to pay sub-contractor, or the latter or either the laborer, lien lies as above. Attorney's fee is allowed against defendant and property.

A bond approved by the clerk of the District Court, conditioned for payment of all claims, and for not less than the contract price, avoids all liens. On public works a bond to the State must be filed in the contract price.

XV. LIENS:

Any article entrusted to a mechanic, artisan or tradesman for alteration or repair is subject to lien for value of the work thereon, and if such is not paid in three months, may be sold.

The owner of any building or land has a lien on tenants' goods or crops for rent. Attachment lies for the removal of such without paying rent, at the time of or within thirty days after removal.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

An action for the recovery of real property sold on execution or by executors, administrators or guardians, brought by the execution debtor, or the heirs, ward or guardian, or any claiming under them after the date of the judgment or order of sale, must be entered within five years after the deed is recorded. To recover by holder of tax deed, within two years, and against holder of tax deed, within five years after recording of tax deed. Other actions for the recovery of real property, within fifteen years after cause of action accrues.

Action must be entered on official bond and contracts in writing, within five years; on contracts not in writing, within three years; and for trespass, detinue, replevin, injuries not arising on contract, and relief on the ground of fraud, within two years.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Have the same rights as men concerning property and business, and may carry on trade, sue and be sued, and sell or convey their real estate, precisely as their husbands can. The estates of dower and courtesy have been abolished. The homestead is the absolute property of the widow and children, and the widow takes in fee simple one-half of all other real estate owned by the husband during coverture, unless she joined in the conveyance thereof.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages and conveyances of real estate, to be valid against subsequent bona fide purchasers, must be duly acknowledged and recorded within the county; and are foreclosed by suit only, in which all parties in interest are made parties defendant.

Chattel mortgages are absolutely void as against creditors, and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless possession of the property actually passes to and remains in the mortgagee, or the instrument be forthwith filed of record. Such mortgages expire within one year, as to creditors or purchasers, unless renewed by affidavit, showing interest, filed during the last thirty days of the year. In case of exempt personal property, both husband and wife must unite in executing the mortgage to make it effectual.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

All bonds, notes and bills of exchange, foreign and inland, drawn for any sum or sums of money, certain, and made payable to any person or bearer, shall be negotiable by indorsement thereon if payable to order, and by delivery if payable to bearer, so as to absolutely transfer and vest the property thereof in each and every indorsee or holder, successively; but nothing in this section shall be construed to make negotiable any such bond, note or bill of exchange, drawn payable to any person or persons alone, and not drawn payable to any order, bearer or assigns. (See General Statutes, 1868.)

By the laws of 1875, it was provided that no person or persons, bank or body corporate, residing or doing business within the limits of this State can be held liable for protest damages on any bond, note or bill protested heretofore or hereafter for non-acceptance or non-payment.

All bonds, notes and bills of exchange, except bank checks and sight drafts, made negotiable, shall be entitled to three days of grace in the time of payment. Whenever the third day of grace falls upon a Sunday, July 4th, December 25th, or January 1st, or upon any date appointed for a public fast or thanksgiving, the next preceding day is the last day of grace.

XX. SUITS:

Are commenced in the District Courts by filing a petition and praecipe, and causing a summons to issue thereon. Actions concerning real estate must be brought in the county in which the land or a part of it is situated, and all other actions in the county in which defendant resides or may be summoned, except where defendant is non-resident or a foreign corporation, when action may be brought in any county where defendant has property.

XXI. TAXES:

One-half the annual levy becomes due on December 20th in each year, and if not paid, all becomes due and there is a penalty of five per cent added. If not paid by the succeeding March 20th, another five per cent is added, and on the following June 20th still another five per cent. The tax is then delinquent, and the property is subject to sale on the first Tuesday in September following. After sale it bears interest at the rate of twenty-four per cent per annum, and the same rate on all subsequent taxes. The lien attaches on November 1st in the year in which tax is levied, and lands sold for taxes are redeemable within three years from the day of sale.

XXII. WAGES:

The law of 1893 provides: All private corporations, except steam surface railways and corporations engaged in the production of farm and dairy products, shall pay the wages earned by those in their employ in lawful money of the United States each and every week, the same to be paid not later than Friday of each week for wages earned during the preceding week. If there be failure of such payment, penalty shall attach to the corporation and become due to the employes in a sum equivalent to a penalty of five per cent per month as liquidated damages, and such penalty shall become a judgment in any court of competent jurisdiction and continue in effect to the time of payment.

If an employe be discharged, wages become immediately due and payable and the penalty accrued. Action to recover wages and penalty must be brought within six months succeeding default. Any contract in violation, evasion or circumvention of the law in this respect is unlawful and void. A contractor acting for a corporation makes the corporation liable as if acting directly. An action by an employe to recover wages shall include a reasonable attorney's fee, to be taxed as costs.

XXIII. WILLS:

All wills must be in writing and signed at the end thereof by the party making the same, or by some other person in his presence and by his express direction, and be attested and subscribed in the presence of the testator by two or more competent witnesses, who saw the testator subscribe or heard him acknowledge the same.

The husband cannot devise to persons other than the wife more than one-half of his real estate without her consent. A devise of one-half of the real estate will not be avoided by the widow refusing to take under the will. A will, executed, proved, and allowed in another state, according to the laws of that state, relative to property in this State, may be admitted to record in the Probate Court of the county in which the property is situated by producing an authenticated copy, and thereupon has the same validity as if made in this State.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

Corporations may be created under general laws. The legislature can confer no corporate powers by special act.

Dues from corporations are secured by the individual liability of stockholders to an additional amount equal to the par value of the stock held by each. This does not apply to railroad, religious nor charitable corporations.

In religious corporations, the title to all property of the same vests in trustees, elected by the members.

The term corporation includes all associations and joint stock companies having powers and privileges not possessed by individuals nor partnerships; and are classed: 1, public; 2, private; 3, for religion; 4, for charity or benevolence; 5, for profit. Corporations may be organized for the conduct of any lawful business, and among others enumerated, "the transaction of any manufacturing, mining, mechanical, chemical or mercantile and agricultural implement and produce business, either separately or all combined."

II. ORGANIZATION:

At least five persons, three of whom must be citizens and residents of the State, voluntarily associate themselves, and prepare a charter setting forth: 1. The name of the corporation. 2. The purpose for which it is formed. 3 The place or places where its business is to be transacted. 4. The term for which it is to exist. 5. The number of its directors or trustees, and the names and residences of those who are appointed for the first year. 6. The amount of its capital stock, if any, and the number of shares into which it is divided.

The charter of an intended corporation must be subscribed by five or more persons, at least three of whom must be citizens of the State and must be acknowledged by them before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds; after which it must be forwarded to the Secretary of State, with a fee of one dollar. The charter is filed and the original retained by the secretary. The corporation exists from the said filing, and a certified copy thereof is evidence of the creation of the charter. Corporations must begin business within five years from the filing of the charter, or are thereby dissolved.

The corporate name of every corporation (except banks and corporations not for pecuniary profit) must begin with the word "the" and end with the word "corporation," "company," "association," or "society," and such name must indicate the character of the business to be carried on.

III. POWERS:

1. To have succession by its corporate name, for the period limited in its charter, and when no period is limited, for twenty years. 2. To maintain and defend judicial proceedings. 3. To make and use a common seal, and alter the same at pleasure. 4. To hold, purchase, mortgage or otherwise convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require; and also to take, hold and convey such other property, real, personal or mixed, as shall be requisite for such corporation to acquire, in order to obtain or secure the payment of the indebtedness or liability due to or belonging to the corporation. 5. To appoint and remove such subordinate officers and agents as the business of the corporation shall require, and to allow them a suitable compensation. 6. To make by-laws, not inconsistent with existing laws, for the management of its property, the regulation of its affairs, and for the transfer of its stock. 7. To enter into any obligation or contract essential to the transaction of its ordinary affairs. 8. To increase or diminish by a vote of its stockholders, cast as its by-laws may direct, the number of its directors or trustees, to be not less than three nor more than twenty-four, and in like manner to change its corporate name, without in any wise affecting its rights, privileges or liabilities.

Hydraulic or irrigating corporations may sell or lease any portion of their power, and may convey water in pipes, canals, etc., or other power by shafting, etc., and may borrow money or issue bonds on franchises and property.

The general office must be kept within, and at least three directors must be citizens and residents of the State. The treasurer must keep his office and funds in the State.

IV. REPORTS:

The president and secretary must make an annual report, on oath, to be deposited with the Secretary of State on January 1st of each year, showing the condition of the corporation on December 1st preceding, as to: 1. The amount of the capital stock of the company. 2. The property or assets held by the company. 3. The liabilities of such company. 4. The receipts of the company during the preceding year. 5. The expenditures during the preceding year.

Every corporation for profit, created under any law in this State, failing to make and deposit such statement shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred dollars, and an additional two hundred dollars for every month that such company shall continue thereafter to transact business.

V. LIABILITIES:

Directors knowingly declaring and paying any dividend, when the corporation is insolvent, or rendering the corporation insolvent, are jointly and severally liable for debts then existing or afterward contracted, to the amount of the dividend.

The liability of stockholders for the debts of the corporation is limited to the amount due on stock, and a sum in addition equal to the par value of the amount of stock owned.

MINING,

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

A State mine inspector appointed by the Governor has general supervision of all mines, safety appliances, ventilation, reports, etc., and may order operator of a mine to suspend the working of the same if regulations are not complied with upon ten days' notice.

Owners, operators of coal mines, must keep ready for inspection a correct plan of all workings.

II. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

There must be two distinct means of ingress and egress specified as escapement shafts, connected with each level worked, and each at least one hundred feet from the main shaft, through natural strata. The escapement shafts must be constructed as the main shaft is opened; and failure to provide such is punished by fine and imprisonment. In any shaft or slope, employes are not allowed to work at a greater depth than one hundred feet, unless in connection with at least two openings separated by natural strata not less than eighty feet thick.

Speaking tubes must be provided from top to bottom of all shafts and slopes; and cord and bell signals, improved safety catch, drum horns, bridle chains, and all other precautionary measures must be used with the cage.

In veins three feet thick or over, one hundred cubic feet of air per person per minute must be furnished in the workings; with a proportionate amount for thinner strata. The workings must be kept free of gas; and examined and marked each morning before work begins.

All roofs must be securely propped and timbered; and all traveling ways provided with signals, and with manholes every thirty feet.

Miners must not take more than five pounds of powder into the mine at one time, which must all be used before more is taken. Shot-firers must discharge all blasts where explosives are used, and that only once a day, when all others are out of the mine. To fire blasts until coal is "mined" two feet, or full depth of drill; to fail to furnish shot-firers and to take down more than five pounds of powder, constitute misdemeanors, and are punishable accordingly.

Boilers used about mines must have all safety appliances, and be officially inspected every six months.

Minors under twelve years of age can not be employed in any mine, nor between twelve and sixteen unless they can read and write, and have attended school three months in the same year.

III. INJURY:

Injury to persons or property by violation of act renders the operator or owner of mine liable to person injured, or his heirs.

IV. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The law of 1893 provides: Coal shall not be passed from the mine over the screen or other device until the same shall have been weighed and credited to the employe at legal rates. The weighman must be sworn before a proper official to weigh the output correctly and give credit therefor. Violation of the law by weighman is punishable as a misdemeanor. The operator may employ a check weighman, who shall have like authority and be under like liability as the regular weighman. Any fraud in connection with the weighing of coal or report of weights, is made a misdemeanor. Any contract or agreement violative of the foregoing provisions is void. [The provisions of this statute have been declared unconstitutional and are now on appeal to the Supreme Court of the State.]

V. ENCROACHMENT:

In case of alleged encroachment upon the land of another by any owner or operator of a mine, the party charging files affidavit setting out the facts of such alleged encroachment, in the County Court, and gives bond for expense of survey, whereupon the court orders the county surveyor to make a survey and report, upon which an injunction may issue.

A city may contract for mining under streets, alleys and public grounds.

VI. RECENT PROVISIONS:

The law of 1895 provides: That mining may not be done in an advanced space of forty feet unless break-throughs are made, same to be irrespective of thickness or distance of pillars. A break-through shall be six feet wide and the full height of coal strata. On room and pillar system, all courses must have an area of at least thirty-six feet. Compensation for making break-throughs is to be regulated by contract.

The operator of any mine shall maintain ventilation of not less than one hundred feet of cubic air per man per minute, and is required to increase the volume if necessary in presence of noxious gases. Mines must be examined in all working parts by an expert before the miners enter their working places, and at all working places significant marks must be left.

Requirements as to props and support of unsafe strata are very rigid. Standing water must not be allowed to remain in air courses, entries, traveling ways or rooms. In case of a fall of rock or coal, the same must be removed immediately and the roof and sides made secure. Careful examination of underground workings must be made twice a week, and report forwarded to office of the State Mine Inspector once a month.

In case of coal dust or other inflammable accumulation, the mine must be sprinkled once a day or oftener if necessary. Only lard or cottonseed oil for lighting purposes is allowed except when repairing downcast or upcast shafts.

Escapement shafts with securely fastened stairways are required. The top superintendent and engineer, at signal from the bottom of the shaft, are required to provide the cage whenever six employes are ready to ascend or descend, but not during their working hours.

Printed copies of the regulations must be conspicuously posted at the top of the mine. Violation of this act is a misdemeanor punishable with fine of from one to three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for from thirty to ninety days, or by both.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

If made in this State, may be certified by the clerk of the County Court or his deputy, or any notary public, under seal.

II. ACTIONS.

Are begun by filing a petition and taking out summons. A non-resident defendant may be constructively summoned by a warning order. Personal judgment is not taken upon constructive summons.

III. ADMINISTRATION:

The County Court has jurisdiction to probate wills, appoint executors and administrators. They must execute a bond and take a prescribed oath. The husband or wife, or next of kin, have precedence. A public administrator for the county is appointed, and after the second County Court after the death, if no relative applies for administration, the court may refer the estate to the public administrator, or if there be no public administrator, then to the sheriff; or may appoint a creditor. A non-resident personal representative may sue in his representative capacity by giving bonds and obtaining authority from the County Court. Funeral expenses and debts due from decedent in a fiducial capacity are preferred. No original administration can be granted after twenty years; and suit is not to be brought against the personal representative of decedent until after six months from appointment.

IV. AFFIDAVITS:

May be made before any judicial or clerical officer, examiner, commissioner, or notary.

V. ALIENS:

The subjects of friendly powers may take and hold personalty, except chattels real. An alien, if he resides in this State, may take and hold land for the occupancy of himself or his servants or for purposes of business, trade or manufacture, for twenty-one years. If real estate pass by descent or devise to a non-resident alien he may hold it for sale for eight years after the final settlement of the estate of the person from whom it was acquired. If the alien die within eight years such real estate will descend to his kin if he were a citizen.

VI. ASSIGNMENTS:

Voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors may be made to a trustee who must accept in writing the trust, and give bond before a county judge. An assignee may sell personal property, but can sell realty only as ordered by court. The assignor is not released by this act. Any sale, gift, judgment suffered, or other act done for the purpose of giving preference to one or more creditors and in contemplation of insolvency has the effect of transferring all the property of the debtor for the benefit of all his creditors; but to thus operate, the sale, or other act, must be attached by some creditor, by a suit in equity, within six months after the preference.

VII. ATTACHMENTS:

An order of attachment may be issued at the time of commencing the action, or at any time thereafter, upon the plaintiff or his agent or attorney filing an affidavit showing a ground of general attachment against a defendant, in any one or more of the following causes, to-wit: that defendant: 1. Is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State. 2. Has been absent therefrom four months. 3. Has departed therefrom with the intent to defraud his creditors. 4. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of summons. 5. So conceals himself that a summons can not be served upon him. 6. Is about to remove, or has removed, his property, or a material part thereof, out of this State, not leaving enough therein to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, or the claims of said defendant's creditors. 7. Has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, or suffered or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder or delay his creditors. 8. Is about to sell or otherwise dispose of his property with such intent.

Against a non-resident corporation, or non-resident defendant attachment cannot issue, except upon a claim arising out of a contract, express or implied.

Attachments may issue also: 1. In an action for the recovery of money due upon a contract, judgment or award, if the defendant have no property in this State subject to execution, or not enough thereof to satisfy the plaintiff's demand, and the collection of the demand will be endangered by delay in obtaining judgment or a return of no property found.

VIII. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against estates must be proved by the claimant, or, if absent from this State, by his agent or attorney, and demand made by his personal representative. The same proof is to be made in assigned estates.

IX. COURTS:

The Appellate Court has jurisdiction of appeal when title to land is involved; any constitutional question; any action when the matter in controversy is more than one hundred dollars; orders of probate of will from Circuit Courts; bastardy proceedings; habeas corpus, and felonies, and misdemeanors, if such are under a fine of over one hundred dollars or imprisonment.

Circuit Courts have general jurisdiction of matters of indictment, real estate, and of appeals from the inferior courts.

Quarterly Courts have jurisdiction of matters of contract and personal property to the value of two hundred dollars, and to try misdemeanors where the offense is not prosecuted upon indictment.

Justices' Courts have jurisdiction in civil actions when personal property or contract is involved to the sum of one hundred dollars.

XI. DEEDS:

Deeds to be valid as to creditors and purchasers for value without notice must be acknowledged or proven and lodged for record.

XII. DEPOSITIONS:

Are used in equity trials, and upon special circumstances in common law and criminal law cases. They may be certified by a clerk of a court, judge, justice of the peace, examiner, commissioner or notary.

XIII. DESCENT:

Real estate descends: 1. To children. 2. If none, to father and mother equally; or if only one parent, to that one. 3. To brothers and sisters and their descendants. 4. Or to the ancestral line, one-half to each branch.

Personalty, as above, except that the wife or husband surviving takes one-half the surplus personalty left by the decedent.

XIV. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The commonwealth, in the exercise of the right of eminent domain, shall have and retain the same powers to take the property and franchises of incorporated companies for public use which it has and retains to take the property of individuals; and the exercise of public powers of this commonwealth shall never be abridged, nor so construed as to permit corporations to conduct their business in such manner as to infringe upon the equal rights of individuals.

All land titles in this State are declared to be allodial, and (subject to escheat) the entire and absolute property in the same is vested in the owners, according to the nature of their respective estates; except that the right of eminent domain in all real estate resides and remains in the commonwealth.

Private property cannot be taken for public use until compensation is first made; and the owner cannot be deprived of his title to it except by the judgment of a jury if he demands one.

XV. EXECUTIONS:

Issue within ten days after judgment and bind property after they are put in the hands of the officer who may levy them. Executions from inferior courts cannot be levied upon land.

XVI. EXEMPTIONS:

There is by law exempt from execution a homestead of one thousand dollars in value; two work beasts and farm tools, beds, bedding and furniture sufficient for family use; all books not exceeding fifty dollars in value; two saddles, two bridles and appendages; all poultry on hand; ten sheep, not to exceed twenty-five dollars in value; all wearing apparel; sufficient provisions to sustain the family for one year, or other money or property in lieu thereof not to exceed forty dollars for each member of the family; provisions to sustain live stock one year, or other property or money not to exceed seventy dollars; family portraits and pictures, and cooking stove and utensils not to exceed five dollars in value. Mechanics and professional men may claim tools or professional library, but if they do, then only one work beast can be claimed.

The homestead cannot be bound by mortgage without the wife's consent in writing.

XVII. INTEREST AND USURY:

No greater rate than six per cent can be collected. Usury, if paid, may be recovered by suit within twelve months thereafter.

XVIII. JUDGMENTS:

Bear interest at six per cent and are not a lien upon defendant's estate until execution is issued and placed in officer's hands.

XIX. LIENS:

Lien rests on all property for State, county and city taxes. Mechanics and material men have a lien upon the building and lot for the bill of their respective accounts, but must file their accounts, verified with the clerk of the County Court, within sixty days after last item of labor is done or material furnished. Laborers for railroads and manufacturers have a lien for labor upon the property and products of said railroad or manufacturers.

Material-men are given a lien, dating from the commencement of the work, upon the improvement, and the interest of the employer in the land, for all materials furnished for the erection, improvement or repair of any building or structure or any fixture thereto. Sub-contractors acquire a lien upon the amount due the contractor by giving the employer written notice of their claim, and that they look to the land and improvements for their compensation. The claim for the lien must be filed in the county clerk's office within sixty days after the material is furnished, and it must state the name of the person to whom the material was furnished, the amount due, a description of the property on which a lien is claimed, and a bill of the items furnished, with prices. The lien is enforced by suit in equity commenced by anyone claiming a lien within twelve months from the completion of the work. If one lien claimant commence such suit, all others may file and prove up their liens without formal pleadings.

There is no statute giving to laborers in mines a lien for their wages.

XX. MILL-DAMS:

Any person owning land on a water-course, desiring to erect a grist mill or other mill useful to the public, and needing a dam in or across the water-course, may, by petition in writing filed in the County Court of the county in which the larger portion of the land is situated, obtain therefrom a writ for the purpose of making the necessary condemnation, which shall embrace all the land demanded, whether lying in the same or other counties. Ten days' notice must be given to every person whose rights would be affected by the condemnation. The writ shall be directed to the sheriff of the county, who will at once impanel a jury of twelve men, who shall decide as to the height of the dam and the amount of land condemned which is not owned by the applicant and which is covered by the bed of the stream. When the applicant shall have paid to the several parties the amount of the damages as ascertained by the court, he shall have a writ of possession and otherwise proceed according to such leave.

XXI. MORTGAGES:

Real property mortgages must be executed as are deeds and so recorded to avail against creditors or purchasers without notice. The rule governing personalty is substantially the same.

XXII. NOTES AND BILLS:

The common law rule governs in Kentucky. Suit must be brought to the first court and the maker of the note prosecuted to insolvency, otherwise the assignor is released. When note is discounted in a bank the common law rules, as to demand, protest, notice, etc., are in force. If an assignee sues on a note in time and fails to recover the debt he can recover of the assignor the amount paid for the note.

XXIII. SUITS:

Must be in the name of the real party in interest, if by a person free from disability. The suit is begun by filing a petition in law or in equity and taking out a summons.

Actions are local when prosecuted for the recovery of real estate; an interest in or damage to same; for partition of land; sale of real estate; recovery of fine, penalty or forfeiture imposed by statute against a public officer, or bmitted by him; upon bond of public officers; proceedings to establish will; to settle accounts of personal representative; distribution of estate; on guardian's bond. Other actions may be entered in the county where the defendant or some one or other of them is summoned.

XXIV. TAXES:

The State, counties and cities have a lien upon all the property, real and personal, owned or assessed to the individual for taxes, and this cannot be defeated by sale, gift, devise or any means. Lands sold for taxes may be redeemed within two years, after the sale is made, by the payment of taxes, costs, and interest on the amount at thirty per cent per annum, and fifteen per cent damages.

XXV. WAGES:

It is provided by section 244 of the constitution of Kentucky, adopted September 28, 1891, as follows: "All wage-earners in this State employed in factories, mines, workshops or by corporations shall be paid for their labor in lawful money. The general assembly shall prescribe adequate penalties for violating this section." By an act passed subsequently by the general assembly a penalty of five hundred dollars is imposed for any violation of the above section.

XXVI. WILLS:

May be made by married women. Wills must be attested by two witnesses, unless wholly written by testator; otherwise probate cannot be had.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations are formed by filing in the county clerk's office articles of incorporation signed and acknowledged by two or more corporators as deeds are required to be. Such articles confer upon the corporation the usual corporate powers, including that of exempting the private property of the stockholders from corporate debts.

Within three months from the filing of the articles the corporation must publish for four consecutive weeks, in some newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business, a notice specifying: 1. The names of the corporators, the name of the corporation and its principal place of transacting business. 2. The general nature of the business purposed to be transacted. 3. The amount of capital stock authorized, and the times when and the conditions upon which it is to be paid. 4. The time of the commencement and termination of the corporation. 5. By what officers or persons the affairs of the corporation are to be conducted, and the times at which they are to be elected. 6. The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. 7. Whether private property is to be exempt from the corporate debts.

MINING.

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

An inspector of coal mines is appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the senate. He receives a salary from the State of one thousand eight hundred dollars per annum and his traveling expenses, and his duty is to visit each coal mine in actual operation as often as may be necessary and examine its condition with respect to ventilation, drainage, timbering, ingress and egress and general security, and if he finds the same defective in any respect to notify the superintendent or owner thereof and require him to remedy the defect. For a failure to comply with the inspector's requirements within twenty days from receipt of said notice a fine of fifty dollars per day is provided.

The inspector is required to keep an office in the statehouse at Frankfort and to keep a record of all his inspections. He is also required to furnish upon application a certified copy of his report of inspection to the commonwealth's attorney of the district in which the mine inspected is situated, which copy is made prima facie evidence in any court of the State.

The inspector is required to make a report to the Governor annually on or before the 10th day of October, showing the number of persons employed, amount of coal mined, the number of accidents occurring, together with such other information concerning the condition and operation of the mine as he may deem useful, making such suggestions as to further legislation as he may deem proper. To enable him to make such reports, owners and operators of mines are required to give information on blanks to be furnished by the inspector, under a penalty of fifty dollars fine.

The owner or superintendent of each mine is required to furnish the inspector an accurate map of the mine on a scale of not less than one hundred feet to the inch, showing the area mined or excavated and the location and connection of such excavation with the lines of all adjoining lands, and with the names of the owners of such lands marked on each tract. Every six months after the map is furnished he shall file with the inspector a statement and plan of the progress of the workings of the mine up to date, so prepared as to enable the inspector to mark the same on the original map. In the event of failure to furnish maps the inspector may cause them to be made at the owner's expense, and the owner is subject to a fine of five dollars per day for each day's delinquency.

II. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

Mines wherein over fifteen thousand square yards have been excavated shall not be worked unless there are to every seam of coal worked at least two separate outlets separated by natural strata of not less than one hundred feet in breadth, by which outlets distinct means of ingress and egress are always available to persons employed in such mine. All other mines, whether slopes or drifts, shall have two such openings after fifteen thousand square yards have been excavated. If such outlets have not been provided not more than ten persons shall work in the mines at once. In case a mine has but one shaft, slope or drift, and the owner does not own ground suitable for another, he is given power to condemn sufficient land for that purpose.

At every mine operated by a shaft there shall be a safety catch and an overhead cover on all cages used for carrying persons, and at the top of every shaft a safety gate shall be provided. An adequate brake shall also be attached to every draw or machine used for raising or lowering persons.

The owner, agent or lessee of every coal mine, whether slope, shaft or drift, is required to provide and maintain for every mine an amount of ventilation not less than one hundred cubic feet per minute per person employed, which shall be circulated to the face of each working place in the mine in such manner as to dilute, render harmless and expel poisonous and noxious gases from each and every working place in the mine, and no working place shall be driven more than six feet in advance of a break-through or air-way, and all break-throughs or air-ways except those made near the working face of the mine shall be closed and made air-tight by brattice, trap doors or otherwise. All mines are required to be provided with artificial means of producing ventilation, such as suction or forcing fans, exhaust steam furnaces or other contrivances for that purpose. All mines generating fire-damp shall be kept free from standing gas, and every working place shall be carefully examined every morning with a safety lamp by a competent person before any of the workmen are allowed to enter the mine.

III. WEIGHT OF COAL:

A majority of the miners in any coal mine employing as many as twenty men may, at their own expense and with the approval of the judge of the County Court, appoint a person to inspect the scales and see that the coal mined is properly weighed and accounted for. Such person shall at all times have free access to the scales and shall not be in any wise hindered in the performance of his duty under penalty of a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars.

IV. RIGHT OF WAY:

Any person owning any large coal bank or mine of iron ore or stone quarry within three miles of any navigable stream or railroad in this State has the right to condemn a right of way to the most convenient point on such stream or railroad, and upon such right of way the court may, if it deem the object of sufficient public importance, allow a railroad to be constructed and operated.

V. MISDEMEANORS:

Any person selling unscreened coal for screened coal shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty dollars. Any person employed in a mine who intentionally and willfully neglects or refuses to securely prop the roof of any working place under his control, or neglects or refuses to obey any order given by the superintendent of the mine in relation to the security of that part of the bank where he is at work, and whoever willfully does any act endangering the lives or health of persons employed in a mine or the security of the mine or machinery, shall be fined from ten dollars to fifty dollars.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Deeds, etc., can be acknowledged before a commissioner of deeds for the State and two witnesses, whose certificate, under seal, will answer all purposes, but a simple writing signed by the parties is valid as a contract between themselves, and on proof of signature is entitled to be recorded. Acknowledgments before notaries and other officials must be authenticated according to section 905 of the revised statutes of United States.

II ALIENS:

Aliens have the same rights before the law as citizens.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Debtor cannot assign his property by private act, but must turn it over to his creditors through the courts. He cannot free himself from his debts except with the consent of the majority of the creditors in number and amount.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Writs of attachment may issue when the defendant resides out of the State, or has permanently left, or is about to permanently leave the State; when he conceals himself to avoid service; when he has mortgaged or disposed of his property to defraud his creditors or given an unfair preference; when he has converted or is about to convert his property into money or evidences of debt with the intent to place it beyond the reach of his creditors; and when he is about to remove his property out of the State before the debt becomes due. The writ issues on affidavit of plaintiff, or his agent, and plaintiff giving bond in favor of the clerk of the court for a sum equal to that demanded, with one good and solvent surety.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

In granting letters of administration preference is given to beneficiary heirs, and if there be two or more, choice is left to the discretion of the court, according to the merit of applicant. A creditor of the estate may be appointed in certain cases where it may be to the best interest of the estate. The bond required is one-fourth over and above the value of the estate. The administrator is not required to give any special notice to creditors in reference to proving their claims.

Debts are paid: 1. Funeral charges. 2. Law charges. 3. Expenses of last illness. 4. Wages of servants for the past year. 5. Salaries of secretaries, clerks and agents. 6. Wife's dotal right. ("VII. Married Women," "XV. Liens," and "XX. Privileges for Further Rank of Privileged Indebtedness.") No allowance is made to widows. ("VII. Married Women.") If in necessitous circumstances, she or minor gets one thousand dollars, to be paid in preference to all other debts except privileges of vendor and expense of selling property.

Administrators are not compelled to make an accounting at any particular time, but they must do so as soon as practicable.

Suits may be brought for any unpaid claims which the curator, administrator, or executor refuses to acknowledge, or the creditor may wait and oppose any account filed in the succession proceedings upon which he is not placed. But the creditor obtaining a judgment, or the acknowledgment of his debt, can only obtain the payment of it concurrently with the other creditors of the succession, unless it be such a privileged claim as ought to be paid without delay. It is the duty of the judge, upon the application of the creditors, or any one of them, to cause so much of the property as is necessary to pay their claims to be offered for sale for cash, provided it bring the appraised value; and if it does not, it shall after fifteen days' further advertisement be sold on twelve months' credit for what it will bring, the purchaser at this sale being required to give twelve months' bond.

Foreign administrators and executors may administer here, provided they are recognized and confirmed, upon producing evidence of their appointment, and in certain cases giving bond.

VI. COURTS:

The Supreme Court has appellate jurisdiction which extends to all cases in which the sum in dispute shall exceed two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest; to suits for divorce and separation from bed and board; suits for nullity of marriage; suits involving the rights of homestead; suits for interdiction to criminal cases on questions of law alone, wherever the punishment of death or imprisonment at hard labor may be inflicted or a fine exceeding three hundred dollars is actually imposed, and to all cases in which the constitutionality or legality of any tax, toll or import whatever, or of any fine, forfeiture or penalty imposed by a municipal corporation shall be in contestation, whatever the amount thereof; and in such cases the appeal on the law and the facts shall be directly from the court in which the case originated to the Supreme Court.

Courts of Appeals have appellate jurisdiction only. Their jurisdiction extends to all cases, civil or probate, when matter in dispute exceeds one hundred dollars and does not exceed two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest. In the parish of Orleans appeals are upon questions of law alone in all cases involving less than five hundred dollars exclusive of interest.

Civil District Courts for the parish of Orleans have exclusive and general probate, and exclusive civil jurisdiction in all cases where the amount in dispute exceeds one hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and exclusive appellate jurisdiction from the city courts of the parish of Orleans, when the amount in dispute exceeds twenty-five dollars, exclusive of interest. In the country parishes the District Courts have original jurisdiction in all civil matters where the amount in dispute shall exceed fifty dollars, and appellate jurisdiction from the justices of the peace, when the amount in dispute shall exceed ten dollars.

Justices' jurisdiction is exclusive up to fifty dollars, and concurrent with the District Court from fifty dollars to one hundred dollars. In the parish of Orleans the city courts have exclusive original jurisdiction of claims under one hundred dollars. Suits for over twenty-five dollars are appealable to the Civil District Court.

VIII. DEEDS:

All deeds affecting real estate must be recorded to affect third persons.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Where judgment is taken by default an ex parte affidavit will suffice, provided the capacity of the officer taking the same is shown. Depositions are taken by commission under written interrogatories.

X. DESCENT:

The father and mother, and children, or ascendants and descendants, are forced heirs for certain portions of decedent's estate. The father and mother living are forced heirs for one-third. If decedent has only one child, that child is a forced heir for one-third of the estate and decedent can only dispose of the remaining two-thirds. If decedent leave two children, he can only dispose of one-half of his estate by will or donation. If decedent leave three children or more they are forced heirs of two-thirds of his estate and he can only dispose of the remaining one-third.

XI. EXECUTION:

The plaintiff wishing to execute his judgment, must apply to the clerk of the court rendering it, who issues a writ of fieri facias to the sheriff, or constable, ordering a seizure and sale of the property of the defendant sufficient to satisfy the judgment and costs. When seized, the sheriff or constable must advertise it, if personal property, ten, and if real estate, thirty days before selling. The property must be valued by two appraisers, one chosen by each party, and being first offered for cash, must bring two-thirds of the appraisement, or it cannot then be sold. If no bid is made to that amount, the property is readvertised for fifteen days longer, to be sold on a credit of twelve months for whatever it will bring. At this sale the purchaser is required to give what is called a twelve-months' bond, with sufficient security, bearing the same rate of interest as the original debt; and if real estate is sold, by being properly recorded it operates as a special mortgage and vendor's privilege upon the property sold. If it is not paid at maturity the plaintiff may take out execution, without any previous demand, against both the principal and surety, and seize the property of either, and, after advertisement as prescribed, sell it for cash for whatever it will bring.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

To head of family, homestead bona fide, if owned and occupied as residence, together with certain furniture, stock, implements, provisions, etc., the property not to exceed in value two thousand dollars. No exemption is allowed if wife has separate property worth over two thousand dollars, and there must be a sworn and recorded declaration of homestead. These exemptions cannot be set up against the vendor or for labor or materials furnished or liabilities incurred as a fiduciary or attorney at law.

Act 79, 1876, Louisiana legislature, exempts from seizure the following effects: "The linen and clothes belonging to the debtor or his wife; his bed, bedding or bedstead, and those of his family; his arms and military accoutrements; the tools and instruments, and books, and sewing machine necessary for the exercise of his or her calling, trade or profession, by which he or she makes a living; nor shall the sheriff or constable in any case seize the rights of personal servitude, of use and habitation, of usufruct to the estate of a minor child, nor the income of dotal property, nor money due for the salary of an officer, nor laborers' wages, nor the cooking stoves and utensils of said stoves, nor the plates, dishes, knives, forks and spoons, nor the dining table nor dining chairs, nor wash tubs, nor smoothing irons, and ironing furnaces, nor family portraits belonging to the debtor, nor the musical instruments played or practiced on by any member of the family.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal interest in this State is five per cent. Conventional interest cannot exceed eight per cent. It is allowable, however, to include any amount of interest in the principal, so that it will not appear that an interest above eight per cent has been stipulated. Interest runs from the maturity of every obligation. If conventional interest has been stipulated up to maturity of the obligation, it continues to run until payment. Usury forfeits the interest.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments constitute a judicial mortgage from the date of their record in the office of the recorder of mortgages, and become a mortgage on the real property of the debtor. Foreign judgments must be sued upon and judgment recovered thereon in order to be executory here. The usual law as found in the general "conflict of laws" is the law applicable here. The transcript of the record of the foreign judgment must be duly certified according to the law as found in the United States statutes on that subject. Judgments are proscribed in ten years; as also is the judicial mortgage which arises from the record of the judgment. Judgments can be revived by suit in the usual form before the lapse of ten years.

XV. LIENS:

Employes have a lien on all manufactured materials for thirty days after the maturity of the debt due them for wages; but this lien does not affect such materials in the hands of good-faith purchasers.

Those persons who supply the owner or other person employed by him, his agent or sub-contractor with materials, which are intended for and are used in the erection or repair of any edifice or other work, have a lien or privilege on the building or work erected, and not exceeding one acre of land on which building or edifice is erected. If the improvement be made at the instance of the tenant, the privilege attaches only to the leasehold. To perfect the lien the seller must record in the office of the recorder of mortgages of the parish where the property is situated the act containing the bargain made, or a detailed statement under oath of the amount due, or the acknowledgment by the debtor of the amount due. The lien is good as to third parties from the date of recording. There is no priority between lien-holders. The sub-contractor may deliver to the owner an attested account of the amount and value of the materials furnished, and the owner must retain such amounts from subsequent payments due contractor. On receipt of such an account, the owner must furnish a copy to the contractor. If the contractor does not notify the owner within ten days that he intends to dispute the claim, the owner may pay the sub-contractor and deduct from amount owing contractor. If the sub-contractor and contractor cannot agree as to the amount the dispute may be adjusted by three arbitrators. The lien continues for five years from date of recording. It is enforced by a suit in court.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on all accounts must be brought within three years from the time the articles were furnished; on promissory notes and bills of exchange, within five years from maturity. The proscription on accounts only ceases from the time there has been an account acknowledged in writing, a note or bond given or an action commenced. Foreign and domestic judgments are proscribed ten years from date of rendition, and mortgages within ten years from their inscription. The possessor of title acquires complete ownership. The possessor in bad faith acquires ownership in thirty years.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Are one-half owners of all property made during marriage unless otherwise stipulated before marriage. The parties, before marriage, can, by marriage contract, stipulate that no community shall exist, and they can regulate in this way also the amount of property that has been acquired and is owned by either spouse previous to the marriage, and the disposition of that property after marriage. Donations between husband and wife during marriage are always revocable.

The separate property of the wife is not responsible for community debts. In settlement of the community, the creditors must be paid in preference to either spouse. The wife is secured in her claims for dotal and paraphernal property by a legal mortgage on the property of her husband, which must be recorded in order to have effect. The husband is master of the community, and can sell or mortgage its real property without the consent or assistance of the wife, and can dispose of the movable property in any way he desires.

A married woman carrying on business, as a public merchant, can obligate herself in any manner relating to her trade; the husband is bound also, if there exists a community of property between them. A married woman can sell her separate property by the consent of her husband, and in default of his consent, by that of the court. She cannot bind herself in any way with or for her husband; she cannot mortgage her property, except by special consent of the court, after being privately examined by the judge as to the destination of the funds to be raised by mortgage. A married woman, except a public merchant, cannot make any contract or bind herself in any way without the consent or assistance of her husband or of the court.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Chattel mortgages are unknown to the laws of this State. All movables, whether corporeal or incorporeal, may be pledged or pawned. Mortgage in Louisiana is essentially different from common law mortgage. It is a right given by the owner to a third person to pay himself a debt by selling the property to pay himself out of the proceeds.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

The law merchant applies generally. All commercial paper is due on the last day of grace. If the last day should be a dies non, the paper is payable the following day not a dies non, i. e., Sundays and legal holidays; and in computing the delay for giving notice of non-acceptance, non-payment, etc., days of public rest or legal holidays are not counted. Days of grace are not allowed on bills, notes, drafts, etc., payable at sight.

XX. PRIVILEGES:

Liens and privileges are granted by law from the nature of the contract. The vendor's privilege exists in favor of the vendor of all property, real and personal, but only in sales made in Louisiana, or sales perfected in that State. It would be well for non-residents having business connections and trade in Louisiana to make their sales there, or perfect them through an agent. The vendor's privilege ranks every privilege except the lessor's privilege.

XXI. SUITS:

Are instituted by petition. In the United States courts the common law distinctions are in force. Where a case falls on the common law side of the court the same procedure is followed as in the State courts.

XXII. TAXES:

The State and parishes have no right to sue for unpaid taxes, but have the right to sell to the highest bidder.

XXIII. WILLS:

May be made by the testator without witnesses, provided the entire will is written, dated and signed by the testator. There are other forms of will, but the subject is too complicated to be given here.

CORPORATIONS.

I. SCIENTIFIC AND RELIGIOUS CORPORATIONS:

Any number of persons, exceeding six, may organize themselves for literary, scientific, religious or charitable purposes. The act may be by public or private act, and it shall state the objects, name, style and title thereof, place of domicile, manner of choosing its officers, name of officer on whom citation may be served and length of time for which it is incorporated. The act must be approved by the district attorney and recorded.

II. BANKING CORPORATIONS:

By the free banking act passed in the year 1855, and governing the formation of banking corporations, the capital stock of such is to be not less than one hundred thousand dollars; number of persons to be more than five; time not to exceed twenty years; powers, such as are customary for banks; right to hold real estate limited to five years. Articles of incorporation to contain same provisions as above set forth. All stock subscribed must be paid up in full within twelve months. No loans shall be made to any stockholder on pledge of its own stock. Monthly publication of statements shall be made by banks not operating under free banking act; as to others, quarterly statements only required. (Act of 1882.)

Savings, safe deposit and trust banks are authorized by Act No. 150, of year 1888, and also, by amendment, may act as trustees.

III. LIMITED CORPORATIONS:

For the purpose of carrying on mercantile business, and all other legal business not heretofore enumerated, except banking, to be composed of not less than three persons, are authorized to be established by Act No. 36, 1888, of the State legislature. The form of corporation act is to be the same as that hereunder set forth.

Corporations for mining, mechanical or manufacturing business, except that of distilling or manufacturing intoxicating liquors, may be formed by any number of persons, not less than three, on complying with the laws of the State governing corporations in general.

Corporations may be formed for works of public improvement and homestead and building companies and for other purposes, except mercantile or commission business, brokerage, stock jobbing, exchange or banking business. Any number of persons, not less than six, may form themselves into a corporate body for the above purposes.

IV. ORGANIZATION:

Every charter shall contain: 1. The name and title of the corporation and the place chosen for its domicile. 2. A description of the purposes for which it was organized, the nature of the business to be carried on and the designation of the officer on whom citation may be served. 3. The amount of the capital stock, the number of shares, the amount of each share and the time when and the manner in which payment on stock subscribed shall be made. 4. The mode in which the election of directors or managers shall be conducted. 5. The mode of liquidation at the termination of the charter.

Publication of charter to be made once a week for thirty days at domicile; charter must be recorded in office of recorder of mortgages; charter amended or dissolved by a vote of three-fourths of the stockholders.

V. RIGHT OF WAY:

Telegraph and telephone companies shall have the right of way for their lines along any railroad line, along any parish line or public road or river of the State. Railroad, plank road or telegraph corporations may expropriate land for their uses, jury to fix value, appeal not to suspend execution.

VI. CAPITAL STOCK:

Watered, or stock issued as full paid, but not in fact paid up, is forbidden to be issued by the State constitution of 1879.

A graded license tax is levied, according to the amount of business. Stock of all corporations assessed for taxation without deducting value of United States bonds and other exempt securities.

VII. LICENSE TAX:

A State license is required of all insurance corporations doing business in the State, whether foreign or local. The license is graded upon the amount of premiums taken in, the highest being seventeen hundred and fifty dollars per annum and the lowest three hundred dollars per annum.

A license is required of other corporations doing business in the State through an agent, in proportion to the amount of business done. Foreign corporations doing business here are required to appoint an agent here, on whom citation can be served in case of suit.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens have same rights as citizens as to property; and may take, hold and devise real estate.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

No statute regulates assignment for benefit of creditors. Insolvency prceedings vacate assignments for the benefit of creditors. (See "XIII. Insolvency.")

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Real and personal property generally may be attached on mesne process without oath or bond. Shares of stock in a corporation are attached by filing with the clerk, cashier or treasurer of the corporation an attested copy of the writ, with notice thereon of the attachment. Personal property subject to a mortgage may be attached, if the amount of incumbrance thereon is first tendered, or paid. The officer attaching mortgaged property is not liable to suit until forty-eight hours have elapsed after notice is given by the mortgagee thereof, stating the amount of the incumbrance. Attachments continue for thirty days after final judgment; and are dissolved by filing judgment for defendant, or by insolvency proceedings begun within four months, or before levy or sale. No attachment can be made until debt is due.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

The Probate Courts, in their respective counties, have power to grant probate of wills, and letters testamentary or of administration.

In intestate estates, administration is granted to the widow, husband, next of kin, husband of a daughter of the deceased, or to two or more of them, as the judge thinks fit. If these parties refuse or are unsuitable, the judge may appoint a suitable person. Administrators must give bond, but executors may be relieved therefrom by the will; and bondsmen must be residents of this State or certain approved surety companies; but it is not necessary that administrator or executor be a resident. An inventory must be returned within three months showing all the real and personal estate, appraised by three disinterested persons; and the administrator must account for personal property at the appraisal unless sold on license from court, or the loss is allowed by the court. Real estate descends according to law or the will, if there is one, and may be taken by the executor or administrator only when necessary to pay debts which exceed the amount of personal property. Legacies become due and payable at the end of a year.

If suit is brought on a claim against the estate within a year after notice of the appointment of administrator or executor is given it will be continued at the cost of the plaintiff. Suits must be brought within two years after notice of appointment is given. If the estate is insolvent, commissioners are appointed to whom claims must be presented in writing and under oath, within six months, unless time is enlarged by the court.

Actions pending when the estate is decreed insolvent may be discontinued without costs, or continued to judgment, and the amount of the judgment be added to the list of debts entitled to dividend.

Allowance may be made for the widow out of the personal estate, where there is no provision made for her will, or if made, is waived by her.

Debts against an insolvent estate are paid: 1. Expenses of funeral and administration. 2. The allowance made to the widow or widower and children. 3. Expenses of last sickness. 4. Debts entitled to a preference under the laws of the United States. 5. Public rates and taxes due the State. 6. All other debts.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court has cognizance of all offenses and all civil actions, excepting where the Superior Court has exclusive jurisdiction, or where the matter comes within the jurisdiction of the trial Justices', Municipal or Police Courts. It may issue writs of error, certiorari, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto, and other writs and processes, essential to justice or the full execution of the laws; and has full equity jurisdiction.

In the Law Court, five or more of the eight justices composing the Supreme Court sit as the Law Court, for the decision of questions of law arising in suits at law and in equity, and in criminal trials.

Superior Courts, presided over by one justice each, are established in the counties of Cumberland and Kennebec. In Cumberland county the Superior Court has exclusive jurisdiction of civil appeals from Justice, Municipal and Police Courts; exclusive original jurisdiction of actions of scire facias on judgments and recognizances not exceeding five hundred dollars, and of all other civil actions at law not exclusively cognizable by Justice, Municipal and Police Courts, where the damages demanded do not exceed five hundred dollars, except complaints for flowage, real actions, and actions for trespass quare clausum, of which preceding two it has concurrent original jurisdiction. In Kennebec county the court has substantially the same jurisdiction as in Cumberland.

There is a Probate Court in each county held by a single judge on certain fixed days at appointed places, which has exclusive original jurisdiction of the probate of wills, letters testamentary or of administration, and in all matters relating to the settlement of estates. It has jurisdiction of adoption of children, changing names of individuals, and appointment of guardians for minors and others. Appeals may be had to the Supreme Court. The Probate Court also acts as a court of insolvency under the insolvent laws of the State.

A trial justice may hold court in his county subject to restrictions contained in the acts creating Municipal Courts. He has exclusive and original jurisdiction of all civil actions when the debt demanded does not exceed twenty dollars, except when title to real estate is involved; and also jurisdiction of forcible entry and detainer, unless title to real estate is involved.

VII. DEEDS:

No estate can be created greater than a tenancy at will unless in writing. Person having title to real estate with right of entry, whether seized or not, may convey by deed. Tenant in tail who is seized of land may convey in fee simple. Deeds and contracts executed by an agent in the name of his principal or in his own name for his principal are in law deeds and contracts of the principal. Deed must have a seal.

One witness is usual for the purpose of supplying acknowledgment where grantor refuses to acknowledge, dies, or departs from the State. These cases are fully covered by statutory proceedings which must be had in the State. All deeds must be acknowledged before they can be recorded; and must be acknowledged by one of the grantors before a justice of the peace or notary public in this State; in any other state before any justice, notary or magistrate, and in a foreign country before the United States minister, consul, or a notary public. Commissioners to take acknowledgments of deeds are appointed to act in other jurisdictions. A conveyance of greater estate than the grantor has passes what he has.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions in pending causes may be taken out of the State on a commission issued from the court to some person specially appointed for that purpose. The interrogatories and cross interrogatories are annexed to the commission; and the answers of the deponent thereto, written or printed, and signed by deponent, are annexed to the commission and returned to the court of issuance. May also be taken on notice to the adverse party before a justice of the peace or notary public, allowing twenty-four hours for every twenty miles. Counsel may attend and examine the deponent on written or oral interrogatories, and objections to the form or relevancy of questions must be raised at that time; but final decision on objections noted is rendered by the judge at the trial of the cause at nisi prius.

If deponent is present at court, or the cause for taking the deposition is removed, the deposition cannot be used as a substitute for his testimony, though it may be used to contradict his testimony. Depositions in perpetuam may be taken in the State on notice, and the Supreme Court may issue commissions to take such depositions in any other state or country.

IX. DESCENT:

Real estate descends: 1. In equal shares to children and issue of deceased children, per stirpes. If no child living, to lineal descendants, per capita if all of the same degree; if not, per stirpes. 2. If no issue, to the father and mother equally. 3. If no issue or father, one-half to mother, and remainder in equal shares to brothers and sisters, and to children or grandchildren of deceased brother or sister, per stirpes. 4. If no issue, father, brother or sister, to the mother to the exclusion of issue of deceased brothers or sisters. 5. If none of the foregoing, to next of kin claiming through nearest ancestor. 6. Estate of minor, deceased unmarried, inherited from either parent, goes to the children of same parent, and issue per capita, if of same degree, otherwise per stirpes. 7. If no kindred, it goes to husband or wife; failing these it escheats to the State.

Degrees are computed by civil law. Half blood inherits same as whole.

Personal estate descends in the same way, aside from what is allowed to the widow by the law and the court, subject to the provision that if the intestate leaves a widow and issue, she takes one-third; if no issue, one-half; if no kindred, the whole; and the husband the same.

The Legislature of 1895 amended the law of descent and dower, to take effect May 1st, 1895, except as to such persons as were then married, and as to all such persons to take effect January 1st, 1897, as to real estate, thus: 1. When issue exists, the widow or widower receives one-third, and the issue shares remainder per capita. 2. When issue does not exist, the widow or widower receives one-half, if there be kin, and the whole if there be no kin. 3. If there be no issue the remainder descends to the father and mother equally and if only one parent be living, one-half to said parent and the balance per capita to the descendants of the parents. 4. If no issue, parents, brother, or sister, it descends to the next of kin. 5. The property of a deceased unmarried minor inherited from a parent, descends as that parent's property would. 6. If no issue, widow, widower or kindred, the property escheats to the State. This act does not affect dower already existing.

When the will makes specific provision for the widow or widower, such legatee must, within six months of probate, file either the acceptance or the claim of right by descent; and can only have both when the testator clearly manifests such intention. Releases of dower are deemed to be releases of right and interest by descent.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Issue on judgments twenty-four hours after rendition, and are returnable within three months. Alias or pluries executions may issue within ten years from the day of return of preceding execution. New executions may be issued on proof of loss or destruction of the original. On default of absent defendant, execution is stayed one year, unless bond is given to reimburse the amount of the judgment if reversed on proceedings for review. Executions may be levied on all attachable property; said property being subject to right of redemption within a year. The same proceedings may be had in the case of mortgaged real estate. Where an estate cannot be described by metes and bounds, levy may be on rents and profits. Levy may be made on land fraudulently conveyed by debtor. The right of redemption of real estate may be levied on, as also the right to a conveyance of it by bond or contract, estates for a term of years, and interest by possession and improvement. In addition to levy by appraisal, the creditor may have any real estate of the debtor seized and sold on execution in the same manner that the right to redeem mortgaged land is sold, and with the same right of redemption.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

The following personal property is exempt from attachment and levy: Wearing apparel; one hundred dollars' worth of household furniture necessary for the family; one bedstead, bed and bedding for each two members; family portraits, bibles and school-books in actual use; copy of state statutes and library worth one hundred and fifty dollars; pew in use; one cooking and all iron warming stoves; charcoal, twelve cords of wood at home for use, five tons of anthracite and fifty bushels of bituminous coal, and ten dollars' worth of lumber, wood, or bark; all produce till harvested; one barrel of flour, thirty bushels of corn or grain, and all potatoes raised or bought for debtor or his family; half an acre of flax and manufactures therefrom for use; tools of trade and fifty dollars' worth of materials and stock procured and necessary for said trade or business and intended to be used in the same; sewing machine worth one hundred dollars; one pair of working cattle, or one pair of horses or mules worth threo hundred dollars, and hay to keep them through the winter, together with one harness worth twenty dollars for each horse or mule; a horse sled or ox sled; two swine, one cow and heifer under three years, or two cows if no oxen, horse or mule, and ten sheep with their wool and lambs until one year old, together with hay sufficient to keep them through the winter; fifty dollars' worth of domestic fowls; one plow, one cart, truck wagon or express wagon, one harrow, one yoke with bows, ring and staple, two chains, one ox sled and one mowing machine; one boat of two tons employed in fishing and owned exclusively by an inhabitant of the State; life and accident insurance policies, except excess of annual cash premiums for two years above one hundred and fifty dollars; also two shares in loan and building associations, and the receipts of certain agricultural societies until their expenses, purses, and premiums are paid, provided the same are paid within three months from close of the fair.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

One lot of land and buildings worth five hundred dollars, if owner files required certificate in registry of deeds, is exempt as a homestead from all attachments except for liens of mechanics and material-men; as is also one cemetery lot.

XIII. INSOLVENCY:

The Courts of Probate of the several counties are Courts of Insolvency for their respective counties.

Voluntary proceedings may be had in the county where the debtor resides. Involuntary proceedings, the same as voluntary, also may be had in the county in which non-resident debtor may have real or personal estate, or from which he has absconded or removed beyond the State within six months before the filing of the petition, leaving property or estate in said county.

In voluntary proceedings a warrant issues to the sheriff to take possession of all the debtor's estate, real and personal, not exempt from attachment, and of all books of account and papers, until an assignee is elected or appointed.

In involuntary proceedings warrant issues as above, with the exception that debtor is summoned to appear at a specified time for a hearing. At the hearing, unless the allegations made in the petition are proved, the warrant will be revoked; if proved the matter will proceed as in voluntary proceedings.

Assignees are chosen at the first meeting by the greater part in number and value of the creditors who have proved their debts and vote at the meeting. Assignees give bond.

Creditors may prove their claims at any time before the final dividend. The following are provable: All debts due and payable by the debtor at the time of the filing of the petition by or against him; all debts then existing but not payable until a future day, a rebate of interest being made when no interest is payable by the terms of the contract, and all demands against the estate of the insolvent for or on account of any goods or chattels wrongfully taken, converted or withheld by him may be proved and allowed as debts to the amount of the value of the property so taken or withheld with interest. Also, when insolvent is liable for unliquidated damages arising out of any contract or promise, or on account of any goods or chattels wrongfully taken, converted or withheld the court may cause such damages to be assessed in such mode as it deems best, and the sum so assessed may be proved against the estate.

In all cases of contingent debts and contingent liabilities contracted by the insolvent and not herein otherwise provided for, the creditor may make claim therefor, and have his claim allowed with the right to share in the dividends; or he may apply to the court to have the present value of the debt or liability ascertained and certified, which shall then be done as the court orders, and he may prove for the amount so ascertained.

Any person liable as bail, surety, guarantor, or otherwise, for the insolvent, who has paid the debt, or any part thereof, in discharge of the whole, may prove such debt, or stand in the place of the creditor, if the creditor has proven the same, although such payments were made after the proceedings in insolvency were commenced.

No debts other than those specified in this section, shall be allowed against the estate. Proof of debt must be made by creditor or his attorney and filed with the register of insolvency, in the county where the proceedings are had. Evidences of indebtedness must be annexed to the proof, but may be taken from the files on petition for that purpose.

The judge of insolvency assigns all the debtor's property which is subject to be taken for creditors, which assignment relates back to the commencement of proceedings, and dissolves all attachments made within four months. Assignee may be authorized by the court to carry on the business of the insolvent.

A mortgage to secure a prior existing creditor is void against the assignee unless recorded at least three months prior to the commencement of insolvency proceedings. Any transfer of property by debtor not made in the usual course of business is prima facie evidence of a preference. Virtually preferences, fraudulent conveyances, sequestrations, fraudulent judgments, payments, pledges, assignments, transfers or conveyances of property, made within six months prior to insolvent proceedings, are void when the transferee or grantee had reasonable cause to believe that grantor was insolvent or acting in contemplation of insolvency or with a view to prevent his property coming into the possession of his assignee.

The following claims are paid in full in their order: 1. Costs of suits in proceedings in insolvency. 2. Taxes due, except debts due to the State in behalf of the State's prison. 3. Wages due any operative, clerk or house servant, not exceeding fifty dollars, for labor performed within six months preceding the filing of the petition.

Debtor may be examined on oath on all matters relating to his insolvency.

After four months the debtor may apply for a discharge and such discharge shall be granted if the court is satisfied that debtor is in all respects entitled to the same.

Discharge releases debtor from all debts provable against his estate except as above. A joint debtor as partner, joint contractor, endorser or surety, is not discharged by the discharge of the co-promisor.

Corporations created under the laws of Maine for carrying on a manufacturing, mechanical, mining or quarrying business, trading, etc., or any lawful business, are subject to insolvency proceedings; but corporations whose business involves public duties and obligations, such as railroads, banks, etc., are not subject to these proceedings.

XIV. INTEREST:

The legal rate is six per cent per annum. Parties may in writing agree upon any rate.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments create a lien on the estate of defendant when attachment is made on mesne process; or when the title to real estate is involved, a lien is created on the land in controversy, provided a certificate issued from the office of the clerk of the court, stating briefly the names of the parties, the cause of action, a full description of the land, etc., is recorded in the registry of deeds in the county wherein the land is situated. Judgments are rendered under a general order at the end of the term. Special judgments may be rendered on motion in cases requiring it. Judgments bear interest at the rate of six per cent. A judgment may be superseded on a writ of review for certain causes.

XVI. LIENS:

Liens are given by statute on buildings and lots for labor performed or materials furnished in erecting, altering, moving or repairing buildings, cutting and dressing lumber, rock or stone, and all other forms of labor or service by virtue of a contract with or by consent of owner. If the contract is not with owner a sworn statement of claim must be filed in the town clerk's office within forty days after the last work is performed or material furnished, and in both cases must be enforced within ninety days after that date. Buildings on leased land are subject to lien for rent.

Factors have a lien on merchandise for advances, and are deemed true owners where the merchandise is forwarded in their names, as to any person who bona fide advances money or credit on faith of the apparent title. Attorneys have liens on judgments for costs. Creditors have a lien on life and accident policies for an amount of premium over one hundred and fifty dollars a year paid by the debtor within two years, subject to any pledge or assignment thereof in good faith. Liens also on mills for advances made by part owners for repairs, and on mill and mill dams for damages in flowage. Lien exists in favor of the mortgagee of real estate upon any policy of insurance procured by the mortgagor, to take effect upon the filing of written notice with the secretary of the company, and to be enforced within sixty days after loss by suit against mortgagor and the company as his trustee. Railroads have a lien for freight.

Whoever has a lien on or pledge of any stock or certificate thereof, bond, note, account, or other chose in action, or on any other personal property in his possession, may sell the same after adjudication by a court having jurisdiction of the petition of holder.

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for recovery of a debt on contract, or liability not under seal; assumpsit or case founded on contract, express or implied; waste, trespass on land, and trespass, except assault and battery and false imprisonment; replevin and other actions for taking, detaining or injuring goods or chattels, and all other actions on case except slander and libel, must be brought within six years after the cause of action accrues.

For assault and battery, false imprisonment, slander and libel, within two years.

On witnessed notes, bills or other evidences of indebtedness issued by a bank, and personal action on any other contract not otherwise limited, within twenty years.

Judgments of the United States, courts of record or any Justice Court in this State are presumed to be satisfied after seven years; but presumption may be overcome by proof. Endorsers of writs for costs are liable within one year from the original judgment.

If a person entitled to bring action is a minor, married woman, insane, imprisoned, or without the limits of the United States when the cause of action accrued, action may be brought within the time limited, after such disability has been removed.

If a cause of action is fraudulently concealed by the person liable, or if a fraud is committed which entitles any person to an action, action may be commenced within six years after the plaintiff discovers he is entitled to bring an action.

All limitations apply to set-offs. Part payment of principal or interest on a promissory note, bill of exchange or other writing, or written acknowledgment, or promise in writing, signed by the parties chargeable thereby, will raise the statutory bar, and suit may be brought within the time limited for such actions, commencing at the date the bar was got rid of. Such acknowledgment or promise by a joint contractor, or part payment, does not interfere with the running of the statute against his co-debtors. In the case of mutual dealing, the time runs from the date of the last item proved on either side. Actions barred elsewhere are barred in this State.

XVIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Have with their husbands equal property rights, and can make contracts, sue and be sued as if single. If married since April 21st, 1844, they retain their property; if since April 26th, 1852, the husband is not liable for antenuptial debts. Husband not liable for the torts of wife, but is liable for her support and maintenance. Whenever a man having a wife, a minor child, or both, residing in this State, living apart from them, and being of sufficient ability, or being able to labor and provide for them, willfully and without reasonable cause refuses or neglects to provide suitable maintenance for them, the courts may compel him to do so.

XIX. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages of real estate are ordinarily made in the form of deed poll with condition of defeasance contained therein. An absolute deed with a separate instrument of defeasance executed as a part of the same transaction constitutes a mortgage, and must be recorded in the registry of deeds where the land lies, or it will not be effectual against any person except the grantor, his heirs and devisees and persons having actual notice thereof. The right of possession is in the mortgagee unless otherwise agreed in the mortgage. The mortgagee takes the legal estate, subject to be defeated by fulfilling the conditions by mortgagor. If the mortgagee takes possession, he must account for rents and profits actually received, and also for those lost through his negligent management of the property.

After breach of condition, the mortgagee, if he desires to obtain possession of the premises for the purpose of foreclosure, may: (1) obtain judgment and get possession under a writ of possession; (2) enter into possession and hold the same by consent in writing of the mortgagor or the person holding under him; or, (3) enter peaceably and openly, if not opposed, in the presence of two witnesses, and take possession of the premises, in which case certificate of the fact, etc., must be made by the witnesses and recorded where the mortgage was recorded; and possession must be retained.

If mortgagee wishes to make foreclosure without possession, he may give public notice in a newspaper published and printed in whole or in part where the premises are situated, three weeks successively, stating his claim, describing premises intelligibly, naming date of the mortgage, and that the condition thereof is broken, by reason of which he claims a foreclosure. A copy of such printed notice, with the name of the newspaper and dates of publication, must be recorded in the registry where the mortgage was recorded; or mortgagee may cause an attested copy of such notice to be served on the mortgagor or his assignee, and cause the original notice and sheriff's return thereon to be recorded in said registry; in both cases record must be made within thirty days after the last publication or service of notice.

The time for redemption begins to run from the first publication, or at the service of the notice. Unless otherwise agreed, mortgagor has three years for redemption, but parties may agree upon a shorter time, not less than one year. Mortgages may be foreclosed in equity. Power of sale mortgages are recognized by the courts, and frequently made.

Chattel mortgages are not valid, except between the parties, unless possession of property is taken by the mortgagee, or the mortgage is recorded by the clerk of the town where mortgagor resides at the time mortgage given. Unless otherwise stipulated in the mortgage, the right of possession is in the mortgagee. If parties reside out of the State, mortgage must be recorded in the city, town or plantation where the property was situated at the time the mortgage was made. Foreclosure is made by sixty days' notice of intention to foreclose, given in writing to mortgagee after condition is broken, or published for three weeks consecutively in a newspaper, if mortgagor is out of the State.

No agreement that personal property bargained and delivered to another shall remain the property of the seller until paid for is valid, unless the same is in writing and signed by the persons to be bound thereby; and when so made and signed, whether said agreement is or is called a note, lease, conditional sale, purchase on installments, or by any other name, and in whatever form it may be, shall not be valid, except as between the original parties thereto, unless it is recorded in the office of the clerk of the town in which the purchaser resides at the time of the purchase. All such agreements, recorded or not, shall be subject to redemption, and title may be foreclosed in the same manner as is provided for mortgages of personal property.

Selling, concealing or removing personal property subject to mortgage, with fraudulent intent, without notice of the mortgage, is punishable criminally.

XX. NOTES AND BILLS:

No special form of note is recommended. Acceptance of a bill, draft or order, and waiver of demand and notice, must be in writing. A party signing a note on the back before delivery is held as a maker, unless he is named as payee therein.

Three days of grace are allowed unless note or bill is on demand. If the third day is Sunday, a day of public fast or Thanksgiving, first day of January, twenty-second day of February, thirtieth day of May, fourth day of July, Christmas day, or the third day of grace is Sunday before the first Monday in September (Labor day), two days are allowed. If either of these days mentioned, save the last, fall on Monday, and is the third day of grace, or Saturday, and the following Sunday is the third day of grace, or Sunday, and it is the second day of grace, four days are allowed. If the third day of grace is the first Monday of September (Labor day), four days are allowed.

XXI. SUITS:

Civil actions are begun by original writs (except in scire facias and certain other proceedings) issued by the clerks in the several counties. The goods and estate of defendant may be attached thereon, and for want thereof defendant may be arrested under several forms of action; or an original summons may be issued, with or without order of attachment. Said writs or summons are returnable in the Supreme Court at the next term; in the Superior Court of Cumberland County, at either of the next three terms, and in Kennebec County at either of the next two terms. The writ is filled out and declaration inserted by counsel before service is made; and after service no change can be made in the writ, unless allowed by the court on motion.

Service on private persons in most cases must be fourteen days before the return day, and on a corporation thirty days. Service on corporations is made by leaving a copy of writ, attested by the officer, with the president, clerk, cashier, treasurer, general agent, or director, or if no such officer or agent is found, with any member; and if a foreign corporation, such copy may also be left with any agent, or at the office or place of business.

When property is attached in this State belonging to a party or corporation residing without the State, and upon whom no service can be made in the State, the judgment obtained will only be effectual to the value of the property attached, unless the defendant voluntarily appears at court and submits to the jurisdiction thereof. When property is attached in this manner, the court will order notice to defendant without the State, and judgment will be rendered in the manner stated. Non-resident plaintiffs must furnish endorsers for costs. Cross-actions against non-residents may be served on the attorney of non-resident in the first action. Local actions are returnable in the county where subject matter is situated, and personal actions returnable in the county in which a plaintiff or defendant resides.

XXII. TAXES:

Taxes are assessed on polls, real estate and personal property. Property of the United States and the State, and of literary, benevolent, charitable and scientific institutions incorporated by the State, houses for religious worship, colleges, household furniture worth two hundred dollars, wearing apparel, farming utensils, mechanics' tools, musical instruments worth fifteen dollars, parsonage worth six thousand dollars, mules, horses, neat cattle, swine and sheep under six months old, hay, grain and potatoes in possession of producer, mines for ten years, polls and estates of infirm persons, and property of water companies are exempt.

Taxes are assessed as of April 1st, and if not paid by first Monday in December of the following year, the land will be sold. One year is allowed for redemption in the case of non-residents, and two in the case of residents. Owners of goods bringing them into the State after April 1st, to be sold within less than one year, have to pay license fee equivalent to the regular local tax on similar property.

XXIII. WILLS:

A person of sound mind, of the age of twenty-one, may dispose of property by will, in writing, signed by testator or some person for him, at his request and in his presence, and attested in the presence of testator by three disinterested persons. A child or issue of deceased child, unless intentionally omitted from the will, takes the same share that he would have had if deceased had died intestate. Nuncupative wills may be made during the last sickness, at testator's house, or where he last resided for ten days, unless taken sick while traveling, and dying before returning, except in case of mariners and soldiers, and must be reduced to writing within six days, or they cannot be proved after six months.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Three or more persons may, by written articles of agreement, form themselves into a corporation for mining, quarrying, or any other lawful business, pursuit or calling. Their first meeting shall be called by one or more of the signers of said articles, and notice thereof, stating the time, place and purpose of such meeting, shall be given to each signer, in writing, or by publication in some newspaper in the county where said parties reside, at least fourteen days prior to the date of such meeting.

At such meeting they may adopt a corporate name, define the purposes of the corporation, fix the amount of the capital stock, which shall not be less than one thousand dollars nor more than ten million dollars; divide said stock into shares, and elect a president, not less than three directors, a clerk, treasurer, and any other necessary officers, and may adopt a code of by-laws.

Before commencing business, the president, treasurer and a majority of the directors shall prepare, sign and make oath to a certificate setting forth the name and purpose of the corporation, the amount of capital stock, the amount already paid in, the par value of the shares, the names and residences of the owners, the name of the county where the company's head office is located, and the number and names of the directors; and after it has been examined by the Attorney-General and by him been certified to be properly drawn and signed and to be conformable to the constitution and laws, it shall be recorded in the registry of deeds in the county where the business is to be done, and a copy thereof, certified by such register, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall minute the date of filing thereon and on the original certificate to be kept by the corporation, and shall record said copy in a book kept for that purpose. The corporation is created upon the filing of such certificate in the office of the Secretary of State, and then becomes clothed with all rights and powers, and is subject to all duties and liabilities, as if chartered by special act.

A corporation may be chartered by special act of the Legislature. Before commencing business, if so chartered, the president, treasurer and a majority of the directors shall prepare, sign and make oath to a certificate, as in cases of corporations organized under the general law, and stating therein the date of approval of the charter, such certificate to be recorded in the registry of deeds in the county where the principal office of the corporation is to be located, and a certified copy thereof filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

II. OFFICERS:

The officers shall be chosen annually, and continue in office until others are chosen and qualified in their stead. The directors must be stockholders. The clerk of the corporation, who must be a resident of the State, shall be sworn and shall keep a record of all votes of the corporation. The treasurer shall give bond for the faithful discharge of his duties.

III. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

The office of such corporation shall be at some fixed place within the State, where shall be kept the records of the corporation, and a book showing a true and complete list of all stockholders, their residences and the amount of stock held by each; but this provision as to lists of stockholders does not apply to any corporation doing business in the State and having a treasurer's office at some fixed place within the State, where a stock book is kept giving the names, residences and amount of stock of each stockholder. Records and books shall be open at all reasonable hours to the inspection of persons interested.

The clerk or other officer of the corporation shall, within twenty days after the election of a clerk, or change of location of the clerk's office, file in the office of the registry of deeds in the county where the corporation is established or has its principal office or place of business a certificate giving the full name and residence of the clerk and the location of the clerk's office.

IV. TAXATION:

Mines of gold, silver, or of the baser metals, when opened and in process of development, are exempt from taxation for ten years from the time of opening. The buildings, lands and other property of mining and smelting corporations, made personal by their charters and not exempt from taxation, are taxable to the corporations; and shares of the capital stock shall not be taxed to the owner thereof.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

No stockholder whose stock has been fully paid in, and no part of the principal has been withdrawn, is liable for corporate debts: but when corporate property cannot be found with which to satisfy such debts, each stockholder's stock and interest in stock may be seized and sold on execution, and he may recover of the corporation the value of the stock and interest so taken.

MINING.

I. INSPECTION:

The general inspector appointed by the State shall examine into the sanitary and mechanical condition of all mines and quarries, and when any condition or thing is found that, in his opinion, endangers the health or lives of employes, he shall notify the local board of health, and it shall be the duty of said board to investigate the matter. He shall also see that every building in which any trade, manufacture or business is carried on, requiring the presence of workmen or other persons above the first story, shall at all times be provided with suitable and sufficient fire escapes, outside stairs, or ladders from each story or gallery above the level of the ground, easily accessible to all inmates in case of fire or an alarm of fire.

II. WAGES:

Upon complaint and inquiry into such matters, the inspector shall prosecute any corporation organized for mining or quarrying purposes, in addition to other corporations, having in its employ more than ten persons, who shall not pay fortnightly to each and every employe engaged in its business the wages earned by such employe to within eight days of the date of said payment. Whoever digs, hauls or furnishes rock for the manufacture of lime, and whoever labors in any quarry in quarrying, cutting or dressing granite, or in mining, quarrying or manufacturing slate, has a lien for his wages on such lime rock for thirty days after the rock is manufactured into lime, or until such lime is sold or shipped on board vessel; and on the granite so quarried, cut or dressed for thirty days after such granite is cut or dressed, or until it is sold or shipped on board vessel; and on all slate so mined, quarried or manufactured for thirty days after such slate arrives at the port of shipment; and such liens have precedence of all other claims. No statutory liens on ores and metals. See Commercial Law, "XVI. Liens."

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

May acquire, transfer and inherit property like citizens. They may sue or be sued in the courts of the Province for the fulfillment of obligations contracted by them even in foreign countries, provided legal service can be effected within the Province. Every plaintiff not resident in the Province is bound if required to give security for the costs of the opposite party in any suit or proceeding which he institutes in its courts.

II. ASSIGNMENT:

There is no bankrupt or insolvency law in force in this Province; but debtors may make assignments in trust for the benefit of all their creditors ratably and proportionately, and without preference or priority. Judgments recovered in due course before assignment retain their priority, notwithstanding the debtor is in insolvent circumstances.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

All property, real and personal, of debtors, or persons against whom there is a cause of action, may be attached when such debtor or other person: 1. Shall depart from Manitoba with intent to defraud his creditors or to avoid arrest or service of process. 2. Not being a resident of the Province, shall be indebted or liable to a resident of the Province upon contract or for damages. 3. Whether resident or non-resident, is about to remove any of his property out of the said Province, or has assigned or secreted any of his property therein, with intent to defeat, delay, or defraud creditors. No bonds are required to be given by plaintiff. Remedy by garnishee process is given by statute to creditors or persons having a cause of action against another, which may be had at the commencement of or at any time during the pendency of suit. (See Deeds.)

A debtor may be arrested at the instance of a creditor whose claim amounts to one hundred dollars or upwards, upon it appearing by affidavit of the creditor or his agent, to the satisfaction of a judge of the Superior Court, that unless such debtor be forthwith apprehended he will quit Manitoba with intent to defraud his creditors. The writ of arrest (or capias) may be issued before or after judgment.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against the estate of an assignor must be filed with the assignee and verified by the affidavit of the creditor, or his agent, who can swear to the indebtedness. Such affidavit, if made within the Province, may be made before a commissioner for taking affidavits; and if made outside the Province, should be made before a notary public, who must sign the same and affix his official seal thereto. Such affidavits must set out the nature of the claim; the amount thereof after giving the debtor credit for all payments, setoffs and allowances; and whether the creditor holds any security for his claim or any part thereof. If such security is on the estate of the debtor or on the estate of a third party for whom such debtor is only secondarily liable, the creditor shall put a specified value thereon, and the assignee, under the authority of the creditors, may either consent to the right of the creditor to rank for the balance of his claim after deducting such valuation, or he may require from the creditor an assignment of the security at an advance of ten per cent upon the specified value and in such case the difference between the value at which the security is retained or assigned, and the amount of the gross claim of the creditor shall be the amount for which he shall rank and vote in respect of the estate. No creditor whose vote is disputed shall be entitled to vote until he has filed with the assignee the above affidavit in proof of his claim.

V. COURTS:

The Court of Queen's Bench is the Supreme Court of Manitoba, and has an orginal and appellate jurisdiction both at law and in equity. There are four terms a year for the hearing of appeals from a single judge.

County Courts have jurisdiction up to four hundred dollars, in all actions except claims in the nature of seduction, breach of promise of marriage, and a few others which are confined exclusively to the Queen's Bench. An appeal lies from the County Court to the Queen's Bench in all cases where the amount in dispute is twenty dollars or upwards.

VI. FEES:

Redemption: contingent.
Sheriff: contingent.
Witness: per day	1.25
Mandamus: about	5.50

VII. DEEDS:

Deeds of land, or of any interest in land, in this Province may be executed in the presence of a single witness. For the purpose of registration, an affidavit must be made by the witness of the due execution by the grantor, which affidavit, if made within the Province, may be made before any commissioner for taking affidavits in the Queen's Bench, the registrar or deputy registrar of the county in which the lands lie, a judge of any of the Superior or County Courts, or any justice of the peace; if made in any other province of the Dominion, it may be made before a judge or prothonotary of any of the Superior Courts of law or equity, or any notary public certified under his official seal; if made in any state of the Union, it may be made before the mayor of any city or corporate town and certified under the common seal of such city or town corporate, any consul or vice-consul of Her Majesty resident therein, or a judge of a court of record or a notary public, certified under his official seal. No acknowledgment is necessary if the due execution of the instrument is proven as above. It is not necessary for a wife to join in a conveyance by the husband of lands held in his own name, as dower does not attach during the lifetime of the husband. The Torrens system of land transfers has lately been introduced in the Province, but registration under the act is optional with the owners. When once brought under the operation of the act, however, all subsequent transfers or conveyances must be in the manner laid down and according to the forms prescribed by the statute.

VIII. DESCENT:

In the case of a person dying intestate leaving a widow and child or children, one-third of his estate (real and personal) goes to his widow, and the remaining two-thirds to his child or children in equal shares. If he leaves a widow only, all his estate goes to her. If he leaves children and no widow, all his estate goes to them in equal shares. The share of a posthumous child is the same as any other and there is no distinction of half-blood. If intestate leaves no widow, children or grandchildren his whole estate (real and personal) goes to his father. If no father, then to mother, brothers and sisters equally. If no father, brothers or sisters, the mother gets all. If no father or mother, estate goes to brothers and sisters equally. If no father, mother, brothers, sisters, or children of brothers or sisters, whole estate, real and personal, goes to next of kin in equal degree.

IX. EMINENT DOMAIN:

This law applies principally to mining districts. In regard to rights for public roads, etc., over property, if the same is not reserved in the Crown patent, the grantee obtains full control.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Issue from the Queen's Bench in all cases as of course against the goods of the judgment debtor, and bind the goods from the date of receipt by sheriff as against the debtor or purchaser with notice; or from date of seizure as against purchaser for value without notice. Lands are bound by the registration of a certificate of judgment in the registration division where the lands are situated, which must be renewed every two years. Executions from the County Court remain in force for one year, and bind goods only, but may be renewed.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

The following personal and real property are free from seizure under any writ of execution issued by any court in the Province: 1, Beds and bedding in the common use of the judgment debtor and his family; and also household furniture and effects not exceeding in value five hundred dollars; 2, the necessary and ordinary clothing of debtor and his family; 3, twelve volumes of books, books of a professional man, one ax, one saw, one gun, six traps, and all nets and seines used by debtor; 4, the necessary food, if in possession of the debtor at the time of seizure, for himself and family for eleven months; 5, six cows, three oxen or three horses or mules, ten sheep, ten pigs, fifty fowl, and food for same for eleven months, the exemption as to horses to apply only in case they are used by the debtor in earning his living; 6, the tools, agricultural implements and necessaries used by debtor in practice of his trade, profession or occupation to the value of five hundred dollars; 7, the articles and furniture necessary to performance of religious services; 8, the land upon which debtor and his family actually reside, or which he cultivates or uses, provided the same does not exceed one hundred and sixty acres, if outside the limits of any city or town; 9, the stables, barns and fences on debtor's farm, subject as aforesaid; 10, all necessary seeds or roots for the cultivation of thirty acres; 11, the actual residence of any person, other than a farmer, in any city or town, provided the same does not exceed in value one thousand five hundred dollars; if it exceed the above value, before it can be sold, the said amount must be paid or secured to the debtor. The above exemptions only apply to debts. Any contract by debtor to abandon exemption is null and void.

XII. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent, but any rate of interest can be charged pursuant to agreement.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Are in force for ten yars from date, but may be renewed by suing on the judgment within that time. A certificate of judgment registered in the proper registry office binds lands for two years from date of registration.

XIV. LIENS:

Lien notes, hire receipts, orders for chattels, are prohibited from registration, and are null and void as against any person or corporation claiming an interest or estate in lands under a registered instrument.

Every person furnishing labor upon or materials to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any building or erection; or erecting, furnishing or placing machinery of any kind, in, upon or in connection with any building, erection or mine, shall by virtue thereof have a lien or charge for the price of such labor, materials or machinery upon such building, erection or mine, and the lands occupied thereby or connected therewith, provided that no lien shall exist for a less sum than twenty dollars. The lien shall be limited to the estate or interest in such lands, buildings or erections of the person at whose instance or request such machinery or material were provided. If the lien is claimed by a sub-contractor the amount shall be limited to the amount payable to the contractor by the owner.

No lien shall exist, unless and until a statement of the claim is registered in the "land titles office" for the district in which the lands affected are situated, and which statement may be filed during the progress of the work or within thirty days after its completion.

When the claim is within the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, proceedings may be taken in the County Court to sell the lands charged, although, whether for more or less than the said sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, procedings may be taken and instituted in the Court of Queen's Bench on its equity side. The court may then make sale of the estate in such manner in each case as it may think proper, and may also direct the sale of the materials or machinery, and authorize the removal thereof, although fixtures.

If the land charged be incumbered, existing or created before the furnishment of said labor, or material, or said machinery, such mortgage shall not have priority over the lien to any greater extent than the actual value of such land at the time the improvements were commenced. In cases where there are several lien-holders against the same property and the proceeds of the sale are insufficient to satisfy all in full, said proceeds shall be distributed among them ratably and pari passu.

The Manitoba statute known as "The Lien Note Act" provides: "Receipt notes, hire receipts and orders for chattels given by bailees of chattels, where the condition of the bailment is such that the possession of the chattel shall pass without any ownership therein being acquired by the bailee, were and shall be only valid in the case of manufactured goods or chattels, which, at the time the bailment is entered into, have the manufacturer's name or some other distinguishing name painted, printed or stamped thereon or otherwise plainly attached thereon; and no such bailment shall be valid unless it be evinced in writing, signed by the person thus taking possession of the chattel."

"Every manufacturer and his agents shall forthwith, on application, furnish to any applicant full information respecting the balance due on any such manufactured goods or chattels, and the terms of payment of such balance, and in case he or they refuse or neglect to furnish the information asked for, such manufacturer or agent shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars on conviction before any justice of the peace."

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Promissory notes and bills of exchange become outlawed unless sued upon within six years from due date, or within six years of last payment on account or written acknowledgment of debt in writing. No action to recover money secured by mortgage, judgment or lien may be brought, but within ten years after the right to receive the same accrued, or within ten years after part payment, or acknowledgment of the debt in writing.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman can hold for her own separate use all property owned at the time of marriage or subsequently acquired, but such property is liable for her own separate debts. In every respect a wife can deal with her own property, can sue and be sued as if she were unmarried. A man may convey land to his wife directly or vice versa. No dower law exists now in Manitoba, so that a widow is not entitled to any dower in the real estate of her husband which he dies possessed of. A married woman's property is liable for any of the ordinary or necessary expenses of the family, unless specially charged by her.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Chattel mortgages are good as against an innocent purchaser for value when registered in the office of the County Court within which the goods or chattels are situate. Chattel mortgages expire unless renewed, within two years from date of registration.

Mortgages on real estate bind lands against innocent purchasers only when registered. They are good for ten years from the date of registration, part payment or acknowledgment of debt made by the mortgagor in writing.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are the ordinary forms of commercial paper in this Province. Three days of grace allowed, except when payable on demand. If a bill or note falls due on a legal holiday it must be presented on the following day. In order to hold indorsers liable the bill or note must be presented and protested, and notice duly given. Production of the protest is prima facie evidence of presentment and dishonor. The stamp duty is required on bills or notes.

XIX. SUITS:

Actions and suits are in common law begun by a writ of summons; in equity, by a bill of complaint. If defendant does not appear, judgment by default may be signed against him. If defendant is within Manitoba the time for appearance to the writ of summons is eight days; to a bill of complaint, it is four weeks. Said time, when defendant is without the Province, is regulated by the distance of his then domicile therefrom. The Court of Queen's Bench is resorted to in all actions when the debt or damage exceeds four hundred dollars, or where the unsettled account to be investigated exceeds five hundred dollars.

[On October 1st, 1895, the new "Court of Queen's Bench Act" came into force in the Province, materially altering the practice in this court. All actions are now commenced by statements of claim duly filed and served.]

XX. TAXES:

Lands may be sold for taxes, when in arrears for one year or upwards, by the treasurer of the municipality within which the lands lie; and may be redeemed at any time within two years from date of sale, upon payment of the sum paid by the purchaser, with ten per cent interest if redeemed within one year, or twenty per cent if redeemed within two years from date of sale.

XXI. WAGES:

Under assignments for the benefit of creditors, the wages of workmen in the employ of the assignor at the time of making the assignment, or within one month before the making thereof, are privileged for three months, and paid in priority to the claims of the ordinary creditors; such wages to be for arrears only and not for any unearned portion. Wages to the extent of forty dollars per month are exempt from seizure in attachment under process issued out of any court.

XXII. WILLS:

A person must be twenty-one years of age before he or she can make a will. Wills must be executed in the presence of two witnesses, and the whole will may be written and signed by the testator himself. A devise, legacy, etc., to a witness does not invalidate the will, but such devise, legacy, etc., is null and void. A creditor or executor can be a competent witness.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

All companies, except railway and insurance companies, are created either by special act of parliament or by letters patent issued under the provisions of the "Manitoba Joint Stock Companies' Act" by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. Unless special powers are required, the latter course is always adopted.

The applicants for letters patent must give one month's previous notice, to be inserted once in the Manitoba Gazette, of their intention to apply for the same, stating therein: 1. The proposed name of the company, which shall not be that of any other known company. 2. The object for which incorporation is sought. 3. The place within the Province where its operations are to be carried on. 4. The amount of the capital stock. 5. The number of shares and the amount of each share. 6. The name in full, address, and calling of each of the applicants with special mention of the names of not less than three, nor more than nine of their number, who are to be the first directors of the company.

The application is made by petition of not less than five persons, stating the facts required to be set forth in the notice; the amount of stock taken by each of the applicants; and also the amount, if any, paid in upon the stock of each applicant, and whether in cash, transfer or property, or otherwise.

From the date of the letters patent the persons therein named and their successors shall be a body corporate and politic by the name therein mentioned; and the powers therein mentioned shall be exercised subject to the provisions of the said act. The company must go into operation within three years after the charter is granted, and in the event of non-user during three years at any one time the charter is forfeited. No company shall commence business until at least ten per cent of the capital stock shall have been subscribed, and at least ten per cent of the stock subscribed actually paid up.

Upon resolution of not less than two-thirds in value of the shareholders present at a general meeting, and upon one month's previous notice given in the Manitoba Gazette, the Lieutenant-Governor may direct the issue of supplementary letters patent, embracing the following matters: 1. Extending the powers of the company to any objects within the scope of the act which the company may desire. 2. Limiting or increasing the amount which the company may borrow upon debentures or otherwise. 3. Providing for the foundation of a reserve fund. 4. Varying any provisions contained in the letters patent, so long as the alteration desired is not contrary to the provisions of the act. 5. Making provision for any other matter or thing in respect of which provision might have been made by the original letters patent.

II. POWERS:

Every company may, subject to any limitations contained in the letters patent, acquire, hold, alienate and convey real estate requisite for the uses of the company, or of the undertaking; and may take and hold such lands and tenements, real and personal property as may have been mortgaged or conveyed to it by way of security, and may retain the same for a period not exceeding ten years.

III. DIRECTORS:

There shall be not less than three nor more than nine directors. The persons named in the letters patent shall be the directors of the company until replaced by others who shall be duly elected by the shareholders at a general meeting held at some place within the Province, at such time, in such wise and for such terms, not exceeding two years, as the letters patent or the by-laws of the company may prescribe.

The directors shall have full power: to administer the affairs of the company; to make contracts authorized by by-laws of the company; to make by-laws not contrary to law or the letters patent regulating the allotment of stock, making of calls and payment thereof, the issue and registration of certificates of stock, the forfeiture of stock for non-payment, the disposal of forfeited stock, the transfer of stock, the payment of dividends, the number of directors and their terms of service, the amount of their stock qualification, the appointment, functions and removal of all agents, officers and servants of the company, the security to be given by them to the company and their remuneration, the time at which and the place where the annual and special meetings of the company or the board of directors shall be held, the quorum, the requirement as to proxies and the procedure in all things at such meetings, and the conduct in all other particulars of the affairs of the company; but every such by-law and every repeal, amendment or re-enactment thereof, unless confirmed at a general meeting called for the purpose, shall have effect only until the next annual meeting of the company. Directors shall not declare a dividend when the company is insolvent or which renders the company insolvent or reduces the capital stock.

In case a by-law authorizing the same is sanctioned by a vote of not less than two-thirds in value of the shareholders at a general or special general meeting to be called for the purpose, the directors may borrow money upon the credit of the company, and issue the bonds, debentures or other securities of the company, and may sell the same at such prices as may be deemed expedient or necessary.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The capital stock of the company shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars. When the whole of the stock has been subscribed and fifty per cent thereon paid up, but not sooner, the directors may make a by-law for increasing the capital to any amount which they may consider requisite, not exceeding one million dollars, but no by-law for increasing or decreasing the capital stock shall have any force or effect until sanctioned by a vote of at least two-thirds in value of the shareholders at a gen-meeting duly called for considering the same and it shall afterward be confirmed by supplementary letters patent.

Books must be kept wherein are entered all transfers of stock as presented to the company, with the date and other particulars of each transfer. The directors may refuse to allow the entry in such book of any transfer of stock whereon any call has been made which has not been paid in.

V. CALLS:

The directors may call in all subscribed stock in such manner as the letters patent or by-laws of the company may require or allow. Interest at six per cent is added to unpaid calls, from date fixed for payment. Not less than ten per cent shall be payable within one year from incorporation. The company may enforce payment of calls by action in any competent court, or the directors may summarily forfeit any shares for non-payment, and the same shall thereupon become the property of the company. Shares shall not be transferable until all unpaid calls are fully paid, or until declared forfeited; and no shareholder, in default for non-payment of calls, shall be entitled to vote at any meeting of the company.

VI. LIABILITIES:

Each shareholder, until the whole amount of his stock is fully paid up, shall be individually liable to the creditors of the company; but shall not be liable as such for any act, default or liability whatsoever of the company; or for any claim, engagement, payment or other matter or thing relating to or connected with the company beyond the unpaid amount of his respective shares in the company. Trustees or mortgagees of stock or persons holding stock as collateral security shall not be personally subject to liability as shareholders.

Directors for service performed for the company while holding such office, shall be jointly and severally liable for the wages of all servants, laborers and apprentices, excluding the officers of the company, not exceeding in amount the value of such for one year.

VII. CONTRACTS:

All contracts, agreements, engagements or bargains made, and every bill of exchange or promissory note drawn, accepted or indorsed on behalf of the company by any agent, officer or servant in accordance with his powers under the by-laws of the company, or otherwise, shall be binding upon the company, and in no case shall it be necessary to affix the seal of the company.

VIII. REPORTS:

Every company shall on or before the first day of February in each year make a duplicate list showing: 1. Names, addresses and callings of all shareholders on the thirty-first day of December preceding, with the number of shares held by each. 2. The names and addresses of the directors, secretary and treasurer of the company. 3. The amount of the capital stock and the number of shares into which it is divided. 4. The number of shares subscribed for and taken from commencement of business to December 31st preceding said report. 5. The amount of stock issued free of call, if any. 6. The amount of stock issued subject to call. 7. The amount of calls made on each share. 8. The total amount of calls received. 9. The total amount of calls unpaid. 10. The total amount of shares forfeited. 11. The total amount of shares which have never been allotted or taken up. 12. The total amount for which shareholders are liable in respect of unpaid stock respectively.

The said list must be verified by the oath of the president and secretary, and one copy posted up in the company's head office in Manitoba and the other deposited in the Department of Agriculture and Immigration.

MINING.

I. TITLE:

The absolute title to all the vacant and unsurveyed lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada is vested in the Crown, represented by the Government of the Dominion of Canada, and all mining rights and locations in the Province of Manitoba are regulated and controlled by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa and by an officer known as the Superintendent of Mines, resident at Calgary, N. W. T. Patents of lands may or may not cover the mineral rights. In many cases such rights are reserved. Although the practice at the present time is to make all Crown grants absolute and unconditional, and to cover both surface and mineral rights.

All communications respecting mining and the regulations affecting same, in Manitoba, should be addressed to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, Ontario; to H. H. Smith, Commissioner of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, Manitoba, or to William Pearce, Superintendent of Mines, Calgary, N. W. T.

II. PROSPECTING:

Any person may explore vacant Dominion lands within the Province of Manitoba not appropriated or reserved by government for other purposes, and may search therein, either by surface or subterranean prospecting, for mineral deposits (with the exception of coal), with a view to obtaining a mining location for the same; but no mining location or claim shall be granted until actual discovery has been made of the vein, lode or deposit of mineral or metal, within the limits of the location or claim.

III. LOCATION AND RECORD:

A location of mining, except for iron, on veins, lodes or ledges of quartz shall not exceed fifteen hundred feet in length and six hundred feet in breadth.

In placer mining, the size of the claim is as follows: 1. For "bar diggings" a strip of land one hundred feet wide at high water mark and thence extending into the river to its lowest water level. 2. "Dry diggings," one hundred feet square. 3. "Creek and river claims," one hundred feet long, measured in the direction of the course of the stream, and extending in width from base to base of the hill or bench on each side; but when the hills or benches are less than one hundred feet apart, the claim may be one hundred feet square. 4. "Bench claims," one hundred feet square. 5. Every claim on the face of any hill and fronting on any natural stream or ravine shall have a frontage of one hundred feet, drawn parallel to the main direction of said stream or ravine, and shall be laid out as nearly as possible in the manner prescribed for quartz mining locations. If any person or persons discover a new mine and such discovery shall be established to the satisfaction of the agent, claims of the following size in dry, bar, bench, creek or hill diggings shall be allowed to the discoverers: To one discoverer, three hundred feet in length; to a party of two, six hundred feet in length; to a party of three, eight hundred feet in length; to a party of four, one thousand feet in length, and to each member of a party beyond four in number a claim of the ordinary size.

The Minister of the Interior may grant a location for the mining of iron not exceding one hundred and sixty acres in extent, which shall be bounded by due north and south, and east and west lines; and its breadth and length shall be equal. The regulations relating to quartz and placer mining shall in all cases, when applicable, govern iron locations.

Any person having discovered a mineral deposit (except of coal), may enter a mining location on the same; and in order so to do shall: 1. Mark the location on the ground by placing four wooden posts, one at each corner, driven at least eighteen inches into the ground, or built or supported by a mound or cairn of stones, at least three feet in diameter at its base and eighteen inches high, and showing that length above it. On the northeast angle post he shall mark legibly, with a cutting instrument or with colored chalk, his name in full, the date, and the letters "M. L., No. 1"; and on the southeast, southwest and the northwest angle posts the number of each in the order given, the letters "M. L.," and his initials.

2. He shall within sixty days thereafter file with the agent for Dominion lands of the district within which the location is situated a declaration under oath, which may be taken before the agent or a justice of the peace, or a commissioner for taking affidavits, setting forth the circumstances of his discovery and the locality and dimensions of the location as nearly as may be, and shall with such declaration pay the agent the entry fee of five dollars.

The agent shall grant a receipt to such claimant, which shall authorize him or his representatives or assignees to enter into possession of the location and subject to its renewal from year to year during the term of five years, to take therefrom and dispose of any mineral deposit, provided that during each of the five years after the date of such receipt, he expends at least the sum of one hundred dollars in actual mining operations on the claim.

An applicant who has otherwise complied with the requirements of the regulations may be able to obtain an entry for a location, upon his making affidavit that from indications he verily believes that petroleum exists in the location applied for; the location, however, not to be sold to the applicant within the period of five years from the date of entry prescribed by the regulations, unless he can in addition to the said prerequisitions aforesaid, furnish proof to the satisfaction of the Minister of the Interior that he has at least one oil well in operation thereon and is producing therefrom petroleum in paying quantities; provided: that if at the end of five years he cannot furnish such proof the entry shall be cancelled.

IV. PURCHASE:

The claimant may at any time before the expiration of the five years purchase the location at the rate of five dollars per acre cash, after filing with the agent proof that he has expended not less than five hundred dollars in actual mining operations on the same. On making the application to purchase, he shall deposit with the agent fifty dollars for the survey of the location by the government; and upon the receipt by the Surveyor-General of the plans and field notes, and his approval thereof, a patent shall issue to the claimant. Priority of discovery shall not in all cases give the right to acquire if the original discoverer has failed to comply with the government regulations, but the first discoverer shall in all cases be entitled if he can prove possession by demarcation in the manner prescribed.

No more than one location shall be granted to any individual on the same lode or vein, or in the same locality, but any number of locations may be had by purchase.

V. ABANDONMENT:

A claim shall be deemed abandoned when the same shall have remained unworked on working days, by the grantee thereof, for seventy-two hours, unless good cause be shown or unless the grantee is absent on leave. The agent in each district shall declare the close season, and each holder of a mining location or a grant for placer diggings shall be entitled to suspend work thereon during such close season. The agent may grant leave of absence pending the settlement of disputes, or where there is insufficiency of water. The Superintendent of Mines may also grant leave of absence for one year, upon satisfactory proof that the miner has expended at least two hundred dollars on his location without any return of gold or other minerals in reasonable quantities for such expenditure.

VI. ASSIGNMENT:

An assignment of the right to purchase a mining location shall be indorsed upon the back, and the execution thereof attested by two disinterested witnesses. Upon the deposit of such receipt or certificate with the agent, accompanied by a fee of two dollars, the agent shall give to the assignee a certificate which shall entitle the assignee to all the rights and privileges of the original discoverer in respect of the claim assigned. All assignments must be unconditional and executed strictly in accordance with the regulations.

VII. DISPUTES:

The Superintendent of Mines shall hear and determine all disputes in regard to mining property, subject to an appeal by either of the parties to the Commissioner of Crown Lands at Winnipeg.

No forms of procedure are necessary, but the complaint must be reduced to writing, and a copy served on the opposite party not less than seven days before the hearing. The complaint may be amended at any time by leave of the Superintendent of Mines. A bond fee of twenty dollars shall be deposited by the complainant at the time of filing his complaint, which shall be returned to him if he succeeds, but not otherwise. If the decision of the Superintendent of Mines is appealed from, a notice to that effect must be drawn up, stating the grounds of such appeal, and filed with the Superintendent of Mines not more than three days after his decision is communicated to the parties interested; and a bond fee of twenty dollars deposited with the agent at the same time, which will be returned to the appellant if successful, but not otherwise.

VIII. COAL LANDS:

Lands containing anthracite coal are sold at twenty dollars per acre; and coal other than anthracite at ten dollars per acre, cash; or they may be sold at public competition, if the Minister of the Interior shall so decide. Not more than three hundred and twenty acres may be sold to one applicant.

The minister may grant permission to prospect for coal for a period of sixty days on any single piece of land not exceeding three hundred and twenty acres in extent. The person to whom such permission to prospect is given shall within one month thereafter commence operations and carry on the same, continuing throughout the remainder of the period, and shall expend not less than two dollars per day from the time of commencement; such permission to become void if operations cease for one week. The Minister of the Interior may on application extend the time limited for prospecting.

If the lands be not included in any surveyed township, the applicant shall stake out the same by placing at each angle or corner a stake or post four inches square and standing not less than four feet above the ground, and on each post he shall inscribe his name and the angle represented thereby, thus: "A. B. N. E. corner," or as the case may be; and with his application he shall forward to the Minister of the Interior, a map or sketch of the land as staked out, specifying metes and bounds, and showing thereon the best information in his power respecting the same; and all boundaries so staked out shall be due north and south and east and west lines, and the length thereof shall not exceed twice the breadth.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

No estate of inheritance or freehold, declaration or limitation of use, or estate above seven years shall pass or take effect unless the deed conveying the same shall be acknowledged before some one of the following officers:

If acknowledged in the county or city within which the real estate or any part of it lies, the acknowledgment may be made before either a justice of the peace for such city or county, a judge of the Orphans' Court of such county or city, a judge of the Circuit Court for the county, a judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, or a notary public.

If acknowledged within the State, but out of the county or city wherein the real estate or any part of it lies, such acknowledgment may be made before a notary public, any judge of the Circuit Court for the circuit in which the grantor may be, any judge of the Orphans' Court for the county in which the grantor may be, any judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, or any judge of the Orphans' Court of said city, or any justice of the peace for the county or city where the grantor may be at the time of the acknowledgment, the official character of the justice being certified to by the clerk of the Circuit or Superior Court under his official seal.

If acknowledged without the State, but within the United States, the acknowledgment may be made before either a notary public, a judge of any court of the United States, a judge of any court of any state or territory having a seal, or a commissioner of this State to take acknowledgments of deeds.

If acknowledged without the United States, the acknowledgment may be made before either any minister, consul-general, consul, deputy consul, vice-consul, consular agents or consular officer of the United States, or any notary public, or a commissioner of this State to take acknowledgments of deeds.

The certificate of acknowledgment may be indorsed or annexed to the deed, and it must contain: 1. The name of the person making the acknowledgment. 2. The official style of the officer taking the acknowledgment. 3. The time when it was taken. 4. A statement that the grantor acknowledged the deed to be his act, or made an acknowledgment to the like effect. ("VIII. Deeds.")

Any corporation may acknowledge any deed which such corporation has the power to make, by attorney, appointed by such corporation under the seal thereof, and such appointment may be embodied in the deed.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens, not enemies, may take and hold lands, tenements and hereditaments acquired by purchase, or to which they would, if citizens, be entitled by descent; and may sell, devise or dispose of the same, or transmit the same to their heirs, as fully and effectually and in the same manner as if by birth they were citizens of this State.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

The assignee of any judgment, bond specialty or other

those in action for the payment of money, or any legacy or distributive share of the estate of a deceased person bona fide entitled thereto, by an assignment in writing, signed by the person authorized to make the same, may by virtue of such an assignment maintain an action or issue an execution in his own name against the debtor therein named, in the same manner as the assignor might have done before the assignment. Any defendant may make the same legal or equitable defenses as might or could have been had or maintained against the assignor at the time of such assignment and before notice thereof, and to the same extent.

Every trustee to whom any estate, real, personal or mixed, shall be limited or conveyed for the benefit of creditors, or to be sold for any other purpose, shall file with the clerk of the court in which the deed or instruments creating the trusts may be recorded, a bond in such penalty as the clerk may prescribe, being as nearly as can be ascertained double the amount of the whole trust estate; and with sureties, to be approved by the clerk, conditioned for the faithful performance of the trust reposed in such trustee, which bond shall be retained and recorded in the office of said clerk; but when the sale is to be made in a contingency, no bond need be given until the contingency happens. No title shall pass to any trustee until such bond shall be filed and approved as aforesaid; and no sale made by any such trustee, without such bond, shall be valid to pass any title to such property or estate, or of real and personal property. Of real property situate partly in the county or city in which the grantor resides, and partly in one or more other counties, it shall be sufficient that a bond has been accepted and filed in the county of the grantor's residence. If the trust estate consists entirely of real estate in a county or counties other than of the grantor's residence, it shall be sufficient that a bond has been accepted and filed in the county in which the deed has been first recorded. ("XIV. Insolvency.")

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Every person and every body corporate that has the right to become a plaintiff in any action or proceeding before any judicial tribunal in this State shall have the right to become a plaintiff in an attachment against a non-resident of this State, or against a person absconding.

Every person who does not reside in this State, and every person who absconds may be made a defendant; and any corporation not chartered by this State, or any corporation chartered by this State but not having the president or a majority of the directors or managers thereof residing in this State, may be made a defendant, as other non-residents.

Any person secretly removing himself from his place of abode, with intent to evade payment of his debts, or to injure or defraud his creditors, may be considered as having absconded, and an averment in the oath of the plaintiff against a person as having absconded is a sufficient proof of such conduct.

Before attachment can issue, the plaintiff must produce the bond, account or other evidence of debt, and make affidavit before any officer having authority to take acknowledgments that the debtor is indebted in the amount claimed, over and above all discounts; also that he knows or is credibly informed and verily believes that the debtor is not a citizen of this State, and that he doth not reside therein, or if the debtor resides in this State, that he doth know or is credibly informed and verily believes that the said debtor hath absconded. The affidavit may be made by the creditor or one of them, where there are more than one, or by his or their agent; by the president, cashier or other officer of a corporation; by any executor or administrator; by the guardian of an infant, or the infant himself; by the husband of a feme covert, or committee of a lunatic.

The attachment issues against the lands, tenements, goods, chattels and credits of the debtor, upon making the affidavit, and producing the proofs of same before the clerk of the court when said affidavit is not made before him, and there issues at the same time a writ of summons against the defendant, with a copy of the short note or declaration expressing the cause of action. Any kind of property or credits belonging to the defendant, in the plaintiff's own hands or in the hands of anyone else, may be attached, and credits may be attached which shall not then be due. Money may be attached.

Proceedings by attachment are authorized in the following cases, upon the conditions and in the manner provided: Before any such writ of attachment shall be issued, the plaintiff or some person in his behalf shall make an affidavit before the clerk of the court from which said attachment shall issue, or before some officer authorized by the laws of the State of Maryland to take affidavits.

After issuing an attachment as above, the clerk shall take from the plaintiff or some person on his behalf a bond to the State of Maryland, with security to be approved by said clerk, in double the sum alleged to be due, conditioned for satisfying all costs which may be awarded to such defendant or defendants, or any other persons interested in the proceedings, and all damages which the said defendant or defendants or any other persons interested in the proceedings shall suffer because of the wrongful suing out of said attachment. Every attachment issued without a bond and affidavit is declared to be illegal and void, and shall be dismissed.

Although the debt or obligation upon which the action is brought may not have matured, the creditor may nevertheless proceed by attachment, as heretofore provided, in the following cases: 1. When the debtor absconds. 2. When he has assigned, disposed of or concealed, or is about to assign, dispose of or conceal his property or some part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors. 3. When he is about to abscond from this State. 4. When he has fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which the action is brought; or, 5. When he has removed or is about to remove his property or some portions thereof out of this State, with intent to defraud his creditors. The date of maturity of the debt or obligation shall be set forth in the affidavit upon which the attachment is to issue, and the plaintiff shall not be entitled to judgment either in the short note or in the attachment case until after the maturity of the debt or obligation.

When two summonses have been returned non est against the defendant in any of the courts of law of this State, the plaintiff, upon proof of his claim as hereinbefore required, shall be entitled to an attachment, and the judge of the court where such action is pending shall order such attachment to issue, and the same proceedings shall be thereupon had as in attachments issued against absconding debtors.

Attachments on judgments or decrees by way of execution may be obtained against the lands, tenements, goods, chattels and credits of the defendant in the plaintiff's own hands or in the hands of any other person, which attachment shall contain the clause of scire facias required in an attachment against a non-resident or absconding debtor.

No attachment of the wages or hire of any laborer or employe in the hands of the employer, whether private individuals or bodies corporate, shall affect any salary or wages of the debtor which are not actually due at the date of the attachment, and the sum of one hundred dollars of such wages or hire due to any laborer or employe by any employer or corporation shall always be exempt from attachment by any process whatever. The wages or hire of non-residents shall be subject to attachment in the same manner and to no larger extent than the wages or hire of residents.

Attachments may also be issued against non-resident or absconding debtors in cases arising ex contractu, where the damages are unliquidated, and in actions for wrongs independent of contract, upon filing a declaration setting out specially and in detail the breach of contract complained of, or the tort actually committed, verified by the affidavit of the plaintiff or some one on his behalf, and a bond similar to that required in cases of attachments on original process for fraud, the practice and pleadings conforming in all other particulars to the practice and pleadings against non-resident and absconding debtors in actions ex contractu for liquidated damages.

The plaintiff may have more than one attachment to be laid in the hands of different persons, or levied on other property or effects than that taken under the first, though the first be still outstanding, provided that but one satisfaction of the debt or demand shall be made. Where property is attached which may be claimed by a person or corporation other than the defendant, the claimant, upon filing a petition setting forth the origin and character of such claim, and establishing its validity, may recover his costs and damages for the wrong and injury done him; and upon a bond being filed by or on behalf of such claimant, in a penalty double the value of the property, the same will be discharged from the levy and surrendered to the party in possession thereof when attached.

Creditors first attaching have priority. Where garnishee fails to appear and plead, plaintiff must prove his case before judgment of condemnation nisi is made absolute.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

No administrator shall discharge any claim against his decedent, otherwise than at his own risk, unless the same be first passed by the Orphans' Court granting the administration, or unless the said claim be proved according to the following rules:

The voucher or proof of a judgment or decree shall be a short copy thereof, under seal, attested and certified by the clerk of the court where it was obtained. There shall likewise be a certificate of some person authorized to administer an oath endorsed on or annexed to a statement of the debt due on such judgment or decree, that the creditor, since the death of the deceased, hath taken before him an oath "that he hath not received any part of the sum for which the judgment or decree was passed, except such part (if any) as is credited;" and if the creditor on the judgment or decree be an assignee of the person who obtained it, he must further make oath "that to the best of his knowledge or belief no other person hath received any parcel of the said sum, except such part (if any) as is credited;" and an assignee shall also produce the assignment under the hand of the assignor, and if there be more than one, said assignment shall be produced under the hand of the party.

If there be more than one creditor, the whole oath, with the other vouchers, shall be sufficient. In case of a specialty, bond, note or protested bill of exchange, the voucher shall be the instrument of writing itself, or a proved copy in case it be lost, with a certificate of the oath made as aforesaid since the death.

If the creditor on such instrument be an assignee, there shall be the same oath of the original creditor with respect to the time of each respective assignment; and in case of successive assignees there shall be the same oath taken by each with respect to the time of each respective assignment. In case of a bill of exchange, the protest and other things which would be required (if the deceased were alive) shall be necessary to justify an executor or administrator in making payment or distribution.

The vouchers or proofs of any claim on open account shall be a certificate of an oath taken by the creditor since the death, substantially as before given, and endorsed on or annexed to the account. Where the account does not exceed fifty dollars, the oath of the creditor will be sufficient, and the affidavit may be made by one of several plaintiffs, or by their agent, if all are absent from the State, or by the agent of a corporation or partnership, the person making such affidavit stating therein that he is such agent, and that he has personal knowledge of the matters therein stated, which affidavit shall be prima facie evidence of said partnership and of the persons composing the same; and when made by a person alleging himself to be a charter officer of a corporation, shall be prima facie evidence of its incorporation.

It is not considered to be the duty of an administrator to avail himself of the Act of Limitations to bar what he supposes to be a just claim; nor is he obliged to discharge any claim of which vouchers and proof are exhibited, but may reject the same; and in no case shall an order of the Orphans' Court that an account or claim will pass when paid be deemed of validity to establish such claim or account. An administrator shall pay all just claims known to him, or to each claimant his just proportion of the money then in his hands, within thirteen months from the date of his letters, or within such further time, not exceeding four months longer, as shall be allowed by the Orphans' Court; and where a claim is known to exist, the amount thereof or a proportional part may be retained, etc. No administrator is answerable for any claim of which he had no notice, provided at least six months before he makes distribution he publishes a notice in as many newspapers as the Orphans' Court shall direct, warning all persons having claims against the decedent to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof, legally authenticated, on or before a date specified.

After claims for taxes, rent in arrears, for which a distress may be levied, judgments and decrees, all other just claims shall be on an equal footing without priority or preference.

VI. COURTS:

The judicial power is vested in a Court of Appeals, Circuit Courts for the counties, and Orphans' Courts; and for the City of Baltimore, in the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, consisting of the Superior Court, Court of Common Pleas, Baltimore City Court (law courts), the Circuit Court, Circuit Court No. 2 (equity courts), Criminal Court, and the Orphans' Court. These foregoing are courts of record. (Const., Art. 4, Sec. 1.) Jurisdiction in certain cases is also vested in justices of the peace.

The Court of Appeals has appellate jurisdiction only, and its decisions are final, except in such cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, in which an appeal is given to the Supreme Court of the United States. The regular terms are the second Monday in January and the first Mondays in April and October in each year, and the sittings are at Annapolis.

The Supreme Bench of Baltimore City is composed of a chief judge and six associate judges, who are assigned respectively to the Sperior Court of Baltimore City, Court of Common Pleas, Baltimore City Court, Circuit Court, the Circuit Court No. 2, and the Criminal Court of Baltimore. The Supreme Bench sits in banco to hear motions for new trials in criminal cases, to pass upon applications for admission to practice as attorney at law, and exercises a supervisory jurisdiction over the several courts of Baltimore City.

The Superior Court, Court of Common Pleas, and Baltimore City Court have concurrent jurisdiction in all civil common-law cases, except that exclusive jurisdiction is conferred upon the Court of Common Pleas in cases of insolvency, and upon the Baltimore City Court in cases of appeals from justices of the peace.

The Circuit Court and Circuit Court No. 2 have concurrent jurisdiction in equity, but not in applications for the writ of habeas corpus in the case of persons charged with criminal offenses.

The Circuit Courts for the several counties are the highest common-law courts of record and original jurisdiction within this State, and each has full common-law powers and jurisdiction in all civil and criminal cases within its county. As courts of equity they shall be deemed and taken to be always open for the transaction of business therein. The several regular terms of said courts for the return of process and other practical purposes shall be of two months' duration, and shall commence in the counties on the first Mondays of January, March, May, July, September and November of each year. (In Baltimore City the terms commence on the second Monday instead of the first.) (See Art. 16, Sec. 117, Code Public General Laws, and Chap. 424, Acts of 1890.) Process to compel appearance may be made returnable on the first or second Monday (as the case may be) of the ensuing month. (Art. 16, Sec. 121, Code Public General Laws.)

The Orphans' Courts of Baltimore City and of the several counties have full power to take probate of wills, grant letters testamentary and of administration, direct the conduct and settle the accounts of executors and administrators, superintend the distribution of the estates of intestates, secure the rights of orphans and legatees, and to administer justice in all matters relative to the affairs of deceased persons. (Art. 93, Sec. 230, Public General Laws.) They also have full power, authority and jurisdiction to examine, hear and decree upon all accounts, claims and demands existing between wards and their guardians; and between legatees or persons entitled to any distributive share of an intestate's estate, and executors and administrators; and may enforce obedience to and execution of their decrees in the same ample manner as the courts of equity.

The civil jurisdiction of justices of the peace extends to all cases for the enforcement of contracts, to obtain redress for wrongs, and to suits on bonds, actions of replevin, attachment against non-resident and absconding debtors, where the amount involved does not exceed one hundred dollars, and other cases of attachment. (Art. 9, Sec. 35. See "IV. Attachments." Art. 52, Sec. 6, Code Public General Laws.) Also they have no jurisdiction in cases where the title to land is involved, nor in actions for slander, for breach of promise to marry, or to enforce any lien for work done or materials furnished. Their jurisdiction extends to cases where administrators are parties, plaintiff or defendant, except that no administrator can be sued before a justice within twelve months of the date of his letters, or within three months in Baltimore City. (Chap. 619, Acts of 1892.) In cases where the amount involved exceeds the sum of fifty dollars, the Circuit Courts for the counties have concurrent jurisdiction with the justices.

VIII. DEEDS:

All deeds conveying real estate, which shall contain the names of the grantor and grantee, or bargainor and bargainee, a consideration in cases where a consideration is necessary to the validity of a deed, and a description of the real estate sufficient to identify the same, and the interest or estate intended thereby to be conveyed, with a reasonable certainty, shall be sufficient, if executed and acknowledged as required by law, and duly recorded within the time fixed by law.

Every deed conveying real estate shall be signed and sealed by the grantor and attested by at least one witness, a scroll seal being sufficient. No separate examination is required in the case of married women.

Deeds must be recorded within six months from date, in the county or city in which the land lies, and where it lies in more than one county, or in the city of Baltimore and a county, they must be recorded in the several counties and said city in which the land lies. Every deed of real property, when acknowledged and recorded as directed, takes effect, as between the parties thereto, from its date.

Where there are two or more deeds conveying the same lands or chattels real, the deed or deeds which shall be first recorded according to law shall be preferred, if made bona fide and upon good and valuable consideration. This applies to all deeds of mortgage, and to all other deeds or conveyances to the validity of which recording is necessary.

No words of inheritance are necessary to create an estate in fee simple, but every conveyance of real estate shall be construed to pass a fee simple estate unless a contrary intention shall appear by express terms, or be necessarily implied therein. The word "grant" in a deed is sufficient to convey the whole interest and estate of the grantor, and the words "bargain and sell" are sufficient in a bill of sale or mortgage of personal property.

(Art. 21, Code Public General Laws.) No estate of in heritance or freehold, or any declaration or limitation of use, or any estate above seven years, shall pass or take effect unless the deed conveying the same shall be executed, acknowledged and recorded as herein provided; and all such deeds shall be acknowledged. Any unmarried woman between eighteen and twenty-one years of age shall have power to make a deed of trust of her property, real, personal or mixed, provided the same shall be approved and sanctioned by a court having equity jurisdiction in the city or county where the grantor resides, upon the petition of the said grantor, and such proof as the said court in its direction may require. (Chap. 210, Acts of 1898. See title "Acknowledgments.")

A power of attorney authorizing an agent or attorney to sell and convey any real estate shall be attested and acknowledged in the same manner as a deed, and recorded with the deed executed in pursuance of such power. The person executing a deed as agent or attorney must describe himself in and sign the deed as agent or attorney.

Any bond, writing obligatory, or contract for the conveyance of real estate, or any interest of, in or relating to real estate, or for the leasing or demising of real estate for any term of years, may be executed, acknowledged and recorded in the same manner as are deeds.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Commissions for taking the testimony of witnesses residing beyond the limits of this State, to be used in the law and equity courts, may be issued by the respective clerk of the court in which such testimony is desired. The commissioners may be agreed upon by the parties, or they may agree upon one commissioner; otherwise either party may enter on the docket a motion for a commission to be issued to two persons named in said motion, and unless the opposite party shall name as commissioners on his behalf two other persons, within ten days after service of a copy of said motion, a commission will be issued to the two persons named. If the party served names to commissioners, each party may strike out the name of one from the two named by the other; or if either party neglects to strike, the court will strike for him, and the commission will issue to the two remaining commissioners.

The parties have a right to be present at the execution of a commission, and to reasonable notice of the time and place, but they may agree to dispense with such notice, and the witnesses may be examined on interrogatories annexed to the commission. In the latter case, the party asking for the commission, and before taking out the same, must file his interrogatories and serve a copy of the same on the opposite party, who must, within ten days, file cross-interrogatories, and also interrogatories for the witnesses proposed to be examined on his part. Copies of all such interrogatories and cross-interrogatories shall be annexed to the commission, and the examination shall be limited to the same and to the witnesses named therein. The carriage of the commission is entrusted to the party applying therefor, and he will be held responsible for the return thereof, which should be within thirty days. Several commissions may issue for the examination of witnesses in different places.

In addition, the testimony of non-resident witnesses may be taken by either party to any case in any court of this State, or before any justice of the peace of this State, upon giving notice of not less than five days to the opposite party of the time and place, when and where, the testimony of such non-resident witnesses is proposed to be taken, and the name of the commissioner, notary public, or justice of the peace before whom the same is proposed to be taken, together with the names of the witnesses proposed to be examined. The deposition of any such witnesses taken pursuant to such notice, signed by such and duly certified by the officer taking the same, under his hand and seal, shall be admitted as evidence at the trial of the case, as fully to all intents and purposes as if the same had been taken under a commission. The parties may dispense with formal notice of time, place, name of officer, etc., and by agreement provide for the taking of such depositions. (Art. 35, Sec. 16, Code Public General Laws.)

X. DESCENT:

If any person seized of an estate in lands, tenements or hereditaments lying in this State, in fee simple or fee simple conditional, or of an estate in fee tail general, shall die intestate thereof, such lands, tenements or hereditaments shall descend in fee simple in the following order: To the child or children and their descendants, if any, equally. If no child of descendant, and the estate descended to the intestate on the part of the father, then to the father. If no father living, then to the intestate's brothers and sisters of the blood of the father, and their descendants, equally. If no brother or sister or descendant from such brother or sister, then to the paternal ancestry and descendants of such, equally. If none such living then to the maternal ancestry and descendants thereof in each degree equally. If no paternal ancestor or descendant from such ancestor, then to the mother of the intestate. If no mother living, then to the maternal ancestry and descendants thereof in each degree, equally.

If the estate descended to the intestate on the part of the mother, and the intestate shall die without any child or descendant, then the estate shall go to the mother. If no mother living then to the intestate's brothers and sisters of the blood of the mother and their descendants in equal degree equally, then to the maternal male ancestry and descendants thereof in each degree equally.

If no such maternal ancestor as aforesaid, or descendant from any maternal ancestor, then to the father of the intestate. If no father living, to his descendants in equal degree, equally. If no father living or descendant from the father, then to the paternal ancestors and their descendants, in the same manner as hereinbefore directed as to the maternal ancestors.

If the estate shall be vested in the intestate by purchase, or shall descend to or vest in the intestate in any other manner than hereinbefore mentioned, and if there be no child or descendant of such intestate, then the estate shall descend to the brothers and sisters of such intestate of the whole blood, and their descendants in equal degree equally; failing these, to those of the half blood; thereafter to the father, mother, grandfather on the part of the father, descendants of such grandfather in equal degree, equally; and failing such grandfather, to the maternal ancestry, ad infinitum. (See Art. 46, Code P. G. L.)

XI. EXECUTIONS:

On all judgments or decrees in any court of law or equity, and on all judgments of justices of the peace recorded in the clerk's office of any court of law, an execution or attachment may issue out of such court or by the clerk thereof at any time within twelve years from the date of the judgment or decree.

In case of the death of a plaintiff, his executor or administrator may be made a party, and have execution or attachment, and in case of marriage of a female plaintiff, she may upon proper suggestion of the marriage, have execution or attachment in her new name; and in case of death or marriage of defendant, plaintiff upon proper suggestion of such death or marriage, may have execution or attachment against defendant still living, and at any time before the expiration of twelve years the plaintiff may have the writ of scire facias to renew or revive said judgments. ("XII. Exemptions.") Art. 26, Code, P. G. L., Sec. 20, Chap. 114, Acts of 1892.

Upon all judgments rendered at the second term after defendant has been summoned, a stay of execution is allowed until the first Thursday of the ensuing term, with privilege of superseding same, right of appeal or writ of error after the expiration of said stay. (This applies to the counties only.) In Baltimore City, execution may issue at any time after the rendition of judgment, or on judgments by default, when extended according to law. On judgments of justices of the peace execution may issue forthwith, unless superseded. Execution may be stayed by supersedeas with security for six months.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

One hundred dollars' worth of property of each defendant therein shall be exempt from execution issued on any judgment in any civil proceeding whatever, except on judgments for breach of promise to marry or for seduction. Defendant may select property, real or personal, to the value of one hundred dollars, to be ascertained by appraisers summoned and sworn by the officer at the time of levying the execution. All wearing apparel; mechanical text books, and books of professional men; tools of mechanics; and all tools or other mechanical instruments necessary to the practice of any trade or profession, shall be exempt from execution in addition to the property hereinbefore exempted; not to apply to books, tools, mechanical instruments or appliances kept for sale or barter.

Exemptions enumerated do not impair the lien of any vendor for the purchase money of land, nor of any mortgagee, nor of any mechanic or other person, for any debt contracted for or in aid of the erection of any building, nor do they apply to any levy for non-payment of taxes, or to any persons except actual bona fide residents of Maryland. A defendant may, however, waive his claim to exemption in an original contract or cause of action or by subsequent contract in writing.

A chose in action or other intangible property cannot be taken in execution. Equitable interests in personalty may be reached by proceedings in equity, after the return of writ of execution at law.

There is no homestead exemption.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent per annum. No plea of usury is available against any legal or equitable assignee or holder of any bond, bill, note or other negotiable instrument where such assignee, endorsee, or holder shall have received the same for a bona fide and legal consideration, without notice of any usury in the creation or subsequent assignment thereof.

The penalty for usury is a forfeiture of all the excess above the real sum or value of the goods or chattels actually lent or advanced, and the legal interest on such sum or value. Usury is not a cause of action in any case where the evidence of indebtedness has been redeemed or settled in money or other valuable consideration, except that of a renewal in whole or in part of the original indebtedness.

XIV. INSOLVENCY:

Voluntary: Any person being insolvent may apply for his discharge in insolvency, by petition to the Circuit Court for the county where he resides, or to the Court of Common Pleas if he resides in Baltimore City, stating that he is insolvent, and offering to deliver up for the benefit of his creditors all his property real and personal, at the same time exhibiting a schedule of his property, and a list of the debts due from and owing to him, with the names of his debtors and creditors, and their respective places of business or residence, so far as known to him, verified by affidavit. He must also annex to said petition an affidavit that he will deliver up to such trustee as may be appointed all his property, etc. (the necessary wearing apparel and bedding of himself and family and such property as may by law be exempt from execution excepted), and that he has not at any time sold, lessened, transferred or disposed of any part of his money or other property for the use or benefit of any person; or intrusted any part of his money or other property, debts, rights or claims, thereby intending to delay or defraud his creditors or any of them; or to secure the same so as to receive or expect to receive any profit, benefit or advantage himself therefrom; always provided, that said applicant has at no time within two years previously been discharged under any insolvent law of this State.

The court will then appoint a preliminary trustee, who is required to give bond, etc., to whom the insolvent must immediately convey all his property of every kind; and all the property rights and claims of the insolvent will vest in such trustee; who is required to give due notice to the creditors of the proceedings, and to call a meeting within not less than five or more than ten days to choose a permanent trustee. At such meeting the creditors having proven their claims, elect a permanent trustee, who, upon giving bond, is vested with all such estate, property rights, etc., and the same must be conveyed to him by the preliminary trustee. The creditors may also propound to the debtor at such meeting any interrogatories touching his property, and the disposition of the same; his indebtedness; the judgments and suits against him, and as to any matter relating to his business, to be answered by him under oath to be administered by the clerk or deputy clerk.

If the proceedings are determined in favor of the insolvent, he is discharged from all debts and contracts made before the filing of his petition, which extends to all cases where he is endorser or surety. The estate of the insolvent is distributed by the court according to the principles of equity, and no creditor shall acquire a lien by fieri facias or attachment, unless the same be levied before the filing of his petition.

No deed or conveyance executed, or lien created by any banker, stock broker, merchant, manufacturer or trader being insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, save as hereinafter provided, shall be lawful or valid if the same shall contain any preferences save such as result from operation of law, and those for wages or salaries to clerks, servants, and employes, contracted not more than three months anterior to the execution thereof; and all preferences, with the exceptions aforesaid, shall be void, howsoever the same may be made; provided the grantor shall be proceeded against, or shall apply for the benefit of the law within four months, and shall be declared or become an insolvent under the provisions of the law. (Art. 47, Sec. 14, P. G. L., Chap. 364, Acts of 1890.)

Involuntary: Any person who shall depart from or remain absent from this State with intent to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors, or conceal himself to avoid service upon him in any action for the recovery of a debt; and any person who conceals or removes any of his property to prevent the same from being taken under legal process; or makes an assignment, gift, sale, conveyance or transfer of all or part of his estate or property, with intent to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors; or belonging to any of the classes mentioned in Sec. 14 (ante) of this article, when insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, executes a deed or conveyance giving preferences, creates a lien making any unlawful preferences, or otherwise makes such preferences; or, belonging to the said classes, when insolvent or in contemplation of insolvency, confesses any judgment or allows any judgment to be entered against him by any connivance, or fraudulently stops or suspends payment of his negotiable paper and fails to renew payment thereof within twenty days; or, being a banker or broker, shall fail for twenty days to pay any depositor on demand lawfully made, shall be deemed to have committed an act or acts of insolvency, as the case may be; provided, the petition against him is filed within four months after the act of insolvency is committed.

Such petition may be filed by any one or more creditors the aggregate of whose claims amount to at least two hundred and fifty dollars, and should set forth the facts upon which the application is grounded, pray for process, etc., and an adjudication of insolvency, and be verified by the affidavit of petitioner, whereupon a summons issues against the debtor to show cause, etc., within not less than five nor more than ten days; and the proceedings thereafter are substantially the same as in cases of voluntary application. (Art. 47, Sec. 23, P. G. L.)

The provisions of the insolvent law apply to co-partnerships, but not to married women or corporations. By Chap. 568, Acts of 1894, deeds of trust for the benefit of creditors are not to be affected or impaired by the provisions of the insolvent law, if bona fide, and the trustee may administer the trusts created by such deeds, and make distribution under the supervision of a court of equity, notwithstanding the grantor may apply for the benefit of or be proceeded against under the insolvent law.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of a court of record, or of a justice of the peace, if recorded, become a lien upon the real property of the defendant in the county wherein the judgment was rendered, and said lien continues for twelve years. (Chap. 114, Acts of 1890.)

In order to acquire a lien upon personal property, it is necessary to issue a writ of execution, when the lien will attach from the delivery of the writ into the hands of the sheriff.

A judgment may be made a lien in a county other than where rendered by recording in such county a certified copy of the docket entries, and if execution is desired at the same time, by sending a writ of fieri facias directed to the sheriff, with such docket entries. (Chap. 314, Acts of 1890. See "IV. Attachments.")

XVI. LIENS:

Every building erected, and every building repaired, rebuilt or improved to the extent of one-fourth its value is subject to a lien for the payment of all debts contracted for work done or materials furnished for or about the same, and if a building is commenced and not finished, the lien will attach to the extent of the work done or materials furnished. The lien is not waived by granting credit, or receiving notes or other security, the effect thereof being only to prevent the institution of proceedings to enforce the lien until the expiration of the time agreed upon. The lien extends to the ground covered by the building and to so much other ground immediately adjacent thereto, and belonging to the owner of the building, as may be necessary for the ordinary and useful purposes of such building.

Where a building is erected by a lessee or tenant for life or years, or by an architect, builder or other person employed by the lessee or tenant, the lien will only apply to the extent of interest of the latter.

If said building is erected on a lot belonging to a married woman by her husband, or some person employed by him, notice in writing to such married woman must be given within sixty days after doing the work or furnishing the materials, and if the contract for work or materials is made with any person other than the owner of the lot, or his agent, a similar notice must be given within sixty days of an intention to claim such lien.

The lien is preferred to all mortgages, judgments, liens and incumbrances which attach upon the building or grounds, subsequently to the commencement thereof, and such liens are postponed unless recorded prior to the commencement of the building.

In order to establish such lien, the claimant must file a statement of his claim in the Circuit Court for the county, or the Superior Court of Baltimore City, setting forth: 1. The names of the party claimant, the owner or reputed owner of the building, and the contractor or architect, or builder; when the contract was made by the claimant with such contractor, architect or builder. 2. The amount or sum claimed to be due; the nature of kind of work, or the kind and amount of materials furnished; and the time when the materials were furnished or the work done. 3. The locality of the building, the number and size of the stories of the same, or such other matters of description as may be necessary to identify the same. If the claim is against several buildings, the amount claimed against each must be designated. The claim must be filed within six months from the time the last work was done or materials furnished, and will expire in five years, but may be renewed by scire facias. The lien also applies to every machine, wharf and bridge erected, constructed or repaired, as well as to all boats and vessels, and will expire in cases of boats and vessels at the end of two years.

The proceedings to enforce mechanics' liens are by bill in equity for sale and distribution, or by writ of scire facias. (Art. 63, Code. P. G. L.)

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

All actions of account, assumpsit, or on the case, for injuries to real or personal property, debt on simple contract, detinue or replevin, for illegal arrest, false imprisonment, etc., must be commenced within three years from the time the cause of action accrued.

All actions on the case for words, actions of assault and battery, and wounding, etc., within one year.

All actions on bonds, judgments, or other specialty must be brought within twelve years.

If the person entitled to such action is within twenty one years of age, or non compos, the right is given to bring such action after the disability is removed; if not because plaintiff is or was a femme couvert, imprisoned or beyond the seas, or out of the jurisdiction this State at the time of the accruement of the right, title or cause of action. (See Chap. 661, Acts of 1894.) Where a party has been kept in ignorance by fraud of the adverse party, the right to bring suit shall be deemed to have first accrued at the time at which such fraud shall or with usual or ordinary diligence might have been known or discovered.

Twenty years adverse possession gives title to land. Actions to set aside conveyances from husband to wife as creditors of the husband, must be brought within three years.

XVIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

The property, real and personal, belonging to a woman at the time of her marriage, and all property which she may acquire or receive after her marriage, by purchase, gift, grant, devise, bequest, descent, in a course of distribution, or in any other manner, shall be protected from the debts of her husband, and not in any way be liable for the payment thereof; provided that no acquisition of property passing to the wife from the husband after coverture, shall be valid if the same has been made or granted to her in prejudice of the rights of his subsisting creditors, who, however, must assert their claims within three years after the acquisition of the property by the wife, or be absolutely barred, and for the purpose of asserting their rights, claims of creditors of the husband not yet due and matured, shall be considered as due and matured. (Chap. 267, Acts of 1892.)

The property acquired or owned by a married woman shall hold for her separate use, with power of devising the same as fully as if she were a femme sole. If she die intestate, leaving children, the husband has a life estate in her property real and personal; if no children, he takes a life estate in her real property and the personal property absolutely. She may be sued jointly with her husband, on any note, bill, bond, contract or agreement which she may have executed jointly with her husband. (Chap. 284, Acts of 1890.)

Any married woman, who by her skill, industry or personal labor, shall earn any money, or other property, real, personal or mixed, shall hold the same and the fruits, increase, and profits thereof, to her sole and separate use, with power as a femme sole, to invest, re-invest, devise, bequeath, sell and dispose of the same; provided such money or property shall be liable for the payment of any claim or debt incurred by such married woman in and about the business, occupation or enterprise in which said money or other property shall be employed or invested; and for any such debts she may be sued as if she were a femme sole, and any such property may be taken in execution, to satisfy any judgment entered on such cause of action; provided, that the husband shall have the right to appear and defend in her name and no judgment shall be entered in any such suit without proof, unless by joint consent in writing of herself and husband; and provided further, that any married woman may sue in any court of law or equity, upon any cause of action in her own name, as if she were a femme sole. She may insure the life of her husband, and the policy becoming due and payable, may receive the amount for her own use free from the claims of the representatives of her husband, or his creditors.

Any married woman having arrived at the age of eighteen years, may convey her real or personal property, if her husband joins in the conveyance, whether the conveyance be absolute or by way of mortgage; and she may execute and acknowledge any deed, mortgage or bill of sale, or other instrument of writing, in the same manner as other grantors or bargainors, without any private examination or other ceremony; and she may at whatever age, relinquish her dower in any real estate by the joint deed of herself and husband, or by her separate deed. (Chap. 326, Acts of 1894.)

The husband is not liable for his wife's debts before marriage. The wife may bind herself in deeds relating to real estate or chattels real, by covenant, as if a femme sole.

XIX. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages shall be executed, acknowledged and recorded, as absolute deeds of the same interest are required to be executed, etc. No mortgage shall be valid except as between the parties, unless there be an oath or affirmation endorsed thereon of the mortgagee that the consideration in said mortgage is true and bona fide as therein set forth.

An assignment of a mortgage may be made and such assignment shall be recorded by the clerk at or near the foot of the original mortgage in a blank to be left for that purpose, and such assignment endorsed on the original mortgage, conveys to the assignee every right which the assignor possessed under said mortgage at the time of the assignment.

A release of a mortgage may be written by the mortgagee or his assignee upon the record in the office where the mortgage is recorded, and attested by the clerk; or such release may be endorsed on the original mortgage and filed with the clerk for record at the foot of the mortgage, when the same will be retained in the clerk's office and not allowed to be withdrawn. Such release may also be made by an executor or assignee under a series of assignments.

Bills of sale and mortgages of personal property are to be executed, acknowledged and recorded in like manner as deeds of real estate. Bills of sale and mortgages of personalty must, however, be recorded within twenty days from the date thereof in the county or city in which the vendor resides, but if the vendor resides out of his State, then in the county or city where the property is located. Mortgages of personal property shall be valid and take effect, except as between parties thereto, only from the time of recording, and in case of more than one mortgage, the one first recorded has preference. They may be assigned and released in the same manner as mortgages of real property. No bill of sale or mortgage of personal property shall be valid except as between the parties thereto, unless the bargainee, or vendee, or mortgagee, or some one of them, or his agent, shall make the affidavit required to be made of mortgagees of real estate, and such affidavit may be made at any time before recording and before any person authorized to take the acknowledgment of such bill of sale or mortgage. Where a bill of sale, which according to the true intent of the parties thereto is a chattel mortgage, is taken on personal property upon the payment of the debts named in said bill of sale by the vendor, it shall be the duty of the vendee to release said bill of sale or re-transfer the property mentioned therein to the vendor, which may be endorsed on the original bill of sale, and the same returned to the record office, and the release of re-transfer entered on the record book, where the bill of sale is recorded, at the end of the record thereof; or the said release or re-transfer may be made in the presence of the clerk with his attestation thereto in the record book.

XX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Negotiable paper is regulated in this State by the law merchant. Bills, drafts or notes payable at sight or at presentation are deemed to be payable on demand without grace. (Art. 13, Code P. G. L.) Bills of lading, warehouse, elevator and storage receipts are negotiable instruments. (Art. 14, Code P. G. L.)

The following are legal holidays: January 1st, New Years' Day; February 22nd, Washington's Birthday; July 4th, Independence Day; December 25th, Christmas Day; Good Friday; May 30th, Decoration Day; all days of general and congressional elections throughout the State; all special days of thanksgiving, fasting and prayer, or other religious observance, appointed or recommended by the Governor of this State, or the President of the United States; and as regards presenting for payment, or acceptance, and protesting, and giving notice of dishonor of bills, checks, drafts and notes, are to be considered and treated as the first day of the week, Sunday. When either occur on Sunday the Monday next following is treated as a holiday, and in such case paper presentable on such Monday is deemed presentable on the Saturday preceding. (Art. 13, Code P. G. L.)

XXI. SUITS:

Suits are still as at common law, though simpler forms of pleading are used. Whatever facts are necessary to constitute the ground of action, defense or reply, as the case may be, shall be stated in the pleading and nothing more. Any declaration which contains a plain statement of the facts necessary to constitute a ground of action or any plea necessary to form a legal defense, shall be sufficient without reference to mere form. (Art. 75, Code P. G. L.)

The writ of summons applies to all actions for the recovery of money, whether founded in contract or in tort. The writ of ejectment applies to all actions for the specific recovery of real property. The writ of replevin applies to actions brought for the recovery of personal property.

Amendment of the pleadings is allowed at any time before the verdict, so that the case may be tried on its real merits and the purposes of justice subserved.

XXII. TAXES:

The law provides for the assessment and taxation of all property of every kind, nature and description within this State, except the same be exempted from taxation. (Art. 81, Code P. G. L.) No person who is not assessed to the amount of one hundred dollars is required to pay any tax, and there is no poll tax. The county commissioners of the several counties, and the mayor and city council of Baltimore City are required to make the annual levy of the State taxes.

All certificates of indebtedness or evidences of debts in whatever form, made or issued by any state, territory, county, public corporation or foreign country, shall be subject to valuation and assessment to the owners thereof in the county or city in which such owners may respectively reside.

Taxes are considered in arrears on the first day of January succeeding the date of their levy, and bear interest from that date at six per cent per annum. A tax of one-tenth of the commissions of executors and administrators, and a collateral inheritance tax of two and one-half per cent is also provided for. Collection may be enforced by sale.

XXIII. WILLS:

(Art. 93, Code P. G. L.) All lands, tenements and hereditaments which might pass by deed, or which would in case of the proprietor dying intestate, descend to or devolve on his or her heirs or other representatives, except estates tail; and all goods, chattels, monies, rights, credits, or personal property of any kind which might pass by bill of sale, assignment or delivery, shall be subject to be disposed of, transferred and passed, by his or her last will. (Sec. 307.)

It is required that the person making the will be of sound and disposing mind, and capable of executing a valid deed or contract. (Sec. 309.) Males must be twenty-one and females eighteen years of age. The will must be in writing, and signed by the party making the same, or by some other person for him in his presence and by his express direction, and must be attested and subscribed in his presence by two or more credible witnesses. (See 310.)

No will is revocable, otherwise than by some other will or codicil in writing, or other writing declaring the same; or by burning, canceling, tearing or obliterating the same; by the testator himself, or in his presence and by his direction and consent. (Sec. 311.) No nun-cupative will is valid, but any soldier in actual service, or mariner at sea, may thereby dispose of his movables, wages, etc. (Sec. 318.)

Every will or other testamentary instrument made out of this State shall be held to be valid in Maryland, if the same be made according to the forms required by the law of the place where the same was made, or by the law of the place where the testator was domiciled when the same was made; or according to the forms required by the law of this State; and if the testator was originally domiciled in Maryland, although at the time of making the will, or at the time of his death, domiciled elsewhere, the said will or testamentary instrument then so executed shall be admitted to probate in any Orphans' Court of this State, and when so admitted shall be governed by and construed and interpreted, according to the law of Maryland, without regard to the lex domicilii, unless the testator shall expressly declare a contrary intention in said will or testamentary instrument. (Sec. 319, Chap. 15, Acts of 1894.)

The Orphans' Courts, and in their recess the registers of wills, are authorized to take the probate of any will, testament or codicil, whether the same relates to real or personal estate or both. (Sec. 323.) No caveat will lie after three years from probate. Wills may be deposited with the register of wills in the Orphans' Court for safe keeping on payment of a fee of fifty cents, to be kept until death of testator unless withdrawn on his order and receipt given. (Sec. 340.)

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

(Art. 23, Code P. G. L.) Corporations may be formed in this State, for the purposes specified in the general law, by any five or more persons, citizens of the United States, and a majority of them citizens of this State, or if alien, residents of this State, making oath that they bona fide intend to become citizens of the United States without unreasonable delay. Corporations for purposes not specified in the law can only be created by the Legislature.

II. ORGANIZATION:

The incorporators are required to make, sign, seal and acknowledge before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, a certificate in writing in which shall be stated: 1. The names in full, and places of residence of the applicants. 2. The proposed corporate name of the corporation, which shall always include the name of the county or city in which it may be formed. 3. The objects or purposes for which incorporation is sought; the time of its existence, not to exceed forty years; and the articles, conditions and provisions under which it is formed. (By Chapter 557, Acts of 1894, the limitation of forty years does not apply to gas light companies, cemeteries, educational associations, universities, colleges, academies, hospitals or asylums, and they may provide for perpetual existence.) 4. The place or places where the operations of the corporation are to be carried on, and the place in this State in which the principal office of the corporation will be located. 5. The amount of capital stock (if any). (By Chapter 114, Acts of 1894, a bonus of one-eighth of one per cent on capital stock, must be paid the State, before the corporation can act, except by cemetery companies, benevolent and charitable companies, railway companies and building or homestead associations.) 6. The number of shares of stock (if any) and amount of each share. 7. The number of trustees, directors or managers, and their names, who shall manage the concerns of the corporation for the first year.

When the certificate is duly executed, it must be submitted to one of the judges of the judicial circuit within which the office of the corporation is located, if in one of the counties; or to a judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, if the principal office is in Baltimore City, for his certificate that the same is in conformity with the law. The certificate must then be recorded in the clerk's office of the County or Superior Court of Baltimore City. The persons therein named are thereupon a body politic and corporate by the name stated in the certificate, with the usual powers.

No corporation shall possess or exercise any corporate powers, except such as are conferred by law, and such as shall be necessary to the exercise of the powers so acquired.

III. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are liable under the general law to the creditors of the corporation to the extent of their unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock; but in case of safe deposit, trust, guaranty, loan and fidelity companies, etc., receiving money on deposit, or assuming obligations in this State, they are made liable to depositors and creditors for double the amount of stock at the par value, held by them in such corporation. (See Chapter 109, Acts of 1892.)

IV. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

All foreign corporations (except insurance companies) may do business in this State, and hold property therein. Process against them may be served on any agent or attorney. (Chapter 601, Acts of 1892.)

MINING.

I. MINING CORPORATIONS:

Corporations may be formed under the general laws for conducting any kind of mining business in this State, for selling or otherwise disposing of the products of said business where the principal office of said corporation is located in this State; for washing, dressing, smelting and otherwise preparing for and bringing to market and selling the ores of all kinds of metals; for opening and working quarries of marble, slate or other economic minerals or mineral substances in this State and for the transportation or exportation and sale thereof; and for operating petroleum, salt or other mineral springs.

The quantity of land which such corporations may hold is restricted to one thousand acres in Allegany county and five hundred acres in any other county.

Capital stock of such corporations may not exceed three million dollars, and the presence in person or by proxy of a majority in interest of the stockholders is required at business meetings. Ibid.

Under proper regulations such corporations may construct railroads with necessary appurtenances beginning at or near the mines or works and running to convenient points.

II. INSPECTION OF MINES:

Under local acts applicable to Allegany and Garrett counties, a mine inspector, appointed by the Governor, is required to make monthly inspection of mines in operation and to report annually to the Governor on the condition of said mines.

Mine owners and operators are required to keep accurate maps of workings of their mines; to provide proper means of ventilation; and generally to observe such protective regulations as obtain in other states. The mine inspector is also the inspector of weights. (See Art. 1, Sec. 196, P. L. Laws, Allegany county, and Art. 12, Sec. 145, P. L. Laws, Garrett county.)

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments may be made before any justice of the peace or notary public in the State; or before any justice of the peace, magistrate, notary public, or commissioner appointed for that purpose by the Governor of this State within the United States or in any foreign country; or before a minister or any consular officer of the United States in any foreign country. Where acknowledgments are taken out of the State by a justice of the peace, there should be appended a certificate of his appointment and authority made by the Secretary of State or the clerk of a court of record.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

The insolvent law is in many respects similar to the United States bankrupt law, repealed in 1878, and has no jurisdiction over debts contracted outside the State unless the same are proved in the insolvency proceedings. But an assignment to trustee to divide property among creditors can not be avoided by attaching creditor and only to assignee in insolvency. Any person owing two hundred dollars or more may obtain relief; and any creditor to the extent of one hundred dollars or more may apply within ninety days after commission of act of insolvency for seizure and distribution of estate. Assignee is chosen by majority in value, and may be required to give bond.

Proof of debts must be substantially according to statute form: mere affidavit of indebtedness is not allowable. Original notes and bills of exchange must be annexed to proof, and in case of an open account an itemized statement must be attached. The oath may be made before a justice of the peace, notary public or commissioner. Assent of majority in number and value of creditors filed within six months from date of assignment necessary for discharge if assets do not pay fifty per cent or more, otherwise discharge is granted without such assent.

The insolvent may file an offer of composition with creditors, and will be confirmed therein if assented to by a majority in number and value of creditors, if it be for payment of not less than fifty per cent; or if less than fifty per cent, of three-fourths in number and value.

III. ATTACHMENT:

All real estate, goods and chattels not exempt, may be taken in attachment on the original writ and held as security for judgment, except that lands and tenements can not be attached in suits involving less than twenty dollars. No bond is required to make an attachment. Debtor may dissolve attachment by furnishing bond with sureties to pay judgment obtained, or value of property attached, determined by appraisement. Upon affidavit of the creditor or some one in his behalf, that he has reason to believe that the debtor intends to leave the State and has property not exempt from attachment which he does not intend to apply to the payment of plaintiff's claim, the debtor may be arrested and held to bail. Debtor against whom judgment is rendered for over twenty dollars may be subjected to sworn examination touching his property, and if he refuses to deliver up such property (not being exempt from attachment), an order for arrest will issue, and he can then apply and be examined to take the poor debtor's oath.

IV. COURTS:

Trial justices may severally hold courts within the counties for which they are appointed, and shall have original jurisdiction, exclusive of the Superior Court; and of all actions of contract, tort or replevin, where the debt or damages demanded or value of the property alleged to be detained does not exceed one hundred dollars.

Police and District Courts may in their respective counties exercise the same powers, shall have the same jurisdiction, civil and criminal, and shall perform the same duties and be subject to the same liabilities as trial justices.

The Supreme Judicial Court has original and concurrent jurisdiction with the Superior Court, in actions for recovery of debt to the amount of four thousand dollars or over in Suffolk county (Boston) and one thousand dollars or over in the other counties of the State. The Superior Court has jurisdiction where the amount claimed exceeds twenty dollars.

The Municipal Court of the city of Boston has jurisdiction concurrently with the Superior Court in the county of Suffolk, in actions where the debt does not exceed two thousand dollars, provided one or more of the defendants, or in trustee process, one or more of the persons named as trustee, resides or has his usual place of business in the county of Suffolk. The other Municipal, District, Police and Justice Courts throughout the State, as a rule, have concurrent jurisdiction up to three hundred dollars.

V. DEEDS:

In deeds where there is more than one grantor, the acknowledgment of one of them is sufficient. Deeds must be under seal, a scroll being insufficient. No subscribing witness is necessary. Release of dower must be explicity stated in deed, wife's joining in the deed merely being insufficient. Acknowledgment must be taken of all deeds, conveyances, transfers, mortgages, etc., as prescribed by statute. ("I. Acknowledgments.")

VI. EXECUTIONS:

Executions can not issue until twenty-four hours after judgment is rendered, and an original execution must be issued within one year after plaintiff is entitled to sue out the same. Executions from all courts are returnable within sixty days. There is no stay of execution except by special order of court.

VII. EXEMPTIONS:

Homestead, if recorded, to the value of eight hundred dollars. Necessary wearing apparel of family, certain specified articles of household furniture, and three hundred dollars' worth in addition thereto; library to value of fifty dollars; tools and implements, one hundred dollars; stock, one hundred dollars; boats and fishing tackle, etc., one hundred dollars; one cow, six sheep, one swine and two tons of hay; sewing machine, necessary wearing apparel, pew in church, etc.

VIII. INTEREST:

Legal rate, six per cent, which is allowed on judgments. There are no usury laws, except on loans less than one thousand dollars, and any rate may be reserved or contracted for in writing, and rate reserved in note is payable after maturity of note as before. Loans less than one thousand dollars, shall be dischargeable upon payment or tender of the sum actually borrowed and interest at the rate of eighteen per cent per annum, together with a sum for actual expenses of making the loan, not exceeding ten dollars; and all payments in excess of said rate shall be applied to discharge of the principal.

IX. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments may be entered within four days of default, but do not constitute a lien upon realty or personalty of debtor not attached on the original writ. Are not outlawed for twenty years.

X. LIENS:

Any person to whom a debt is due for materials furnished and actually used in the erection, alteration or repair of a building or structure upon real estate, by virtue of an agreement with or by the consent of the owner or his agent, shall have a lien on such building and the interest of the owner in the land upon which such building is situated. But no lien shall attach if these be purchased by a person other than the owner, unless a written notice be previously given of the intent to claim such lien. The owner of such building, if he be a person other than the party by whom or in whose behalf a contract has been made, may prevent the attaching of a lien for materials not then furnished, by a notice in writing given to the person furnishing such materials. The lien shall not avail against a prior mortgage duly recorded. A statement of a just and true account of the amount due, a description of the property and the name of the owner must be filed in the registry of deeds within thirty days after ceasing to furnish materials; and suit must be brought within ninety days from such time.

The lien may be enforced by petition to the Superior Court, or to a lower court when the claim does not exceed three hundred dollars; and proper proceedings being had thereupon, the owner being duly summoned, and the debtor and all creditors having lien upon the estate being duly notified of such petition. Upon the establishment of a lien, a sale of the property will be ordered by the court. Any interest in property so sold may be redeemed within one year. Creditors entitled to a lien shall share the proceeds of such sale in proportion to their respective debts, but a creditor having previously attached shall be preferred. All rights to and liabilities for a lien survive. Any person entitled to a lien may pursue his common-law remedies also.

XI. LIMITATIONS:

Contracts or liabilities, express or implied and not under seal, six years. Real actions, those upon an attested note, if suit is brought by original payee or his executor or administrator; and personal actions on contracts not limited, twenty years. Part payment by the party sought to be charged or new promise to pay in writing constitutes revivor. The statute does not run against infants, married women during coverture, insane persons, those imprisoned and those absent from the State.

XII. MARRIED WOMEN:

The real and personal estate of a married woman, acquired at any time, remains her sole and separate property, not subject to the control of her husband, nor liable for his debts. Married women may carry on trade or business, make contracts, sue and be sued, in all matters relating to their separate property, and such contracts are not binding upon the husband. Wife can not deprive her husband of more than half of her personal property by will, nor can she impair his interest in her real estate as tenant by curtesy without his written consent, or of her real estate not exceeding five thousand dollars in value, and a life estate in one-half of the balance, where no issue survives her. Widow takes dower as at common law, in one-third of her husband's real estate, and if there be no issue and husband dies intestate, she takes his real estate, in fee, to an amount not exceeding five thousand dollars in value, and a life estate in one-half of the balance. If husband dies intestate and leaves no kindred, she takes the whole of his real estate in fee. Wife carrying on business on her own account must record certificate of such with the city or town clerk; neglect to do this renders her property so employed liable for her husband's debts, and renders her husband liable for her debts thus contracted.

XIII. MILLDAMS:

Milldams may be erected across non-navigable streams subject to conditions. No such dam shall be erected to the injury of any dam already existing. The height of water and the length of time which it may be kept up may be regulated by the verdict of a jury. All persons injured by flowage or otherwise may obtain compensation therefor upon petition to the Superior Court, and proceedings thereupon, the remedy so given taking the place of any common-law remedy. No milldam shall be constructed or materially altered until specifications of the proposed work have been approved by the county commissioners.

XIV. NOTES AND BILLS:

Commercial paper means negotiable paper, such as bills of exchange, promissory notes and bank checks, given in due course of business for the payment of money. It need not be payable at a bank or any fixed place. Three days of grace are allowed on all notes and drafts except those payable on demand. The drawee of a bill or draft requiring acceptance has till two o'clock p. m. on the next business day after presentment to decide whether he will accept.

Bills of exchange, drafts, promissory notes and contracts, due and payable or to be executed on Sunday or any Fast or Thanksgiving Day appointed or recommended by the Governor or by the President, first Monday of September, Christmas Day, twenty-second day of February, thirtieth day of May, fourth day of July, or on the following day when either of the four days last mentioned occurs on Sunday, shall be payable or performable upon the business day next preceding said days; and in case of non-payment or non-fulfillment may be noted and protested upon such preceding day; but the holder or holders of such obligations need not give notice of the dishonor, non-payment or non-fulfillment thereof until the business day next following the days above specified. To charge indorsers of a promissory note payable on demand, a demand made at the expiration of sixty days from the date thereof, without grace, or at any time within that term is necessary to fix liability of indorser, and shall be deemed to be made within a reasonable time. No presentment of such note to the promissor and demand of payment will charge the indorser, unless made on or before the last day of said term of sixty days. Orders and drafts for money payable within this State, in which no time of payment is expressed, shall be deemed to be payable on demand. All persons becoming parties to promissory notes payable on time by a signature in blank on the back thereof, shall be entitled to notice of the non-payment thereof the same as indorsers. Checks drawn on a bank may be paid within ten days after death of drawer.

XV. SUITS:

Civil actions in general, except those concerning land (if one of the parties live in the State), must be brought in the county where one of them lives or has his usual place of business. Where all parties are non-resident, action may be brought in any county. Attachment of property owned by defendants residing out of the State is sufficient to give jurisdiction in suit after notice published by order of court. Such notice to be given within one year from the entry of the suit. Persons commorant in the State may also be arrested on mesne process and held to bail.

XVI. TAXES:

Taxes are assessed as of the first day of May in each year, and on real estate are a lien for two years after they are committed to the collector; but the collector may sell real estate for taxes after two years have elapsed, unless the estate has been alienated prior to the giving of the notice of such sale. If not paid on demand the collector may sell after advertisement. The owner, his heirs or assigns, may redeem within two years by paying or tendering to the collector or purchaser the sum paid by him, with ten per cent interest and all necessary intervening charges; and a person having title may redeem in two years after notice if property is taxed to a person unknown, or to a tenant or occupant not owner, or wrong person or mortgagee of record. The purchaser under a tax sale, if resident in the city or town where the estate is, must record his residence or place of business. If he resides elsewhere he must appoint an agent or attorney and record such appointment.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Three or more persons may associate together by an agreement in writing for the purpose of forming a mining corporation with a capital of not less than five thousand dollars or more than one million dollars. In the case of quarrying corporations the capital stock shall not exceed five hundred thousand dollars. Such agreement shall set forth: 1. The name assumed. 2. The purposes for which said corporation is formed. 3. The town in which it is located (in this commonwealth). 4. The amount of its capital stock, the par value thereof and the number of shares.

The first meeting shall be called by a written notice given to all subscribers, for the purpose of temporary organization, and each subscriber shall take an equal number of shares of the capital stock unless otherwise agreed. The president, treasurer and a majority of the directors shall sign and swear to a certificate setting forth a copy of the agreement, with the names of all the subscribers thereto, and date of first meeting and adjournments thereof; and shall submit such certificate, together with the records of the association, to the Commissioner of Corporations, who shall thereupon issue a certificate of incorporation, which shall have the effect of a special charter.

II. POWERS:

Any corporation thus created may purchase and hold real estate and personal property necessary to its business, and may carry on business outside of this commonwealth, but shall not direct its operations to other purposes than those mentioned in its agreement of association. Its business, however, may be altered, added to or changed by the stockholders at a special meeting called for that purpose. Corporations may sue or maintain any action at law or otherwise in any of the courts of this State.

Roads, drains, ditches, tunnels, and railways may be established through lands of adjacent owners or over highways, upon petition to the county commissioners, proper proceedings instituted thereupon and assessment of damages for injuries to such owners.

III. OFFICERS:

The business of every corporation shall be conducted by a president, board of directors, clerk, treasurer and other officers; but no mortgage of real estate or lease for more than one year shall be given except by vote of the stockholders.

The board of directors shall consist of at least three members, one of whom shall be chosen president. The clerk shall be sworn to the faithful performance of his duties, and the treasurer shall give bond in such manner as provided in the by-laws. Stockholders may vote by proxy authorized by a writing.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

Stock may be transferred by a written instrument recorded in the clerk's books. The amount of the capital stock may be increased or diminished by vote of the stockholders, subject to the provisions of the statute. (Chapter 157). Assessments may be made upon the shares not exceeding the par value thereof, and shares of members not paying assessments may be sold. The corporation shall not commence business until the whole amount of its capital stock has been paid in, and a certificate of such fact made and recorded; but conveyances of real or personal property will constitute such paying in.

V. LIABILITIES:

The president and directors shall be liable for making or consenting to a dividend by which the corporation is rendered insolvent, to the extent of such dividend; between the time of making a loan to a stockholder and the time of its repayment, to the amount of such loan; and for signing a false certificate or statement, required by law, only the persons so signing being liable.

Stockholders shall be liable: for debts contracted before the capital stock was all paid in, but only those who have not paid the par value of their shares shall be so liable; for debts existing at the time the capital stock was reduced, to the exent of such reduction; for debts existing at the time special stock is created, until the same is redeemed; for sums due operatives for services rendered within six months before demand made upon the corporation; but in all cases stockholders shall only be liable to the par value of the shares held by them. All wages due employes shall be paid weekly.

VI. REPORTS:

An annual certificate must be filed with the Commissioner of Corporations setting forth the time of last annual meeting, amount of capital stock at such time, the amount then paid in, and the assets and liabilities of the corporation; and upon failure of any corporation so to do for two successive years, the Commissioner of Corporations may apply to the Supreme Court for its dissolution. Certificates must also be filed upon an increase or reduction of the capital stock.

VII. FOREIGN AND OUTSIDE CORPORATIONS:

Provision is made for returns of foreign corporations having offices in this commonwealth. (Statutes 1882, Chap. 106; Statutes 1886, Chap. 230.)

Corporations owning mines or quarries outside of this commonwealth, or incorporated under the laws of any other state and having an office or place of business within this commonwealth, shall pay a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent upon the par value of the capital stock.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Deeds and mortgages of lands or any interest therein, situated within this State, must be witnessed by two persons, and to entitle the same to record, must be acknowledged before a judge or commissioner of a court of record, a notary public, or a justice of the peace. Instruments executed in any other state, territory or district of the United States, may be acknowledged before any officer authorized by the laws thereof to take the proof and acknowledgment of deeds, or before a commissioner appointed by the Governor of Michigan for that purpose, or before a notary public, who certifies thereto under his seal of office.

In foreign countries deeds must be executed in the presence of two subscribing witnesses, and may be acknowledged before any notary public therein, or before any minister, consul, vice consul, charge d'affaires, consular agent or commissioner of the United States resident in such foreign country or port; such proof or acknowledgment to be certified by such officer under his seal of office.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens may acquire and hold lands or interests therein by purchase, devise or descent, and such lands are held, conveyed, mortgaged or devised and descend in like manner and with like effect as if the owner was a native citizen of this State or of the United States.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments for the benefit of creditors may be made by any debtor, but must be of all the property of the assignor not exempt from execution, and without preference. Assignee must give approved bond in double the amount of property assigned. No attachment or execution levied upon assigned property after assignment is valid to create any lien upon such property. Within ten days after receiving the trust, the assignee is required to give notice of the assignment to each creditor personally or by mail. Creditors are required to prove their claims within ninety days after notice of the assignment by affidavit, to be filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the assignor resides; or in default, the assignee or receiver distributes the estate, without reference to claims not proven. Before making a dividend, assignee shall serve, personally or by mail, on each creditor whose name appears on schedule filed, a complete list of all creditors. Proof of claim must state the actual amount unpaid and owing, the actual consideration thereof, when contracted, when due or to become due, whether any and what payments have been made thereon, that the sum claimed is justly due from the assignor to claimant, and that claimant has not, nor has any other person for his use, received any security or satisfaction whatever, other than that by him set forth. The assignee is required to file in the clerk's office a report of the condition of the estate and his doings under the assignment within three months thereafter. The assignee or receiver may contest any claim. Any creditor may request in writing, the assignee or receiver, to contest any claim, and such request operates to stay payment of any dividend on such contested claim. If the assignee or receiver refuse to make such contest, the creditor may petition the court for an order directing a contest. The Circuit Court in Chancery of the proper county has supervisory power of all matters, questions, and disputes arising under the assignment. All debts for labor have preference over all other debts which have not become a lien on the estate prior to the performance of the labor. It is made the duty of the assignee to close the trust, if practicable, within one year, but the court or judge at chambers may for good reason, on cause shown, extend the time. Notice of application for extension of time is given to the creditors, who are entitled to appear and be heard with reference thereto.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Process will issue on affidavit showing a debt due upon express or implied contract, or upon judgment, and either that debtor: has absconded, or is about to abscond from the State; is concealed therein to the injury of his creditors; has assigned, disposed of or concealed, or is about to assign, dispose of or conceal any of his property with intent to defraud his creditors; has removed or is about to remove any of his property out of this State, with like intent; fraudulently contracted the debt or obligation respecting which the suit is brought; or is not a resident of this State and has not resided therein for three months (where process is issued from Circuit, or one month where process is issued from Justice Court) immediately preceding the time of making such affidavit; or that the debtor is a foreign corporation. Upon showing reasons satisfactory to the Circuit judge, and on obtaining his order therefor, attachment may issue for a debt not due. Actions of tort against non-residents may be commenced by attachment where the cause of action arises in this State; or where the cause of action accrued while the plaintiff was a bona fide resident of this State, upon filing an affidavit describing the cause of action, and showing the defendant to be a non-resident or foreign corporation, that the cause of action arose in this State, or accrued to the plaintiff while he was a bona fide resident thereof; and that defendant is carrying on business in the State, or owns property therein.

Garnishee process may issue from any court in which the original suit is commenced, and in such proceeding, indebtedness to the principal defendant, or property in the hands of a fraudulent transferee, or property of any kind subject to execution in the garnishee's hands, may be reached for the satisfaction of any judgment recovered in the suit, but money owing for the personal labor of a householder having a family, to the extent of twenty-five dollars, is exempt. The garnishee is liable for property received under conveyances or mortgages that are fraudulent as to creditors, and for the value of such property if disposed of by him before or after garnishment.

Male debtors may be arrested in all personal actions other than those arising on contract.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

When letters, testamentary or of administration, are granted, the Probate judge may appoint two or more persons commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands against the deceased, except where the value of the estate does not exceed the amount allowed by law for the support of the widow and children; or he may appoint a time and place for the examination and adjustment of claims before himself. For the presentation of claims to commissioners, not less than six nor more than eighteen months from the date of the commission is allowed, but the time may be extended as circumstances may require, so that the whole time shall not exceed two years. On application of a creditor who has failed for good cause to present his claim, made before the estate is closed, and payment of costs, the commission may be revived and further time, not exceeding three months, allowed for the examination for such claim, otherwise claims proper to be allowed by and not presented to the commissioners or the court after notice, and within the time limited, are forever barred. Where claims are examined and allowed by the court, the same notice is required as in the case of commissioners. Counter claims and set-offs are examined and passed upon.

All actions and suits pending against deceased persons at the time of death, where the cause of action survives, may be prosecuted to final judgment, and the executor or administrator may be allowed to defend the same. A claim founded upon a joint contract of the deceased and another, or upon a judgment against the deceased and another, may be allowed as if the contract had been joint and several, or as if judgment had been taken against deceased alone.

If the assets of the estate which can be appropriated to the payment of debts are not sufficient to pay said debts in full, they are applied, after paying the necessary expenses of administration, in the following order: 1. Necessary funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of last sickness. 3. Debts having preference by the laws of the United States. 4. Debts to other creditors.

VI. COURTS:

Circuit Courts, holding from two to four terms a year in each county, have original jurisdiction in actions on contract where damages claimed amount to one hundred dollars and upward; exclusive jurisdiction in actions of tort where damages alleged exceed one hundred dollars, and appellate jurisdiction from Justice and Probate Courts.

The Superior Court of Grand Rapids has original and concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Courts in all civil actions where the debt or damages exceed one hundred dollars, and in which the defendants, or one of them, shall have been served with process in the city, and the parties, or one of them, reside therein.

Justice Courts have original jurisdiction where the debt does not exceed one hundred dollars, and concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Court where the debt does not exceed three hundred dollars, except in actions of tort, where the limit is one hundred dollars. There is a Probate Court in each county, with the usual powers.

The Supreme Court of the State is the final appellate tribunal to which all appeals from the Circuit and Superior Courts are taken, at law and in equity.

VII. FEES:

VIII. DEEDS:

Deeds and mortgages of real estate must be recorded within the county wherein the land is situate, and if not so recorded are void as against subsequent purchasers or incumbrancers for a valuable consideration, who have not received actual notice of such deed or mortgage. Foreclosure of mortgages may be by advertisement, or in courts of equity of the county where the property is situate.

Chattel mortgages and bills of sale intended as security are absolutely void as against creditors or subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless the instrument or a true copy thereof be filed in the office of the clerk of the city or township where the mortgagor resides. Such mortgages made and withheld from the files are postponed to all indebtedness contracted after their date and prior to their filing. Chattel mortgages are a security merely for the debt, and give no legal title until foreclosed by sale; and such mortgages cease to be valid as against the creditors of the person making the same, or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith after one year from the filing thereof, unless within thirty days before the expiration of that time, they are renewed by filing in the same office an affidavit, showing the amount of the mortgage debt then actually due or owing. The fraudulent removal, disposition, concealment or appropriation of mortgaged chattels constitutes a criminal offense.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

The testimony of any witness may be taken by deposition in any civil cause or matter, begun or pending in any court of record, at law or in chancery, when the witness is, or is about to go, or resides out of the State; or is about to go, or resides more than fifty miles from the place of trial; or beyond the jurisdiction of the court; or is sick, aged, or infirm; or where there is reasonable cause for apprehension that his testimony cannot be had at the trial; and in all cases where affidavits are permitted to be used in proceedings before the court; and also when it is desired to take conditionally and perpetuate testimony in suits to be begun; and in any other case when it shall appear to the court or judge thereof that the purposes of justice will be aided thereby.

Courts of record of this State have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the giving of their testimony, and the production of books, papers and other evidences, before commissioners or persons authorized by them to take testimony, and also under commission or letters rogatory, issued out of any court of any other state, or of the United States, or of any foreign government or country. To perpetuate testimony, any person who expects to be a party to a suit, which may hereafter be commenced in any court of record, may cause the testimony of any witness material to him in such suit, to be taken conditionally, and perpetuated, under a commission issued by any Circuit Court commissioner or judge of a court of record, upon affidavit showing the necessity or reason therefor, and so far as known, the persons interested in such matter.

In all proceedings and actions, the testimony of a party or in case a corporation is a party, the testimony of the president, secretary or other principal officer or general managing agent, otherwise than as a witness on a trial, may be taken by deposition at the instance of the adverse party, at any time after the commencement thereof and before judgment.

X. DESCENT:

Lands, tenements or hereditaments, and all rights therein to, or any interests therein in fee simple, or for the life of another, not lawfully devised, descend subject to debts as follows: (1) To children and issue of any deceased child by representation; and wanting these, to all other lineal descendants, equally, if all of the same degree of kindred, otherwise by representation. (2) If husband or wife survives intestate, half to such surviving spouse, and remainder to the father and mother of intestate, equally; and if but one parent living, to survivor alone. In default of issue, or surviving spouse, estate descends to father and mother in equal shares, and if but one living then to survivor alone; and, after these, to brothers and sisters and their issue, by right of representation; final to next of kin in collateral and ascendant order, those claiming through nearest ancestor being preferred.

Degrees of kindred are computed according to the rule of the civil law, and kindred of the half blood inherit equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance come to the intestate by descent, devise or gift of some one of his ancestors, in which case all those not of the blood of such ancestor shall be excluded from such inheritance. The provision made for the widow is in lieu of dower, unless she shall, within one year after the appointment of an administrator, begin proceedings for the assignment of her dower, in which case her interest is limited to her dower therein.

XI. EXECUTION:

May issue at once in Circuit Courts, and within five days from rendition of judgment in Justice Courts. Executions issued out of Circuit Courts are made returnable in not less than twenty, nor more than ninety days. Executions issued out of Justice Courts are returnable in sixty days. Stay of execution in Justice Courts may be obtained by giving a bond for the payment of the judgment, costs and interest, the stay allowed being four months when the judgment does not exceed fifty dollars, and six months when above that sum. Lands sold under execution may be redeemed within one year, by payment of the purchase money with interest at the rate borne by the judgment, and may be redeemed by any judgment creditor having a subsequent levy, at any time within fifteen months from the date of such sale. Executions may issue at any time during the life of a judgment. Levy on real estate ceases to remain a lien thereon at the expiration of five years from the date of levy.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

The homestead of any householder not exceeding forty acres and the dwelling house thereon and its appurtenances, if in the country, or a house and lot in a city, town or village, the value in either case not to exceed fifteen hundred dollars. The homestead cannot be alienated or incumbered without the consent of the wife, where such relation exists, and cannot be sold by probate license to pay debts, unless appraised to exceed fifteen hundred dollars, and that amount be paid the widow or those having homestead rights therein.

Personal property exemption includes stock in trade, a team, or other things necessary to carry on the business or pursuit in which the debtor is wholly or principally engaged, to the value of two hundred and fifty dollars; and partners of a firm are each entitled to such exemption, except as against an execution for the purchase money thereof. To a householder: Ten sheep, two cows, five swine, provisions, fuel, spinning wheels, looms, stoves put up for use in dwelling, cemetery tombs and rights of burial, library and school books of every individual and family, family pictures, provisions and fuel for comfortable subsistence for six months, household goods, furniture and utensils to the value of five hundred dollars.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

Six per cent. per annum is the legal rate of interest, but parties may contract in writing for a higher rate, not exceeding eight per cent. The penalty for usury is a forfeiture of all the interest, but no action can be maintained to recover back such excess after the voluntary payment of the same. A bona fide purchaser of negotiable paper is not affected by its being usurious, unless appearing on the paper. Judgments bear the same rate of interest as the instrument or contract upon which such judgment was founded.

XIV JUDGMENTS:

Are not liens until execution has been issued thereon and a levy made, and in the case of real estate, notice thereof recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where such lands are located. Executions may issue to the sheriff of any county in the State. Judgments can be obtained in the Circuit Court in from forty-five to sixty days, depending on return day, time of service, term of court, etc. In Justice Courts, if defendant makes default, judgment can be obtained on return day of process.

XV LIENS:

Every person who shall, in pursuance of any contract between himself and the owner, part owner or lessee of any interest in real estate, build, alter, improve, repair, erect, ornament or put in or who shall furnish any labor or material in or for building, altering, improving, repairing, erecting, ornamenting or putting in any house, building, machinery, wharf or structure; and every person who shall, as sub-contractor, laborer or material-man, perform any labor or furnish materials to the original or principal contractor or to any sub-contractor in carrying on, forwarding or completing any such contract, is given a lien therefor upon the structure and its appurtenances and also upon the entire interest of the owner, part owner or lessee in and to the lot or piece of land, not exceeding one-quarter section of land, or, if an incorporated village or city lot, not exceeding the lot or lots upon which the improvement is made, to the extent of the right, title and interest therein of the owner, part owner or lessee at the time the work was commenced or materials furnished; and also to the extent of any subsequent acquired interest. The person, firm or corporation furnishing material or performing labor is required within ten days after furnishing the first of such material or performing the first of such labor to or for any contractor or sub-contractor, to serve on the owner, part owner or lessee, or on his agent, if such owner, part owner or lessee resides in or has a known agent in the county in charge of the structure, a fairly detailed statement of the goods furnished or to be furnished or of the labor performed or to be performed, and a description of the premises where furnished. The owner, part owner or lessee will not be liable to the sub-contractors, material-men or laborers for any greater amount than he contracted to pay the original contractor, and is entitled to recoup any damages which he may sustain by reason of any failure or omission in the performance of the contract; but the risk of all payments made to the original contractor after the giving of the notice above mentioned shall be upon the owner, part owner or lessee until the expiration of sixty days, within which a claim for lien may be filed, and no payment to any original contractor made before the expiration of this sixty day period shall defeat any lien of any sub-contractor, material-man or laborer unless such payment has been distributed among the sub-contractors, material-men and laborers, or if distributed in part only, then to the extent of such distribution.

The owner may retain from any moneys due or to become due to the original contractor an amount sufficient to pay the demands of the sub-contractor, material-men or laborers, who have filed and served notice of their intention to claim a lien.

The lien is lost unless the person entitled thereto, shall make under oath and file in the office of the register of deeds of the county or counties in which the real estate, building or structure is situated, within sixty days from the day on which the last of the materials shall have been furnished or the last of the labor shall have been performed by the person claiming the lien, a true and just statement or account of the demand due him, over and above all legal set-offs, setting forth the time when such materials were furnished or labor performed, and for whom, and containing a correct description of the property to be charged with the lien and the name of the owner, part owner or lessee, if known; and shall follow up the filing of such statement by proceedings to enforce the lien, by bill in chancery, to be commenced within six months after the filing of such statement.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Judgments of courts of record exist ten years; of Justice Courts, six years. On accounts and notes and other simple contracts, and for all injuries to person or property, action must be brought within six years. On sealed instruments and judgments, within ten years. Part payment or promise in writing to pay constitutes revivor. Writs of error from the Supreme Court must be issued in one year after final judgment in the court below, except that the Supreme Court may grant further time, not exceeding six months. Questions of law only can be reviewed in law cases, but both questions of fact and law will be determined on appeals in equity cases. Proceedings to foreclose real estate mortgages must be commenced within fifteen years after they become due and payable, or within fifteen years after last payment on the mortgage debt. After such limitation has expired the mortgage may be discharged on application to the Circuit Court of the county where the property is situated. For the recovery of real property, action must be brought within five years where the claim arises against executor's, guardian's or sheriff's deed; or against deed of auditor-general for taxes, where the purchaser, his heirs or assigns have been in actual and undisputed possession under such tax deed for such period; in all other cases action must be brought within fifteen years.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

May make contracts in respect to their own property, and may have, hold and enjoy the same, and have the same rights and remedies as though unmarried. They may carry on business in their own name with their own property by consent of their husbands. But a married woman's contract to pay, or to become liable for, or to secure payment of the debt of her husband, or other person, is voidable by her. She may, however, charge her real or personal property to secure such indebtedness, by mortgage. A mortgage upon a homestead, or other alienation thereof, is void unless signed by the wife. The widow takes as dower the use during her natural life of one-third part of all the lands whereof her husband was seized as of an estate of inheritance at any time during coverture. Mortgage indebtedness on real estate for purchase price is deducted from the value of such real estate in setting off and assigning dower.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Negotiable promissory notes and bills of exchange, including acceptances, are "commercial paper." It is not necessary that such paper be made payable at any bank or other place. The persons primarily liable to pay must seek the holder and pay when due. If there are indorsers or drawers entitled to notice, the holder is bound to present the paper to the makers and demand payment; and, if he wishes to hold such indorsers and drawers, notice of the presentment, demand and refusal must be given them in their order, promptly, by due course of mail, or by personal service. On all bills of exchange and negotiable notes and acceptances not payable on demand, three days of grace are allowed. All checks, bills of exchange or drafts drawn on any bank, are payable without grace, and it is not necessary to protest the same. In all other cases, demand, protest for non-payment and notices of protest to the indorser, at his reputed place of business or residence, are necessary to bind the indorser. Parties other than payees to paper, being such before or at its inception, are held as joint makers, and not entitled to notice of non-acceptance or non-payment.

Legal holidays: January 1st (New Year's Day), February 22nd (Washington's Birthday), July 4th, the first Monday of September (Labor Day), December 25th (Christmas Day), May 30th (Decoration Day), every Saturday from 12 o'clock noon (designated a half holiday), and any day appointed by the Governor or the President of the United States as a day of thanksgiving, all of which days are considered and treated as Sunday, and all bills, checks and notes otherwise presentable for acceptance or payment on any of these days are presentable and payable on the secular or business day succeeding such holiday or half holiday. Where a holiday falls on Sunday, the Monday following shall be considered as the holiday. When the last day of grace falls on Sunday or on a legal holiday, the day preceding is treated as the last day of grace.

XIX. SUITS:

The practice and proceedings of the courts are in accordance with the rules of common law and courts of equity in England, with some statutory modifications. Actions survive as by the common law, and in addition thereto, actions of replevin, trover, assault and battery, false imprisonment, for goods taken and carried away, negligent injuries to the person, and actions for damages to real or personal estate.

XX. TAXES:

For the purpose of taxation, real estate includes all lands within the State, and all buildings and fixtures thereon and appurtenances thereto, except such as are expressly exempted by law. Personal property includes, subject to certain exemptions by law, all moneys, annuities, royalties, goods, chattels and effects within the State; all ships, boats and their appurtenances belonging to inhabitants of this State, whether at home or abroad; all goods, chattels and effects belonging to inhabitants of and situate without the State, except property actually invested in business in another State; all credits belonging to inhabitants of this State above the amounts owed by them; all shares in corporations organized under the laws of this State when the property of such corporation is not taxable to itself, or when its personal property is not taxed; all shares in banks organized within the State, under the State or United States laws, at their cash value, after deducting the assessed value of real property assessed to such bank; all shares in foreign corporations, except national banks, owned by citizens of this State; and all buildings and improvements situate upon leased lands, except where the value of the real estate is also assessed to the lessee or owner of such buildings and improvements. Taxes become a debt against the persons assessed immediately after the assessment roll is completed, and become a lien on the real and personal estate from the first day of December of the same year. Taxes may be collected by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the person assessed. Lands returned as delinquent for non-payment of taxes and on which taxes have remained unpaid for more than one year prior to the first day of May of the year in which their sale is ordered, may be sold under decree of the Circuit Court of the proper county, on the first Monday in December thereafter.

XXI. WILLS:

Every person of full age and sound mind, being seized in his own right of any lands, or any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, may devise and dispose of the same by will in writing, and may likewise bequeath and dispose of all his personal estate. Wills must be in writing, signed by the testator or by some person in his presence by his express direction, and attested and subscribed in the presence of the testator by two or more competent witnesses. No will is effectual to pass either real or personal estate unless duly proved and allowed and probated, and the probate of a will of real or personal estate as above mentioned, is conclusive as to its due execution. All beneficial devises, legacies and gifts made or given by will to a subscribing witness thereto, are wholly void, unless there be two other competent subscribing witnesses. A will is not revoked unless by burning, tearing, canceling or obliterating the same, with the intention of revoking it, by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his direction; or by some other will or codicil in writing, executed with all the formalities of a will. Marriage does not revoke a will. A married woman is competent to make a will the same as if she were unmarried. Nuncupative wills may be made by spoken words or signs when the testator is in extremis, or overtaken by sudden and violent sickness, and has no time to make a written will, when the value of the estate does not exceed three hundred dollars. The same must be proved by two competent witnesses, and testamentary capacity and an intent to make the gift, must clearly appear. Soldiers being in actual military service, and mariners being on shipboard, may dispose of their wages and other personal estate by nuncupative will.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any number of persons, not less than three, by articles in writing may organize themselves into a corporation for the purpose of engaging in and carrying on any kind of mining; or for mining and refining, smelting or manufacturing any or all kinds of ores, minerals or metals. The articles of association shall be acknowledged in duplicate by not less than three of the subscribers, and shall state the purpose for which the corporation is formed; the amount of the capital stock, which shall not be less than ten thousand dollars nor more than two million five hundred thousand dollars; the number of shares, of twenty-five dollars each; the amount of cash actually paid in; the cash value of any property, real or personal, conveyed to the corporation contemporaneously with its organization; the names of the stockholders, their respective places of residence and the number of shares held by each; the location of the business office, and if without the State, as it may be, the location within the State of its office for the transaction of business; the county or counties in the State where the business of the corporation is to be carried on; the number (not less than three nor more than nine, one of whom shall be a resident of Michigan) constituting the board of directors; the directors for the first year; and the term of existence of the corporation, which shall not exceed thirty years. Upon filing the articles with the county clerk of the county where the business office or the office for the transaction of business is located, and with the Secretary of State, and on paying the franchise tax, the corporation may lawfully commence business.

II. POWERS:

The corporation may acquire and hold any quantity of land not exceeding fifty thousand acres; subscribe for or purchase stock in any corporation formed to construct or improve any canal, harbor, plankroad or railroad, or to create, generate or manufacture any kind of power or light, when the construction, improvement, power or light is designed to facilitate the operations of the company; construct and operate boats or vessels for the transportation of its product or of general freights, and charter such boats or vessels to others; conduct its mining, manufacturing or other business in whole or in part at any place or places in the United States, or in any foreign country; conducting its business wholly at a place outside the State, subscribe for or purchase stock in any other corporation formed for the purpose of mining, smelting or manufacturing ores or minerals wholly at a place outside the State; consolidate with any other corporation organized under the same act; mortgage or sell the mine, works, real estate or franchise; convey city or village lots, or land not required for mining purposes, from which the timber has been removed, or rights of way and depot grounds for railroads; purchase and hold any grant of lands made by the general government to aid in any work of internal improvement in this State; within the limits prescribed, increase or diminish its capital stock; amend its articles of association; remove its place of business to any other place within the State; establish an office or offices (which cannot be changed within one year thereafter) for the transaction of business without the State, but within the United States, and hold any meeting of the stockholders or directors at such office; and may continue its corporate existence for a further term of thirty years beyond the time fixed by the articles, by a vote of two-thirds in interest.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

The original corporators are not obliged to subscribe for the entire capital stock, and the portion not subscribed for may be disposed of at any time afterward by the corporation. The stock is treated as personal property, transferable only on the books of the company, and the corporation at all times has a lien thereon for all debts due from members. The directors may call in stock subscriptions by installments and may sell the stock on thirty days' notice for assessments past due sixty days; (in the case of manufacturing corporations, thirty days). The directors shall not diminish its capital so as to impair any demand or obligation due from the company; shall not withdraw or refund to the stockholders any part of its capital until all debts for which the stock would be liable have been paid, and shall not pay any dividend when insolvent, nor any dividend the payment of which would render it insolvent.

The corporation may create and issue certificates for two kinds of stock, general or common and preferred, the latter at no time to exceed two-thirds of the actual capital paid in, and shall be subject to redemption at par at a time certain to be fixed by the by-laws, and expressed n the certificates therefor. The holder of preferred stock is no event is individually or personally liable for any orporated liability, except labor debt. If the corporation eases to do business or becomes insolvent, the preferred ock and any unpaid dividend thereon, is paid in full efore any distribution of assets among the holders of the common stock.

IV. LIABILITIES:

The stockholders in all Michigan corporations are made individually liable for all labor performed for the corporation. Any stockholder who is compelled by action to pay the labor debts of the corporation in whole or in part, may call upon all others of the stockholders to contribute their part of the sum so paid, and may sue them jointly or severally, and recover in such action the ratable amount due from the stockholder or stockholders so sued. In the case of mining corporations, the individual liability may be enforced by an action against the stockholder and corporation jointly, commenced within two years from the time when payment for such labor became due, but not afterward. In manufacturing corporations, if capital stock is withdrawn and refunded to the stockholders before payment of all debts for which such stock would have been liable, the stockholders are made jointly and severally liable to creditors to the amount of the sum refunded to him or them respectively.

If the directors shall willfully neglect or refuse to make and file the annual report, they are each made liable for all debts of the corporation; and are subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars, and in addition thereto the sum of ten dollars for each and every secular day after the first day of March in each year during the pendency of such neglect or refusal. Neglect to give notice within thirty days thereafter to the Secretary of State and proper county clerk of the dissolution or termination of the corporation, or of the sale of its property and franchise, subjects the directors to the same penalties provided in case of neglect to make the annual report. If they declare and pay a dividend when the corporation is insolvent, knowing that fact, or that the payment of such dividend would render it so, the directors assenting thereto are made jointly and severally liable for all debts due from the corporation at the time of declaring or paying such dividend; and if the corporation shall violate any of the provisions of the act under which it is organized, the directors ordering or assenting to the violation are made jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted after the violation, to the extent of three times the amount paid on the stock standing in the name of the offending directors on the books of the company.

V. REPORTS:

The directors of every company for mining or smelting metals or ores shall annually in the month of July, and those of manufacturing companies shall annually in January make and file with the Secretary of State and the clerk of the county where its business is carried on, a report for the fiscal year of the corporation, upon blanks furnished by the Secretary of State, showing the amount of capital stock, the amount of the capital paid in, the amount invested in real and personal property, the total debts and credits of the corporation, the stockholders and their respective residences and the number of shares held by each at the date of the report, and such other information as the Secretary of State shall require.

Every corporation shall keep its books and accounts open for the inspection of the stockholders at its principal place of business, or at the office of its treasurer; and the directors thereof shall make and exhibit to the stockholders, at least once each year, a true statement of the accounts of the corporation.

Domestic corporations whose principal office is located without the State, are required to keep a list of all stockholders, showing the number of shares held by each, and a stock transfer book, at their agency or office in the State. Failure to comply with this provision will be deemed a mis-user of the charter, and work a forfeiture thereof. The provision requiring a transfer book to be so kept is not applicable to corporations organized for or engaged in mining in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

VI. TAXATION:

The property, real and personal, of all corporations (except railways paying specific taxes), whether foreign or domestic, is taxed for State, school and municipal purposes under the general provisions of law relating to the assessment and collection of taxes. The capital stock of such is not taxed.

Every corporation or association incorporated by or under any general or special law of this State or doing business therein, is required to pay to the Secretary of State a franchise fee of one-half of one mill upon each dollar of the authorized capital stock of the corporation, and a proportionate fee upon any and each subsequent increase thereof, the fee in no case (except on increase of capital stock) to be less than five dollars. A corporation renewing its term of existence is required to pay the full fee above mentioned. The Secretary of State is prohibited from filing or recording the articles of association of any corporation whether for the original or renewed term unless accompanied by the franchise fee.

VII. DISSOLUTION:

Whenever a majority of the directors discover that the stock and property of any corporation is so far reduced by losses or otherwise that it will not be able to pay its obligations or to afford reasonable security to those who may deal with it, or when the directors for any reason deem it beneficial to the stockholders that the corporation should be dissolved, they may apply to any court of equity having jurisdiction for a decree dissolving the corporation. Upon due notice to persons interested and hearing, the court may enter a decree dissolving the corporation and appointing a receiver with the usual powers.

The affairs of any corporation for mining, smelting or manufacturing, not actively carrying on its proper business, whose term of existence as fixed by its articles of association has expired without renewal, may be wound up on the application of any stockholder, whether his title to the stock be legal, equitable, absolute or in trust; or of any creditor whose demand is in full force and not barred by any statute of limitations. The proceeding is by bill, in the Circuit Court in Chancery of any county of this State, in which any of the real or personal property of the corporation may be situated. The court is authorized to appoint a receiver to collect and distribute among creditors and stockholders the assets of the corporation, and to finally close up its business and affairs.

VIII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Foreign corporations organized for the purpose of mining, smelting, refining or manufacturing any kind of ores or metals, upon filing copies of their charter or articles of incorporation with the county clerk of the county in this State where its operations are to be carried on, and with the Secretary of State; and appointing an agent resident in the State, for service of process, may carry on business in the State, and shall enjoy all the rights and privileges and be subject to all the restrictions and liabilities of domestic corporations organized for the like purpose.

MINING.

I. MINING OPTIONS:

Any person holding a mining option or agreement for a mining lease or license to explore or mine on lands in this State, containing a clause allowing the lessee, his personal representatives or assigns, to surrender such lease or license at any time before the expiration of the term thereof, by giving notice, has an absolute right to have such option or agreement specifically enforced, if not in default himself; and any person holding an agreement for an interest in any mining lease or license, from the lessee, is entitled to have the same specifically enforced, if not in default himself. All mining options, leases and licenses are assignable, and survive, and may be enforced by the executors, administrators, personal representatives or assigns of the party or parties, whether the option contains words of assignability or not. Mining licenses for mining ore or minerals are subject to levy and sale on execution.

II. MINING LIENS:

Every person who shall furnish or perform any labor for any corporation organized for the purpose of mining, smelting or manufacturing ores or minerals in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and every bona fide holder of any draft or order for the payment of money due for any such labor, issued or drawn by any officer, clerk or agent of any such corporation, is given a lien for the amount due thereon or therefor upon all the real and personal property of the corporation lying and being in the Upper Peninsula, which lien takes precedence of all other debts, judgments or decrees, liens or mortgages, except liens accruing to the State for taxes, fines or penalties

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Within the State acknowledgments may be taken by the judges and clerks of the Supreme, District and Probate Courts, and by notaries public, justices of the peace, registers of deeds, court commissioners and county auditors, within their respective jurisdictions. Without the State and within the United States deeds may be acknowledged before the judges or the clerks of the Supreme and District Courts of the United States; or before the judges or the clerks of the courts of record of any state, territory or district of the United States; and by notaries public, justices of the peace, and commissioners appointed by the Governor of this State for the purpose. If the acknowledgment is taken without the State and not before a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State, nor before an officer having a seal, the official character of the officer taking the acknowledgment must be shown by a certificate of the clerk or other certifying officer of the proper court of record.

II. ALIENS:

Persons who are not citizens of the United States and have not declared their intention to become such, and corporations not organized under the laws of the United States, or one of them, cannot hereafter acquire real estate, except by devise or inheritance. The following exceptions are made: 1. Where the right to hold land is secured by treaty with the foreign country. 2. In the case of an alien owning not more than six lots of fifty feet frontage by three hundred feet deep, or any tract of a size equal to such six lots, within an incorporated city. 3. In the case of an actual settler on a farm of not more than one hundred and sixty acres. 4. In the case of lands obtained in good faith in enforcing the collection of debts or foreclosing mortgages. No corporation or association, more than twenty per cent of the stock of which is owned by any person or persons, not citizens of the United States, shall own any real estate hereafter acquired in this State.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

There are two acts under which assignments may be made. The one is usually spoken of as the Assignment Law, and was enacted in 1876. The other is known as the Insolvent Act, and was enacted in 1881, and has been several times amended in favor of the insolvent.

(a). The Assignment Law: The assignment must be by instrument in writing, subscribed by the debtor, duly acknowledged, and filed in the office of the clerk of the District Court in the county in which the debtor resides or in which his business has been principally carried on. The assignee must be a resident and freeholder of the State. In order to pass the real estate to the assignee, either under the Assignment Law or the Insolvent Act, a certified copy of the deed of assignment must be filed for record with the register of deeds in the county wherein the land is situated.

Within ten days after making the assignment the debtor must file with the clerk of the court where the deed of assignment is filed an inventory, duly verified, and containing a list of all his creditors, their residences, the amount and nature of the debt due to each and whether secured; and a complete inventory of the debtor's estate and the incumbrances or securities incident thereto, and the value of the estate and each item thereof, to the best knowledge of the debtor.

The assignee, within five days after the filing of the inventory, and before he is allowed to dispose of any part of the assigned property, must file with the clerk of the court a bond in twice the value of the estate, as shown by the inventory or by the affidavit of the debtor, with two or more sureties, residents and freeholders, conditioned for the faithful performance of the trust. The assignee shall forthwith give notice of the assignment directly to each creditor, and by publishing notice thereof in some newspaper published either in the county where the assignment is made, in an adjoining county, or in St. Paul. The assignee represents the creditors and has all the rights which such creditors would have to avoid fraudulent conveyances and transfers. Creditors must file their claims, duly verified, with the assignee. The court has power to fix the time within which claims must be presented, and usually they must be presented within the time, but on showing good cause the court may allow claims to be filed after such time. Out of the funds coming into the hands of the assignee the expenses of the assignment are to be first paid. After that shall be paid: 1. Debts due the United States, the State of Minnesota, taxes and assesments. 2. Debts due for labor performed within three months of the date of the assignment. 3. All debts, duly proved, pro rata or in full. All proceedings are under the supervision of the district judge. Twenty days before paying any dividend the assignee must file with the clerk of the court a list of claims allowed. Upon the full performance of his duties the assignee may apply to be released, upon three weeks' notice. Under the Assignment Law no releases need be filed and creditors may prosecute the debtor for the remainder of their claims.

(b). Insolvent Act: Whenever any debtor shall have become insolvent, or garnishment shall have been made against any debtor, or his property levied upon, he may make an assignment of all his unexempt property for the equal benefit of all his bona fide creditors who shall file releases of their claims. Such assignments shall be made in the same manner as those under the Assignment Law. If the assignment is made within ten days after such garnishment, levy, attachment or execution is levied on debtor's property, it shall operate to discharge the property from such garnishment, etc., unless the assignee shall within five days after qualifying file with the clerk of the District Court notice of his intention to retain such garnishments, etc.

Whenever any insolvent debtor shall confess judgment or do anything whereby any of his creditors shall obtain preference over any other of his creditors, or shall omit to do anything which he might lawfully do to prevent any of his creditors from obtaining preference over any other of his creditors; or shall not make an assignment under the provisions of the Insolvent Act within ten days after any garnishment, levy, etc., has been made against him, or shall conceal or remove his property with intent to defraud his creditors; then, or within sixty days thereafter any one or more of his creditors having claims to the aggregate amount of two hundred dollars or more, may petition the District Court for a receiver of the property of such debtor, and such receiver being appointed, the debtor's property is distributed as under the Assignment Law, with the exception that only such creditors as file releases of their claims can participate in the dividend. No preferences are allowed except those expressly provided for by law.

Claims are to be filed in the same manner and with the same time as under the Assignment Law. Releases are to be filed before dividends are paid, and the court usually makes an order limiting the time within which they may be filed. If not filed within the time limited the court will, for cause shown, allow releases to be filed or it seems will allow them to be filed at any time before dividends are paid. Releases are to be filed with the clerk of the court. The release of the debtor under the Insolvent Act does not operate to release any person liable as surety, guarantor or otherwise, for the same debt. Creditors who do not file releases do not share in the dividend, but keep their claims intact against the debtor.

An amendment to the Insolvent Act, enacted in 18[illegible] declares that a debtor who has made an assignment under its provisions, but who does not wish to receive merely the release provided for in that act, may: He may present to the court an application for a discharge from all of his debts. This petition shall be accompanied by an affidavit of the debtor setting out the facts of the assignment; that the inventories were true; that he has not within six years preceding disposed of any part of his estate for the future benefit of himself or his family or in order to defraud his creditors, nor acknowledged

...or debt he did not honestly owe. Upon the filing of this application and affidavit the court shall cause a citation to issue requiring all creditors to show cause why the debtor should not be discharged. This citation shall be served as a summons is served, or in the manner directed by the court. Any creditor objecting to the discharge may file an answer to the application stating the facts by reason of which the discharge should not be granted. The issues may be tried before a jury at the request of any creditor. At such a hearing the insolvent may be examined on oath concerning his property and debts, at the instance of any creditor, and the creditor may contradict his testimony. All persons who have filed claims or received dividends, whether they are residents of this State or not, are declared to be parties to the action and to be bound by the decree entered by the court. All persons within the State, upon whom the citation is served, are also declared to be bound by the proceedings. If upon the hearing it appears that the debtor has complied with all the requirements of law, and has acted honestly in delivering all of his unexempt property to the assignee, the court shall order his discharge from the debts of all who have proved their claims or have been made parties to the action.

IV ATTACHMENT:

In an action for the recovery of money the plaintiff, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterward, may have the property of the defendant attached, whenever the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make affidavit that a cause of action exists against the defendant, specifying the amount of the claim and the ground thereof; and that the defendant: 1. Fraudulently contracted the debt. 2. Is a foreign corporation, or is a non-resident. 3. Has departed from the State, as deponent believes, with intent to defraud or delay his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed with like intent. 4. Has assigned, secreted, disposed of, or is about to assign, secrete, or dispose of his property with intent to delay or defraud his creditors: provided, that no attachment shall be allowed in actions for libel, slander, seduction, breach of promise of marriage, false imprisonment or assault and battery. Before the writ is allowed the plaintiff must furnish a satisfactory bond for at least the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES.

Such claims must be itemized and sworn to by the creditor, his agent or attorney, stating the amount due, that the same is just and true, that no payments have been made thereon which have not been credited, and that there are no offsets to the knowledge of the affiant. The statement is filed with the judge of the Probate Court. An appeal may be taken to the District Court from the allowance or disallowance of a claim.

VI. COURTS:

The courts of the State are Supreme, District, Probate, Municipal and Justices'.

The Supreme Court has appellate jurisdiction. The District Court is the court of general jurisdiction. Probate Courts have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons.

There are Municipal Courts in all of the larger cities. Many of these are created under special acts, but usually the jurisdiction is limited in amount to from three hundred to five hundred dollars and they cannot try actions involving the title to real estate nor are their judgments liens on real estate; but a transcript thereof may be filed in the District Court and will then become a lien on real estate.

Justices have jurisdiction to the amount of one hundred dollars, but cannot try actions for false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation, seduction, breach of promise to marry, nor actions equitable in their nature or involving the title to real estate.

VIII. DEEDS:

No estate or interest in lands, other than leases for a term not exceeding one year, nor any trust or power over or concerning lands, shall be granted, created, assigned, surrendered or declared, unless by act or operation of law, or by deed or conveyance in writing, subscribed by the parties creating, granting, assigning, surrendering or declaring the same, or by their lawful agent thereto authorized by writing; but courts of equity may compel specific performance of contracts partly performed.

Deeds should be executed in the presence of two witnesses who subscribe their names and should be acknowledged (see "I. Acknowledgments") and recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which the land is situate. Unless so recorded the deed is void as against subsequent purchasers in good faith for a valuable consideration, and also as against any attachment or judgment obtained in good faith against the person in whose name the land appears of record. Deeds cannot be recorded unless acknowledged and witnessed by two witnesses. Deeds must be executed under seal of grantor; a scroll being sufficient therefor.

The interest of a married woman is released if she joins with her husband; and she need not be examined separately.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Deposition within the State may be taken when the witness: 1. Lives more than thirty miles from the place of trial. 2. Is about to go out of the State and will not return in time for the trial. 3. Is so sick, infirm or aged as to make it probable he cannot attend the trial.

The usual method in the case of depositions to be taken without the State is to serve a notice on the adverse party that the deposition of certain persons, naming all of them, will be taken at a certain place and time before a certain person, who must be one authorized by the law of the place to administer oaths. The notice is served as are notices in civil actions, and so as to allow the adverse party sufficient time by the usual route of travel to reach the place therein noted, allowing one day for each one hundred miles of distance between the place of serving the notice and place of taking depositions, and one day for preparation, excluding Sundays and the day of service. This method is also frequently used for taking depositions within the State. Depositions may be taken out of the State under a commission issued by the court to a competent person.

X. DESCENT:

A homestead is not affected by any disposition to which the surviving husband or wife has not assented in writing and is free from debts of the deceased. If there is no issue living, it descends to the surviving husband or wife; if no surviving husband or wife, to the children; if there is a surviving husband or wife and children, such surviving husband or wife has a life estate and the children have the remainder; if no surviving husband or wife and no children, the homestead descends as other real estate.

Surviving husband or wife takes one undivided one-third of all the real estate the deceased husband or wife was possessed of during coverture, to the disposition of which such survivor has not assented in writing, subject, however, to the payment of debts in the same proportion as is the other real estate.

The residue descends: 1. In equal shares to the children and lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation. 2. If there are no children and no issue of any deceased child the entire estate goes to the surviving husband or wife. 3. If there is no surviving husband or wife, and no children, then to the father. 4. If there is no issue, husband or wife, nor father, then to the mother. 5. If no issue, husband, wife, father nor mother, then to brothers and sisters equally and to their issue by right of representation. 6. If none of these, then to next of kin in equal degree of collateral kinship. 7. If at the death of any unmarried child under age, all the other children of such parent are dead but have left issue, such issue shall take the estate of such child derived from said parent, and if such issue are in equal degree of kindred they take equally, otherwise by right of representation. 8. If no husband, wife or kindred, the estate escheats to the State. Degrees of kindred are computed according to the civil law. Kindred of the half and whole blood have equal rights. The survivor of a testate spouse, who has provided in a will for such survivor in lieu of the right secured by statute to such survivor, must renounce such provision by written instrument filed in the Probate Court where the will is probated, within six months after probate, or he will be deemed to have taken such provision in lieu of his statutory rights.

XI. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Any corporation organized for the purpose of constructing or maintaining any work of internal improvement, requiring the taking of private property for public use, gas and water companies, street railway companies, mining and quarrying companies, on compliance with the statutes regulating the formation of such, shall, according to their business, and the provision of law, have among other corporate powers, the power of eminent domain.

Any corporation with such power may present to the District Court in the county in which any property proposed to be taken may be, a petition, signed by the president and secretary of the corporation, setting forth a description of the enterprise, and a description of the land necessary to be taken, used or overflowed for the purposes of such enterprise, and also the name of each owner and each person interested in said lands, so far as the same can be found out from the public records, and praying the appointment of three competent, disinterested persons as commissioners to determine the compensation to be made to such owners and incumbrancers, or others interested.

A notice stating the objects of the petition, containing a description of the lands proposed to be taken, and stating the time when and the place where the same will be presented to the court, shall be served on every person interested in such lands at least ten days before the time designated in such notice for the presentation of the petition. If any such persons cannot be found or are non-residents the notice may be served by publication. The proceedings are void as to persons not served in one of the methods prescribed.

Upon the hearing on the petition, if the court is satisfied that the public interests require the prosecution of the proposed enterprise and that the lands proposed to be taken are required for its purposes, it shall appoint the commissioners as prayed for. The commissioners, after taking a prescribed oath, shall proceed, upon viewing the premises and hearing proofs, to assess the damages accruing to any person by reason of the said construction or improvement. The commissioners must thereafter file a complete report, with a map showing the place of the improvement, in the District Court, and notice of the filing must be served on all persons interested. Within thirty days of serving the notice of filing such report any person may appeal to the court in which it is filed. Upon the company giving bond to pay any amount awarded by the court it is permitted to proceed with the construction. Upon the appeal the court or jury may re-assess the damages. The company may file and record certified copies of the report of the commissioner or the verdict or judgment in the office of the register of deeds and thus perfect the record title.

The United States, the State of Minnesota and the various municipal corporations have the right to take property for public purposes.

XII. EXECUTIONS:

Executions may issue on judgments at any time within ten years after docketing. The execution is good for sixty days and may be renewed. Personal property is levied on under execution, and sold on ten days' notice, the notice being given by posting it in three public places. Real estate is sold on six weeks' notice, given by posting said notice in three public places and by advertising it also for that period in a newspaper published in the county where the real estate is located.

XIII. EXEMPTIONS:

The following are exempt from levy or attachment: Family pictures, school books or library, and musical instruments for use of family; a seat or pew in a church; a lot in a burial ground; all household furniture not exceeding five hundred dollars in value; moneys arising from insurance of exempt property when such property is destroyed by fire; wearing apparel of debtor and family; three cows, ten swine, one yoke of oxen and a horse, or in lieu thereof, a span of horses or mules, twenty sheep, and the wool from the same, and enough food for all such stock for one year; one wagon, cart or dray, one sleigh, two plows, one drag and other farming utensils, not exceeding three hundred dollars in value; the provisions necessary to support the debtor and his family for one year; the tools and instruments of any mechanic, miner, or other person, used for the purpose of carrying on his trade, and stock in trade, including articles of goods manufactured in whole or in part by him, not exceeding four hundred dollars in value; the library and implements of any professional man; the outfit belonging to the publisher of a newspaper to the value of two thousand dollars; one sewing machine and one bicycle; necessary seed grain for actual personal use of debtor for one season, exceeding in no case more than one hundred bushels; and the wages of any laboring man or woman or of his or her minor children, in any sum not exceeding twenty dollars, due for services rendered during ninety days preceding the issue of any process of attachment, garnishment, or execution in any action against such laborer.

Most of these exemptions are allowed only in case of residents, but the exemptions to which any laborer in any other state is entitled to shall be allowed when such laborer is garnisheed in this State for a debt contracted in another state, such laborer being a resident of such state at the time of the garnishment.

XIV. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead, consisting of not more than eighty acres and the dwelling house thereon, and its appurtenances, and not included within the platted portion of any incorporated town, city or village, or, instead thereof, a quantity of land not exceeding in amount one lot, if within the platted portion of any incorporated town, city or village having more than five thousand inhabitants, or one-half acre, if within the platted portion of any incorporated town, city or village having less than five thousand inhabitants, and the dwelling house thereon and its appurtenances, owned and occupied by any resident of this State, is not liable for the debts of the owner.

The same exemption extends to the widow and children of deceased debtor. The wife and minor children of a debtor who has absconded are entitled to the privileges of homestead, but cannot sell it. Ordinarily a debtor may sell his homestead and it passes free from the lien of any judgment against him.

Except in the case of a purchase money mortgage, the homestead cannot be conveyed or mortgaged except the wife join. A mortgage on a homestead, where wife joins, constitutes a valid lien. Mechanics' liens may be filed on the homestead. Homesteads may be sold for nonpayment of taxes. If the owner of a homestead abandons it for more than six months, without filing in the register of deeds' office a notice of his intention to claim said property as his homestead, he loses his right, and in no case is it allowed after more than five years' continuous abandonment.

XV. INTEREST AND USURY:

Seven per cent is the legal rate and is allowed on all kinds of debts, including judgments and accounts. Parties may agree to pay as much as ten per cent per annum. Anything above ten per cent is usurious and the whole debt is forfeited. The courts have construed the statute strictly and no device is allowed to defeat the plain meaning of the law.

XVI. JUDGMENTS:

Remain good for ten years from the date of entry and may be renewed for an additional ten years. They constitute a lien on all real estate owned by debtor at the time of docketing, or acquired during the life thereof in any county where the judgment is docketed. Transcripts may be docketed in any county creditor desires. The above statements are true only of judgments docketed in the District Court. Judgments obtained in Justices' or Municipal Courts may be made District Court judgments by filing transcripts.

XVII. LIENS:

There are several kinds of statutory liens allowed to keepers of livery stables, to common carriers for their charges, etc. In those cases the statute allows the creditor to sell the horses, freight, etc., upon notice.

The more important liens are those given to those who have performed labor or furnished materials for buildings, etc., and known as "mechanics' liens." Whoever performs labor or furnishes material for the construction or repair of any boat, vessel or other water craft, or of any house or other building or appurtenance, or of any bridge, wharf, fixture, fence or other structure; or for grading, filling or excavating any ditch, drain, well or cistern; or for making, altering or repairing any sidewalk, gutter, sewer, water or gas pipe, by virtue of a contract with or at the instance of the owner thereof or his agent, trustee, contractor or sub-contractor, shall have a lien to secure the price of such labor, materials etc., on the structure, ditch, etc., and on the land on which the same is situated, not exceeding forty acres if the land is without the limits of an incorporated town and not exceeding one acre if within the limits of an incorporated town. Leased lands are subject to such lien unless the owner, within five days after he learns of the improvements, etc., on the land, gives notice that it shall not be subject to them.

A person wishing to avail himself of the law allowing such liens must, within ninety days after the last item of labor, etc., was furnished, file with the register of deeds of the county where the land is situate, a verified statement of the amount actually due; that the same is due for labor, material, etc., as the case may be, the time when the first and last items were furnished, a description of the property to be charged with the lien, the name of the owner or reputed owner, and a notice of the intention to claim and hold a lien. Such liens are enforced in the same manner that mortgages are foreclosed by action. Such action must be commenced within a year from the time the last item of labor, materials, etc., was furnished.

The other lien most commonly met with in the State is the lumberman's or logger's lien. Whoever performs work on any logs, cross-ties, etc., in this State may file a lien for such work in the surveyor-general's office for the district where the logs are and may at the same time attach the logs. The claimant is not required to give bond as in cases of ordinary attachment. If the lien is established the logs are sold on execution to satisfy the claim.

XVIII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for the recovery of real estate may be brought within fifteen years; actions on judgments within ten years; upon any contract, obligation, or upon a liability created by statutes, or to enforce a trust or compel an accounting, within six years; for libel, slander, assault and battery, or false imprisonment, two years. In matters relating to time when the statute begins to run, questions of disability, non-residence, etc., the rules of the common law are enacted with little change.

XIX. MARRIED WOMEN:

All property belonging to a woman at the time of her marriage continues to belong to her during coverture. A married woman may deal with her separate property as fully as an unmarried woman, except that she cannot convey her real estate or enter into any contract with reference to it unless her husband join with her in such conveyance or contract; except that she may give a purchase money mortgage, make leases not to exceed three years in length, or release dower in lands owned by a former deceased husband.

No contract between husband and wife, with reference to any land owned by either of them, nor any power of attorney from one to the other to convey any land, shall be of any force; but in reference to all other subjects either may be the agent of the other or contract each with the other as fully as if the relation of husband and wife did not exist. Neither is liable for any debts of the other, contracted before or after marriage, except for necessaries furnished to the wife after marriage, where the husband would be liable at common law. A married woman is responsible for her torts and is bound by all her contracts except those relating to her real estate, and her property is liable for her debts and her torts as fully as if she were unmarried.

XX. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages on real estate are executed, acknowledged etc. recorded in the same manner that deeds are executed, etc. The husband or wife should join, except in purchase money mortgages. There are two ways in which real estate mortgages may be foreclosed: 1. By advertisement: that is, by publishing in some newspaper published in the county where the mortgaged property lies, for the period of six weeks, once in a week, a notice prescribed by statute. The sale is made by the sheriff to the highest bidder. His certificate of sale is prima facie evidence of title, and the mortgagor has one year from the day of the sale in which to redeem the property. 2. By action: In which an action to foreclose brought in the same way that other actions are brought, and the sheriff makes a sale as on an execution.

Whether the foreclosure is by action or by advertisement, the sheriff's affidavit and all other affidavits should be recorded within ten days after the sale, and the certificate should be recorded within twenty days.

Chattel mortgages not accompanied by immediate delivery, and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the things mortgaged, shall be void as against creditors, subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless it appears that the mortgage was executed in good faith, and unless such mortgage or a copy be filed in the office of the town or city clerk in the town or city where the property mortgaged shall lie, and also in the town where the mortgagor lives at the time of the execution of said mortgage. When such mortgage is acknowledged and so filed it is declared to be sufficient notice of the existence and conditions thereof for the period of two years, and the mortgagee may, before the expiration of two years, file an affidavit showing what interest he has in the mortgage, and it will then continue to be notice for the further period of one year, and such renewal may be repeated from year to year. Chattel mortgages may be foreclosed by action, but they usually contain a power of sale and are almost always foreclosed under such power. The sale is made upon ten days' notice given by serving a copy of the notice on the mortgagor or the person in possession of the property, and by posting such notice for the same length of time in the three most conspicuous places in the city or town. If the sale is made by the sheriff the mortgagee may purchase.

XXI. NOTES AND BILLS:

The usual rules in regard to commercial paper are in force in Minnesota. Days of grace are allowed. Notes containing a provision for the payment of attorney's fees are collectible, but are not negotiable. Notes having a seal on them are not negotiable.

Where A indorses B's note before delivery to the payee named therein, A and B are both makers of the note and there is no need of protesting in order to hold A. Possession of the note is prima facie evidence of the indorsement, and the signature and indorsements are presumed to be genuine until denied by the oath of the person whose name purports to be signed, unless such person be dead.

XXII. SUITS:

Are commenced by the service of a summons. A complaint, stating the plaintiff's cause of action, must either be attached to the summons when it is served, or must have been filed in the office of the clerk of the court in which suit was brought, prior to such service. The summons may be served by the sheriff of the county where the defendant is to be found, or by any other person not a party to the action. When defendant is a non-resident, but has property within the State, service may in many cases be had by publication, but the property must first be attached, and the judgment so obtained is a judgment against the property attached, and not a personal judgment.

In the District Court the defendant has ten days in which to answer. In the municipal courts the time is shorter, usually two days.

XXIII. TAXES:

All real and personal property in excess of one hundred dollars is subject to taxation. The taxes assessed for one year become due on the first day of January of the following year.

Personal property tax, if not paid, becomes delinquent on the first day of March and a penalty of ten per cent is added. On the first day of April the county treasurer makes a list of delinquent personal property taxes, which he certifies to the clerk of the District Court. The clerk thereupon issues warrants to the sheriff directing him to collect the said taxes. If they are not paid on demand he shall seize the goods of the delinquent and sell them on ten days' notice.

If real estate taxes are not paid a penalty of ten per cent is added on the first day of June; an additional penalty of five per cent is added on the first day of the following January, and then an action is begun to obtain a tax judgment. After this is obtained, the auditor proceeds, on the first Monday in May, to sell the property for the taxes. The amount of the sale draws interest at the rate of one per cent per month until redeemed. Redemption may be made at any time within three years from the day of sale.

XXIV. WAGES:

If any person fails to pay any wages earned, for a period of thirty days after the same have become due, and the same are recovered by action, such person must pay double the costs allowed in civil actions. Any mechanic, clerk, laborer or servant, having performed labor in connection with any business, within six months of the sale of such business, may file a lien, within one month after the same becomes due, and such lien must be first paid out of the proceeds of such sale. In all mechanical and manufacturing employments ten hours shall constitute a day's labor and all contracts for a day's labor shall be so construed unless otherwise expressly provided in the contract. (See "XII. Exemptions," and "XVII. Liens.")

XXV. WILLS:

Any person of full age and sound mind may dispose of his property by will in writing. Wills must be signed at the end thereof by the testator or by some one in his presence and by his express direction, and must be witnessed and subscribed in his presence. A legacy to a subscribing witness is void unless there are at least two other competent witnesses.

A will can be revoked only by burning, tearing, cancelling or obliterating the same, with the intention of revoking it, by the testator, or by some person in his presence, and by his direction; or by some will, codicil, or other writing, signed, attested and subscribed in the manner provided for in the execution of a will. Subsequently acquired real estate may pass by devise.

No will is effectual to pass property until it it is duly probated. A will made out of the State, which might be proved and allowed by the laws of the state or country in which it was made, may be proved, allowed and recorded in this State; and shall then have the same effect as if executed according to the laws of this State. The usual practice is to have the will probated in the state where it is made and a certified copy is then produced to the Probate Court here.

MINING CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any number of persons, not less than three, desiring to form a corporation for the purpose of mining, smelting, reducing, refining or working ores or minerals, or for working coal mines or stone quarries, and marketing the materials; or for manufacturing brick or stone, or iron, steel, copper, or other metals; or for the purpose of buying, working, selling and dealing in metals or other mineral products, or for the whole or any part of such purposes, may do so by signing and severally acknowledging articles of incorporation which shall declare that they do thereby associate together and agree upon said articles for the purpose of forming a corporation under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of corporations for mining and smelting ores and for manufacturing iron, copper and other metals," approved February 24th, 1876, and acts amendatory thereof.

The articles shall set out: 1. The name of the corporation, which shall not be the same as that previously assumed by any other corporation in this State. 2. The general nature of the business to be carried on, and the place of the principal office or headquarters of the company. 3. The names and places of residence of the persons so associating to form such corporation. 4. The amount of the capital stock of said corporation. It is usual to insert the limit of indebtedness in the articles of incorporation, though it is not required.

These articles must be executed in duplicate, one copy filed with the register of deeds in the county in which the principal office of the company is located, and the other copy in the office of the Secretary of State in St. Paul, Minn.; and upon being so deposited, said corporation shall be deemed to exist, for the purposes specified in the articles, as a manufacturing and mechanical corporation, under the constitution and laws of this State, and it thereafter has all the ordinary powers of corporations. It is not necessary to publish the articles of incorporation where the corporation is formed under the act mentioned above. The certified copy of said articles made by the register of deeds or the Secretary of State shall be evidence, in all courts, of such corporation.

The articles may be amended by a majority vote in amount of the stockholders, and by depositing such amendment for record in the offices where the articles of incorporation are deposited for record.

II. BY-LAWS:

Such a corporation may prescribe and adopt by-laws for the management of its business, and such by-laws may be amended by the board of directors from time to time, and may be amended by the stockholders at any regular meeting, and such amendment by stockholders shall stand until repealed or changed by the stockholders themselves at some regular meeting thereafter. All by-laws shall be filed in the offices where the articles of incorporation are required to be filed and shall not be operative until they are so filed.

Until the corporation shall have been duly organized and the board of directors elected, the persons executing the articles of incorporation shall constitute a first board of directors, with full power and authority to act, to make by-laws, and complete the organization of the company.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

The minimum amount of capital stock allowed is ten thousand dollars, and such capital stock shall be divided into shares of not more than one hundred dollars each. Each share shall have one vote at all meetings of stockholders, and may be represented in person, or by proxy, under written appointment.

Such stock is deemed personal property and may be issued, sold and transferred as may be prescribed by resolution or by-laws of the corporation or its managing board. No stock so issued, purporting to be full paid, shall be subject to any further assessment in the hands of the lawful holder thereof.

IV. MEETINGS:

A majority in amount of the stockholders may call a meeting of stockholders at any time, irrespective of any by-laws, at the principal office of the company, or at the capital of the State, upon giving thirty days' notice by publication in a newspaper published in the place of such office, or, if there is no such paper, then in one published in the capital. Directors and stockholders may also hold meetings out of the State and maintain offices out of the State, but shall always have an office in this State where legal process may be served on it.

V. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

The corporation must keep a record of the proceedings had at meetings of stockholders and also of all proceedings had by the board of directors, and such record shall be subject to the inspection of all the stockholders at all reasonable times.

VI. POWERS:

Such a corporation may sell, mortgage or lease its real estate on a majority vote in amount of the stockholders, and not otherwise. And may also acquire and hold stock in any other corporation, if a majority in amount of the stockholders shall so elect.

VII. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

The constitution of the State of Minnesota declares: "Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable to the amount of stock held or owned by him." The statutes relative to the organization of mining corporations, summarized above, enact that such a corporation shall exist "as a manufacturing and mechanical corporation, under the constitution and laws of this state." (See supra Execution of Articles.) It is the intention of the Legislature, apparently, to classify mining corporations as mechanical or manufacturing corporations and thus free the stockholders from any personal liability. While the matter has never been passed upon by the Supreme Court, it would seem pretty clear that the legislature cannot do so, and it has been so held by at least one district judge. There is little question that stockholders are liable for the debts of the corporation to the amount of their stock.

VIII. RELIEF OF JOINT OWNERS:

Where veins, lodes or deposits of iron, iron ores, minerals or mineral ores of any kind, coal, clay, sand, gravel or peat are known to or do exist on or in lands which belong to a plurality of owners, and some of said owners are not willing to operate or work said veins, lodes, etc., the others may maintain an action to be allowed to operate the same under certain restrictions and requirements, to be imposed by the court in which said action is brought.

CORPORATIONS:
I. General Provisions.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Resident aliens only may acquire and hold real estate.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

There is no general insolvent law. In a general assignment, with assets over one thousand dollars, the assignee must give bonds. Creditors may, by showing fraud, secure priority.

III. ATTACHMENT:

Issues for all debts and damages. Before a writ issues a bond in favor of defendant in double the claimed debt must be executed by plaintiff.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

All claims must be probated, which stops the statute of limitations, within one year after publication of notice of time and place of probation to creditors.

V. COURTS:

Justices of the peace have civil jurisdiction in actions in which amount in controversy does not exceed two hundred dollars.

Chancery Courts, having jurisdiction over estates and matters of equity, are held twice a year in each county.

The Supreme Court receives appeals from the Circuit and Chancery Courts.

VI. DEEDS:

Are required to pass estate in lands greater than one year. Must be acknowledged and recorded to affect third parties.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

Of witnesses without the State may be taken by a properly constituted commission. Depositions may be taken without the State by any person qualified to administer oaths.

VIII. DESCENT:

Estates go: 1. To descendants per stirpes. 2. To brothers and sisters and their descendants per capita. 3. To father or mother. 4. To next of kin. Whole and half blood inherit the same. Illegitimates inherit from mother and her kin. Without any heir the property escheats to the State.

IX. EXECUTIONS:

Equitable and undivided interests, bank notes and bills are evidences of debt, circulating as money or stocks and are vendable under execution at law or equity. Executions must be delivered to the sheriff within twenty days after adjournment of the court.

X. EXEMPTIONS:

There is no exemption for non-payment of taxes; for the amounts for materials or labor; for forfeited bail bond, or where the debt is founded on the purchase money. Otherwise a homestead, not in excess of two thousand dollars in value, or one hundred and sixty acres in extent, may be claimed, and including therewith two horses, two oxen, two cows, two calves, twenty hogs, twenty sheep, two hundred and fifty bushels of corn, ten bushels of wheat or rice, one-half a ton of hay, forty gallons of molasses, a sugar mill under one hundred and fifty dollars in value, bridle, saddle and side saddle, five hundred pounds of meat, wagon, buggy, harness, furniture under one hundred and fifty dollars in value and growing crops.

XI. INTEREST:

The legal rate is six per cent, but ten may be paid on contract. When more than ten per cent is contracted for the whole interest is forfeited.

XII. JUDGMENTS:

Of any court may be enrolled on the judgment roll in the Circuit Court clerk's office of any county, and are then liens upon the property of the defendant.

XIII. LIENS:

There are mechanics', judgment, agricultural, personal property and court vendors' liens.

XIV. LIMITATIONS:

On verbal contracts actions must be commenced within three years; against executors, etc., within four years after qualification; other personal actions, six years; on foreign judgments, seven years; real actions, ten years.

XV. MARRIED WOMEN:

Are free from all common law disabilities regarding property. Deeds between husband and wife are void unless in writing, acknowledged and recorded.

XVI. MORTGAGES:

Must be acknowledged and recorded. They are discharged by payment. No redemption from sale.

XVII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bills of exchange and endorsed promissory notes are negotiable, drawing when payable without the United States ten per cent damages, and when payable in another State five per cent damages. Must be presented on the day before when due on Sunday, New Year's Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day or Christmas Day.

XVIII. SUITS:

Forms are immaterial. In law they commence by declaration and summons; in equity, by bill and summons; security for costs is demandable of non-residents.

XIX. TAXES:

Are due on December 15th in each year; and lands are sold for non-payment on the first Monday in March following. Lands so sold may be redeemed at any time within two years after sale.

XX. WILLS:

May be executed by anyone twenty-one years old. If not wholly written by testator, must be attested by two witnesses.

CORPORATIONS.

I. GENERAL PROVISIONS:

All corporations except railroads and insurance are formed under general laws and may hold property not in excess of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; banks and manufacturing companies, one million dollars.

Stockholders are liable to the amount of their unpaid subscriptions. Foreign corporations may sue and be sued.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. AFFIDAVITS:

Affidavits to be used in the courts may be taken before commissioners for the State, notaries public, or judges or clerks of courts of record, and should be attested by the official seal of these officers.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens, or any corporation not created by or under the laws of the United States or of some state or territory of the United States, cannot hereafter, unless such right is secured by existing treaties (June 21, 1895), acquire, hold or own real estate, or any interest therein, in this State, except such as may be acquired by inheritance or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts. No corporation or association, more than twenty percentum of the stock of which is or may be owned by any person or persons, corporation or corporations, association or associations, not citizens of the United States, shall hereafter (June 21, 1895) acquire, hold or own any real estate in this State.

III. ASSIGNMENT.

Every assignment for the benefit of creditors is for the benefit of all the creditors in proportion to their respective claims. No preferences can be made in the deed of assignment; but the courts have upheld mortgages and deeds of trust given just before the assignment was made to secure certain creditors, whether given by individuals or corporations.

The assignor must sign and acknowledge the deed of assignment and make a verified statement of the nature and value of the property assigned. The assignee must give bond with security within three days, and file inventory of assets within fifteen days; give notice of the allowance of claims within three months by advertisement published for four weeks successively; pay on demands within one month after allowance as much as the means on hand will permit, and as often thereafter as he can pay five per cent, and make a report every term to the Circuit Court, under whose directions he must act, and by whom he is discharged after the execution of his trust.

The Circuit Court may remove an assignee for cause and appoint a new one, or appoint one in case of vacancy.

Taxes and all wages due employees from corporations are preferred claims; other claims are paid pro rata, and discharge the debts only by the amount paid. Creditors who have not presented their claims on the days fixed for allowance, on account of sickness, absence from the State or other good cause, may, before the final dividend is declared, prove up their claims and receive the remaining dividends declared.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Attachment issues in aid of summons upon filing bond and affidavit showing that the defendant: 1. Is not a resident of this State. 2. Is a corporation, whose chief office or place of business is out of this State. 3. Conceals himself, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him. 4. Has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this State, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property or effects out of this State, with intent to defraud, hinder or delay his creditors. 6. Is about to remove out of this State, with intent to change his domicile. 7. Has or is about to fraudulently convey or assign his property or effects so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 8. Has or is about to fraudulently conceal, remove or dispose of his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 9. That the cause of action accrued out of this State, and the defendant has absconded, or secretly removed his property or effects into this State. 10. That the damages for which the action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of some felony or misdemeanor, or for the seduction of any female. 11. That the debtor has failed to pay the price or value of any article or thing delivered, which by contract he was bound to pay upon the delivery. 12. That the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted on the part of the debtor.

Attachment can be had for a debt not yet due in any of the cases above mentioned except the first four, but no judgment till the debt matures; may be levied on both real and personal property; and debtors of defendant may be garnisheed thereunder. Attachment may be issued and served also on Sunday and legal holidays. An attachment, if sustained, gives prior right over subsequent attachments, but wages of servants and laborers, not exceeding one hundred dollars, which accrued within six months prior to an attachment or receivership, are preferred debts.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

The testator may by will appoint an executor, but if this is not done or if there is no will, priority of right is given in granting letters of administration: 1. To the husband or wife. 2. To one or more of the distributees of the estate according to the discretion of the court, or judge or clerk in vacation; but non-residents cannot be appointed.

Executors and administrators are required to give a bond not less than double the value of the estate, excepting where a testator in naming an executor has requested that he be not required to give bond, but he may still be required to do so at the discretion of the Probate Court.

Executors and administrators are required to publish in some newspaper in the county in which letters are granted, notice of the grant of letters and the date thereof, requiring all persons having claims against the estate to exhibit them for allowance within one year after the date of letters, with the further notice that if such claims are not exhibited within two years from the time of such publication they will be barred.

Demands against the estate of a deceased person are divided into the following classes and priorities: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of the last sickness, and wages of servants. 3. All debts, including taxes due the State or any county or incorporated city or town. 4. Judgments rendered against the deceased in his lifetime, and judgments rendered upon attachments levied upon property of the deceased during his lifetime. 5. All demands legally exhibited against the estate within one year after granting letters. 6. All demands thus exhibited and presented to the court for allowance after the end of one year and within two years after letters are granted. All demands not thus exhibited and presented to the court for allowance within two years shall be forever barred, saving in case of legal disability; and said two years shall begin to run from the date of the letters where notice shall be published within thirty days after the granting thereof, and in all other cases said two years shall begin to run from the date of the publication of the notice.

To secure allowance of claims against the estate, notice of the intended presentation of a demand must be given in writing to the executor or administrator at least ten days before the commencement of the term of court at which the demand is intended to be presented, unless such notice be waived in writing by the executor or administrator, or in open court. The claimant is also required to make an affidavit showing that he has given credit to the estate for all payments and offsets to which it is entitled, and that the balance claimed is justly due. Besides such affidavit, the claimant is required to prove his claim as in ordinary cases, except that demands for ten dollars or less may be proved by affidavit and allowed without further proof upon the certificate of the administrator that they are correct. The claimant cannot be a witness to establish his own claim; it must be proved by other testimony.

In partnership estates the surviving partner has prior right to administer, and if he knows the assets to be ample to pay all debts, he may pay them without requiring them to be proven up in the Probate Court.

Executors and administrators perform their duties under the supervision of the Probate Court, and are required to make yearly settlements, and unless given further time, make final settlement at the first regular term after the expiration of two years from the publication of notice of the grant of letters of administration, having given notice thereof for four weeks.

VI. COURTS:

Justices' Courts in counties having over fifty thousand inhabitants have jurisdiction on contracts and torts to the extent of three hundred dollars, and of all actions against railroads for killing or maiming stock, irrespective of value; in counties having less than fifty thousand, in all cases of contract and tort to the extent of two hundred and fifty dollars, and against railroads for killing or maiming stock irrespective of value; in St. Louis they have jurisdiction to the extent of five hundred dollars.

Circuit Courts have unlimited general jurisdiction in cases exceeding fifty dollars. In some counties there are local courts called Common Pleas, of concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Courts over certain districts. Circuit Courts hold two to three terms annually (in St. Louis five), and where not otherwise provided have jurisdiction in criminal cases. There is a Probate Court in each county with the usual powers.

VII. FEES:

VIII. DEEDS:

Every deed, mortgage, conveyance, deed of trust, bond or other instrument authorized by law to be recorded (except wills) in order to be recorded must be acknowledged before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds, whose certificate shall be attached to such instrument.

Deeds need not be under seal unless executed by a corporation. They must be acknowledged or proved in this State before a court having a seal or some judge, justice or clerk thereof; a notary public, or justice of the peace of the county in which the real estate is conveyed or affected is situated. If acknowledged or proved without this State, and within the United States, by any notary public or by any court of the United States, or of any state or territory having a seal, or the clerk of any such court, or any commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State to take acknowledgment of deeds. If acknowledged or proved without the United States, by any court of any state, kingdom or empire having a seal, or the mayor or chief officer of any city or town having an official seal, or by any minister or consular officer of the United States, or notary public having a seal.

No witnesses are necessary. If the acknowledgment to a deed be taken by a notary public in this State the officer must give the date in writing when his commission expires.

Husband and wife must join in conveying the legal title of the wife to real estate. When a married woman unites with her husband in the execution of any such instrument and acknowledges it she shall be described in the acknowledgment as his wife, but in all other respects her acknowledgment should be taken and certified as if she were sole; and no separate examination of a married woman in respect to the execution of any release of dower or other instrument affecting real estate shall be required.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions in cases pending may be taken out of the State by procuring a commission from a court of record, and giving three days' written notice to the opposite party of the time and place of taking such depositions. Such notice shall be extended one day additional for every fifty miles distance between the places specified, up to three hundred miles, over which distance said notice shall be extended one day additional for every hundred miles of such distance.

The depositions must be taken by some commissioner, consul, commercial or diplomatic representative of the United States, having a seal; or mayor or chief officer of any city, town or borough having a seal of office; or by some judge, justice of the peace, or other judicial officer or by a notary public. If taken before any of said officers, except a judge or justice of the peace, and certified by him in his official character, accompanied by his seal of office, no other proof of his official character is necessary. If taken before a judge or justice of the peace, his official character must be shown by the certificate and seal of the clerk of some court of record within the county where the officer resides, stating that such officer was an acting judge or justice of the peace, and duly commissioned as such, at the time the depositions were taken.

Depositions of witnesses in this State may be taken by any officer authorized as above, without any commission or order of the court, on giving notice as above stated to the adverse party; provided, that in any cause pending in a city having over fifty thousand inhabitants the party to whom notice is given for taking the depositions of witnesses at any place in such city is entitled at any time before such taking is commenced, upon one day's notice of the application therefor served upon the party giving notice for depositions, to obtain from the court, judge, or clerk, an order appointing some disinterested attorney of such court a special commissioner to take such depositions and fixing the time and place thereof, and the depositions must then be taken pursuant to such order. Such commissioner is empowered to hear and determine objections to testimony, but must on demand of the party aggrieved, report his ruling excluding any evidence to the court or judge forthwith for approval or reversal, keeping open the depositions for further proceedings if required.

Every deposition must be reduced to writing in presence of the officer before whom it is taken, and signed by the witness. By agreement of parties, depositions may be taken down in short-hand and afterward written out and then signed by witness, or the signature of witness waived. Should the depositions be taken in shorthand by agreement, afterwards transcribed, and the signature of the witness waived, or read over and signed by the witness, the certificate should so state.

The return must, except in the cases above stated, be accompanied by a certificate of the official character of the officer taking them, attested by the seal of the state of his residence, or by the seal of some court of record within said state.

X. DESCENT:

All property of a person dying intestate, and not limited by marriage settlement, subject to dower and the payment of debts of deceased, descends and is distributed: 1. To children or their descendants, in equal parts. 2. If there be no children or their descendants, then to father, mother, brothers and sisters and their descendants in equal parts. 3. If there be none such, then to the husband or wife. 4. These failing, then to grandfather, grandmother, uncles and aunts, and their descendants, in equal parts, and so on to the nearest lineal ancestors and their children and descendants. 5. To kindred of the wife or husband of the intestate, in the same order.

Heirs of the half blood take only half the shares of the heirs of the whole blood. If all the heirs are of the same degree of relationship to the decedent they take per capita; if in unequal degrees, per stirpes.

XI. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Railroad companies have the right: 1. To enter upon the lands or waters of any person to examine and survey for its proposed railroad, subject to responsibility for damages. 2. To lay out its road, not exceeding one hundred feet in width; to construct the same; for the purpose of cuts and embankments to take as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the road; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling on the road, making compensation therefor. 3. To condemn land for depots and tracks, and may enter upon any land in the neighborhood of the line of their railroad to take therefrom earth, gravel, stone, wood, water or other material necessary for the construction and operation of said road, or for the pufpose of depositing thereon earth, etc. 4. For procuring water for use to lay pipes, erect pumps, dams and reservoirs and keep them in repair, paying the owner the damages or having them assessed by a jury. 5. To construct the road across, along or upon any stream of water, street, highway or canal, which the route of its road shall intersect or touch, but the stream, etc., shall be restored to its former condition or to such a state as not to have impaired its usefulness (but such construction must not interfere with the navigation of a navigable stream, nor be constructed on a street or highway without the assent or the corporate authorities of the city, or the County Court), and may maintain and operate in connection with any railroad bridge a toll bridge and charge toll. 6. To cross, intersect, join and unite its railroad with any other railroad before constructed at any points in its route upon the grounds of the other company, with the necessary turnouts and sidings, and in pursuit of such purpose to agree upon compensation or have the same fixed by condemnation. Railroads must maintain fences along their line of road and cattle guards at crossings.

Macadamized, graded and plank road companies may appropriate any State or county road with the consent of the County Court, and may take releases necessary and material by condemnation for, as do railroads constructing their road; and condemn land not to exceed one acre for the erection of a toll-house.

Operators of mines, saw-mills or other industries, with the consent of the State Railroad Commissioners, may build and maintain private switches to connect with a railroad.

Telegraph and telephone companies are authorized to set their poles, wires and other fixtures along, across or under any of the public roads, streets or waters in such manner as not to incommode the public in the use of the same, but in cities permission must be obtained to put the wires underground; and may enter upon private lands and condemn and occupy so much of said lands as may be necessary to erect their poles, wires and other necessary fixtures.

Water companies may take water from any stream not navigable, erect dams, lay pipes to convey water, and condemn lands for the same, and for the erection of reservoirs, pumping stations, etc.

Bridge companies organized for constructing and maintaining a bridge over a stream may condemn land for approaches, roads, foot or wagon-ways of such bridge.

Any person may erect a dam for mill purposes over a non-navigable stream and if he own the land on but one side, may have condemned one acre on the opposite side for that purpose. (See "XIX. Mill-Dams.")

XII. EXECUTIONS:

Executions may issue at any time within ten years from the time judgment is rendered. Justices' executions are returnable in ninety days, and executions from a court of record are returnable to the next term of court after they are issued. Execution from the Circuit Court not a lien upon property until levied. Execution from Justice Court a lien upon personal property as soon as placed in the hands of constable. There is no stay of execution. Real estate taken under execution is sold without appraisement to the highest bidder.

XIII. EXEMPTIONS:

Exemption from attachment and execution is allowed to the head of a family on a homestead owned and occupied of the value of one thousand five hundred dollars in the country, or in towns and cities of less than forty thousand inhabitants; and of the value of three thousand dollars in cities whose population exceeds that number; and on personalty amounting to about five hundred dollars in value.

To one not the head of a family nothing is exempt but wearing apparel and the necessary tools of trade of a mechanic. If the defendant is a non-resident or is about to abscond or leave the State with intent to change his domicile, he loses his right to exemption. When the defendant has absconded or absented himself from his abode his wife may claim exemptions, not exceeding in value three hundred dollars. No property is exempt from levy for wages of a house servant or common laborer up to ninety dollars, if suit is commenced within six months after last services have been rendered. Personal property is in all cases subject to execution on a judgment against the purchaser for the purchase price, without notice, except in the hands of an innocent purchaser.

XIV. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead may be conveyed or encumbered as other property, and for that purpose no special form of conveyance is required. If no such conveyance or encumbrance has been made, the wife or the owner of a homestead may file her claim to the tract of land occupied by her and her husband, or by her alone if the husband has abandoned her. Such claim must describe the property, and state that the claimant is the wife of the person in whose name the property is recorded, and must be acknowledged as deeds are, and recorded in the county recorder's office; and after such filing no conveyance of or incumbrance on the homestead can be made without the consent of the wife.

Upon the death of a person owning a homestead, leaving minor children or a widow surviving, such homestead vests as a homestead in the widow and minor children until the death of the widow, and until the youngest child is of age. The fee simple of the property, subject to the homestead so contained therein, will pass by descent or devise, and may be sold for the decedent's debts as in other cases. If the decedent during his lifetime has legally charged his homestead with the payment of any debt, such charge will continue and may be enforced after his death. The homestead is liable to attachment and execution upon all causes of action existing at the time the same is acquired.

XV. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent, but parties may contract in writing for not more than eight per cent. The penalty for usury is the forfeiture of the interest at eight per cent to the common schools, if the interest has not been paid; and if the interest has been paid the excess will be applied on the principal, and the defendant recover costs. Judgments bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum; if the contract sued on calls for a higher rate—not exceeding eight per cent—the judgment thereon bears the higher rate. An open account bears interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the time when demand for payment is made.

XVI. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of courts of record, including United States Circuit Courts, are liens upon the real estate of defendant within the county, and may be extended to other counties by filing a transcript of same. In the city of St. Louis such judgments are not liens until abstracts thereof are entered in the abstract book. Judgments of justices of the peace are liens on realty after transcript thereof is filed in the circuit clerk's office. The lien continues three years from the rendition of judgment and may be renewed for three years by scire facias. Judgment may be renewed within ten years for an additional period of ten years.

Judgment by confession may be entered without action, either for money due or to become due, or to secure a contingent liability. A statement in writing must be signed and verified by the defendant, showing the amount for which judgment may be rendered and authorizing entry of judgment thereon, and must state concisely the facts out of which the claim arose, and show that the sum is justly due or to become due; and if it be for the purpose of securing a contingent liability, the facts constituting the liability, and show that the sum confessed does not exceed the same.

XVII. LIENS:

Persons furnishing materials, machinery or fixtures for any building, erection or improvement on land or for repairs thereof, under contract with the owner, proprietor or his agent, trustee, contractor or sub-contractor, may have a lien on the erection and on the land, not exceeding one acre in the country or the lot in a town or city. The lien only covers the title or interest which the possessor has for whose use the structure is erected. The lien attaches to buildings when the land is previously incumbered, and the building may be removed when the lien is enforced. The lien attaches to the leasehold interest of the tenant, and the buildings and improvements erected by the tenant may be removed within sixty days after the lease terminates.

Contractors must within six months, and sub-contractors within four months, file with the clerk of the Circuit Court of the county where the building is a just and true account of the amount, after allowing just credits, with a description of the property sufficient to identify the same, the name of the contractor, or both. This statement must be sworn to by the claimant of the lien or by some person for him. The lien has precedence over all incumbrances created after the commencement of the building.

Sub-contractors must serve written notices on the owner that they have a claim, ten days before filing the lien. If the owner is absent, such notice is served by filing with the county recorder. Suit to enforce a lien must be commenced within ninety days after the lien is filed and must be prosecuted without delay. If the sub-contractor file lien, it is the duty of the contractor to defend the suit thereon, and the owner may withhold the money due the contractor during the pendency of the suit.

XVIII. LIMITATIONS:

Open accounts and all promises not in writing, five years; judgments and contracts in writing, ten years. A new promise in writing or part payment on account constitutes revivor.

XIX. MARRIED WOMEN:

Married women hold their real and personal property in their own name, free from control of the husband, and not liable for his debts, and also through the intervention of a trustee. A wife is liable for her ante-nuptial debts; but her husband's property is not, except such as may be acquired from the wife. A married woman can make contracts in her own name, buy goods and give notes in settlement of purchases binding her own separate property, both real and personal; and sue and be sued in any court of law or equity, without joining her husband; and contract and be contracted with as if she were a femme sole.

XX. MILL-DAMS:

Anyone owning land on one side of a stream and a part of the bed, who desires to erect a milldam, if he cannot agree as to compensation with the owner of the opposite side, or with the owners of the land which will be flowed, may file a petition in the Circuit Court of the county in which the mill or dam is to be erected, and such court will issue a writ directed to the sheriff of the county commanding him to summon a jury to appraise the damages. Notice must also be served on the proprietors of the land at the time such petition is filed. After the payment of damages and expenses the applicant secures a right to erect his mill or dam.

XXI. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages and deeds of trust must be executed and acknowledged like other deeds and must be recorded. The usual form of security is a deed of trust, by which the property is conveyed to a trustee, with power to sell without the intervention of the court.

Chattel mortgages are void as to creditors of the grantor and purchasers without notice, unless possession of the property passes to and is retained by the mortgagee, or the mortgage or deed is recorded.

Unless evidenced by writing, executed, acknowledged and recorded as provided in cases of mortgages of personal property, all sales of goods and chattels, unless accompanied by a delivery of possession within a reasonable time, are fraudulent and void as against vendor's creditors and subsequent purchasers in good faith. All conditional sales, leases, rentings and hirings of personal property are void as to creditors and subsequent purchasers in good faith.

Real property sold under deed of trust without foreclosure may be redeemed within one year if bought in by the cestui que trust or his assignee, or by any person for them or either of them, but on the day of the sale security must be given to the satisfaction of the Circuit Court (or clerk thereof in vacation) for payment of interest to accrue after sale and for damages and waste. If bought by a stranger there is no redemption.

XXII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bills of exchange, notes payable to a party or order or bearer and expressed to be for value received, and bills of lading and warehouse receipts, are made negotiable by statute, and are governed by the rules applicable to commercial paper; and negotiable notes are payable as therein expressed; if made payable at a certain bank of face, demand of payment must be made at the bank named.

Sight drafts or demand drafts on persons residing in this State are due and payable on the day demand of payment is made, and must be protested on that day if not paid.

Upon protested bills, and upon notes that have been negotiated, the following rates of damages can be recovered if the bill or note is overdue twenty days before suit is begun: 1. If drawn upon a party in this State, four per cent. 2. If drawn upon a party out of this State and within the United States, ten per cent. 3. If drawn upon a party out of the United States, twenty per cent.

The destruction of a bill by the drawee, or refusal to return it within twenty-four hours after presentation for acceptance, is taken to be an acceptance. Damages for protest are allowed only to holders for value or their assigns.

No days of grace are allowed on sight bills or orders. Public holidays are: January 1st, February 22d, May 30th, July 4th, the first Monday in September, December 25th, and public election day and Thanksgiving day; and in Kansas City and St. Louis, every Saturday after twelve o'clock noon is a legal half-holiday. Where any of such public holidays fall upon Sunday, the Monday next following shall be considered such holiday. Notes or bills falling due upon a Sunday or such public holiday, are payable on the next day, unless the latter be also a Sunday or holiday, in which case they are payable on the day preceding actual maturity; but all bills of exchange, drafts and promissory notes, except those payable at sight or on demand, which shall be otherwise payable on any half-holiday Saturday, shall be deemed to be and shall be payable on the next succeeding secular or business day.

XXIII. SUITS:

Suits for the collection of debts may be brought by summons in the county where defendant resides, or in the county where plaintiff resides, if the defendant can be found there; where there are several defendants, in any county in which one of them resides; and when defendants are non-resident, then in any county. Personal service of summons must be had in order to get personal judgment, otherwise judgment only affects property attached. Names of individual plaintiffs must be furnished, and a bond given for costs by non-residents, or a cash deposit made.

XXIV. TAXES:

State and county taxes are assessed on June 1st in each year, and if not paid before January 1st succeeding bear a penalty of one per cent per month until paid. Payment of delinquent taxes must be enforced by suit in the Circuit Court by the collector; judgment, special execution and sale by the sheriff; and all parties to the record are concluded thereby in absence of fraud. Suits for taxes, personal and real, are barred in five years.

XXV. WAGES:

All corporations shall make payment to their employes of wages due for all labor performed by them within three months next preceding, to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars, in preference to any other claim not secured by specific lien, and such payment may be enforced by civil action. All such debts due employes shall have a like priority of payment from the money and assets of the corporation in the hands of the officers or agents or receivers or assignees.

Payment of wages shall be made on or before the fifteenth day of each month for the full amount of all wages earned previous to the first day of that month; all employes or laborers in mines shall be regularly paid at least once in every fifteen days, and at no pay-day shall there be withheld any of the earnings of any employe. Whenever any employe shall demand it, the operator of each mine shall issue such employe a due-bill for the amount due him up to the day of demand, which due-bill shall be negotiable and shall be redeemed by such operator on demand in cash or its equivalent, at the option of the holder.

Any order, note, check, memorandum, token, evidence of indebtedness or other obligation, given in payment of wages by any person, firm or corporation must be redeemable, under penalty, at the maker's place of business in lawful money of the United States, or goods, at the option of the holder.

Railway, mining, express, telegraph, manufacturing or other corporations or companies doing business in Missouri shall give thirty days' notice of the reduction of wages to the employes to be affected thereby, by posting written or printed hand-bills in a conspicuous place in or near the office, shop or place where the employes may be at work, or by mailing each employe a copy of such notice, specifying the class of employes whose wages are to be reduced and the amount of the reduction, under penalty of fifty dollars for failure so to do.

No property is exempt from seizure and sale under execution for services rendered in the capacity of house-servant or common laborer to the amount of ninety dollars, provided suit be brought within six months after the last services were performed.

XXVI. WILLS:

Wills as to realty may be made by male persons over the age of twenty-one years; and as to personalty by male persons over the age of eighteen years. Women of the age of eighteen, whether married or single, may make wills as to their realty and personalty. The dower of a wife and curtesy of the husband cannot be affected by a will unless the provisions of the will are accepted by the election of the provisions of the will, within a specified time, and in a certain formal way.

Wills must be in writing, signed by the testator, or by some person by his direction in his presence, and attested at his request and in his presence by two witnesses. Wills of non-residents, to be effective as to real estate situated in this State, must be executed as prescribed by the laws of this State. After probate thereof, wills should be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in county where they have been probated, and copies duly certified should also be recorded in all other counties where the estate has any realty.

Wills must be contested within five years after probate; otherwise they will be binding, except as against persons laboring under disabilities, who have a like period of five years after removal of disabilities, to institute contest.

A legacy to a testating witness is void unless the will is attested by a sufficient number of other competent witnesses. The testator is deemed to die intestate as to children not named or provided for in the will. When an estate is devised to a child, grandchild or descendant of such testator, and such devisee shall die before the testator, leaving lineal descendants, such descendants shall take the estate, as such devisee would have done had he survived the testator.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any three or more persons, having associated themselves together by articles of agreement in writing, may incorporate under any name or title designating such business, for the purpose of carrying on mining and quarrying operations and any lawful trading, manufacturing, insurance, brokerage or other business, as set forth in detail in the laws of the State. Articles of incorporation must set forth: 1. Name of corporation, which shall not be that of any other corporation or an imitation of the same. 2. The name of the city or town and county in which the corporation is to be located. 3. Amount of capital stock (which must be not less than two thousand dollars nor more than ten million dollars), the number of shares into which it is divided and the par value thereof; that the same has been bona fide subscribed and one-half thereof actually paid up in lawful money of the United States, and is in the custody of the persons named as the first board of directors or managers. 4. The names and places of residence of the several shareholders and the number of shares subscribed by each. 5. The number of the board of directors or managers (must be not less than three nor more than thirteen, and at least three must be citizens and residents of this State and stockholders in such corporation), and the names of those agreed upon for the first year. 6. Term for which the corporation is to continue (not exceeding fifty years). 7. The purposes for which the corporation is formed.

The articles of incorporation must be signed and acknowledged by all the parties thereto and recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county or city in which the corporation is to be located; and a certified copy of such instrument filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and a fee paid into the State treasury of fifty dollars for the first fifty thousand dollars or less of capital stock, and five dollars for every additional ten thousand dollars of capital stock. Thereupon the Secretary of State shall issue his certificate stating that such corporation has been duly organized and certifying the amount of its capital stock, and such certificate shall be taken by all the courts in this State as evidence of the corporate existence of such corporation, and the persons so acknowledging such articles shall become a body corporate. Corporations must keep a general office for transaction of business in this State. The capital stock shall not be paid by note, nor can a corporation loan money to stockholders.

II. POWERS:

Every corporation, as such, has power: 1. To have succession by its corporate name, for the period limited in its charter, and, when no period is limited, for twenty years. 2. To sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity. 3. To make and use a common seal, and alter the same at pleasure. 4. To hold, purchase, mortgage or otherwise convey such real and personal estate as the purposes of the corporation shall require, not exceeding the amount limited in its charter, or by the law creating it; and also to take, hold and convey such other property, real, personal or mixed, as shall be necessary or requisite for such corporation to acquire in order to obtain or secure the payment of any indebtedness or liability belonging to the corporation. 5. To appoint such subordinate officers and agents as the business of the corporation shall require, and allow them a suitable compensation. 6. To make by-laws not inconsistent with existing laws, for the management of its property, the regulation of its affairs and for the transfer of its stock. 7. To increase or diminish, by a vote of its stockholders, cast as its by-laws may direct, the number of its directors or trustees, to be not less than three nor more than thirteen, and, in like manner, change its corporate name without in any wise affecting its rights, privileges or liabilities. Such changes of name or number of directors or trustees shall take effect and be in force from the date at which the president or secretary of such corporation shall file with the Secretary of State an affidavit setting forth the name adopted and the number of directors or trustees fixed, together with the date at which such change in name or number of directors or trustees was voted by the stockholders of such corporation.

Any corporation may, at a meeting duly called and held (notice of such meeting first having been given in the manner and form provided in Sections 2489, 2500, Revised Statutes, 1889), reduce the par value of its shares of stock and correspondingly increase the number thereof by a vote of the majority of the stock of the corporation.

No corporation shall engage in business other than that expressly authorized in its charter or the law under which it may have been or may hereafter be organized.

III. MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS:

The first meeting shall, unless otherwise provided in act of incorporation, be called by notice signed by one or more of the incorporators named in the act of incorporation, setting forth the time, place and purpose of meeting, and such notice shall be delivered to each member at least seven days before the meeting, or published in some newspaper in the county where the corporation may be established, or, if there be no such newspaper, then in the nearest newspaper. A justice of the peace may, on the written application of two or more members thereof, issue a warrant to either of said members directing him to call a meeting by giving the required notice. Subsequent meetings shall be called by the president and secretary by notice published for ten days setting forth the place, hour and object of such meeting, or, if they fail, a later meeting may be called by any two stockholders.

Two sworn inspectors, not directors, shall be appointed to canvass the vote on election of directors or any other proposition to be voted on at such meeting, and certify the result to the president. In election for directors each stockholder can cast in person or by proxy as many votes in the aggregate as equal the number of shares of stock held by him multiplied by the number of directors to be elected, for one or distribute them among two or more candidates. Directors shall appoint one of their number president and may appoint a treasurer and secretary and other officers as prescribed by the by-laws.

In addition to providing for the management of its property, regulation of its affairs and transfer of its stock, the by-laws of a corporation may provide the time of service and mode of classification of directors, but there shall be an annual election for such number or proportion of directors as may be found upon dividing the entire number of directors by the number of years composing a term. The time and place of such election shall be prescribed by the by-laws (if no time is fixed by the by-laws, then on the second Monday in January), of which time and place two weeks' notice shall be published in a newspaper printed at least once a week in the county; or if there be no such paper, then in a paper published in the State which circulates in the locality. By-laws may be made for the time being by the directors to regulate the manner of taking the votes of stockholders on the question of increasing or diminishing the number of directors or trustees, or changing the corporate name; but by-laws regulating the election of directors must be made at least sixty days before such election.

IV. BOOKS, RECORDS AND REPORTS:

Directors shall keep correct account of their transactions, and have full statements of the condition of the affairs of such corporation, a list of the stockholders, and the number of shares owned by each made out, and a copy thereof delivered or sent by mail to each of the stockholders at least not less than once in each year, ten days before the day of election, and each stockholder may at all proper times have access to the books of the company.

Every mining or other corporation shall make an annual report to the Secretary of State on the first day of July annually, giving the location of its principal business office; names of its president and secretary; amount of its capital stock, both subscribed and paid up, and the par and actual value at the time of making the report; cash value of its real personal property within this State on the first day of June immediately preceding, and the amount of taxes, city, county and State, paid by the corporation in this State for the year last preceding the report. If the corporation is incorporated in any other state, territory or country and doing business or having an office in this State, it shall annually on the first day of July report to the Secretary of State the location of its principal office in this State, the name of its principal officer, the cash value of all personal and real property within this State on the first day of June immediately preceding; and the amount of taxes, city, county and State, paid by the corporation in this State for the year immediately preceding. Each of said reports shall be sworn to by the president and secretary if the corporation be organized under the laws of this State, and by its principal officer in this State if organized without this State.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are individually liable for the payment of the full amount of their stock only.

VI. POOLS, TRUSTS AND CONSPIRACIES:

Every corporation, domestic or foreign, must make a yearly verified statement on a blank furnished by the Secretary of State that it is not under agreement with any other company to fix the price or quantity of production of articles, goods or merchandise traded in, manufactured or produced, or the premium to be paid for insurance; and that it is not a member of or interested in any pool or trust.

VII. DISSOLUTION:

The president or secretary of every domestic corporation, upon its dissolution, and the principal officer of every foreign corporation upon its retirement from business in this State, shall file an affidavit to that effect with the Secretary of State.

VIII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

A foreign corporation must maintain an office in this State where legal service may be had upon it and where proper books shall be kept to enable it to comply with the constitutional and statutory provisions governing such corporations. It must file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of its articles of incorporation, authenticated by the proper authority, and its principal officer in this State shall make and forward immediately to the Secretary of State a statement duly sworn to of the proportion of the capital stock of said corporation represented by its property located and business transacted in the State of Missouri, and it shall be required to pay to the State on said proportion fees required of similar corporations formed within this State. A certificate that it has complied with the law and is authorized to do business therein is then issued by the Secretary of State.

MINING.

I. OWNERS AND LESSEES:

Owners or those having a leasehold interest in lands for mining purposes shall keep a printed statement of the terms, conditions and requirements upon which said lands may be mined or prospected and the time during which the right to mine or prospect thereunder shall continue, posted or hung up in a conspicuous place in the principal office or place of business of such person or company in the county in which the lands are situated, and shall deliver to such person mining or prospecting, on his requesting it, a printed copy of such statement, and all persons digging or mining on said lands after the posting of such statement shall be deemed to have accepted the terms thereof, and upon failure to comply with the requirements of such statement shall forfeit all rights thereunder and the owner or lessee may take possession of the same.

If the owner or lessee shall permit any person to enter and dig for lead ore or other minerals with his consent without complying with the foregoing, and such person shall open any mine or extend any shaft, in good faith, he shall have the exclusive right to continue such work for three years from the time of getting such permit; but such right to work shall be forfeited by failure to work for ten days in any one calendar month, unless such failure was caused by unavoidable circumstances, or by the owner or lessee, or unless such owner or lessee consent thereto.

A royalty must be paid, monthly if demanded, of the same kind and proportionate amount paid by others mining the same kind of ore on the land of the owner or lessee, or the value of such royalty in cash; and if there be no other person mining on said land, then according to the royalty paid by miners on lands nearest thereto. The owner shall have a lien on all such minerals mined for royalty due.

The owner or lessee may purchase all the minerals mined by paying the highest cash price for like minerals mined elsewhere on his land; but if no other is being mined on his land, then the highest price paid for like minerals on lands nearest thereto. Otherwise said minerals may be sold by the miner, after paying the royalty and giving the owner or lessee of the land five days' written notice and opportunity to purchase.

All minerals dug or mined belong to the owner or lessee of the land, and it is a crime for any other person to remove or dispose of them except as modified by consent or law; and treble damages may also be recovered for minerals so mined and carried away.

II. COAL MINING IN CITIES:

Mining for coal is prohibited within the corporate limits of any city, town or village of one thousand inhabitants or over, unless an indemnity bond of not less than one thousand dollars is given. Notice must be given designating the locality for mining, the nature of the mining, and a day fixed for filing and approving the bond in the Circuit Court of the county. Written permission of property owners must be had to mine under any property in said city, under penalty of forfeiture of rights, and a complete and true diagram of said mines must be filed each term in the Circuit Court, made and verified by the county surveyor, showing with reference to the boundaries of such mine and the lots and lands of neighboring owners, the extent of such mines, their drifts, tunnels and excavations, giving the length and breadth of each drift, bank and tunnel, so as to fully inform the court and parties in interest of the extent and character of such mining operations. Mining on leased school lands is prohibited.

Any person owning land adjoining a tract upon which a mine is situated may have such mine and shafts surveyed by the county surveyor by making affidavit before a justice of the peace that the miners have entered the premises of the affiant. Scrapping of ore, except by miner, is prohibited without written consent from the person having control of the mine. Coal and other minerals in place are land, and may be conveyed as such, and when thus conveyed constitute a separate and distinct inheritance.

III. INSPECTION OF MINES:

Two mine inspectors are appointed by the Governor, whose duty it is to see that every necessary precaution is taken to insure the health and safety of the workingmen employed in any mines in this State and that the provisions and requirements provided for are faithfully observed and obeyed.

An inspector has the right to enter, examine and inspect any and all mines and shafts belonging thereto at any reasonable time and take proper steps to enforce the law.

If any person is killed or seriously injured in a mine such fact must be reported at once to the inspector, and if he deem it necessary he shall go to the mine immediately to make suggestions and render assistance and investigate the cause of the accident, and make and keep a report thereof.

An accurate map is required to be made annually of every mine employing ten or more men, showing the veins, inclination of the strata, material deflection in the workings and the boundary lines, and deposited with the clerk of the County Court.

IV. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

Mines must have escapement shafts approved by the inspector; must be properly ventilated and furnished with one hundred cubic feet of air per minute for each man and six hundred feet for each animal; bore-holes provided twenty feet in advance of the working places, and all shafts and slopes must have suitable hoisting apparatus and means for signaling from top to bottom.

Explosives must be kept in a strong box, except so much as may be needed for immediate use, and kept at least one hundred feet from the place of blasting. The owner or operator of the mine shall also keep a sufficient supply of prop timber for use. Coal mines employing five or more persons, worked on the room and pillar plan, shall have two parallel entries, for the ingress and egress of air, and cross-cuts at intervals not to exceed fifty feet.

Only a pure animal or vegetable oil, or other oil as free from smoke, and not the product or by-product of resin, shall be used for mine illumination, and when tested at sixty degrees Fahrenheit, the specific gravity must not exceed twenty-four degrees Tagliabue. All oil sold for illuminating purposes in the coal mines of Missouri shall be contained in barrels or packages, branded conspicuously with the name of the dealer, the specific gravity of the oil, and the date of shipment.

V. WEIGHT OF COAL:

A sworn weighman shall weigh the output of coal mines, and the miners may employ a check weighman. The screening of coal at mines employing miners at bushel or ton rates is prohibited, and a penalty is also provided for false weighing or false scales.

I ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Proof of acknowledgment may be made within this State before a justice of the Supreme Court or a judge of the District Court, a clerk of a court of record, county clerk, justice of the peace, or a notary public. It may be made without the State before a justice, judge, or clerk of any court of record of the United States of any state or territory, before a commissioner appointed by the Governor for that purpose, a notary public, or any other officer of any state or territory where the acknowledgment is made, who is authorized by its laws to take such proof of acknowledgment; and in foreign countries before any minister, commissioner or charge d'affaires resident and accredited in the country where the proof of acknowledgment is made; before any consul, vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States, any judge of a court of record, a notary public, or commissioners appointed for such purpose by the Governor, pursuant to special statute.

Any officer taking such acknowledgment must indorse thereon, a certificate of the authority of the person making the same. Certificates of acknowledgment must be authenticated. Proof of execution, when not acknowledged, may be made by the party executing it, by a subscribing witness, or by proof of the handwriting of the party, when the parties and all subscribing witnesses to the instrument are dead, when they are all non-residents of the State, or when their whereabouts cannot be learned. Every conveyance in writing of, or affecting real property, must be acknowledged or proved and certified.

II. ALIENS:

Resident aliens may take in all cases by succession as citizens, and no person capable of succeeding under the laws of this State is precluded from such succession by reason of the alienage of any relative; but no non-resident foreigner can take by succession unless he appears and claims such succession within five years after the death of the decedent to whom he claims succession. In the event he does not so appear and lay claim to his right, the District Court on information must direct the attorney general to reduce the property to his, or the possession of the State; or to sell the same and deposit the proceeds in the State treasury for the benefit of such non-resident alien, or his legal representatives, to be paid whenever within five years after such deposit, satisfactory proof is produced that he is entitled to the same. Upon such proof it is the duty of the auditor and treasurer to deliver the proceeds to the claimant, who must receipt therefor. If no claimant appears, the property escheats to the State. Those who succeed to the property of the decedent are liable for his debts and obligations. When a citizen of the United States has a right of action against an alien subject of any country at war with the United States, the statute of limitations does not run against him during the continuance of the war.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

In all assignments of property made by any person, association, corporation, co-partnership, or chartered company, the wages of miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks or laborers employed for services rendered within sixty days immediately previous to such assignment, not to exceed two hundred dollars for each person, are preferred claims, and must be paid by the assignee or trustees, before any other creditors of the insolvent.

An assignment, to be valid and binding, must be in writing, subscribed by the assignor, or his agent thereto authorized in writing. It must be acknowledged in the manner provided by the law governing acknowledgments, and recorded and filed with the county clerk of the county in which the assignor resided at the date of assignment, but if he did not then reside in the State, then with the clerk of the county in which his principal place of business was situated, or in which the principal part of the assigned property was located. The assignment must be accompanied by the affidavit of the assignor and assignee that such assignment is made in good faith, for the benefit of the creditors of the assignor and without any design to hinder, delay or defraud such creditors. The assent of the assignee, subscribed and acknowledged by him, must appear in writing attached thereto.

Within twenty days after the assignment, the assignor must make and file a full inventory, accompanying the assignment, showing names of all the creditors; their places of residence, if known; the sum owing each, and the nature of the debt or liability; whether arising on written security, account, or otherwise; the true consideration of such liability and the place where it arose; every existing judgment, mortgage or other security for the payment of any debt or liability of the assignor; all property of the assignor at the date of assignment which is exempt by law from execution; all the assignor's property at such date, both real and personal of every kind, not so exempt, and the incumbrances thereon existing; all vouchers and securities relating thereto, and the value of such property, according to the best knowledge of the assignor. Such inventory must be accompanied by the affidavit of the assignor to the effect that the same is just and true according to the best of his knowledge and belief. If the assignor fail or refuse to make such inventory, then the assignee shall within thirty days thereafter, make such an inventory as he is able. The time for making such assignee's inventory may be extended by the court, but if he fail to make it, the District judge shall require him to appear and show cause why he shall not be removed from his trust. All books and papers of an assignment shall at all times be open to the inspection of any creditor.

An assignment is void against creditors, purchasers and incumbrancers in good faith and for value if not recorded within twenty days after the date of assignment. Within thirty days after such assignment the assignee must enter into a bond to the State in a sum fixed by the judge of the District Court in which the inventory is filed, with sufficient sureties approved by the court, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the trust, which bond must be filed in the same office with the original inventory. After six months from the date of assignment, on petition of any creditor, the assignee may be required to account to the District Court of the county where the inventory was filed. No assignment after being recorded can be amended or modified without the consent of all the creditors.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

A writ of attachment must be issued by the clerk of the court, upon receiving an affidavit by or on behalf of the plaintiff showing that the defendant is indebted in a specified sum, over and above all legal counter-claims, upon a contract express or implied for the direct payment of money, and that the payment of the same has not been secured by any mortgage or lien upon real or personal property, or any pledge of personal property; or, if originally so secured, that such security has, without any act of the plaintiff or the person to whom the security was given, become worthless; and that the attachment is not sought, nor the action prosecuted to hinder, delay or defraud any creditor of the defendant.

Before issue of said writ, the plaintiff must give an undertaking, with two sufficient sureties, in a sum not less than double the amount claimed by the plaintiff, if such sum be one thousand dollars or under; or if it exceed one thousand dollars, then in a sum equal to the amount (but not in any case to exceed ten thousand dollars), to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment, or if plaintiff is not entitled to the attachment, he will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant. The defendant has five days within which to except to the sufficiency of plaintiff's sureties. If he take exceptions, the sureties must justify before a judge or clerk of the District Court, and upon failure to justify, the judge or clerk shall issue an order vacating the writ of attachment.

The sheriff to whom the writ is directed must execute the same without delay, and if the defendant do not give him security by the undertaking of two sufficient sureties, in an amount sufficient to satisfy the claim, he must then attach enough property to satisfy the plaintiff's demand.

If personal property attached be claimed by a third person, he shall give notice thereof to the sheriff, and deliver to him an affidavit of his claim, and unless the plaintiff within ten days after receiving such notice, give the sheriff a good and sufficient bond to indemnify him by reason of retaining such property, the sheriff shall deliver the same to the person claiming ownership. If after judgment for the plaintiff, any balance remain, the sheriff shall deliver to the defendant the attached property remaining in his hands, and any cash proceeds unapplied on the attachment.

If the defendant recover judgment, any undertaking received in the action, all the proceeds of sales and money collected by the sheriff, and all property attached must be delivered to the defendant or his agent; the order of attachment shall be discharged and the property released therefrom.

Personal property mortgaged may be taken on attachment or execution issued at the suit of a creditor of the mortgagor; but before the property is so taken, the officer must pay or tender to the mortgagee the amount of the mortgage debt and interest, or must deposit the amount thereof with the county treasurer of the county in which the mortgage is filed, payable to the order of the mortgagee; and when the property then taken is sold under process, the officer must apply the proceeds to the repayment of the sum paid to the mortgagee, with interest from the date of such payment; and the balance, if any, in like manner as the proceeds of sales under execution are applied in other cases.

Live stock on ranges may be attached, and it is sufficient service of process to file with the county clerk of the county wherein the stock is running a copy of the service of process out of the court in which the action is pending, with an accompanying notice containing the number and a description, as near as may be, of the stock by means of marks and brands, that such property is attached and levied upon, in pursuance of such process. Said notice must be filed within fifteen days after receipt of such process for service.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

After the death of decedent, his executor or administrator must, immediately after his appointment, publish in some newspaper in the county, or in such newspaper as the court may designate, once a week for four weeks, a notice to the creditors of decedent, requesting them to present, with necessary vouchers, their claims against his estate, at the executor's or administrator's place of business. If the estate exceed in value the sum of ten thousand dollars, the time expressed in the notice must be ten months, otherwise four months. After said notice is given, a copy thereof with affidavit of publication must be filed, and an order showing that due notice to creditors has been given must be entered in the minutes of the court.

All claims arising upon contracts, whether the same be due, not due or contingent, must be presented within the time mentioned or forever barred; provided, that if it be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that the claimant had no notice by reason of being out of the State, it may be presented at any time before an order of distribution is entered. Nor does this provision affect or limit the time of foreclosure of mortgages upon real property of the decedent, whether heretofore or hereafter executed.

Every claim due must be presented first to the executor or administrator, supported by an affidavit that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon which are not credited, and that there are no offsets to the same to the knowledge of the affiant. If the claim is not due or is contingent, such must be stated. If the claim is made by any other than the one to whom it is due, the reason therefor must be set forth in the affidavit. Every executor and administrator has the right to allow or reject any claim, and if he allow it, it must be presented to the judge for his approval. If the claim is presented within the time limited but not acted upon by the executor or administrator until after the period expires, such claim is deemed presented in time. Every claim allowed by the executor or administrator, and approved by the judge, must within thirty days thereafter be filed in the court, an acknowledged debt of the estate to be paid in course of administration. If the claim be founded on a bond, bill, note or other instrument, a copy thereof must accompany the claim. If the claim is secured by a mortgage, or other recorded lien, a description thereof shall be sufficient. If a claim is rejected either by the executor, administrator or judge, the holder thereof must bring suit in the proper court within three months after its rejection, if it be then due, or within two months after it becomes due. If an action is pending against the decedent at the time of his death, the plaintiff must present his claim to the executor or administrator for allowance or rejection as in other cases required.

A judgment rendered against an executor or administrator, upon any claim against the estate, only establishes the claim in the same manner as if it had been allowed at first, and the judgment must be that the executor or administrator pay in due course of administration the amount ascertained to be due. No such judgment shall create any lien on the property of the estate or give to the judgment creditor any priority of payment. A judgment rendered against a decedent, dying after verdict, but before judgment is rendered thereon, is not a lien on the property of the decedent, but is payable in due course of administration. In cases of doubt as to the validity of the claim against the estate, the executor or administrator may agree with the claimant to leave the matter to a referee, who has the same powers, and is subject to the same control as in other cases of reference.

VI. COURTS:

The Supreme Court, consisting of a chief justice and two associate justices, holds annually four terms, commencing on the first Tuesdays of March, June, October, and December. The jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is of two kinds, original and appellate. In the exercise of its original jurisdiction it has power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, injunction and habeas corpus, and all other writs necessary to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Its appellate jurisdictio extends to all cases at law and in equity. It may affirm, reverse or modify any judgment or order appealed from, and may direct the proper judgment or order to be entered, or direct a new trial or further proceedings to be had. Its judgment in appeal cases must be remitted to the court from which the appeal was taken. No action to obtain an injunction must be commenced in the Supreme Court, except in cases where the State is a party, or in which the public is interested, or the rights of the public are involved, but the proper District Court has jurisdiction of all other injunctions.

There are in this State eleven judicial districts. District Courts must be always open for the transaction of business, except on legal holidays and non-judicial days. Where one judicial district comprises more than one county the judge must fix the terms of court in each county in his district, which must be held at the county seat, and there must be at least four terms a year in each county. The jurisdiction of the District Court is of two kinds: original and appellate. It has original jurisdiction in all cases at law and in equity, including all cases which involve the title or right of possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine; in all cases in which the debt, damage, claim or demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy exceeds fifty dollars; in all criminal cases amounting to felony; in all cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for, actions of forcible entry and unlawful detainer, matters of probate, actions of divorce, and for the annulment of marriage; and for all such special actions and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for. It has the power of naturalization, and to issue papers therefor, in all cases where it is authorized to do so by the laws of the United States. It also has power to issue, hear and determine writs of mandamus, quo warranto, certiorari, prohibition, injunction and other original remedial writs, and also all writs of habeas corpus, or petition by, or on behalf of any person held in actual custody in its district. It has appellate jurisdiction in such cases arising in Justices' and other inferior courts, as may be prescribed by law. There are also Justices' and Police Courts who possess limited jurisdiction to hear and determine such petty offenses as usually come before them. They have a common law jurisdiction in cases involving sums to three hundred dollars.

VIII. DEEDS:

No conveyance can be made to one conditionally. Delivery either to him or to his agent as such, is absolutely necessary, and the instrument takes effect thereupon, discharged of any condition on which the delivery is made. It may be deposited with a third person to be delivered upon performance of a condition. A transfer of a thing carries with it all its incidents, but the transfer of an incident to a thing does not transfer the thing itself. Every grant of an estate in real property is conclusive against the grantor, also against every one subsequently claiming under him, except a purchaser or incumbrancer who in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, acquires a title or lien by an instrument that is first duly recorded. A grant of an estate of inheritance or fee simple, implies the covenants that the grantor has not conveyed the estate previously to another than the grantee, and that at the time of the conveyance, the property is free from any incumbrance, the term "incumbrance" including taxes, assessments and all liens upon real property.

Every conveyance of real property, acknowledged or proved, certified and recorded as prescribed by law, from the time it is filed with the county clerk for record, is constructive notice of the contents thereof to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees; but an unrecorded instrument is valid as between the parties and those who have notice thereof. Every conveyance of real property other than a lease for a term not exceeding one year is void as against any subsequent purchaser or incumbrancer in good faith and for a valuable consideration, whose conveyance is first duly recorded.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

The deposition of a witness out of the State may be taken at any time after the service of the summons or the appearance of the defendant, and in a special proceeding at any time after a question of fact has arisen therein. The testimony of a witness out of the State is taken upon commission issued under seal of the court, upon five days' notice to the other party.

The testimony of a witness in this State may be taken by deposition in an action at any time after the service of the summons or appearance of the defendant, and in a special proceeding after a question of fact has arisen therein, in the following cases: 1. When the witness is a party to the action or proceeding; or an officer or member of a corporation which is a party to the action or proceeding, or a person for whose immediate benefit the action or proceeding is prosecuted or defended. 2. When the witness resides out of the county in which his testimony is to be used. 3. When the witness is about to leave the county where the action is to be tried. 4. Where the witness is too infirm to attend, or where his testimony is necessary but his presence impossible.

In this State, depositions may be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths, upon notice of time and place of the examination to the adverse party. Such notice must be five days previous to the date of examination, with an additional day for every twenty-five miles the adverse party has to travel. Such deposition must be subscribed by the witness, certified by the officer taking the deposition, and sent to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending. Depositions may be taken in this State to be used in other states by a commission and affidavit from the court of the other state in which the action is pending, that the testimony of the witness in this State is material.

X. DESCENT:

The property, both real and personal, of one who dies without disposing of it by will, passes to the heirs of the intestate subject to the control of the District Court, and to the possession of any administrator appointed by that court for the purposes of administration. A wife cannot deprive her husband of more than two-thirds of her real or personal property, by will, except with his written consent.

The laws of this State, under this title, are similar to those contained in the Civil Code of California, differing verbally in a few respects, but not substantially.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

Execution may issue at any time within six years after entry and judgment. It may be made returnable at any time not less than ten nor more than sixty days after its receipt by the sheriff, to the clerk with whom the judgment roll is filed. Executions issued on judgments may be enforced by the personal representatives of the judgment creditor in the event of his death. In case of the death of the judgment debtor, execution may issue with the same effect as if he were living. Personal property is first levied on. One year is allowed for redemption of real property sold under execution.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

Wearing apparel of judgment debtor and family, also furniture to the value of two hundred dollars; household goods and provisions sufficient for three months; one horse, saddle and bridle, two cows with their calves, four hogs and fifty domestic fowls; and feed for such animals for three months. To the farmer: usual personal schedule, and implements of husbandry to the value of six hundred dollars; also seeds, grain and vegetables, actually on hand, not exceeding two hundred dollars in value. Libraries, teams and instruments of professional men. Mechanics' tools and implements necessary for his trade. Miner's cabin and tools, and sluices not exceeding one thousand dollars in value. Wages of laborer for thirty days preceding the levy, where necessary for the support of his family. Teamster's horse, mule or two oxen, and cart or wagon. Homesteads, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres in the country, a quarter of an acre if within a town plat, city or village, and in each case limited to two thousand five hundred dollars in value, but a homestead is subject to execution in satisfaction of judgments obtained before the declaration of homestead was filed for record, and which constitute liens upon the premises; also on debts secured by mechanics', laborers' or vendors' liens upon the premises; on debts secured by mortgages on the premises, executed and acknowledged by the husband and wife, or by an unmarried claimant; and on debts secured by mortgages upon the premises, executed and recorded before the declaration of homestead was filed for record.

XIII. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead may be selected and claimed consisting of any quantity of land not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres used for agricultural purposes, and the dwelling house thereon and its appurtenances, and not included in any town plat, city or village; or a quantity of land not exceeding one quarter of an acre, being within a town plat, city or village, and the dwelling house thereon and its appurtenances. In either case, the value of the homestead shall not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars. In order to select a homestead, the husband or other head of a family must execute and acknowledge in the same manner as a grant of real property is acknowledged, a declaration of homestead and file the same for record. It must show that the person making it is the head of the family; and if made by the wife it must state that the husband has not made such declaration and she does it for their joint benefit. It must state that the person making it is residing on the premises and claims them as a homestead. It must describe the premises and give an estimate of their actual cash value. Such declaration upon being filed in the office of the county in which the land is situated, constitutes a homestead. Upon the death of either husband or wife, it descends to their heirs or devisees, subject to the use of the surviving member during his or her life.

XIV. INTEREST AND USURY:

The rate of interest is not fixed or limited in this State, and parties may agree in writing upon any rate to be computed both before and after maturity. In the absence of any agreement, ten per cent per annum is collectible on bonds, bills, promissory notes, or other instruments in writing after they become due and on judgments after rendition; also on money lent, money due on settlement of accounts and ascertaining the balance due, on money received for the use of another and retained without the owner's knowledge, and on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay. In all cases other than those enumerated, the party seeking to recover interest must show that it was due and that the detention of it was by an unreasonable and vexatious delay, which must be alleged.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

From the time a judgment is docketed it becomes a lien upon all real property of the judgment debtor not exempt from execution, in the county in which said property owned by him is situated, either at the time, or which may afterward and before the lien expires be acquired by him. The lien continues for six years, unless the judgment be previously satisfied. Transcripts of the original docket, certified by the clerk, may be filed with the District Court clerk of any other county, and from the time of filing the judgment becomes a lien upon the property of the judgment debtor in such counties, with like effect and for like time as in the county where the judgment is docketed.

XVI. LIENS:

Every mechanic, builder, lumberman, artisan, workman, laborer, or other person, association, partnership, or corporation that shall do or perform any work and labor upon or furnish any material, machinery or fixture for any building, erection, bridge, flume, canal, ditch, mining claim, quartz lode, city or town lot or lots, ranch, railroad, telegraph, telephone or electric light line, gas-pipe or water-pipe line or other improvements, upon complying with the following provisions shall have for his work or labor done, or material, machinery or fixtures furnished, a lien thereon and therefor.

He must within ninety days after the completion of the work file in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county of the locus of the property a just and true account of the amount due or owing to him after allowing all credits, and containing a correct description of the property to be charged, verified by his affidavit. The said lien extends to all the interest the person for whom the material was furnished or work done has in the property upon which the improvements are made to the extent of one acre if outside of the city limits, and to the whole lot if within said limits.

All liens filed within thirty days of the filing of the first lien shall be liens of the first class, and share pro rata and be first satisfied on foreclosure. All liens filed after said thirty days and within sixty days shall be liens of the second class and share pro rata after the first class liens are satisfied.

All liens for material furnished and work and labor done shall have priority to and precedence over any mortgage incumbrance or other lien made subsequent to the commencement of the work on any contract for the erection of such building, structure or other improvement.

Every person, including guardians of minors, married women, and any company, association or corporation, not tenants or lessees, for whose use, benefit or enjoyment any building, structure or improvement as heretofore mentioned shall be constructed, repaired or altered, shall be deemed the owner or proprietor thereof for the purposes of the said liens.

Liens are foreclosed by suit in the District Court, which must be commenced within one year from the filing of the said liens. In case of the death of the employer, the wages of each miner, mechanic, salesman, clerk, etc., not exceeding two hundred dollars in amount and contracted within sixty days preceding such death, rank in priority next after the funeral expenses, expenses of last sickness, the charges and expenses of administering upon the estate, and the allowance to the widow and infant children and must be paid before other claims against the estate of the deceased person. In actions against the estate by persons other than miners, mechanics, salesmen, servants, clerks or laborers, who have claims for labor done, the persons enumerated may give notice of their claims and the amounts thereof, with accompanying affidavit, to the parties plaintiff and defendant in the action. Service may be made in any case before the actual sale of the proper to satisfy the claim in such pending action, and if the claim is not disputed by debtor, creditor or party plaintiff, the officer serving said notice and claim must pay said mechanic, miner, etc., the amount of his claim for services rendered within sixty days next preceding the levy of the writ, not exceeding two hundred dollars. But if said claim is disputed then the person making it must bring suit within ten days after notice of such dispute is served on the claimant, for the recovery thereof.

A homestead is subject to a lien for material furnished as well as for labor.

A reasonable attorney's fee is recoverable as costs against defendants in foreclosure of liens for material or labor.

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

In actions for the recovery of real property, suit must be brought within ten years from the time plaintiff, his ancestor, predecessor or grantor was seized or possessed of the property in question. Actions for dower must be brought within the same time after the death of the husband. No action or defense to an action concerning real property, or rents or profits arising from the same can be effectual unless it is shown that the person prosecuting the suit or making the defense, or his ancestor, predecessor or grantor, was seized of the property within ten years of the commencement of the action. No entry upon real estate is deemed sufficient as a claim unless an action be commenced within one year after such entry, and within ten years from the time when the right to make it descended or accrued. Possession of tenant is deemed to be possession of landlord until the expiration of ten years from the termination of the tenancy. Actions for the recovery of mining claims (lode claims excepted) shall not be maintained unless it appears that the plaintiff or his assigns was seized or possessed of such mining claim within one year before the commencement of the action.

In actions other than for the recovery of real property, the periods for commencing proceedings are as follows:

Within ten years: 1. Upon a judgment or decree of any court of record of the United States, or of any state within the United States. 2. For mesne profits of real property.

Within eight years: Upon any contract, obligation or liability founded upon an instrument in writing.

Within five years: 1. Upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture. 2. For trespass on real property. 3. For taking, detaining or injuring any goods or chattels, including actions for the specific recovery of personal property. 4. For relief on the ground of fraud or mistake; cause of action not to accrue until discovery of the mistake. 5. To establish a will. 6. Upon a judgment or decree rendered in a court not of record.

Within three years: 1. Upon a contract, account, promise, obligation or liability not founded on an instrument in writing. 2. Against a sheriff, coroner or constable upon a liability incurred in the doing of an act in his official capacity, including the non-payment of money collected on an execution, but this does not apply to an action for an escape. 3. To recover damages for the death of one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another.

Within two years: 1. Upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture when the action is given to an individual or to an individual and the State, except where the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation. 2. Upon a statute or upon an undertaking in a criminal action, for a forfeiture to the State. 3. For libel, slander, assault, battery, false imprisonment or seduction.

Within one year: 1. Against a sheriff, or other officer for an escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process. 2. Against a municipal corporation for damages or injuries to property caused by a mob or riot; or by a municipal corporation for the violation of any city or town ordinance. 3. Against an officer or officer de facto, to recover any goods, wares, merchandise, or other property, seized by any such officer in his official capacity as tax collector, or to recover the price or value of such goods so seized or to recover damages for their seizure, detention or sale, or for damages done to any person or property in making such seizure.

Within six months: 1. Actions to recover stock sold for a delinquent assessment. 2. On claims against a county which have been rejected by a county commissioner. 3. For killing or injuring stock by a railroad company or corporation.

An action for relief not hereinbefore provided must be commenced within five years after the cause of action shall have accrued.

There is a question as to the validity of the enactment adopted March 9th, 1893, as an amendment to the work of the Code Commissioners. It provides, in contravention of the law with reference to right of action within five years, that actions for waste or trespass on real property upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture; for taking, detaining, or injuring goods or chattels, including actions for the specific recovery of personal property; and actions for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake, the cause of action to accrue at the time of discovery of the mistake, shall be commenced within two years.

The statute does not run while the party is out of the State.

XVIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Married women may sue and be sued in the same manner as femmes sole. A married woman may be an executrix, administratrix, guardian or trustee, and may bind herself and the estate she represents, without any act or assent on the part of her husband. Her contracts, in respect to her separate property, labor or services, shall not be binding upon her husband, nor render him nor his property liable therefor; but she and her separate property shall be liable on such contracts in the same manner as if she were sole. There is no restriction upon her right to make a will, except she shall not, without the written consent of her husband, deprive him of more than two-thirds of her real or personal estate. She is empowered to make contracts, oral or written, sealed or unsealed; and may waive or relinquish any right or interests in any real estate, personally or by attorney, the same as if she were a femme sole. No estate is allowed the husband as tenant by curtesy upon the death of his wife. No estate in the real property of a married woman passes by any grant purporting to be executed or acknowledged, unless the instrument is acknowledged by her in the manner prescribed under "I. Acknowledgments," above.

XIX. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages of real property are acknowledged or proved, certified or recorded, in the same manner and with the like effect as grants. Mortgages, deeds of trust, or assignments for the benefit of creditors, of both real and personal property executed by a corporation, are governed by the law relating to mortgages or deeds of trust of real property, and must be recorded in the office of the county clerk of every county where any part of said property is situated, and the same are valid, notwithstanding the possession of such property is retained by such corporation; but any mortgage deed of trust, or assignment, for the benefit of creditors must be accompanied by an affidavit of all the parties thereto (unless it is a corporation, and then by its president, secretary or managing agent) that the same is made in good faith to secure the amount named therein, and without any design to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, and must be acknowledged and filed.

Chattel mortgages must be signed or acknowledged in the same manner as conveyances of real property, and be accompanied by an affidavit of all the parties that the same is made in good faith, without any design to hinder or delay the creditors of the mortgagor, and to secure the amount named therein. They are good against third persons from the date they are filed of record to the maturity of the indebtedness secured thereby, and sixty days thereafter; provided, the entire time does not exceed one year and sixty days. They may be renewed by an affidavit subscribed and sworn to by the mortgagee, and filed in the office where such mortgage is filed, at or before the maturity of the debt secured thereby, in case the same or any part thereof is not paid; said affidavit showing the date of such mortgage, the names of the mortgagor and mortgagee, the date of filing the same, the amount of the debt secured thereby, the amount owing at the time of such filing, and the time to which the same is extended, which shall not exceed one year.

XX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Every indorser of a negotiable instrument, unless he qualifies his indorsement, warrants to subsequent holders, who are not liable thereon to him, that he has good title, that the signatures of all prior parties are binding on them, and that if the instrument is dishonored, the indorser will on notice, or without notice where it is excused by law, pay the same with interest, unless the indorsement is "without recourse;" or the bill is not presented within ten days after the time it could with reasonable diligence be transmitted to place for presentment; or, if it be a promissory note, on demand or at sight, without interest, it is not presented for payment within six months from date; or, if it be a check, there is delay in presentment, but such indorser is exonerated only to the extent he suffers by the delay.

Presentment must be made if practicable, by the holder to the principal debtor, if he can be found; or, if not, then to some one in charge of the place where presentment should be made. A notice of dishonor may be given by delivering it to the party to be charged, or to his agent, or by transmitting it by mail to his place of residence. Notice of dishonor is excused when the party by whom it should be given cannot, with reasonable diligence, ascertain either the place of residence or business of the party to be charged, or when there is no means of communication between the place of business of the party by whom notice should be given and the town where the party to be charged resides, or when the party to be charged is the same person who dishonors the instrument, or when the notice is waived by the party entitled thereto.

The rights and obligations of the drawer of a bill of exchange are the same as those of the first indorser of any other negotiable instrument. Days of grace are not allowed. Bills must be presented by holder or agent on a business day, within reasonable hours, to the drawee, or if he is absent from his place of business, to some one in charge thereof. The drawee may postpone acceptance until the following day. If the drawee cannot be found, the bill may be protested for non-acceptance. Acceptance must be made in writing by the drawee or by an acceptor for honor, and may be made by the acceptor writing his name across the face of the bill with or without words. Acceptance of the bill admits capacity of the drawee to draw and endorse it, and if written upon the bill it also admits the same to be genuine and binding upon the drawer; but it does not admit the signature of an endorser to be genuine. On dishonor of a bill by the drawee, and in case of a foreign bill, it may be accepted or paid by any person for the honor of any party thereto. The holder of the bill is not bound to allow it to be accepted for honor but is bound to accept for honor. A bill which has been accepted for honor must be presented at its maturity to the drawee for payment, and notice of its dishonor by him must be given to the acceptor for honor in like manner as to an indorser, after which acceptor for honor must pay the bill. If a bill of exchange payable at sight or on demand is not duly presented for payment within ten days after the time in which it could with reasonable diligence be transmitted to the proper place for presentment, the drawer and indorser are exonerated unless such presentment is excused. The apparent maturity of a bill of exchange is, if it bears interest, one year after its date, and if it does not bear interest, ten days after its date, in addition to a reasonable time to forward it.

Notice of dishonor of foreign bills can be given only by notice of protest made by a notary public. Notice of protest must be given in the same manner as a notice of dishonor, except it is given by notary. Damages are allowed as compensation for interest, re-exchange, etc., upon bills drawn or negotiated within this State, and protests for non-acceptance or non-payment as follows: If drawn upon a person in this State, $2.00 upon each $100.00, of principal sum mentioned in bill; if upon a person outside of this State, but in the United States, $5.00 on each $100.00; if drawn upon any person in any other place in North America or Europe, $10.00 upon each $100.00; if in any other place, $15.00 upon each $100.00.

XXI. REDEMPTION:

The judgment debtor or redemptioner may redeem any time within one year after the sale, on paying the purchaser the amount of his purchase with one per cent per month thereon in addition, up to the time of redemption, together with the amount of any assessment or taxes which the purchaser may have paid thereon after purchase, and interest on such amount; and if the purchaser be also a creditor having a prior lien to that of the redemptioner, other than the judgment under which such purchase was made, the amount of such lien with interest. The property may be redeemed from any previous redemptioner, within sixty days after the last redemption, on paying the sum paid on the last previous redemption, with two per cent thereon in addition, and the amount of any assessment or taxes which the last previous redemptioner paid after the redemption by him, with interest thereon; and the amount of any liens, other than the judgment under which the property was sold, held by the last redemptionér previous to his own, with interest.

XXII. SUITS:

Practice is under the new code which went into effect July 1st, 1895. Defendant has twenty days within which to appear. If he is a non-resident, evades service, or cannot be found, service may be had by publication.

XXIII. TAXES:

Owners of life estates must pay taxes and other annual charges. Covenants "of warranty" and "for quiet enjoyment," include the covenant, on the part of the grantee, to pay taxes and assessments on the land granted.

XXIV. WILLS:

Every person over the age of eighteen years of sound mind may make a will. A will or any part thereof, procured by menace, fraud or undue influence, may be denied probate, and a revocation secured in the same manner, may be declared void. A testamentary disposition may be made to any person capable of taking the property so disposed of, but corporations, other than those formed for scientific, literary, or solely educational purposes, cannot take under a will, unless expressly authorized by statute. Every will, except a nuncupative will, must be in writing; and every will, except an holographic will, and a nuncupative will, must be executed and attested by two witnesses. The destruction, revocation or cancellation of a second will does not revive the first will, unless such intent is manifested in the second will.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Any three or more persons who may desire to form a company for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing, mining, mechanical or chemical business; of digging ditches, building flumes, or running tunnels; of purchasing, holding, developing, improving, using, leasing, selling, conveying, or otherwise disposing of water powers and the sites thereof, and lands necessary or useful therefor, or for the industries arising or growing up in connection with the same; of purchasing, holding, laying out, platting, developing, leasing, selling, dealing in, conveying or otherwise using or disposing of town sites or towns, or the lots, blocks or subdivisions thereof, or lots, blocks or subdivisions in any town, village or city; or of carrying on any other kind of business designed to aid in the industrial or productive interests of the country and the development thereof; may make, sign and acknowledge before some officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds, and file in the office of the clerk of the county in which the business of the company shall be carried on, and a duplicate thereof in the office of the Secretary of State, a certificate in writing, or articles of incorporation, setting forth the name of the corporation, the purpose for which it is formed, the amount of capital stock, the term of its existence (not exceeding forty years), the number of shares of which said stock shall consist, the number of trustees and their names who shall manage the affairs of the corporation for the first three months, and the name of the city, town or locality and the county in which the operations of said company shall be carried on.

The articles of incorporation must be subscribed by three or more persons, and acknowledged by each before some officer authorized to take and certify acknowledgments of conveyances of real property. No corporation shall purchase, locate or hold property in any county, without filing a copy of its articles of incorporation, in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, within sixty days after such purchase or location is made.

II. POWERS:

Corporations may increase or diminish the amount of capital stock, extend or change their business, or extend their term of existence, provided the trustees thereof publish a notice signed by a majority of them in a newspaper in the county if any shall be published therein, at least six successive weeks, and mail a written notice to each stockholder at his usual place of business at least six weeks before the date for holding such meeting, giving suitable information as to the purpose of such meeting. A vote of at least two-thirds of the shares of stock is necessary to effect any of the enumerated changes.

III. DIRECTORS:

Every corporation within one month after filing its articles of incorporation must adopt a code of by-laws which must be certified by a majority of the directors and the secretary of the corporation. The corporate powers business and property of all corporations must be exercised, conducted and controlled by a board of not less than three nor more than thirteen directors, to be elected from the stockholders, or members of the corporation They must be elected by ballot to hold their offices one year and until their successors are elected and qualified They must not make dividends except from the surplus profits arising from the business, nor must they divide withdraw or pay to the stockholders any part of the capital stock; nor must they create debts beyond their subscribed capital stock, or reduce or increase the capital stock, except they may divide and distribute such capital stock as remains after the corporation has paid all its debts, upon its dissolution. For a violation of these provisions, the directors under whose administration such irregularities occur, shall be liable jointly and severally to the corporation and its creditors, in the event of its dissolution, to the full amount of the capital stock so divided, withdrawn, paid out or reduced; or debts contracted. At all meetings each stockholder may vote in person or by proxy.

IV. ANNUAL REPORTS:

Every corporation having a capital stock, shall annually before the twentieth of September, make a report which shall state the amount of capital and the proportion thereof actually paid in and the amount of existing debts, which shall be signed by the president, and a majority of the directors including the president, shall be verified by the oath of the president, vice-president or secretary, and shall be published in a newspaper published in the place or near thereto, where the principal office or place of business of the corporation is located and such notice shall also be filed in the office of the clerk of the county wherein such place of business shall be Failure to so publish and file, makes all the directors jointly and severally liable for all the debts of the corporation then existing or which are thereafter contracted until such report is made. But if within ten days after such failure, the director or directors publish and file a aforesaid an affidavit stating that the failure was due to no fault or neglect of their own, and stating also that within the twenty days they requested the president and a sufficient number of the other directors to do so, the they are not liable.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are severally and individually liable to the creditors of the corporation to the amount of unpaid stock held by them respectively for all acts and contracts made by the corporation, until the whole amount capital stock subscribed for is paid in. No loan of money shall be made by any corporation to any stockholder therein. No one assessment must exceed five per cent of the amount of the capital stock named in the articles of incorporation, except that if the whole capital has not been paid in, and the corporation cannot meet its liabilities, the assessment may be for the full amount unpaid on the capital stock.

VI. CONSOLIDATION:

Upon a two-thirds vote of the capital stock of each of two or more corporations, the boards of directors of such corporations may consolidate their interests, upon such terms as may be agreed upon, but due notice of the proposed consolidation shall be given by publication for one month in a newspaper published in the counties where the corporations shall be.

VII. DISSOLUTION:

Corporations may be dissolved by the expiration of the time limited by their charters, by a judgment of dissolution, or by an act of the legislative assembly. Unless others are appointed by the court, the directors of such corporations at dissolution are trustees of the creditors and stockholders, and have full powers to settle the affairs of such corporations.

VIII. MINING CORPORATIONS:

Mining corporations may establish and maintain agencies in other states of the United States, for the transfer and issuing of stock, and a regular transfer at such agency is as valid and binding as if made within this State. The agencies must be governed by the by-laws and the directors of the corporation. All stock issued at such transfer agencies must be signed by the president and secretary of the corporation and countersigned at issuance by the agent.

The board of directors of any mining corporation, shall not have power to sell, lease, mortgage or otherwise dispose of the whole or any part of the mining ground, quartz mills, smelters, concentrators, etc., of such corporation, without a meeting of the stockholders, notice of which must be sent to each one individually if known, and published in a newspaper in the county in which the principal place of the corporation is situated, for the period of six weeks, notice to appear weekly. If three-fourths of the stockholders, in person or by proxy, appear at such meeting they may proceed to decide the question, and if two-thirds of the shares of the capital stock vote to make the proposed sale, lease or mortgage, then the chairman and secretary of the meeting shall make a certificate showing the total number of shares of stock present, and by whom voted; and the number in favor of and against the proposition. It shall be signed by the chairman and secretary, and verified by their oaths, taken before some officer qualified to administer oaths. Such certificates shall then be spread on the records of the corporation and a copy thereof, duly acknowledged, recorded in the office of the county clerk of every county wherein any of the property affected is situated.

Mining corporations may consolidate as is provided under "VI. Consolidation" above. A certificate of consolidation, however, containing the terms and manner of consolidation, shall be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the original articles of incorporation of any of said corporations shall be filed, and a copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Such certificate shall be signed by a majority of each board of directors of the original corporations, and it shall be their duty to call, within thirty days after the filing of such certificate and after at least ten days' public notice, a meeting of the stockholders of all of said mining corporations so consolidated to elect a board of directors for the consolidated mining corporation, for the year then next ensuing.

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

All foreign corporations or joint stock companies organized under the laws of this State or of the United States, or of any foreign government, shall, before doing business within this State, file in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein they intend to carry on business, a duly authenticated copy of their articles of incorporation; and also a statement, verified by the oath of the president and secretary, and attested by a majority of the board of directors, showing the name of the corporation; the location of its principal office or place of business without this State, and if it is to have any place of business or office in this State, the location thereof; the amount of capital stock; the amount of capital stock actually paid in, in money; the amount of its capital stock paid in, in any other way, and in what; the amount of the assets of the corporation and of what they consist, with the actual cash value thereof; and the liabilities, and if any of indebtedness is secured, how secured, and upon what property. All such foreign corporations must file at the same time under their seal, and the signature of their president and secretary, a certificate that said company consents to be sued in the State courts on all causes of action arising against it in this State, and that service of process may be made upon some citizen of this State, whose name and residence shall be given in said certificate. Such agent shall reside at the principal place of business of such corporation, and his written consent to act as such agent shall be filed in like manner.

Any foreign corporation commencing business in this State without complying with the foregoing provisions shall forfeit to the State the sum of twenty-five dollars for every day it shall so neglect to file the same, and all contracts made by such company or its agent during the time of such neglect to file such statement, certificate, etc., shall be void at the option of the other party thereto.

Such corporation shall semi-annually and within twenty days from the first days of January and July of each year make a report containing the same information as is required upon filing the statement accompanying the articles of incorporation, and file the same in the office of the clerk of the county where the business of the company is carried on, and a duplicate in the office of the Secretary of State. Foreign corporations may within ninety days from the date this act goes into effect, comply with the provisions hereof, and thereafter all contracts previously made shall be valid and enforceable.

MINING.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

Ordinance I. to the State constitution provides that: "The people inhabiting the proposed State of Montana do agree and declare that they forever disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated public lands lying within the boundaries thereof," which includes all mineral lands, and that the same shall be and remain subject to the disposition of the United States, and that lands belonging to citizens of the United States residing without the State of Montana shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands belonging to the residents thereof.

Article III, Section 25, provides that "aliens and denizens shall have the same right as citizens to acquire, purchase, possess, enjoy, convey, transmit and inherit mines and mining property and milling, reduction, concentrating and other works and real property necessary for or connected with the business of mining and treating ores and minerals, provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to infringe upon the authority of the United States to provide for the sale or disposition of its mineral or other public lands."

Article XII, Section 3, provides that "all mines and mining claims, both placer and rock in place, containing or bearing gold, silver, copper, lead, coal or other valuable mineral deposits, after purchase thereof from the United States, shall be taxed at the price paid the United States therefor, unless the surface ground, or some part thereof, of such mine or claim is used for other than mining purposes and has a separate and independent value for such other purposes, in which case said surface ground or any part thereof so used for other than mining purposes shall be taxed at its value for such other purposes as provided by law; and all machinery used in mining and all property and surface improvements upon or appurtenant to mines and mining claims which have a value separate or independent of such mines or mining claims, and the annual net proceeds of all mines and mining claims, shall be taxed as provided by law," and the State legislation follows the constitution and makes the surface ground or any part thereof used for other than mining purposes and the improvements, etc., taxable as personal property. Mining property is not taxable except as above stated, until after final proof and payment have been made for patent. Net proceeds of mines only are taxed.

II. LODE LOCATIONS:

Quartz lode locations can be made only after the discovery on a lead, lode or ledge of a vein or crevice of quartz or ore with at least one well-defined wall. Said locations cannot exceed fifteen hundred feet along the lead or lode in length and three hundred feet on each side of the center thereof in width.

After discovery of quartz lode or placer mine, discoverer must within ninety days make and file for record in the office of the county recorder of the county where such discovery is located, a declaratory statement in writing under oath describing the claim in the manner provided by the laws of the United States.

III. ANNUAL REPRESENTATION:

The annual representation is shown by making and filing with the county clerk and recorder within twenty days after the work is done, an affidavit showing:

1. The name and situation of the lode. 2. The number of days work done and the character and value of the improvements placed thereon. 3. The date or dates of performing said labor and making said improvements. 4. At whose instance and request said work was done or improvements made. 5. The actual amount paid for said labor and improvements, and by whom paid, when the same was not done by the owner or owners of said quartz claim.

The affidavit so filed is made prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

IV. TUNNEL RIGHTS:

Section 2323, Title XXXII, Chapter 6, Mining Laws, Revised Statutes of the United States, and Paragraph 20, Administrative Regulations, following.

V. RIGHT OF WAY:

The proprietors or owners of mining claims, whether patented under the laws of the United States or held under the local laws and customs of the State, have a right of way under the statute for ingress and egress for necessary purposes over and across the lands or mining claims (patented or otherwise) of others, whenever any mine or mining claim is so situated that it cannot be conveniently worked without a road thereto, or a ditch or a cut to convey the water therefrom, or without a flume to carry water and tailings therefrom, or without a shaft or a tunnel thereto, upon the payment of such damages as shall be assessed by a committee of three who are appointed by the court to assess the damages resulting from such right of privilege.

VI. MILL-SITES:

Mill-sites are located under Section 2337, Title XXXII, Chapter 6, Revised Statutes of the United States, and patented in accordance therewith.

VII. COURT DECISIONS:

The following questions have been passed upon by the Supreme Court and are stare decisis in Montana:

The rights of an adverse claimant are forfeited if he fails, within the time prescribed by the statutes, either to file his adverse claim in the United States land-office or to institute suit in the proper court to decide the same.

A declaratory statement to a mining claim should be sworn to or it will be invalid; and an affidavit to a notice of location which does not state or refer to the date of location is insufficient.

Valid possession of the surface of a lode claim carries the right to and constitutes a possession of veins, lodes or ledges whose tops or apexes are within such surface-lines.

In the language of miners a lode is a vein containing ore; veins are narrow plates of rock intersecting other rock and are the fillings of cracks and fissures. Placers are superficial deposits which occupy the beds of ancient rivers or valleys. In the case of the crossing of veins the prior locator is entitled to all the ore within the space of intersection, but a subsequent locator has a right of way through the same.

The rules and customs of any particular mining district which are reasonable constitute the American common law on mining for precious metals.

A failure to do the representation work on a quartz lode as required by the United States statutes operates as a forfeiture and subjects the claim to re-location, but this forfeiture may be avoided by a bona fide resumption of work before a re-location has been actually made. Representation under the Act of Congress of 1872 is a muniment of title.

A location must be distinctly marked upon the ground so that its boundaries can be readily traced.

The first locators of placer mining ground have no right by custom or otherwise to allow tailings to run free in a gulch and thereby render other claims valueless. They may, however, work their ground with reasonable care, and injuries resulting to other locators would be damnum absque injuria.

A patent to a mining claim being based upon an adjudication of the land department of the United States as to patentee's right thereto, and such adjudication having the effect of a final judgment, is as a rule, conclusive proof of discovery, marking boundaries and the performance of all the requirements necessary to constitute a valid location.

I. ACTIONS:

There is but one form of action called a civil action. Actions to recover damages for trespass upon or injury to real estate, the partition of real property, or for the sale of real property under a mortgage, lien or other incumbrance or charge, shall be brought only in the county where the real estate affected is situated, and if this be an entire tract and situated in two or more counties the action may be brought in either of such.

Actions for the recovery of a fine, forfeiture or penalty imposed by statute, against a public officer for an act done by him by virtue of or under cover of his office or for neglect of his official duty, on the official bond or undertaking of a public officer, shall be brought in the county where the cause or some part thereof arose. An action against a corporation is brought in the county in which it is situated or has its principal place of business but in the case of insurance companies it may be brought where the cause of action arose, and against railroad stage and turnpike companies an action may be brought in any county through or into which the said road or line passes. An action against a non-resident of the State or a foreign corporation may be brought in any county in which there may be property of or debts owing to said defendant or where the defendant may be found but if the defendant be a foreign insurance company, the the action may be brought in any county where the cause or any part thereof arose. Every other action must be brought in the county in which the defendant or some one of the defendants resides or may be summoned.

Actions are commenced in the District Court and in the County Court, where the claim exceeds two hundred dollars, by the filing of a petition on which summons issues. The other pleadings in their order are the answer or demurrer by the defendant, the demurrer or reply by the plaintiff, the demurrer to the reply by the defendant.

Actions are commenced in the Justice Court and in the County Court where the amount claimed is two hundred dollars or less by the filing of a bill of particulars and the issuing of a summons thereon.

II. ALIENS:

It is a constitutional provision that "no distinction shall ever be made by law between resident aliens and citizens in reference to the possession or descent of property." Persons of foreign birth having declared their intention to become citizens conformably to the naturalization laws of the United States thirty days prior to an election and who have resided within the State six months, in the county forty days and in the precinct township, or ward ten days are qualified electors.

Non-resident aliens and corporations not incorporated under the laws of the State are prohibited from acquiring title to or holding real estate in the State by descent devise, purchase or otherwise, with the following exceptions: The widow and heirs of aliens who have acquired lands prior to the passage of the act taking effect March 16th, 1889, may hold such lands by devise or descent for the period of ten years and no longer. If at the end of such time any such lands so acquired have not been sold to a bona fide purchaser for value or such alien heirs have not become residents of the State they shall revert and escheat to the State. 2. Any non-resident alien owning land in the State at the time of the taking effect of this act may dispose thereof during his life to bona fide purchasers for value and may take security for the purchase money with the same rights as a citizen of the United States. 3. The holders, whether they be non-resident aliens or corporations not incorporated under the laws of Nebraska, of liens upon real estate or any interest therein, whether acquired before or after the of March 16th, 1889, are not thereby prevented from holding or taking a valid title to real estate subject to such liens, nor from enforcing any lien or judgment for any debt or liability existing at the time of the passage of the act, or which may thereafter be created; nor from becoming a purchaser at any sale made for the purpose of collecting and enforcing collection of such debt or judgment, provided further, that all lands so acquired shall be sold within ten years after the title thereto shall be perfected in such non-resident alien or foreign corporation; and in default of such sale within such time such real estate shall revert and escheat to the State of Nebraska. 4. Nor does this act apply to real estate necessary for the construction and operation of railroads. 5. Nor does it prohibit any non-resident alien or foreign corporation from purchasing and acquiring title to so much real estate as shall be necessary for the purpose of erecting and maintaining manufacturing establishments. 6. Nor does it apply to any real estate lying within the corporate limits of cities or towns.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Every assignment to be valid must include all property of the assignor, real and personal, wherever situated, except such as is exempt. Real estate must be described in the deed of assignment precisely as would be requisite in an ordinary deed of conveyance. All property claimed to be exempt shall be separately described. The sheriff of the county where the assignor or assignors reside shall be named as assignee. The assignment must be in writing, executed and acknowledged as in the conveyance of real estate.

Within twenty-four hours thereafter it must be filed for record in the clerk's office of the county of the residence of the assignee. If it conveys real estate it must be recorded in the deed record and entered upon the numerical index of such office, otherwise in the miscellaneous record. Within thirty days after its execution it must be filed for record in every county in the State in which there is real estate conveyed by such assignment and must be recorded in such county.

The sheriff shall immediately upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment take possession of all the assigned estate and he and the sureties on his official bond are liable for the faithful execution of the assignment.

Inventory: Ten days after the assignment the assignor shall file in the county judge's office of the county in which the assignee resides, to be there recorded, an inventory verified by the persons making the same. Such inventory shall show: 1. All the creditors of the assignor. 2. The place of residence of each creditor if known to the assignor, and if not, such fact must be so stated. 3. The sum owing to each creditor and the nature of the debt or liability. 4. The true consideration of the liability, when and where this arose, and whether there has been any renewal or new promise in relation thereto. 5. Every existing mortgage, judgment or other security for the payment of any debt or liability of the assignor. 6. Property of the assignor at the date of the assignment exempt by law from execution. 7. All property, real and personal, wherever situated, not so exempt, and incumbrances thereon and all vouchers and securities relating thereto, and the value of such property in detail.

The county judge shall immediately fix a day not more than fifteen days thereafter for a meeting of the creditors at his office to choose an assignee and notice of such meeting shall be given by newspaper publication and also by mail. At the time fixed in such notice the creditors, or so many as shall be present in person or by proxy, shall choose an assignee by ballot and the sheriff shall be eligible. No person shall be chosen unless receiving the votes of creditors representing a majority of the gross indebtedness and shall also have been voted for by one-third of all the creditors. No creditor shall vote unless his claim be verified by affidavit to be just, reasonable and wholly unpaid to the extent claimed.

Immediately after such meeting the sheriff and the assignee, if any be chosen, shall make an inventory and appraisement of the entire estate and return the same to the County Court. The assignee must give an undertaking in double the amount of the appraised value of all the property, with two or more sureties, to the satisfaction and approval of the county judge, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duty. On the execution and approval of such bond the sheriff is required to deliver all personal property belonging to such estate to such assignee and to execute and deliver to such assignee, as such, a quit claim deed of all real estate conveyed by such assignment. The assignee shall file additional inventories of any property coming into his hands after the filing of a previous one. The assignee may sue as such and give releases, acquittances and discharges and generally do all things in connection with the estate which the assignor might have done had such assignment not been made.

Upon the day of the creditors' meeting the county judge must fix a day not more than sixty or less than thirty days thereafter within which all claims against the assigned estate must be filed and within which the assignee or assignor or any creditor may file any defense, set-off or counter-claim to any claim that the assignor might have opposed had action been brought upon such claim before assignment. Notice of the fixing of such time shall be given both by advertisement and by letter. Any claim, objection, set-off or counter-claim not filed within the time so fixed is barred. Claims not yet due may be proved. On the day following the day so fixed, all uncontested claims shall be allowed and all contested claims shall be tried in the said court as in ordinary civil actions, but shall not be continued for a longer time than sixty days from the date so fixed. From the judgment of the court allowing or disallowing any such claim in whole or in part, an appeal lies to the District Court.

Upon the approval of his bond the assignee shall advertise and sell the assigned estate as though taken on execution issued out of the District Court. When the entire estate shall have been converted into money there shall be a final distribution thereof in the following order: 1. Payment of fees and court costs. 2. Payment of taxes. 3. Payment of preferred claims in full. 4. Balance divided among all creditors proportionately to their claims. If a contested claim be still in litigation at the time of distribution a dividend shall be declared for it and be retained in the hands of the assignee to await the final result.

Every assignment shall be void against creditors: 1. If it prefer one debt or class of debts over another except a preference to any person of not more than one hundred dollars for wages. 2. If it require any creditor to release or compromise a demand. 3. If it preserve any interest in the property to the assignor or for his benefit before his existing debts have been paid. 4. If it give any power to the assignee different from those provided by law.

A co-partnership estate may be assigned without including the individual property of the partners, or one or more of these may include his or their individual estate in such assignment. In such case separate inventories of the property shall be filed. A co-partnership estate shall be first applied to the payment of co-partnership debts and individual estates to the payment of individual debts, and the balance, if any, in the latter case shall be applied to the payment of partnership debts; the balance, if any, in the former case belonging to an individual partner to the payment of his individual debts.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

An attachment against the property of the defendant may be had at or after the commencement of a civil action when: 1. The defendant is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State. 2. Has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors. 3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of summons. 4. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property or part thereof out of the jurisdiction of the court with intent to defraud his existing debts have been paid. 4. If it give any power thereof into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals. 8. Has assigned, removed or disposed of his property or part thereof, or is about so to do, with like intent. 9. Fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation for which suit is brought.

No attachment shall be granted on the ground that the defendant is a foreign corporation or non-resident of the State for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon contract, judgment or decree.

Before an attachment can issue there must be filed an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, showing: 1. The nature of plaintiff's claim. 2. That it is just. 3. The amount which affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover. 4. The existence of some one of the grounds for the attachment above given.

An attachment may be had in an action on a claim not yet due where: 1. The debtor has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts. 2. Where he is about to make such sale, conveyance or disposition of his property with like intent. 3. Where he is about to remove his property or a material part thereof with like intent.

An attachment upon a debt not yet due requires an order by the judge before it will issue, and this must specify the amount for which the attachment is allowed, not exceeding a sum sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim and the probable costs of the action; and before the attachment will lie, the plaintiff, his agent or attorney must make oath in writing showing the nature and amount of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, when it shall become due, and the existence of some one of the grounds for attachment just enumerated. A bond is in all cases required when application is made for attachment on a debt not yet due. (See next paragraph.)

When the ground of the attachment is that the defendant is a foreign corporation or non-resident of the State, an order of attachment will issue without an undertaking; but in all other cases this shall not issue until an undertaking has been filed by the plaintiff with one or more sufficient sureties in an amount not exceeding double the amount claimed, conditioned to pay the defendant all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment if such should be wrongfully obtained.

The order of attachment is directed and delivered to the sheriff and requires him to attach the lands, tenements, goods, chattels, stocks or interest in stocks, rights, credits, monies and effects of the defendant in his county not exempt by law from being applied to the payment of the plaintiff's claim, or so much thereof as will satisfy this and the probable costs of the action, not exceeding fifty dollars.

The sheriff is required to deliver the property attached to the person in whose possession it was found, upon the execution by him of an undertaking to the plaintiff with one or more sufficient sureties, residents in the county, to the effect that the parties to the same are bound in double the appraised value of the property; and that this or its appraised value in money shall be forthcoming to answer the judgment of the court in the action. If the defendant at any time before attachment causes an undertaking to be executed to the plaintiff by one or more sureties resident in the county, to be approved by the court, in double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, to the effect that the defendant shall perform the judgment of the court, the attachment in the action shall be discharged and restitution made of any property taken under it or its proceeds. Provision is made for the appointment of a receiver after attachment and for the sale of perishable property before judgment.

Garnishment Before Judgment: When the plaintiff, his agent or attorney shall make affidavit that he has good reason to and does believe that any person or corporation to be named and within the county where the action is brought has property of the defendant (describing the same) in his or its possession; if the officer cannot get at such property, he shall leave with the garnishee a copy of the order of attachment and a written notice that he appear in court at the return of the order of attachment, and make answer to all questions put to him touching the property and credits of the defendant of every description in his possession or under his control. A refusal to appear may be punished as for contempt. If it is discovered on the examination of the garnishee that at or after the service of the order of attachment and notice upon him he was possessed of property of the defendant or indebted to him, the court will order the delivery of such property and payment of the amount owing the defendant into court, or permit the garnishee to retain the same upon the execution of an undertaking to the plaintiff that the amount will be paid or the property forthcoming as the court may direct. The order of attachment binds the property attached from the time of service and the garnishee is liable to the plaintiff for all property, monies and credits in his hands or due from him to the defendant from the time he is served with the written notice above mentioned.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against the estates of deceased persons are paid in the following order: 1. The necessary funeral expenses. 2. The expenses of the last sickness. 3. Debts having preference by laws of the United States. 4. Debts due to other creditors.

If there be not assets enough to pay all the debts of any one class, each creditor of that class shall be paid a dividend in proportion to his claim, and no creditor of any class shall receive any payment until all those of the preceding class be paid.

The estates of decedents are settled in the Probate or County Court except that the District Court authorizes the sale of land for the payment of debts of the estate and in other necessary cases in the settlement thereof. The Probate or County Court has the same power in the case of personal property.

The Probate Court, after giving notice of the granting of letters testamentary or of administration, fixes a time for the presentment and examination of claims against the estate, which time shall not in the first instance exceed eighteen months nor be less than six months from the time of the granting of letters, though this may be extended: provided that the whole time shall not exceed two years from such date.

Every person who shall not exhibit his claim within the time limited by the court shall be forever barred from recovering the same. Appeals lie from the Probate Court to the District Court. A claim should be verified by affidavit when presented. It will be allowed if not contested and in the latter case the rules of procedure and evidence in ordinary civil cases apply.

VI. COURTS:

Terms and Jurisdiction: The judicial power of the State is vested in a Supreme Court, District Courts, County Courts, justices of the peace and police magistrates.

The Supreme Court consists of three judges, and three commissioners appointed by the court. It has original jurisdiction in all cases relating to the revenue, civil cases in which the State is a party, mandamus, quo warranto, habeas corpus and a general appellate jurisdiction by way of appeal and writ of error from the District Courts. Writs in error must be prosecuted within one year after judgment in the District Court and appeals in equity within six months after the rendition of judgment in the District Court.

The District Court has general civil and criminal jurisdiction. Its terms are such as the judges of the separate districts designate each year.

The County Court is a court of record and has original jurisdiction in all matters of probate, settlements of estates of deceased persons, appointment of guardians, and settlement of their accounts. In addition is has the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, and in civil cases has concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, exclusive of costs but has not jurisdiction in: any action for malicious prosecution; actions against officers for misconduct in office, except where like proceedings can be had before justices of the peace; actions for slander and libel; actions upon contracts for the sale of real estate; any matter wherein the title or boundaries of land may be in dispute, or affecting the partition of or sale of real estate. The terms of the County Court commence on the first Monday of each month and extend for two weeks.

Justices of the peace have jurisdiction to try minor criminal offenses and sit as committing magistrates; and have jurisdiction in civil cases to the extent of two hundred dollars, except in actions to recover judgments for assault or assault and battery; for malicious prosecution; against justices of the peace or other officers for misconduct in office, except in proceedings against constables failing to make return or failing to pay over money collected on execution; for slander, verbal or written; or on contracts for real estate, or where the title to real estate is sought to be recovered or may be drawn in question, except that they have jurisdiction of actions for trespass to real estate where the damages claimed do not exceed two hundred dollars. Excepting Sundays and legal holidays the Justice Courts are always open.

VII. DEEDS:

Deeds of real estate or any interest therein, except leases for one year or for less time, must be signed by the grantor, of lawful age, in the presence of at least one competent witness who shall subscribe his name as such thereto, and must be acknowledged as the grantor's voluntary act and deed. The acknowledgment, if in this State may be made before a judge or clerk of any court, a justice of the peace or notary public therein, but no officer can take any such acknowledgment or proof out of his territorial jurisdiction. If executed outside of the State it must be executed and acknowledged either according to the laws of such state, territory or district or in accordance with the law of Nebraska, and such acknowledgment outside of the State may be before any officer authorized by the laws of such state, territory or district to take and certify acknowledgments, or by a commissioner of deeds appointed by the Governor of Nebraska for that purpose. If taken before the latter no further authentication is required to entitle the instrument to record; but in all other cases there shall be attached to the deed or other instrument a certificate of the clerk of a court of record, or other certifying officer of the county, district or state within which the acknowledgment is taken, under the seal of his office, showing that the person whose name is subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment was at the time thereof such officer as he is therein represented to be; that the certifying officer is well acquainted with the handwriting of such officer that he believes the signature of such officer to be genuine and that the instrument is executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such state, district or territory. If executed in a foreign country it may be so accordingly to the laws of such country, and the acknowledgment may be before a notary public therein or before any minister plenipotentiary, minister extraordinary, minister resident charge d'affaires, commissioner, commercial agent, consul of the United States appointed to reside there in which acknowledgment shall be certified thereon by the officer taking the same, and if taken before a notary public, his seal of office must be affixed to such certificate.

If the grantor die before acknowledgment, or if his attendance cannot be procured in order to make the same or if he refuses to acknowledge the instrument, proof of the execution and delivery may be made by any competent subscribing witness thereto before any officer authorized to take the acknowledgment, and a certificate of such acknowledgment under such circumstances will operate as an acknowledgment.

Deeds and other instruments relating to real estate may be recorded in the office of register of deeds for the county in which the real estate or any part thereof is situated.

The term "heirs" or other technical words are not necessary to convey an estate in fee simple and every conveyance of real estate shall pass all the interest of the grantor unless a contrary intent is to be inferred from the terms used. No seal is required for a valid deed.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The deposition of a witness may be used: 1. When the witness does not reside in the county where the action is pending, or is absent therefrom. 2. When from age, infirmity or imprisonment he is unable to attend or is dead. 3. When the testimony is required upon a motion or in other cases where the oral examination of a witness is not required. It may be taken at any time after service of summons upon the defendant.

Depositions may be taken in Nebraska before a ju or clerk of the Supreme or District Court, before a probate judge, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor or chief magistrate of any city or town incorporate, or before a master commissioner or any person empowered by special commissioner.

Any court of record or any judge thereof is authorized to grant a commission to take depositions within or without the State. The commission must be issued to a person therein named, by the clerk, under the seal of the court granting the same and depositions under it must be taken upon written interrogatories unless the parties otherwise agree.

Notice to Adversary: Unless taken under the above mentioned special commission, a written notice giving the name of the action, the court in which the deposition is to be used, and the time and place of taking the same shall be served upon the adverse party, so as to allow him sufficient time by the usual route of travel to attend, and one day for preparation, exclusive of Sundays and the day of service. The notice shall specify the names of the witnesses to be examined. Where the place of taking the deposition shall be out of the State, or more than fifty miles from the place of trial of the action, the adverse party, within forty-eight hours after the service of the notice, may serve upon the party taking the deposition, his agent or attorney of record, written cross-interrogatories to be propounded to any witness; and the officer before whom the deposition is taken, shall propound them and they shall be answered subject to objections as in other cases. When the party against whom the deposition is to be read is absent from or a non-resident of the State and has no agent or attorney of record therein, he may be notified of the taking of the deposition by publication.

The deposition shall be written either by the officer taking the same, or in his presence by some disinterested person, and subscribed by the witness. It shall then be sealed up and endorsed with the title of the cause and the name of the officer taking the same, and by him addressed and transmitted to the clerk of the court where the action is pending.

IX. DESCENT:

The degrees of kindred are computed according to the rule of civil law, and kindred of the half blood inherit equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise or gift of some one of his ancestors, in which case all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor shall be excluded from such inheritance.

Real Estate: When any person shall die seized of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, not having lawfully devised the same, they shall descend subject to his debts as follows: 1. In equal shares to his children and the lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation, if there be no child living, then to all his other lineal descendants, and if these are in the same degree of kindred, they shall have the estate equally; otherwise they take according to the right of representation. 2. To his widow for her natural lifetime, and after her decease to his father; and if he shall have no issue or widow, then to his father. 3. To brothers and sisters and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation equally; provided that if decedent's mother be living, she shall take an equal share with his brothers and sisters. 4. To the mother, failing brothers or sisters, exclusive of the issue, if any, of a deceased brother or sister. 5. To next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor shall be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote, provided, however: 6. If any person died, leaving several children, or leaving one child and the issue of one or more other children, and any such surviving child shall be under age and not having married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent shall descend in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who shall have died, by right of representation. 7. If at the death of such child who shall die under age, and not having married, all the other children of his parent shall also be dead, and any of them shall have left issue, the estate that came to said child, by inheritance from his said parent, shall descend to all the issue of other children of the same parent; and if all the said issue are in the same degree of kindred to said child, they shall share the said estate equally, otherwise according to the right of representation. 8. If the intestate shall leave a widow and no kindred, his estate shall descend to such widow. 9. If the intestate shall have no widow or kindred, his estate shall escheat to the State.

Personal estate and all rights and interest therein not lawfully disposed of by will, excepting certain minor details in the way of allowances to the widow of articles of apparel and ornament, etc., shall be distributed in the same proportion, to the same persons and for the same purposes as above prescribed for the descent and disposition of the real estate, except that the widow, if any, shall be entitled to receive the same share thereof as a child of the intestate would be entitled to.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Executions are of three kinds: 1. Against the property of the judgment debtor. 2. Against his person. 3. For the delivery or the possession of real property and damages for holding the same and costs. Lands, tenements, goods and chattels not exempt by law are liable to be taken on execution and sold. Stay is allowed on judgments for recovery of money on adequate security being furnished the court.

No stay of execution will be granted for a longer time than nine months from the rendition of such judgment. The order of sale on all decrees for the sale of mortgaged premises is stayed for nine months from the rendition of such decree, without security, whenever the defendant, within twenty days after the rendition of such decree, files with the clerk of the court a written request that such be done.

An execution against the person lies only against a judgment debtor and requires the officer to arrest the latter and commit him to the jail of the county until he pay the judgment or be discharged according to law. It lies when: 1. The judgment debtor has removed or begun to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court with intent to prevent the collection of the judgment. 2. When he has property, rights in action or some interest or stock in a corporation which he fraudulently conceals with like intent. 3. When he has assigned or disposed of all or part of his property or rights in action or converted the same in money, with intent to defraud his creditors, or to prevent such property from being taken on execution. 4. When he fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation upon which the judgment was rendered.

The execution is only issued when allowed by the Supreme Court, District Court or Probate Court, or a judge of either, after affidavit of the judgment creditor, or his attorney, of the existence of one or more of the above mentioned conditions.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

All heads of families who have neither lands, town lots nor houses subject to exemption as a homestead are entitled to have exempt from forced sale under execution the sum of five hundred dollars in personal property, and in addition thereto the following property: Family Bible; family pictures; school books and library for the use of a family; seat or pew in any house or place of worship; a lot in any burial ground; all necessary wearing apparel for debtor and family; beds, bedsteads and bedding, stoves and appendages for the use of a family not to exceed four; cooking utensils and household furniture not herein enumerated not exceeding in value one hundred dollars; one cow, three hogs, and all pigs under six months old; and if the debtor be actually engaged in the business of agriculture, in addition to the above, one yoke of oxen or a pair of horses in lieu thereof; ten sheep and the wool therefrom; necessary food for stock mentioned for three months; one wagon, cart or dray; two plows and one drag; necessary gear for one team and other farming implements not exceeding fifty dollars in value; provisions for six months' support, either provided or growing, and fuel necessary for six months; the tools and instruments of any mechanic, miner or other person used in carrying on his trade or business; the library and instruments of a professional man.

The Supreme Court has construed the last to apply to the case of one not the head of a family. Nothing is exempt against execution or attachment for clerks', laborers' or mechanics' wages, or for money due or owing by an attorney at law for money or other valuable consideration received by said attorney for any person or persons.

The wages of laborers, mechanics and clerks who are heads of families, in the hands of those by whom they may be employed, both before and after such wages shall be due, to the extent of sixty days' wages, are exempt from attachment, execution and garnishee process. A head of a family includes the husband and every person who has resided on the premises with him and under his care and maintenance.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead not exceeding the value of two thousand dollars, consisting of the dwelling house in which the claimant resides, its appurtenances, and the land on which the same is situated not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of land, and not in any incorporated city or village, or instead thereof at the option of the claimant, a quantity of contiguous land not exceeding two lots in any incorporated city or village, shall be exempt from judgment liens and from execution or forced sale, except on debts secured by mechanics', laborers' or vendors' lien upon the premises, or debts secured by mortgages executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife, or an unmarried claimant. If the homestead be conveyed by the claimant or sold for the satisfaction of any of the above-mentioned liens the proceeds of the sale beyond the amount necessary to the satisfaction of such lien and not exceeding the amount of the homestead exemption shall have the same protection against legal process which is given to homestead. The sale of one homestead does not prevent the selection or purchase of another.

The homestead of a married person cannot be conveyed or incumbered unless the instrument is executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife. A mortgage on the homestead signed or acknowledged by husband or wife alone is void and not a lien upon the property.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

Any rate of interest which may be agreed upon, not exceeding ten per cent per annum, shall be valid upon any loan or forbearance of money. Where not agreed upon, interest shall be at the rate of seven per cent per annum. Interest on all decrees and judgment shall be from the date of the rendition thereof at the rate of seven per cent per annum until the same be paid, provided that if the judgment or decree be founded upon a contract either verbal or written providing for a greater rate of interest not exceeding the amount allowed by law, the rate of interest upon such judgment or decree shall be the same as provided for by the terms of contract.

If a greater rate of interest than hereinabove allowed shall be contracted for or received, the contract is not therefore void, but in an action thereupon the plaintiff can only recover the principal without the interest, and the defendant is entitled to costs; if interest shall have been paid thereon, judgment shall be for the principal, deducting the interest paid.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of the District Court and of the United States District and Circuit Courts are a lien upon the lands and tenements of the debtor within the county where the judgment is entered for the period of five years from the date of the judgment, but if execution be sued out at any time within such five years then the judgment does not become dormant until another five years shall have intervened between the date of the last execution and the time of suing out another writ.

The lien of a judgment of the District Court extends from the first day of the term at which judgment is rendered, except in the case of judgments by confession and judgments rendered at the same term at which the action is commenced; in which case the lien dates only from the day of judgment.

The judgments of County and Justices' Courts are made a lien upon real property by filing a transcript thereof in the District Court for the proper county. A dormant judgment may be revived by proper proceedings.

XV. LIENS:

No judgment is a lien upon a homestead.

Any one performing labor or furnishing material, machinery or fixtures for the erection, reparation or removal of a house, mill or other building or appurtenances under contract, expressed or implied, with the owner or his agent, has a lien to secure the payment for the same, upon such house, building or appurtenances and the land upon which the same stands, upon his filing in the office of the register of deeds, a sworn statement of the amount due him, together with a description of the land against which the lien is claimed.

Where the labor or material is furnished to a contractor or subcontractor the notice must be filed within sixty days after the last item of labor or material is done or furnished, and where the contract is with the owner directly, within four months after such time. The lien is foreclosed by action in the District Court, which must be brought within two years after the filing of the sworn statement.

An attorney has a lien for a general balance of compensation upon papers of his client which he has received in the course of his professional employment; upon money in his hands belonging to his client, and in the hands of the adverse party in an action or proceeding in which the attorney was employed, from the time of giving notice of the lien to such party.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Recovery of Lands: Civil actions for the recovery of the title or possession of lands, tenements or hereditaments, or for the foreclosure of mortgages; upon an official bond or undertaking of an executor, administrator, guardian, sheriff, or any other officer; upon the bond or undertaking given in attachment injunction, must be commenced within ten years after the cause of action shall have accrued.

Actions upon an agreement, contract or promise in writing or a foreign judgment, within five years.

Actions upon a contract not in writing, or upon a liability created by statute other than a forfeiture or a penalty; for trespass upon real property or for taking, detaining or injuring personal property, including actions for the specific recovery of personal property, or an action for an injury to the rights of the plaintiff not arising on contract; for relief on the ground of fraud, in which case the cause of action is not deemed to have accrued until the discovery of the fraud; actions for damages accruing out of a failure or want of consideration of contracts, or for the recovery of money paid upon contracts, and all actions for relief not otherwise specially provided for, within four years.

Actions for forcible detainer or forcible detention of real property; for libel, slander, assault and battery, malicious prosecution or false imprisonment, or for a penalty or forfeiture except where the statute provides a different limitation, within one year.

All actions which are barred by the laws of any state or territory of the United States are barred under the laws of this State.

If a person entitled to bring an action be at the time the cause of such accrues, within the age of twenty-one years, a married woman, insane or in prison, every such person shall be entitled to bring such action within the respective times hereabove given after such disability shall be removed.

Suspension of Statute: The absence out of the State of a person against whom a cause of action accrues, or his having absconded or concealed himself, tolls the running of the statute of limitations until he come into the State; and if he depart from the State or abscond, or conceal himself after the cause of action accrues, the time of such absence or concealment is not computed as part of the period of limitation.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Real and personal property which any woman may own at the time of her marriage and the rents and profits thereof, and any property, real or personal, which may come to her by descent, devise or the gift of any person except her husband, or which she shall acquire by purchase or otherwise, is her sole and separate property notwithstanding her marriage, and is not subject to the disposal of her husband or liable for his debts; provided that such property, not exempt by law, is liable for the payment of debts contracted for necessaries furnished her family, after execution against the husband therefor has been returned unsatisfied. A married woman may sell and convey her real and personal property and enter into any contract with reference thereto to the same extent and with like effect as a married man may do with his own. She may sue and be sued as if she were unmarried, and may carry on trade or business and perform any labor or services on her separate account, and her earnings therefrom are her sole and separate property. She may devise and dispose of any real or personal property held by her in her own right by will. A married woman is a qualified voter for the election of officers of school districts.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

The requirements for the execution and acknowledgment of mortgages are the same as those in the case of deeds. (See "VIII. Deeds.")

Mortgages are foreclosed upon suit brought in the District Court of the county where the mortgaged premises are situated and a sale had as upon execution. A deficiency judgment will be entered in a foreclosure suit, on the giving in of the report of sale, for any balance of the mortgage debt that may remain unsatisfied after the sale of the mortgaged premises, in cases where such balance is recoverable at law; and execution will issue therefor as in other cases.

In the absence of stipulations to the contrary the mortgagor retains the legal title and the right of possession even after stay is taken, and until the confirmation of sale by the court.

The recording of an assignment of a mortgage is not of itself notice of such assignment to the mortgagor, so as to invalidate any payment made to the mortgagee.

A mortgage on the homestead of a married person is void unless both husband and wife join in and acknowledge the instrument.

An action to foreclose a mortgage must be brought within ten years after the right of action accrues. After decree a stay of execution may be had for nine months, by the defendant filing a request for same within twenty days after entry of judgment and no security is required to obtain such stay.

A chattel mortgage need not be acknowledged; but as against creditors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, the mortgage itself or a copy must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where the mortgagor resides; or, in case he be a non-resident, then in the office of the clerk of the county where the mortgaged property is. It ceases to be valid as against the creditors or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith after the expiration of five years from the date of filing.

A chattel mortgage is foreclosed by sale, notice of which is given by advertisement published in a newspaper in the county where such sale is to take place, or, where no newspaper is printed therein, by posting up notices in five public places in said county, and twenty days' notice prior to the day of sale must be given.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bonds, promissory notes and bills of exchange, foreign and inland, drawn for any sum of money certain, and payable to any person or order or assigns, are negotiable by endorsement thereon, but this is not to be construed to make negotiable any bond or bill drawn payable to any person alone, and not drawn payable to order, bearer or assigns. All bonds, notes and bills payable to bearer are transferable by delivery without endorsement.

Bonds or bills, except bank checks and instruments payable on demand, are entitled to three days' grace. Demand of payment from the maker on the third day of grace or of acceptance if the instrument be a sight draft, and notice of non-payment or non-acceptance thereof to the endorser, within a reasonable time, is defined by statute to be due diligence, unless the endorsement expresses other conditions.

Protest fees are allowed to the extent of twelve per cent damages on any bill protested for non-acceptance drawn upon any person or body corporate without the jurisdiction of the United States; in the amount of six per cent damages when drawn upon any person or body corporate within the jurisdiction of the United States and without this State.

Whenever the date of maturity or last day of grace as the case may be of any negotiable instrument shall fall on Sunday or the first day of January, the 22d day of February, the 22d day of April, the first Monday in September, the 25th day of December, the 30th day of May, the 4th day of July, or on any day appointed by the Governor or the President of the United States as a day of thanksgiving, it shall be lawful to make demand and if need be protest or give notice of dishonor on the following business day.

XX. TAXES:

All property real and personal in the State is subject to taxation except property of the State, counties and municipal corporations; and such other property as may be used exclusively for agricultural and horticultural societies, or school, religious, cemetery and charitable purposes.

Unpaid personal taxes, except city taxes, become delinquent on the first day of February of the year after which they have been assessed, and draw thereafter interest at ten per cent per annum. Unpaid taxes upon real property except city taxes, become delinquent on the first day of May of the year after they shall have been assessed and draw interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum.

On the first Monday of November in each year, lands on which the taxes for the previous year remain unpaid are offered at public sale, and if not sold then the county treasurer is required to offer the same at private sale at his office.

The owner or occupant of any land so sold, or any person having a lien or interest therein, may redeem the same at any time within two years after the date of sale by paying for the use of such purchaser the amount of the taxes paid by him, together with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent per annum from the date of purchase, together with all other taxes subsequently paid and interest thereon at the same rate from the date of such payment.

At the expiration of two years after sale the purchaser is entitled to a tax deed by observing requirements as to notice, etc. But a recent decision of the Supreme Court has made any tax deed ineffectual to convey title for the reason that the county treasurer, having no seal of office, cannot make a lawful deed. The only remedy of one who has purchased lands at a sale for taxes is to bring foreclosure proceedings against the land for the amount paid, such proceedings must be brought within five years after the cause of action accrued.

XXI. WILLS:

Every person of full age and sound mind may devise and dispose of all his real and personal estate, and any estate, right or interest acquired by the testator after the making of his will shall pass in like manner as if possessed at the time of making the will, if such shall appear by the will to have been the intention of the testator.

Execution and Attest: No will, except a nuncupative one, is effectual to pass any estate, real or personal, unless in writing and signed by the testator or by some one in his presence and by his express direction, and attested and subscribed in the presence of the testator by two or more competent witnesses. If these are competent at the time of attesting the execution of the will, their subsequent incompetency will not prevent the probate and allowance of the will if it be otherwise satisfactorily proved.

No nuncupative will shall be good when the estate thereby bequeathed exceeds the value of one hundred and fifty dollars, that is not proved by the oath of three witnesses at least, present at the time of the making; nor unless it be proved that the testator did at the time bid the persons present, or some of them, to bear witness that such was his will, nor unless this was made at the time of the last sickness of the deceased and in the place of his habitation or dwelling, or where he had been resident for the space of ten days or more next before the making of such will, except where he was unexpectedly taken sick, being from home, and died before he returned to the place of his habitation.

Any devise or legacy made or given in a will to a subscribing witness shall be wholly void unless there be two other competent witnesses to the same, but if such witness to whom such devise may have been made would have been entitled to share in the estate in case the will was not established, then so much of the share that would have descended or been distributed to him as will not exceed the devise or bequest made in the will shall be saved to him, and he may recover the same from the devisee or legatees named in the will.

A will properly enclosed and endorsed may be deposited by the person making the same or any one for him with the probate judge of the county where he lives, who shall receive and keep such will, giving a certificate of the deposit thereof, and such will shall during the lifetime of the testator be delivered only to him or some person for him upon his written order.

A will duly proved and allowed in any of the United States or in any foreign country according to the laws of such state or country may be allowed and recorded in the Probate Court of any county where the testator shall have real and personal estate, when a copy of such will and its probate, duly authenticated, has been produced to the Probate Court, and the latter shall be satisfied that the instrument ought to be allowed in this State, and it will then have the same force and effect as if originally proved and allowed herein. An attested copy of any will devising lands shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the lands thereby devised are situated.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution provides that corporations shall not be created by special law. Any number of persons may form a corporation for the transaction of any lawful business and every corporation so formed has power: 1. To have succession by its corporate name. 2. To sue and be sued, and to complain and defend in the courts. 3. To make and use a common seal. 4. To hold personal estate, and all real estate necessary for its legitimate business. 5. To render the interest of stockholders transferable. 6. To appoint such subordinate officers and agents as its business may require and to allow them a suitable compensation. 7. To make by-laws for its management. These powers vest in every corporation even though they be not specified in its articles of asscciation.

II. ORGANIZATION:

Every corporation previous to the commencement of business, excepting its own organization, must adopt articles of incorporation and have them recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the business is to be transacted. Those for the construction of works of internal improvement must also file in the office of the Secretary of State a copy of the articles. The articles must fix the highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation shall at any time be subjected, and this can never exceed two-thirds of the capital stock, except that this limitation does not apply to debts for the risks of insurance companies, deposits in banks, and the notes, bonds or debentures of loan or trust companies, where the payment of such notes, bonds or debentures is secured by an actual transfer of real estate, by trust deed or mortgage, if such real estate so transferred shall be twice the par value of such notes, bonds or debentures; and such limitation does not apply to any loan or trust company's guarantee for the payment after transfer of any notes, bonds or debentures, where such is secured by trust deed or mortgage.

A corporation may commence business as soon as its articles are filed in the office of the county clerk. There shall then be published within four months from that time for four weeks, a notice in some newspaper nearest the principal place of business, giving: 1. The name of the corporation. 2. The principal place of transacting its business. 3. The general nature of this. 4. The amount of capital stock authorized and the time and conditions on which it is to be paid in. 5. The time of commencement and termination of the corporation. 6. The highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. 7. By what officers the affairs of the corporation are to be conducted.

Every change in any of the above provisions must be recorded and published in the same manner as the original articles are required to be.

No corporation can be dissolved by the members except by consent of two-thirds of all, entered on its records, unless a different rule is adopted in its articles.

A copy of the by-laws with the names of the officers is required to be posted in some conspicuous place, subject to public inspection, at its place of business. Every corporation must give notice annually in a newspaper printed in the county where its business is transacted, and in case there is no newspaper therein, then in the nearest paper in the State, of the amount of existing indebtedness.

A corporation may convey lands by deed sealed by its common seal and signed by the president or presiding officer of the board of directors, and when so signed and acknowledged to be an act of the corporation is entitled to record.

III. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

The statutes provide that in all cases of claims against corporations, after the corporate property shall have been exhausted, the subscribers to the stock shall be individually liable to the extent of any unpaid subscription and the liability for such shall follow the stock; and that every stockholder in a banking corporation or institution organized under the laws of the State shall be individually liable to its creditors, while he remains a stockholder, to an amount equal to the par value of the shares of stock held by him in addition to the original subscription therefor.

(For Foreign Corporations, see Commercial Law, "II. Aliens.")

MINING.

I. STATE BOUNTY:

It is provided by statute that upon its being made apparent to the Governor of Nebraska that there has been discovered either a vein of coal not less than twenty-six inches in depth, of sufficient capacity to mine, or a vein of good iron ore, eighteen inches thick, it shall be his duty to appoint a suitable person to examine and report as to the extent and capacity of the vein or veins, and in the event of such report being satisfactory, he shall direct the auditor to draw an order on the treasurer for the sum of four thousand dollars to be paid the owner of such mine of coal; and of two thousand dollars for a vein of iron ore one foot thick.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Within the State, may be taken by a judge or clerk of any court having a seal, a notary public or a justice of the peace. Without the State, they may be taken by the same officers, with the exception that one taken before a justice must have attached a certificate of the authority of such justice by the clerk of a court of record having a seal. Without the United States, before a judge or clerk of any court having a seal, a notary public, or before any minister, commissioner, consul, or consular agent of the United States.

II. ASSIGNMENT:

Upon execution of an assignment of all property, real, personal and otherwise, for the benefit of all creditors, and compliance with the several provisions of the Insolvent Act, and provided fifty per cent of the indebtedness is paid, insolvent debtors may obtain a discharge.

III. ATTACHMENT:

Attachments issue at the instance of the plaintiff in actions at law, unless the defendant gives security for the satisfaction of all judgments therein, when, in an action upon a contract for the direct payment of money, payable in the State, no security or pledge upon real or personal estate for the payment of the same has been given to or is held by the plaintiff, or if so given or held, has been rendered nugatory by defendant's act: and when the defendant is a non-resident in the State. Affidavit must be made by the plaintiff, setting forth the grounds upon which attachment is desired to issue, and security must be given the court, conditioned in favor of the defendant for payment of all costs and damages sustained by such defendant by reason of said attachment, in the event that plaintiff fails to recover judgment.

IV. CHATTEL MORTGAGES:

Delivery of property to mortgagee is not necessary, providing that there is attached to the deed, affidavits of parties thereto, or their agents, showing that the deed is made in good faith; given for a debt, the particulars of which shall be stated, actually owing from the mortgagor; and is not made to hinder, delay or defraud mortgagor's creditors.

V. COURTS:

District Courts have original jurisdiction of all cases in equity; and of all cases in law involving title or possession of land or mining claims, or the legality of any tax or assessment; of actions for enforcement of liens; of the settlement of deceased persons' estates; of the care of persons and estates of those insane or in minority; and of all cases in which the amount claimed or the value of the property in controversy exceeds three hundred dollars.

Justice Courts have jurisdiction of all actions for the recovery of money on contract, or on account; of damages for injury to person or property, or a fine, penalty or forfeiture under ordinance of any city, town or village; on a bond or undertaking, or for taxes, when the amount in each case noted does not exceed three hundred dollars. They have also jurisdiction of actions for the possession of lands as between landlord and tenant.

VI. EXEMPTIONS:

Necessary household furniture and provisions and fuel for space of one month. Farming implements and stock to a certain number, and seed grain or vegetables to value of two hundred dollars. Tools of mechanic or artisan, and instruments and libraries of professional men. Cabin or dwelling of a miner, of not more than five hundred dollars in value, together with sluices, hose, pipes, windlasses, whims, derricks, and other tools and implements necessary to carry on the business of mining, not exceeding in value additional five hundred dollars; together with two horses, mules or oxen, with their harness, and food for same for one month, when such are necessary or used for the operation of any whim, derrick, windlass, etc., in such mining operations. Teams used by hucksters, peddlers, etc., and by surgeons, physicians and ministers, are exempt, together with food for same for one month. A sewing machine in every case, not more than one hundred and fifty dollars in value, in actual use by debtor or his family. Earnings of judgment debtor to extent of fifty dollars.

Homesteads of the value of five thousand dollars and less are exempt.

VII. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum. Parties may contract in writing for any other rate, but only original claim bears interest after judgment on such contract.

VIII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions, other than those for the recovery of real property, must be commenced within the time following the various classes specified. Upon a judgment or decree, a contract, obligation, or liability, founded upon a written instrument in writing, except in case of disability, six years. On an open account for goods, wares, and merchandise, sold and delivered; store accounts, a contract, obligation, or liability not founded on written instrument, four years. Upon a liability created by statute other than a penalty or forfeiture; for trespass; for taking, detaining, or injury of goods or chattels; for recovery of personal property; for relief on the ground of fraud, cause of action in such case accruing only on discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting the fraud, three years. Against a sheriff, coroner, or constable, for acts of omission or commission, including non-payment of money collected upon an execution; upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, when the action is given to an individual or to an individual and the State, except when the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation; for libel, slander, assault, battery, or false imprisonment; upon a statute for a forfeiture or penalty to the State; against a sheriff or other person for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process, three years. In all other cases, within two years after the cause of action accrues. A right of action shall be deemed to have accrued on a judgment at the time of its rendition.

IX. MARRIED WOMEN:

All property of the wife owned before marriage, and acquired afterward by gift, bequest, devise, or descent, constitute her separate property, and she has absolute power over and may dispose of the same without the consent of husband. All other property acquired by the husband and wife during coverture is common property, and controlled by the husband; but wife's personal earnings, when she has been allowed by her husband to appropriate the same to her own use, constitute her separate property. The separate property of the husband is not liable for the debts of the wife contracted before marriage; and the separate property of the wife is not liable for the debts of her husband, but is liable for her own debts contracted before marriage. Dower and curtesy are abolished.

X. NOTES AND BILLS:

All notes in writing, made and signed by any person, containing a promise to pay to any other person, or to his order, or to the order of any other person, or to the bearer, any sum of money therein mentioned, are due and payable as therein expressed; have the same effect, are negotiable, and otherwise transferrable as is usual under the law merchant. Acceptances must be in writing, signed by acceptor or his lawful agent, and if on paper other than the bill itself shall not bind the acceptor, except in favor of a person to whom such acceptance shall have been shown, and who, on the faith thereof, shall have received the bill for a valuable consideration. An unconditional promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn is deemed an actual acceptance in favor of any person who, upon the faith thereof, shall have accepted the bill for a valuable consideration. The rate of damage allowed and paid upon the usual protest for non-payment of bills of exchange, drawn or negotiable in this State, if such bill shall have been drawn upon any person or persons in any of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains, is fifteen per cent; and if said bill shall have been drawn upon any person or persons in any foreign country, twenty per cent. When a bill of exchange is protested for non-acceptance, the same rate of damages shall be allowed on the protest for non-acceptance as for non-payment, and shall be in lieu of interest, charges of protest, and all other charges incurred previous to and at the time of giving notice of non-acceptance; but the holder shall be entitled to receive interest upon the aggregate amount of the principal sum specified in the bill, and of the damages therein, from the time at which notice of protest for non-acceptance shall have been given. In all cases where a notice of non-acceptance of a bill of exchange, or non-payment of a bill of exchange, promissory note, or other negotiable instrument, may be given by sending the same by mail, it shall be sufficient if such notice be directed to the city or town where the person sought to be charged by such notice resided at the time of making, drawing, or indorsing such bill of exchange, promissory note, or other negotiable instrument, unless such person, at the time of affixing his signature to such bill, note, or other negotiable instrument, shall, in addition thereto, specify therein the postoffice to which he may require the notice to be addressed.

XI. REDEMPTION:

Upon a sale of real property under execution, or on foreclosure, the defendant may, within six months, redeem such, upon payment of the amount for which the property was sold, with eighteen per cent additional, and any assessment or taxes that the purchaser may have paid thereon after the purchase.

XII. SUITS:

In this State there is but one form of civil action. Civil action in the District Courts (that is, courts of record), are commenced by the filing complaint with the clerk of the court, and the issuance of a summons thereon. After the filing of the complaint, a defendant in the action may appear, and answer or demur, whether the summons has been issued or not, and such appearance, answer or demurrer shall be deemed a waiver of summons. Actions in Justice Courts are commenced by filing a copy of the account, note, bill, bond, or instrument upon which the action is brought, or a concise statement in writing of the cause of action, and the issuance of a summons thereon, or by the voluntary appearance and pleadings of the parties without summons. In the latter case, the action shall be deemed commenced at the time of the appearance.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations may be formed for any purpose, except to issue notes to circulate as money. Three or more persons may form a corporation by signing and acknowledging a certificate of incorporation, and having the same recorded with the clerk of the county in which the principal place of business is to be located; and also filing a copy thereof, properly certified, with the Secretary of State. The certificate must contain the name of the corporation, its object, the amount of the capital stock and the number of shares, its term of existence (not exceeding fifty years), the number of trustees and their names (not less than three), who shall manage its affairs for the first six months, and the name and location of its principal place of business within the State.

II. POWERS:

Are in effect and extent the same as are allowed in other states. The corporate powers shall be exercised by a board of trustees not less than three in number, who shall be stockholders, and who shall be elected annually by the stockholders. The general powers and duties of stockholders and trustees are such as are incident to all corporations. Corporations in this State shall have the power, whenever at any assessment sale of the delinquent stock of said corporation, no person will take the stock and pay the assessment thereon, to purchase such stock and hold the same for the benefit of the corporation. The stock so purchased shall be held subject to the control of the remaining stockholders, who may make such disposition of the same as they may see fit. A majority of the remaining shares of stock in such corporation shall be held to be a majority of the stock for all purposes of election or voting on any question before a stockholders' meeting.

On petition of stockholders holding a majority of stock, the district judge of the district wherein the corporation's principal place of business is situated shall call a meeting of stockholders for the purpose of removing any or all of the officers of such corporation, and at such meeting any officer may be removed and a new one elected.

A corporation may dissolve itself by petition to and proceedings before the judge of the district in which is situate the head office.

III. SHARES:

Shares are personal estate and are transferable by endorsement and delivery, but such transfer is not valid, except as to the parties thereto, until entered on the books of the corporation. No dividend can be declared except on net profits.

IV. OUTSIDE CORPORATIONS:

Every incorporated company created and existing under the laws of any other state, owning property or doing business in this State, shall appoint and keep an agent in this State upon whom all legal process may be served for such corporation. Such corporation must file a certificate, properly authenticated by the proper officers of such company, with the Secretary of State, specifying the full name and residence of such agent, which certificate shall be renewed by such company as often as a change may be made in such appointment. Any and all legal process may be served upon such company by delivering to such agent personally a copy of such process, which service shall be legal and valid. If any such company shall fail to appoint such agent, or fail to renew such certificate for ten days after a vacancy occurs in such agency, then it shall be lawful to serve such company with any and all legal process by delivering a copy to the Secretary of State, and such service shall be valid.

MINING.

I. MINING CLAIMS:

Mining claims are located and held under the provisions of the mining laws of the United States (q. v.), and local regulations thereby authorized. (Sec. 2324.) There is no State regulation in this respect, except: (1.) In case of proceedings against delinquent co-owners under the United States statutes. The moving party must, within thirty days after the title vests in him, have recorded in the office of the county recorder a copy of the notice given, with an affidavit of service, if personal, or an affidavit of publication by the publisher or his clerk, when published, together with his own affidavit that the parties proceeded against have not paid their share of expenditure, or performed their share of labor. Such record, or a copy thereof, is prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein. (2.) An affidavit of annual labor and expenditure made before the mining recorder of the district and recorded with him is prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

II. EMINENT DOMAIN:

The right of eminent domain may be exercised in favor of the mining of, and the milling, smelting, or other reduction of ores.

III. CORPORATIONS:

Three or more persons owning a majority interest in any mining claim may form themselves into an association or corporation for the purpose of working the same, and may sue anyone owning with them, but not a member of such association or incorporation, for his pro rata share of the expense of working the same, without previous notice or demand. Mining corporations may be compelled to allow stockholders to visit and examine the mines. Mining corporations may consolidate.

IV. ACTIONS:

No action for the recovery of mining claims, or for the recovery of possession thereof, shall be maintained, unless it appear that the plaintiff, or those through or from whom he claims, were seized or possessed of such mining claim, or were the owners thereof, within two years before the commencement of such action.

In any mining district embracing a county seat, the county recorder shall be ex-officio mining recorder.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

All conveyances of land must be in writing, and, before registration, must be acknowledged by the party executing the same, or proved by the oath of a subscribing witness. If acknowledged within the Province same must be made before a judge of the Supreme or any County Court, a member of the executive or legislative council, any registrar or deputy registrar of deeds, any notary public appointed for and resident in the Province, certified under his hand and official seal, or any justice of the peace in the county in which the conveyance is to be registered. Proof of execution in the Province may be taken before any of the said officials except a justice of the peace.

Acknowledgment or proof without the Province may be made before: Any commissioner appointed for taking affidavits, any commissioner authorized to administer oaths in England, the mayor or chief magistrate of any municipality or town corporate, certified under the common or corporate seal of such city, etc., or the seal of such mayor or chief magistrate; any judge of a court of record or supreme jurisdiction in the United Kingdom, its colonies or dependencies; any British minister, ambassador, consul or consular agent of Her Majesty, or before the Governor of a state, and certified under the hand and seal of such said officers. If the conveyance be by a corporation, proof of the corporate seal shall, in all cases, be sufficient. Married women must make separate acknowledgment.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments for the benefit of all creditors without preference may be made by an insolvent to the sheriff of the county in which he resides or does business, or to another assignee in the Province with the consent of his creditors. Such assignments duly made shall have preference over all judgments and unsatisfied executions. Transfers made by an insolvent to defeat or delay creditors or to prefer any creditor shall be null and void against other creditors.

III. ATTACHMENT:

No attachment law. ("IX. Garnishment.")

IV. BILLS OF SALE:

Bills of sale of personal property, where possession does not pass, shall be filed with affidavit of witness and purchaser in the county registry office in order to hold against creditors of bargainor. Bills of sale by way of chattel mortgage shall be filed with affidavit of a witness to execution, and affidavit of the mortgagee of the justice of the debt and a statement of the amount due on the same may be required from the mortgagee at any time.

V. COURTS:

Justices have jurisdiction up to twenty dollars' debt and eight dollars' damages; Commissioners' Courts to eighty dollars' debt and thirty dollars' damages; and County Courts to four hundred dollars' debt and two hundred dollars' damages, from which appeal lies to the Supreme Court. There is a Probate Court for each county, from which appeal lies to the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has jurisdiction over all other matters. On appeals from the County and Probate Courts bonds with securities are required to pay the costs of appeal.

VI. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public	$ 1.00
Acknowledgment before clerk of court	1.00
Acknowledgment before justice	.20
Attachment: Taxable costs, depending on circumstances.
Appeal: Taxable costs, depending on circumstances.
Commencement of suit in Justice Court	.50
Incorporation: By letters patent, on capital stock of $10,000 or less	25.00
Capital stock exceeding $500,000 and not over $1,000,000	125.00
Each $500,000 over $1,000,000	25.00
Probate: Variable, for estate of $50,000 from $2.50 to	105.00
Proctor's fees, in ordinary cases about	20.00
Protest: Inland, besides expenses	1.50
Foreign, besides expenses	3.00
Redemption of real estate, from $30 to	150.00
Redemption of personal property, not exceeding	10.00
Sheriff: Service, besides mileage, 5 cents, going and coming	.50
Witness: Justice Court, each day	.25
Circuit Court, each day	.30
Mileage each way	.05

VII. EXECUTIONS:

Issue forthwith unless appeal is taken, when execution is stayed until appeal is determined. There is no redemption of property sold under execution. Only executions issued on the judgments of the Supreme and County Courts affect lands.

VIII. EXEMPTIONS:

The wearing apparel, bedding, kitchen utensils and tools of his trade or calling to the value of one hundred dollars of any debtor are exempt from levy or sale under execution.

IX. GARNISHMENT:

A judgment creditor in the Supreme or County Court, when judgment is for eighty dollars and upwards, may garnishee debts due the debtor, wages to the amount of twenty dollars being exempt.

X. INTEREST:

The legal rate is six per cent. Parties may agree upon any rate. There is no usury law, except provision that chartered banks cannot stipulate for more than seven per cent.

XI. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments in all courts of record are liens on personal property from the issue of execution, and on lands from the issue of execution in the Supreme and County Courts. Memorials of judgments recovered in the Supreme and County Courts may be registered in the county where the lands of the debtor lie, and form a lien on the same for five years, and may be renewed every five years with like effect. Executions must be issued within three years of judgments in Justices' and Commissioners' Courts, and within twenty years in the Supreme and County Courts.

XII. LIENS:

Mechanics, woodmen and general wage earners are protected by special acts giving them liens and preference in case of insolvency.

XIII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on judgments of courts of record, recognizances, bonds, or other specialty, or for the recovery of real property, must be brought within twenty years of the time cause of action accrues. In cases of assault, battery, wounding, imprisonment, or injurious words, within two years; and in all other personal actions, within six years.

XIV. MARRIED WOMEN:

Retain their property, real or personal, owned at marriage or acquired thereafter by gift (except from husband), devise, descent or purchase, free from the control of the husband, and not liable for his debts. A married woman may hold real and personal property as if a femme sole, and may bind her separate estate by contracts, and shall have full control of property possessed at the time of marriage or acquired thereafter.

XV. MORTGAGES:

Must be proved and acknowledged in the same manner as are deeds, and to be effectual against creditor and bona fide purchasers, must be recorded. They are foreclosed by a bill in equity, or a power of sale contained in the mortgage.

XVI. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are governed by mercantile law. Notice of dishonor mailed to the place at which the note on its face purports to have been made is sufficient. Any promise in the form of a promissory note or bill of exchange is commercial paper, and need not be made payable at bank or any fixed place. But, if not payable at a named place, in order to bind indorsers or the drawer, the paper must be presented either personally to the maker or acceptor, or at his residence or place of business, if he has one, at maturity.

XVII. SUITS:

Are commenced by summons or capias. Summons in Justices' and Commissioners' Courts may be made returnable not less than six nor more than thirty days from the time of issuing. In County and Supreme Courts they may be returnable within twenty days after service, and may be served at any time within two months from issue. Service may be either personal, or by leaving a copy of writ at the last known place of residence with some adult member of the family, if defendant is within the Province at the time of leaving said copy.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

The petition for letters patent must set forth: 1. The proposed corporate name of the company. 2. The object for which its incorporation is sought. 3. The place in New Brunswick where the chief place of business is to be established. 4. The amount of its capital stock, not to be less in any case than two thousand dollars, actually subscribed. 5. The number of shares, and the amount of each share. 6. The name in full, address and calling of each of the applicants, three of whom are to be the first or provisional directors of the company; the amount of stock taken by each applicant and the amount paid in thereupon; the aggregate of the stock so taken to be at least one-half of the total amount of the stock, and also whether the amount paid in is paid in cash or by transfer of property, describing the property, or how otherwise.

The petition shall be signed by the shareholders or three of them at the least, or shall be accompanied by a memorandum of association signed by such shareholders or their attorneys, containing the particulars above set forth. Any payments on account of stock must be paid into some bank to the credit of the company or of trustees therefor. When the capital stock of the proposed company exceeds five thousand dollars, notice of application for letters patent shall be published in the "Royal Gazette" for two weeks before such application is made.

The petition above mentioned, directed to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council shall be presented through the Provincial Secretary not more than one month after the last publication of such notice. Notice of the granting of letters patent shall be published in the "Royal Gazette" and incorporation shall thereupon be complete. The head office of any company must be located within New Brunswick, but if requested in the petition for letters patent, permission may be given to hold the annual meetings in the United States, in Great Britain, or in any other province of Canada.

II. POWERS:

Companies may be so incorporated for any purposes or objects within the legislative authority of New Brunswick, except the construction and working of railways, the business of insurance, or for the management of trades unions, friendly societies, building societies or other associations of like character, for which special acts of incorporation are necessary. Any company incorporated under the act may acquire, hold, alienate and convey real estate requisite for the operations of the company. Supplementary letters patent extending the powers of the company within the act may be procured with the concurrence of at least two-thirds in value of the total shareholders of the company.

III. DIRECTORS:

The affairs of every company shall be managed by a board of not less than three directors, and the directors named in the letters patent shall continue until replaced by others duly appointed. A director must be a shareholder owning stock in his own right to the amount required by the by-laws of the company, and all calls thereon must be paid up. Directors shall be elected annually in general meeting of the company. A shareholder may vote on each share owned by him, and may vote by proxy, such proxy being himself a shareholder. All calls upon shares must be paid to entitle shareholder to vote.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The capital stock of the company may be increased or decreased, or the shares subdivided by by-law, with the concurrence of not less than two-thirds in value of the shareholders at a general meeting of the company. The stock of the company is personal estate and shall be transferable as prescribed by the by-laws of the company, subject to the act. A company may be authorized under letters patent to issue ordinary and preferred stock; the latter to have priority as regards dividends and likewise over ordinary stock. No company under the act shall issue stock to represent increased value of any property of the company. The watering of stock is prohibited.

V. LIABILITY OF SHAREHOLDERS:

Each shareholder, until the whole amount of his shares has been paid up, shall be individually liable to the creditors of the company to an amount equal to the amount not paid up; but shall not be liable to any action until an execution has been issued against the company by the creditor and returned unsatisfied in whole or in part. Any amount recovered from a shareholder under this provision shall be taken as a payment on his shares. The shareholders shall not as such be held responsible for any act, default or liability whatsoever of the company, or for any claim, injury, transaction or matter relating to or connected with the company, beyond the amount unpaid on their shares. No person holding stock as an executor, guardian or trustee shall be personally liable as a shareholder, but the estate in his hands shall be liable in the same manner as the original shareholder. Persons holding stock as collateral security shall not be personally subject to any liabilities thereon.

VI. RESTRICTIONS, ETC.:

Companies incorporated under the Companies' Act may not issue notes payable to bearer or engage in banking or insurance.

The legal domicile of the company shall be an office in the locality where is their chief place of business, and notice of the selection of that office and of any change therein shall be advertised. Any summons, order or other process or document may be served on a company by leaving the same at its office with any grown person in the employ of the company, or on its president or secretary, or by publication by order of a judge of the Supreme or County Court.

No loan shall be made by any company to any shareholder. Any action may be prosecuted between the company and any shareholder.

The charter of the company shall be forfeited by nonuser during three consecutive years at any one time, or if the company do not go into actual operation within three years after the granting of the charter.

Any existing company incorporated prior to the act may apply for letters patent thereunder.

A statement of the affairs and financial position of the company shall be made by the directors at each general meeting. The directors may borrow money and issue the bonds of the company therefor with the concurrence by vote of not less than two-thirds in value of the shareholders present or represented at a special general meeting called for that purpose. The amount of such bonds shall not be greater than seventy-five per cent of the actual paid-up stock of the company.

All incorporate companies may be wound up under the "Winding-up Act."

VII. INCORPORATION FEES:

The scale of fees to the Provincial Secretary on application for letters patent runs from a fee of twenty dollars when the proposed capital stock of the company is ten thousand dollars or less, to a fee of one hundred and twenty-five dollars when the proposed capital stock is over five hundred thousand dollars and less than one million dollars; and for every five hundred thousand dollars in excess of one million dollars an additional fee of twenty-five dollars.

MINING.

[For Gold and Silver.] I. AREAS:

Quartz mines are laid off in rectangular areas of one hundred and fifty feet, magnetic east and west, by two hundred and fifty feet, north and south. Alluvial mines are laid out as above so far as possible.

II. PROSPECTING AND MILL LICENSES:

Under the present act, "prospecting licenses," giving the right to search for gold and silver; and "licenses to search," giving the right to search for mines other than gold or silver, may be taken out.

A prospecting license for any period not exceeding twelve months may be obtained upon application to the Surveyor-General, and upon payment therefor at the rate of fifty cents per area up to ten areas, and twenty-five cents for every additional area, such license not to include in land measure more than one hundred acres. A prospecting license may be renewed for a second period of twelve months at half the above rate. Within the duration of any such license the holder shall be entitled to a lease of any areas included in the license.

A license is required to authorize the use of any mill or machinery for the reduction or concentration of quartz or other gold or silver bearing material, or for crushing, stamping, etc. Under such a license a royalty of two and one-half per cent on the gross amount of gold obtained in the mill is payable, and the like amount on silver. A penalty of four hundred dollars is imposed for running mills for crushing, etc., without a license.

III. LEASES:

Leases may be procured of gold and silver areas from the Surveyor-General upon application in writing and upon payment of two dollars for every area leased, for the first year; the sum of fifty cents for each area leased being payable annually in advance for each subsequent year. The lease is forfeited by failure to make such annual payment in advance.

Provision is made for arbitration with private landholders owning the lands included in any lease, as to the damages sustained by the land-owner by any miner working under a lease. Questions of disputed title can be referred to a judge of the Supreme Court, who can dispose of such questions in a summary manner upon notice to all persons interested.

All leases shall be for the term of twenty years, but a lease may be surrendered at any time. Leases are forfeited on failure to pay royalties, to perform each year the number of days' labor specified in the lease, or to comply with any other of the provisions of such lease.

IV. RETURNS:

Lessees of mines are required to make to the Surveyor-General quarterly returns of the amount of labor performed on the lands leased, the amount of material mined and put through the mill, and the returns and productions from the premises leased.

V. ROYALTY:

A royalty of two and one-half per cent upon the gross amount of gold and silver mined is payable under all leases.

Lessees are entitled to thirty days' notice of any proceedings by the Surveyor-General for the forfeiture of any lease for non-compliance with its conditions or with the provisions of the mining act. The Surveyor-General shall appoint a time and place for investigating any question as to non-compliance with the terms of his lease by a lessee, at which hearing evidence shall be taken and reduced to writing. An appeal lies from the decision therein to a judge of the Supreme Court.

The Surveyor-General may declare leases for mining gold and silver forfeited for failure to work for the space of five years, after three weeks' publication of notice of such intended declaration, and on hearing any party interested in any such lease, and his decision is subject to appeal. An appeal lies from the decision of the Surveyor-General respecting any application for a prospecting license or a lease of a gold and silver area, to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. Provision is made for the infliction of penalties for unlawful mining or mining in any lands without authority.

[Mines Other Than Gold or Silver.] I. LICENSES:

Licenses to search for minerals other than gold, or gold and silver, may be granted, to be in force for one year from date of application. The license fee is twenty dollars, and the license may cover any tract not exceeding five square miles in extent, but not more than two and a half miles in length, in a rectangular shape, the lines of said rectangle bearing magnetically to north, south, east and west. A survey is required at the cost of the licensee. The license may be renewed for another twelve months on application therefor not less than thirty days before the expiration of the first term, and on payment of the sum of twenty dollars.

Second rights to search over the same area may be granted, provided that no other applications shall be received than there are areas of one square mile within the area first applied for.

The holder of a license to search may at any time before the expiration thereof select an area of one square mile from the land covered by the license for working the mines therein, the fee therefor being fifty dollars. A license to work shall be for a term of two years from the date of application, and may be extended to three years on payment of one-half the amount originally paid. Effective mining operations must be commenced within the term of the license. A license to work may be obtained in the first instance upon the terms above mentioned. The holder of a license to work is entitled to a lease of the premises covered by the license on or before the termination thereof.

The owner of any land may procure a license at any time, with the approval of the Surveyor-General, to search for and mine therein manganese only.

II. LEASES:

Leases of mines other than gold or silver are for the term of twenty years and may be renewed as hereinafter mentioned. A lessee of a coal mine is not authorized to assign or transfer his lease without the consent of the Governor in council. A lease may be surrendered at any time. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may upon special circumstances authorize a lease of a larger area than one square mile.

Leases of copper and lead mines convey all associated ores and metals.

Provisions exist for the fixing of boundaries of mining areas under the supervision of the Surveyor-General, and in conjunction with lessees of adjoining areas, within six months after the issuing of any lease.

Leases of mines other than gold and silver may be renewed for twenty years; and also for a third period of twenty years upon compliance with the provisions of the leases of the mining act.

Leases may be forfeited for non-compliance with the terms of the leases, for abandonment, or for failure to work effectually; but an appeal lies to the Supreme Court from the decision of the Surveyor-General declaring a forfeiture.

A lessee may be required to pay damages to the owner of any land covered by a lease or license. Leases are required to be registered in the Crown Land Office within one year from the time of application, otherwise the area shall be considered vacant. The annual rent payable by lessees of mines other than gold and silver shall be fifty dollars per square mile. All mortgages and other transfers affecting the title to any mines shall be recorded in the Crown Land Office.

III. RETURNS:

Quarterly returns are required to be made specifying the quantity of ore or mineral wrought or gotten, the amount of royalty accrued, the number of days' labor of the persons employed, and of the amount of work done in any mine. Such returns are required to be made under oath.

IV. ROYALTIES:

The following royalties are payable to the Government: Coal, ten cents per long ton on the coal removed from the mine; copper, four cents upon every one per cent of copper in each ton of two thousand three hundred and fifty-two pounds of copper ore sold or smelted; lead, two cents upon every one per cent contained in each ton of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds of lead ore sold or smelted; iron, five cents on every ton of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds of ore sold or smelted; tin and precious stones, five per cent on their value; salt, two cents per bushel, but none shall be paid when the brine does not contain at least fifteen per cent of salt in solution.

The Government, when it shall be deemed necessary, may provide that the royalty reserved by the mining act shall not be imposed or collected upon any ores mined, wrought or taken until after ten years from the date of the mining lease; and also the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may remit any royalty under special circumstances.

V. EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION:

The municipal council of any county in the Province may, at a general meeting specially called, the expenses of which shall be paid by the applicants, exempt from taxation in whole or in part all the plant, machinery, works, buildings or improvements in connection with the operating or developing of mines and minerals for any period not exceeding twenty years.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I ALIENS:

Resident aliens may hold, purchase, sell, devise, or transmit by descent property the same as native-born citizens. (Public Statutes, Chapter 137, Sections 16, 17.)

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Must include all the debtor's property, except what is exempt from attachment ("XII. Exemptions"), for the equal benefit of all his creditors, and must be made to the judge of probate of the county where the debtor resides, and to such assignee as he may appoint; must be under seal, sworn to in the form prescribed, and filed with the judge or register of probate for the county. If real estate is included in the assignment it must be witnessed and acknowledged as is required for deeds of real estate. ("VII. Deeds.")

The judge shall fix a time when an assignee will be appointed, and give notice thereof, personal and by publication, to the creditors. At the time thus fixed, the judge, upon recommendation of two-thirds in number and a majority in value of those creditors who have proved their debts, shall appoint some person, not a creditor, assignee: if the creditors fail to thus recommend, the judge may appoint an assignee without their recommendation.

The assignee must give a bond for the faithful discharge of his duties, and forthwith give notice of his appointment; and within ten days after his appointment must file a schedule of all property embraced in the assignment, with a statement of the estimated value thereof and of the incumbrances thereon, verified by his oath to be true according to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief. The assent of all creditors to the assignment is presumed unless they dissent within thirty days after public notice thereof, and all actions of assenting creditors are discontinued and their taxable costs thereon may be added to their debts in their proofs. Dissenting creditors take no benefit under the assignment. Attachments, payments, pledges, mortgages (except those given to secure debts actually created at the time of the execution of the mortgages), conveyances, sales (except those in the ordinary course of business), and transfers made within three months prior to the assignment, and all payments, pledges, mortgages, conveyances, sales, and transfers, whenever made, that are fraudulent as to creditors, are void, and the assignee may recover and hold the property notwithstanding the same. Within six months after his appointment, and at such other times as the judge may direct, the assignee is required to settle his accounts in the Probate Court, of which settlement due notice must be given. Upon such settlement, the judge may order the balance in the hands of the assignee, or such portion thereof as he may deem proper, to be distributed among the creditors.

Wages due operatives, clerks, house-servants, and other laborers, to an amount not exceeding fifty dollars, for labor performed within six months previous to the assignment, are paid in full; all other creditors receive a dividend in proportion to their respective claims. Creditors are required to prove their claims by affidavit or affirmation and file them in the probate office within one month after the assignment; but they may file them afterwards and participate in subsequent dividends. The proof may be made by the creditor, his agent or attorney. All objections to claims must specify the items objected to, with the grounds of objection, and be under oath of the party objecting, and must be filed within three months after said assignment, unless further time, not exceeding two months more, is granted by the judge. The judge of probate, after notice to parties interested, shall hear and decide contested claims, from whose decision an appeal may be taken to the Supreme Court. A final settlement and distribution must be made within one year after the assignment, unless the judge shall grant further time with the written consent of a majority in number and value of the creditors. If the estate pays fifty per cent of all claims proved, the debtor may be discharged from all debts against him at the date of the assignment; if it pays less he may be discharged upon written consent of three-fourths in number of his creditors who own three-fourths in amount of the debts against him. A debtor who has been once discharged in proceedings of this kind is not entitled to a second discharge under like subsequent proceedings. The law also provides for a composition by the debtor with his creditors. One or more creditors having claims against a debtor amounting to three hundred dollars or more may institute proceedings against the debtor in the Probate Court, and compel an assignment by him with the results above stated, if they satisfy the court that he is insolvent. (Public Statutes, Chapter 201.)

III. ATTACHMENTS:

In most actions, any property which may be taken upon execution may be attached and holden as security for the judgment the plaintiff may recover. (Public Statutes, Chapter 220, Secion 1.) Real estate is attached by the officer leaving an attested copy of the writ and of his return thereon at the dwelling-house or office of the town clerk of the town where the property is situated. (Public Statutes, Chapter 220, Section 3.)

All movable property is taken possession of by the officer on making the attachment. The attachment of lumber, brick, and other bulky articles may be preserved by leaving an attested copy of the writ and officer's return thereon with the town clerk, as in the attachment of real estate, within twenty-four hours after the attachment is made, without retaining the actual possession thereof. (Public Statutes, Chapter 220, Section 16.) In all cases where an attachment is made an attested copy of the writ should be served on the defendant, by giving in hand or leaving at his abode, at least fourteen days before the sitting of the court to which it is returnable. (Public Statutes, Chapter 219, Sections 1, 2.) The property of the defendant in the hands of a third person, and the debts due the defendant, may be attached by trustee process, service being made upon the defendant and trustee, as in other cases. No trustee is chargeable for pensions or bounty money, or for the services or earnings of the wife or minor children of the defendant, or for the defendant's own earnings after service of writ, or for his earnings to the amount of twenty dollars before service of writ on trustee, except for necessaries actually furnished the debtor or his family. (Public Statutes, Chapter 245, Section 20.) Property attached is holden for thirty days from the rendition of judgment, and the levy of the execution must be commenced within that time. (Public Statutes, Chapter 220, Section 40.)

No valid attachment can be made to secure claims not due at the commencement of the action. Attaching creditors acquire a lien in the order of their attachments, and do not share in the attached property pro rata.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

All claims against the estates of deceased persons must be prosecuted within three years after the grant of administration, but suit thereon cannot be maintained if commenced within one year, or before payment is demanded. (Public Statutes, Chapter 191, Sections 1-4.) In granting letters of administration preference is given to: 1. The executor named in the will. 2. The widow, or any of the next of kin, or such suitable person as they or any of them may nominate. 3. One of the devisees or creditors. 4. Such other person as the judge of probate may think proper. Non-residents may be appointed if the circumstances, in the opinion of the judge, render the same proper. A non-resident administrator must appoint a resident his agent to receive notice of claims and service of process. (Public Statutes, Chapter 188, Sections 2, 4, 24.)

Administrators must within ten days after their appointment post notice thereof at some public place in the town where the deceased dwelt, if in this State, and cause it to be published. (Public Statutes, Chapter 188, Section 15.)

Estates are distributed in the following order. 1: Expenses of administration. 2. Funeral expenses. 3. A reasonable allowance to the widow. 4. The just debts owed by the deceased. 5. The support and maintenance of infant children until seven years of age if the estate is in fact solvent. 6. Legacies. (Public Statutes, Chapter 189, Section 17.) The judge is given the power to make the widow a reasonable allowance for her present needs.

Any estate may be decreed to be administered as if insolvent, and in such case the claims against the estate must be presented to and allowed by commissioners appointed by the Probate Court, within the time (from six to nine months) prescribed by the judge, or they are barred. The judge of probate may extend the time of the commissioners' hearings for sufficient cause. Taxes and claims for last sickness are preferred to other debts. Either the administrator or any creditor may appeal from the commissioners to the Supreme Court. (Public Statutes, Chapter 192, Sections 1-4.)

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court has jurisdiction of common law actions, suits in equity, and appeals from Police, Justice, Probate and Commissioners' Courts; and, sitting as a full bench, of all questions of law transferred by any justice of the court from the trial to the law term of the court. (Public Statutes, Chapters 204, 205.)

The Probate Courts control the administration of estates of persons deceased, the adoption of children, the assignment of dower and homestead, the partition of real estate where there is no controversy about the title, the appointment of guardians for minors and insane persons, and assignments for the benefit of creditors; and have power to change the names of persons who may so desire. (Public Statutes, Title 25.) Appeals lie in all cases from the Probate Court to the Supreme Court.

The jurisdiction of justices of the peace is limited to the determination of civil causes in which title to real estate is not involved, and in which the damages claimed do not exceed thirteen dollars and thirty-three cents. Justices of the peace also have jurisdiction in all criminal cases where the punishment is by fine not exceeding twenty dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by both, and may hold to bail for appearance at the Supreme Court in other criminal cases. Either party in civil causes, and the respondent in criminal cases, may appeal to the Supreme Court. (Public Statutes, Chapter 210.)

VII. DEEDS:

Deeds and other conveyances of real estate must be signed and sealed by the grantor, attested by two or more witnesses, acknowledged before a justice, notary public, or commissioner, whether within or without the State (but if before a justice without the State his official character should be authenticated by the clerk of a court of record or by the Secretary of State), or before a minister or consul of the United States in a foreign country. They should be recorded at length in the registry of deeds in the county in which the lands are situated.

If the wife's only interest in the real estate conveyed is dower, the deed should contain a release of dower, and the wife should sign it, but need not acknowledge it. If the wife has also a homestead right, the deed should contain a release of that, and she should sign and acknowledge it the same as the husband. If the real estate conveyed belongs to the wife in her own right, it is advisable that the husband should join in it, so as to bar his rights of curtesy and homestead. The identity of the grantors need not be certified by the magistrate. A scroll is not a sufficient seal upon a deed or any other instrument required to be sealed.

Any public or private corporation, authorized to hold real estate, may convey the same by any agent appointed for that purpose. (Public Statutes, Chapter 137.)

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The depositions of witnesses in any civil cause may be taken and used at the trial, unless the adverse party procures the witness to attend, upon giving notice signed by a justice or notary, stating the day, hour, and place of taking, three days before the caption, where the party resides within ten miles of the place of caption, and one day additional for every twenty miles, provided that twenty days' notice shall in all cases be sufficient. Where the adverse party resides out of the State, and more than twenty miles from the place of caption, or from the party proposing to take the deposition, the notice of the caption may be served on the attorney of such adverse party.

Any justice or notary public in this State, any commissioner appointed under the laws of this State to take depositions in other states, any judge, justice of the peace, or notary public in any other state or country, may take such depositions. When the deposition is taken by a justice out of the State, the official character of the person taking it must be duly certified to by some clerk of a court of record under its seal, or by the secretary of State under the seal of the state, and that certificate must be attached to the caption. The deposition must be signed by the witness, and after so doing he must make oath that the same is true. The magistrate or officer taking the deposition must annex thereto a certificate of the same, the title of the cause, the time and place, and presence or otherwise of the adverse party at the taking of said deposition.

When the adverse party does not attend the caption, a copy of the notice which has been served upon him or his attorney, with the return of the officer, or the affidavit of the person serving the same, indorsed thereon, stating the time of service, must, and in other cases should, be annexed to the caption of the deposition, and such deposition should be sent to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending within ten days after the taking thereof. (Public Statutes, Chapter 225.) By agreement of parties depositions may be taken stenographically and reduced to writing.

IX. DESCENT:

The real estate of every person deceased, intestate, subject to dower or curtesy and homestead rights, descends in equal shares: 1. To the children or their legal representatives. 2. To the father, if he be living, and there be no issue. 3. To the mother, and the brothers and sisters, or their representatives, if there be no issue or father. 4. To the next of kin. The heirs of a bastard, in the ascending line, are the mother and her heirs. In the estate of the mother of bastards, legitimate and illegitimate children share equally. No representation is allowed among collaterals beyond the degree of brothers' and sisters' grandchildren. There is no distinction between heirs of the full and half blood.

Personal estate not bequeathed after settlement of administration account is distributed: 1. To the widow, the share by law prescribed. 2. The residue in equal shares to the same persons to whom the real estate would, by law, descend. (Public Statutes, Chapter 196.)

X. EXECUTIONS:

Executions issue in twenty-four hours after judgment and are returnable at the term of court next following unless the court make a different return day by special order. Writs of possession in a plea of land upon a foreclosure of mortgage at law do not issue until sixty days after the day of final adjournment of the court. Unless execution is taken within thirty days after judgment is entered up, all attachments made upon the writ are lost.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

There is exempt from attachment, and from liability to be taken upon execution, the following goods and property: Necessary wearing apparel of the debtor and his family; necessary beds, bedsteads, and bedding for the debtor and his family; household furniture to the value of one hundred dollars; one cooking stove and its furniture; one sewing machine; Bibles and school-books in actual use; library to the value of two hundred dollars; one cow; six sheep and their fleeces; one hog, one pig, and the pork of the same when slaughtered; domestic fowls not exceeding in value fifty dollars; four tons of hay; provisions and fuel to the value of fifty dollars; tools of his occupation to the value of one hundred dollars; beasts of the plow, not exceeding a yoke of oxen or a horse; the uniform, arms, and equipments of every officer or private in the militia; the debtor's interest in one pew in any meeting-house, and in one lot in any cemetery. (Public Statutes, Chapter 220, Section 2.)

XII. HOMESTEAD:

The wife, widow, and children of every person who is the owner of a homestead, or any interest therein, are entitled to so much thereof as does not exceed in value five hundred dollars as against creditors, grantees, or heirs of such person, during the life of the wife or widow and minority of the children. If the wife owns a homestead at her decease the life estate of the surviving husband, not exceeding the value of five hundred dollars, is exempt to him. A homestead of the value of five hundred dollars is also exempt to an unmarried person owning the same. (Public Statutes, Chapter 138).

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The rate of interest is six per cent per annum, unless a lower rate is stipulated. If any person, upon any contract, receives interest at a higher rate than six per cent, he forfeits three times the excess to the person aggrieved and suing therefor; but no contract is invalidated by reason of any stipulation for usurious interest; the money actually advanced may be recovered with legal interest. (Public Statutes, Chapter 203.)

Interest upon all judgments is at the rate of six per cent per annum. Interest upon unpaid taxes is at the rate of ten per cent before the sale of property taxed, and twelve per cent thereafter until time of redemption. Upon current accounts, interest commences from date of demand for payment, unless controlled by the custom of trade, which is a question of fact to be determined by a trial thereof. "Annual" interest is not usurious. (47 N. H. 300, 312.)

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Are not a lien upon real estate as in some other states, and hold the property only as above stated. Foreign judgments are proven in accordance with the provisions of the United States statutes upon this subject. Attorney's fees cannot be taxed in the judgment in any case. In case there is no defense, or in the event of a final finding upon trial, judgments are entered up as of the last day of the term of the court at which they are rendered, unless ordered, for cause shown, at an earlier day. When no defense is made judgment may ordinarily be obtained in the Supreme Court within six months, and in Justice and Police Courts within one month after the action is commenced.

XV. LIENS:

Any person to whom a tax is assessed upon the property of any other person has a lien upon the property and its income until the tax is paid. Boarding-house keepers have a lien upon the baggage and goods of their guests, save seamen, for their fare or board. Keepers of domestic animals have a lien thereon for their pasturing or board.

Laborers on vessels have a lien thereon for four days after the vessel is completed. Laborers on buildings, and persons furnishing materials to the amount of fifteen dollars or more, by virtue of a contract with the owner thereof, have a lien on the buildings and on the lot of land on which they stand, for the space of ninety days after the labor is performed or materials are furnished. Laborers on wood, bark, logs, lumber, or bricks have the same lien as laborers on buildings, and for the same time. The several liens of laborers may be secured by attachment within the times specified, which takes precedence of all other attachments.

No lien of vendor upon conditional sale of personal property (excepting leases of household goods containing an option to purchase at a specified time) shall be valid against attaching creditors or subsequent purchasers where the property passes into the possession of the vendee, unless the vendor takes and has recorded a memorandum in writing signed by the purchaser, stating the town and the sum due thereon, to which there is attached an affidavit signed by the vendor and purchaser. This memorandum should be recorded, within twenty days after the delivery of the property, in the office of the town clerk of the town where the purchaser resides, if in this State, otherwise in that of the town where the vendor resides; but a record made at a later date will render the lien valid as against subsequent purchasers and attaching creditors. Any member of a partnership may make and subscribe the affidavit in behalf of the firm, and any director or other authorized person in behalf of a corporation.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for the recovery of real estate, upon notes secured by mortgage and upon judgments (whether domestic or foreign), recognizances, and contracts under seal, must be brought within twenty years from the time the right to recover accrues.

Actions for trespass to the person and defamatory words must be brought within two years, and all other personal actions within six years after the cause of action accrues.

Where there is any legal disability, real actions must be brought within five years and all personal actions within two years after the removal of such disability.

Writs of error may be sued out within three years after judgment. Scire facias against indorsers of writs and bail are limited to one year. In all personal actions, if the defendant has been absent from the State the time of absence is excluded from the computation.

A debt is revived by any new promise, verbal or written.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

May hold real or personal estate, and convey, sell, devise, and bequeath the same as freely as if they were sole. They are entitled to absolute control of their own earnings, and are not liable for the debts of the husband. They may make contracts in their own name, buy goods, give notes, and transact any business whatever, as if sole, and bind their own property, both real and personal, in the course of such business, for their sole benefit and without the intervention of the husband. But a married woman or her separate estate cannot be held upon a contract or conveyance made by her as surety or guarantor for the husband, nor is any undertaking by her for him or in his behalf binding upon her.

The husband is not liable for debts contracted by the wife before marriage, nor can he in any way incumber or exercise authority over her property. The wife may constitute the husband her agent, and may maintain an action against him upon any contract made by her with him. It has also been holden that she may maintain trover against the husband if he converts her property. The wife is entitled to homestead and dower; the husband is entitled to curtesy as at common law in the lands of the wife.

The husband is liable for debts of the wife contracted after marriage as at common law. The husband cannot convey his improved real estate without the consent of the wife so as to bar her rights of dower and homestead therein. A wife deserted by her husband, or separated from him, or doing business in her own name, or when the husband is a spendthrift, insane, or under guardianship, has all the rights of a femme sole. The husband cannot convey real estate directly to the wife. Women become of age at twenty-one.

XVIII. MILLS AND MILL-DAMS:

Necessary repairs to mills, dams and flumes shall be made by joint owners in proportion to their respective interests; and in case of neglect of part of such owners to make such repairs, proceedings may be had before the selectmen upon petition of a party in interest and notice thereon, as provided by law. After hearing and an examination of the premises, the selectmen shall determine the necessity of repairs and shall apportion the expense amongst the respective owners, with such orders as to time and manner of repairing as they think best; but no order to rebuild shall be made unless the owners of at least one-half the premises assent thereto.

Any person, or a corporation duly authorized, may erect a dam upon any non-navigable stream, and thereby overflow the lands of other persons. If the damage be not adjusted within thirty days, proceedings may, upon petition of either party, be had in the Supreme Court. The court shall refer the petition to a committee of three. If such committee, after notice and hearing thereon, shall be of opinion that the flowing is or may be of public benefit and necessary for the use of the mills for which the dam was designed, they shall estimate the damages and make report to the next term of court, which may, upon motion, review the report and set it aside or render judgment thereon, after adding fifty per cent thereon to the estimate of damages. A jury trial of the material facts may be had upon motion of either party before the reference to such committee.

XIX. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages of real estate can secure only the liability actually existing at the time of their execution, and the condition must be expressed, stating distinctly the sum of money to be secured or thing to be done, and they must be executed with the same formalities as deeds. Mortgaged lands may be redeemed after condition broken and before foreclosure, by performance of the condition and payment of all damages and costs following the breach. The rights of the mortgagor and all claiming under him may be foreclosed: 1. By entry and possession for one year under process of law. 2. By peaceful entry upon the premises, and unbroken actual possession thereof for one year, and a publication in a newspaper in the county three weeks, stating the time of taking possession, the object thereof, the names of the parties, the date of the mortgage, and a description of the premises, the first publication to be at least six months before the right of redemption is foreclosed. 3. By publication as aforesaid, by the mortgagee in actual possession, giving notice that from and after a certain specified day, not more than twenty-eight days after the last publication, possession is to be holden for the purpose of foreclosure and by retaining actual peaceable possession of the premises for one year from and after the day specified in the notice or publication.

Personal property and crops, matured or growing, may be mortgaged. The mortgagee must take and retain actual possession of the chattels mortgaged, or the mortgage must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the town where the mortgagor lives at the time of making the same. No chattel mortgage is valid, save as between the parties thereto, unless the above provision of law is complied with, nor unless both of the parties subscribe and make oath that said mortgage was made solely for security of the debt specified therein; that said debt is a just debt, and that mortgage was made for no other purpose whatever.

When a firm is a party, any partner may make and subscribe the affidavit; and when a corporation is a party, that may be done by any director or any other authorized person. If the mortgage is given for any other purpose than to secure a debt due from the mortgagor to the mortgagee, the agreement or liability upon which the mortgagee is indemnified or secured must be specifically stated in the mortgage, and the above affidavit so far varied as to verify the validity, truth, and justice of such liability or agreement.

The mortgagee may sell the property at auction at any time after thirty days from condition broken, posting notices of the sale in two public places in the town, and giving the mortgagor, if he resides in the town, a written notice of the sale, at least four days prior thereto; and may apply the net proceeds thereof to his debt. A chattel mortgage cannot be so drawn in this State as to cover future acquisitions.

XX. NOTES AND BILLS:

The indorser on a promissory note is discharged unless presentment and demand are made on the last day of grace. When the note is payable on demand, it is considered as maturing in sixty days from date, without grace. All negotiable paper, save that payable on demand, is entitled to three days of grace, and all such paper maturing on Sunday, February 22d, May 30th, July 4th, Thanksgiving, Fast, Christmas, Election, or Labor day, is due and payable on the next preceding day, and must be so noted and protested. No particular form of words is necessary to constitute a negotiable promissory note. It must be for the payment of money only and absolutely, and not be contingent either as to amount, fund, or person. Judgment notes are not allowed.

XXI. SUITS:

The forms of original process are: writs of attachment, capias, replevin, and trustee process. There are also writs of scire facias and dower. In actions brought by non-residents, the writ must be indorsed by some responsible resident, who is thereby made liable for the costs. No security for costs is required of residents, save in cases of appeal. If either party resides in this State, transitory actions should be brought in the county in which one of the parties resides.

Parties are not entitled of right to a review of actions; but the court may grant a new trial where justice has not been done through accident, mistake, or misfortune, provided the party aggrieved petitions therefor within three years after the rendition of the judgment complained of or the failure of the suit. ("XVI. Limitations.")

XXII. TAXES:

Tax or collectors' deeds are given to the purchaser after two years from the sale of the land at public auction, if the land has not been redeemed by tender or payment of the amount of the tax and costs of sale, with twelve per cent interest thereon from the time of the sale to the time of the tender of payment. Taxes become a lien upon the realty simultaneously with their assessment (April 1st of each year).

XXIII. WILLS:

Wills, to be effectual to pass real estate or personal property, must be made by persons of the age of twenty-one years, of sound mind, in writing, signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence and by his express direction, and attested, and subscribed in his presence by three or more credible witnesses, who should be other than devisees or legatees.

Married women may dispose of their property by will.

Nuncupative wills are valid only when declared in the presence of three witnesses who were requested by the testator to bear witness thereto, in his last sickness, and in his usual dwelling, except when the testator is taken sick from home and dies before his return, except it be when the property bequeathed is personal estate of less value than one hundred dollars. A memorandum thereof must be reduced to writing within six days and presented for probate within six months. (Public Statutes, Chapter 186, Section 17.)

All wills are recorded in the office of the register of probate for the respective counties. Wills must be proved and allowed by the Court of Probate to pass any estate. When executed out of this State the formalities of the place of execution must be observed.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations may be formed under the general laws for any lawful purpose or for carrying on any lawful business, except banking, life insurance or endowment insurance, and railroading. Such a corporation can carry on its authorized business in this or any other state; but every corporation so organized which does not carry on its business and have its principal office in this State shall pay a charter fee on the largest amount of its authorized capital, as follows: One per cent on the first one hundred thousand dollars; one-half of one per cent on all between that amount and one million dollars; and three-eighths of one per cent on the balance, such payment being a prerequisite to the existence of the corporation.

Corporations are organized under the general laws, as follows: Articles of association signed by five or more persons and setting forth the name, the object, the place of business, and the amount of capital stock of the proposed corporation, and the postoffice address of the signers, shall be recorded with the Secretary of State and with the clerk of the city or town in which the principal business is to be carried on, and the fee required by law, if any, shall be paid to the State Treasurer.

The clerk of said corporation shall be a resident of the State. Shares shall not be disposed of at less than par, to be paid in cash or its equivalent.

II. LIABILITIES:

Each stockholder shall be liable for all the debts of the corporation until the whole amount of the capital stock shall be paid in, and a certificate thereof, properly executed, filed with the clerk of the town where the principal place of business is located. They are not otherwise liable, except for money illegally received by them from the corporation.

Directors are individually liable as follows: If any loan of money shall be made by a corporation to a stockholder; if a dividend shall be made or any part of the capital stock shall be refunded to any stockholder, when the property is insufficient to pay the debts of the corporation; or if the corporation shall contract debts exceeding one-half the value of its property; in all such cases the directors shall be individually liable to the amount of such loan, withdrawal or excess of debts. The directors and treasurer shall also be individually liable for all the debts of the corporation if they fail to make an annual return during the month of May of the amount of all assessments, the amount of debts due to and from the corporation, and the amount of its assets and liabilities.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Of deeds may be taken within the State of New Jersey before the chancellor, or a justice of the Supreme Court, a master in chancery, judge of the Court of Common Pleas, or commissioner of deeds; without the State of New Jersey, before a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, or a Circuit or District judge of the same, or a judge or justice of the Supreme or Superior Court, or a chancellor of the state, territory, or district; or a foreign commissioner of deeds for New Jersey, or master in chancery of this State; or by any officer in any other state of the United States, authorized at the time of such acknowledgment by the laws of the state wherein the same shall be taken to take acknowledgment of deeds of lands lying and being in such state. If the acknowledgment be taken out of the United States, it may be taken before any public minister, consul, vice-consul, charge d'affaires, or other representative of the United States; or before any court of law, or a mayor, or other chief magistrate.

II. ALIENS:

Whether resident or non-resident, may take, hold, convey, and devise real estate the same as citizens.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Must be of the debtor's entire estate, real and personal. Such assignment must be acknowledged as are deeds, and recorded in the county in which the debtor lives and also where his real property lies. It must contain no preferences.

Wages of servants, clerks, and laborers up to three hundred dollars are preferred claims. Creditor must prove his claim before the assignee within three months. If any creditor fail to present his claim, he does not share in the assigned estate, but retains his right to obtain his claim from any property that the debtor may subsequently acquire. The debtor is discharged from all claims presented to the assignee.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Upon affidavit by the creditor, his agent or attorney of the amount of his debt, and that the debtor is a non-resident, or has absconded from his creditors, the rights, credits, moneys, goods, chattels, and real estate of the debtor may be seized. The attaching creditor is paid the amount of his claim in full, if the estate of the debtor be sufficient. Any other creditor, upon affidavit of the amount of his debt, and application to the court, will be allowed to share pro rata in the proceeds of the attached property, after the payment in full of the claim of the plaintiff in attachment. An attachment will also issue in the following cases, upon an order made by a judge or a Supreme Court commissioner upon filing affidavits proving one of the following particulars: 1. That the defendant is about to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court in which action is about to be commenced, with intent to defraud his creditors. 2. That the defendant has property or rights in action which he fraudulently conceals. 3. That he has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to assign, remove, or dispose of any of his property with intent to defraud his creditors. 4. That the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which such suit is brought.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Must be exhibited under oath to the executor or administrator within not less than six months from the date of the order of notice made by the Orphans' Court. Claims not so exhibited within the time limit may be barred. No action to compel payment of debts can be maintained against an executor or administrator within six months from the date of granting his letters. The physician's bill during the last sickness, funeral expenses and judgments recovered during the lifetime of the decedent are to be first paid.

VI. COURTS:

In actions upon contract, justices of the peace have jurisdiction to two hundred dollars, District Courts to three hundred dollars, and Common Pleas, Circuit and Supreme Courts concurrent jurisdiction for any amount. If judgment for less than one hundred dollars be rendered in the Circuit Court, or less than two hundred dollars in the Supreme Court, no costs are allowed the prevailing party. The jurisdiction of Justices', District, Common Pleas and Circuit Courts is limited to the county in which they are located; but that of the Supreme Court runs throughout the State. The State Court of Chancery has jurisdiction in all equity cases, and exclusive original jurisdiction in divorce cases. The Court of Errors and Appeals has appellate jurisdiction only, and is the court of last resort.

VII. DEEDS:

Follow the common law form. They must be sealed, a seal being sufficient. One witness is sufficient, but not necessary. The wife must join the release of her right of dower, and a husband must join in a deed of his wife's land. The word heirs is necessary to a conveyance of the fee. Every conveyance made after July 4th, 1883, is void until recorded, as against all subsequent judgment creditors without notice, and as against all subsequent bona fide purchasers or mortgagees for a valuable consideration, not having notice thereof, whose deed or mortgage has been first duly recorded. Mortgages are foreclosed by proceedings in chancery, and the land sold by the order of the court. There is no redemption after such sale.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

May be taken by commission by obtaining answers to written interrogatories or de bene esse by oral questions upon due notice.

IX. DESCENT:

Dower and curtesy exist as at common law, except that the husband has no estate by curtesy initiate while his wife lives. Real estate descends: 1. To children, and to the issue of deceased children per stirpes to the remotest degree. 2. To brothers and sisters of the whole blood, and to their issue as above. 3. To the father, unless the land came from the mother by gift, descent, or devise. 4. To the mother for life with the reversion in the next heirs. 5. To the brothers and sisters of the half blood or to their issue as above, but those who are not of the blood of the ancestor from whom the land came by descent, devise or gift, cannot inherit. 6. To all persons of equal degree of consanguinity to the person dying seized. The degrees are reckoned, according to the civil law, per capita, and not per stirpes. Those of the blood of the ancestor from whom the land came are preferred. If there are no persons capable of inheriting as above stated, the land descends to the husband or wife in fee simple.

In distribution, the civil law method of reckoning degrees of kindred is followed. If there are children, or their descendants, the widow receives one-third of the personal estate, and the residue is divided among the children in equal shares, the children of a deceased child taking their parent's share. If all the children have died, the grandchildren take equally. If there be no widow, the children and their descendants take the whole estate as above. If there be no children or other descendants, the widow receives half, and the next of kin of equal degree receive the other half. If there be no widow or descendants, then the next of kin take the entire estate. If a child die leaving no widow, issue, or father, every brother and sister shares equally with the mother. There is no representation among collaterals, beyond the children of brothers and sisters.

X. EXECUTION:

Issues immediately after the entry of judgment at any time within the period of limitation. An execution is in force only within the jurisdiction of the court from which it issues. Execution may be made returnable on any day but a legal holiday. There is no redemption after sale. Bank notes, bills, and stocks may be taken and sold in execution. Money may be levied upon and applied without sale to the satisfaction of the debt.

XI. EXEMPTION:

All wearing apparel, and goods and chattels to the value of two hundred dollars, of a debtor with a family residing in the State, are exempt from execution, except for the purchase money thereof. The lot and buildings thereon, owned and occupied by the debtor, who is the head of a family, are exempt to the value of one hundred dollars, if the debtor's deed state that the property is intended for a homestead, or if notice to that effect be filed in the county clerk's office.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest on debts and judgments is six per cent. Usury is punishable by forfeiture of all interest and costs. Interest on an open account accrues on each item from its date, as at common law.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Are a lien upon the real estate of the debtor from the time of their entry, and so remain for twenty years, unless destroyed by an execution issued on a younger judgment, under which a levy is first made. If there be several judgments, that under which the first levy is made is prior in lien. Judgments of the Common Pleas and Circuit Courts are limited to the county in which they are recovered, but those of the Supreme Court extend throughout the State. Judgments of Justices' and District Courts may be docketed in the Court of Common Pleas, and thence in the Supreme Court, and those of the Circuit and Common Pleas may be docketed in the Supreme Court. Docketed judgments have equal lien with those of the court wherein they are docketed.

XIV. LIENS:

Are secured to mechanics, laborers, and material men on buildings and the land, for labor and materials for building and repairing. Additions and fixed machinery are held to be buildings. The lien claim must be filed in the county clerk's office within four months after the completion of the work, and the summons commencing the suit must be issued within three months after the completion of the work. If the work is done by contract in writing, filed in the county clerk's office, the contractor only has a lien upon the premises.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Suits upon contracts not under seal must be brought within six years; upon real actions and judgments, within twenty years; upon notes secured by mortgage and contracts under seal, within sixteen years. Debts may be revived by part payment or by a new promise or acknowledgment in writing.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman may hold, and control, all her real and personal property, as if unmarried. She can contract and do business, sue and be sued in her own name as if sole, but she cannot become an accommodation endorser, guarantor, or surety, nor can she convey or mortgage her real estate without her husband's joinder. A married woman may bequeath her personal estate as if she were sole, but she cannot defeat her husband's interest in her real estate. Women become of age at twenty-one years.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

A chattel mortgage may be given upon any personal property. Chattel mortgages that are not accompanied by immediate delivery and followed by continued change of possession of the chattels mortgaged, are absolutely void, as against creditors and subsequent bona fide purchasers and mortgagees, unless they have been acknowledged in the same manner as deeds of real estate, and duly recorded in a book kept for that purpose. A chattel mortgage must have an affidavit annexed, stating the interest of the mortgagee, the consideration of the mortgage, and the amount due and to grow due thereon; said affidavit must be made by the holder or holders of said mortgage, his, her, or their agent or attorney.

Real Estate Mortgages; see "VII. Deeds."

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Promissory notes are in general subject to the law of foreign bills of exchange, and must be protested. The liability of endorsers is the same as under the general law merchant. Notes and bills due on a legal holiday are payable on the first legal business day following such holiday, and notice of non-payment may be given the day after. January 1st, February 22nd, May 30th, July 4th, the first Monday in September, December 25th, Thanksgiving day, and all days on which a general election for members of the assembly may be held, are legal holidays. If any of these days fall on Sunday, Monday is the holiday.

XIX. TAXES:

Are assessed on real and personal property on May 20th, and become due on or before December 20th following. They are a first lien on real estate for two years from the time when they became due. Mortgages are not taxable unless deduction be claimed under oath by the owner of the mortgaged premises, in which case the amount of the mortgage is deducted from the taxable value of the lands and is assessed to the holder of the mortgage, if a resident of New Jersey; if a non-resident, no deduction is allowed. There are no means provided for collecting the taxes on a mortgage held by a non-resident. In the counties of Hudson, Essex, Bergen, and Passaic, and in the cities of New Brunswick, Camden, and Trenton, the mortgagor may agree with the holder of his mortgage not to claim any deduction.

The real and personal estate of all manufacturing corporations and all other corporations organized under special laws is taxed the same as that of individuals; that is, the real estate in the township or ward where it is located, and the personal estate in the locality of the principal financial office, or the place where the business of the corporation is carried on.

Telegraph, telephone, cable, electric light, express, gas, palace car and sleeping car, oil and pipe line, and insurance companies, pay a certain percentage on their gross incomes as an annual license. All other companies incorporated under the laws of New Jersey pay a license of one-tenth of one per cent of the amount of the capital stock on all amounts issued and outstanding up to and including $3,000,000; on all sums over $3,000,000, and not exceeding $5,000,000, one-twentieth of one per cent, and the further sum of $50 per million or any part thereof on all sums in excess of $5,000,000. This tax is not imposed on railway, canal, or banking companies, or savings banks, cemeteries, or religious corporations, or purely charitable or educational associations, or manufacturing or mining companies carrying on business in this State, at least fifty per cent of whose capital stock issued and outstanding is invested in mining or manufacturing carried on in this State. Those companies having less than fifty per cent so invested are entitled to a deduction from the capital stock of the assessed value of the property so used. If any other state impose taxes, fines, penalties, or other obligations on New Jersey corporations, the same obligations are imposed on corporations of that state doing business in New Jersey.

XX. WAGES:

Wages are subject to attachment except if due to a non-resident employee, in which case they are not liable to attachment at the suit of a non-resident creditor, or his or her assigns.

The unincumbered personal effects and money of an insolvent railroad corporation must be primarily devoted, by the receiver of such corporation, to the payment of not more than two months' wages due to the employees of said corporation at the time of his appointment as such receiver. When the receiver continues to operate the railroad, the operating expenses are a first lien upon his receipts.

The personal property of any person or corporation defendant is not liable to be removed from its location by virtue of execution, attachment, or other process, issued against said defendant, unless the plaintiff in such proceeding first pay one month's wages to the employees of such defendant. If such personal property should be removed, the officer removing it cannot sell the same before ten days after such removal, and not even then without first paying all claims for wages that may be presented to him within such ten days.

The wages of clerks, miners, mechanics, and laborers, due by an assignor at the time of his making a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, are preferred debts to the amount of three hundred dollars, and must be paid by his assignee before any other claim or debt. The employees of an insolvent corporation have a lien upon the assets of the corporation for the amount of the wages due them for work performed within two months next preceding the date of the commencement of proceedings in insolvency, mortgages upon the real estate of such corporation and chattel mortgages given by said corporation and recorded more than two months preceding said date being alone prior to said lien. In the payment of the liens given to mechanics and material men for work done or materials furnished for the construction of any building, the wages of journeymen and laborers have priority in payment to the claims of employers of labor, contractors, or material men.

The payment of laborers' wages by orders upon stores, in which their employer has an interest, or otherwise than by money or what may be redeemable in money, is a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment.

XXI. WILLS:

A will made by a minor, idiot, lunatic or insane person, is void. All wills must be in writing, signed and published by the testator as his last will in the presence of two witnesses, who must sign the same in the presence of the testator and in the presence of each other. Wills must be proved and recorded in the office of the surrogate of the county in which the testator resided at the time of his death, if a resident of New Jersey. They are admitted to probate after ten days from the death of the testator. A will attested by a devisee or legatee, or executor, may be proved by him, but his legacy or devise is void. Non-residents' wills, devising real estate located in New Jersey, must be executed and proved according to the laws of New Jersey.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations are created under general laws. They may be organized for any lawful purpose whatever, by any three or more persons, on their making and filing a certificate setting forth: 1. The name of the company. 2. The place in this State or elsewhere where its business is to be conducted, and the objects for which the company is formed. 3. Total amount of the capital stock, not less than two thousand dollars; the amount with which it shall commence business, not less than one thousand dollars; the number of shares, and the par value of each. 4. The names and residences of the stockholders and the number of shares held by each. 5. The duration of said corporation, not exceeding fifty years.

The certificate must be duly acknowledged and must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the county where the corporation's principal place of business in this State is located, and afterward filed with the Secretary of State.

II. POWERS:

A corporation thus formed shall be deemed to have power: 1. To have succession by its corporate name. 2. To sue and be sued. 3. To make and use a common seal and alter the same at pleasure. 4. To hold, purchase, or convey such real or personal estate as may be necessary for the purposes of its business, not exceeding in value the amount limited in its charter, and also to hold such property as may have been acquired under mortgages or judgments for bona fide debts. 5. To appoint subordinate officers or agents. 6. To make by-laws. 7. To wind up or dissolve itself, or to be wound up or dissolved according to law. Any company organized under the general corporation act may carry on a part of its business, hold, purchase, and convey real estate outside of this State, provided that such corporation shall have an office in the State of New Jersey. (Commercial Law: See "XIX. Taxes.")

III. OFFICERS:

Directors must be not less than three in number, and must be chosen annually by the stockholders; but any corporation by so providing in its original certificate of incorporation may classify its directors so as to elect their several classes for different terms, not more than five years nor less than one, the term of at least one class to expire in each year. The officers, president, secretary, and treasurer, may be chosen by the stockholders or the directors, according to the provision of the by-laws. The president must be one of the directors. The officers must be chosen annually. Every corporation must annually file with the Secretary of State a list of its officers and directors.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The stock and transfer books must be kept within New Jersey, but the other books may be kept outside, subject to be brought within the State upon the order of a court. Shares can be assessed until fully paid up. The directors may purchase property necessary for the business of the corporation, or the stock of any company owning such property, and use stock to the amount of the value thereof in payment therefor, and such stock is considered fully paid stock. Subscriptions to capital stock may be paid wholly or partly in cash, or wholly or partly in property of the full value thereof, and the stock so issued shall be considered fully paid stock. Corporations may increase or diminish their capital stock and change the nature of their business on filing a certificate to that effect.

V. MEETINGS:

Stockholders' meetings must be held within New Jersey, at the principal place of business of the corporation. Directors' meetings may be held outside the State, if the by-laws so allow. Stockholders may vote by proxy.

VI. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

The liability of stockholders for debts extends to the amount of their unpaid subscriptions. Stockholders in gas companies are liable for wages due employees of such corporations.

VII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Foreign corporations may hold, mortgage, lease or convey such lands as they may require for the purpose of transacting their business in this State, and such as they may acquire in payment of debts. Every foreign corporation must have an agent and an office within this State. Such corporation must file with the Secretary of State a copy of its charter or certificate, duly attested; and a statement setting forth the amount of its capital stock authorized, the amount issued, the nature of its business, and the name of its agent.

MINING.

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

A "factory and workshop inspector" is authorized to visit and inspect all mines in the State and report annually the results of such inspection to the Governor of the State, together with such recommendations as he shall deem necessary. He shall ascertain whether proper and necessary safeguards are provided for the protection of the lives of the men employed in the mines; and if such safeguards be neglected, the inspector is authorized to notify the owner or lessee of the mines of such neglect. Unless the owner or lessee immediately remedy such deficiency, he becomes criminally liable therefor, if any death or accident should result from such neglect. If complaint be made in writing by any employe in a mine that such mine is dangerous to the lives of those employed therein, the inspector is directed to examine the mine complained of without delay. If he find such complaint to be just, he is required to notify the owner or lessee of such danger, and in such notice he may, in his discretion, order such mine to be closed until he shall issue his order that such danger has been removed. Any owner or lessee of a mine refusing to comply with the last mentioned notice shall forfeit the sum of one thousand dollars, to be paid to the use of the poor of the township in which such mine is located.

II. PROPERTY RIGHTS:

It has been held in New Jersey that a deed may convey a distinct inheritance in mines, the fee to the land remaining in the grantor. A tenant for life is entitled to work a mine, quarry, clay-pit, or sand-pit which has been opened and used by the former owner. A widow is entitled to dower in such mines and quarries as were actually opened and used during the lifetime of her husband. One tenant in common cannot convey a particular part of a common property, or an easement in it, as the right to dig ores, to the prejudice of his co-tenant. Such a conveyance is void as to the co-tenant, but good as against the grantor. Such grantee of the right to dig ores, from one tenant in common, cannot ask for a partition of the premises.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ASSIGNMENTS:

An insolvent debtor may make or be compelled by the courts to make an assignment for the benefit of the creditors generally, pro rata.

II. ATTACHMENTS:

Creditors whose demands exceed one hundred dollars may sue by attachment, after filing bond conditioned in favor of defendant, for double the amount claimed.

III. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Must be presented within two years from the death of the deceased, and are paid in this order: Expenses of funeral and last sickness; allowance for widow and children; claims preferred by laws of the United States or the Territory; taxes, other debts, legacies.

IV. COURTS:

District Courts in all counties have unlimited common law and chancery jurisdiction. The Probate Courts have the same powers as in the United States.

V. DEEDS:

Must be subscribed, acknowledged and certified in form as provided in the states.

VI. DEPOSITIONS:

May be taken when the witness from infirmity or absence from place of trial, or other approved cause, is unable to attend at the trial. They may be taken out of the Territory by the clerk of any court of record, notary public or commissioner of deeds.

VII. DESCENT:

The property of an intestate goes: 1. To lineal descendants. 2. To nearest ascendants. 3. To collateral relatives.

VIII. EXECUTIONS:

May issue at any time within five years. Real estate sold under execution may be redeemed within one year.

IX. EXEMPTIONS:

Include real estate to the value of one thousand dollars for an actual resident head of a family, necessary clothing, beds and bed clothing, school and religious books, religious and family pictures, provisions to the value of fifty dollars, furniture not to exceed in value two hundred dollars, and tools necessary for a trade or business not exceeding in value one hundred and fifty dollars.

X. INTEREST:

Six per cent is the legal rate. By contract twelve may be paid.

XI. JUDGMENTS:

Are a lien on real estate from date of filing.

XII. LIENS:

Exist for labor, material, landlords and common carriers.

XIII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for recovery of real estate, ten years; on judgments of courts of record, seven years; on bonds, bills and notes, written contracts, and judgments not of a court of record, six years; on open accounts, unwritten contracts, injuries to and conversions of property, four years; against sureties on official bonds, etc., two years; and actions of replevin and claims against estates, one year.

XIV. MARRIED WOMEN:

May receive and hold property free from liability on account of husband's debts.

XV. MORTGAGES:

Must be executed and recorded in like manner as provided for deeds. Chattel mortgages cannot be made on growing crops.

XVI. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are assignable. Commercial paper falling due on any legal holiday is payable on the next business day thereafter.

XVII. SUITS:

In commencement and prosecution of suits within the Territory, the practice is strictly according to the common law of the United States.

XVIII. TAXES:

Are due on August 1st in each year and become delinquent November 1st following, and thereafter bear interest at twenty-five per cent per annum. Taxes are a lien on all the real estate of the debtor. The actual resident head of a family is exempt from taxation to the value of two hundred dollars.

XIX. WILLS:

The maker of any will must be twenty-one years of age, and the will must be attested by two witnesses, as provided by the laws of the states. A will is irrevocable except by special mention of such revocation in a new will, or by other properly attested evidence of testator's intention.

CORPORATIONS.

I. GENERAL PROVISIONS:

Corporations for mining, quarrying, manufacturing, trading or any legitimate business may be formed by any three or more persons. Capital stock in such corporations is personal estate, which may be taken on attachment or execution. Foreign corporations may do business after complying with requisite formalities substantially as provided in the states.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

Acknowledgments within the State may be taken before justices of the Supreme Court, county judges, surrogate, mayors, recorders, commissioners of deeds, notaries public, justices of the peace, etc. Acknowledgments without the State and within the United States or the Dominion of Canada may be taken before any officer of such state, territory or dominion, authorized by the laws thereof, to take the proof and acknowledgment of deeds; but to entitle an instrument to be read in evidence or recorded in this State, there shall be attached a certificate of the clerk, register, recorder, or prothonotary of the county in which such officer resides, that such officer was authorized to take the same and that such clerk, etc., is well acquainted with the handwriting of such officer and verily believes such signature to be genuine.

II. ALIENS:

An alien may acquire a good title to land.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Voluntary general assignments for the benefit of creditors are regulated by statute. Such assignment shall be acknowledged and recorded in the office of the clerk of the court in such county where such debtor resides or carries on his business. The assignee must accept the trust and give a bond named by the court.

Wages due employees at the time of the assignment are preferred debts. After payment of such wages, preferences can be given to the amount of one-third in value of the remaining part of such assigned estate.

Assignment does not release the debtor from the debts owing by him. The statute also provides for an assignment known as the "two-thirds assignment," allowing the discharge of the debtor from his debts upon complying with the statutory requirements, and filing the consent of two-thirds in value of his creditors.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

An attachment will be granted where the action is to recover a sum of money only as damages upon a breach of contract, express or implied, other than a contract to marry; wrongful conversion of personal property; or any other injury to personal property, in consequence of negligence, fraud, or other wrongful act.

To entitle the plaintiff to such atttachment he must show to the court by affidavit that one of the causes of action above specified exists against the defendant, and if it is brought for a breach of contract, he must show the sum which he is entitled to over and above all counter-claims; that the defendant is either a foreign corporation or not a resident of the State; or, if a natural person and a resident of the State, that he has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed with like intent; or, if the defendant is a natural person or a domestic corporation, that he or it has removed, or is about to remove, property from the State with intent to defraud his or its creditors; or has assigned, disposed of or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of or secrete his property with like intent. A bond of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars must be given by the plaintiff.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims must be presented to the personal representatives of the deceased, duly verified, any time before the final settlement. If such representative disputes or rejects the claim, it may be referred. If not so referred, it must be sued within six months, or it is barred by the statute of limitations. Such representative may be compelled to settle his accounts after the lapse of eighteen months from his appointment. If the personal property of the decedent is insufficient to pay his debts in full, his real property may be resorted to for that purpose. The debts of a decedent are a lien upon the real property of which he died seized for three years after his decease.

VI. COURT FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public	$ .25
Acknowledgment before justice	.25
Acknowledgment before clerk of court	.25
Oath before either of above	.10
Attachment, in addition to costs, contingent	.25
Appeal, contingent.

Probate, contingent.
Protest	1.00

Record, per folio..... .10
Sheriff: three per cent to $250 and two per cent on balance collected.
Witness, mileage each way 4 cents, and per day.... .50

VII. DEEDS:

Conveyances of a fee in land must be by deed, signed by the grantor, and either sealed, or bear the word "seal," or the letters "L. S." opposite the grantor's name. To entitle the deed to be recorded it must be acknowledged. No particular form of deed is required to convey real property. In New York County a fee of five dollars is charged for recording a deed not in a particular form prescribed by the statute. The execution of a deed by a corporation is made by its officers. Deeds are recorded in the county clerk's office, or with the register of deeds in certain counties. A recorded contract for traffic in land is not a lien upon the land, nor a cloud on the title.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

The depositions of a party to an action, or a person not a party, can be taken before trial where it is shown that the testimony of such person is material and necessary, and that he is about to depart from the State, or is so sick or infirm as to afford reasonable ground of belief that he will not be able to attend the trial; or where any other special circumstances exist which render it proper that he be examined before trial. Depositions may be taken by order of the court, or upon stipulation of the respective attorneys; and a commission may issue to take the evidence of a witness or witnesses not within the State, upon interrogatories annexed to the commission, or upon oral questions put to the witness.

IX. DESCENT:

Real estate, undevised, descends as follows: 1, lineal descendants; 2, father; 3, mother; 4, collaterals. Descendants take shares of parents except when all are of equal degrees of consanguinity, when they share alike. Personal property is distributed as follows: One-third to widow; residue to children, or their heirs or legal representatives. If there are no children, one moiety goes to the widow, the other to the next of kin. If there be no descendant, parent, brother, sister, nephew, or niece, the widow takes the entirety. If there be no widow or children, all goes to the next of kin. Half-bloods take as the whole blood. Posthumous children take as survivors. The estate of a married woman is distributed the same as that of a man. The husband takes the same as the widow.

X. HOMESTEAD:

A lot of land with one or more buildings thereon, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, owned and occupied as a residence by a householder having a family, is exempt from levy and sale under execution as a homestead, where the conveyance to such person states in substance that it is designated to be held as a homestead; or a notice containing a full description of the property, and stating that it is designated to be so held, subscribed by the owner, is acknowledged and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county where such premises are situate. Such exemption continues after the death of the person in whose favor the property was exempted, as follows: If the decedent was a woman, it continues for the benefit of her surviving children until the majority of the youngest surviving child. If the decedent was a man, it continues for the benefit of his widow and surviving children until the majority of the youngest surviving child, and until the death of the widow. But this exemption ceases if the property ceases to be occupied as a residence by the person for whose benefit it is continued.

XI. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent. Penalty for usury is forfeiture of principal and interest. A state bank forfeits double the amount of interest. Usurious interest may be recovered if action is brought therefor within one year. Usury is a misdemeanor.

XII. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments are obtained by action or confession. Judgments by confession may be entered for a debt due or to become due, or to secure a person against contingent liability. Judgments in a court of record are good for twenty years, and in courts not of record for six years, and are liens upon the real estate of the defendant for ten years after the same are docketed in the office of the clerk of the county where the real estate is situated. Judgment is a lien upon the personal property of a defendant while execution is actually in the hands of the sheriff, but a sale by the judgment debtor to an innocent party of such personal property, while such execution is in the hands of the sheriff, gives the purchaser a good title.

XIII. LIENS:

The provision under the laws of the State for mechanics', vendors', contractors', servants' and mercantile liens are substantially the same as those of other states. Where the claim is made against the contractor, notice must be served upon the owner of the property on which such improvements were carried out, or for which such material was furnished, of the amount of the claim, who cannot relieve himself of the liability by making payments to the contractor after the service of such notice. Every lien shall continue to the expiration of six months from the time of filing the notice, unless action is commenced within that time to foreclose; then the lien shall continue until judgment shall have been rendered, and for one year thereafter, pending an appeal taken, if any.

XIV. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS:

Actions must be brought within the following periods, or they are barred from the statute of limitations: Within forty years: on behalf of the people respecting real property. Within twenty years: actions for the recovery of real property or judgment of a court of record, upon a sealed instrument, or for dower. Within six years: actions upon a contract, express or implied, except a judgment or sealed instrument; to recover upon liability created by statute, except a penalty or forfeiture; to recover damages for an injury to property, or personal injury; to recover a chattel; to procure a judgment other than for a sum of money on the ground of fraud; to establish a will where the will has been lost, concealed or destroyed; upon a judgment in a court not of record. Within three years: actions against a sheriff, coroner, or other officer, for non-payment of amount collected on an execution; upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture where action is given to the person aggrieved; against an executor, administrator, or against the trustee of an insolvent debtor; to recover damages for a personal injury from negligence. Within two years: actions to recover damages for libel, slander, assault, battery, or false imprisonment.

A new promise in writing or part payment revives and continues the debt. Limitations do not run while the person is without the State. The statute of limitations is a defense, and must be pleaded and proven.

XV. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman can take, hold, and convey property the same as a femme sole, and is liable for her contracts. She can carry on any trade or business in her own name; convey her property without the consent of her husband; and sue and be sued alone respecting her property. Real estate conveyed to husband and wife is held by them as tenants in the entirety, and not as joint tenants or tenants in common.

XVI. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages are executed and recorded the same as deeds, and are a lien upon the property mortgaged. Any conveyance, no matter what the form, if intended as a security, will be considered as a mortgage. The equity of redemption in the mortgagor is foreclosed by action; and if the mortgage contains a power of sale, by advertisement without the intervention of the court.

XVII. TAXES:

Generally lands may be sold for taxes when in arrears for two years, but different statutes apply to different localities. Taxation is a statutory proceeding, and must be strictly pursued by taxing officers.

XVIII. TRUST DEEDS:

Every disposition of lands, whether by deed or devise, shall be direct to the person to whom the right to the possession in profits shall be intended to be invested, and not to any other, to the use of, or in trust for, another. No estate or interest, legal or equitable, shall vest in the trustee, except for the following express trusts: to sell lands for the benefits of creditors; to sell, mortgage or lease lands for the benefit of legatees, or for the purpose of satisfying any charge thereon; to receive the rents and profits of lands, and apply them to the use of any person during the life of such person, or for any shorter term; and for certain other purposes.

XIX. WILLS:

Any person who is of sound mind and memory, and twenty-one years of age, can devise real estate. Personal property can be bequeathed by a man eighteen years of age, and a woman sixteen years of age.

Wills must be in writing, signed by the testator, in the presence of not less than two witnesses, who must sign in the presence of the testator and of each other, and add their places of residence.

Nuncupative wills can only be made by a soldier in actual military service, or by a sailor at sea.

No person having husband, wife, child, or parent, can devise or bequeath by will to any benevolent, charitable, scientific, or religious association or corporation more than one-half of his or her estate after payment of debts.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Three or more persons may become a corporation, other than a moneyed or transportation corporation, for any lawful business purpose, except a business partaking of the nature of banking or insurance, by making, signing, acknowledging, and filing a certificate which shall contain: 1. The name of the proposed corporation. 2. The amount of the capital stock, and if any portion be preferred stock, the preferences thereof. 3. The purpose or purposes for which it is to be formed. 4. The number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, each of which shall not be less than five nor more than one hundred dollars; and the amount of capital, not less than five hundred dollars, with which said corporation shall begin business. 5. The city, village, or town in which its principal business office is to be located. 6. Its duration. 7. The number of its directors, not less than three, and not more than thirteen. 8. The names and postoffice addresses of the directors for the first year. 9. The postoffice addresses of the subscribers, and a statement of the number of shares of stock which each agrees to take in the corporation.

Every certificate of incorporation shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and of the clerk of the court in the county where the principal place of business of the corporation is or is to be located. No such corporation shall incur any debts until the amount of capital specified in its certificate of incorporation as the amount of capital with which it shall begin business shall have been paid in, in money or property. Existing corporations may be reorganized under the present corporation laws by following certain directions of the statute, and any two or more corporations heretofore organized under the laws of the State may be consolidated by following certain directions of the statute, and the amount of the capital stock may be increased or decreased, and the principal place of business of the corporation may be changed as prescribed by statute.

II. CAPITAL STOCK:

One-half of the capital stock of every such corporation shall be paid in within one year from its incorporation, or the corporation shall be dissolved, and the directors, within thirty days after such payment, shall make a certificate of the fact, which shall be signed and acknowledged by a majority of the directors, and verified by the president or vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, and filed in the office where the certificates of incorporation are filed. The dissolution of any such corporation for any cause shall not take away or impair any remedy against it, its stockholders or officers for any liability incurred previous to its dissolution.

III. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

The stockholders of every such corporation shall jointly and severally be personally liable to its creditors in an amount equal to the amount of stock held by them respectively, for every debt of the corporation, until the whole amount of its capital stock issued and outstanding at the time such debt was incurred shall have been fully paid. The stockholders of every such corporation shall jointly and severally be liable for all debts due and owing to any of its laborers, servants, or employees, other than contractors, for services performed by them for such corporation. Before such laborer, servant, or employee shall charge the stockholders for such services, he shall give them notice in writing, within thirty days after the termination of such services, that he intends to hold them liable, and shall commence an action therefor within thirty days after the return of an execution, unsatisfied, against said corporation, upon a judgment recovered against it for services.

Every corporation formed under this act may become a full liability corporation by inserting a statement in the certificate of incorporation that the corporation thereby formed is intended to be a full liability corporation.

IV. REPORTS:

Every such corporation shall, during the month of January in each year, make a report as of the first day of said month, which shall state: the amount of capital stock actually issued; the sum of its debts, or a sum that they do not then exceed; and the sum of its assets, or an amount which said assets at least equal.

Such report shall be made by a majority of its directors, and verified by the oath of its president or vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and in the office of the clerk of the court in the county where its principal business office is located. If such report is not made and filed, all the directors of the corporation shall jointly and severally be personally liable for all the debts of the corporation then existing, and for all contracted before such report shall be made; or if such report so filed shall be false in any material representations, the officers and directors signing the same shall jointly and severally be personally liable to any person who has become a creditor or stockholder of the corporation upon the faith of such certificate.

V. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

No foreign stock corporation, other than a moneyed corporation, shall do business in this State without having first procured from the Secretary of State a certificate that it has complied with all the requirements of law to authorize it to do business in this State; and that its business is such as may be lawfully carried on by a corporation incorporated under the laws of this State for such or similar business; or, if more than one kind of business, by two or more corporations so incorporated for such kinds of business respectively. The Secretary of State shall deliver such certificate to every such corporation so complying with the requirements of law. No such corporation shall do business in this State without having procured such certificate from the Secretary of State. No foreign stock corporation doing business in this State without such certificate shall maintain any action therein upon any contract made by it until it shall have procured such certificate.

MINING.

I. STATE MINES:

The following mines are the property of the people of this State in their right of sovereignty: 1. All mines of gold and silver discovered, or hereafter to be discovered, within this State. 2. All mines of other metals discovered, or hereafter to be discovered, upon any lands owned by persons not being citizens of the United States. 3. All mines of other metals discovered, or hereafter to be discovered, upon lands owned by a citizen of the United States, the ore of which on an average shall contain less than two equal third parts in value of copper, tin, iron, and lead, or any of those metals. 4. All mines and all minerals and fossils discovered, or hereafter to be discovered, upon any lands belonging to the people of this State.

II. WORKING OF MINES:

Any citizen of this State discovering a valuable mine or mineral upon lands belonging to the State and filing the notice of discovery required by this article, may work such mine; and he and his heirs or assigns shall have the sole benefit of all products therefrom on the payment into the State treasury of a royalty of two per cent of the maket value of all such products. Such valuation shall be made when such product shall first be in a marketable form. A statement of the amounts sold or removed from the premises covered by such notice of claim, and of the trees cut or destroyed upon such lands, shall be made semi-annually under oath to the Secretary of State, and payments of such royalty shall be made semi-annually to the State Treasurer, under oath as to the amount thereof, on the basis of such semi-annual statement to the Secretary of State. Any wilful falsehood in the contents of such statement to the Secretary of State or State Treasurer in regard to such royalty, shall work a forfeiture to the State of the value of the whole amount mined during the period covered by such statements.

III. PROPERTY RIGHTS:

All mines of whatever description, other than mines of gold and silver, discovered, or hereafter to be discovered, upon any lands owned by a citizen of any of the United States, the ore of which on an average contains two equal third parts or more in value of copper, tin, iron, and lead, or any of those metals, shall belong to the owner of such land.

IV. GOLD AND SILVER:

No person discovering a mine of gold or silver within this State shall work the same until he give written notice thereof to the Secretary of State, which shall be registered in a book to be kept by such Secretary, describing particularly the nature and situation of the mine. Such person, and his executors, administrators, and assigns, shall be exempted from paying to the people of the State any part of the ore, produce or profit of such mine for the term of twenty-one years, to be computed from the time of giving notice of such discovery; and after the expiration of such term, the discoverer, or his representatives, shall be preferred in any contract for the working of such mine made with the Legislature or under its authority.

V. ENTRY UPON LANDS:

Nothing contained in this article shall affect any grant heretofore made by the Legislature to persons having discovered mines; nor be construed to give any person the right to enter upon or break up the lands of any other person, or of the State, or to work any mine on such lands, unless the written consent of the owner thereof, or of the commissioners of the Land Office, when the lands belong to the State, shall be previously obtained. Permission to erect buildings for working mines upon State lands within the forest preserve may be given by the Forest Commission, and elsewhere, by the commissioners of the Land Office, when such lands are entirely denuded of timber or when such commission or commissioners are satisfied that the erection or occupation of such buildings will not be detrimental to the interests of the State. Nothing in this article shall authorize any person working a mine upon State lands to cut or destroy any timber whatever except such trees as it may be actually necessary to remove in order to uncover or make a road to such mine. For each tree measuring four inches or more in diameter at a height of one foot from the ground, which shall be so cut, the party operating the mine shall pay into the State treasury the sum of one dollar.

Corporations formed for the purpose of working and having lawful authority to work mines found within this State may require the right and easement to enter upon and break up lands necessary for the operation of such mines, and if the written consent of the person in or upon whose lands such mine or mines are found shall be refused or cannot be obtained by agreement, or by reason of the infancy or absence of such person from the State, or other legal disability of the owners of such lands, every such corporation may acquire such right and easement by condemnation, which right and easement when required shall be deemed to have been so granted for a public use, and for the public purpose of obtaining minerals reserved to the State. Before instituting any proceedings for such condemnation the corporation shall file with the Commissioners of the Land Office, a full description of the location of such lands, and obtain a grant of the right to acquire such right and easement from such commissioners who are authorized to make the same and fix the terms thereof.

I ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

May be taken within the State by any judge or clerk of a court of record, or any justice of the peace or notary public. In other states by any commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State, and clerks of courts of record in such states; and in foreign countries by a mayor or other chief magistrate, or any minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States. Acknowledgments of deeds, to which Superior Court clerks are parties or interested in, may be taken before any judge of a Superior Court or justice of the Supreme Court, or a justice of the peace.

II ARREST:

Defendant may be arrested in a civil action in the following cases: 1. In an action arising on contract where defendant is a non-resident of the State, or is about to remove therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors; and in an action for the recovery of damages on a cause of action not arising out of contract, where the action is for injury to person or character; or for wrongfully taking, detaining or converting property, real or personal. 2. In an action for a fine or penalty, for money received; or for property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied, by any public officer, attorney, solicitor or counselor, officer or agent of a corporation or banking association, in the course of his employment as such; or by any factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity; or for any misconduct or neglect in office, or in a professional employment. 3. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, where the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed or disposed of, so that it can not be found or taken by the sheriff, and with the intent that it should not be so found or taken; or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof. 4. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought; or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detention or conversion of which the action is brought; or when the action is brought to recover damages for fraud or deceit. 5. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors.

The provisions of the act do not apply to proceedings for contempt, and no female shall be arrested in any action, except for willful injury to person, character or property. Defendant arrested is at any time, before judgment, entitled to a jury trial on motion to vacate order of arrest. (Laws of 1889, Chap. 497.)

III. ASSIGNMENT:

An insolvent debtor may be discharged by filing petition and making assignment of property to a trustee for benefit of all creditors. But his subsequently acquired property (not exempt) is liable for the satisfaction of his debts. No creditor not having received notice is bound by the discharge. Any creditor may suggest fraud, and on fraud or concealment being found by jury, judgment will be that debtor be imprisoned until a full and fair disclosure of all his money, property or effects be made. Voluntary assignments are only good against creditors from registration. A debtor may in an assignment prefer one creditor to another.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Process may issue against the property of a non-resident debtor, or one who has departed from the State to defraud his creditors or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed therein with like intent; or against a foreign corporation; or if such person or corporation has removed, or is about to remove any of his or its property from this State with intent to defraud his or its creditors, or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete any of his or its property with the like intent, whether such debtor is a resident of this State or not.

The creditor procuring warrant of attachment must, within ten days, file affidavits in the clerk's office, or before a justice of the peace, if the warrant is taken out in his court, stating the grounds on which the warrant of attachment is asked. The creditor is also required to give good bond and security for costs and damages in case the proceeding by attachment is wrongful or oppressive.

Garnishee process is not known under the statute. In actions arising on contract for recovering of money only, or in an action for the wrongful conversion of personal property, attachment process may issue at the time or after the issuing of the summons.

V. COURTS:

The Superior Court, holding at least two terms a year in each county, has exclusive original jurisdiction in all civil actions involving over two hundred dollars. In some counties eight terms a year are held, but only one-half of them are appearance terms. The clerk of the Superior Court is judge of Probate. Justice's jurisdiction is limited to two hundred dollars.

VI. FEES:

VII. EXECUTIONS:

Executions from the Superior Court may issue immediately after the term at which judgment was rendered, and are returnable at the next term. Issue as of course at any time within three years after rendition of judgment; after three years have elapsed, issue only on notice and leave obtained. From Justices' Courts they issue at once; returnable in sixty days.

Stay of execution is granted as follows: Under twenty-five dollars, one month; twenty-five dollars to fifty dollars, three months; fifty dollars to one hundred dollars, four months; above one hundred dollars, six months. There is no redemption on property sold on execution or mortgage. Notice of sale of real estate under execution to be posted at four public places, including court house, and advertisement to be made in county newspaper for thirty days preceding such sale.

VIII. EXEMPTION:

Every homestead, and dwellings and buildings used therewith, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, to be selected by the owner thereof; or in lieu thereof, at the option of the owner, any lot in any city, town or village, with the dwellings used thereon, owned and occupied by any resident of the State, and not exceeding the value of one thousand dollars. Personal property of the value of five hundred dollars. This law does not apply to debts contracted prior to August 20th, 1868, or to taxes, payment of purchase money, or laborers' or mechanics' lien. The exemptions allowed when debt was contracted prior to August 20th, 1868, are those that were in force at such time.

IX. INTEREST:

Six per cent is the prescribed usual rate. Rate on judgments and open accounts, six per cent. Taking—knowingly—a greater rate of interest, is forfeiture of the entire interest, and in case a greater rate has been paid, the person who has paid it, or his legal representatives, may recover back, in an action in the nature of an action of debt, twice the amount of interest paid. Interest, if not paid when due, bears simple interest—"starts on a career of its own," i. e., when a time for payment of interest is specified, as, for instance, annually.

X. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments in the Superior Court are a lien from the time they are docketed, on all real property of defendant within the county, and can be transferred to other counties by filing transcript. Judgments from Justices' Courts are not a lien until levy is made. Lien continues ten years from time of docketing. Justice Court and Supreme Court judgments may be made judgments of the Superior Court in all respects by docketing them in said court. Judgments and decrees of United States Circuit and District Courts may be docketed in Superior Courts for purpose of creating liens.

XI. LIENS:

Material-men have a lien on every building, lot, farm or vessel for materials furnished by them to build, repair or remove the same. The lien also covers the lot on which the building or improvement is made, and is superior to any lien or incumbrance created after the materials are furnished. The claim for a lien must be filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court within twelve months after the materials are furnished. This claim must be verified and must contain the names of the parties, a bill of the items so as to show the amount due, and a description of the property on which a lien is claimed; and if there be a special or a written contract, its terms must be stated. To enforce the lien a suit must be begun in the Superior Court within six months after the lien is filed. Sub-contractors must not only file lien, but must also notify owner before he settles with contractor and furnish owner with statement of amount due. Owner may require contractor to furnish an itemized statement of amounts due material-men. Owner may retain enough out of contract price to pay material-men. Owner cannot be held liable to sub-contractor for any greater sum than was due contractor when notice is given him of the claim of a lien by sub-contractor.

XII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on accounts and contracts not under seal must be commenced in three years, and on a note under seal must be commenced within ten years, or the statute of limitation may be pleaded against recovery. In cases of fraud or mistake cause of action does not accrue until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting such fraud or mistake. Part payment or new promise in writing constitutes revivor.

XIII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Married women retain their real and personal property acquired before or after marriage, as their separate estate, not liable for the debts or obligations of their husbands. But no woman under coverture, unless she be a free trader, can make a binding contract, except for her necessary personal expenses, or for the support of the family, or for such as may be necessary in order to pay her debts existing before marriage, without the written consent of her husband. Widow's dower is one-third in value of all the lands and real estate of which her husband was seized during her coverture. Statute also allows widow a "year's allowance" out of the personal property of the husband.

XIV. MILLDAMS:

Anyone desiring to erect a milldam on a stream of which he owns one side and part of the bed, and who cannot agree with the owner of the opposite bank as to the amount of damages, may file a petition in the Superior Court of the county where such dam is to be erected, and the court will appoint three disinterested persons as commissioners who will assess the damages. After payment of all damages and costs, the applicant will have a right to begin his construction.

Whoever shall cut away, destroy or injure any dam, or who shall obstruct any race, canal or water channel used for furnishing water for any mill, factory or machine works, shall be subject to both fine and imprisonment and also to a civil action by the party injured. If any person willfully fells any tree or puts any obstruction in any branch, creek or other stream, whereby navigation of such stream by any raft or flat may be impeded, delayed or prevented, he shall be subject to a fine not to exceed fifty dollars or imprisonment not to exceed thirty days.

XV. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages must be registered within the county where the land lies to be valid as against creditors or subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration. Mortgages are foreclosed by action, except when a power of sale is given. Chattel mortgages and lien bonds must be registered. Privy examination of wife is required in chattel mortgages of furniture. All conditional sales of personal property in which title is retained by bargainor must be reduced to writing, and registered in same manner and with same legal effect as chattel mortgages. They are required to be registered in the county where the purchaser resides, or, when purchaser is a non-resident of the State, in the county where the personal estate, or some part of it, is situated. Absolute deeds are only good against creditors or purchasers from registration. Title does not pass if purchaser has notice of prior unregistered deed. Corporations are empowered to convey lands, etc., by deed signed by the president or presiding member or trustee, and attested by the secretary of the company. In all mortgage sales under power of sale in mortgage deed, notice of sale must be posted at court house door. (Laws of 1889, Chapter 70.)

XVI. NOTES AND BILLS:

There is no statute defining commercial paper. Bills of exchange and promissory notes are what are known as "commercial paper." There is no fixed place of payment, unless parties fix it in the instrument itself. If this is not done by the parties, the old rule prevails that the debtor must seek the creditor, though in practice the exact reverse obtains. Grace is allowed on all drafts except those payable on demand. All bills and notes bear interest from maturity unless otherwise stipulated. An indorser of a note is deemed a surety, and no demand on the maker is necessary before commencing suit against surety or indorser; but this does not apply to bills of exchange.

Where a bill is drawn or indorsed in this State upon any person or corporation in any other of the United States or any of the territories and is protested, it shall bear damages; viz: three per cent on the principal sum.

Bills of exchange and promissory notes—both those under seal and those not—are negotiable; and all notes and bonds with more than one obligor are by statute joint and several. To charge indorser of bill of exchange, notice of non-payment must be given him.

The first of January, twenty-second of February, tenth of May, twentieth of May, fourth of July, the day appointed by the Governor as Thanksgiving Day, and the twenty-fifth of December of each and every year are public holidays.

XVII. SUITS:

Process in court must be served ten days before first day of term. The action is commenced by issuing a summons and filing a complaint in the clerk's office. Actions before justices are commenced by issuing summons to be served on the debtor, which is made returnable at some time and place within the county to be designated by the justice. Judgment can usually be obtained in two days. Complaint must be filed in courts of record within the first three days of term, and answer or demurrer within the term to which the summons is returnable. Pleadings before a justice may be either oral or written. Practice is under a code known as the "Code of Civil Procedure."

XVIII. TAXES:

Taxes are due on September 1st of each year, and constitute a lien from that date. Sales for delinquent taxes are made after notice given. Delinquent may remain on the land one year, and may redeem within that time by paying the amount bid by the purchaser and interest thereon at the rate of twenty per centum per annum from the date of purchase. When land is sold for taxes, the sheriff gives purchaser a certificate, which is assignable, and may be foreclosed as a mortgage, provided foreclosure proceedings are begun within two years. Purchaser can also demand a deed after one year from sale day.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations for mining and manufacturing may be formed on application to the Secretary of State, acknowledgment of articles of incorporation being made before a clerk of the Superior Court in the place where such corporation shall have its principal office. The articles of agreement shall set forth:

1. The corporation name. 2. The business proposed. 3. The place where it is proposed to be carried on. 4. The length of time desired. 5. The names of persons who have subscribed. 6. The amount of the capital and the number of shares and amount of each. These articles shall be under the hands and seals of the parties applying for such corporation.

II. POWERS:

To sue and be sued by its corporate name; to have a common seal; to render interest of stockholders transferable; to exempt the private property of stockholders from liability for corporate debts; to hold land; to make contracts, acquire and transfer property; but all contracts involving or incurring a liability by the corporation to an amount exceeding one hundred dollars must be in writing and signed by some proper officer of the corporation, or under the common seal. No corporation shall exist longer than sixty years.

III. DISSOLUTION:

A corporation may be dissolved: 1. For any abuse of its powers to the injury of the public or of the corporation, or of its creditors or debtors. 2. For non-user of its powers for two years or more consecutively. 3. For insolvency manifested by the return of an execution unsatisfied upon a judgment against the company docketed in the Superior Court of the county where it has its only or principal place of business. 4. Upon any conviction of the company of a criminal offense, if such offense be permanent.

MINING.

I. LEASES:

All leases and contracts for leasing land for the purpose of digging for gold or other minerals or for mining generally, of whatever duration, shall be void, unless put in writing and signed by the party to be charged therewith or by some other person by him thereto lawfully authorized. Lessors of mines are not partners with their lessees, unless they so contract.

II. WATER RIGHTS:

Any person or body corporate engaged or about to engage in mining, who may find it necessary for the furtherance of his or its operations to convey water either to or from his or its mine or mines over the lands of any other person or persons, may make application by petition in writing to the clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which the lands to be affected, or the greater part, are situated, for the right so to convey the said water. The petition shall specify the lands to be affected, the name of the owner of said lands and the character of the ditch or drain intended to be made; and said owner shall be made party defendant, and jurors, three in number, shall be appointed to assess the damage to the owner of said lands, and the party must first pay or tender the damages so assessed, when he will have full right and power to enter and construct said ditch or drain. Any person obstructing said ditch or drain shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

III. RECEIVER:

The working of mines will not be enjoined in North Carolina, but a receiver may be appointed to take charge in case of litigation, where it appears the party in possession is of doubtful ability to respond in damages if he be cast in the action.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

The proof or acknowledgment of an instrument may be made at any place within this State before a judge or clerk of the Supreme Court, or a notary public in the judicial district, county, subdivision or city for which the officer was elected or appointed; before either a judge or a clerk of a court of record, a mayor of a city, a register of deeds or a justice of the peace, or a United States Circuit or District Court commissioner or county auditor.

The proof or acknowledgment of an instrument may be made without the State, but within the United States, and within the jurisdiction of the officer, before either a justice, judge or clerk of any court of record in the United States, or of any state or territory; a notary public or any other officer of the state or territory where the acknowledgment is made, authorized by its laws to take such proof or acknowledgment; or by a commissioner appointed for the purpose by the Governor of this State, pursuant to the political code.

The proof of acknowledgment of an instrument may be made without the United States before either a minister, commissioner or charge d'affaires of the United States, resident and accredited in the country where the proof or acknowledgment is made; a consul, vice-consul or consular agent of the United States, resident in the country where the proof or acknowledgment is made; a judge, clerk, register or commissioner of a court of record, or a notary public of such country; or an officer authorized by the laws of the country where the proof of acknowledgment is taken. When any of the officers above mentioned are authorized by law to appoint a deputy, the acknowledgment or proof may be taken by such deputy in the name of his principal.

Proof of the execution of an instrument, when not acknowledged, may be made either by the party executing it, or either of them, or by a subscribing witness, or by other witnesses in certain cases.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens may acquire, hold and convey property, real and personal, equally with citizens.

III. ATTACHMENT:

In an action on a contract or judgment for the recovery of money only, or the wrongful conversion of personal property, the plaintiff may have the property of the defendant attached.

1. When the defendant is a non-resident of the State or is a foreign corporation. 2. When the defendant has absconded or concealed himself. 3. When the defendant has removed or is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof, from the State, not leaving enough therein for the payment of his debts. 4. When the defendant has sold, assigned, conveyed, transferred, secreted or otherwise disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts, or is about to do the same with that intent. 5. When the defendant is about to remove his residence from the county where he resides, with the intention of permanently changing the same, and fails or neglects on demand to give security for the debt upon which the action is commenced. 6. When the debt upon which the action is commenced was incurred for property obtained under false pretenses. 7. When the defendant is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof from the State, with the intent, or to the effect of cheating or defrauding his creditors, or hindering or delaying them in the collection of their debts.

An action may be brought upon a claim before it is due, and the property of the defendant attached in any of the cases mentioned, except in subdivisions one, two and five, but judgment cannot be rendered in such action until the debt becomes due.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against the estates of deceased persons must be presented to the executor or administrator within the time fixed by notice of such presentation, which must not be less than six months after the first publication of notice, if the estate exceeds the value of five thousand dollars, or four months if less than that. They must also be presented to the court for adjustment within such time. All claims not so presented are forever barred, but this does not affect the right to foreclose a mortgage or other lien upon specified property by civil action; and the right to foreclose a mortgage on real property by advertisement, when the County Court has not obtained jurisdiction of the estate of the mortgagor, is not affected by this provision.

If a claim is rejected, claimant may have a citation issue to the executor, to show cause why it should not be allowed. The question of allowance is tried in the County Court, and a decree made allowing or disallowing such claim or counterclaim, or any part of the same, from which an appeal lies to the District Court, where the question is tried anew. No claim barred by the statute of limitation can be allowed.

V. COURTS AND FEES:

The District Court and Court of Justice of the Peace have concurrent jurisdiction in actions for the recovery of money only, where the amount in controversy does not exceed two hundred dollars. County Courts, where given jurisdiction by vote of the county, have concurrent jurisdiction with the District Court in such actions where the amount does not exceed one thousand dollars. Municipal courts in Fargo and Grand Forks have like jurisdiction. In all other cases the District Court has exclusive jurisdiction in law and equity. Two terms of the District Court are held in each county each year. In Cass County, of which Fargo is the county seat, four terms are held. The Supreme Court has appellate jurisdiction and holds two terms in each year at Bismarck, the capital—one in April and one in October.

VI. DEEDS:

Conveyance may be made by husband and wife, or wife to husband. All rights of dower or curtesy are abolished. The wife need not join in a conveyance of land belonging to her husband, nor is it necessary that the husband shall join in conveyance of land belonging to his wife. The homestead of a married person cannot be conveyed unless the husband and wife both execute and acknowledge the conveyance.

An estate in real property, other than an estate at will, or for a term not exceeding one year, can be transferred only by operation of law, or by an instrument in writing, subscribed by the party disposing of the same, or by his agent, thereunto authorized by writing. The execution of a grant of such estate in real property, if it is not duly acknowledged, must, to entitle the grant to be recorded, be proved as provided by law.

A written instrument is presumptive evidence of consideration. Witnesses or seals are not necessary to the validity of a deed or other instrument affecting title to real property, except wills.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions may be taken in civil actions upon notice to the adverse party, and in all cases triable by the court, all the evidence may be taken by deposition; in other cases the evidence of witnesses may be taken by deposition when they reside out of the county where the case is pending, and such depositions may be taken at any time after service upon or appearance by the defendant. When there is no appearance by the defendant, depositions may be taken without notice after the time to answer expires, and before appearance, and before the time for answering expires, they may be taken upon notice served by publication for three weeks.

Depositions must be authenticated with the certificate of the person taking them, with his seal of office, and if he have no seal, and the deposition is taken without the State, his signature must be authenticated either by parol proof, adduced in court, or by the official certificate and seal of any secretary or other officer of state, keeping the great seal thereof, or by the clerk or prothonotary of any court having a seal. Depositions may be taken under a commission, in which case the signature of the commissioner is sufficient authentication.

The officer taking the deposition must annex thereto a certificate showing, that the witness was sworn; that the deposition was reduced to writing by some proper person, naming him; was subscribed in the presence of the officer certifying thereto, and was taken at the time and place specified in the notice.

Depositions may be typewritten. When taken, the deposition should be sealed and the sealed package containing the deposition should be addressed to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, and endorsed with the title of the action and the signature of the officer taking the same.

VIII. DESCENT:

When any person dies intestate, his property, except the homestead and certain personal property, after payment of debts and expenses of administration, unless limited by a marriage contract, is distributed as follows: If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, in equal shares. If the decedent leaves no surviving husband or wife, the whole estate goes to the children in equal shares. The children of a deceased child take by right of representation. If the decedent leaves no children and the estate does not exceed in value five thousand dollars, all the estate goes to the surviving husband or wife, and the excess over five thousand dollars, if any, goes one-half to the surviving husband and wife, and the other half goes to the decedent's father, and if he have no father living, then to the mother. If the decedent leaves no issue, nor husband nor wife, the estate goes to the father, and if there be no father, to the mother. If decedent leaves no husband, wife, father, brothers or sisters living, the estate goes to his mother, to the exclusion of the issue of any deceased brothers or sisters. If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and no issue, father, mother, brother or sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife. If there be no issue, nor husband, wife, father nor mother, the estate goes in equal shares to the brothers and sisters, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by representation. If the decedent leaves none of the aforementioned, the estate goes to the next of kin in equal degree; if there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those claiming through the nearest ancestor must be preferred; and if a surviving child dies under age and unmarried, his share goes to the surviving brothers and sisters by right of representation. If the decedent leaves no husband, wife nor kindred, the estate escheats to the school fund of the State for the support of common schools. The degree of kindred is established by the number of generations, and each generation is called a degree. Kindred of the half blood inherit equally with those of the whole blood, unless the inheritance came to the estate by descent, devise or gift of some one of his ancestors, when those of the half blood are excluded.

A homestead estate, which is the right to the possession, use, control, income and rents of real property, occupied or held as a homestead, descends to the surviving husband or wife, or if neither, to the decedent's minor child or children till the youngest reaches majority. When the homestead estate is fully satisfied, the property is distributed as other property.

IX. EXECUTIONS:

Executions issue of course at any time within ten years after judgment. Executions issued from the District Court must be returned within sixty days, and from Justice Courts within thirty days. There is no stay of execution except in Justice Court, where a stay may be had upon giving proper bonds.

X. EXEMPTIONS:

The following property is absolutely exempt to the head of a family from attachment on mesne process, and from levy and sale on execution, and from any other final process issued from any court. All family pictures; a pew or any other sitting in any house of worship; a lot or lots in any burial ground; the family bible, all school books, and all other books not exceeding in value one hundred dollars; all wearing apparel and clothing of the debtor and his family; provisions for same necessary for one year's supply, either provided or growing, or both; fuel for one year's supply; and the homestead, as created, defined and limited by law. In addition to the above mentioned property, the head of a family may, by himself or his agent, select from all other of his personal property, not absolutely exempt, goods, chattels, merchandise, money or other personal property not to exceed in the aggregate fifteen hundred dollars in value, which is also exempt.

Instead of the fifteen hundred dollars exemption, the head of a family may select and choose the following property, which shall then be exempt, namely: All miscellaneous books and musical instruments for the use of the family, not exceeding five hundred dollars in value; all household and kitchen furniture, including beds, bedsteads and bedding used by the debtor and his family, not exceeding five hundred dollars in value; three cows, ten swine, one yoke of cattle, and two horses or mules, or two yoke of cattle, or two span of horses or mules; one hundred sheep and their lambs, under six months old, and all wool of the same, and all cloth or yarn manufactured therefrom; the necessary food for the animals hereinbefore mentioned for one year, either provided or growing, or both, as the debtor may choose; one wagon, one sleigh, two plows, one harrow and farming utensils, including tackle for teams, not exceeding three hundred dollars in value; the tools and implements of any mechanic, whether a minor or of age, used and kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business, and in addition thereto stock in trade not exceeding two hundred dollars in value. The library and instruments of any professional person, not exceeding six hundred dollars in value.

No personal property is exempt (except that absolutely exempt) from execution for laborer's or mechanic's wages, a physician's bills, or for a debt incurred for property obtained under false pretenses.

Save in the case of those made absolute, the exemptions do not apply: To a corporation, for profit; to a non-resident; to a debtor who is with his family removing from the State, or who has absconded, taking with him his family.

A partnership firm cannot claim more than one exemption of fifteen hundred dollars in value, or the alternative property, and not a several exemption for each partner; and such exemption will constitute a part of the exemption to which each partner is entitled from his property.

No property is exempt from execution for the purchase money of the same property, or any part thereof.

XI. HOMESTEAD:

Homestead to every head of a family, who is every person who has resident with him under his care and maintenance relatives on him dependent, not exceeding in value five thousand dollars; if in a town plat, not exceeding two acres, and if not, not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, to be selected and appraised as provided by statute, is exempt from judgment, lien and execution or forced sale, except: 1. On debts secured by mechanics' or laborers' lien for work or labor done, or material furnished exclusively for the improvement of the same. 2. On debts secured by mortgage of the premises, executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife, or by an unmarried claimant. 3. On debts created for the purchase price thereof, and for all taxes accruing and levied thereon.

The homestead of a married person cannot be conveyed or incumbered unless the instrument by which it is conveyed or incumbered is executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife.

XII. INSOLVENCY:

An insolvent debtor owing debts provable in insolvency to the amount of five hundred dollars may apply by petition to the District Court, annexing to his petition a schedule of all his property, debts and creditors, with their places of residence, verified by affidavit. The court then directs notice to be given to creditors, and an assignee is chosen, as hereinafter stated.

A debtor owing debts provable in insolvency of five hundred dollars, who: 1. Departs from the State with intent to defraud his creditors, or being absent, remains absent with such intent. 2. Who conceals himself to avoid the service of legal process in any action for the recovery of such debt. 3. Who conceals any of his property to avoid its being seized on legal process. 4. Who makes any assignment, gift, sale, conveyance or transfer of property, rights or credits, or allows or suffers a judgment against himself, or allows or suffers his property to be taken on legal process with intent to give a preference to one or more of his creditors, or to any person or persons who are or may be liable for him as indorsers, sureties or otherwise, or with the intent by such disposition of his property to defeat or delay the operation of the insolvency law; or who, being insolvent, has suffered execution for five hundred dollars or more to be returned unsatisfied, or being a merchant or tradesman, has suspended and not resumed payment of commercial paper for thirty days for five hundred dollars or more, unless the party holding such paper has in writing waived the right to proceed in insolvency, shall be deemed to have committed an act of insolvency and become liable to be adjudged an insolvent, and proceedings in insolvency may be commenced by the filing of a verified petition of one or more creditors, the aggregate of whose provable debts amounts to at least four hundred dollars.

The petitioners must file an undertaking agreeing to pay the damage the insolvent may sustain by reason of the proceeding. The undertaking must be in the sum of not less than five hundred dollars. The court may, if there is danger of the debtor absconding or disposing of his property, issue a warrant for his arrest and for the seizure of his property. Upon the filing of such petition, notice is given to creditors, as in voluntary insolvency. The debtor may file a verified answer, traversing the allegations of the petition, and demanding a jury trial. If he does not do so when he answers, the court must immediately proceed to try the issues raised by his answer, and upon the trial may adjudge the debtor to be insolvent. Thereupon the debtor is required to forthwith file with the clerk of the court a schedule of all his property, containing a list of all his creditors, their places of residence, if known, the sum owing to each, the nature of their demand, true consideration, and a statement of interests, judgments, mortgages or collateral security for the payment of his debts.

Upon an adjudication of insolvency, notice is immediately given, and all persons forbidden to pay the debtor any debts, or deliver any property to him, and notice is given to the creditors of a hearing to choose an assignee. The judge of the court presides at a meeting of the creditors, and an assignee is chosen. Upon giving the proper bond, the clerk of court assigns and conveys to the assignee all the property of the debtor, real and personal, except such as is exempt from execution, and vesting the title to all such property in the assignee, and dissolving all levies made upon any such property within sixty days next preceding commencement of insolvency proceedings. The insurance upon the life of a debtor does not pass by such assignment.

All debts due from the insolvent at the time of the commencement of proceedings, and all debts then existing, but not due, may be proved against the estate. All demands for the wrongful taking and conversion of personal property may be proved as debts, and when the insolvent is liable for unliquidated damages the court may cause such damages to be assessed, and the sums so assessed may be proved against the estate.

If it appear that the debtor has made a full disclosure and delivered all his estate as required, the court must grant him a certificate of discharge, which discharges him from debts provable under the insolvency law founded on any contract made by him subsequent to the taking effect of the act, and while a resident of this State, to be performed within the State, or due to any person residing in the State at the time of first publication of notice requiring creditors to show cause, and from all demands against him for or on account of any personal property wrongfully obtained, taken or withheld by him. A discharge of the debtor does not release persons liable for or with him for the same debt.

No discharge can be granted if the debtor has been guilty of any fraud whatsoever contrary to the intent of the insolvency law.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. Parties may contract not to exceed twelve per cent. The penalty for usury is the forfeiture of the interest, if not paid; and if paid, the borrower may recover back double the amount, the same as under the National Bank Act.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments are a lien upon real property for ten years, and are barred by the statute of limitations at the expiration of ten years from their date. Judgment in default of an answer may be taken when service is made on the defendant within the State, on the expiration of thirty days; when service is made on defendant outside of the State, after the expiration of forty-five days; when it is made by publication, after the expiration of sixty-six days.

XV. LIENS:

Any person performing any labor or furnishing materials, machinery or fixtures for the improvement of real estate under a contract with the owner, has a lien upon the real estate upon which such improvement is situated for the amount of the labor and material furnished, and the lien is perfected by filing a verified statement of the account in the office of the clerk of the District Court within ninety days after the furnishing of the labor or material. Such liens have priority as follows: 1. For manual labor. 2. For materials. 3. Sub-contractors other than manual laborers. 4. Original contractors.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

An action for the recovery of real property must be commenced within twenty years; judgments and contracts contained in conveyances of real estate, within ten years; other contracts, obligations and liabilities, express or implied, within six years.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman may own in her own right real and personal property, acquired by descent, gift or purchase, and manage, sell, convey and devise the same to the same extent and in the same manner as if he was unmarried. Contracts may be made by a married woman and liabilities incurred, and the same enforced by or against her to the same extent and in the same manner as if unmarried. Neither husband nor wife has any interest in the property of the other. Neither husband nor wife, as such, is answerable for the acts of the other. The earnings of the wife are not liable for the debts of the husband, and the earnings and accumulations of the wife, and of her minor children, living with her, or in her custody, while she is living separate from her husband, are the separate property of the wife. The separate property of the husband is not liable for the debts of the wife, contracted before or after marriage. A wife's separate property is not liable for debts contracted for the support of herself, her children, or the family as her husband's agent. A married woman may buy and sell goods, give notes or other obligations, and sue and be sued, the same as if unmarried. Women attain their majority at eighteen.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Chattel mortgages must be in writing, and executed by the mortgagor signing the same in the presence of two persons, who must sign the same as witnesses. No other formality is required to entitle the mortgage to be filed. Such mortgage is void as against creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers or incumbrancers of the property in good faith and for value, unless it is filed by depositing the original or an authenticated copy thereof in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the property mortgaged is situated, and it ceases to be valid as against creditors and subsequent incumbrancers in good faith after the expiration of three years from the filing thereof, unless within ninety days next preceding the expiration of such term it is renewed, in which proceeding a copy thereof and a statement of the existing debt is filed in the same office where the original mortgage is filed. A chattel mortgage on merchandise does not cover future acquisitions without a special proviso to that effect. Such a proviso is valid. A chattel mortgage on personal property not yet acquired or not in existence is valid, and attaches as soon as the property is acquired, or comes into existence, but a mortgage on future crops is only valid as to the crop next maturing after the delivery of the mortgage. Chattel mortgages containing a power of sale are foreclosed during the life of the mortgagor by advertisement, and may be forecfosed by action.

A mortgage of real property can be created, renewed or extended only by writing, with the formalities required in the case of a grant of real estate. The wife need not join, only in mortgage of homestead. Mortgages containing power of sale may be foreclosed by advertisement without the intervention of the court, and the premises sold at public auction to satisfy the mortgage debt. Mortgages may be foreclosed by action and a judgment obtained in the same action against the mortgagor for the mortgage debt, and execution issued for any deficiency in the debt and costs arising on the sale of the mortgaged premises. A recorded mortgage may be discharged by an entry acknowledging its satisfaction in the margin of the record thereof, signed by the mortgagee, or his personal representative, or assignee, in the presence of the register of deeds, or upon the record by a certificate duly executed, acknowledged or proved, and certified and recorded, same as the mortgage.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

No days of grace are allowed on any negotiable instrument. Notes containing an agreement to pay the current rate of exchange on a place other than where payable are negotiable. Notes containing an agreement for attorney's fee are not negotiable. Judgment notes are not allowed.

XX. SUITS:

In any action by or against a corporation, the complaint must aver that the plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be, is a corporation; if incorporated under any law in this State, that fact must be averred. If not, it is sufficient to state that it is a foreign corporation, and the plaintiff need not prove the existence of the corporation unless the answer is verified, and contains a positive allegation that the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, is not a corporation. Whenever a judgment is obtained against a domestic corporation, and an execution issued thereon is returned, unsatisfied in whole or in part, the creditor or his legal representative may maintain an action to procure a judgment sequestrating the property of the corporation, and providing for a distribution thereof.

Suits are commenced by service of summons on defendant personally or by publication, requiring him to answer within thirty days after such service.

Service of summons may be made by publication upon filing a verified complaint in the action with the clerk of the court in which it is pending, and an affidavit stating the place of defendant's residence, if known; if not, stating that fact, and further stating: That defendant is not a resident of the State; or is a foreign corporation, joint stock company or association, and has no agent or person in this State upon whom service can be made, and that personal service cannot be made on such defendant within this State; which affidavit in such case must be accompanied by the return of the sheriff stating that he is unable to make personal service thereof upon such defendant. The affidavit must also state: 1. That the defendant has property within the State or debts due him from residents of the State; or, 2, is a resident of the State, and has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of summons, or keeps himself secreted therein with like intent; 3, that the relief sought in the action consists wholly or partly in excluding the defendant from any interest in or lien upon specific real or personal property within this State, or in enforcing, regulating, defining or limiting such interest or lien in favor of either party to the action, or otherwise, affecting the title to such property; or, 4, that the action is for divorce, or for a decree annulling a marriage; or, 5, that the defendant in any of the cases just mentioned is unknown to the plaintiff.

Service by publication is made by publishing the summons six times, once in each week for six successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county where the action is pending. A copy of the summons and complaint must, within ten days after the first publication of the summons, be deposited in some postoffice in this State, postage prepaid, and directed to the defendant, to be served at his place of residence, unless the affidavit for publication states that the residence of the defendant is unknown. Personal service outside the State is equivalent to publication and mailing. Service is complete by publication upon the expiration of thirty-six days after the first publication of summons, and in case of personal service of the summons and complaint upon the defendant outside of the State, upon the expiration of fifteen days after the date of such service, and unless the defendant answers, judgment may be taken after the expiration of thirty days after such service. In all actions, except for divorce, the defendant may be allowed to defend after judgment within one year after notice of judgment, and within seven years after its rendition.

XXI. TAXES:

All taxable property must be listed and assessed each year at its actual cash value at the place of listing on the first day of April. The taxes on real property and personal property become due and payable on the first day of December, and delinquent on the first day of June following. A discount of one per cent is allowed on all sums paid on taxes within fifteen days after the same become due, and one-half of one per cent on all sums paid within thirty days after the same shall become due. Thirty days after taxes become delinquent, there is added a penalty of three per cent, and such taxes thereafter draw interest at the rate of one per cent per month. All real estate is sold for non-payment of taxes on the first Monday of October each year. Redemption from tax sale may be made within two years, with fifteen per cent interest. Taxes are a perpetual lien upon real estate after they become due. A tax deed is conclusive evidence of the regularity of all the proceedings from the valuation of the land by the assessor up to the execution of the deed. The sale of land for taxes is not invalid on account of such lands having been listed or charged on the duplication in any other name than that of the rightful owner. All taxes as between vendor and purchaser become a lien upon real property on and after the first day of December in each year.

XXII. WILLS:

Every person over the age of eighteen years, of sound mind, may by last will dispose of all his estate, real and personal. An holographic will is one entirely written, dated and signed by the hand of the testator himself. It is subject to no other form, and may be made in or out of this State, and need not be witnessed. Every will other than a nuncupative will must be in writing. The words "writing" and "written" synonyme "printing" and "printed," except in the case of signatures.

Every will other than an holographic will and a nuncupative will, must be subscribed at the end thereof by the testator himself, or some person in his presence and by his direction must subscribe his name thereto, in the presence of the attesting witnesses; or be acknowledged by the testator to them to have been made by him or by his authority; the testator must, at the time of subscribing or acknowledging the same, declare to the attesting witnesses that the instrument is his will; and there must be two attesting witnesses, each of whom must sign his name as a witness at the end of the will, at the testator's request and in his presence.

A will of real or personal property, or both, or a revocation thereof, made out of this State, by a person not having his domicile in this State, is as valid, when executed according to the law of the place in which the same was made, or in which the testator was at the time domiciled, as if it were made in this State, and according to the provisions of the law of this State. No provision is made for the proof of wills made out of this State different from those made within. Wills are recorded in the office of the county judge.

A foreign will may be admitted to probate upon the production of a copy of the same and the probate thereof duly authenticated, with a petition for letters; and ancillary letters may thereupon be issued by the executor, or any other person interested in the will, to the county judge, and the same proceedings must be had for the settlement of the estate, as in the probate of a domestic will.

If after making a will the testator marries, and the wife survives him, the will is revoked, unless provision has been made for her by marriage contract, or in the will, or it is apparent therefrom that it was not his intention to make provision for her.

CORPORATIONS.

Corporations can only be formed under the General Incorporation Act.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Private corporations may be formed for any purpose for which individuals may lawfully associate themselves by the voluntary association of three or more persons. The articles must contain: 1. The name of the corporation. 2. The purpose for which it is formed. 3. The place where its principal business is to be transacted. 4. The term for which it is to exist. 5. The number of its directors or trustees, and the names and residences of those who are to serve until their successors are elected and qualified. 6. If there is a capital stock, its amount and the number of shares into which it is divided.

Corporations may renew their existence for a term of years not exceeding the limit provided by law. There are special provisions for the creation and control of railroad, wagon road, insurance, bridge, agricultural fair, religious and charitable corporations and associations.

II. POWERS:

Corporations for profit have succession by their corporate name for the period limited, not exceeding twenty years, and may purchase, hold, transfer and convey such real and personal property as the legitimate purposes of the corporation may require, not exceeding in any case any amount limited by law; and may enter into any obligations or contracts essential to the transacting of their ordinary affairs, or for the purposes of the corporation. No corporation can exercise any corporate powers, except such as are expressly given by law, or such as are necessary to the exercise of the powers enumerated or given; and the corporate powers, business, and property of all corporations must be exercised, conducted and controlled by a board of not less than three, nor more than eleven directors; and directors for corporations for profit must be stockholders.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

Corporations for profit must issue certificates of stock, which must, when fully paid up, be endorsed, "fully paid up;" and when not fully paid, the secretary must endorse on the certificate the amount paid, and any officer of the corporation who issues stock in violation of these provisions, or has knowledge of such issuance, and does not dissent therefrom in writing, is liable to the creditors of the corporation, and purchasers in good faith of such stock, for all damages they may sustain thereby.

Certificates of stock may be transferred by endorsement and delivery, but such transfer is not valid except between the parties thereto, until the same is entered upon the books of the corporation, so as to show the names of the parties by whom, and to whom transferred, the number and designation of the shares, and date of transfer.

No corporation can issue any stock or bonds, except for money, labor done, or property estimated at its true money value actually received by it; and no note or obligation, whether secured or unsecured, can be considered as payment of any part of the capital stock. Capital stock issued in excess of the limit provided by the articles of incorporation is void. Stock of a corporation may be increased or diminished by a vote of two-thirds of the entire number of capital stockholders at a meeting called for that purpose.

IV. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Each stockholder of the corporation is individually and personally liable for the debts of the corporation to the extent of the amount that is unpaid upon the stock held by him, and any creditors may institute joint or several actions against any or all of the stockholders of a corporation whose shares have not been fully paid up, and in such actions the court must ascertain the amount that is unpaid upon the stock held by each of such stockholders and for which he is liable, and render a several judgment against each therefor. The liability of each stockholder is determined by the amount unpaid upon the shares of stock owned by him at the time such action is commenced, and such liability is not released by any subsequent transfer of the stock.

V. DIVIDENDS:

The directors of corporations cannot make dividends except from the surplus profits arising from the business of the corporation; they cannot divide, withdraw or pay to the stockholders any part of the capital stock, nor create debts beyond the subscribed capital stock, nor reduce or increase the capital stock, except as specially provided by law. This limitation as to indebtedness does not apply to policy risks of insurance companies on which no loss has occurred; nor to notes, bonds, or debentures of any loan or trust company organized under the law, when the payment of such notes, bonds or debentures shall be secured by the actual transfer of real estate, by trust deed or mortgage, for the payment thereof, which real estate so transferred must be of twice the par value of such notes, bonds or debentures; nor does the limitation apply to any loan or trust company's guarantee of payment after transfer, of any notes, bonds or debentures when the same is secured by trust deed or mortgage as above stated. For the violation of these provisions, with reference to dividends, etc., the directors are jointly and severally personally liable, in the event of the dissolution of the corporation, to the full amount of the capital stock so divided, withdrawn, paid out or reduced, or debt contracted, unless they cause their dissent to be entered on the minutes of the directors at the time; or were not present. Dividends belong to the party in whose name the stock stands upon the books of the corporation on the day the dividends become payable.

VI. BONDS:

Bonds may be issued by a vote in favor thereof of two-thirds of the entire capital stock of the corporation at a meeting called for that purpose, and a certificate of compliance with the requirements of the law must be signed by the chairman and secretary of the meeting, and a majority of the directors, showing the amount of bonds to be issued, the amount of stock represented, and the vote thereon, which certificate must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and there recorded. The violation of any provision of law with reference to issuing bonds renders every director, officer and stockholder of the corporation, who had knowledge of such violation and did not cause his dissent therefrom to be entered at large upon the journal of the corporation, jointly and severally liable for the debt created by the issuance of such bonds.

VII. DISSOLUTION UNDER SUIT:

An action may be commenced to dissolve a corporation: 1. When it has remained insolvent for at least one year. 2. When it has neglected or refused for at least one year to pay and discharge its notes or other evidences of debt. 3. When it has suspended its ordinary and lawful business for at least one year. 4. If it has banking powers, or powers to make insurance, when it becomes insolvent, or is unable to pay its debts, or shall neglect to pay its notes or evidences of debt on demand. This action must be brought by the State, unless a creditor or stockholder of the corporation submits to the Attorney-General a written statement of the facts showing grounds for such action, verified by oath; and if the Attorney-General omits for thirty days thereafter to commence such action, the creditor, upon leave of court, duly obtained, may maintain such action.

The directors and other officers or stockholders of a corporation, liable to the creditor upon unpaid stock, may be made parties to such action, and if the property is insufficient to discharge the debts of the corporation, the court shall proceed to compel each stockholder to pay in the amount due and remaining unpaid upon his shares of stock, and if the debts of the corporation remain still unpaid, the court must proceed to ascertain the respective liabilities of the directors or officers or stockholders and adjudge the amount payable by each, and enforce judgment as in other cases.

Domestic corporations may be voluntarily dissolved after all claims against them are paid by complying with the provisions of the statute for that purpose.

VIII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

No foreign corporation, association or joint stock company, except an insurance company, can transact any business within this State; execute, hold or dispose of property, real or personal, within this State, until such corporation has filed in the office of the Secretary of State a duly authenticated copy of its charter or articles of incorporation, and a power of attorney appointing the Secretary of State and his successors its true and lawful attorney, upon whom all process in any action or proceeding against it may be served, agreeing therein that any process which may be served upon its said attorney shall be of the same force and effect as if served upon it personally in the State; and that such appointment shall continue in force irrevocable so long as any liability of the corporation, association or joint stock company remains outstanding in this State.

The same provisions apply to insurance companies, except that they must file their articles of incorporation and power of attorney in the office of the Insurance Commissioner of the State, appointing him such attorney.

MINING.

I. LODE CLAIMS:

The length of a lode claim cannot exceed fifteen hundred feet along the vein, and the width is one hundred and fifty feet on each side of the center of the vein, fissure, or lode.

II. LOCATION AND RECORD:

The discoverer of a lode shall within sixty days from the date of discovery record his claim in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such lode is situated, by a location certificate, which shall contain the name of the claim, the name of the locator, the date of location, the number of feet in length claimed on each side of the discovery shaft, the number of feet in width claimed on each side of the vein or lode, and the general course of the lode as near as may be. Certificates not containing these facts shall be void.

Before filing the location certificate, the discoverer must locate his claim by first sinking a discovery shaft thereon sufficient to show a well-defined mineral vein or lode; by posting at the point of discovery on the surface a plain sign or notice containing the name of the claim, the name of the locator, the date of discovery, the number of feet claimed in length on either side of the discovery, and the number of feet in width claimed on each side of the lode; and by marking the surface boundaries of the same with eight substantial posts, plainly marked with the name of, and the corner, end or side of the claim that they respectively represent, sunk in the ground, one at the corner, one at the center of each side line, and one at each end of the claim.

The discoverer has sixty days from the time of the discovery of a lode in which to sink a discovery shaft. The owner of the land may demand security from the miner, and if it is refused, may enjoin him from work until the security is given. The amount of work done annually is that prescribed by the laws of the United States. The certificate can contain but one location.

III. MINING LIENS:

Miners and other persons furnishing any labor or any kind of material for timbering shafts or levels for a mine have a lien upon the mine to secure the payment of the same. Such persons must furnish to the owner of the mine an attested copy of their claim, and thereupon such owner or his agent shall retain out of the first subsequent payments to such contractor the amount so due for such work and labor or materials furnished. The owner must furnish the contractor a copy of the account, and if the contractor fails or refuses to dispute the claim, or, if disputing, fails to have it adjusted, he is deemed to have assented to it, and the amount which may be due from any contractor to his creditor entitled to a lien may be recovered from such owner by the creditor of such contractor to the extent in value of any balance due by the owner to his contractor under the contract with him at the time of the notice first given as aforesaid, or subsequently, according to such contract or under the same.

Any person claiming a lien shall make his account in writing, verify it by his oath, and file it within six days from the date of the last item of the same in the office of the clerk of the District Court, filing at the same time a correct description of the property to be charged with the lien, and the same is for one year from the furnishing of the last item of the account a lien upon the property charged in the description. If the work was done, or materials furnished, under a written contract, a copy of the same must be filed with the account. Such lien may be foreclosed by action in the District Court. When paid, it must be satisfied, and if not so satisfied within six days, the owner forfeits to the person aggrieved double the damages which may have been sustained by his failure to so satisfy the lien.

MINING:
Territorial provisions same as those of Manitoba, which in fact comes under act establishing such provision for the Territories, and appointing Superintendent of Mines, with headquarters at Calgary, N. W. T.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. AFFIDAVITS:

Affidavits, if taken in a foreign country, must be sworn before a British consul, or vice-consul, or a notary public, or before a commissioner appointed for that purpose.

II. ALIENS:

There is no distinction between citizens and aliens in reference to purchase, enjoyment, or descent of property, but aliens must be naturalized as British subjects before exercising franchise.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments for the benefit of creditors are valid in the absence of fraud. No insolvent law in operation.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Personal estate may be attached if the debtor absconds or attempts to remove personal property out of the Territories. No provision for imprisonment for debt or arrest on civil process. Obligations owing to a debtor may be garnisheed by the creditor before or after judgment, when the party garnisheed resides within the jurisdiction of the court.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Claims against estates of deceased persons must be made within such a period as shall be given by public notice, which is generally limited to one month.

VI. COURTS:

The Supreme Court of the North-West Territories sits in all principal places and exercises sole jurisdiction. Regular sittings begin in January, April, July and November.

VII. DEEDS:

All conveyances of land must now be made under the Torrens system of land transfer under the provisions of "The Land Titles Act, 1894." Conveyances or transfers of property must be executed in the presence of one witness, who must make affidavit of the execution before a notary public or a commissioner appointed to take affidavits.

VIII. EVIDENCE:

Parties interested and all other parties may testify in any case. Affidavits are not receivable except by consent. Where witnesses reside abroad a commission may issue for taking their evidence.

IX. EXECUTION:

Since January 1st, 1894, priority among execution creditors has been abolished, and creditors delivering executions to the sheriff, within one month from levy under the first execution, shall be entitled to rank pari passu in the debtor's estate. Execution may be issued forthwith after judgment. Executions against lands will bind debtor's lands if registered. Executions expire in two years, but may be renewed.

X. EXEMPTIONS:

Exemptions from seizure as to debts contracted after the seventh day of September, 1894, include clothing and furniture to the value of five hundred dollars; food for six months; six cows, two oxen, one horse, or three horses, six sheep, three pigs, fifty fowls, and food for same for the winter months; harness, wagon, mower, two plows, horse rake, sewing machine, and reaper or binder; books of a professional man; tools and implements, and seed grain for eighty acres.

XI. HOMESTEAD:

Homesteads of one hundred and sixty acres and town lots and residences to the value of one thousand five hundred dollars are exempt from seizure under execution so long as the holders continue in residence.

XII. INTEREST:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent. There are no usury laws.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

All civil actions are brought in the Supreme Court. Judgment is given by default of appearance in from ten to twenty days. Actions may be brought in the Territories on foreign judgments on exemplification thereof under seal of the foreign court.

XIV. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on simple contracts, six years; contracts under seal, twenty years; judgments, six years, but may be revived; suits for the recovery of land, twenty years.

XV. LIENS:

The laws are practically the same as in Manitoba, subject to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

The real and personal estate of a married woman is exempt from her husband's debts. The profits and proceeds of a business carried on by her separately from her husband, may be held and disposed of by her as a femme sole; and she may convey to or receive a conveyance from her husband without a trustee. She has no dower in her husband's estate; nor has the husband any right as tenant by courtesy.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages of real estate cannot be registered without production of a duplicate certificate of ownership.

Chattel mortgages may be taken upon a debtor's effects to secure a debt or loan, at any rate of interest, if made in good faith, and do not prefer, defeat, nor delay secured or execution creditors. The priority of such takes effect from the date of registration, which must be done within thirty days from the date of execution. Mortgage expires after two years unless renewed.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Three days' grace are allowed. Any rate of interest may be fixed; if no rate is fixed, six per cent is allowed after maturity. Notes must be protested when due and notice given.

XIX. TAXES:

Land may be sold for two years' and upwards arrears of taxes, but may be redeemed within one year of sale on payment of taxes, cost of sale, twenty per cent penalty, and all subsequent taxes due up to time of redemption.

XX. WAGES:

The Masters and Servants Ordinance of 1895 regulates hiring contracts, provides punishment for servants guilty of drunkenness or neglect of duty, and gives summary powers to magistrates in cases of non-payment of wages in certain cases. The ordinance legalizes contracts made outside the Territories for labor to be performed in the Territories.

XXI. WILLS:

The law of England is in operation in the Territories in regard to wills.

CORPORATIONS.

I ORGANIZATION:

All companies with local objects, save those relating to railways, banking, insurance, irrigation, and objects relating to more than one province of the Dominion (which require a Dominion charter or a special act of the Federal Parliament at Ottawa) may be incorporated by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council by letters patent. From the date of the letters patent, the persons therein named and their successors shall be a body corporate and politic by the name therein mentioned, and the powers therein mentioned shall be exercised, subject to the provisions of the British North America Act.

Charter of incorporation may be granted by the Lieutenant-Governor to any number of persons, not less than three, for any of the purposes or objects to which the "Companies Ordinance, Revised Ordinances of the North-West Territories," extends: The applicants must advertise by notice published at least once in the official Gazette of the Territories, and in three consecutive weekly issues of any newspaper published at or nearest the place which is to be the chief place of business of the company, their intention to apply for the same; which notice must contain also: 1. The proposed corporate name of the company. 2. The object of the incorporation. 3. The place which is to be its chief place of business. 4. The proposed amount of its capital stock. 5. The number of shares and amount of each share. 6. Names in full, and address and calling of each applicant, with special mention of the names of not less than three nor more than nine of their number who are to be the first directors of the company, the majority of whom shall be residents of Canada.

Within two months after the last publication of such notice the applicants may petition the Lieutenant-Governor for the issue of such letters patent. The petition shall set forth: 1. The facts contained in the notice. 2. The amount of stock taken by each applicant and the amount paid in thereupon, as also the manner in which the same has been paid in, and is held for the company. The aggregate of the stock so taken shall be at least the one-half of the total amount of the proposed capital stock of the company, and the aggregate paid in on the stock so taken shall be at least ten per cent, and shall be paid in to the credit of the company or trustees therefor, and shall be standing at such credit in some chartered bank in Canada, unless the object of the company is one requiring that it should own real estate, in which case such aggregate may be taken as paid in if it is bona fide invested in real estate suitable to such object, which is held by trustees for the company and is of the required value, over and above all incumbrances thereon.

II. POWERS:

Every company incorporated under this ordinance may acquire, hold, sell and convey any real estate requisite for the carrying on of the undertakings of such company, and shall forthwith become and be invested with all property and rights, real and personal, theretofore held by or for it under any trust created with a view to its incorporation, and with all the powers, privileges and immunities requisite or incidental to the carrying on of its undertaking, as if it was incorporated by a special ordinance, embodying the provisions hereof and of the letters patent.

III. CAPITAL STOCK:

The stock of the company shall be personal estate, and shall be transferable in such manner and subject to all such conditions and restrictions as are prescribed by the ordinance, or by the letters patent or by-laws of the company. If the letters patent or supplementary letters patent make no other definite provision, the stock of the company or any increased amount thereof, so far as it is not allotted thereby, shall be allotted at such times and in such manner as the directors prescribe by by-law. Every share in the company shall, subject to the provisions of the ordinance, be deemed to have been issued and to be held subject to the payment of the whole amount thereof in cash, unless the same has been otherwise agreed upon or determined by a contract duly made in writing and filed with the Lieutenant-Governor, at or before the issue of such shares.

IV. DIRECTORS:

The affairs of the company shall be managed by a board of not more than nine, and not less than three directors. The persons named as such in the letters patent, shall be the directors of the company, until replaced by others duly appointed in their stead. No person shall be elected or appointed as a director thereafter unless he is a shareholder, owning stock absolutely in his own right and to the amount required by the by-laws of the company, and is not in arrears in respect of any call thereon; and at all times the majority of the directors of the company shall be persons resident in Canada.

Directors of the company shall be elected by the shareholders, in general meeting of the company assembled, in some place within the Territories, at such time, in such manner and for such term not exceeding two years, as the letters patent, or in default thereof, as the by-laws of the company prescribe.

The directors of the company may administer the affairs of the company in all things, and make or cause to be made for the company, any description of contract which the company may by law enter into; and may from time to time make by-laws not contrary to law or to the letters patent of the company, or to this ordinance, for the following purposes: 1. The regulation of the allotment of stock, the making of calls thereon, the payment thereof, the issue and registration of certificates of stock, the forfeiture of stock for non-payment, the disposal of forfeited stock and of the proceeds thereof, and the transfer of stock. 2. The declaration and payment of dividends. 3. The number of directors, their term of service, the amount of their stock qualifications and their remuneration, if any. 4. The appointment, functions, duties and removal of all agents, officers and servants of the company, the security to be given by them to the company and their remuneration. 5. The time and place for the holding of the annual meetings of the company, the calling of meetings, regular and special, of the board of directors of the company; the quorum; the requirements as to proxies, and the procedure in all things at such meetings. 6. The imposition and recovery of all penalties and forfeitures, which admit of regulation by by-law. 7. The conduct in all other particulars of the affairs of the company. And the directors may, from time to time, repeal, amend or re-enact the same.

The directors may, when authorized by a by-law for that purpose, passed and approved of by the votes of shareholders representing at least two-thirds in value of the subscribed stock of the company represented at a special general meeting duly called for considering the by-law: borrow money upon the credit of the company; and issue bonds, debentures or other securities for any sums borrowed at such prices as are deemed necessary or expedient, but no debentures shall be for a less sum than one hundred dollars; and hypothecate or pledge the real or personal property of the company to secure any sums borrowed by the company; but the amount borrowed shall not at any time be greater than seventy-five per cent of the actual paid-up stock of the company; the limitation made by this section, however, not applying to commercial paper discounted by the company.

The directors may call in all subscribed stock in such manner as the letters patent or by-laws of the company may require or allow. Interest at six per cent is added to unpaid calls from the date fixed for payment. The company may enforce payment of calls by action in any competent court, or the directors may summarily forfeit any shares for non-payment, and the same shall thereupon become the property of the company. Shares shall not be transferable until all unpaid calls are fully paid or until declared forfeited, and no shareholder in default for non-payment of calls shall be entitled to vote at any meeting of the company.

V. LIABILITIES:

Each shareholder, until the whole amount of his stock is fully paid up, shall be individually liable to the creditors of the company, but shall not be liable as such for any act, default or liability whatsoever of the company or for any claim, engagement, payment or other matter or thing relating to or connected with the company beyond the unpaid amount of his respective shares in the company. Trustees or mortgagees of stock, or persons holding stock as collateral security, shall not be personally subject to liability as shareholders.

VI. DIVIDENDS:

No dividend may be declared which will impair the capital of the company.

VII. CONTRACTS:

All contracts, agreements, engagements or bargains made and every bill of exchange or promissory note drawn, accepted or indorsed on behalf of the company by any agent, officer or servant in accordance with his powers under the by-laws of the company, or otherwise, shall be binding upon the company, and in no case shall it be necessary to affix the seal of the company.

VIII. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

Every company, under pain of forfeiture of corporate rights, must keep books showing: 1. The names alphabetically arranged of all persons who are or have been shareholders. 2. The address and calling of every such person while such shareholder. 3. The number of shares of stock held by each shareholder. 4. The amount paid in and remaining unpaid respectively on the stock of each shareholder. 5. The names, addresses and calling of all persons who are or have been directors of the company, with the several dates at which each became or ceased to be such director. 6. A book called the register of transfers shall be provided, and in such book shall be entered the particulars of every transfer of shares in the capital of the company.

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Cannot do business in the Territories without filing an authenticated copy of the charter of incorporation in the office of the Lieutenant-Governor and paying the same fees as a newly-formed company.

X. INCORPORATION FEES:

These range from twenty dollars to fifty dollars for companies with a capital under one hundred thousand dollars, increasing by a fee of fifty dollars for each additional one hundred thousand dollars capital to a maximum fee of two hundred dollars, exclusive of all costs for advertising and law charges.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens may take, hold, convey and transmit real estate; and trust companies or corporations having a legal status in any foreign country may hold real estate by way of mortgage or otherwise in furtherance of any trust they may assume in connection with any enterprise or undertaking in Nova Scotia, and may have power to convey and transfer the same.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Preferential as well as general assignments for the benefit of creditors are good and valid when not tainted with fraud.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

The property of an absent or absconding debtor may be attached on the creditor or plaintiff, or his agent, making an affidavit setting forth the cause of action, the amount due and the absence of the defendant.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Such claims may be filed with the executor or administrator with an affidavit verifying the claim.

V. COURTS:

The Provincial courts are the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, having unlimited jurisdiction in torts, and jurisdiction in matters of contract where the claim is eighty dollars or upward; and the County Court, having jurisdiction of claims from twenty dollars to four hundred dollars. Sums below twenty dollars are recoverable in the Magistrates' Court.

VI. DEEDS:

Deeds affecting lands should be registered in the office of the registrar of deeds for the county where the lands are situate. Such deeds must be proved on the oath of a subscribing witness to the execution thereof. Deeds may be proved out of the Province by oath before a judge of a court of record, the mayor of any city, or a notary public. Only one witness is required. Unless deeds are registered they shall be void against any subsequent purchaser or encumbrancer who has no actual notice of the deed.

VII. DEPOSITIONS:

In any action, the court or judge, upon sufficient grounds shown by affidavit, may order a commission to issue to take evidence outside of the province.

VIII. EXECUTIONS:

Executions may issue under judgment against real or personal property, and if unexecuted shall remain in force for one year from issue, but may be renewed at any time before the expiration of a year. Execution against personal property may issue immediately after recovery of judgment. Executions against lands cannot be issued until the judgment has been recorded for one year.

IX. EXEMPTIONS:

There is exempted from execution: necessary wearing apparel, bedding and bedsteads of the debtor and family; the tools and implements of his trade or calling; one stove and cooking utensils; six each of knives, forks, cups, saucers, plates, spoons and chairs; shovel, table, teapot, jug, spinning wheel, weaving loom; ten religious volumes; food and fuel for thirty days; one cow, two sheep, one hog, and food for said animals.

X. INTEREST:

The legal rate is six per cent. A contract may be made in writing for any rate not exceding seven per cent when the security is real property, or ten per cent when the security is personal property or personal responsibility.

XI. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments to bind real property must be recorded in the registry of deeds of the county where the property is situate. A judgment binds personal property after levy under execution; and remains in force for twenty years.

XII. LIENS:

Chapter 85 of the Revised Statutes of Nova Scotia makes provision for liens in favor of mechanics and others. A lien for the price of work done or material provided is created by filing the agreement as hereinafter mentioned. The agreement, together with a statement of claim, shall be filed in the registry office of the county where the land is situate not later than thirty days from the completion of the work, and such statement of claim must be verified by the affidavit of the party. If there is any dispute as to the claim, the matter must be litigated in the proper court; and the lien lapses unless the proceedings are taken.

XIII. LIMITATIONS:

On all contracts not under seal the period within which action may be taken is six years. Judgments and contracts under seal, twenty years. No arrears of dower, rent, or interest can be claimed after six years.

XIV. MARRIED WOMEN:

Married women may carry on a separate business and hold separate estate; and when carrying on such business may sue and be sued as femmes sole.

XV. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages must be under seal. A mortgage of real property is foreclosed by action in the Supreme Court and is discharged by a release signed by the parties entitled to enforce payment of the mortgage. Mortgages must be recorded in the same way as judgments to be effective as against subsequent encumbrances.

XVI. NOTES AND BILLS:

The law is much the same as in the United States. A demand draft has no days of grace; sight draft has three days of grace. Notice of dishonor is necessary to hold the endorser and the maker.

XVII. TAXES:

Taxes are levied upon real and personal property by the municipalities and collected by them. Outside of the city of Halifax a tax is also levied on income.

XVIII. WILLS:

Wills must be in writing, signed at the foot or end thereof by the testator, or somebody in his presence and by his direction, and such signature must be acknowledged by the testator in the presence of at least two witnesses present at the time. These witnesses must subscribe the will also in the presence of the testator and of each other. Executors are competent witnesses.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations for mining purposes may be formed in Nova Scotia by a special act of the Legislature, or under the Joint Stock Companies' Act. Corporations created by special act may have in the act special provisions as to the organization and management of the corporation.

Joint stock companies may be formed without the intervention of the Legislature, namely: by the issue of letters patent under the provisions of the Joint Stock Companies' Act. The letters patent are issued by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council on the petition of not less than five persons. The applicants must first give one month's notice in the Royal Gazette, setting forth their own names and addresses, the name of the proposed company; the proposed place of business; the intended amount of capital, and the number of shares. The applicants then petition the Lieutenant-Governor, after due publication of said notice, and after one-half of the proposed stock is taken up, and ten per cent of the aggregate paid in. Notice of the issuing of the letters patent is given to the Royal Gazette. Provision is made for changing the name of a company if necessary or desired. Supplementary letters patent may be granted in the same way as the original.

II. POWERS:

A corporation, except when having special powers by act of incorporation, shall: sue and be sued in the corporate name, have a common seal, elect as it may deem proper all necessary officers, fixing their compensation and defining their duties; and shall make by-laws for its own government, the same not to be contrary to law or repugnant to the statute creating the corporation. The corporation may in its by-laws regulate the matter of meetings, quorums, modes of voting, tenure of offices, and the purchase, conveyance and sale of real and personal estate.

III. DIRECTORS:

The number of directors may be increased or decreased by by-law. The majority of the directors must reside in Nova Scotia. Provision is made for the election of officers, the inspection of the books of the company by shareholders and the regulation of the affairs of the company by the directors.

IV. LIABILITIES:

Stock of companies is esteemed personal property. Unless there is provision to the contrary in the act of incorporation, every stockholder in a company shall be individually liable for the company's debts or obligations, but such liability shall not exceed the amount remaining unpaid upon the shares held by such stockholder.

In limited liability companies, the directors, unless otherwise exempted, shall be personally liable for any responsibility beyond the amount of stock subscribed incurred by them without the sanction of the company; but this provision does not extend to insurance companies.

The real estate of any company may be sold under execution in the same manner as personal estate.

Officers or members of a company may be sued in the Supreme Court in any matters in which they are liable.

V. REPORTS:

Companies are required to file in the Provincial Secretary's office an abstract of their receipts and expenditures within the province, and a penalty is provided for their default.

VI. NON-USER AND DISSOLUTION:

All acts of incorporation, unless otherwise provided therein, shall expire unless the company goes into operation within three years; and this provision also applies to charters of companies organized other than by special act. The charter may be continued for three years for the purpose of winding up the business of the company; and in this event trustees may be appointed by the Supreme Court on application to wind up the business of the company.

MINING.

I. MINE OFFICIALS:

The Commissioner of Public Works and Mines has jurisdiction of all matters pertaining to mines and minerals. The office of the commissioner is situated at Halifax, and is open during the usual legal hours. There are deputy commissioners of mines in the several gold districts in the Province and these officials have within their respective gold districts the powers of a justice of the peace. There is also a Deputy Commissioner of Public Works and Mines for the Province; and likewise an Inspector of Mines, who shall be a competent practical mining engineer, whose duty it is to visit and inspect as may be necessary the various mines under lease from the Crown, to ascertain if the terms of the lease are carried out and the law respecting mines properly complied with, and that proper measures are taken for the safety and protection of the persons employed in said mines. There are also deputy inspectors who are similarly authorized and qualified. The statute prohibits all these officials from having any interest in mines or mining operations under a very severe penalty. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council is authorized to select a board of examiners to be composed of the inspector of mines and nine persons conversant with coal mines; three of them to be mining managers, three working miners and three mining engineers; which board examines and passes on the fitness of colliery officials.

II. DISTRICTS AND AREAS:

[Gold and Silver.] The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council on being satisfied of the discovery of these minerals may by proclamation declare the locality to be a gold district and may assign the boundaries of such district.

All mines of gold or of gold and silver shall be laid off in areas of two hundred and fifty feet in length true meridian north and south, and one hundred and fifty feet east and west; these areas to be known as class number 1. This provision does not apply to areas laid out before the passing of the act. Areas are to be laid out as far as possible uniformly and in quadrilateral and rectangular shapes. Ample provision is made for the survey of properties held under lease.

In the office of the Commissioner of Public Works and Mines is kept a book of record for proclaimed districts and unproclaimed districts, in which applications for leases are entered, and a book for applications for prospecting licenses. Plans of all gold districts and areas, etc., are also kept in the commissioner's office.

III. LEASES:

Applications for leases of areas may be made to the deputy commissioner in the gold district and must be in writing, defining the areas applied for and accompanied by a payment of two dollars for each area. Where the holder of a lease of areas in private land cannot make an agreement with the owner for leave to enter, etc., provision is made for the settlement of the damages by arbitration. All leases granted after 1892 are for a term of forty years, but they may be surrendered at any time; or may be forfeited by failure to pay the stipulated royalties. There shall be performed each year on the demised premises a number of days labor equivalent to forty days for every number 1 area comprised therein.

No lessee shall mine within ten feet of the boundary line of property held by him; but must leave a barrier of at least ten feet in thickness between his workings and his boundary.

IV. LICENSES:

The Commissioner of Mines has power to issue licenses to search for gold and silver, to be called "prospecting licenses," which licenses may include any area not exceeding one hundred areas of class number 1 in extent; said licenses to be in force for twelve months. Before such a license is issued the applicant shall enter into a bond with sureties to recompense the proprietor of the soil in case of damage done to his lands.

No lessee or licensee is entitled to enter on any house, building, garden or grounds under cultivation except by consent of the occupier or special leave of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

The commissioner has power to issue a license to any person or persons to use a mill or machinery for the reduction or concentration of quartz, or other gold, or gold and silver-bearing material, and for crushing, stamping and amalgamating these minerals. The party applying for such license must give a bond in the sum of two thousand dollars to comply with the requirements of the law. He must keep a book or books of account to be supplied by the commissioner, and always open to his inspection, giving a distinct statement of all the work done at the mill. The licensed mill owner must pay in money the royalty of two per cent weekly or as often as the commissioner shall direct, and if he be in default he shall be liable in an action for the amount due for royalty. Every licensed mill owner must make monthly returns to the mines office, giving the particulars of the month's work. Any person engaged in crushing, etc., without a license is liable to a penalty of four hundred dollars for each offense. The license may be revoked if the books are fraudulently kept and the commissioner has power to revoke the license for any violation of the law.

V. ROYALTY:

The royalty reserved in leases of gold and gold and silver mines is two per cent of the gross amount of gold and silver mined.

VI. RETURNS:

Lessees of mines are required to make quarterly returns to the Mines Office, giving particulars of the labor performed, number of tons of quartz raised, how disposed of and the weight of the same, etc. The lessees or licensees of each mine are liable for royalties on all the mineral obtained from their mine in any other way than from quartz.

The act provides for an appeal from the judgment of the commissioner to a judge of the Supreme Court in cases of forfeiture and the judge may try the matter with a jury.

VII. LICENSES:

[Other Minerals.] The Commissioner of Mines may grant licenses to search, to be in force one year and six months, entitling the holder to enter upon the land covered thereby and seek and explore for minerals other than gold and silver; that is to say: for tin, lead, copper, coal, iron and precious stones, or any other minerals reserved by the Crown.

Application therefor must be accompanied by a fee of thirty dollars, and a bond must be given in the sum of eight hundred dollars to provide for damages to the occupier of lands covered by such license. Such license to search may cover a tract not exceeding five square miles in extent and not exceeding two and a half miles in length. Licenses to search called second rights may be given over the same tract, and on the expiration of the first license, the second comes in force.

VIII. LEASES:

Leases of mines other than gold and silver may be granted in the same way as in the case of gold mines and shall be for a term of twenty years. The provisions respecting forfeiture are much the same as in the case of gold mines. Quarterly returns are required.

IX. ROYALTIES:

The royalty on coal is ten cents on every ton of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds sold or removed from the mine; on copper, four cents on every one per cent of copper contained in each ton of two thousand three hundred and fifty-two pounds sold or smelted; on lead, two cents on every one per cent of lead contained in each ton of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds of ore sold or smelted; on iron, five cents on every ton of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds of ore sold or smelted; and on tin, precious stones and other minerals, five per cent of their values. The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council has power to lower the rates of royalty on these minerals.

X. MINE REGULATIONS:

The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may make rules and regulations relative to the pumping, draining, ventilation and working of mines.

The Inspector of Mines has power to make enquiry into the condition of every mine as to all matters connected with the safety of the miners.

Every coal mine shall be under the supervision of a manager, whose name and address must be furnished to the commissioner. The underground workings shall be under the daily charge of a certificated underground manager. The certificates are granted by the board of examiners already mentioned.

In coal mines employees are to be paid semi-monthly. No wages shall be paid within any public house.

Miners who are paid according to the weight of the mineral, may have at their own cost a check-weigher, to whom the owners of the mine must offer every facility. The check-weigher may be removed for misbehavior or obstruction.

No boy under twelve years shall be employed in or about a mine; and no boy over that age unless he can read, write and understands the first four rules of arithmetic. The driver of an engine, windlass or gin shall not be under fourteen years of age.

Single shafts are prohibited unless there be communication with other shafts; but this provision does not apply to the opening of a new mine to search for minerals, or any working for the purpose of making communication between shafts, so long as not more than twenty persons are employed underground at any one time. A mine may be exempted from the provisions as to single shafts by leave of the commissioner, if it is not a coal mine or mine with inflammable gases therein; provided precautions are taken against other dangers.

When an accident occurs in any mine, the manager must within twenty-four hours make a report giving full particulars to the mines office.

XI. MINING COMPANIES:

Every incorporated company must file a copy of its charter or act of incorporation and by-laws or regulations in the mines office before commencing to work.

Provision is made for filing and recording mortgages, bills of sale, judgments and other encumbrances in the office of the Commissioner of Mines.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Aliens may transact business and inherit, transmit or sell property as completely as any citizen of the State can do.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Assignments must be general for the equal benefit of all the creditors, by deed duly executed and filed in Probate Court, by assignee in ten days qualifying, executing and giving his bond; he must give notice by publication for three weeks. Creditors are required to present claims, verified, within six months. If claim is rejected, suit must be brought within sixty days. Assignments in contemplation of insolvency and to prefer one or more creditors inures to the benefit of all, and if made to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors may be declared void at the suit of any creditor, after which a trustee may be appointed to administer the property as a trust. Assignments do not include, unless expressed, property exempt. Taxes and wages for labor performed by any one for the assignor not exceeding three hundred dollars are preferred claims.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

In an action for the recovery of money, plaintiff may, at or after its commencement, have an attachment against defendant's property, when: 1. The defendant, or one of several, is a foreign corporation or non-resident of this State. 2. Has absconded with intent to defraud creditors. 3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid service of summons. 4. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property or a part thereof out of the jurisdiction of the court with intent to defraud creditors. 6. Is about to convert his property or a part thereof into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals. 8. Has assigned, removed or disposed of, or is about to assign, remove or dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors. 9. Has fraudulently or criminally contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation, for which suit has been brought or is about to be brought. But no attachment shall be granted on either clause of the first ground for any claim other than a debt or demand arising on contract, judgment or decree, or by causing death by wrongful or negligent act.

The clerk of the court in which action is brought shall issue the writ of attachment when there is filed in his office an affidavit showing: 1. The nature of plaintiff's claim. 2. That it is just. 3. The amount affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover. 4. Some one of the grounds above stated. If the first ground be shown, attachment issues without an undertaking; in all other cases plaintiff must execute, with surety approved by the clerk, an undertaking in double the claim conditioned to pay all damages if writ wrongfully issues.

Foreign corporations that have obtained certificates authorizing them to do business in this State are not subject to attachment upon the ground of non-residence.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Any person having a claim against the estate must present it to the executor or administrator for allowance within one year after notice of administration has been published, or run the risk of insufficient assets. The affidavit to the claim should show that the claim is justly due the affiant, that no payments have been made and no offsets exist.

The executor or administrator must make final settlement within eighteen months, unless the court for good cause grant further time.

V. COURTS:

Justices' Courts have exclusive jurisdiction when the amount claimed does not exceed one hundred dollars, and concurrent with the Common Pleas on all sums from one hundred dollars to three hundred dollars. Common Pleas Courts and Superior Courts in cities have original jurisdiction in all cases for collections when the amount exceeds one hundred dollars. Circuit Courts and the Supreme Courts are appellate.

VII. DEEDS:

A deed, mortgage, power of attorney, or lease for any term exceeding three years, of any estate or interest in real property, must be signed by the grantor, mortgagor or lessor, and such signing must be acknowledged in the presence of two attesting witnesses who have subscribed the attestation, before a judge of a court of record of this State, or a clerk thereof, a county auditor, county surveyor, mayor, or justice of the peace. Without this State, before a commissioner appointed by the Governor of Ohio, or a consul of the United States resident in a foreign country. The acknowledgment must be certified upon the same sheet of paper bearing the attestation clause, or part of it. Such instrument, executed and acknowledged in any other state or territory according to the laws thereof, is binding here without proof of the official character of the officer taking the acknowledgment. No separate acknowledgment of wife is required. Deeds must be recorded in the recorder's office of the county where the land lies, and until so recorded or filed for record are fraudulent as to purchasers in good faith without notice. Mortgages take effect from the time they are delivered for record. When a mortgage is foreclosed the lands must be ordered sold by the court.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Depositions may be used in the following cases: 1. When the witness does not reside in, or is absent, from the county where the action is pending and for trial. 2. When the witness is dead, or from infirmity, age or imprisonment is unable to attend court. 3. When the testimony is required upon a motion, or oral examination of the witness not required.

Depositions in this State may be taken before a judge or clerk of the Supreme, Circuit, or Common Pleas Court; a probate judge, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, master commissioner, official stenographer of any court, or person empowered by special commission. A person taking depositions in this State to be used out of it must derive his authority from the state, territory or district where the testimony is to be used. In every case the officer must not be an attorney or relative of either party, or interested in the suit. Written notice must be given the adverse party sufficient time before the taking to allow him enough time, exclusive of Sundays, day of service and one day for preparation, to travel to the place named for taking the same. Notice must specify the action, name of court where pending, time and place of taking, and if the testimony of a party is sought, that must be specified.

IX. DESCENT:

Real estate that came to an intestate by descent, devise or deed of gift, descends: 1. To the intestate's children. 2. To the relict for life. 3. To the brothers and sisters of the intestate of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate came. 4. If the ancestor from whom the estate came be living, it ascends to him. 5. If the ancestor be dead it goes to his children, if any, if not, then to the widower or widow of such ancestor, if a parent of decedent, during life; on the death of such parent, or if there be none, the estate passes to the brothers and sisters of such parent; failing these, to the brothers and sisters of the half blood of the intestate, though not of the blood of the intestate from whom the estate came, and: 6. If there are none to take under the fifth rule, the estate passes to the next of kin of the intestate who are of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate came. All other property, real and personal (except on distribution, when the widower or widow is entitled to half the first four hundred dollars of personal property and one-third the remainder), descends as follows: 1. To the children. 2. To the husband or wife. 3. Brothers and sisters of the whole blood. 4. Brothers and sisters of the half blood. 5. To the father, if living; if not, to the mother. 6. To next of kin of the blood of the intestate.

The lands of a decedent may all be sold if necessary to pay his debts, subject, however, to dower and homestead rights.

X. EMINENT DOMAIN:

No right of way shall be appropriated to the use of any corporation until full compensation therefor be made in money, or first secured by a deposit of money, to the owner, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation; which compensation shall be ascertained by a jury of twelve men, in a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. If the corporation be unable to agree with the owner, his guardian or trustee as to the value of the property sought to be appropriated, or as to the compensation to be paid; or when the owner is incapable of contracting in person or by agent, and has no guardian or trustee, or is unknown, or whose residence is beyond the State or unknown, it may file its petition, verified, with the Probate judge, averring the matters required by statute in the county where the land is situate. If some of the tracts sought to be appropriated are situate in one county and some in another, proceedings may be commenced in either; they are thence prosecuted in substantially the same manner as a civil action, including the drawing and impanelling of the jury. New trials may be granted for cause, and either party may prosecute error, but there is no appeal.

A mine owner who has not sufficient surface for the necessary air shafts is authorized by statute to appropriate enough adjacent land for that purpose.

XI. EXECUTIONS:

Executions from a justice's docket can only be levied upon personal property. The debtor, by entering into an undertaking with sufficient surety to the creditor within ten days after the rendition, may have a stay of execution on the judgment, as follows: For five dollars and under, sixty days; five dollars to twenty dollars, ninety days; twenty dollars to fifty dollars, one hundred and fifty days; fifty dollars and upward, two hundred and forty days. Judgments by the Court of Common Pleas are not stayed. Execution must be levied upon personal property, if any found; if not, then upon real estate of the debtor. Execution may issue to any county in the State. Lands levied upon must be appraised by three disinterested freeholders of the county where situated. Appraisers, on actual view of the premises, after being sworn by the officer, must return an estimate of the real value of the lands in money; the premises shall then be advertised for thirty days, and offered for sale, but cannot be sold for less than two-thirds of the appraised value. If the lands sell, the judgment debtor may release them by paying into court before confirmation the amount of the judgment, interest and costs, including poundage, which ends all further proceedings. Lands, after sale and confirmation, cannot be redeemed.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

Every person having a family and every widow may hold certain specified property exempt from levy and sale; and, if not having the specific chattels, may select in lieu thereof other chattels, and may also hold exempt his personal earnings, and the earnings of his minor children, for the three months next preceding the date of the execution, when it appears by his affidavit, or otherwise, that such wages are necessary for the family support. These special exemptions may amount in value to three hundred dollars. Husband and wife living together, a widow or widower living with an unmarried daughter, or unmarried minor son, may hold exempt a family homestead of one thousand dollars in value, or, if not the owner of a homestead, other real or personal property of the value of five hundred dollars.

XIII. INTEREST:

When no rate is named, interest is computed at six per centum per annum. Parties may contract for any rate not exceeding eight per cent. If payments of usurious interest be made, the excess above legal interest, six per cent, is applied to paying the principal. If a higher rate than eight per cent be stipulated, but six per cent can be collected. A bona fide purchaser, without notice of negotiable paper before due, is not affected by usury exacted by a previous holder. A note made in any state at a rate lawful there may be enforced here.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

The judgment of a Court of Common Pleas is a lien upon the debtor's real estate within the county from the first day of the term in which it was rendered. Judgments by confession and judgments rendered in the term at which suit is commenced are liens from the day of rendition. Under all other judgments lands and property are bound only from the time of seizure. Judgments become dormant if no execution be issued in five years next after they are entered; to keep the lien alive execution must be levied within five years, and within each succeeding five years. Dormant judgments may be revived within twenty years. Transcripts of justices' judgments may be filed with the clerk of Common Pleas of the county where rendered, and if filed in vacation the lien attaches, as to other lien holders, from the first day of the next term; if filed in term the lien attaches at the date of filing. Equities of the judgment debtor may be subjected by a creditor's bill, or a proceeding in aid of execution.

XV. LIENS:

A person who performs labor, or furnishes material or machinery for constructing, altering or repairing a boat, vessel or other water craft, or for erecting, altering, repairing or moving a house, mill, manufactory, or any furnace or furnace material therein, or other building appurtenance or structure, or for the digging, drilling, plumbing, boring, operating, completing or repairing of any gas well, oil well or any other well, or performs labor of any kind whatsoever, in altering, repairing or constructing any oil-derrick, oil-tank, oil or gas pipe-line, or furnishes tile for drainage of any lot or land by virtue of a contract with, or at the instance of the owner thereof, or his agent, trustee, contractor or sub-contractor, shall have a lien to secure payment for the same upon such boat, vessel or other water craft, or upon such house, mill, manufactory or other building or appurtenance, fixture, bridge or other structure; or upon such gas-well, oil-well, or any other well; or upon such oil-derrick, oil-tank, oil or gas pipe line, and upon the material and machinery so furnished, and upon the interest, leasehold or otherwise, of the owner in the lot or land on which the same may stand or to which it may be removed.

When liens are obtained on the same property by persons performing labor, or furnishing material or machinery, and by the original contractor, the lien of such contractor shall be postponed to the liens of the persons performing the labor, or furnishing machinery or material. The latter shall have no priority among themselves, and their respective liens shall not exceed, in gross, the contract price between the owner and the principal contractor, unless such owner and contractor have fraudulently colluded to fix an unreasonably low contract price; in such case the court will ascertain the difference between such fraudulent contract price and the real worth, or fair and reasonable price, and the lien shall be to the extent of such fair and reasonable price.

Liens must be perfected in four months from performing the labor, or furnishing the material, by filing with the county recorder of the county where the property or improvement is situated the itemized statement and affidavit required by the statute, on which all credits must be stated and the amount due shown.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

On contracts not in writing, express or implied, six years; specialty or any agreement in writing, fifteen years; real actions, twenty-one years; judgments, twenty one years. Part payment, or acknowledgment or promise in writing will take the case out of the operation of the statute.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Excepting the right to vote and hold office, other than school director, a married woman has all the civil rights and privileges enjoyed by her husband. She may take, hold and dispose of real or personal property as she could if unmarried. She may sue and be sued, contract and be contracted with, to the same extent as others. She is entitled to all the benefits of heads of families. Neither

...sband nor wife has any interest in the property of the ...ther, except the wife to her support by her husband, if ...e able; if not, she must support herself, and, if able, ...er husband also. Widower or widow who has not re...nquished or been barred of same, is entitled to be en...wed for life in one-third of the real estate of the de...ased consort. Judgment may be rendered against the ...ife and execution levied upon her property, as if single. ...urtesy is abolished.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

A chattel mortgage is void against third parties unless ...e same, or a copy thereof, be deposited with the clerk of ...e township where the mortgagor resides, if a resident ...f the State; or if a non-resident, of the township where ...e mortgaged property is situated. When the mortgagor ...s a non-resident of the State, or is a resident of the ...wnship where the office of the county recorder is kept, ...e mortgage shall be filed with the recorder. The mort...gee, his agent or attorney, shall, before filing, state on ...e instrument, under oath, the amount of the claim, ...at it is just and unpaid; or if given to indemnify the ...rtgagee as surety, such sworn statement must truly ...w the extent of the liability, and that the mortgage ...as taken in good faith to indemnify the mortgagee ...ainst loss by reason of his suretyship. Within thirty ...s before the expiration of one year from its date, the ...rtgage, or a copy thereof, and sworn statement must ...e made and filed. (See "VII. Deeds.")

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Notes and bills made payable to the order of any per...on are negotiable by endorsement; if payable to bearer, ...y delivery, transferring thus the title absolutely. If ...ayable on a day certain, are entitled to three days' ...race. Negotiable instruments given for a patent right ...ust have the words "Given for a patent right" printed ...across the face and over the signature, and in any hands ...uch paper is subject to all the defenses existing against ...the original owner.

XX. SUITS:

There is but one form of action, called a civil action, ...prosecuted by the real party in interest, except adminis...trators, trustees, etc. Actions for money may be tried ...by a jury, or a jury may be waived. Generally, service ...is by summons.

XXI. TAXES:

All property, real and personal, in this State, belonging ...to individuals or corporations, including all moneys, cred...its, investments in bonds, stocks or otherwise, of persons ...residing in this State, are subject to taxation. Tax lien ...attaches on the day preceding the second Monday in ...April of each year. Taxes are payable from October 1st ...to December 20th, but half may be paid then, and half be...tween April 1st and June 20th following. If an install...ment be not paid when due, a penalty of fifteen per cent ...is added. On failing to pay three semi-annual payments ...the land becomes delinquent, and is sold by the treas...urer. Owner can redeem in two years by paying the ...amount for which the land was sold, all taxes and in...terest and a penalty of fifteen per cent if redeemed with...in one year, and twenty-five per cent if within two years.

XXII. WAGES:

The personal earnings of a person who is the head of a ...family, for services rendered within three months before ...the commencement of the action, if brought before a jus...tice of the peace, cannot be attached.

Actions for wages are first in order of trial by the ...Court of Common Pleas. Every administrator must pay ...wages earned by laborers within twelve months pre...ceding the death of the party for whom such labor was ...performed, in full, not exceeding one hundred and fifty ...dollars, before paying the general creditors. Assignees ...in insolvency must, in like manner pay laborers and ...operatives any amount due for wages earned in twelve ...months preceding the assignment, not exceeding three ...hundred dollars.

Laborers and employes at any manual service have a ...lien upon the real property of their employers for their ...wages superior to other liens taken or attaching during ...the existence of such unpaid labor claims, and superior ...to all claims of homestead and other exemptions, except ...property exempt from execution. But to secure this lien, ...each employe must within thirty days from the expiration ...of three months after performing any portion of said ...labor file with the recorder of the county a verified ...itemized statement of the kind and value of the labor ...performed within such period, with all credits and offsets, ...and the amount then due him. This statement, when ...recorded, becomes a lien on all the employer's real estate, ...by statutory provision. In all cases where property of ...an employer is placed in the hands of an assignee, re...ceiver or trustee, claims due for labor performed within ...three months prior to the time such assignee, receiver ...or trustee is appointed must first be paid out of the trust ...fund in preference to all other claims, except taxes and ...costs of administering the trust.

Miners' earnings must in general be paid twice a month, at the place where the labor was performed, and such payment must comprise all the wages earned to within ten days of the time of payment, but the employer may retain at each payment whatever amount the employe may direct from his or her wages for rent, powder, tools, tool sharpening or oil, due said employer. Paying wages in scrip, or compelling the employee to buy goods at the employer's store may in either case be punished as a misdemeanor.

XXIII. WILLS:

Any person of full age, sound mind, and not under restraint, may make a will, disposing of any property, real or personal, belonging to the testator. If any testator leave issue of the body or adopted child, any bequest or devise to an educational, religious or charitable purpose, or to any state or municipal corporation, or in trust for such purpose, is invalid, unless such will shall have been executed at least one year prior to the death of the testator. All wills, except nuncupative, must be in writing and signed at the end thereof by the party making the same, or by other person in his presence, by his express direction, and be attested and subscribed in the presence of one or more competent witnesses who saw the testator subscribe, or heard him acknowledge the same.

No will is effectual to pass real or personal estate until it has been duly admitted to probate, and no devisee shall take his devise if, knowing the existence of the will and having the power to compel its production, he fail for three years to produce, or cause its production for probate and record. The rule in "Shelley's Case," as to wills, is abrogated.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

Corporations can only be formed under general laws. Each stockholder in a corporation for profit is liable to creditors for any amount of unpaid stock, and for an additional amount equal to the stock subscribed. This liability can only be enforced equally among solvent stockholders. Each stockholder is entitled to one vote for each share of his stock, unless it be provided in the certificate of incorporation that he shall be entitled to but one vote irrespective of the amount of stock he may own.

Corporations for profit may be formed for the transaction of any lawful business, for which individuals may associate themselves to do. But articles of incorporation for the purposes of buying and selling real estate shall expire in twenty-five years.

II. ORGANIZATION:

A corporation for profit may be formed by five or more natural persons, a majority of them being citizens of Ohio. They must subscribe and acknowledge before any officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds, articles of incorporation, which must contain: 1. The corporate name, beginning with the word "The" and ending with the word "Company." 2. The place where it is to be located or its principal business to be transacted. 3. The purpose for which it is formed. 4. The amount of the capital stock and the number of shares into which it is divided.

When the organization is for the purpose of constructing an improvement not to be located at a single place, the articles must set forth: 1. The kind of improvement intended to be constructed. 2. The termini of the improvement and the counties in or through which it or its branches shall pass.

The articles of incorporation are filed with the Secretary of State for record, and copies thereof duly certified are prima facie evidence of the existence of the corporation. The filing of the articles constitutes the persons named therein a body corporate with the usual powers. As soon as ten per cent of the capital is subscribed the subscribers shall certify that fact to the Secretary of State in writing and call a meeting of the stockholders for the election of directors, giving thirty days' notice in a newspaper of general circulation, or published in the county or counties where books of subscription are to be opened. The number of directors must not be less than five nor more than seven, and when elected continue in office until the next annual election, or their successors are chosen and qualified. Notice of such meeting may be waived in writing if all the subscribers are present in person or proxy. All directors and executive officers must be stockholders and a majority of them residents of the State of Ohio. The foregoing is a brief outline of the method of corporate organization. (Volume I, Revised Statutes Ohio, Sections 3232 to 3247 inclusive.)

III. POWERS:

Any company heretofore incorporated or that may hereafter be incorporated under the laws of this State, for the purpose of mining or boring in the earth for petroleum or rock oil, salt, or other vegetable, medicinal or mineral fluid, or for refining or purifying the same; quarrying stone, marble, or slate; mining coal, iron, copper, lead or other minerals, or manufacturing the same, or engaged in the manufacturing of articles composed in the whole of iron or part of iron and wood; or for manufacturing cotton or woolen fabrics in whole or in part, or both; and carrying on business connected with the main objects of such corporation may, in its corporate name, take, hold and convey such real estate and personal estate as are necessary or convenient for the purpose for which it was incorporated, and may carry on its business, or so much thereof as is convenient, in any county in this State, or beyond the limits of this State, and may there hold any real or personal estate necessary or convenient for conducting the same.

The directors of any such company may authorize its president, or other proper officer, to purchase or subscribe for, in the name of the company, such an amount of the stocks of any railroad, or other transportation company as they deem necessary, in order to procure proper facilities for transportation for the manufactories, mines, or other works of the company; but the written consent of the holders of two-thirds the capital stock of the company to such subscription or purchase must first be had.

Any two or more such corporations may be consolidated. When such agreement for consolidation has been duly ratified in the manner specified in the preceding section, the corporation so agreeing to surrender its name and rights shall cease to be a corporation, and to exercises corporate rights. Such companies are authorized to construct railroads, but cannot condemn the right of way.

IV. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

No foreign corporation shall transact business in Ohio without a certificate from the Secretary of State, in whose office the corporation must first file a sworn copy of its charter or certificate of its incorporation, and a statement under its corporate seal setting forth the amount of its capital stock, the business which the corporation purposes to conduct in Ohio, a place within the State for its principal place of business, and designating some person upon whom service of process can be made according to the code of civil procedure. A foreign corporation failing to comply with this statute cannot maintain an action in the courts of Ohio.

MINING.

I. MAPS AND PLANS:

The agent or owner of any mine having an excavation of fifteen thousand cubic yards or more shall make an accurate map of the workings of such mine on a scale of not less than two hundred feet to the inch, showing the area excavated and its relation to adjoining lands, the names of the owner or owners of such lands, if known, marked on the map, and renewing such map annually, show the progress and plan of each mine for the year. Said map shall be open to the mine inspector, and unless it be made within sixty days after notice, such owner is liable to a fine of five dollars for each day until such map is made.

II. OUTLETS AND VENTILATION:

Every mine worked by shaft shall have at least two outlets to every seam of coal worked in the mine, and not nearer together than one hundred feet, by which distinct means of ingress and egress are always available to persons employed therein. This provision is not applicable to opening a new mine where not more than twenty persons are employed at a time. These outlets must be furnished with such machinery as may be necessary for the purpose as is provided from time to time by statute. Such agent or owner of every coal mine, shaft, slope or drift shall maintain ventilation of not less than 100 cubic feet per minute to each person working in such mine, and so circulate and distribute the same, as to expel the noxious and poisonous air from all the working places in the mine; make a break through every sixty feet of advance; close air-tight all break-throughs except the last made, and keep the current of air sweeping to the interior of the mine. The statute also provides for speaking tubes in deep shafts, cages, proper gates, safety catches for the cages, and passage wings at bottom of shaft so that persons boarding or leaving the cages may have unobstructed way.

No boy under twelve years of age shall be permitted to work in a mine, nor shall any boy between twelve and sixteen be so permitted if he cannot read and write.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACTIONS:

There is but one form of action, known as a civil action. The distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity are abolished. Actions may be commenced in courts of record by filing a petition and causing a summons to issue thereon. The praecipe for summons should state the amount for which judgment is demanded.

II. AFFIDAVITS:

May be made out of the Territory before any judge, justice or chancellor of a court of record, a justice of the peace, notary, mayor or chief magistrate of a city or town corporate; a commissioner appointed by the Governor of the Territory, or any person authorized by a special commission from the Territory. In the Territory, may be taken before the same officers, and in addition, before a county clerk.

III. ALIENS:

There is no discrimination against aliens.

IV. APPEALS:

Lie from justices of the peace and Probate Courts to the District Court. On questions of law only, where the amount involved is more than one hundred dollars and not exceeding one thousand dollars appeals may be taken from the Probate Court direct to the Supreme Court in the same manner as appeals from the District Court. Where the amount or value in controversy exceeds five thousand dollars appeals lie from Supreme Court of Territory to United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and also to the Supreme Court of the United States direct.

V. ARRESTS:

A party may be arrested for debt when the same was fraudulently contracted, or where he is fraudulently making away with or concealing his property, or converting it into money, to defraud his creditors.

VI. ASSIGNMENTS:

Must be for the benefit of all creditors. If there be any preference the property of the insolvent is thereby converted into a trust fund to be administered in equity for the benefit of all creditors. A debtor may prefer creditors in the usual way, however, as by mortgage. The statute does not prohibit such preferences.

VII. ATTACHMENT:

The plaintiff may have an attachment at or after the commencement of suit in the following cases, when the defendant, or one of several defendants: 1. Is a foreign corporation, or non-resident of the Territory; but no attachment shall issue on this ground for any claim other than a demand arising upon a contract, judgment or decree, unless the cause of action arose wholly within the Territory, which fact must be established upon the trial. 2. Has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors. 3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of summons. 4. So conceals himself that service cannot be had upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors. 6. Is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 7. Has property, or rights of action, which he conceals. 8. Has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with the intent to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors. 9. Has fraudulently contracted the debt, liability, or obligation, for which suit has been, or is about to be brought.

Attachment issues also: 1. Where the damages for which the action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of a felony or misdemeanor, or the seduction of a female. 2. When the debtor has failed to pay the price or value of an article or thing delivered, which, by contract, he was bound to pay for on delivery.

Where the claim is not yet due plaintiff may have an attachment if the debtor has sold, conveyed or otherwise disposed of his property, with the intent to cheat or defraud his creditors, or delay them in the collection of their debts, or is about to make such disposition of his property with such intent, or is about to remove his property or a material part thereof with such intent.

In all cases of attachment an undertaking must be given to the satisfaction of the clerk, in a sum not exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, to the effect that the plaintiff will pay the defendant all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, if the order be wrongfully obtained. Attachments have priority in the order in which they are delivered to the sheriff. Garnishment proceedings may be prosecuted in conjunction with direct attachment, but municipal corporations are exempt. By a recent act of the legislature, which went into effect March 8th, 1895, all debts fraudulently contracted are deemed to be due at the time when they are contracted.

VIII. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

The executor or administrator must give notice by publication to all persons having claims against said estate to exhibit them, such notice to be published not less than once a week for four weeks. Claims must be presented within six months after first publication of said notice when estate exceeds in value five thousand dollars, and four months when it does not. Proof of due notice to creditors must be filed with the court, and upon such proof, the court enters a decree to that effect. Claims for debts not due must be presented within one month after due. Claims due must be supported by the affidavit of the claimant or some one in his behalf, to the effect "that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon which are not credited, and that there are no offsets to the same, to the knowledge of the claimant or affiant." If a claim not due, when presented, or be contingent, the particulars of same must be stated. If affidavit is not made by the claimant, the affiant must state the reasons why it is not made. If a claim is rejected by the administrator or court, suit must be brought in a court having jurisdiction thereof within three months, or if not due, within two months after it becomes due, or be forever barred. If made to appear by affidavit that a creditor had no notice, by reason of being out of the Territory, such a claim may be presented at any time before decree of distribution. Any claim for a deficiency or balance due, after the sale of mortgaged or pledged property, must be presented within one month after deficiency is ascertained.

IX. DEEDS:

Deeds of real property or interests therein must be executed by husband and wife. To entitle them to be admitted to record they must be acknowledged before a notary public, judge of the United States court of record or the clerk thereof; or judge or clerk of a State court of record; or a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this Territory to take acknowledgments; or some officer authorized by the laws of the state or territory where the acknowledgment is taken to take acknowledgments. If taken in the Territory, mayors of cities, registers of deeds, county clerks, justices of the peace, county auditors and United States commissioners may also take the acknowledgment.

Instruments duly acknowledged may be recorded with the register of deeds of the proper county, and when so recorded impart notice to all persons of their contents, and may be read in evidence without further authentication. Deeds by corporations must be under their seal, signed by the presiding officer thereof, and may be acknowledged and recorded as other deeds are. Powers of attorney to convey land must be executed the same as deeds, but if the power be granted by a corporation, the corporate seal need not be affixed to the deed made by its attorney, though it must be to the instrument creating the power. If the grantor in a deed be a single person the notary should so certify. No particular form of deed is required. In a warranty deed subsequently acquired title inures to the benefit of the grantee. In quit-claim deeds the grantee takes subject to outstanding equities, but all the interest of the grantor passes.

X. DEPOSITIONS:

Are taken on notice or special commission. Notice must allow adverse party sufficient time to attend by usual route, and one day for preparation, exclusive of Sunday and day of service. Notice may be given to a non-resident by publication for three successive weeks.

Depositions may be taken out of the Territory by judge of a court of record, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor of a corporate town, commissioner appointed by the Governor of this Territory to take depositions, or a special commissioner from the Territory. The officer must not be a relative or attorney of either party, or interested in the proceeding. The special commissioner mentioned above may be appointed by a court of record or the judge thereof, and the commission is issued by the clerk, under the seal of the court. Depositions taken before him must be upon written interrogatories, unless the parties otherwise agree. Depositions can only be used where the witness does not reside in the county where the action is pending for trial, or where the witness is dead, or cannot, by reason of age, infirmity, or imprisonment, attend the trial; or when the evidence is to be used upon motion. The deposition must be written in the presence of the officer taking the same, either by him, the witness, or some disinterested person, and subscribed by the witness.

XI. DESCENT:

The estate of any person dying without having disposed of his estate by will, subject to the payment of his debts, descends in the following manner: 1. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child; if husband or wife survives and more than one child or one child and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the surviving husband or wife, and remainder in equal shares to the children, and to issue of deceased children by right of representation; but if there be no child of decedent living at his death, the remainder goes to his lineal descendants, who, in the same degree of kindred to decedent, share equally, otherwise, they take by representation. If neither husband nor wife survives the whole estate goes to issue, per capita if more than one, and to children of deceased issue by right of representation. 2. If decedent leave no issue, the estate goes in equal shares to surviving husband or wife, and to decedent's father, and if neither issue nor surviving spouse, whole estate goes to decedent's father. If there be no father, then one-half goes in equal shares to the mother, if living, brothers and sisters of deceased, and to the children of any thereof deceased by right of representation. 3. If neither issue, spouse nor parents survive decedent, estate goes in equal shares to brothers and sisters of decedent and to the children of such deceased, by right of representation. If the mother survive, she takes an equal share with the brothers and sisters. 4. If decedent leave neither issue, spouse, father, nor brothers or sisters living, the estate goes to his mother to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of the deceased brothers or sisters. 5. If decedent leave surviving spouse, and neither issue, parents, brothers, nor sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving spouse; and if none of these survive, the estate must go to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestors must be preferred to those claiming though an ancestor more remote. However: 6. If any surviving child of decedent dies under age, and unmarried, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from the decedent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parents, and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation; and if all such other children are also dead, and any of them left issue, the estate which came to such child by inheritance from the dead parent descends to said issue of all other children of the same parents; and if all the issue are in the same degree of kindred to the said sole child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take by representation. 7. If decedent leave no husband, wife, or kindred, the estate escheats to the Territory for the support of common schools. Dower and curtesy are abolished.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

To the head of every family there is exempt: Homestead of one hundred and sixty acres in the country or one acre in a town, with improvements thereon; tools and apparatus of trade or profession; library, pictures, and wearing apparel; five cows and their calves under six months old; one yoke of oxen with yokes or chains, two horses (or mules), one wagon, cart, or dray, and one carriage or buggy; one gun, ten hogs, twenty sheep, saddles and harness; provisions for family and stock for one year; and wages and earnings for personal or professional services for ninety days preceding date of seizure. Exemption does not apply to non-resident, or to a debtor who is removing his family from the Territory, or who has absconded with his family.

To a single person not the head of a family is exempt: Wearing apparel, tools and books of trade or profession; one horse, bridle and saddle, or one yoke of oxen, and current wages. Pension money also is exempt.

No exemption is allowed for taxes, purchase money of homestead, for work or material used in construction on or improving the same, or for mortgaged indebtedness; but in the last two cases the consent in writing of the wife must be had in the same manner as to conveyances of land. There is also no exemption for rents, or advancements made by landlord, nor for the wages of any clerk, mechanic, laborer or servant.

XIII. GARNISHMENT:

A municipal corporation cannot be garnisheed. A creditor may proceed by garnishment against any person who shall be indebted to or have in his possession or under his control any property belonging to the debtor, either at the time of the issuing of the summons or at any time thereafter before final judgment, in any action to recover damages founded upon contract, express or implied, and upon a judgment or decree, by making, or having made in his behalf, and filing with the clerk of the court, an affidavit stating the amount of his claim over and above all set-offs, that he verily believes that the person proceeded against in garnishment is indebted to or has property, real or personal, in his possession or under his control belonging to the defendant, that the defendant has not property liable to execution sufficient to satisfy his claim, and that the property or indebtedness of the person proceeded against in garnishment is not exempt from seizure on execution. If the garnishee shall fail to make affidavit of rebuttal and shall in fact be indebted to the defendant or have property belonging to him, he shall make an affidavit setting forth the facts in reference to such indebtedness or property, but if he fail to do so the court will render judgment against him for the whole amount of the judgment which the plaintiff shall recover against the defendant, together with all costs.

XIV. INTEREST:

The legal rate is seven per cent; but there is no limitation upon the contract rate. Usury is abolished. Judgments draw the original contract rate up to twelve per cent. If no rate be contracted for judgments draw seven per cent.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments of courts of record are liens upon real estate from the first day of the term, except where rendered by confession or at same term in which cases are commenced, in which cases they are liens from date of rendering judgment. Unless execution be taken out within a year, the lien lapses. Judgments become dormant in five years from date of rendition or from last execution, and cease to be a lien. They may be revived in one year after becoming dormant by notice and motion. Judgments of justices may be filed in the District Court of the county where rendered, and thence certified to other District Courts. When so filed or certified, they have the same force and effect as if originally rendered in the District Court. Such a lien dates from the time of filing transcript, and execution on such judgment can only issue from the District Court.

XVI. JURISDICTION OF COURTS:

Justices of the peace have criminal jurisdiction of examining magistrates and in civil cases up to one hundred dollars.

The Probate Court has general probate jurisdiction and civil jurisdiction concurrent with the District Court up to one thousand dollars; also criminal jurisdiction in misdemeanors and powers of an examining magistrate.

The District Courts have a general chancery and common law jurisdiction; also the jurisdiction of the Circuit and Districts Courts of the United States. The judges of the District Courts constitute the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court has general appellate powers.

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

Actions upon contracts not in writing, and upon liabilities created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, must be brought within three years; on contracts in writing, within five years; for trespass upon real property, taking and detaining personal property or injuries thereto, fraud, injuries to rights of another not otherwise provided for, within two years, but time does not run against fraud until it is discovered; for libel, slander, assault or assault and battery, malicious prosecution, or false imprisonment, within one year; on official bonds, and undertakings in attachment, or injunction, within five years; forcible entry and detainer, within two years; actions to recover real property (not sold for taxes), within fifteen years, but if property was sold for taxes, two years from date of recording tax deed. Other actions, within five years.

The statute does not run while party is out of Territory, or conceals himself so that he cannot be sued. If the action fails otherwise than upon the merits thereof, plaintiff has one year in which to commence a new action. Part payment, or acknowledgment and promise in writing to pay a debt, renews it. All actions barred without the Territory barred here.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Of real estate must be signed by husband and wife if on homestead. ("IX. Deeds.") They can only be foreclosed by suit, and may stipulate for attorney's fees.

Chattel mortgages are good for three years, and may be renewed by affidavit. Must be witnessed by two witnesses, but need not be acknowledged. To affect persons without notice the deed must be filed with the register of deeds of the county wherein the property is located.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

A negotiable instrument may be with or without a date, and with or without designation of time or place of payment; may contain a pledge, or collateral security, with authority to dispose of the same; but must not contain any other contract than such as is specified by law. If no time of payment is specified, payment is due immediately; and if no place of payment is designated it is payable at the residence or place of business of the maker, or at any place where he may be found. The signature of every drawer, acceptor, and indorser is presumed to have been made for a valuable consideration before the maturity of the instrument in the ordinary course of business. Demand for payment upon the principal debtor is not necessary to charge him.

Three days of grace are allowed, Sundays and holidays excluded, unless there is an express stipulation to the contrary on all bills or drafts, payable at sight, whether foreign or inland; all promissory notes, bills of exchange and drafts on the face of which time is specified, and all notes due on demand after demand is made. Presentment for acceptance must be made by the holder or his agent on a business day at a reasonable hour to the drawee, or, if he is absent from his residence or business, to some person having charge or employed at his place of business.

XX. REDEMPTION:

From tax sale, two years from date of sale, or at any time before deed is executed. No redemption from mortgage foreclosure.

XXI. REPLEVIN:

An order of replevin is issued upon affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, showing: 1. Description of the property. 2. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property or has a special ownership or interest therein, stating the facts in relation thereto, and that he is entitled to the immediate possession thereof. 3. That the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant. 4. That it was not taken under an execution, on any order of attachment against the plaintiff, or for the payment of any tax, fine, or amercement assessed against him, or by virtue of an order of delivery issued under Article 10 of the Statute, or any other mesne or final process issued against the plaintiff. 5. If taken on execution or any order of attachment against the plaintiff, that it is exempt by law from being so taken. 6. Actual value of the property, and where several articles are claimed, the value of each shall be stated as nearly as practicable.

The order is not issued until an undertaking is filed with the clerk by plaintiff with sufficient sureties in not less than double the value of the property, to the effect that the plaintiff will duly prosecute his action and pay all costs and damages which may be awarded against him, and if the property be delivered to him that he will return the same to the defendant if return thereof be adjudged.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Private corporations for mining, quarrying and other business purposes are created by filing with the Secretary of the Territory a copy of the articles of incorporation, setting forth the name, purpose, principal place of business, term, number, names and residences of directors and the amount of capital stock and number of shares, which articles must be subscribed by at least three persons, one-third of whom must be residents of the Territory, upon which the Secretary of the Territory issues the certificate of incorporation. A corporation must begin business within one year from the date of its charter.

Mining and manufacturing corporations are organized as other corporations and are subject to their duties and liabilities, but their term of existence shall not exceed twenty years. Such corporations may have their business office within or without this Territory. They may have a right of way to run a tunnel to any place they may desire. They must begin work within ninety days from the date of the charter and finish within two years or forfeit all right save as to lands owned by such corporations. If the corporation has its place of business in the Territory it shall be allowed four years in which to complete the work.

Every grant of corporate power is subject to alteration, suspension or repeal in the discretion of the legislature. Corporations may be dissolved in the usual way.

II. OFFICERS:

There must be not less than three nor more than eleven directors, who shall be elected for one year and shall be stockholders.

III. DIVIDENDS:

No dividend shall be declared except from surplus profit, and any director who shall permit any dividend from the capital stock, or create any debt beyond the capital stock, shall be liable personally to any party damaged, unless he shall cause his dissent to be entered on the minutes. Any officer making a false representation in an official report or on the books of the corporation shall be liable to any person for all damages he may sustain.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The capital stock may be increased or diminished by a two-thirds vote, but shall in no case be decreased to a less amount than the indebtedness. Stock is negotiable, but only affects third parties when transferred on the books of the association.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Each stockholder of a corporation is individually and personally liable for the debts of the corporation to the extent of the amount that is unpaid upon the stock held by him.

Stockholders in mining and manufacturing corporations are jointly and severally liable in their individual capacities for all debts due to mechanics, workmen or laborers employed by such corporations; and said liability may be enforced at any time after an execution against the corporation has been returned unsatisfied. This action must be commenced within four months, and the stockholders are liable for contribution to each other.

VI. RECORDS AND REPORTS:

Every such corporation must once each year publish a statement of its business, indebtedness and profits.

The Legislature may at any time cause an investigation of the affairs of a corporation. A corporation must keep a record of its business proceedings, which shall be open to every member and creditor.

VII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

No foreign corporation shall transact any business in this Territory until it shall have filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory an authenticated copy of its charter and shall have appointed an agent to reside in the Territory. A duly authenticated copy of the appointment of such agent shall be filed with the Secretary of the Territory and with the register of deeds of the county where such agent resides.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS: ("VII. Deeds.")

II. ALIENS:

Can take, hold and sell real and personal property as if they were native born Canadians.

III. ASSIGNMENT:

There is no insolvent or bankruptcy act in Canada. Provincial acts provide for a ratable distribution of the estate of the insolvent among his creditors. Gift, conveyance, or transfer of goods, chattels, effects, bonds, notes, securities, or of any other property, real or personal, made by a person in insolvent circumstances, to give any creditor a preference, is illegal and void. Any person may make an assignment for the benefit of creditors to the sheriff of the county, or to any other permanent resident of the Province, with the assent of the creditors. Notice must be sent to all creditors by the assignee. Claims are proved by affidavit, and any securities held by the creditors must be mentioned in the affidavit and valued. Wages or salary to the extent of three months have priority over other claims. A debtor cannot obtain a discharge without the consent of every creditor. A chose in action may be assigned by any form of writing.

IV. ATTACHMENT:

Lies where a debtor is about to remove his goods from one county to another or out of the Province with intent to defeat or defraud his creditors, or to avoid arrest. The attachment is obtained upon affidavit proving that fact to the satisfaction of the judge. A resident debtor in Ontario who leaves the Province, possessed to his own use of any real or personal property, is deemed an absconding debtor; and his personal property may be seized and taken by a judge's order, upon affidavit setting forth the facts. Debts due to the debtor may be attached by garnishee process.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Wills are proved and letters of administration are granted by the Surrogate Court of the county wherein the deceased had his last place of abode. Security is to be given in the case of administration of the estate of a deceased intestate. All debts are paid pari passu. Foreign executors have to prove the deceased's will, or administer the estate in this Province by taking out letters of administration with the will annexed. Claims are enforced by suing the appointed executor or administrator. Succession duties are imposed.

VI. COURTS AND FEES:

In the Superior Courts and the County Courts actions are commenced by writ of summons. The County Courts have jurisdiction where the claim is liquidated or acknowledged by the defendant up to four hundred dollars. Unliquidated claims up to one hundred dollars, claims liquidated or acknowledged by the defendant up to two hundred dollars, and damages to the extent of sixty dollars can be sued for in the Division Courts. Defendants residing in Ontario have ten days to appear to the writ of summons in the Superior and County Courts. If residing without the jurisdiction the time for appearance is regulated by rule of the court but may be shortened by order of the court on application made for that purpose. Where the claim is for a debt or liquidated demand and especially endorsed on the writ final judgment may be signed on default of appearance, and execution against goods and lands may be issued forthwith; where the defendant has no defense speedy judgment and execution may be had after the appearance has been entered upon a motion made to the court, upon affidavits proving the claim and that there is no defense.

In the Division Courts there are no pleadings and the court sits frequently. In suits in these courts only disbursements are recoverable by the successful party; and fees ranging from two dollars and a half to six dollars, according to the amount of the debt, have to be paid to the clerk of the court on entering the claim for suit. These payments generally cover all the court costs in a suit, the bailiff's fees, etc., but not solicitor's fees.

Priority amongst judgment creditors has been abolished so far as regards the rights of those placing writs of execution in the sheriff's hands within one month after any levy by him; and each of such are entitled to a proportionate share of such levy. Speedy judgment and execution is still very desirable. Plaintiffs resident without the Province of Ontario may be compelled to give security for costs, usually by bond of two or more properly qualified persons resident within the jurisdiction of the court, in the sum of four hundred dollars in the High Court, and two hundred dollars in the County Court, or by paying into court half the amount required by bond.

VII. DEEDS:

Every deed must be under seal. One witness is sufficient. It should be in duplicate so that it may be registered. An affidavit, or acknowledgment of execution, made by the witness must be endorsed or attached before registration can be effected. The affidavit may be made in any foreign country, before the mayor of any city, borough or town corporate, certified under the common seal; or before any British consul or vice-consul resident in such country, or before a judge of a court of record, or a notary public, certified under his official seal.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Commissions for taking evidence of absent, non-resident or other witnesses unable to attend for testimony at the place or time of trial of any cause, issue from the Queen's Bench, Chancery or Common Pleas Division of the High Court of Justice. Instructions as to the execution of the commission are contained within it.

IX. DESCENT:

The real and personal estate of an intestate goes, if widow and children survive, one-third to the widow absolutely, and the residue equally amongst the children, or, if dead, to their lineal descendants. If no children, then half to the widow and the remainder to the next of kin. If no widow, all goes to children, and if neither widow nor children, all to the next of kin and their representatives. In the case of wife dying without children, one-half goes to the husband. Her separate estate, in case she leaves a husband and children surviving, is distributable in the same manner as is the property of a husband dying intestate.

X. EXECUTION:

May issue forthwith upon the signing of judgment, and remain in force for three years; and may be renewed. The execution binds the debtor's goods, and forms a lien on and binds his lands in the county to the sheriff of which the execution is directed, from the time of the delivery of the writ to the sheriff. Goods are to be disposed of before lands. The sheriff cannot sell lands within less than twelve months from the delivery of the execution to him. Executions are payable in the order in which they have been delivered to the sheriff, subject to the operation of the "Creditors' Relief Act" which provides for equal distribution among creditors whose writs are in the sheriff's hands within thirty days after levy.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

Bed and bedding and wearing apparel of debtor and family, stove and furnishings, and other articles of household furniture to the value of one hundred and fifty dollars; fuel and provisions to the value of forty dollars; one cow, and some other domestic animals not exceeding in value seventy-five dollars in all, and feed for thirty days; the tools and implements ordinarily used in the debtor's occupation to the value of one hundred dollars, and fifteen hives of bees.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

Lands acquired under the "Free Grant and Homestead Act" are exempt from seizure and sale for debt for a period of twenty years from the date of location of land, when owned by locatee or his widow, heirs or devisees.

XIII. INTEREST:

Six per cent per annum is the legal rate of interest unless a greater rate has been agreed upon, which can be collected. Where no rate of interest has been agreed upon the legal rate only is recoverable. There are no usury laws in force. Banks cannot recover more than seven per cent on mortgages; and are entitled to six per cent per annum on overdue paper.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Any resident may be sued on a cause of action arising in a foreign country, and the plaintiff may sue either on a foreign judgment or the original cause of action. Where the service in the original foreign action has been personal, no defense that might have been set up to the original suit shall be pleaded to that brought on the original judgment. A judgment recovered against any person outside of the Province, even though it be in any other province of the Dominion, is a foreign judgment. A judgment 'stands for twenty years and may be renewed. Where a foreign judgment is sued upon, the action must be brought within six years, otherwise it will be barred by the statute of limitations.

XV. LIENS:

Mechanics, machinists, contractors, builders, architects, etc., are entitled to place liens on buildings for work done and materials furnished. The liens are registered in the local registry office during the progress of the building or within one month after completion or the furnishing of the material. Liens for wages can also be registered in like manner. All liens must be enforced within ninety days by action in the High Court of Justice or in the County or Division Courts. Mechanics are entitled to a lien upon a chattel for work thereon, and may sell the chattel after three months if the work is not paid for. If the chattel is delivered to the owner the lien ceases.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on contracts, book accounts, notes and other instruments not under seal for arrears of rent and for interest on money charged on land, must be commenced within six years from the time right of action accrued, or payment on account, or acknowledgment of such indebtedness in writing. Actions of trespass, assault and battery, wounding and imprisonment, within four years; and of slander within two years next after the cause of action arose. Actions to recover money due upon a mortgage, or for money charged upon land, must be commenced within ten years from the accruing of the right to receive it, or the time of part payment, or acknowledgment in writing. Actions to recover land must be commenced within ten years.

Provision is made for parties being under disability, lunatics, minors, etc. Five years are allowed from the time of expiration of disability, or death, but twenty years bar all claimants.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

Without marriage settlement, retain all their property free from debts and control of husbands. A woman married since March 2, 1872, may hold any property free from any estate or claim of her husband, during her life. Personal earnings of a married woman are protected. They may be held and disposed of as if she were a femme sole. She may hold stock and make deposits in banks, etc., draw checks in her own name, and make a valid will. Separate examinations in case of disposal of real estate are now unnecessary, and a judge may order that her husband's concurrence, in case he be a lunatic or living apart from her, may be dispensed with. Every married woman's separate estate is liable for any debt incurred by her before marriage. She may sue or be sued alone in respect of her separate property, or on contracts made with herself.

XVIII. MORTGAGES AND BILLS OF SALE:

Such deeds in order to be valid must be filed with the clerk of the County Court of the county within which the goods are situate, within five days from the day of execution by the mortgagor. There must be an affidavit proving such execution, and also of the mortgagee or bargainee proving the bona fides of the debt for which the mortgage or bill of sale was given. This affidavit should not be made until the instrument is executed. The goods covered by a chattel mortgage are subject to the landlord's priority for rent. A chattel mortgage will be void as against creditors and purchasers if not renewed from year to year by the filing of a statement exhibiting the interest of the mortgagee, and an affidavit showing that the mortgage has not been kept alive for any fraudulent purpose. In the case of real estate mortgages, the same formalities for execution and acknowledgment as for deeds are required. They can be enforced by foreclosure or sale, and to preserve priority must be registered in the proper office. After foreclosure or sale, there is no redemption.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

No stamps are now necessary. The law in reference to these instruments is very similar to that prevailing in the United States. A demand draft is without days of grace. A sight draft is entitled to three days of grace. Notice of dishonor is necessary to hold the endorser, but not the maker. A bill or note falling due on a legal holiday (Sunday, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Queen's Birthday, or any day made a holiday by royal proclamation) is payable on the following day.

XX. TAXES:

Lands are liable to be sold after three years for non-payment of taxes. One year from sale is allowed for redemption. The purchaser at tax sale, on redemption (within the year), is entitled to ten per cent interest in addition to the amount paid by him. Each tax collector may levy by distress upon the goods of the person liable to pay the taxes, or upon the goods of the occupant of the premises, except upon goods exempt from seizure under execution, and belonging to other parties, on consignment for sale only.

XXI. WILLS:

Every person of sound mind and over twenty-one years of age may make a will. It must be in writing and must be signed by the testator at the end, or in case he is incapacitated from writing, by some one acting on his direction. Two witnesses are necessary, who should be disinterested. Any devise or legacy to a witness is void, but the devisee or legatee is competent as a witness. The witnesses must sign the will in the presence of each other and of the testator. Marriage of the testator or testatrix revokes a will, except one made in the exercise of a power of appointment.

MINING.

I. ACTS:

The laws relating to mines, mining and mining regulations in this Province have been consolidated and are embraced in the "Mines Act, 1892," and the "Mines and Mining Lands Act, 1894."

II. CROWN TITLE:

Mines and minerals upon land located, sold or granted within the limits of the free grant territory are reserved from the location and are the property of the Crown.

In any letters patent for lands granted under the "Public Lands Act" for agricultural purposes after May 4th, 1891, mines, minerals and mining rights are reserved and are constituted a property separate from the surface of the soil, unless otherwise provided in the patent or grant from the Crown.

III. DAMAGES:

The "Mines Act, 1892," contemplates that the locatee on Crown lands, as well as the grantee or lessee, is entitled to compensation for injury or damage to the surface rights at the hands of the owner or lessee of the mining rights thereafter granted in respect of the same land, and it empowers the director of mines to order and prescribe the manner in which such compensation shall be assessed and awarded.

IV. SURFACE AND MINING RIGHTS:

Where the mines, minerals and mining rights are reserved to the Crown, the owner of any surface rights (if a patent has not been granted or applied for) may make application and shall have priority in respect of such application for a mining lease or grant thereof, upon payment to the department of the purchase money or rent. Valuators appointed by the Director of Mines shall settle disputes arising between the owner of the surface rights and the owner of the mine.

V. MINERALS ON CROWN LANDS:

Any person or persons may explore for mines or minerals on any Crown lands, surveyed or unsurveyed, and not for the time being marked or staked out and occupied as hereinafter mentioned.

Crown lands supposed to contain ores or minerals may be sold as mining lands or may when situate within a mining division be occupied and worked as "mining claims" under miners' licenses. Such lands so sold, when situate in unsurveyed territory or in townships surveyed into sections or lots, shall be sold in blocks to be called "mining locations," ("VII. Locations"), or may be leased ("VIII. Leases").

The Commissioner of Crown Lands is empowered to purchase not more than two diamond drills to be used in exploratory drilling for ores or minerals in the Province, under rules and regulations to be made by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. The use of said drills is allowed to parties desiring the same in searching for mineral, upon application to the Bureau of Mines, and payment of certain charges.

VI. CLAIMS:

Any person holding a mining license ("IX. Licenses") shall have the right to stake out within the division mentioned in his license a mining claim on any Crown lands (not already licensed) by planting a wooden or iron picket at each of the four corners thereof. Mining claims shall be laid out uniformly and in quadrilateral and rectangular shapes, and the measurement of all such claims shall be horizontal and of the dimensions specified under "VII. Locations."

Inspectors shall keep books for recording mining claims, which books may be inspected by any person on payment of a fee of twenty cents, and every licensee who has staked out a mining claim shall within thirty days thereafter give notice thereof in writing to the inspector of the division wherein such is located.

The discoverer of a new vein shall be entitled to two mining claims if the discovery is distant (if on a known vein or lode) at least three miles from the nearest known mine or discovery on the same vein or lode.

A party wall fifteen feet thick shall be left between claims and shall be kept clear. Any person removing party walls is bound to construct a new mode of access to the water in no wise more difficult as an approach than the one destroyed by the removal of the party wall. No person shall remove or disturb any stake, picket, or other mark, placed as aforesaid, under penalty of twenty dollars and costs.

No person shall at the same time occupy more than one mining claim on Crown lands, except where mining claims have been rendered temporarily unworkable, in which case the inspector shall on the application of the licensee and on the receipt of one dollar, make an entry in the book to be kept by him of the cause or reason for the claim not being worked.

A mining claim shall be deemed to be forfeited and abandoned in case the annual rent thereof has not been prepaid, or if the mining claim remains unworked for the space of three months after the same has been first staked out, or remains unworked for the space of fifteen days after the expiration of the said three months.

VII. LOCATIONS:

In unsurveyed territory within the districts of Algoma, Thunder Bay and Rainy river, and that part of the district of Nipissing which lies north of the French river, Lake Nipissing and the Mattawa river, every regular mining location shall be rectangular in shape, and the bearings of the outlines thereof shall be due north and south, and east and west astronomically, and such location shall be of one of the following dimensions, viz: Eighty chains in length by forty chains in width, containing three hundred and twenty acres; or forty chains square, containing one hundred and sixty acres; or forty chains in length by twenty chains in width, containing eighty acres; or twenty chains square, containing forty acres.

Where a mining location in the unsurveyed lands in the territory aforesaid borders upon a lake or river, a road allowance of one chain in width shall be reserved along the margin of the lake or river, and the width of the location shall front on the road allowance, and the bearings of the other outlines of the location shall be due north and south, and due east and west astronomically; and the location shall otherwise conform to the requirements of the preceding paragraph as nearly as the nature of the land will admit. But the Commissioner of Crown Lands may, if public interest will not be prejudiced, specially direct that such reservation shall not be made in the case of any island or islands which contain not more than thirty acres.

In townships in the said territory, surveyed, or hereafter to be surveyed into sections or lots, every mining location after such survey shall consist of a half, a quarter, an eighth or a sixteenth of a section or lot as the case may be, but so that the area of such mining location shall not be less than forty acres. In all patents and leases for mining locations in the said territory, there shall be a reservation for roads of five per cent of the quantity of land granted. In the unsurveyed lands not situate within the limits of the said territory mining locations shall be as may be defined by order in council, but so that the area of any such location shall be not less than forty acres. Mining locations in unsurveyed territory must be surveyed by a provincial land surveyor; and be connected with some known point in previous surveys, or with some other known point or boundary (so that the tracts may be laid down on the office maps of the territory in the Department of Crown Lands) at the cost of the applicants, who shall be required to furnish with their application the surveyor's plan, field notes and description thereof, showing a survey in accordance with the act and to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Crown Lands.

The price per acre of all Crown lands to be sold as mining lands or locations in the districts of Algoma, Thunder Bay, Rainy river and that part of the district of Nipissing which lies north of the French river, Lake Nipissing and the Mattawa river shall be: If in a surveyed township and within six miles of any railway, $3; if elsewhere in surveyed territory, $2.50; if within six miles of any railway but in unsurveyed territory, $2.50; and if situate elsewhere in unsurveyed territory, $2. The price per acre of all other Crown lands sold as mining lands or locations and lying south of the aforesaid lake and rivers shall be: If in a surveyed township and within six miles of any railway, $2; and if situate elsewhere, $1.50.

The grantee and owner of any mining location, or lot or parcel sold and patented under the preceding section shall, during the seven years immediately following the issue of the patent therefor, expend in stripping, or in opening up mines, in sinking shafts, or in other actual mining operations, where the quantity contained in the patent exceeds one hundred and sixty acres, four dollars per acre during the first seven years; and where the quantity contained in the patent is one hundred and sixty acres or less, five dollars per acre during the first seven years. The said expenditure may consist of labor actually performed by grown men at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents per day, or of payment therefor, or for explosives or other mining materials for use on the particular parcel of land. In default of such expenditure during the said period, the mines and minerals with the right of access thereto and removal therefrom, and all rights of mining upon, under or connected with any such lot or part or so much thereof as shall be owned by the person who has failed to make the expenditure in respect of the portion or parcel owned by him, shall upon the report of the Director of Mines that such expenditure has not been made, confirmed by an order of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, revert to the Crown. But the grantee or owner shall retain all his other interest in the land or soil as agricultural land, distinct from the mines and minerals.

VIII. LEASES:

Instead of granting any mining lands in fee simple, the same may be leased or demised for a term of ten years with right of renewal for a further term of ten years at the same rental, if the covenants and conditions have been performed and fulfilled. Unless otherwise provided the rental for the first year shall be one dollar per acre, and thereafter the sum of twenty-five cents per acre per annum payable in advance. Such lease may at the expiration of the second term (if conditions have been performed), be renewed for a term of twenty years, at such rental as the regulations shall provide, and so from time to time the same may be renewed at the expiration of every twenty years. There shall be expended in stripping and in opening up mines, or in sinking shafts, or in other actual mining operations, the same sum upon lands leased as is provided shall be expended in case of sales or grants, and within the same time and in default of such expenditure, the lease shall be forfeited and become void. The lessee may at any time during the demised term, upon the payment of all rent due and the performance of all covenants and conditions, become the purchaser of the lands demised to him, and in such case the sum paid as the first year's rental shall be treated as part of the purchase money. If default is made in payment of rent, the lease shall be forfeited and become void; but the lessee may defeat forfeiture by paying rent within ninety days from the date appointed for payment thereof.

The patents of all Crown lands sold as mining lands shall contain a reservation of all pine trees standing or being on said lands, which pine trees shall continue to be the property of Her Majesty, and any person holding license to cut timber or saw logs on such lands may at any time during continuance of such lease enter upon said lands and cut and remove such trees. The patentees and those claiming under them may cut and use such trees as are necessary for building, fencing, and fuel, on the land so patented, or for any other purpose essential to the working of the mines thereon; and may also cut and dispose of all trees in clearing the land for cultivation. All such timber cut for purposes of timber or saw logs shall be subject to dues.

IX. LICENSES:

The Director of the Bureau of Mines may, on payment of a fee of ten dollars, grant to the party applying for the same a license to be called a "miner's license." Every miner's license shall be in force for one year from the date thereof, and shall not be transferable, except with the consent of the Director of the Bureau of Mines; and only one person shall be named therein, who shall be called the licensee, and who, before the expiration of the license, or within not later than ten clear days thereafter, shall have the right to a renewal of the license by the director of the Bureau on payment to him of the like fee of ten dollars, or such other sum as may then be the fee fixed by law or regulation of a miner's license, but in the case of a remote mining division the Commissioner of Crown Lands may authorize and empower the inspector of the division to issue or renew such license. A miner's license shall not be renewed until after the payment of the fee of ten dollars. The licensee has power personally and not through another to mine according to the license, or the licensee may organize a company to work the claims acquired in right of such.

X. MINERAL BOUNTY:

The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars has been appropriated and set apart for the purpose of encouraging miners to open up and work the iron ore deposits of the Province, such moneys being designated and known as the "Iron Mining Fund." The Treasurer of the Province may, with the authority of and under such regulations as may be made from time to time by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, pay out of the said fund, to the miners or producers of ore, upon all iron ores which shall be raised or mined and smelted in the Province for a period of five years from the first day of July, 1894, the equivalent of one dollar per ton of the pig metal product of such ores, subject to regulations governing said payments to be approved by the Legislative Assembly. Should a larger quantity of ore be raised, or mined and smelted in any one year than the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars will be sufficient to meet the payments upon at the rate aforesaid, then payments to the miners or producers thereof shall be made upon a pro rata basis, so that no more than twenty-five thousand dollars shall be paid for the production of ore in any one year.

XI. MINING COMPANIES:

Any mining company may from time to time dispose of shares and stock, at such times, to such persons, on such terms and conditions, at such premium or discount, and in such manner as the directors think advantageous to the company.

Where application is hereafter made to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council for the incorporation by letters patent, under "The Ontario Joint Stock Companies Letters Patent Act," of any company for mining purposes, such letters patent may, if the petition of the applicants so requires, contain a provision that no liability beyond the amount actually paid upon stock in such company by the subscribers thereto or holders thereof shall attach to such subscriber or holder. In such case every certificate of stock issued by the company shall bear upon the face thereof, distinctly written or printed in red ink, after the name of the company, the words: "Incorporated under Section Eighteen of an Act relating to Mines and Mining Lands," and where such stock is issued subject to further assessments, the word: "assessable," or, if not subject to further assessments the word: "non-assessable," as the case may be.

Every mining company, the charter of which contains the said provisions, shall have written or printed on its charter prospectuses, stock certificates, bonds, contracts, agreements, notices, advertisements, and other official publications, and in all bills of exchange, promissory notes, endorsements, checks, and orders for money or goods purporting to be signed by or on behalf of the company, and in all bills of parcels, invoices, and receipts of the company, immediately after or under the name of such company, and shall have engraved upon its seal, the words: "non-personal liability"; and every such company which refuses or knowingly neglects to comply with this provision shall incur a penalty of twenty dollars for every day during which such name is not so kept written or printed, and every director and manager of the company who knowingly and wilfully authorizes or permits such default shall be liable to the like penalty.

In the event of any call or calls on stock in a company so incorporated remaining unpaid by the subscriber thereto or holder thereof for a period of sixty days after notice and demand of payment, such stock may be declared to be in default, and the secretary of the company may advertise such stock for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash.

No shareholder or subscriber for stock in any company so incorporated shall be personally liable for non-payment of any calls made upon his stock, beyond the forfeiture and sale in the event of non-payment of such calls, of the amount, if any, already paid on the stock held or subscribed for; nor shall such shareholder or subscriber be personally liable for any debt contracted by the company or for any sum payable by the company, beyond the amount, if any, paid by him upon such stock.

XII. MINES REGULATIONS:

The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may make such regulations as he deems necessary or expedient, for the appointment of arbitrators or mining boards to hear and determine appeals from the decisions of inspectors of divisions; for the prescribing, defining, and establishing the powers, duties, and modes of procedure of the arbitrators or mining boards; for the opening, construction, maintenance and using of roads through and over mining claims, mining locations or lands hereafter sold as mining lands; and for the opening, construction, maintenance and using of ditches, aqueducts, and raceways through or over such claims, locations or lands, for the conveyance and passage of water for mining purposes; and generally for the carrying out of this act; and such regulations, after publication in the Ontario Gazette, shall have the force and effect of law.

Provision is also made for the prevention of accidents; in regard to the giving notice of opening and abandoning of mines, and for fencing of abandoned mines. The act also defines the duties and powers of inspectors; provides penalties for obstructing inspector; and also provides general rules in regard to ventilation, gunpowder and blasting; spaces in horse roads, fencing of shafts, securing of shafts, safety from water, signaling, overhead covers, chains, hoisting machinery, inclination of ladders, gauges to boilers, and safety valves; and for all other general measures of safety.

XIII. RETURNS:

Returns are to be made by owners of mines and their agents on or before the first of December in every year, to the Bureau of Mines, showing correctly the number of persons ordinarily employed in or about such mine, the quantity in statute weight of the mineral dressed, and of the undressed mineral which has been sold, treated, or used during the year, and the value or estimated value thereof.

XIV. ROYALTIES:

All royalties, taxes or duties, which by any patent issued prior to May 4th, 1891, had been reserved, imposed, or made payable upon or in respect of ores or minerals extracted from the lands granted by such patents and lying within the Province are repealed and abandoned, and such lands, ores and minerals are henceforth free and exempt from every such royalty, tax, or duty; and all reservations of gold and silver mines contained in any patent issued prior to the date aforesaid, granting in fee simple lands situate within the Province, are rescinded; and all such mines in or upon such lands are deemed to have been granted in fee simple as part of such lands, and to have passed with such lands to the subsequent and present owners thereof in fee simple; but the above provisions are not to be construed to apply to lands patented under the "Free Grants and Homestead Act."

All ores and minerals mined, wrought, or taken from lands located, sold, and granted, or leased by the Crown on or after May 4th, 1891, are subject to a royalty to the Crown for the use of the Province, reckoned at the following rates, whether such royalty be reserved in the grant, patent or lease, or not: 1. Silver, nickel, or nickel and copper, three per cent. 2. Iron ore, not exceeding two per cent. 3. All other ores, such royalty as shall be from time to time imposed by order-in-council, not exceeding three per cent. The royalty thus reserved is not imposed or collected upon any ores mined, wrought, or taken, until after seven years from the date of the patent or lease. All royalties must be calculated upon the value of the ores or minerals at the pit's mouth, less the actual cost of labor and explosives for mining, and raising the same to the surface.

The act of 1894 amends the above provision as follows: "There shall be reserved and payable to the Crown on ores and minerals taken from the lands located, sold, granted or leased after the first day of May, 1891, and on ores and minerals taken from all lands which may be hereafter located, sold, granted or leased by the Crown, until the first day of January, 1900, a uniform charge at the rate of two per cent on the ores mentioned in articles (1) and (2) and a charge of not more than two per cent on the ores mentioned in article (3), when imposed by order of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, such charge to be calculated upon the value of the ore, less the actual cost of raising the ore to the surface and the subsequent treatment thereof for the market."

This provision does not apply to the mining lands which may be located, granted, sold or leased by the Crown from and after the first day of January, 1900; or upon or in respect of any mines thereon, or mineral which shall be mined, wrought, or taken therefrom, nor does it require the payment of any charge until after the expiration of the time provided for above, nor until after the expiration of the time, and in the case of original discovery of ores or minerals thus provided for: "Where the prospector or explorer who originally discovers valuable ore or mineral on or in a vein or lode, at least three miles from the nearest known mine or discovery on the same vein or lode, or in or upon a vein or lode theretofore unknown or undiscovered at a distance of one mile from any other known or discovered mine, lode or vein, and in the patent, grant or lease thereof such prospector or explorer is described as the original discoverer, the grantee or lessee, his excutors, administrators or assigns shall be exempt from paying royalty on any part of the ore, produce or profit of such mine to the Province for a term of fifteen years from the date of such patent, grant, or lease."

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

An alien may acquire, hold, dispose of and in every respect control real property as if he or she were a citizen of this State. The laws of descent are the same for aliens as for residents and citizens. (Code, Section 2988.) A woman being an alien shall not be thereby barred of her dower (Code, Section 2974), but a woman residing out of this State shall not be endowed of any lands in this State unless her husband died seized thereof. (Code, Section 2974.)

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

No general assignment of an insolvent for the benefit of creditors is valid unless it be made for the benefit of all the creditors in proportion to the amount of their respective claims; and such an assignment discharges all attachments that have not proceeded to judgment when the assignment is filed. In these latter cases the costs and expenses of the attachment (which is generally considered to mean all the court expenses of the case) are paid as a preferred charge against the estate; and the claim sued upon is entitled, without further presentation, to share pro rata with other claims. In case of a general assignment for all creditors the assent of the creditors is presumed. (Code, Sections 3173, 3174.) The assignee must be a resident of the same county with the assignor. Every assignment shall be in writing, and shall be duly acknowledged and recorded as are conveyances of real estate. Upon application of two or more creditors, a meeting of the creditors may be held under the direction of the county clerk, and a new assignee elected. (Code, Section 3175.) Any creditor may claim debts not due as well as those that are due, but on debts not due a reasonable abatement shall be made where they are not drawing interest, and all claims presented within three months from the publication by the assignee of the notice of his appointment shall be paid in full before any other claims presented afterward. (Code, Section 3184.) If the estate pays fifty per cent of the indebtedness over and above the expenses of the assignment the assignor shall be freed from any liability on account of any unsatisfied portion of the indebtedness existing against him prior to the making of the assignment. (Code, Section 3187.) If, however, the creditor is a citizen of another state, and did not participate in the assignment proceedings, his claim is not affected. (Main vs. Messner, 17 Oregon, 78.) While no preferences can be made in the deed of assignment, the debtor can prefer one or more creditors by a chattel mortgage, or by transferring property in absolute payment of the debt.

III. ATTACHMENT:

The plaintiff, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time thereafter, may have the property of the defendant attached as security for any judgment that may be recovered: 1. In an action upon a contract, expressed or implied, for the direct payment of money not secured by any lien, mortgage or pledge upon real or personal property, or if so secured, when such security has been rendered nugatory by the act of the defendant. 2. In an action upon a contract, expressed or implied, against a non-resident defendant. (Code, Section 144.)

Upon filing an undertaking of indemnity conditioned in favor of defendant for a sum not less than one hundred dollars, and equal to the amount for which judgment is demanded, the writ must be issued by the clerk; provided the plaintiff or some one in his behalf shall file an affidavit showing: 1. That the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff upon a contract for the payment of money. 2. That the payment of the same has not been secured by any lien, mortgage or pledge, or that the same was so secured, but that such security has been rendered nugatory by the act of defendant, or that defendant is a non-resident of the State. 3. That the sum for which the attachment is asked is an actual, bona fide, existing debt, and that attachment is not sought nor the action prosecuted to hinder, delay or defraud any creditor of the defendant. (Code, Section 146, and Laws 1895, page 58.)

All property not exempt is liable to attachment. Claims not due cannot be sued upon. An attachment not reduced to judgment is dissolved by a general assignment for creditors, but not by the death of the defendant. Attachment proceedings have no effect on the time for answering, which is fixed by law.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

The County Court has exclusive probate jurisdiction. Every executor or administrator shall forthwith publish a notice in a newspaper setting forth the fact of his appointment, and notifying all persons to present their claims, properly verified, at a place therein specified, within six months from the date of the notice; and all claims presented within that time will be fully paid before any that may be presented thereafter, and so on in periods of six months each. The executor must file accounts showing his conduct of affairs in April and October of each year. No suit or action shall be commenced against an executor or administrator within six months of his appointment; and in no case until the claim sued on shall have been presented to and disallowed by such executor or administrator. If the claim be presented after the expiration of six months the executor or administrator shall be liable only to the extent of assets in his hands when the summons is served on him.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court has only appellate jurisdiction on appeal from the Circuit Courts, and this is without regard to the amount involved.

The Circuit Court (one in each county) has all the jurisdiction, both original and concurrent, not vested exclusively in some other court, and has appellate jurisdiction of County, Justice and Municipal Courts, and of street proceedings before city governments.

County Courts have exclusive original jurisdiction in probate matters, and concurrent jurisdiction with the Circuit Courts of law actions to the amount of five hundred dollars.

Justices' Courts have concurrent jurisdiction of civil actions to the amount of two hundred and fifty dollars, except where the title to real property is in question. These courts also have jurisdiction over actions to recover possession of mining claims situated within the county where the court is held.

VII. DEEDS:

Deeds executed in this State must have two witnesses and must be acknowledged before any person authorized by law to take acknowledgments. A deed executed in any other state or territory may be executed according to the laws of such state, and be acknowledged before a commissioner for Oregon, a notary public, or before the clerk of a court of record, under their respective seals, without further certificate, but if the acknowledgment is taken before any other person it must have attached a certificate of a clerk of a court of record, under seal, that the acknowledgment is taken according to the laws of such state or territory. Deeds and mortgages must be recorded at once.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

In all affidavits and depositions the proceedings should be by question and answer. The questions must be written and attached to the commission, unless the parties agree to an oral examination in case of depositions taken out of the State. Depositions may be taken in this State on notice by oral interrogatories, and in all cases the testimony when reduced to writing must be read to or by the witness and by him subscribed.

IX. DESCENT:

Real property descends as follows: 1. In equal shares to children and their issue by right of representation. 2. If there are no children, to the other lineal descendants. 3. If there are no descendants, then to the husband or wife, as the case may be. 4. If there is no wife or husband, then to the father. 5. If there is no father, then to brothers and sisters and their issue by representation, but mother shares with them equally. 6. If there are no lineal descendants, no husband, nor wife, nor father, brother or sister, then to the mother to the exclusion of the issue of deceased brothers or sisters. 7. In the absence of all the foregoing, then to the next of kin in equal degree, those claiming through the nearest ancestor being preferred. 8. If the intestate shall leave one or more children and the issue of one or more deceased children, and any of such surviving children shall die under age without having married, all the real property that came to such deceased child by inheritance from such intestate shall descend in equal shares to the other children of such intestate, and to the issue of any other children of such intestate who shall have died, by right of representation. But if all the other children of such intestate shall be also dead, and any of them shall have left issue, such real property so inherited by such deceased child shall descend to all the issue of such other children of the intestate in equal shares if they are in the same degree of kindred to such deceased child; otherwise they shall take by right of representation. 8. If there are no lineal descendants or kindred, such real property shall escheat to the State.

Personal property is distributed as follows: 1. The widow shall have her apparel and ornaments, and property and provisions to support herself and minor children. 2. Debts and administration. 3. Residue to the persons entitled to the real property. 4. If there is a husband and issue, the husband gets half the residue. 5. If there remains a widow and issue, she gets half the residue. In case of no issue survivor takes all the residue. The degrees of kindred shall be computed according to the rules of the civil law, and the kindred of the half blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Execution may issue immediately after judgment and at any time within ten years thereafter. If ten years shall elapse without the issuance of an execution, the judgment shall be conclusively presumed to have been paid; but the issuance of an execution will prolong the life of the judgment ten years.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

The following property is exempt if claimed before sale: Books, pictures and musical instruments owned by any person to the value of seventy-five dollars; necessary wearing apparel owned by any person to the value of one hundred dollars, and if such person be a householder, for each member of his family to the value of fifty dollars; the tools, implements, apparatus, team, vehicle, harness and library necessary to enable any person to carry on the trade, occupation or profession by which such person earns a living, to the value of four hundred dollars; also sufficient food for the team for sixty days. To a householder is also exempt ten sheep, two cows, five swine, three hundred dollars' worth of household goods, food for the stock for three months, and provisions for his family for six months, and a church pew. The earnings of a judgment debtor for personal services performed within thirty days next preceding the bringing of an action are also exempt. State, county, city, town or village property is exempt. No property of any kind exempt from executions for debt due thereon.

XII. HOMESTEAD:

The homestead of any family shall be exempt, provided it be the actual abode of and owned by the family or some member thereof. It must not exceed fifteen hundred dollars in value, or one hundred and sixty acres in extent, if not located in a town or city; if so located, it shall not exceed one block in extent. In no case, however, shall it be reduced to less than twenty acres, nor one lot, regardless of value. This does not exempt a homestead from being mortgaged, and sold under foreclosure.

XIII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate is eight per cent, though the parties may contract for ten. Usury, theoretically, works a forfeiture of the entire debt to the school fund, but the decisions of the courts do not favor it.

XIV. JUDGMENTS:

Unless appearance is made within ten days after service in courts of record, and within six days in Justices' Courts, judgment may be entered against the defendant. From the date of the docketing of a judgment such judgment shall be a lien on all the real property of the defendant within the county where it is docketed, or which he may thereafter acquire therein while the judgment remains in force. The lien expires at the end of ten years if no execution has been issued. Judgments in Justices' Courts are good for ten years, but cannot be enforced against real estate. They may, however, within one year from their rendition, be docketed in the Circuit Court, whereupon they become judgments of that court.

XV. LIENS:

Attorneys have a lien for services on papers and money of the client in their own hands on money in the hands of the adverse party, and on the judgment.

Mechanics, material men and contractors have liens for work done and materials furnished upon the land and buildings thereon on filing the required notice and bringing suit within six months.

Warehousemen have liens for storage and may retain possession to enforce payment for their reasonable charges.

Miners and material-men have liens for work or materials furnished to work or develop any mine, lode, mining claim or deposit of any kind, and for putting in shafts, drifts, tunnels or other excavations to drain or work any mine. Suit must be brought within six months from filing of the lien notice.

XVI. LIMITATIONS:

Actions for the recovery of real property must be brought within ten years; on express or implied contracts a statutory liability other than a penalty or forfeiture, for waste to real property, or for taking, injuring or detaining personal property, within six years; on judgments and decrees, ten years. The same rules apply to action in the name of or for the benefit of any state, county or public corporation. A part payment or a new promise revives a debt. If any person entitled to bring an action be when the right of action accrues under legal disability the time of such disability shall not be a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action, but the period within which action shall be brought shall not be extended more than five years by any such disability, nor shall it be in any case extended longer than one year after such disability ceases. (This entire section is carefully reviewed in Northrop vs. Marquam, 16 Oregon, 173.) If defendant be out of the State or concealed therein when the cause of action accrues, or if he afterwards leaves the State or conceals himself, the running of the statute is suspended. If the cause of action arose between non-residents, and is barred by the law of the place where the action arose by the lapse of time, it shall be barred here. On an overdue indebtedness the statute begins to run from the last payment of principal or interest.

XVII. MARRIED WOMEN:

The property and pecuniary rights of every married woman owned at the time of her marriage, or afterward acquired by gift, devise or inheritance, are not subject to the debts or contracts of the husband, and she may manage, sell, convey, or devise the same by will, to the same extent and in the same manner that her husband can property belonging to him. She may contract with her husband or others the same as a femme sole. Neither is liable for the debts of the other contracted before marriage.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Real estate is mortgaged with the same formalities required in the execution of deeds, and the instrument must be recorded within five days, or it will be void against subsequent purchasers in good faith and for a valuable consideration of the same real property whose conveyance shall be first duly recorded. Mortgages may be assigned or transferred by written instrument executed and acknowledged as are deeds and mortgages, and recorded. No release shall be effective unless made by the person who appears of record as the owner of the mortgage. (Laws 1895, page 55.)

Chattel mortgages must be filed within five days or they will be void as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith; or the instrument can be recorded like a real estate mortgage. If the mortgage is only filed it must be renewed during the last thirty days of each year succeeding its filing by an affidavit of the mortgagee, his agent or attorney, setting forth the interest which the mortgagee has in the property under the mortgage. It is a penal offense to execute a bill of sale or a chattel mortgage upon goods not owned by the mortgagor.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

No person within this State shall be charged as an acceptor of a bill of exchange unless the acceptance be in writing and signed by the acceptor or his lawful agent. Days of grace have been abolished. Checks, due bills, promissory notes, bills of exchange, and orders or agreements for the payment of money may be made or drawn by telegraph.

XX. SUITS.

The distinctions between forms of action are abolished. Every action must be brought in the name of the real party in interest, but a thing not arising out of contract is unassignable.

XXI. TAXES:

The rate of taxation is fixed by the county supervisors on the valuations fixed by the county assessors, and the county assessments are reviewed and equalized by the State Board of Equalization. Taxes are assessed on wills and all property of every kind not expressly exempted. Property sold for taxes may be redeemed within two years from sale by paying the tax, costs of sale, taxes paid in the meantime, and twenty per centum penalty.

XXII. WILLS:

All persons over twenty-one may dispose by will of both real and personal estate; those over eighteen can dispose of only personal estate. Neither dower nor curtesy can be cut off by will. The instrument must be in writing, signed by the testator, or by some other person under his direction and in his presence, and shall be attested by two witnesses, who shall subscribe their names in the presence of the testator and in the presence of each other. Any person not an inhabitant, but owning real or personal property in this State, may devise or bequeath such property by will executed and proved (if real estate be devised) according to the laws of this State, or (in case of personal property) according to the laws of either this State or the community where the will shall be proved. Copies of such will and of its probate shall be recorded in the same manner as wills executed and proved in this State, and shall be admitted in evidence in the same manner and with like effect. A legatee or devisee is not a competent witness to the execution of a will, unless he relinquishes all benefits thereunder.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Corporations are all formed under general laws, and not by special acts. Religious and benevolent societies are incorporated under Sections 3295-3319 of Hill's Code, and cemeteries under Sections 3320-3327.

Commercial corporations are organized by at least three persons, who must make and subscribe written articles in triplicate, the same being acknowledged like a deed, and file one copy with the Secretary of State and one with the clerk of the county where the business is carried on, or the principal office is located, retaining the third copy as part of the corporation records. The articles shall specify: 1. The name of the corporation, and its duration, if limited. 2. The business to be carried on. 3. The place where the principal office or place of business is to be located. 4. The amount of capital stock. 5. The amount of each share of the capital stock. 6. If the corporation is formed for the purpose of navigating any stream or other water, or making or constructing any railroad, macadamized road, plank road, clay road, canal, or bridge, then the termini of such navigation, road or canal or the site of such bridge.

After filing the articles of incorporation, the corporators open books and receive subscriptions to the capital stock. After one-half or more of the capital stock is subscribed, the stockholders meet and elect directors. Conditional subscriptions are not to be considered in determining whether the requisite amount of stock has been subscribed to authorize an election of directors.

II. POWERS:

The corporation has authority by the name assumed in the articles: 1. To sue and be sued. 2. To contract and be contracted with. 3. To have and use a corporate seal, and the same to alter at pleasure. 4. To purchase, possess and dispose of such real and personal property as may be necessary and convenient to carry into effect the objects of the corporation. 5. To appoint such subordinate officers and agents as the business of the corporation may require, and prescribe their duties and compensation. 6. To make by-laws not inconsistent with any existing law for the sale of any portion of its stock for delinquent or unpaid assessments due thereon. 7. In case the object or purpose for which any such corporation is incorporated is in whole or in part to construct, or construct and operate a railroad, to lease any part or all its road to any other company incorporated for the purpose of maintaining and operating a railroad, and to lease or purchase, maintain and operate any part or all of any other railroad constructed by any other company upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between said companies respectively. Any two or more railroad companies whose lines are connected may perfect any arrangement for their common benefit to assist and promote the object for which they were created, provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize the leasing of any railroad line to any company or corporation owning a road which forms a competing or parallel line to its railroad.

III. DIRECTORS:

No person is eligible to the office of director unless he is a stockholder and a resident of the State, and a director ceasing to be such stockholder or resident ceases to be a director, except that in corporations for the purpose of constructing railroads or military wagon roads, canals or flumes, or carrying on mining enterprises, or publishing newspapers, or conducting institutions of learning, a minority of the board of directors may reside out of the State. Directors must take an oath of office to faithfully and honestly discharge the duties of the office. The directors elect one of their own number president, and shall appoint a secretary (who need not necessarily be a director or stockholder), and such other officers as may be desirable. From the first meeting of the directors the powers vested in the corporation are exercised by them, and the only power left in the stockholders is the power to elect directors. The directors hold office for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified. The powers vested in the directors may be exercised by a majority of them, or any less number authorized by the by-laws of the corporation may constitute a quorum at all regular or stated meetings in all cases when either the directors or incorporators shall have filed with the Secretary of State and county clerk a written statement designating such less number sufficient to form a quorum.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

The stock in private corporations is personal property and subject to attachment, execution, levy and sale as such. All sales of stock, whether voluntary or otherwise, transfer to the purchaser all rights of the original holder, and subject such purchaser to the payment of any unpaid balance due on such stock; but if the sale be voluntary, the seller is still liable to existing creditors for the amount of said balance, unless the same be paid by the purchaser. A majority of the stock may, at any meeting of the stockholders called for that purpose, increase or diminish the capital stock, or the amount of the shares thereof, and may change the general place of business.

V. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Stockholders are liable for the indebtedness of the corporation to the amount of their stock subscriptions only.

VI. DISSOLUTION:

A corporation failing to elect directors and commence the transaction of business within one year from the filing of the articles of incorporation, or ceasing to carry on business for six months, forfeits its corporate existence. A corporation may be dissolved by the directors pursuant to a vote of a majority of the stock at any meeting called for that purpose. All corporations, however dissolved, continue to exist as bodies corporate for five years thereafter, for the purpose of settling their affairs.

VII. SUPPLEMENTARY ARTICLES:

The directors may file supplementary articles of incorporation when authorized by vote of three-fourths of all the stock subscribed, for the purpose of engaging in business germane or cognate to the original objects or primary purpose of the corporation, or at any time when a seven-eighths vote of all the stock subscribed shall so determine, for the purpose of engaging in any new enterprise or pursuit not in violation of law.

VIII. EMINENT DOMAIN:

Corporations organized for constructing railways (except street railways for transportation of passengers), roads, canals, bridges, or pipe lines, or for opening or operating any mines or quarries, have the right to appropriate a right of way not more than sixty feet wide, besides a sufficient space for necessary shops.

IX. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Upon complying with certain prescribed regulations as to depositing securities with the Secretary of State and filing a power of attorney, foreign fire or marine insurance, or express or brokerage corporations may engage in business within this State on even terms with domestic companies. Other foreign corporations can enter the State without special terms.

MINING.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution provides that no Chinaman not a resident of the State at the adoption thereof shall hold or work any mining claim.

II. LOCATION AND RECORD:

Section 3827. Any person or company of persons establishing a claim on any quartz lead containing gold, silver, copper, tin or lead, or a claim or a vein of cinnabar, for the purpose of mining the same, shall be allowed to have, hold and possess the land or vein, with all its dips, spurs and angles, for the distance of fifteen hundred feet in length and three hundred feet in width on each side of such lead or vein.

Sec. 3828. To establish a valid claim, the discoverer or person wishing to establish a claim shall post a notice on the lead or vein, with name or names attached, which shall protect the claim or claims for thirty days; and before the expiration of said thirty days, he or they shall cause the claim or claims to be recorded as hereinafter provided, and describing as near as may be the claim or claims, and their location; but continuous working of said claim or claims shall obviate the necessity of such record. If any claim shall not be worked for twelve consecutive months after the first day of January next following the location thereof, it shall be forfeited and considered liable to location by any person or persons, unless the owner or owners be absent on account of sickness or in the service of their country in time of war.

Sec. 3829. Any person may hold one claim by location, as hereinafter provided, upon each lead or vein, and as many by purchase as the local laws of the miners in the district where such claims are located may allow; and the discoverer of any new lead or vein not previously located upon shall be allowed one additional claim for the discovery thereof; nothing in this section shall be so construed as to allow any person not the discoverer to locate more than one claim upon any one lead or vein.

III. ASSESSMENT WORK:

Section 3830. Every person or company of persons, after locating such claim or claims, shall, within one year next after the first day of January following the location or taking such claim or claims, work or cause to be worked the said claim to the amount of one hundred dollars for each and every claim; provided, that any person or company, either joint or incorporate, owning claims or any lead or vein, shall be allowed to work upon any one claim the whole amount required as above for all the claims, and thereby be exempted from working on the rest of his or their claims in said lead or vein; provided further, that when the individual, company or corporation, owning any quartz claim or claims shall file the affidavit of said owner or one of the members of the company or corporation with the county clerk of the county in which said claim is situated, to the effect that the amount of work required by this act has been performed on such claim (or if there be more than one claim, then on each of them), together with the affidavit of two disinterested persons to the same effect, with the addition "that they are not interested directly or indirectly in said claim or claims," such claims shall therefore be considered as real estate, and the title therein shall be vested in such person, company or corporation against all others, save the Government of the United States; and the improvements machinery and buildings thereon shall only be taxed as other property.

IV. MINING DISTRICTS:

Section 3831. It shall be the duty of the county clerk of any county, upon the receipt of notice of a miners' meeting organizing a miners' district in said county, with a description of the boundaries thereof, to record the same in a book to be kept in his office as other county records, to be called a "book of record of mining claims," and upon the petition of parties interested, he may appoint a deputy for such district, who shall reside in said district or its vicinity, and shall record all mining claims and water rights in the order in which they are presented for record, and shall transmit a copy of such record at the end of each month to the county clerk, who shall record the same in the above mentioned book of record, for which he shall receive one dollar for each and every claim. It shall further be the duty of said county clerk to furnish a copy of this law to his said deputy, who shall keep the same in his office, open at all reasonable times for the inspection of all persons interested therein.

Sec. 3832. Miners shall be empowered to make local laws in relation to the possession of water rights, the possession and working of placer claims, and the survey and sale of town lots in mining camps, subject to the laws of the United States.

V. DITCHES AND FLUMES:

Section 3833. Ditches used for mining purposes and mining flumes, permanently affixed to the soil, shall be and the same are hereby declared real estate, during the time the same shall be used for that purpose; provided, that whenever any person, company or corporation, being the owner or proprietor of any such ditch, flume or water right, have or shall abandon the same, and who shall for one year thereafter cease to exercise ownership over said water right, ditch or flume, and every company corporation or person who shall remove from this State with the intent or purpose to change his or their residence, and shall remain absent one year without using or exercising ownership over such water right, ditch or flume by a legally authorized agent, shall be deemed to have lost all title, claim or interest therein.

Sec. 3834. The laws relative to the sale and transfer of real estate, and the application of the liens of mechanic and laborers therein are hereby made applicable to said ditches and flumes; provided, that all interests in mining claims known as placer or surface diggings may be granted, sold and conveyed by a bill of sale and delivery of possession, as in case of the sale of personal property provided further, that the bills of sale or conveyance executed on the sale of any placer or surface mining claim shall be recorded within thirty days after the date of such sale, in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such sale is made, in a book to be kept by the county clerk for that purpose, to be called "the record of conveyances of mining claims."

Sec. 3835. Mortgages of interests in placer or surface mining claims shall be executed, acknowledged, recorded and foreclosed as mortgages of chattels.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACKNOWLEDGMENTS:

All bargains and sales, deeds and conveyances of lands, tenements and hereditaments may be recorded in the recorder's office of the county in which said lands lie. But before being recorded, they must be acknowledged before one of the judges of the Supreme Court, or before one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas, or recorder of deeds, Prothonotary or clerk of any court of record, justice of the peace or notary public of the county wherein the lands lie. Acknowledgments may also be taken before any notary public in any state or territory, or in any foreign country according to the forms required by the laws of Pennsylvania relative to acknowledgments or probate, duly certified under the seal of office of such notary public. A married woman must join in the acknowledgment with her husband, but must be examined, and must acknowledge the deed, separately and apart from her husband.

II. ALIENS:

Aliens may purchase and hold real estate in Pennsylvania not exceeding in quantity five thousand acres, nor of net income twenty thousand dollars. Aliens may dispose of such real estate by testament, donation or otherwise. Real estate of aliens shall not escheat or be forfeited to the commonwealth: Provided: That nothing shall be construed to prevent sequestration of real or personal estate of an alien, during the continuance of a war between the United States of America and the state or municipality of which such person may be a citizen or subject.

III. ASSIGNMENTS:

An insolvent debtor can make a voluntary assignment for the benefit of all his creditors, which is void unless recorded within thirty days after the execution thereof. When the assignment affects real estate it must be recorded in every county where such real estate is located. The assignee must file an inventory and appraisement within thirty days after the execution thereof, and give a bond with two sureties in double the amount of the assignment. He must also file an account of his administration of the assigned estate in the office of the Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas, whereupon said court shall refer said account to an auditor to hear claims and award distribution of the fund. All claims must be presented before the said auditor or they will be debarred from participation in said fund. A winding up of an assigned estate and payment of a dividend by the assignee does not relieve or discharge the debtor, except to the extent of a payment on account.

Insolvent debtors may prefer by confession of judgment or voluntary transfer of property, unless the same is done for the purpose and with the intent to hinder and defraud other creditors.

A landlord is a preferred creditor to the extent of one year's rent. Wages of miners, mechanics and laborers are preferred claims against a chartered company to the extent of two hundred dollars.

IV. ATTACHMENTS:

Under the Act of March 17th, 1869, and the amendment thereto by Act of May 28th, 1887, the property of resident debtors may be attached; before judgment, upon proof by affidavit that the defendant is about to remove his or her property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with the intent to defraud his or her creditors; or that said defendant has evidence of debt or money, property rights in action or interest in any public or corporate stock which he or she fraudulently conceals; or that said defendant has assigned, disposed of, or removed, or is about to do so, any such property, rights, stocks, or evidences of debt, with intent to defraud his or her creditors; or that the debtor fraudulently incurred the obligation for which the claim is made. This statement is founded on affidavit of plaintiff proving the existence of his debt, and alleging one or more of the acts of fraud above specified.

A bond with security approved by the court must be entered before writ can issue, conditioned for the payment of all legal costs and damages that the debtor may sustain in case plaintiff fails to prosecute his attachment with effect, and to recover a judgment against the debtor. Attachments of defendant's property in the nature of an execution may issue at any time after judgment. Property of non-resident debtors may be seized under a writ of foreign attachment, on entering security as above specified.

V. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

All debts owing by any person within this State, at the time of his decease, shall be paid by his executors or administrators, in the manner and order following: 1. Funeral expenses, medicine furnished, medical attendance given during the last illness of the decedent, and servants' wages for a period not exceeding one year preceding. 2. Rents, not exceeding one year preceding. 3. All other debts without regard to quality of same; except debts due the commonwealth, which shall be last paid.

No executor or administrator shall be compelled to pay any debt of a decedent, except such as are by law preferred to rents in the order of payment until one year be fully elapsed from the granting of the administration of the estate.

VI. COURTS:

Courts of record are: 1. The Courts of Common Pleas, having a general jurisdiction over civil suits. 2. The Orphans' Courts, having a general jurisdiction over decedents' estates. 3. The Courts of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, having a general jurisdiction over criminal prosecutions. 4. The Superior Court, having a limited appellate jurisdiction. 5. The Supreme Court, having a final appellate jurisdiction.

Courts not of record are Justice Courts, having a jurisdiction of civil proceedings not involving questions of title to land, trespass on the case, or property over three hundred dollars in value; also having power to commit criminals to jail or bind them over to appear at Criminal Courts.

VII. FEES:

VIII. DEEDS:

All deeds for lands, tenements and hereditaments shall be acknowledged by the grantor or grantors, or proved by one or more of the subscribing witnesses thereto, before one of the judges of the Supreme Court or Court of Common Pleas, recorder of deeds, Prothonotary, or clerk of any court of record, justice of the peace, or notary public of the county wherein the conveyed lands lie; and shall be recorded in the office of recording of deeds of the county wherein such lands lie within ninety days after the execution of such deeds or conveyances. If not so recorded, they are fraudulent and void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration.

A deed must be acknowledged by a married woman, separate and apart from her husband.

IX. DEPOSITIONS:

Rules to take depositions to be read in evidence, of ancient, infirm and departing witnesses, on the usual terms, are of course, and may be entered by either party, stipulating a reasonable notice to the adversary. Depositions may also be taken in other cases, in accordance with the rules of court as to notice. The rules of court in many counties also specify the manner in which the depositions shall be taken.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Executions may be issued as soon as judgment is obtained or at any time within five years. They may issue at any time up to five years from the day judgment was rendered, but after the expiration of that time cannot issue except after a revival of that judgment by a scire facias. Under the act of 1887 an execution can issue simultaneously with the scire facias.

Personal property is bound by the execution from the time of its delivery to the sheriff, but an execution issued by a justice of the peace does not bind until the levy is actually made.

When the execution is against goods on leased premises, the landlord's claim for rent, not exceeding one year prior to time of levy, and the claims of miners, mechanics, laborers or clerks employed by the lessees are first entitled to payment out of the proceeds of the sale. Attachment executions may be had against debts due defendant.

Stay of execution upon suits in court can be taken by giving security, or under claim of freehold: on all sums of two hundred dollars and under, six months; between two hundred dollars and five hundred dollars, nine months; over five hundred dollars, twelve months. In suits before justices of the peace, on sums between five dollars and thirty-three cents and twenty dollars, three months; between twenty dollars and sixty dollars, six months; and over sixty dollars, twelve months.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

No homestead law. Real or personal property to the value of three hundred dollars, in addition to wearing apparel, Bibles and school books, and a sewing machine, are exempt, but the privilege is only personal and can be waived at any time.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

The legal rate of interest is six per cent. Usurious interest cannot be collected, provided suit is brought therefor within six months after final payment of the debt. Interest is due upon every debt from the time it becomes due and payable. The rate is the same on all debts, whether secured by judgment or not.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments are a lien upon all the interest of defendant in real estate situate within county where judgment is entered. The lien exists for five years, and may be continued by revival of the judgment. Justices' judgments become liens by filing transcripts in the office of the Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas.

XIV. LIENS:

All buildings, mines, iron-works, bridges, etc., are liable to a lien for the materials used in their erection, alteration, improvement or repair, or furnished under contract with the owner or his contractor; but no lien for repairs may be filed without notice of intention to file the same, given when the work begins, nor for less than twenty dollars. The lien also covers the ground on which the improvement stands, and so much more contiguous as is necessary for reasonable use. If materials are supplied under a contract made with a tenant, the written consent of the owner is needed to make the claim valid. The lien takes precedence of every other incumbrance attaching after the commencement of the building. If a husband erects a building on his wife's land with her knowledge or consent, a lien will attach for the materials, but must be filed against both husband and wife.

To effect the lien a claim therefor must be filed in the office of the Prothonotary of the Court of Common Pleas within six months after the materials were supplied. Such claim must set forth the name of the lien claimant, of the owner, of the contractor, architect or builder (if the contract was made with such person), the amount claimed, the materials furnished, the dates when furnished and the prices, the locality, and such a description of the building or alterations as shall be sufficient to identify it.

The lien is enforced by the issuance of a writ of scire facias to compel payment by sale of the property. This may be done within five years from the time the materials were furnished, but if judgment is not obtained within five years from the issuance of the writ the lien is lost. Agreements between the owner and contractor bind subcontractors, and a stipulation that no lien shall be filed will be enforced.

[Note.—The State of Pennsylvania has many local laws respecting corporations, mines and liens for materials. Some of them only apply to one or two counties. To attempt to give a statement of these many and varied local laws would serve no useful purpose.]

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Contracts, notes and instruments not under seal, trespass, detinue, replevin, six years; action for trespass to person, two years; for slander, one year; judgments, mortgages and sealed instruments will be presumed to be paid after twenty years, but this presumption may be rebutted.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

Property owned by a wife at the time of her marriage, or which may accrue to her during her coverture, may be held and enjoyed by her, as her own separate property, and it is not liable for the debts of her husband. She cannot, however, mortgage, sell or convey her real estate without the joinder of her husband. She may transfer stocks and bonds of any corporation, and keep a bank account and draw money in her own name, on her own check, without the consent of her husband. She may acquire and dispose of property, in any trade or business in which she may engage, or for necessaries, and has the right and power to make contracts and give obligations binding herself therefor.

She can sue and be sued and her husband need not be joined with her as plaintiff or defendant in any action brought by or against her in her individual right. She cannot, however, become an accommodation indorser, guarantor or surety for another. A married woman may dispose of her property by will the same as if she were unmarried.

Where an intestate leaves a widow and issue, the widow is entitled to one-third of the income of the real estate, during her life, and one-third of the personal property absolutely. Where he leaves a widow and no issue, the widow is entitled to one-half the income of the real estate, for life, and one-half part of the personal property absolutely. A widow may take statutory dower in contravention of any will left by her husband.

XVII. MILLS:

By the common law every person had a right to have a mill on his own land, so long as he did not injure his neighbors and did not divert the water from its natural channel. The statute gives to persons owning lands adjoining navigable streams, which are public highways (except the Delaware, Lehigh and Schuylkill), the right to have milldams adjoining their own lands, and lead off as much water as they need, but not so as to impede navigation or the passing of fish, nor so as to infringe private rights.

XVIII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages are executed and acknowledged in the same manner as deeds, and the lien commences from the time of recording, except when given for purchase money, in which case the mortgage is a lien as regards the mortgaged land from its date, if recorded within sixty days. Chattel mortgages may be given on mining property, lumber, petroleum, iron and other articles specified; must be for not less than one hundred dollars; and must be filed of record.

XIX. NOTES AND BILLS:

Bills of exchange and notes, drawn in the usual form, are recognized as commercial paper. Days of grace are now abolished by act of assembly. Paper falling due on Sunday or a legal holiday shall mature and be deemed due the next secular business day thereafter, provided that they shall not be protested on any Saturday, but must be protested on the next secular business day. Legal holidays are: National thanksgiving days, all general election days, first day of January, twenty-second of February, Fourth of July, twenty-fifth of December, and the first Monday in September.

XX. SUITS:

Suits may be commenced at any time. All writs and summons are returnable on certain days set by rule of court; and in default of an appearance and affidavit of defense, within a prescribed time, judgment may be entered against defendant.

XXI. TAXES:

Seated lands may be sold for taxes two years delinquent (and unseated lands may be sold for taxes one year delinquent), and are redeemable within two years by payment of taxes and costs and twenty-five per cent thereon.

XXII. WAGES:

Suits for wages of manual labor are placed first on trial list in the Court of Common Pleas.

The exemption of the wages of manual labor from attachment cannot be waived. They are exempt for a board and lodging not exceeding four weeks. (For priority in execution see "V. Claims against Estates," and "Corporations.")

Wage-workers must be paid in full, in money, twice in each month. Mining and quarrying companies may not permit, authorize or direct the withholding of wages due employes for the payment of store bills, except in obedience to process of law, and no assignments of future wages are valid. Wages due to the amount of two hundred dollars are a lien upon real and personal property to the extent of the interest of the employer, and are preferred and must be first paid out of the proceeds of a sale of such property. Such claim cannot become a lien upon real estate, unless filed in the Prothonotary's office of the proper county, within three months after the same becomes due. No voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors may delay a claim for wages more than thirty days.

XXIII. WILLS:

Every person of sound mind may dispose of his or her real estate, whether the same be held in fee simple, or for the life or lives of any other person or persons, and whether in severalty, joint tenancy or common, and also his or her personal estate. Provided: That no will shall be effectual unless the testator was at time of making the same, of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, at which age the testator may dispose of real as well as personal or mixed property, if in other respects competent to make a will. Every will shall be in writing and where the person making same is prevented by the extremity of his last sickness, shall be signed by him at the end thereof, or by some other person in his presence and by his express direction, and in all cases shall be proved by the oaths and affirmations of two or more competent witnesses, otherwise such will shall be void and of no effect. A nuncupative will is good where made in the extremity of last sickness. If the sum or value bequeathed exceed one hundred dollars, it must be proved that the testator, at time of pronouncing bequest, bid the persons present, or some of them, to bear witness that such was his will, or to that effect; and in all cases the foregoing requisites shall be proved by two or more witnesses who were present at the making of such will.

CORPORATIONS.

I. CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS:

The constitution in effect January 1, 1874, provides:

1. That no local or special laws shall be passed by the General Assembly (either directly or by partial repeal of general laws) affecting liens, changing the law of descent, fixing the rate of interest, providing or changing methods for the collection of debts, regulating trade, mining or manufacturing, incorporating ferry or bridge companies except for the erection of bridges crossing streams which form boundaries between this and other states), creating corporations, amending, renewing or extending their charters, or granting them any special or exclusive privilege or immunity, or the right to lay a railroad track; or any laws to limit the amount to be recovered for injuries to person or property, nor the time within which suits may be brought against corporations, which time is the same as that fixed by general laws for similar actions against natural persons, to wit, six years.

2. That the State may not surrender or suspend its power to tax corporations or corporate property, nor authorize municipalities to become stockholders in, furnish money for or loan credit to any corporation.

3. That municipal corporations may not incur indebtedness exceeding seven per centum upon the assessed value of their taxable property; and when they do incur indebtedness, must lay a tax sufficient to pay off said indebtedness, with interest, within thirty years.

4. That a corporation is subject to the right of eminent domain and may not infringe the rights of individuals or the general well-being of the State; nor engage in any business not expressly authorized by its charter; nor hold more real estate than is necessary and proper for its legitimate business; nor issue stocks or bonds except for money, labor done, or money or property actually received; nor increase its stock or indebtedness except in pursuance of general law, nor without the consent of the holders of the larger amount of stock, obtained at a meeting held after sixty days' notice, according to law. All provisions increase of stock or indebtedness is void.

5. That in all elections of directors or managers of corporations incorporated since the adoption of the constitution, each shareholder may either cast the whole number of his votes for one candidate, or divide them as he may prefer.

6. That just compensation must be given for property taken by the right of eminent domain, or taken, injured or destroyed by the construction or enlargement of the works of corporations, highways or improvements, such compensation to be paid or secured before such taking, injury or destruction; and the General Assembly may not deprive any person of appeal from any preliminary assessment of damages, but on demand of either party they shall be determined by a jury.

7. Foreign corporations must have in this State at least one known office, and one agent on whom process may be served.

8. That banking laws must provide for the registry and countersigning, by an officer of the State, of all notes or bills designed for circulation, and for the depositing of ample security for their redemption; and no banks shall be chartered for more than twenty years, nor without three months' previous notice, at the intended location, of the intention to apply for such charter.

9. That any association for the purpose, or any individual, may construct and maintain telegraph lines and connect the same with other lines, to be regulated by reasonable and general laws, but no telegraph company may consolidate with or gain control of any competing line.

10. That the General Assembly may alter, revoke or annul any charter when they deem it injurious to the citizens of the State, but not so as to do injustice to the corporators; but no law enacted after the adoption of the constitution shall create, renew or extend the charter of more than one corporation.

11. That associations for the purpose may construct and operate railroads and connect the same at the State line with railroads of other states, and intersect, connect with or cross other railroads, and must receive and transport each other's cars, loaded or empty, without delay or discrimination. Railroads and canals must be public highways, and all railroads and canal companies common carriers. Those organized in this State must keep their books therein, open to the inspection of stockholders and creditors and for the transfer of stock.

12. That undue discrimination by common carriers is forbidden; freight and passenger charges, except for commutation and excursion tickets, must never be greater for any given distance than for a longer one, and no passes shall be given to any except officers or employes.

13. That no railroad or canal company may consolidate with or gain control of any competing line; and no officers or agents may have any interest in contracts for materials or supplies.

14. That common carriers may not engage in any other business, nor hold more real estate than is necessary for their business; but any mining or manufacturing company may own a canal or railroad, not more than fifty miles in length.

15. That street railways may not be constructed without the consent of local authorities.

II. CLASSES:

Corporations are divided, according to the purposes of their formation, into two classes: The first class, not for profit, which may hold real estate, the yearly income whereof does not exceed thirty thousand dollars; and the second class (including mining, quarrying and similar companies), for profit.

III. ORGANIZATION:

1. Charters of intended corporations must be subscribed by at least five persons, three of them citizens of the commonwealth; and set forth the name, purpose, term of existence, place of business, number and names of directors of the first year, and names, addresses and number of shares of subscribers.

2. Notice of intention to apply for a charter of the first class, of the objects thereof, and the time and place of intended application must be published in two newspapers of general circulation of the proper county for three weeks, and the petition acknowledged before the recorder of deeds or a notary public, by at least three of the subscribers.

3. The petition must then be presented to a law judge of said county, with proof of publication, and upon examination, approval and indorsement be recorded, with his decree of approval, in the recorder's office.

4. Certificates of corporations of the second class (except building and loan associations) must, in addition, set forth the amount of capital stock, and number and par value of shares, the name and address of the treasurer, and the fact that ten per cent of the capital stock has been paid in cash to him; and the three subscribers making the acknowledgment shall also make an oath or affirmation, to be indorsed on the certificate, that the statements therein contained are true.

5. Certificates must next be presented to the Governor of the State in the same manner in which those of the first class are presented to the judge, and in the same manner approved by him; whereupon letters patent shall issue in the name of said corporation. The original certificate must be recorded in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth (on the payment of $5), and in the recorder's office of the proper county, and an abstract thereof furnished to the auditor-general, to be recorded in his office. 6. Purchasers at judicial sales of the property and franchises of corporations are invested with the same, on condition that said purchasers accept Article XVI of the constitution, meet and organize within thirty days of such sale, and furnish a certificate containing the date of organization, name and other facts concerning the new corporation to the Secretary of State for record in his office. 7. Executors and trustees may, with the consent of the beneficiaries, either by themselves or with others, organize second-class corporations.

IV. RENEWAL AND AMENDMENT OF CHARTERS:

1. Charters may be renewed in the same manner in which new ones are granted, but must set forth the fact of renewal, the name of the corporation, the date of the original charter, a certificate under the corporate seal showing the consent of a majority in interest, its financial condition, its acceptance of the provisions of the constitution and the statute, and its surrender of all privileges granted by the original charter not given to corporations of its class by law. 2. First-class corporations may be consolidated and their charters amended by decree of the Court of Common Pleas of the proper county, upon examination and approval by said court. 3. Charters of second-class corporations may be amended by letters patent, to be issued by the Governor, and recorded in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, after notice of their intention has been published in two newspapers of the proper county, once a week for three weeks, setting forth the character and objects of the amendments; and a certificate, setting forth as aforesaid, has been examined and approved by the Governor. But the charters of gas and water companies may not be altered so as to encroach upon territory covered by any other similar company.

V. POWERS:

1. To have succession by their corporate name, perpetually, or for the period named in their charters. 2. To maintain and defend judicial proceedings. 3. To have and use a common seal, to be altered at pleasure. 4. To deal in real estate, within certain limits. 5. To appoint and remove subordinates, and arrange their compensation. 6. To enter into any obligations necessary to the transaction of their ordinary affairs. 7. To make by-laws (not inconsistent with law) prescribing times and places of meeting, powers and duties of officials, and penalties for the breach of the latter, not exceeding twenty dollars. 8. To issue certificates of stock under the corporate seal, signed by the president and countersigned by the treasurer, transferable subject to payments due thereon, with all the rights, liabilities, etc., of the original holders, but stockholders indebted to a corporation may not transfer their stock without the consent of the directors. 9. To issue preferred stock, and to issue deferred and paid-up stock in payment or exchange for real and personal property, but when stock is given for property it must be so stated in the certificate. 10. To lay assessments upon shares not to exceed the amount at which such shares were originally limited. 11. To increase the capital stock (after the amount thereof is fully paid in) to the amount of thirty million dollars, by a vote, by ballot, of the stockholders, at a meeting held (after notice published once a week for sixty days) at the chief office in the State, called by resolution of the board of directors. If the vote be in favor of increase, return must be made, under oath, to the auditor-general, and to the secretary of the commonwealth to be recorded in his office. 12. In case of second-class corporations, to reduce their stock in the manner provided by law, or change its par value, or entirely dispose of their stock to other corporation; but no corporation, except iron, steel and oil mining companies, may buy stock of other corporations, except iron or steel companies, or hold the same, except as collateral security for a prior indebtedness, and no other corporation shall hold the majority of stock of any common carrier. 13. To borrow money (at not more than six per cent interest) by issuing bonds, secured by mortgages to trustees for bondholders to an amount not exceeding (except in certain classes of corporations having power to borrow to the amount of double their stock) one-half of the capital stock paid in. 14. To change, by election, the location of the principal office within the limits of the commonwealth. 15. To invest their surplus or other funds in certain specified securities. (Act of March 31, 1868, Section 1.) 16. To surrender any of their powers or to be dissolved on approval and by decree of court. 17. To have special policemen appointed by the Governor. 18. In case of exhibition companies, to mortgage all their property and franchises; chattel mortgages to be acknowledged, recorded and sued out the same as those on real estate, and if such property and franchises be sold, the purchasers to have the same rights, etc., as the original companies. 19. In case of corporations specially authorized by law (such as railroad and canal companies), to take land by the right of eminent domain. 20. In case of ship-building companies, to increase their capital stock to the amount of five million dollars, and receive necessary property in payment thereof. 21. A recent act of assembly gives corporations of the first class (not for profit) the right to issue stock to the amount of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in shares of the par value of fifty dollars.

VI. ELECTION OF OFFICERS:

1. Corporations must have a board of directors or trustees (one of whom must be president), a clerk, a treasurer, and such other officers as they choose; the directors to be elected annually, by the stockholders or members, and the time and manner of choice of directors and other officers to be regulated by the by-laws. A majority of the directors shall always constitute a quorum.

2. Officers conducting corporation elections shall take an oath and be subject to the same penalties for its violation as the general election of officers of the commonwealth, and an election held by an officer not so sworn may be set aside and a new election ordered.

3. All elections must be by ballot, each share representing one vote; the stock books shall be evidence of the right to vote, and the beneficial owner be preferred to the one in whose name the stock stands.

4. In case of vacancies, in any offices, the remaining directors may fill the same till the next election.

VII. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS:

Except in corporations specially provided for by statute, stockholders are individually liable for labor done for corporations, to the amount of the stock they hold, but only when the property of the corporation in the county is not sufficient to satisfy the claims; and holders of paid-up stock are not liable for more than six months' wages.

VIII. DAMAGES:

Damages for property taken must be assessed by five viewers appointed by the Court of Common Pleas, upon whose award judgment shall be entered when approved by said court; but in case of failure to agree, the corporation may give a sufficient bond for the payment of damages, whereupon the right to take possession immediately vests in said corporation.

IX. ACTIONS:

1. Notices and process may be served upon the president or other principal officer, cashier, treasurer, secretary, chief clerk or toll gatherer, of any corporation, or, in their absence from the county, upon the agent, and in case of railroads, process may be served upon any manager or director. 2. Corporations having their principal offices out of this State may be sued in any county where their works or real estate are located, or in which any officer or director may reside, and process may be served on such officer or director by publication of a copy of the process for six weeks before return day. 3. The sheriff of any county where any corporation has property, but no officer or agent, may serve process upon such corporation in any other county. 4. In cases where judgment is rendered against a corporation, and no goods are found to levy upon, and the plaintiff suspects such corporation of having concealed the same to avoid execution, the court in which the judgment was obtained will issue a citation to the officers of said corporation to answer interrogatories, and, if property be found, a writ of sequestration. 5. Writs of execution against corporations may be executed without stay, in any county, and upon franchises besides the property ordinarily subject to levy. 6. Corporations having suspended business, or made a transfer or assignment at time of or after service of process, are excluded from the statute of limitations. 7. Corporations may be restrained by injunctions, in case of injury to private or public rights.

X. FORFEITURE:

Any corporation failing to begin, in good faith, to organize and carry on the business for which it was chartered, and pay up at least one-fourth of its capital stock within two years, and to finish its works within five years, from the date of issuing the letters patent (except when the time is extended by the court), or which, after organization, neglects to use its privileges for five years, thereby forfeits its charter; and the attorney-general is bound to proceed against such corporation, except bridge companies, on the application of any citizen.

XI. BONUS:

All corporations of the second class, except turnpike, bridge and cemetery companies or building and loan associations, shall pay to the State Treasurer a bonus of one-quarter of one per cent upon the amount of the capital stock, and in case of increase of such stock, the same corporations and also all first-class corporations, not for literary, charitable or religious purposes, must, unless otherwise provided by their charters, pay a like bonus on such increase:

XII. TRANSFER OF STOCK:

The capital stock of corporations is transferable on the books; may not exceed one million dollars in the first instance; and must be divided into shares of not more than one hundred dollars each, to be deemed personal property. And no shares are transferable until all previous calls thereon are paid, or until forfeited for non-payment thereof. In case of default in payment of subscriptions, one and one-half per cent a month additional may be collected by the directors, by suit at law, or the stock of the subscribers in arrears may be resold by the directors. No note or other obligation given by a stockholder may be accepted in payment of capital stock, and subscribers in arrears within thirty days preceding an election may not vote at such election.

Capital stock of manufacturing companies (except brewers or distillers or those enjoying the right of eminent domain) exclusively employed in manufacturing within the State is exempt from taxation.

XIII. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Foreign corporations of the second class doing business in this State, and having three citizens thereof among their stockholders, may become domestic corporations by having approved and recorded: 1. A certificate setting forth: (a) the name; (b) purposes; (c) place of business; (d) term of existence; (e) names and residences of stockholders, and the number of each one's shares; (f) number of directors, and names and addresses of those elected for the current year; (g) amount of capital stock and number and par value of the shares; (h) the legislation under which it was created; and (i) financial condition showing capital stock paid in, funded debt, floating debt, estimated value of property and cash assets, if any). 2. A certificate under the corporate seal, acknowledged and sworn to by at least three directors before the recorder of deeds of the proper county, and approved and indorsed by the Governor, showing the consent to such application of a majority in interest and to a renunciation of its original charter, and all privileges not enjoyed by second-class corporations in this State, said certificate to be recorded in the recorder's office of the proper county and in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, and an abstract thereof furnished by him to the auditor-general. 1. A foreign corporation which has become domestic has the same rights, privileges, powers, immunities, lands, property and assets as the original corporation, not expressly withheld by general law and its certificate; and all previous claims, etc., for and against said corporations may be sued, prosecuted and collected under the laws governing the same prior to the new charter. 2. Foreign corporations may purchase real estate at judicial sales, but may not hold the same more than fifteen years. 3. Foreign glass, steel and iron companies may have factories and other necessary real estate not exceeding one hundred acres, to be subject to taxation and to the same regulations as domestic corporations as to amount of capital employed, taxation of same, and the making of returns to the auditor-general. 4. All foreign corporations (except insurance companies and those paying other taxes), not investing and using their capital in this State, must procure annual licenses from the auditor-general, paying for the same one-quarter of one mill on each dollar of their capital stock. 5. No foreign corporation may do business in this State without an office and an agent therein, nor until it has filed a statement in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, setting forth its title, object, location of office and name of agent; a certificate of which filing must be kept in the office of each agent for public inspection. Non-compliance with this law is declared to be a misdemeanor. 6. Foreign corporations may not hold real estate unless specially authorized by law, but the fact that some of the members of a corporation reside abroad does not incapacitate it from holding real estate, if otherwise qualified. 7. In proceedings against foreign corporations, process may be served upon any officer, agent or engineer, either personally or by copy left at their office, and, when they have an office in any county of this State, service may be had upon any officer or agent within the county.

MINING.

I. INSPECTION OF MINES:

The anthracite and bituminous coal fields are each divided into districts, for each of which district an inspector is appointed by the Governor after examination and recommendation by a board of examiners appointed for that purpose. Said inspectors hold office five years in the anthracite field and four in the bituminous.

The duties of inspectors are (1) to examine mines and collieries; (2) to attend inquests; (3) visit places of and investigate accidents; (4) see that all mine laws are observed; (5) keep a record of all visits to mines; (6) take care of all maps, plans, records and other property of the State, and (7) make annual reports to the Secretary of Internal Affairs.

II. DUTIES OF OWNERS, ETC.:

1. It is the duty of owners, operators or superintendents of mines to make annual reports of progress to the mine inspectors, and to report all changes in workings which affect the safety of miners; in the anthracite coal field such reports must be made immediately; in the bituminous, once in every three months. 2. To have rules of conduct, approved by the mine inspector, posted in conspicuous places. 3. To drive bore-holes in front and on sides when approaching abandoned or dangerous parts of mines. 4. To provide safety lamps. 5. To provide stretchers at the entrance of all mines. 6. The owners, etc., of anthracite mines must provide railings in dangerous places, props and timbers necessary to the safety of miners, overcasts when necessary, and, in certain mines, ambulances in addition to the stretchers; moreover they must not employ anyone as a miner who has not a certificate of competency from the miners' examining board.

III. MAPS AND PLANS:

The owners, operators or superintendents of anthracite mines in which more than ten persons are employed must provide maps or plans on a scale of not more than one hundred feet to the inch, copies of which must be kept at the office of the inspector, and at the colliery for the inspection of the miners, upon which maps and copies all changes must be noted every six months. Operators or superintendents of all bituminous mines must furnish the mine inspector with maps on a scale of two hundred feet to an inch, corrected every six months. When any part of a mine is about to be abandoned a map thereof must be furnished to the inspector.

IV. MEASURES OF SAFETY:

1. Every mine must have two outlets, at least one hundred and fifty feet apart on the surface, and not more than twenty persons may work in said mine at one time before the second opening is made or after one of them has been abandoned. If necessary one of said openings may be made on adjoining lands, the damages to be assessed by viewers appointed by the Court of Common Pleas. In bituminous mines worked by drifts, the said openings need not be more than thirty feet apart; but in those worked by shafts, the openings must be one hundred and fifty feet apart. Outlets less than seventy-five feet deep must be provided with steps, deeper ones with machinery for hoisting. Slopes must not have a greater angle of inclination than twenty degrees. In slopes of anthracite mines, having an inclination of not more than fifteen degrees, separate traveling ways must be provided, free from gas or steam. 2. Shafts and slopes must have speaking tubes from top to bottom. 3. Machinery must be fenced or protected by railing or otherwise. 4. Self-closing doors for purposes of ventilation, and safety holes to protect miners from passing cars, must be provided. 5. Convenient wash-houses must be provided near the entrance for the use of workmen. 6. Anthracite mines in which more than seventy-five persons are employed must be divided into two or more districts; underground openings of abandoned workings in said mines and the tops of shafts must be properly fenced off, and owners of adjoining lands must leave sufficient pillars of coal in each vein on the dividing line.

Adequate ventilation, consisting of not less than one hundred cubic feet of air per minute in bituminous and two hundred cubic feet per minute in anthracite coal mines must be provided for each person employed. Abandoned mines and workings must be kept free from gas and water as far as possible.

It is unlawful to employ boys under twelve years of age in bituminous coal mines (boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen years must be accompanied by older persons) or in the outside workings of anthracite mines, or under fourteen years in anthracite mines, or females of any age in any mines; except in offices for clerical work.

V. BOSSES AND FOREMEN:

In all bituminous coal mines competent mine foremen and fire bosses, and in anthracite coal mines mine foremen must be employed. The said mine foremen and fire bosses must have certificates from the mine inspector and two other examiners appointed by the court, and the said foremen or assistant foremen in the anthracite region, must be registered and have certificates from the secretary of internal affairs, of qualification and service, furnished after examination by a board of examiners appointed for the purpose.

The said bosses, foremen or assistants, as the case may be, have charge of the inside workings of the mines. It is the duty of foremen and fire bosses to make weekly measurements of the currents of air, and make a report on the same to the inspector; and to make daily examinations of all the workings in anthracite mines; and at least once every alternate day in bituminous coal mines. In the anthracite region there must also be outside foremen in charge of breakers and outside workings.

VI. WEIGHT OF COAL:

The legal weight of a ton of anthracite coal is declared to be two thousand two hundred and forty pounds avoirdupois, and the law imposes a penalty upon retail dealers giving short weight.

VII. DAMAGES:

Parties injured, and in case of death, the widow and lineal heirs of said parties, have a right of action for injuries caused by the violation of mining laws against the party violating them.

Any court of equity may, on petition, issue a mandamus to the owner, lessee or operator of any mine to recover, if possible, the bodies of entombed workmen.

VIII. LEASE:

According to recent decisions a lease of coal is virtually a sale, and the lessee owns the hole from which such coal has been taken.

IX. COMPANY STORES:

Mining companies are forbidden to be interested in or carry on general supply stores, called "company stores," or to lease or sell the right to keep the same on their property. No contract may be made obliging employes to trade at such stores.

No mining or quarrying company may carry on any other business than that for which it is incorporated.

The constitution forbids the passing of any local or special laws regulating labor or mining.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ACTIONS:

These are taken by filing in the office of the Superior or Circuit Court (according to the amount of the claim, as is set out below under the title VIII. Courts), a fiat for a writ of summons, which on payment of the proper fee, then issues ordering the debtor to appear on a fixed day. This day must not be less than five days from the service of the summons. After appearance defendant must file his plea within two days and the case may be then inscribed for immediate trial. These short delays are the result of an agitation for a quick and summary mode of collecting debts; and all commercial claims incurred subsequent to September 1st, 1888, are subject to this summary procedure. The creditor is always allowed by the court the full amount of the costs he incurs in bringing the action, and obtaining judgment and execution, no matter how small the debt may be.

II. ADMINISTRATION:

The law of this Province does not provide for the appointment of any one to wind up the estate of persons who decease without a will unless there be property belonging to such estate situate outside the Province. If there be no outside property, the heirs liquidate and divide the succession themselves. If there are minors or absentees, tutors or curators must be named by the court to represent them in dividing the estate, and to hold and manage their share of it until they attain their majority at the age of twenty-one years, or in the case of absentees until they return to the Province.

III. AFFIDAVITS:

Taken in the Province of Quebec for use in its courts, must be sworn to before an officer of the court or a commissioner to receive affidavits. The same effect is given to foreign affidavits taken before a notary under his official seal, or before the mayor or chief magistrate of any city or incorporated town in the United States or in Great Britain, the colonies, or any foreign country; or before any consul or consular agent of her majesty in a foreign country.

IV. ALIENS:

May acquire, hold and transmit property in the same manner as British subjects. Although not resident in Canada, they may sue or be sued in its courts on obligations contracted abroad. They are bound if thereto required by the opposite party to give security for costs in any suit or proceeding which they institute in its courts, and to file a power of attorney authorizing the action.

V. ASSIGNMENT:

There is no insolvent act in Canada, but in the Province of Quebec every trader who has ceased his payments may be required by an unsecured creditor for a sum of two hundred dollars or upwards, or by any creditor holding a judgment for eighty dollars or upwards, to make an abandonment of his property for the benefit of his creditors in the office of the prothonotary of the court where the demand is made or the capias issued. Notice of this abandonment is given to the creditors. The court appoints a curator and the property is sold for the benefit of the creditors, amongst whom its proceeds are divided ratably after payment of privileged claims. This abandonment discharges the debtor only to the extent of the amount which his creditors receive on account of their claims. The winding up of insolvent banks, insurance companies and trading corporations is regulated by Dominion statutes. ("XX. Preferences.")

VI. ATTACHMENTS:

A creditor may before judgment, upon affidavit, seize the property of his debtor, whether in the hands of such debtor himself or of third parties; or arrest his person, on the ground of secretion of property, absconding with intent to defraud, or in the case of insolvency, of his refusal to assign his estate. A capias for the arrest of a debtor cannot be issued for a sum less than forty dollars, but his property may be seized for a debt of five dollars. To justify a capias, the debt must be a personal one, and contracted within the Province. Women, priests, and septuagenarians are not liable to be capiased. ("XX. Preferences.")

VII. COMMISSIONS:

When necessary for the examination of witnesses outside the Province, or within the Province at a distance from the place where the court is held, or in case of the illness of a witness, or of his probable absence from the country at the time of trial, commissions to take evidence are granted by the court.

VIII. COURTS:

The Circuit Court has original jurisdiction where the amount demanded is less than one hundred dollars; the Superior Court in all amounts above that sum. All judgments rendered by the Superior Court are susceptible of review and appeal. In the principal cities of the Province the terms of the Superior and Circuit Courts are monthly; in the outlying parts the Circuit Court sits three times a year. A defendant may be summoned either before the court of his domicile, or of the place where the demand is served on him personally, or where the right of action originated. Real actions are brought before the court of the place where the object in dispute is situated.

VIIIa. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public, justice or clerk of court	$ .50
Attachment: on issue of writ for claim under $100; fee.	1.80
Over $100; fee	5.10

Expert witness: per day..... 4.00

IX. DEEDS AND MORTGAGES:

Mortgages, or, more properly speaking, hypothecs, and deeds affecting the title of lands held under the French system must be passed before a notary public. Where the lands are held in free and common socage, such deeds may be passed, either before a notary or before two witnesses, one of whom makes affidavit to the signatures, to prove their authenticity. To take effect from the time they were made, they must be registered within thirty days, otherwise, they take effect, as regards third parties, from the date of their registration only.

Mortgages can only be granted on real estate; they can not be given on movables or chattels; these effects may, however, be pledged by being placed in the hands of a creditor to secure his debt.

X. EVIDENCE:

The testimony of one witness is sufficient in all cases where proof by testimony is admitted, and written evidence is not exacted. A party can be a witness in his own behalf in commercial cases. Husband and wife can neither testify for nor against each other except where they are separated as to property, and one, as agent, has administered property belonging to the other; in which case the agent may be examined in relation to facts connected with such administration, but only as a witness for the adverse party.

XI. EXECUTION:

May be issued after eight days. It may, however, be taken before the expiration of this delay for causes which would justify a seizure before judgment. Except for taxes, executions cannot issue against immovables unless the judgment amounts to forty dollars.

XII. EXEMPTIONS:

These are small in amount. They include the debtor's furniture absolutely necessary for the use of himself and family, with feed and fuel for thirty days, and ordinary and necessary wearing apparel; a sewing machine, and in the case of farmers, two draft horses or oxen, one cow, two pigs, and four sheep, with feed for thirty days. Books of account, titles of debt, alimentary allowances, wages and salaries not yet due cannot be seized and one quarter only of the wages of laborers can be seized.

XIII. FOREIGN JUDGMENTS:

In suits brought on judgments rendered out of Canada, the defence set up, or that might have been set up to the original suit, may be pleaded to the suit brought on such judgment; but, if the first judgment was rendered in any of the other provinces of the Dominion in a suit in which the defendant had been served there personally, or had appeared, no defense that might have been set up to the original suit can be pleaded to the suit on such judgment. In suits against corporations service upon the proper officers, according to their charter or to law, is held to be personal service. If the service has not been personal, or if in the absence of personal service the defendant has not appeared, any defense which might have been set up to the original suit may be made and pleaded to the suit upon such judgment.

XIV. INTEREST:

Any interest may be charged which the parties may agree on. If there is no agreement, the law fixes the rate at six per cent. Banks are not subject to any penalties for usury, but cannot exact more than seven per cent. Interest does not run on mercantile accounts except from date of suit.

XV. JUDGMENTS:

They remain valid for execution for thirty years from their date, even though the debt on which they were rendered would have been proscribed in five years.

Judgments give lien on the real property against which they are registered only.

XVI. LIENS AND PRIVILEGES:

In case of insolvency, the unpaid vendor has two privileges: A right to revendicate and a right to preference on the proceeds of the sale; but these rights must be exercised within thirty days from the date of delivery.

Sale is complete by the consent alone of the parties, though no delivery be made. The seller is not obliged to deliver if the buyer does not pay the price, unless a term had been granted for the payment, nor, in the latter case, if the purchaser, since the sale, has become insolvent. A promise of sale accompanied by actual delivery, is equivalent to a sale. The right of stoppage in transitu may be exercised when the goods are in possession of third parties as agents for their delivery.

There also exist laborers' and mechanics' liens, besides others generally recognized.

XVII. LIMITATIONS:

Judgments, registered titles to and claims against real property can only be proscribed after thirty years; but possession as proprietor, and in good faith, of an immovable for ten years, covers defects of title. Actions on bills of exchange, promissory notes, store accounts, or professional services and generally all commercial claims, are proscribed by the lapse of five years, without a payment on account or an acknowledgment of the debt.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

These must be sued on within five years from their due date, but if judgment be obtained on them it holds good for thirty years. The general rules applicable to commercial paper apply here, viz.: It is transferable by indorsement and delivery, or, when payable to bearer, by delivery either with or without indorsement. When a particular place of payment is mentioned, presentment must be made there. If payable at a bank presentment may be made either within or after banking hours. When payable generally, i. e., when no place of payment is mentioned in the instrument, presentment must be made to the party primarily liable, either personally, or at his domicile or usual place of business. If dead, or absent from the Province, presentment may be made at his last known residence or place of business. In case of insolvency, all current paper becomes immediately due and exigible. The place of payment of a draft may be fixed by the acceptor in his acceptance. The commercial law of Quebec is founded on the old English law. Three days of grace are allowed on bills and notes payable with a term or at sight, but no grace is allowed where they are payable on demand or on a fixed day. If the day on which they would otherwise become due is a legal holiday the delay is of right extended to the next day. Payment must include interest from the last day of grace and all expenses of noting and protesting and notices legally incurred. In the case of bills payable elsewhere than in Canada and Newfoundland, damages are also allowed equal to two and one-half per cent of the amount for which the bill is drawn, together with the costs of exchange and re-exchange. Indorsers and other parties secondarily liable are only held by protest and notice.

XIX. PARTNERSHIPS:

The law of the Province of Quebec as to commercial partnerships is founded on the English law. The partners are jointly and severally liable for all obligations. They may make such stipulations among themselves as they wish concerning their respective powers in the management of the business, but with respect to third persons dealing with them in good faith, each partner has an implied power to bind the partnership for all obligations contracted in its name and in its usual course of business. Sharing in the profits alone does not constitute one a partner, unless the intent to create a partnership is proved. Partnerships must be registered in the offices of the registrar and the prothonotary of the Superior Court for the district under a penalty. The same rule applies to joint stock companies and to persons carrying on business alone under a name other than their own. The registration must be made within sixty days under a penalty of four hundred dollars. In case of insolvency the property of the partnership is applied to the payment of the creditors of the firm in preference to the separate creditors of any partner, and if such property is found insufficient for the purpose, the private property of the partners, or of any one of them, is also to be applied to the payment of the debts of the partnership, but only after the payment out of it of the separate creditors of the partner.

XX. PREFERENCES:

No preferences are allowed to be given by an insolvent. The giving of a preference renders him liable to imprisonment on a charge of secreting his estate.

XXI. WILLS:

Any person may dispose of his property freely by will without distinction as to its origin and nature. Wills are made: 1. Before a notary. 2. In holograph form, i. e., wholly written and signed by the testator. 3. In English form, before two witnesses.

Notarial wills do not require probate. Testamentary executors take possession of the property of the testator, and distribute the estate according to the direction of the will.

CORPORATIONS.

I. BOOKS AND RECORDS:

The company must keep books and correctly record: 1. A copy of the letters patent, and all the by-laws. 2. Names of all persons who are or have been stockholders. 3. The address and calling of every such person. 4. The number of shares held by each person. 5. Amounts paid in and remaining unpaid on stock. 6. Transfers of stock. 7. The names, addresses and calling of the directors.

The books must, during reasonable business hours, be kept open for the inspection of shareholders and creditors and their representatives. A company neglecting to keep such books open for inspection forfeits its corporate rights; and a director, officer or servant who knowingly allows a false entry to be made in such books is liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for every such untrue entry, and for all damages which any party interested may have sustained thereby.

II. DECLARATIONS:

The company must file in the office of the Superior Court, or with the registrar thereof, a declaration stating the name of company, where, and how, and the date it was incorporated, and where its principal place of business within the Province is situated. This must be filed within sixty days after commencing operations and business. A failure to make and file such declaration renders the company liable to a fine of four hundred dollars, and the president, principal manager, or chief agent, as the case may be, to a fine of two hundred dollars.

III. DIRECTORS:

The directors are elected by the shareholders, in general meeting of the company assembled, for a term not to exceed two years, as the by-laws may prescribe. They must not be more than nine nor less than three in number. They have full power to conduct the affairs af the company, and may make contracts which the company may lawfully enter into.

They may also make by-laws, not contrary to law, to regulate: 1. The allotment of stock. 2. The making and payment of calls thereon. 3. The issue and registration of certificates of stock. 4. The forfeiture of stock for nonpayment. 5. The disposal of forfeited stocks. 6. The transfer of stock. 7. The declaration or payment of dividends. 8. The number of directors and their terms of office. 9. The amount of their stock qualification. 10. The appointment, functions, duties and removal of all agents, officers and servants of the company. 11. The security to be given by them to the company. 12. Their remuneration and the directors' remuneration, if they are entitled to any. 13. The place where the annual meetings of the company shall be held and the business conducted. 14. The calling of meetings of the board and the quorum thereat. 15. The requirement as to proxies; and, in general, the procedure and conduct in all other particulars of the affairs of the company.

Such by-laws are in force for one year, and, unless confirmed at the next annual meeting, cease to have force. The company cannot lend to any shareholder.

The directors are jointly and severally liable to laborers and servants of the company for all debts not exceeding one year's wages due for services performed while they are such directors, respectively; but no director shall be liable unless the company has been sued therefor within one year after the debt became due.

IV. DIVIDENDS:

No company can legally declare a dividend that is not earned, or which infringes or lessens the capital of the company. Should any dividend be so declared, the directors consenting to the payment thereof shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors of the company for the amount so paid.

V. GRANT OF CHARTER:

The Lieutenant-Governor may, by letters patent, grant a charter to any number of persons (not less than five) who petition therefor. Such charter constitutes the shareholders in the company thereby created a body politic and corporate for any of the purposes within the jurisdiction of the legislature, except for the construction and working of railways, and the business of insurance. Such petitioners shall previously give notice of their intention to make such application by making publication during four consecutive weeks in the Quebec Official Gazette, giving: 1. The corporate name. 2. The object. 3. The place of business. 4. The proposed amount of its capital stock. 5. The number of shares and the amount of each share. 6. The name in full, address and calling of each of the applicants; with special mention of the names of not less than three nor more than nine of their number, who are to be the first directors of the company. The major part of the directors must be resident in Canada and be British subjects. Within a month thereafter, the applicants may petition the Lieutenant-Governor for the issue of letters patent; which petition must recite the facts set forth in the notice, the amount of stock taken by each applicant, the amount paid in on the shares of stock, and the manner in which the same has been paid. The aggregate of the stock so taken must be at least one-half of the total amount of the stock of the company. The aggregate so paid in must be at least ten per cent thereof, or five per cent of the total capital, unless the total exceeds five hundred thousand, in which case the aggregate paid in upon such excess must be at least two per cent thereof. Such aggregate must be paid into a chartered bank, unless the object of company requires that it own real estate, in which case one-half may be in real estate. The letters patent recite all the material averments of the petition. The Lieutenant-Governor may change the name of the company.

The charter is forfeited by non-user during three consecutive years at any one time, or if the company does not go into actual operation within three years after it is granted.

VI. POWERS:

The company may hold real estate requisite for the carrying on of its undertaking; and by simple resolution it may issue bonds or debentures for the settlement of accounts; and it may, by a resolution of two-thirds of the actual shareholders, issue bonds or debentures to the amount of two-thirds of the total value of the immovable property. Such bonds or debentures must be registered, and they then constitute a privilege in favor of the holders against the company, and give rights of preference over all other debts and claims against the company posterior to their issue.

The directory may increase or decrease the capital stock of the company after the old stock has been allotted and paid in, by a by-law to that effect.

Every company incorporated and existing in Great Britain, in the United States or in Canada may acquire and hold real estate in the Province of Quebec for its occupation or the prosecution of its business.

VII. STOCK:

Shareholders who represent one-fourth of the capital stock may call a special meeting by giving written notice thereof.

No stock shall be issued to represent the increased value of any property. The practice commonly known as "watering stock" is prohibited. The capitalization of surplus earnings, and the issue of stock to represent such capitalization of surplus, are also prohibited. Every form of fictitious capitalization of stock that is not represented by legitimate and necessary expenditure in the interest of the company is prohibited. The stock of the company is deemed personal estate and is transferable only as prescribed in the letters patent or the by-laws.

The directors may call in from the shareholders all sums of money by them subscribed, in such payments as the by-laws may allow. Not less than ten per cent upon the allotted stock shall be called in and made payable within one year from the incorporation, and for every year thereafter at least a further five per cent shall be made payable until one-half has been so called in. If the shareholders refuse to pay any call within the time prescribed their stock may be forfeited to the company.

No shareholder shall be held responsible to creditors beyond the amount of his respective shares in the capital stock.

The company is not bound to see to the execution of trusts in respect to its shares.

VIII. TAXES:

Every incorporated company carrying on any trade or business in the Province of Quebec must pay an annual tax (a) of one-tenth of one per cent upon the amount of the paid up capital of one million dollars inclusive, and twenty-five dollars for each one hundred thousand dollars or fraction thereof over one million dollars; and (b) an additional tax of fifty dollars for each place of business, factory or workshop, in the cities of Montreal or Quebec, and of twenty dollars for each place of business, factory or workshop, at every other place.

IX. WINDING UP:

The company may be wound up voluntarily whenever the directors deem it expedient, by convening a general meeting of the shareholders. If at such meeting a majority, representing not less than two-thirds of the stock, resolve to wind up voluntarily and dissolve, then the company forthwith subsists and carries on business for the purpose of winding up its affairs. Liquidators are appointed to wind up and distribute the assets; and the board of directors ceases to exist. Notice of such resolution is sent to the Provincial Secretary, and is published by him in the Quebec Official Gazette; and the liquidators also forthwith register a notice of the dissolution in the office of the Superior Court and in the registry office of the county.

MINING.

I. ALIENS' RIGHTS:

Citizens of the United States may enjoy the benefit of the mining laws of Quebec to the same extent as British subjects.

II. DIVISIONS:

The Province is divided into two mining divisions: 1. The "Mining Division of the Laurentides" comprising all the counties situated on the north bank of the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence and of the Ottawa River; also all the islands of the Province of Quebec lying in the Ottawa River and in the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence and the counties of Vaudreuil and Soulanges. 2. The "Mining Division of the Alleghanies" comprising all the counties situated on the south bank of the River and Gulf of St. Lawrence.

"Every person, who prospects or mines for minerals upon lands adjoining a mining division, is subject to the provisions of the mining law, as if he worked within the limits of such mining division."

III. DISCOVERY:

"The discoverer of a new mine on public lands is entitled to a free mining license, provided such discovery has been immediately reported in writing to the inspector of the mining division. But anyone, who does not immediately report such discovery, is deprived for one year of the right to mine on public lands.

"No person is considered to be the discoverer of a new mine unless the place of the alleged discovery is in a region unknown as a mining region, or at least at a distance of thirty miles from the nearest mine."

IV. EXPLORATION AND PROSPECTING:

Any person may prospect without a license on the public lands of the Province, or he may obtain an exploration and prospecting license giving him the right to make his search to establish the mining value of the land. This license which is valid for three months and may be renewed for a longer term costs, if the mine is on private lands, two dollars for every hundred acres; and if on crown lands five dollars for every hundred acres; or in unsurveyed territory, for each square mile.

The prospector must furnish security to the Commissioner of Crown Lands to answer for all damages he may cause to the proprietor of the soil in making his researches. By the term private lands is meant lands conceded by the Crown not as mining concessions. The prospector must report to the commissioner the result of his operations. The prospector may then purchase the mine by paying the prices mentioned under title of "V. Concessions," provided the proprietor of the soil does not wish himself to purchase the mine.

V. CONCESSIONS:

These are divided into three classes: (a) In unsurveyed territory, the first class contains four hundred acres, the second two hundred acres, and the third one hundred acres. (b) In surveyed townships, the above three classes respectively comprise one, two and four lots as regularly divided, or more or less if such lots contain more or less than one hundred acres each in superficies.

Lands supposed to contain mines or ores belonging to the Crown may be acquired from the Commissioner of Crown Lands: 1. As a mining concession by purchase. 2. Be occupied and worked under a mining license.

The same person cannot buy from the Crown a concession for more than four hundred acres unless the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, on proof of his capital and resources, allows him a larger extent, not in any case exceeding one thousand acres.

The prices payable for said concessions are: For mining superior metals on lands situated more than twelve miles from a railway, five dollars per acre; less than twelve miles from a railway, ten dollars per acre. For mining inferior metals outside the twelve-mile limit, two dollars; and within, it, four dollars per acre.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands from time to time auctions concessions at an upset price not less than those given in the preceding section. No lands can be sold by the Crown unless there are real indications of the presence of minerals, established by specimens and affidavits proving them.

The rights of purchasers of concessions to mine for superior metals include the right to mine for all metals therein contained. In concessions for inferior metals the right is limited to these.

The purchaser must commence bona fide work within two years and spend not less that five hundred dollars if for superior metals; and not less than two hundred dollars if for inferior metals; otherwise the sale may be cancelled by the commissioner.

"No title to a mining concession or license shall without the formal consent of the proprietor of the soil, give a right to mine, or to open pits or galleries, or to erect machines or stores, in fields, yards, or gardens, or upon lands close to dwelling houses, or boundary fences, within a distance of three hundred feet from such fences or dwellings, nor right to enter such yards or habitations."

VI. LICENSES:

These are of two kinds: 1. Private lands license, where the mining rights belong to the Crown. 2. Public lands license. Both of which, upon payment of five dollars prescribed fees and an annual rental of one dollar per acre, give the holder the right to mine for certain minerals and upon certain lands therein specified for a period of twelve months from the date thereof; said license being renewable. All licenses issued are registered and open to public inspection for a fee of twenty cents.

The applicant for a license to mine upon public lands, plants a wooden picket at each corner of the lot and gives notice to the mining inspector, containing a complete description of the land, and mentioning where such applicant elects his domicile."

The licensee may search on private lands without the consent of the owner of the soil.

In the case of entry upon land privately owned by a licensee for mining purposes, notice is given the owner of such by the licensee of his intention to so enter and mine; and if upon receipt of such, the owner does not either enter into an arrangement with said licensee to enable him so to do; or take out a license to himself mine his land (which he has a right to do), the said licensee serves upon him a second notice containing a plan of the land required for his operations, a description of such, a declaration of his willingness to make to him certain compensation therefor, and the name of a person to act as arbitrator for such licensee if his offer of compensation be not accepted. If within ten days, or if owner is absent from the Province, eight days after third publication of said notice in local newspapers, the owner does not answer, or give the name of his arbitrator, the Inspector of Mines appoints such last for him. The two arbitrators appoint a third one; and said arbitrators, upon deposit of not less than fifty dollars to cover the costs of their proceeding, shall forthwith hear evidence, consider all accessory facts and circumstances, and thereupon assess and make award of such compensation for the land so taken, which shall in no case exceed in superficies fifteen acres, besides that allowed for requisite right of way, payable to the owner of said land. "When the award is given, the amount of damages and costs must be paid into the hands of the inspector who distributes them. The licensee may also obtain from neighboring proprietors the right of way over their lands with horses and vehicles, and the right to make the works necessary thereon for conveying the water required by him for the better working of his mining lands; provided, however, that he does not apply for anything which might have the effect of turning the course of any stream, so as to deprive the inferior riparian proprietors of the use of such stream, and this provision is applicable to every person who works a mine of any kind in this Province."

VII. MILL LICENSES:

"Every person who desires to make use of a mill for crushing quartz, or the obtaining of gold and silver therefrom, is required, under a penalty of one hundred dollars or two months' imprisonment, to obtain beforehand a special license costing five dollars."

"Every licensed mill or machine owner, is required, under the same penalty, to keep an account book, in which he is bound to enter a clear statement of all quartz crushed, reduced, or amalgamated by such mill or machine, and also the following particulars: 1. The name of the owner of each parcel of quartz crushed. 2. The weight of each such parcel. 3. The date of the crushing. 4. The actual yield in weight of mineral obtained from each such parcel. 5. The description of the mining lands worked.

"He is also bound to furnish, monthly, a return under oath, compiled from the said book, containing the aforesaid statements and details for each and every day of the month then last passed, together with such other information as the inspector or the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may require."

VIII. MINE INSPECTORS:

The Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, on the recommendation of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, appoints all inspectors, policemen and other officers (except constables) deemed necessary, fixes their rank and salaries, and prescribes their duties.

The inspectors must be mining engineers, possessing sufficient knowledge of mineralogy and metallurgy, and having exercised their profession during at least five years. The inspectors may be appointed for one or more mining divisions, as the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council thinks proper.

No inspector of a mining division, under a penalty of four hundred dollars, or one year's imprisonment, can take any share in his own name, or in the name of another for him, in the working of the mines at large in the mining division for which he has been appointed.

The inspector is, ex-officio, a justice of the peace for the district and it is not necessary that he have any property qualification. He decides all contestations respecting the dimensions or boundaries of mining lands under mining license, the use of water courses and the access thereto. He takes cognizance of and finally determines all suits of a purely personal nature, and those affecting movables between persons or companies engaged in mining, or their agents, or other persons or companies, and vice versa; providing the amount in dispute does not exceed twenty-five dollars. He may summon defendants to appear before him, or summon any person who is pointed out to him as an important witness in a case, and determine the complaint, in the presence or absence of the defendant, upon the evidence given under oath by one or more witnesses, sworn before him, and levy such sum as he may adjudge to be due by a warrant of distress and sale of the defendant's goods and chattels, and convict, within his division, upon view, any person for any contravention, punishable under the provisions of the mining law or the regulations thereof.

No appeal lies from any conviction by or judgment of the inspector, in conformity with the provisions of the Mining Act; and all proceedings before him are summary.

IX. MINES' REGULATIONS:

Regulations may be made by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council respecting the sanitary condition and safety of the works in mines, so as to protect the life and health of the workmen therein employed. Such regulations, after their promulgation in the Official Gazette, become law, and a copy of the same must be posted up in the most conspicuous places of the mine, in conformity with the instructions of the mines inspector.

The sale of intoxicating liquor within a radius of seven miles of any mine is prohibited unless under license.

No woman or girl can be legally employed in the working of a mine, and no boy under fifteen years can be employed in the underground works of any mine or quarry. No boy of fifteen years, but under seventeen years, can be employed in a mine as above, more than forty-eight hours per week. No boy of less than twenty years can be employed in working machinery in or near a mine, with the exception of machinery put in motion by horses or other animals, in which case their driver may be sixteen years of age.

Every proprietor of a mine in operation, who contravenes the preceding provisions, is subject to a penalty of twenty-five dollars or one month's imprisonment.

Every miner who makes a pit, shaft or excavation to a depth of four feet and over is bound, under a penalty of fifty dollars or one month's imprisonment, to inclose it with a fence at least four feet in height if he discontinues working it for eight days.

No person working mines shall cause damage to the occupant of any other mining land by throwing earth, or other material, on such other land, or by causing water to flow into such other land, under a penalty of fifty dollars, or one month's imprisonment.

X. PARTY WALLS:

"A party wall or passage, at least three feet thick, must be left between each holding worked as well on public as on private lands; which wall is to be used in common by all parties as a mode of access to the stream, where one exists; and no one may obstruct such party wall by throwing soil, stones or other material thereon, under the penalty of five dollars fine, or one month's imprisonment. Any person interested may remove a party wall, but he must construct a new mode of access to the water, offering the same facilities; and such removal cannot be effected without the written permission of the mines inspector"

XI. REPORTS:

"Every person working a mine must furnish, during the month of January, every year, a sworn statement of his operations for the previous year, containing the quantity of the mineral extracted, its value at the mine, and the number of workmen employed, also a statement giving the names of persons killed or wounded in working the mine."

"Every licensee is bound to make a statement under oath of the work performed and of the minerals obtained during the term of his license."

XII. ROYALTY:

The Lieutenant-Governor may claim a royalty on Crown lands for five years after their sale, but no royalty is exacted by the Crown at present.

[The royalty which may be claimed under law cannot exceed three per cent of the value at the mine of the mineral extracted after deducting the costs of extracting. At this date (Feb. 21st, 1896) the Mining Association of the Province of Quebec is petitioning the Government to renounce its claim to royalty on the ground that the existence of the statute, though not enforced, acts as a deterrent to intending investors. The Government is likely to abolish the royalty.]

XIII. WATER RIGHTS:

Owners of claims and mining locations bounded by rivers, upon public as well as upon private lands, may make use of such in working their claims but without hindering each other. Every dispute, arising between the parties on the subject is settled and decided by the inspector of the mining division, and whosoever disobeys the order of the inspector is liable to a penalty of fifty dollars, or one month's imprisonment.

I. ALIENS:

May take, hold and transmit title to real estate and may sue for and recover possession of the same, in the same way, and to the same effect, as if they were native-born citizens of the United States.

II. ATTACHMENTS:

An original writ, or writ of mesne process, to attach the real and personal estate of a defendant, including his shares in any incorporated company, and his property in the hands of another person or corporation, including municipal corporations, may be issued whenever the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make affidavit, setting forth that the plaintiff has a just claim against the defendants that is due, and upon which he expects to recover in the action a sum sufficient to give jurisdiction thereof to the court to which said writ is made returnable. Attachments cannot issue upon a debt not matured. Each attachment is for the sole benefit of the creditor making it. If set aside by an assignment or receivership under the insolvent law, the costs of making the attachment are to be paid by the assignee or receiver if the assets are sufficient. All executions run against the goods and chattels and real estate of the defendant.

III. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Debts due to the United States, necessary funeral charges, charges for attendance and medicines in last sickness, debts due to this State, and State and town taxes, are to be first paid in the order named.

Before February 1st, 1896, there is no provision for notice to creditors to present claims against solvent estates. Where an estate is represented insolvent by the executor or administrator, the Probate Court appoints three commissioners and notice is given by advertisement to present claims to them within such time as the court directs. After the above date all claims must be presented to the executor or administrator, or filed in the Probate Court within six months of the first notice by advertisement of the appointment of the executor or administrator, or within such further time, not exceeding one year, that the court may appoint. No other notice is provided for. The executor or administrator will then be required to allow or deny the validity of the claims within thirty days after said period, and give personal notice to those creditors whose claims are refused, and if no commission is appointed as upon insolvent estates such creditor must begin suit within six months of such personal notice. If a commission is appointed, it is to report within three months, or such further time as the court shall direct, not exceeding in the whole nine months from the first appointment.

Both before and after the new revision goes into effect, on February 1st, 1896, insolvent estates are to be distributed pro rata after the above preferred claims are paid; and for purposes of such distribution, all claims, whether then payable or not, are regarded as due, by allowance of interest being made for anticipated payments. Provisions are also made in both instances for

...s at law with jury trial upon any claims rejected. After the new revision goes into effect executors and administrators must account within two years of their qualification, and at other times when cited by the court to do so. ("XV. Limitations").

II. COURTS:

The Supreme Court, made up of a chief justice and four associate justices, is divided into two divisions. The appellate division has exclusive jurisdiction of all suits in equity and proceedings following the course of equity, divorce and allied subjects, and is in general a court of appeal and review in matters of law, including probate appeals.

The common pleas division has exclusive jurisdiction of all civil cases in which the damages claimed exceed one hundred dollars, and also some appellate jurisdiction where jury trials are claimed in appeals from Probate and District Courts. Jury trials must be claimed, however; otherwise original as well as appealed cases are certified to the appellate division; as is also any case where a demurrer is filed which in the opinion of the justice goes to the substance of the case.

There are twelve District Courts in the State, having exclusive jurisdiction of civil cases involving less than one hundred dollars damages as laid in the writ.

The Municipal Court of Providence is the Probate Court for that city. In the towns the town councils act as Courts of Probate where no judge of probate is elected at the annual town meeting. There are, however, such courts holding Probate Courts in the cities of Newport, Pawtucket, Woonsocket and Central Falls, and in the towns of Bristol, Cranston, East Providence, Lincoln and North Providence. The town councils are required to meet once a month at least for probate business.

VI. FEES:

Acknowledgment before notary public	$ .50
Attachment, arrest or replevin: In addition to service fees, officer entitled if ad damnum is over $500, to 1-10 of 1 per cent upon excess over $500.
Commencement of suit in District Court: Writ	1.00
Entry fee	1.00
No fees in other courts.
Incorporation: State tax of 1-10 of 1 per cent on capital stock authorized, but never less than $100.
Probate: contingent and numerous.
Protest: Expenses and noting	.25
Extending protest	.75

Experts' fees fixed by court.

VII. DEEDS:

Of any estate of freehold, and leases for more than one year, must be signed (no seal is now required) and acknowledged by all the grantors (including a wife joining to release dower), if in this State before any justice, senator, mayor, town clerk, justice of the peace, or notary public. If without this State, and within the limits of the United States, before any judge, mayor, justice of the peace, or notary public, or duly qualified commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State; and after February 1st, 1896, acknowledgment or proof in the form required in the state where executed will be sufficient in Rhode Island; and if without the United States, before any ambassador, minister, charge d'affaires, consul, vice-consul, or commercial agent of the United States, or duly qualified commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State. And such deed or lease must be recorded in the registry of deeds in the city or town where the estate lies; though, if not recorded it is good between the parties and their heirs. In a conveyance by a married woman of her estate, the magistrate's certificate should now also state distinctly that "being by me examined separate and apart from her husband, and having said instrument shown and explained to her by me, she acknowledged the same, while so separate and apart, to be her voluntary act, and declared to me that she did not wish to retract the same." And any substantial departure from this form will render the acknowledgment and deed ineffectual as against her and those claiming under her. But after February 1st, 1896, she may acknowledge a deed as though unmarried; and after the same date no seal of the person executing will be required, but all persons, even though releasing dower only, must acknowledge the instrument.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Any justice of the Supreme Court, justice of the peace, notary public, or commissioner appointed by the court, may take the deposition of any witness to be used in the trial of any civil actions, except equity causes, in which he is not interested, nor of counsel, nor the attorney of either party, and which shall then be commenced or pending in this tate or in any other state or government.

In taking depositions, whether in or out of the State, the party taking them shall notify by proper officer or disinterested person the adverse party or his attorney of record before taking the same, giving him a reasonable time, if within the State, at least twenty-four hours (exclusive of holidays) in which to attend and cross examine. For taking depositions outside the State an order from the court in which the case is pending is necessary. Fees payable to the officer taking said deposition are: Forty cents for each hour necessarily employed; thirty cents for each page of two hundred words, and ten cents for each mile's travel to place of caption.

IX. DESCENT:

The real estate of an intestate descends in the following order, on failure of persons in previous classes: 1. To children or their descendants. 2. To father. 3. To mother, brothers and sisters, and their descendants. In default of these, in equal moities to paternal and maternal kindred. 1. To grandfather. 2. To grandmother, uncles and aunts, or their descendants. 3. To great-grandfathers or great-grandfather, if there be but one. 4. To great-grandmothers and the brothers and sisters of grandfathers and grandmothers, and their descendants; and so on in other cases without end. But if the title of the intestate to real estate came by descent, gift, or devise from the parent or other kindred of the intestate, and such intestate die without children, such estate shall go to the kin next to the intestate (ascertained according to the foregoing canons) of the blood of the person from whom such estate last came or descended, if any there be. Rights of dower and curtesy are fully preserved. Personal estate not bequeathed is distributed as follows: 1. One-half to widow of person dying without issue. 2. One-third to widow when there is issue living. 3. The remainder in the mode provided for descent of real estate, but without respect to the blood of the person from whom such personal estate came or descended (General Laws, Chapter 216); but if the deceased was a married woman, the whole to her surviving husband.

X. EXECUTIONS:

Execution issues twenty-four hours after judgment, unless otherwise ordered; returnable in three months at District Court, and in six months at the Supreme Court.

XI. EXEMPTIONS:

There are a number of exemptions from attachment and execution, but the only ones of much importance are debts secured by bills of exchange or negotiable promissory notes.

XII. INTEREST:

In absence of special agreement and on judgment the rate of interest is six per cent, but any rate agreed upon is valid. Interest runs from expiration of credit as fixed by usage of trade or by stipulation.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

A judgment is not a lien upon real estate until levy of execution. There is no power by statute to tax counsel fees as costs except in suits for partition and certain actions against railroads.

Foreign judgments are proved in accordance with the act of Congress.

XIV. LIENS:

Whenever real estate is built upon, repaired, or improved at the request of the owner (or of the husband of the owner, the wife assenting in writing), his interest in such real estate is made liable for the work done and materials furnished, the lien taking effect at commencement of the work. To enforce the lien legal process must be commenced within four months of the time when any payment under a written contract has become due, or within six months of commencing the work or delivery of materials, if not by written contract. If the materials are not purchased by the owner of the premises, notice must also be given to such owner and recorded within sixty days of their delivery, and a person working for a contractor must also give notice to the owner within thirty days. Legal process as here used means recording the account or demand in the registry office of the town or city where the land lies. Suit by petition in equity must then be commenced within twenty days.

Warehousemen are given liens, and certain provisions are made for the sale of merchandise stored with them, as well as provisions for selling any property upon which a person has a lien at common law.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

Actions on the case for words spoken must be commenced within one year. Actions of trespass must be commenced within four years after the cause of action shall accrue. All actions of account, except such accounts as concern trade or merchandise between merchant and merchant, their factors and servants; all actions on the case, except for words spoken; all actions of debt founded on any contract without specialty, or brought for arrearages of rent; and detinue and replevin must be commenced within six years next after the cause of such action shall accrue. Other actions of debt and of covenant must be commenced within twenty years.

There are exceptions in favor of those legally disabled, except married women. If the claim is against a person outside the State when the action accrues, or if he goes out of the State before it is barred, without leaving attachable property, suit may be brought after his return. If a cause of action is concealed by misrepresentation the statute runs from the time it is discovered.

Against executors and administrators no action, except for attendance and medicines in last sickness and funeral expenses, can be brought in less than one nor more than three years after he has published notice of his appointment. But after February 1st, 1896, these periods will be six months and two years respectively, with certain provisions making heirs, next of kin, legatees and devisees liable one year more to the extent of property received by them, where there was any valid excuse for not suing before and until one year after the debt becomes due in cases of contingent liability, and all claims must be presented to the executor or administration within six months after his appointment.

Real estate is practically governed by the statute of possessions, twenty years (for periods beginning after February 1st, 1896, ten years) adverse possession being sufficient evidence of title, subject to about the same exceptions as above.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

Her property is secured to her separate use, subject to her husband's right to curtesy and right to administer her intestate estate as at common law.

After February 1st, 1896, her power will be confined with slight exceptions to contracts for the management of her separate property, except that she may act as a trader (but not as a partner with her husband) and may mortgage or pledge her property for the debt of another, which mortgage or pledge will be good as to the property it covers, but no further. Also, after said date, she cannot be appointed administratrix by any Probate Court, although she may still be named and appointed executrix of a will; and she may be appointed guardian of her children.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Real estate mortgages are subject to the same statutes as to execution and record as deeds. Chattel mortgages are usually, though not necessarily, executed in the same manner as those of real estate, and unless the mortgagee takes possession must be recorded in the town where the mortgagor resides, if within the State; otherwise in the town where the property is. Foreclosure is usually by sale under power in the mortgage after advertisement for twenty days in the case of real estate, and ten days in chattel mortgages. Mortgages are generally given to secure promissory notes; seldom to secure bonds.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

Are governed by the rules and usages of commercial law. The usual three days' grace are allowed on bills drawn at sight, due and payable in this State, in which there is not a provision to the contrary. (General Laws, Chapter 166.) If the third day of grace be Sunday or a holiday, payment must be made on the next business day following.

Legal holidays are the Fourth of July, Christmas, 22d of February, the 30th of May, or, if either falls on Sunday, the day following; the first Monday in September, and the first Wednesday in April in each year, the first Tuesday in November in every second year, such day as the Governor appoints as Arbor Day, and such day as may be appointed by the Governor, General Assembly, the President, or Congress as days of Thanksgiving or solemn fast or for other purposes. Saturdays may for acceptance and maturity of commercial paper be treated as holidays.

XIX. SUITS:

Suits at law or in equity concerning land in any way must be brought in the county where the land lies.

Personal actions shall be brought in the county where the plaintiff or defendant or some one of them dwell, or in which the defendant or one of them is found; and if none of the parties dwell within the State then in any county. Personal actions against corporations shall be brought in the county where the other parties or some one of them dwell, or where the defendant is found, or where the corporation is located by its charter, and if not so located, where it holds its annual meeting. But all suits in equity which would by the above provisions be commenced in the counties of Bristol or Kent, must be brought in Providence.

XX. TAXES:

Taxes assessed against any person in any town, for either personal or real estate, constitute a lien upon his real estate for two years, and, if the estate be not alienedd, until collected.

In all cases when any parcel of real estate is liable for taxes, so much thereof as is necessary to pay the tax, interest, cost and expenses, may be sold by the collector, at public auction, to the highest bidder after notice of levy, and of the time and place of sale, posted in two or more public places, and in some newspaper; and in case of a resident, shall also cause notice of his levy, and of the time and place of sale, to be left at his last and usual place of abode, or served upon him personally, at least twenty days previous to the day of sale.

The owner, his heirs, assigns, or devisees, may redeem property thus sold upon repaying to the purchaser the amount paid, with twenty per cent in addition, within one year after the sale, or within six months after final judgment has been rendered in any suit in which the validity of the sale is in question, provided such suit be commenced within one year after the sale.

XXI. WILLS:

All wills, whether of real or personal estate, must be in writing, and signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence, and by his express direction; and must be attested and subscribed in the presence of the testator, by two or more witnesses present at the same time, or else shall be utterly void and of no effect.

After acquired real estate may be devised, without such intention appearing. Non-residents may be executors and may also be appointed administrators, though the latter is not a matter of right. Every person being upward of eighteen years of age may dispose of personal property and every person upward of twenty-one years of age may dispose of real estate by will.

The will of a married woman cannot impair the right of her husband as tenant by the curtesy. Nor can a husband cut off his widow's right of dower except by adequate provision for her in lieu of dower; and which provision she may refuse to accept by notice in writing filed in the Court of Probate within one year after the probate of the will.

The will must be proved and recorded in the Court of Probate of the city or town of which the testator was an inhabitant, or in which he resided at the time of his death; or, in case of a non-resident, in which he left estate to be administered. Where the town council constitutes the court the town clerk is also the probate clerk. After February 1st, 1896, a copy of the will, certified by the probate clerk, must also be recorded in the town where the land lies before title can be made by a devisee under it.

Foreign wills, executed as required by the laws of this State, which have been duly proved and allowed in a Court of Probate elsewhere, may be filed and recorded in the Court of Probate of any city or town of this State where the testator left real or personal estate upon which the will may operate. After February 1st, 1896, a will executed as required by the statutes of the state where made, or where the testator was domiciled, will be sufficient to pass even real estate when probated in this State.

CORPORATIONS.

I. ORGANIZATION:

Business corporations may be formed: 1. By act of the General Assembly. This is the only method of creating them for any of the purposes excepted from the operation of the general act below. The General Assembly now grants charters at the same session that they are petitioned for. Such corporations must be organized within two years after the charter is granted. 2. By general act, permitting the incorporation of ordinary business corporations, except railway, canal, turnpike or other company needing to condemn lands or acquire franchises in streets and highways; and also excepting insurance companies, banks and banking companies, and generally all corporations trading in bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness. In general: Three or more persons of lawful age may associate by written articles expressing: 1. Their agreement to constitute an ordinary business corporation. 2. The name by which the corporation shall be known, which shall be one that cannot be mistaken for that of a partnership and is not then in use by any existing corporation. 3. The business for which it is constituted. 4. The town or city in which it is to be located. 5. The amount of the common, and, if any, of the preferred capital stock, and par value of each; the advantages of the preferred, if any, over the common; and, until February 1st, 1896, the number of shares of each subscribed for by each subscriber. Provision may also, if desired, be made for a lien by the corporation upon his stock for the indebtedness due it from any stockholder, and that the stock shall upon sale thereof first be offered to the corporation; and the time for exercising this option may also be fixed.

This writing is to be signed by the incorporators, who must set their residences opposite their names, and acknowledge the instrument as though a deed of real estate. Upon filing said writing with the Secretary of State together with a certificate from the State Treasurer that the State tax is paid, the secretary issues his certificate of incorporation, which authorizes the incorporators to act as a corporation. After this certificate is issued the first meeting of the corporation is to be held for organization, a notice of the time, place and purpose of the meeting signed by one or more of the incorporators and addressed to each incorporator at his usual place of business or residence having been mailed five days before the meeting; but by agreement in writing of all incorporators this first meeting may be held without such notice.

Upon the organization of any business corporation, whether created by the general assembly or formed under the general act, a tax of one-tenth of one per centum of the capital stock named in its charter or written agreement, but in no case less than one hundred dollars, is to be paid to the State Treasurer.

II. POWERS:

By general statute corporations are given all the usual powers of such bodies (Public Statutes, Chapter 152), and may adopt such by-laws not inconsistent with the law as may see fit; but if incorporated by the sole authority of this State, they must have a place of business and transfer books of stock in this State. In addition to the general statute there are special statutes regulating railroads, banks, savings banks, insurance companies of various kinds, and building associations. There is also a statute (Public Statutes, Chapter 155) regulating manufacturing corporations, and it has been the custom of the legislature to make all corporations not included in any of the special statutes referred to above subject to the provisions of this chapter, and the general act of incorporation also distinctly makes all incorporations under it subject to it, whether they are manufacturing corporations or not. The provisions of this chapter include the following: That no note can be taken in payment of subscriptions to stock; no loan shall be made to any stockholder under penalty of personal liability of the officers making it; no debts shall be incurred in excess of capital stock paid in, under a similar liability of the directors; that no part of the capital stock shall be refunded until all debts are paid; and no dividend declared which shall render the corporation insolvent until the whole of the capital stock has been paid in and a certificate thereof, signed and sworn to by the president, majority of the directors, the treasurer and clerk, or by such officers as the by-laws require, is filed in the clerk's office of the town where its manufactory is, or in the town where it has its office.

III. LIABILITIES:

Members of a corporation remain jointly and severally liable for all debts incurred, but this liability "is limited to the shares of such members paid up to the par value thereof," until a certificate that the stock is fully paid in is filed with the clerk of the town within which the principal business is carried on.

Officers refusing or neglecting to make and file said certificate within ten days are personally liable until they do so. A like liability arises "in an additional amount not to, but not exceeding, the par value of their said shares," if an annual certificate signed and sworn to as above "truly stating the amount of its capital stock actually paid in, the value as last assessed for a town tax of its real estate, the value of its personal assets, and the amount of its debts and liabilities," at the end of each year, be not filed in the town clerk's office as above before February 15th of the following year.

There are provisions for stockholders protecting themselves by filing and publishing similar certificates if the officers neglect to do so.

Persons holding stock as executors, administrators, guardians, trustees, or as collateral security, are not held personally liable as stockholders.

IV. CAPITAL STOCK:

A corporation created by the general assembly may by Public Statutes, Chapter 155, of Manufacturing Corporations increase or decrease its stock within the limits of its charter by vote of the corporation; and a certificate thereof must be filed in the town clerk's office as aforesaid. Corporations formed under the general act may do the same by vote of three-fourths of the capital stock, by a certificate attested by the president and secretary of the corporation must be filed with the Secretary of State, and in case of decrease all stockholders must be notified.

V. DISSOLUTION:

Whenever a corporation is insolvent, or its assets are being misapplied, or in danger of being lost by reason of the fraud, negligence or misconduct; or in case of the continued absence of executive officers from the State of corporations which have omitted for an unreasonable time to hold meetings, or for acts of forfeiture at common law, a receiver may be appointed on the petition of a stockholder or creditor by the appellate division of the Superior Court, and the corporation may also be dissolved.

VI. FOREIGN CORPORATIONS:

Agents of foreign insurance, telegraph and telephone companies, and building associations, doing business in this State are required under penalty to make annual returns and to pay an annual tax upon their receipts. No foreign corporation other than those existing by virtue of the statutes of the United States can carry on business in this State until they have appointed a resident attorney to accept service of legal process; and a penalty of one thousand dollars is imposed upon any person acting as agent or officer before such appointment. Foreign insurance companies and building associations are also subject to other restrictions.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

I. ALIENS:

Property of every description may be acquired, held and disposed of by an alien, in the same manner in all respects, as by a natural born citizen.

Foreign corporations have all rights granted to aliens.

A widow, alien, whose husband died possessing property, shall have the same rights as if she were naturalized.

II. ASSIGNMENTS:

Whenever any debtor shall assign his or her property for the benefit of his or her creditors, it shall be lawful for said creditors to name and appoint an agent or agents equal in number to the assignees, to act in their behalf jointly with the assignees named and appointed by the assignor. It shall be the duty of the assignees within ten days after the execution of the deed of assignment, to call the creditors together, to proceed to the appointment of their agent or agents; and all sales made prior to such appointment are void. If the assignees neglect this duty the creditors may meet and appoint agents, and on an order of court may take possession of the property covered in the deed of assignment and dispose of the same.

In the appointment of agents the majority in amount of the debts represented by the creditors present at the meeting shall govern. Should the creditors not appoint agents, the assignees may dispose of the property.

It shall be the duty of the assignees and agents to lay every three months before the creditors an exact statement of their proceedings.

A commission of five per cent on money received and two and a half on money paid out shall be equally divided between the assignees and the agents.

Any assignment by an insolvent debtor of property for the benefit of creditors in which preference is given to any creditor over another, other than that the same be distributed among all creditors of said insolvent debtor equally in proportion to the amount of their several demands, without preference or priority, save only as to debts due the public, as to such creditors, who, accepting the terms of such assignment, shall execute a release of their claims and as further provided below, shall be absolutely null and void, and of no effect whatever.

All acts of the insolvent debtor disposing of his property in any way within ninety days prior to his assignment are void, except bona fide security for a loan. A creditor may attach an assignment without having put his claim in judgment. A person imprisoned for debt may be discharged from arrest by surrendering to an assignee appointed by the clerk of the court all his property.

III. ATTACHMENTS:

Attachments may be obtained from the trial justice before whom the suit is brought, or from the clerk or judge of the court in which the action is brought, in any action for the recovery of money; or property, real or personal, and damages for the wrongful conversion and detention of personal property; or damages for injury done to either person or property; or against a corporation created by or under the laws of any other state, government or country; against a person who is not a resident of this State; against a defendant who has absconded or concealed himself; or whenever any person or corporation is about to remove any of his or its property from this State, or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of or secrete, any of his or its property, with intent to defraud creditors.

The attachment must be obtained at the issuance of the summons, or at any time thereafter. The warrant of attachment is issued upon an affidavit made by the plaintiff or his authorized agent and must show a cause of action and the exact cause for which the attachment is to be issued. Such affidavit and warrant must be filed with the clerk of the court within ten days.

Before the warrant is issued the plaintiff must give a written undertaking, with sufficient surety, to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment, or the attachment be set aside by order of the court, the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant, and all damage which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking, which shall be at least two hundred and fifty dollars, except in case of a warrant issued by a trial justice, when it shall be at least twenty-five dollars.

An attachment binds the real estate from the day of lodgment and all attachments lodged on the same day rank together. An attachment may be obtained before the maturity of a debt when the defendant evades the debt or the summons, but judgment cannot be taken until the maturity of the debt. The defendant may have the attachment discharged by filing an undertaking in double the amount claimed by the plaintiff in his complaint. The undertaking must be executed by at least two sufficient sureties, who are resident and freeholders or householders in this State, and approved by the court or its officer.

IV. CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES:

Every executor or administrator shall give three weeks' notice by advertisement in a county paper for creditors to render an account of their claims duly attested; and he shall be allowed twelve months to ascertain the debts due from the deceased, reckoning from the probate of the will or grant of administration, and any creditor who shall neglect to give a statement of his claims within that time cannot hold executor or administrator liable.

Debts shall be paid: 1. Funeral and other expenses of the last illness. 2. Debts due to the public. 3. Judgments, mortgages, and executions—the oldest first. 5. Bonds, debts by specialty and debts by simple contract.

Proof of a claim against the estate of a deceased person is made by affidavit, stating that the account is just and true and that no part thereof has been paid by discount or otherwise. Executors give no bond and administrators give a bond double in value that of the estate upon which they are to administer upon.

V. COURTS:

The Supreme Court of South Carolina is the highest appellate court, and reviews upon appeal final judgments and orders brought up from the Courts of Common Pleas and General Sessions.

The Court of Common Pleas has original jurisdiction in all cases in which exclusive original jurisdiction is not granted to some other court. In nearly all cases it has appellate jurisdiction over the inferior courts of the State.

The Probate Court has jurisdiction in relation to the appointment and removal of guardians of minors, insane and idiotic persons, and persons non compos mentis, and in relation to the duties imposed by law on such guardians, and the management and disposition of the estates of their wards. Also in all matters testamentary and of administration, in business pertaining to minors and allotment of dower, in cases of idiocy and lunacy and of persons non compos mentis. The court is deemed open at all times for the transaction of ordinary business.

The Justice Court has jurisdiction in the following cases where the amount does not exceed one hundred dollars: Actions on contracts for the recovery of money only; for damages for injury to rights pertaining to property; for penalty, fine or forfeiture; action commenced by attachment; action upon a bond; action on a surety bond; confessions of judgment; action for damages; fraud in sale, purchase, or exchange of personal property; action to recover the possession of personal property claimed. Trial justices have no jurisdiction where the title to real estate shall come in question.

VII. DEEDS:

Deeds for the conveyance of real estate must be under seal, and signed by the grantor in the presence of at least two witnesses, who shall subscribe their names thereto. Deeds relating to railroads must be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State.

Deeds of conveyance must be executed in the presence of two or more credible witnesses who shall subscribe their names thereto.

Before any deed or other instrument in writing can be recorded in this State, the execution thereof shall be first proved by the affidavit of a subscribing witness to said instrument. Where the subscribing witness is dead proof of his handwriting shall be sufficient.

All deeds shall be valid so as to affect from the time of such delivery or execution, the right of subsequent purchasers or creditors for valuable consideration without notice, only when recorded within forty days from the time of the execution or delivery in the office of the register of mesne conveyance of the county where the property affected is situated, in the case of real estate. If recorded after forty days it is notice from the time of recording.

VIII. DEPOSITIONS:

Where witnesses reside out of the State or county where the trial is to be had, any judge or clerk of the Circuit Court may grant commissions under the seal of the court to three or more commissioners, any two of whom may act, to take the deposition in writing of the witnesses named in the commission. Ten days' notice with a copy of the interrogatories must be given to the opposite party.

Subpoenas: Commissioners are empowered within this State to subpoena witnesses.

Commissioners appointed by other states to take depositions in this State, on producing their commission to any judge of the Supreme Court or Circuit Court of this State may have subpoenas issued for witnesses in this State.

All persons unable to leave home by reason of age, infirmity, sickness or bodily hurt may be examined by commission; and in case of refusal shall be liable for damages.

Depositions de bene esse may be taken by any officer of the State authorized to administer an oath when the witness is about to depart from the county in which the trial is to be held. Such deposition must be written by the officer, or by the deponent in the officer's presence; and must be subscribed by the deponent.

IX. DESCENT:

When any person shall die without disposing of the same by will, his estate, real and personal, shall be distributed in the following manner:

1. If he leave a widow and one or more children, the widow takes one-third, and the rest is divided between the children; if one child, the remainder is vested in that one. 2. If the intestate shall leave no child or other lineal descendant, but shall leave a widow, and a father or mother, and brothers or sisters, of the whole blood, the widow shall be entitled to one moiety, and the other moiety shall be divided between the father and mother and brethren of the whole blood; the children of a deceased brother or sister to take the share to which their parent was entitled, but no representation is admitted among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children. 3. If he leave a widow and brothers or sisters, the widow shall be entitled to one moiety of the estate, and the brothers and sisters to the other moiety as tenants in common. 4. If the intestate leave only a widow and a brother or sister of the half blood, and a child or children of the whole blood, the widow shall be entitled to one moiety, the other moiety to be equally divided between the brothers and sisters of the half blood, and the children of the brothers and sisters of the whole blood, such children taking among them a share equal to the share of a brother or sister of the half blood. 5. If he leave only a widow and a lineal ancestor, the widow shall take one moiety and the lineal ancestor the other moiety. 6. If he leave no child or other lineal descendant; father, mother, brother or sister of the whole blood or child of such brother or sister of the whole blood, nor brother or sister of the half blood, nor lineal ancestor, the widow shall take two-thirds, and the remainder shall descend to the next of kin.

If intestate shall leave no widow, the provision made for her shall go as the rest of the estate is directed to be distributed in the respective classes in which the widow is provided for.

On the death of a married woman, the husband shall have the same share of her estate as is given to the widow, the rest to be divided as in the case of the death of a married man. And if she leave no husband the provision made for him shall go as the rest of the estate is directed. If a married woman or married man die leaving no next of kin then the husband or wife shall inherit the whole.

X. EXECUTIONS:

No judgment can be entered by the clerk of the court until the expiration of five days after the last day of the term at which the judgment was taken, and executions can be issued immediately upon the entry of judgment, and are made returnable within sixty days. Actual levy is necessary for an execution to bind the personal property of the defendant, and the lodgment of the execution with the sheriff is no lien upon personal property.

XI. HOMESTEAD:

A homestead in lands, whether held in fee or any lesser estate not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, with the yearly products thereof, shall to the head of every family residing in this State be exempt from attachment, levy or sale or any mesne or final process issued by any court upon any judgment obtained upon any right of action arising subsequent to the ratification of the Constitution of the State of South Carolina; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff or any other officer before selling the real estate of any head of a family resident in this State, to cause the homestead, as above stated, to be set off to the said person.

No waiver of the right of homestead, however solemn, made by the head of a family at any time prior to the assignment of the homestead, shall defeat the homestead.

A widow is the head of a family, though childless. (Yoe vs. Hanvey, 25 S. C., 94.) Also a single woman who has dependent sister living with her. (Chamberlain vs. Brown, 33 S. C., 597.) A bachelor is not entitled to it (Garaty vs. Du Bois, 5 S. C., 493), but a father is who has a child living with him (Meyers vs. Ham, 20 S. C., 522) even though the child be an adult married son, living separate from his wife (Rollins vs. Evans, 23 S. C., 316).

Exemption of personal property to the value of five hundred dollars shall be allowed to the head of a family, whether entitled to homestead in real estate or not, and in case of dispute as to the homestead by the creditors, the officer shall cause the same to be appraised as in the case of real estate.

If the husband have not sufficient property to constitute a homestead, the wife may have homestead set off to her; but the total homestead between them shall not exceed one thousand dollars in real estate and five hundred dollars in personalty.

When no process has been lodged the head of family may have homestead set off by officer authorized to do so.

XII. INTEREST AND USURY:

Statutory Rate: No greater rate of interest than seven per centum per annum shall be charged, taken, agreed upon or allowed upon any contract arising in this State for the hiring, lending or use of money or other commodity, except upon written contracts, wherein, by express agreement, a rate of interest not to exceed eight per cent may be charged.

No person or corporation lending or advancing money or other commodity upon a greater rate of interest shall be allowed to recover in any court of this State any portion of the interest so unlawfully charged; and the principal sum, amount or value so lent or advanced, without any interest, shall be deemed and taken by the courts of this State to be the true legal debt or measure of damages to all intents and purposes whatsoever, to be recovered without costs.

Provided, That the provisions of this foregoing section shall not apply to contracts or agreements entered into, or discounts or agreements made, prior to the first of March, 1890.

No interest is allowed on open accounts.

XIII. JUDGMENTS:

Judgments are a lien on lands for the period of ten years, and may be extended by scire facias for a like period of ten years. The judgment acts as a lien on lands from the time of entry and no judgment can be entered by the clerk until five days after the adjournment of the term at which the judgment is taken.

XIV. LIENS:

Taxes are a first lien on property.

Every landlord leasing lands for agricultural purposes has a prior lien for his rent to the extent of all crops raised on the lands, whether by tenant or other persons. No writing is necessary to create the lien, but it exists from the making of the contract, whether written or verbal.

Laborers have a lien when working on shares of crops, or for wages in money or other valuable consideration, upon the crop or crops raised or grown on the lands of employer in whose hands soever it may be. Mechanics have a lien on the buildings and the lands improved thereby for furnishing labor and supplies.

Liens on crops for advances for agricultural purposes are given a preferance over all others, existing or otherwise, to the extent of such advances. Every lien for advances must be indexed in the office of the register of mesne conveyances of the county in which the lienor resides within thirty days of the date thereof.

Landlord's lien upon the crops of his tenant ranks first; next after is the lien of the laborers who assisted in making the crop, and the third in rank is the lien for agricultural supplies.

XV. LIMITATIONS:

The State will not sue any person for or in respect to any real property, or the issues or profits thereof, by reason of the right, title or interest of the State to the same, unless: 1. Such right or title shall have accrued within twenty years before any action or other proceeding for the same shall be commenced; or unless: 2. The State, or those from whom it claims, shall have received the rents and profits of such real property, or of some part thereof, within the space of twenty years.

No action for the recovery of real property, or the possession thereof, shall be maintained unless it appear that the plaintiff, his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor was seized or possessed of the premises in question within ten years before the commencement of such action. The plaintiff is limited to two actions for the recovery. In case of disability the time does not commence to run until the disability is removed.

In case of a judgment, bond, or other contract in writing secured by mortgage of real property, and an action upon a sealed instrument other than a sealed note or personal bond for the payment of money only, the limitation is twenty years.

In an action upon a contract, obligation or liability other than is provided for above; an action for liability created by statute, other than penalty or forfeiture; action for trespass on or damage to real property; actions affecting personal property; criminal conversation; relief on ground of fraud; and actions on policies of insurance, the limitation is six years.

In actions against a sheriff, coroner, or constable for liability incurred in official capacity, or omission for penalty or forfeiture, or an action against the sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested on civil process, the limitation is three years.

In actions for libel, slander, assault and battery, or false imprisonment, and an action upon a statute for a forfeiture or penalty to the State, the limitation is two years.

XVI. MARRIED WOMEN:

A married woman's property whether acquired before or after marriage is not liable to her husband's debts. All incomes from her property shall be governed by the same laws as her property. A married woman has the power to dispose of, convey and will her property in the same manner as an unmarried woman. She may also place incumbrances upon it.

XVII. MORTGAGES:

Mortgages on real estate must be executed and proved in the manner provided in the case of conveyances. They should be recorded in the office of the register of mesne conveyance of the county in which the land is situated, within forty days after the execution, to constitute a valid lien. Mortgages on real estate are foreclosed by suit of foreclosure, begun by ordinary service of complaint and summons.

Unless a different period is fixed for the advertisement of sale under a chattel mortgage in the deed itself, or the grantee shall in writing have consented to some other mode, the sale shall be advertised at least fifteen days in three public places; one of which shall be on the court house door; or published at least two weeks in a newspaper published in the county. The mortgagor has at any time before sale the right to redeem the property by paying the debt and costs.

XVIII. NOTES AND BILLS:

The laws of this State follow the general mercantile law in regard to notes and bills of exchange.

XIX. SUITS:

Suits are begun by the service of a summons in which the defendant is required to answer the complaint within twenty days or judgment will be taken against him by default. If the defendant answers, the action may be placed upon the docket of the court at any time up to fourteen days previous to the first day of the term of court; and if the plaintiff does not have the cause so placed on the docket the defendant may, seven days before the first day of the term, have the cause placed upon the docket, and it shall stand for trial without further notice of trial.

The action may also be commenced by the service of the summons alone, in which the defendant is notified where the complaint is or will be filed.
